YOUNG MAN ELECTROCUTED

An Emmitsburg youth, who was discharged from the Army in March after 18 months service in Germany, was electrocuted on a farm near Woodsboro about 6 o'clock Saturday afternoon when a guide wire on a model airplane came in contact with a 7,200 volt power line.

James Everett Knox, 22, was dead on arrival at Frederick Memorial Hospital in the M. R. Etchison and Son ambulance. One of the first to see the victim in the hospital emergency room was his sister, Miss Polly Ann

Knox, a nurse. The accident happened in the Henry Huffman farm tenanted by Scott Beall, whose son, Herman Beall, was a close friend of the deceased. State Trooper R. C. Dishot said members of the Beall family were watching Knox's efforts to fly his new model plane which he had recently constructed. When the plane tookoff, they said, it went straight up into the power line rather than glide off horizontally. As the plane hit the power lines, they said, Knox dropped to the ground and quickly jumped up to exclaim: "That was an awful shock!"

He then fell to the ground uncon-cious, they said. An ambulance was quickly summoned and the victim rushed to the hospital. The Bealls said the model plane was leashed on a light wire to keep it captive. The wire carried the electric charge to the youth. Potomac Edison Co. officials said they had no report of the accident and that their lines were apparently unaffected by

Knox lived with his parents, Chas. W. and Dorothy Baumgardner Knox, at 280 South Seton Avenue, Emmitsburg. He was a lifelong resident of that community and has been employed by the Cambridge Rubber Co., at Taneytown. He was a member of Elias Lutheran church, Emmitsburg. Inducted into the Army service on March 17, 1953, he was discharged last March 14 as a corporal. In addition to his parents and sister, he is survived by another sister, Miss Linda S. Knox, and a brother, C. Thomas Knox, both of Emmits-

CARROLL COUNTY GIRL SCOUTS

Complete Third Season Day Camp

Fun in the out-of-doors. That's what a day camp, a service of the County Girl Scout Organization which is a member of the Community Chest, meant to 120 girls of Carroll County. On July 5th busses and cars drove into Camp Chal-Mar and deposited girls from all over the county to begin eight days of pure adventure. This property is owned by the Uniform Rank of the Knights of Pythias. So many girls require a great deal of So many girls require a great deal of space for a satisfactory camp experence. Consequently, camp units spilled over into adjoining properties owned by Mr. David Baile, Miss Iona Baile, Mr. John Wagner, and Mr. Wm. Freyman, who graciously gave per-mission for the Girl Scouts to carry out their many activities. The camp was staffed by volunteer workers of the Carroll County District, member of the Baltimore Area Girl Scout Girl Scouts from Taneytown attending the Day Camp were: Intermediate Scouts Judy Haifley and Norma Jean Rogers, and Brownie Scouts Vicki Cutsail, Robin Fair, Karen Fiscus, Connie Hahn, Darlene Haines, Beverly Miller, Joan Reindollar and Carol Remsburg.

Since the Council project for the year 1955-56 concerns the American Indian, it was also adopted by the Day Camp as its theme. Many activities were built around Indian customs and ways of life. Council fires, out-ofdoor cook-outs, over nights for the older girls, Indian dances and songs were all a part of the fun. A wide variety of arts and crafts were available under the very capable supervision of Mrs. Anne Miller. Through the use of varnous types of prints-spatter, roll, and blue prints—and shadow boxes, girls recorded their new found knowledge of tree and plant life native of Maryland. Self-reliance in the out-of-doors was the keynote of all activities. Now to build a safe fire, how to cook a meal for one's self and one's friends was all a part of the picture. Learning to use a jack knife, a hatchet, a two man saw were skills that were practiced. Since the protection of soil and forest plays such an important part in the Girl Scout program, Mr. Clyde Lewis, Forest Guard from Sykesville for this section of Maryland, spoke to the girls on ways of protecting our woods from fire and inspected fire sites to insure safe fire building.

Many girls worked on out door pro-ficiency badges which fit into the general theme. Some of the badges chosen were out-door cook, Wild Plant, and Adventure. Older girls worked on their out-door require-ments for the first class rank. Hikes, games, and songs added to the good time of all.

All of these activities would have been impossible without the dedicated work of Carroll County volunteers. Many weeks of planning, training, and preparation on their part contributed to the successful operation of the Day Camp. Mrs. Leroy Campbell of West minster, who trained, purchased supplies, and helped prepare the site was the Director. This is her third summer in this position. She was supported in her work by volunteers of growing skillfulness. The following growing skillfulness. The following were unit leaders: Mrs. Howard King, of Mt. Airy; Mrs. Edward E. Jordan and Mrs. Russell Strevig, of Manchester; Mrs. Randolph Shilling and Mrs. Cronise Barr of Finksburg; Mrs. John Arnold, Mrs. William Royer, and Mrs. William Maine of Westminstor. Additional help was provided minster. Additional help was provided periodically by Mrs. James Fiscus of Taneytown; Mrs. Royden Nice and Mrs. Fred Wehrenberg of Westmin-ster; Mrs. John McCormick, of Frizellburg, and Mrs. Pierce Bowlus, An-Miller and Mrs. John Hodel of Westminster. Several Senior girls, especially trained as Program Aides, contributed their enthusiasm and know how to make the camp a success. They served as Assistant Unit leaders. These girls were Barbara Shaffer and Mary Beth Speicher of Westminster, and Joyce Compton and Donna Shannebrooke of Manchester; Carol Arnold and Shirley Denbroeder worked as camp leaders.

The culminating event of the camp on the final day was a pond ride for the Brownies and a camp program in which all campers participated. The skits, presented for an audience of campers and numerous visitors, summed up skills practiced at camp and examples of Indian lored.

At 3:30 on July 14, the flag was lowered for the last time. Many good-byes were shouted back and forth between new found friends as girls boarded their cars and busses to return home—looking forward to next summer's happy experiences in Girl Scout Day Camp.

HISTORICAL TOUR

Carroll County Society Will Visit Woolerys District

The fifth annual tour of the Carroll County Historical Society has been announced for Wednesday, August 10, and this year will cover the Woolery's District, in the center of the county. All cars intending to make the tour are asked to be at Sandymount (Sandyville) Church, just off State Route 140 about five and one-half miles from Westminster, promptly at 2 p. m.

The church itself will be the first point of historical interest. The present building dates from 1867, but its predecessor was a log building founded in 1826. After visiting the church, the tour will continue on the Bethel Road to the handsome stone house built in 1853 by John H. Chew, and lived in by his descendants for ninety years. The present owners, Mr. and Mrs. J. Randolph Shilling, are showing the house, beautifully restored by them, to the members of the Society and their guests.

The tour will continue on the same road to Bethel Church of the Carroll-ton Church of God, whose building dates only from 1921, but whose his tory as a church organization began in 1850. The road next winds down into the valley to Carrollton, for a wisit to the Oxmore Mill, which was in existence in 1794, when Richard Winchester patented the land. From that point the Carrollton Road will be followed for three and one half miles, a stop being made about half-way at Wesley Church, the modern replacement of Brown's Meeting House, a log structure which was built in 1800 and jointly used by four denominations until 1840.

Farther along the same road the tour will pass Richards Old Mill, a very early mill said to be on the Mill Glade Path, and now used as a storehouse. Traces of the old mill-race may still be seen, and a fine old stone house stands on the hill above.

On reaching the Emory Road the route will turn to the right as far as Emory Church, beautifully located on a hilltop. This was originally known as Brown's Meeting House Branch, but was renamed in honor of Emory Chenoweth, a prominent member. The Chenoweth lot in the graveyard is enclosed by a superb hedge of tall boxwood. From the church may be seen the site of NewTown by the Great Tree, a very early settlement on the old Indian road from Shawan to Linwood of which only a few scattered. wood, of which only a few scattered ruins now remain. Again turning to the right, the tour will follow the Finksburg Road to the large modern plant of Congoleum-Nairn, Inc., at Cedarhurst, arriving there at approximately five o'clock, to allow time for groups to be personally conducted through the plant, one of the largest felt mills in the United States, where the company makes all the felt used in its floor and wall covering products, as well as roofing felt and sheathing paper for the building trades. The plant covers 170 acres and employs about 250 persons. After with box supper in the plant Club House, before returning to Westmin ster by way of Finksburg and Rt. 140.

BRIDE IN TOM'S CREEK CHURCH

Miss Evelyn Lucille Wolfe, daughter of Mr. Theodore Wolfe, Sr., Frederick, and Mr. Grover Stansbury, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Stansbury, Keymar were married Saturday evening, July 23, at 8 in the Tom's Creek Church, near Emmitsburg. Rev. Paul H. McCauley officiated at the double ring ceremony. The church was decorated with settings of potted palms, mixed flowers and candles. Given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Theodore Wolfe, Jr., the bride wore a full length gown of dotted Swiss over taffeta. It was fashioned with a high neckline, and a long torso bodice with a full skirt. The elbow length mitts were of matching material and her veil was attached to a small white lace toque. She carried white rosebuds on a white Bible with lily-of-the-valley streamers. Her only jewelry was a pair of rhinestone ear-rings which was a gift of the groom. Mrs. Murray Roop, sister of bride, served as matron of honor. She wore an aqua colored full length gown of dotted Swiss over taffeta, fashioned with a circular neckline, torso waitsline and bouffant skirt. Her headdress was a narrow bandeau of matching color and she carried a bou-quet of pink roses.

Mr. Murray Roop, Emmitsburg, brother-in-law of the bride served as best man. Ushers were Frederick Grimes and Elwood Stonesifer. Preceding the ceremony the church organist, Mrs. Donald Wantz, gave a recital of nuptial music. Mrs. Robert Grimes was the soloist. Douglas Wolfe, nephew of the bride and the groom was the ring bearer. A reception followed the ceremony in the church social room, after which the couple left for a wedding trip to Ocean City, Md. For traveling, Mrs. Stansbury chose a blue nylon dress with white accessories and the roses from her white Bible.

For the wedding and reception, the groom's mother chose a royal blue dress with matching accessories and a pink rose bud corsage.

Following their return from the wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Stansbury will reside in an apartment at the groom's home, Keymar, Md. where the groom is engaged in farming with his father.

GRASS ROOTS OPINION

GARNER, IOWA, LEADER: "There of July, 1955. has been a great deal of talk about taxation. It is surprising to find the lack of knowledge that exists as to how taxes are determined and where tax money goes".

PAMPA, TEXAS, DAILY NEWS: "A point that often seems lost in any is that the present law provides the machinery for taking all of the income of every producer. That is actually how the law is now set up. There is no limitation on the extent to which the government can go in the confiscation of any one's income other than the judgment of the bureaucrats | in Washington who determine just how much the public will stand".

REYNOLDSVILLE, PA., STAR: "The American people from the Boston Tea Party through the 18th Amendment have failed to cooperate with any law that they did not personally understand and accept. This American attitude sometimes leads them into actions that are dangerous to the lives of others as well as their own. This is often in their attitude toward traffic safety. The dangers of driving too fast, particularly during the heavy traffic summer months, must be told and retold".

Jim Bridger's running for Mayor. He's the kind of fella that shakes your hand before election and your confidence after.

Loyalty Under Fire

Lesson for August 7, 1955

Something can be learned from history, even when it is the history of obscure men. Perhaps we can even learn more from the history of obscure, little-known, forgotten men, because we are mostly of that sort ourselves, than we can from the biographies of the rich and great. We are invited in this week's lesson to consider a little community of displaced persons more than 2,000 years ago.

Most of those displaced persons Dr. Foreman were citizens of Jerusalem, or had been. That city had been laid flat by Nebuchadnezzar's army. That the little nation of Judah had brought the war on itself, that the prophets, and especially Jeremiah, had predicted exactly what happened,-all this did not soften the blow. Those people were exiles, but with a special bitterness. It is one thing to be driven from home hoping to go back some day; it is another thing to have no home to go back to. If those displaced persons could have been taken back to Palestine, to the exact spot where Jerusalem stood, all they would have found was rubble. They would have perished of starvation

They knew this all too well. Yet in their memories Jerusalem still lived, a dream-city unchanged by time. They wept when they saw it in their mind's eye; but tears did not wash away the picture they loved. Did it do them any good, this remembering and remembering a city that was no more, a city they would never see again? Yes, it did. For even if that city were less fair than their homesick minds portrayed it, the good which they remembered would remain as an ideal. The community they would build in exile would be as near like the best they remembered as they could make it. A remembered glory that comes no more may become an ideal for today's world. Loyalty to memory may be something better than laying posies on well-tended graves; it may be the channel through which the best of yesterday flows into today and tomorrow.

Loyal to Life's Must's

These exiled Jews often dreamed going back. That was before Jerusalem fell, and before Jeremiah wrote them a famous letter. (Jer. 29.) You will never see your native land again, he told them. The captivity will end, but not in your lifetime. Meanwhile be good citizens where you are. Build houses, plant gardens live with your growing families. Seek the welfare of the city where I have sent you into exile . . . That may have been hard advice to take; but they took it. Dreams, of the past can be slow poison if all they produce is tears. Dreams can make men crazy, they can keep people from looking at life's realities. Dream-wishes can keep men from doing what is possible under the circumstances. Jeremiah did not wish these people to forget Jerusalem. He wanted them to recognize the Must's of the situation where they were. There is such a thing as loyalty to the inevitable. "Shake hands with the Inevitable" is a good rule, for the really inevitable is the hand of Providence.

Loyal to God

The story of the young men who chose death rather than be disloyal to God by worshiping Nebuchadnezzar's golden image, reaches one of its high points in what the young men said to the king. God will deliver us, they said; He is able to deliver us and we believe He will; but if not-if there is no God, or if He is not able to save us, or if He does not choose to save us, if He forsakes us altogether, we will not be disloyal to Him. The story is a kind of parable about all the loyal servants of the true God in great pagan Babylonia during those exile years. Many Jews must have been tempted to take over the religion of their conquerors, just as after the second World War there was a rush toward Christianity in Japan. Certainly there in Babylon there were many voices whispering or calling aloud, Bow down! Conform, be like everybody else; when you are in Babylon do as the Babylonians do. Don't be peculiar, don't be stubborn, leave your invisible God and come worship the golden gods to whom the nation prays! But the young men made the right choice, hard then, hard always: They would be loyal to the true God, even if his deliverance was delayed.
