Among some of the improvements mentioned by Mayor Perry were the improved streets, the parking meters, parking lots, and the increase in the source of water supply. The largest undertaking that is fast becoming a reality is the Taneytown Sanitary Sewer System that will cost over $650,000 which he assured everyone present will be the greatest or one of the greatest benefits to the City of Taneytown with not too great a hardship in its amortization covering a period of thirty years.

SCHOOLS WILL OPEN TUESDAY, SEPT. 6

Total Enrollment Increase of 500 is Expected

The Carroll County Public Schools will open for 1955-56 on Tuesday, September 6. Teachers' conferences will be held in the county during the week of August 29 to September 2, with a general conference for all teachers on Thursday, September 1. New teachers will attend the special conferences on Wednesday, August 31, and all teachers will be in the school buildings on Thursday afternoon and Friday, Sept. 1 and 2. Principals of schools have been planning the school program and arranging for orientation of teachers and pupils during the month of August. Planning for the meetings prior to school opening has been in charge of the county supervisors, Mr. John F. Wooden, Jr., and Mr. Gerald E. Richter for the high schools; Miss Ruth DeVore and Mr. Charles Reck for the elementary schools. Special supervisors have also participated in the planning including Mrs. Josephine West, Supervisor of Home Economics and School Lunch, and Mr. Philip Royer, Supervisor of Music. Members of the Carroll County Board of Education are expected to attend the general meeting on Thursday, September 1.

The total enrollment in the county at the closing of schools in June was approximately 9,000 pupils and it is expected that 9,500 will report for attendance on September 6.

No new buildings are ready for opening at this time in Carroll County although a new consolidated high school, the North Carroll High School, is under construction and will be completed in 1956. Very crowded conditions prevail in the Mt. Airy, Westminster, New Windsor, Union Bridge, Hampstead, and Manchester school centers. Planning is under way to relieve conditions in the crowded areas by the construction of a new high school at Mount Airy, a new high school in Westminster, and a new consolidated high school in the western part of the county to relieve conditions in New Windsor and Union Bridge.

Approximately 80 teachers have been added to the teaching force as replacements for those who have left the service and to fill new positions. Many of the new teachers have been recruited from outside the state.

School bus transportation will be operated substantially the same as in 1954-55. The cooperation of motorists is urged to promote safety as transportation routes are resumed and pedestrian traffic is increased by the travel of children to school.

Carroll county operates ten high schools, at Westminster, Mount Airy, Sykesville, Hampstead, Manchester, Taneytown, Union Bridge, New Windsor, Charles Carroll High School (near Silver Run), and the Robert Moton High School, also in Westminster. The county school system also involves elementary schools at all of the above locations, and additional elementary schools in Freedom District, Sandymount, Winfield, Uniontown, Mechanicsville and Johnsville. Two rural one-room schools are still operated in the Carroll county system.

TURNPIKES

Address Given About Carroll County's Early Roads

(The following article on Carroll County Turnpikes is from an address by Charles F. LeViness, director of Public Relations for the State Roads Commission of Maryland, to the Westminster Kiwanis Club May 17, 1955. We are publishing this article for its historical value).

Like most other early communities of our continent, the history of Carroll County may be written in the dirt and mire of her roads. Carroll had no waterways such as joined the villages of the Chesapeake, both Eastern Shore and Southern Maryland. Her arteries—her very blood streams—were her narrow, winding trails, first built for saddle horses and later widened for wagons and stage-coaches.

But the people of Revolutionary days, not much unlike ourselves today of course, were reluctant to tax themselves to build and widen roads for the wagon and the stage-coach.

Maryland early espoused the theory that those who want modern roads should pay for them. Maryland adopted toll road legislation in 1787, probably the first in the country.

Management of the turnpikes was entrusted to numerous officials to be appointed by the Circuit Court. Several abortive attempts to set up toll roads were made under the original statute but none were satisfactory. We find that within 14 years of the passage of the first turnpike act the statute was amended ten times. The final amendment abolishes the "numerous officials" of the original law and vests the management of the roads in a superintendent appointed by the Court. Some little progress was made but so small as to be unnoticed in the road system of the State.

As we ride over our present-day roads in a station-wagon or farm truck we can find much to grieve about. Maryland's 12-year plan of road construction and reconstruction seems to some of us both little and late. But we may take some comfort from the account of traveler in 1795 who toured the thirteen states in a stage-coach and reported that "The roads in Maryland are worse than in any one in the Union".

TOUR MADE BY HISTORICAL SOCIETY

About 100 Persons Visited Lower Carroll County

The fifth annual summer tour of the Historical Society of Carroll county held on the afternoon of August 10 proved to be one of the most enjoyable of the series. About one hundred persons assembled at Sandy Mount to receive general instructions from Dr. Arthur G. Tracey, conductor of the tour. Mr. Ulysses Shipley then gave highlights in the 150 years of Sandy Mount history, beginning with the 11,000 acre land grant of Caledonia belonging to Mr. William Lutz for whom Light Street, Baltimore, is named. Before the building of the local church, it was not uncommon for the residents thereabouts to walk to church in Reisterstown some miles away. In 1862, however, a log church of the Methodist Protestant denomination was erected on the property of Allen and Susan Baker. It was replaced in 1867 by the present stone building which since May 9, 1943, has been merged with the Pleasant Grove Methodist Episcopal Church. Christopher Woolery for whose ancestors the district was named, lies buried here. He was known as the father of thirty-six children, one for every state in the Union during the mid-nineteenth century. Descendants of the early Jamestown settlers, as well as those from the Mayflower, the Ark and the Dove also lie in the church cemetery.

The Rev. Cronise H. Barr outlined the history of Bethel Church of God, dating from 1850 when the families were allowed to worship in old Sandy Mount Meeting House. Rapidly growing to a membership of 50, they were able to buy a school house in the village of Reese, then called Carrollton. In 1865 a stone church known as Union Bethel was erected on the present site. In 1921 the congregation voted to erect a new church not to exceed $18,000. It was built and dedicated in October of that year, debt free. Twenty-nine ministers have served Bethel Church during the hundred and five years of its existence. The Rev. Cronise H. Barr is the present minister.

Turning from highway No. 140 to Bethel Road, the touring party alighted at the hundred year old home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Randolph Shilling where they were most cordially invited to inspect the beautiful old house at the way from club cellar to second story reached by a most unusual stairway. The few modern touches were added in such a way as to enhance rather than detract from the nineteenth century appearance of the home, built in 1853 by John H. Chew and lived in by his descendants until 1943. Mrs. Shilling served light refreshments to the group as they overflowed from the house into the spacious garden.

The caravan, then proceeding through Carrollton, noted old Oxmore Mill in passing. Mrs. Paul Grundman, the present owner, later told the story of the grant of 525 acres to Richard Winchester in 1791. Plans are under way to preserve the old mill as an historic show place.

The Rev. Glenn Cooper, pastor of Wesley Methodist Church, addressed the touring party from the steps of the church. Although the present granite building dates only from 1921, it was built on the site of the church which was burned down in 1928. This old Wesley Church had been built in 1878 to replace Brown's Meeting House erected in 1800 and used jointly with Episcopalians, Presbyterians, and Regular Baptists until 1840. In the early days runners on horseback would announce the coming of a great preacher like Francis Asbury so that farmers might leave their plows and come to the meeting house where they sat on boards upheld by trestles. No instrumental music was permitted until 1885.

The tour reached a climax when current and past history caught up with each other at Congoleum Nairn Plant, Cedarhurst. Here members of the tour were taken, in small groups, all through the factory, tracing the manufacture of felt all the way from pine logs to mammoth finished rolls. The Historical Society then enjoyed the hospitality of the very attractive Club House and voiced their warm appreciation of the very special courtesy extended by Mr. Alvin Sprinkle, Mr. James R. Mann, and other staff members.

The matter of landscaping the church grounds was discussed; also putting windows of the church and painting.

"SPICE 'N' EVERYTHING NICE"

(Your Chatty Column)

With all my heart, I wish you every morning a smile that shall last until the next day's dawning. I wish you health—life's greatest wealth! I wish you always near so that I may help to cheer Each future day and in some way—help to bring you happiness!

The rain is coming down heavily as I type this column as "Diane" is, no doubt passing by! We should not complain about it all when we think of the awful damage and destruction in other states.

Mr. Farmer, did you see the grand play on "The United States Hour" show on T.V.? The advertisement (and it is a real one) teaches us much about steel. For instance, a large building of steel on the farm means so much. There are no posts necessary to hold the building up consequently giving more interior space for large machinery of the farm, it is fire-proof, hay can be stored easily and much more. The play was called, "The Bride Cried" and was excellent! That hour is really my favorite.

Ladies, much velvet will be worn this winter in hats, dresses, evening gowns in any color although black and browns were most evident in all the stores.

There will be many hot days to come and this is to any of the Male Gender! Whatever you do, don't wear those Nylon shirts without any under shirt next to the skin and also omit the "Maternity" side of it—hanging out of the trousers. Nothing is more repulsive to a lady!

Reading so much lately about the U.S.F. "CONSTELLATION" and of the age being built in 1797 brings to mind the oldest ship afloat which was launched at Moulmein, British East India in 1793 which toured the world of the principal ports as an educational object lesson and was at the time I saw it a number of years ago in Baltimore visited by over 21 million people! It was called "The Convict Ship" "SUCCESS"! Aboard that ship was shown in the original State all the Airless Dungeons and Condemned Cells, the Whipping Posts, the Manacles, the Branding Irons, the punishment alls, the Laden-Tipped Cat-o-Nine tails, the Coffin Bath and the other fiendish inventions of Man's brutality to his fellow man. This vessel had made history during three generations. She marked the beginning and end of England's Monstrous Penal system. She has held lurid horror and dreadful iniquities beside which even the terrific stories of the black hole of Calcutta and the Spanish inquisition pale into insignificance. She is the oldest ship in the world and the only "Convict" ship afloat out of that dreadful eel of ocean Hells which sailed the seven seas in 1790 A.D. Up to the time, I observed it when I was a young girl she was unchanged after all those many years, nothing being omitted but the Human Freight and their sufferings from cruelties and barbarities practiced upon them by the English. The inspection for the public was daily from 10 a. m. to 11 p. m. It was something like 50 cents to view it all and it left such a stamped impression on my memory as to the cruelty of it all of England. Never will I forget the sights of torture inflicted upon human beings for so minor offences! Words fail me to type of the horror—compelling description. The laws of England those days were a black disgrace to civilization. The Human-Cargoes on these convict ships died off like sheep. In brief space available in this Column, I could not give you an idea of the ghastly horrors of those voyages. In fact, I do not know how that country would desire this ship to tour the main waters for any amount of money! Engaged in this hideous trade the "SUCCESS" continued to serve until 1851 in which year she was permanently stationed as a receiving prison in Hobson's Bay, Australia. The cells were strong and gloomy and constructed on the "between and lower decks and in these were confined the unfortunate who experienced to the full the punishment consequent upon crime! Many at exercise (when they did get it) jumped to their death to drown preferring the watery death to the torture inflicted upon them. Many of them in fact most of all the convicts were the "IRISH" and I think the Irish have remembered it all down through the many years, Eh? One prisoner was given 14 years for receiving 17 pairs of gloves which were stolen, one was given 7 years for stealing three cotton night gowns, another a prisoner of eight years of age for forgery! A lawyer was transported for a trivial offense for seven years. Many of the prisoners became insane! The Captain of the "Success" who took such an interest in explaining details to me was Captain D. H. Smith (AMERICAN COMMANDER OF "SUCCESS") although the entire Crew were English men! As I walked off that "ship of horror" I thanked God for America and the advancement of civilization!

Every Governor visited "Success" in any part of that State where it docked and much had been written about it. All classes were interested regardless of sex or age. To visit that ship (which is now American owned) was truly a striking object lesson of the softening and civilizing influences that are now animating human progress.

So long folks until next week-end D.V. Drive wisely slow and appreciate all the beauty around you! I am,

Faithfully,

YOUR OBSERVER.

Last week, G. H. Enfield visited Norris dam, which was a TVA project (Tennessee Valley Authority), and also drove through the grounds of the so-called Atomic Energy City of Oak Ridge, Tennessee.

BIGGER AND BETTER BUST

Whatever laurels may attach to paternity of the Guaranteed Annual Wage belong, not to Walter Reuther, but to the late Benito Mussolini, who is reminded by Human Events. This penetrating commentary on our times recalls that the dictator who lubricated his reforms with castor oil, instituted many of those demanded by Mr. Reuther. With Mussolini, GAW was a simple matter. He "ordered" employers to keep their men—whether needed or not—on the payroll.

Today, the paper points out, the Mussolini philosophy still prevails. A law passed as late as 1947 protects all employees with more than a year's seniority against lay-off. This has meant, in effect, that once a man is hired, he's on the payroll for life, whether there is work for him to do or not. Thus, Italy's unemployment remains the highest in Europe, since employers prefer to pay overtime or even reject business rather than add permanent obligations to their labor force.

We are further reminded that hundreds of millions of dollars of US "aid" are still required to sustain even the deplorable low standard of living in Italy, and Human Events asks, "Who will subsidize America when Reuther succeeds in making this country a carbon copy of Italy?"

It is a little absurd, perhaps, to think of this country as a "carbon copy of Italy", since it seems certain now that we shall achieve disaster, dissolution and despair in our own way—via a route that will be more spectacular than Italy's—unless we face up to the fact that we impose a very stringent set of rules on business and industry, and virtually none on Labor.

Price-fixing up business is a punishable sin, while price-fixing by unions through the gangster implements of intimidation and coercion is presently beyond the reach of the law, and the same applies to the establishment of regional monopolies and of the areas in which certain businesses may operate. Where unions object to labor-saving devices or processes—such as pre-glazing of window-sash, spray-painting or transit mixing of concrete, these practices are banned—and "secondary boycotts" established to enforce Labor's edict. "Feather-bedding", contract violation, secondary strikes and maintaining a scarcity of workers in certain crafts—all these are further examples of union exemption from the spirit of the law that restrains their victims.

Certainly now, with the merger of CIO and AFL—with all the unions except John Lewis' UMW and a few independents rolled into one super labor combine—we have, by anybody's rules, as dangerous a trust as this nation has ever seen. And if, as it seems, our anti-trust laws can not protect us from such a monopoly, the duty of our elected representatives is plain—and, we can pray—inescapable.

LEGAL EXTORTION

General Motors has been required to notify some 18,000 workmen that they will have to join a certain union by a specified date or lose their jobs, except in the 17 states which have passed the right-to-work laws. This is in accordance with the Taft-Hartley Act under it, when a company signs up for a union shop a non-shop man can be hired, but he must join the union in 90 days and pay dues or be fired. The law does not even limit assessments that can be charged him.

The issue here is neither pro-union nor anti-union—it involves the basic principle of the right of choice and the right to work without coercion.

What becomes of a free country when a man is forced to join and pay in order to earn his bread and butter?

Would anyone advocate a law forcing or allowing General Motors to fire a man if he did not resign from a union within 90 days after it hired him? How would that be different from the present situation where it has to fire him if he doesn't join?

Here is a good example of might being right. A powerful labor organization can legally extort money (dues) from a man on the penalty of having him fired.

Apparently the only solution is for the balance of the individual states to pass right-to-work laws as 17 have already done.—Industrial News Review.

GRASS ROOTS OPINION

RALEIGH, MISS., REFORMER: "We go along with the Rural Electrification program in which associations borrow from the government to finance construction of electric systems and later repay their loans. However, no candidate can curry favor with us by advocating outright ownership of electric distribution systems in which a whole nation is taxed for the benefit of a few smaller sections. Such is Socialism pure and undefiled—the first long stride toward Communism".

HILLSBORO, ORE., ARGUS: "Do you know that on an average business day, nearly 1,000,000 Americans act as capitalists, investing more than $250,000,000 of savings in a variety of financial enterprises? Yes, the nation's private investment is comprised of the cumulative savings of people from every walk in life and income group. If mass production symbolizes the unparalleled economic development of the United States, it is this system of mass capitalism which has made it possible."

BELT, MONTANA, TIMES: "Wonder how many people are making the same mistake we have been making? If you call your minister 'Reverend Adair', . . . you are making a grave social error! The correct term is plain old 'Mister'."

GLORY AND HONOR

Be noble minded; Our own heart and not other men's opinion of us forms our true honor.—Friedrich Schiller.

That glory only is imperishable which is fixed in one's own moral make-up.—Mary Baker Eddy.

Our greatest glory consists not in falling, but in rising every time we fall.—Oliver Goldsmith.

A religion which makes the face long will also produce a narrow vision.

CURRENT EVENTS FIFTY YEARS AGO

The canning factory commenced work on this year's pack of corn, on Monday last. The prospects are for a large pack as there has been a large acreage planted and the corn that has been brought in so far is of superior quality.

Monocacy Lodge AF & AM, which was organized a few weeks ago, is on a fair way to become a flourishing Lodge of the Order, as applications are received at every meeting. The Lodge meets every 1st and 3rd Monday of each month, in Eckenrode's Hall.

The Grangers Hall, which has been spoken of as to be erected on Middle St., is now a sure thing, and work on the foundation will begin in a short time. It will be a large roomy structure when finished.

Rev. James Cattanch, former pastor of the Presbyterian charge of this place, will preach in the Piney Creek church on Sunday morning next, and in the Taneytown church in the evening.

Dedication of New Bridge.—The dedication of the new bridge, which spans the Monocacy joining Carroll and Frederick counties, at William Six's ford, took place last Friday evening. A procession was formed, headed by the Double Pipe Creek band, and marched over the bridge several times to lively music, several hundred people of the community joining in.

Tyrone—Arthur Master spent several days in Baltimore, visiting friends and relatives, the first of the past week. . . . Those who have taken up their potatoes find that they are not as prolific as was anticipated, although a fair yield is reported. . . . Corn is maturing nicely especially the early planted. . . . The school house at Baust church is undergoing some needed repairs.

Pleasant Valley—Cider-making and apple butter boiling have started; apples are very plentiful. . . . Rev. Jas. B. Stonesifer will preach his Harvest Home sermon on Sunday morning September 3rd. . . . Misses Jane and Maggie Yingling, of Taneytown are visiting their brother and sisters at this place.

Corner Stone Laying—The corner stone of the Mt. Union church was formally laid on Sunday last, at 2:30 p. m. The new building will replace the old Mt. Union church, built in 1854. It will be of brick, 42x32 with tower entrance and pulpit recess in the rear.

WITH OUR ARMED FORCES

Pfc. John M. Frock, whose wife, Doris Marie, lives on Route 3, Gettysburg, Pa., recently took part in the 7th Army command post exercise "Wolf Call" in southern Germany.

The field training exercise included a simulated halt and pursuing of aggressor forces. The maneuver exercised the principles of fighting, communications and mobility under battle-like conditions.

Frock, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Frock, Route 2, Taneytown, is a tank driver in Howitzer Company of the 6th Armored Cavalry Regiment's 2d Battalion.

He entered the Army in August 1954 and arrived overseas last January.

Yes, be ready to house your pullets before they reach 10% production. Clean the house and disinfect thoroughly with Germex. It kills germs but, unlike many disinfectants, is easy on the operator. No bad odor, no irritants, no "burning," no messiness, no stain. Yes, Germex is a real modern disinfectant. It's a positive pleasure to use, not only in the poultry house, but about the farm—even in the home. Be prepared to meet sanitary needs with modern Germex.

WOMAN'S WORLD

Jubilee Pancakes Offer Gala Dessert For Luncheons

"SOMETHING for the girls" might be the intriguing recipe for Jubilee Pancakes, a specialty that's guaranteed to please your luncheon or bridge club set. These dainty dollar-size pancakes are served with a fluffy cherry hard sauce and thus do honor to two holidays this month, Washington's birthday and Pancake day.

The latter began as a religious holiday years ago in England when church bells tolled on Shrove Tuesday. Housewives knew it was their signal to use the last of accumulated fats before Lent began. They fried pancakes in meat fats according to a strict formula set by the church.

Later religious aspects dimmed

Dollar-sized pancakes are paired with a cherry hard sauce to give a delectable, seasonable dessert at a luncheon you may want to give "just for the girls."

and Pancake day or Shrove Tuesday became a day of general merrymaking and good eating.

Jubilee Pancakes

(Serves 6)

2 cups pancake mix
1/2 teaspoon soda
2 1/2 cups buttermilk
1 egg
2 tablespoons melted shortening

Grated rind of 1 orange

Dissolve soda in buttermilk. Add with egg, melted shortening and grated orange rind to pancake mix all at once and stir lightly. Pour one tablespoon of batter for each pancake onto hot, lightly greased griddle. Bake to a golden brown, turning only once. Serve warm with Cherry Sauce:

1/4 cup butter or substitute
1 cup confectioners' sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
1/2 cup cooked, pitted sweet red cherries, drained

Cream butter; gradually add sugar, mixing until light and fluffy. Add vanilla and cherries, mixing lightly.

Plunge Overshoes Into Your Washer

Washing machines will do all sorts of amazing cleaning jobs! Would you ever have dreamed it would wash your bedraggled overshoes or rubbers though?

It can be done and it will wash these grimy things very well indeed. Use lukewarm water and mild soap or detergent, and run the machine for three to five minutes. It's a good idea, of course, to brush off any loose dirt or mud before putting them in the machine.

Rinse the footwear under a spigot, then hang on a line with clothespins to let them drip dry.

How to Store

After the boots and rubbers are dry, they can be polished with a soft lintless cloth. If you're going to put overshoes away, stuff with paper and wrap in a box to keep out the dust. Vaseline or beeswax should be rubbed on zippers to keep them from rusting as well as smoothly running when you next need them.

Stadium boots are easily cleaned with a long handled brush and warm water with mild soap or detergent. Rinse these with a wet cloth or brush, then hang, as overshoes or rubbers to dry.

Brush the fur when it's dry. Then spray the fur inside, or the lining with moth preventive.

Soles and leather parts of boots can best be cleaned with saddle soap. Use shoe wax on the uppers. Brush any suede parts with suede dressing. Store wrapped in boxes, as the overshoes.

Winter Sport Shoes

Saddle soap is good for scrubbing winter sport shoes and boots. Wipe with a damp cloth. When they're dry, put a thin coating of wax on the soles and a wax shoe dressing on the uppers of leather. Cover to protect against dust and scratches.

Skies and sleighs, by the way, should also be cleaned and waxed like sport shoes before they're put away. If there is any rust on the metal, use a rust cleaner or rust remover before you wax them.

Plastic Boots

Plastic footwear which is becoming increasingly popular may be rinsed off under running water or wiped with a damp cloth.

TURNPIKE

Describing a trip from Philadelphia, this traveler mentions the passage from Elktion to the Susquehanna Ferry, saying, "The driver frequently had to call to the passengers in the stage to lean out the carriage first at one side, then at the other, to prevent it from oversetting in the deep ruts with which the road abounds. 'Now, gentlemen, to the right', upon which the passengers all stretched their bodies half-way out the carriage to balance it on that side. 'Now, gentlemen, to the left', and so on."

At about the same time it was reported that General Washington, as he was driving what is now U. S. Route 1 to meet Congress in one of his trips through Maryland, was stopped at a spot near the headwaters of a branch of the Patuxent shortly after a heavy rainstorm, and his carriage sunk so deep into the mud that it was found necessary to send for ropes, poles and mules to extricate him.

Since our Legislature refused to appropriate public money, toll roads were the only answer. Finally, after many experiments with politically-operated tolls, a workable turnpike system was authorized in 1804 and private capital was found to finance it. One of the first to be undertaken was "The Reisterstown Turnpike road". This enterprise, which at first was profitable to its backers, ran from Baltimore to Reisterstown. There it forked, one branch running through Manchester toward Hanover and the other running through Westminster toward Petersburg (now Littlestown).

In 1805 the Legislature further authorized a toll road from Westminster to Taneytown, Emmitsburg and thence to the Pennsylvania Line. The Legislature was explicit in laying out the course of the toll roads, the tolls to be charged and other matters. The statute says "The roads are to be made over upon the beds of the present roads as laid out and confirmed by the Commissioners of Review." Thus it will be seen that the members of the Legislature did not sanction new roads or new locations, as is our recommendation today in building a modern highway system. The people who lived along the old mud-hole roads merely wanted them put in shape for travel—and these people prevailed in the General Assembly.

The statute further provided that the State may purchase the road from the company at any time by paying the cost of the road with interest equivalent to 10 per cent on the investment. The Legislature even provided for such details as the erection of posts, index hands and milestones; "drivers are to be kept to the right"; and a provision that persons living on or adjacent to the toll roads and within three miles of a toll gate are to pay toll but once in 24 hours.

It may be of interest to mention the rates of toll established by the act: for every score of sheep or hogs—1½ cents per mile; for every score of cattle—2½ cents per mile; for every horse and his rider or led horse—5/8 cent per mile; for every chaise or sulky with one horse and two wheels—1½ cents per mile; for every chaise, coach, stage, wagon, phaeton with two horses and four wheels—2½ cents per mile; for every cart or wagon whose wheels do not exceed 4 inches in width, for every horse drawing same—1½ cents per mile; for every cart or wagon whose wheels shall exceed in width 4 inches and not exceeding 7 inches for every horse drawing same—5/8 cent per mile.

It will be noted here that the broader wheel moved for half price. Maintenance is the answer. The 4-inch wheel rolled the gravel smooth; the narrow wheel made ruts.

The construction of the road was specified to be 20 feet wide, bedded with wood, stone or gravel, compounded to a sufficient depth to secure a solid foundation. The road was to be faced with gravel or pounded stone in such manner as to secure a firm and even surface. A 4 per cent grade was legislated as maximum.

All in all, 42 miles of turnpikes were built in Carroll County. However, with the coming of the railroad, the utility and popularity of toll roads gradually decreased. During the 19th century all major towns became connected by rail and travel was principally upon them.

By 1900, however, there still were 30 miles of turnpikes in Carroll county, operated by 4 different turnpike companies. They were as follows:

- 1.) Baltimore and Reisterstown Turnpike—(Uniontown to Westminster), Pennsylvania line through Union Mills to Westminster, Westminster to Reisterstown.
- 2.) Liberty and New Windsor Turnpike—(New Windsor to 1 mile north of Unionville).
- 3.) Westminster and Meadow Branch Turnpike—(Westminster to Meadow Branch—2 miles).
- 4.) Liberty and Pipe Creek Turnpike—(Liberty to Union Bridge).

The records show that the Hanover Turnpike which runs north from Manchester had been abandoned during the latter part of the 19th century due to lack of use. It became a county road.

A 1900 report shows that Carroll County had the distinction of possessing the worst piece of turnpike in the State and also one of the best. The "worst piece" was the 3-mile stretch from Gamber to Finksburg. As described by a road inspector of the day, it was "not graded, covered with loose rock, and with little heavy traffic, there only remains a very rough and uneven surface—and the toll gates". The turnpike mentioned as one of the best in the State was the Westminster-Reisterstown Road (Baltimore Turnpike). It was described in a 1900 report as follows: "The fences are about 15 feet apart and the traveled portion of the road is 10 to 15 feet wide, and still wider near Reisterstown. In places at the side of the turnpike there is a dirt road which has worn down below the grade of the stone road sometimes from 4 to 5 feet. Whenever this occurs or the road is built on an embankment, guard rails have been erected to prevent teams from accidentally driving over the edge. This is the only road

God In History

Lesson for August 28, 1955

WHAT is it that makes the world move? — the world of men, of events, the wide world of history? What is the most powerful factor in history? Some say geography, some say climate (which is still geography), some say great men, some say ideas, some say the progress of inventions. The religious answer is strikingly different from all these: it is GOD.

Dr. Foreman

The reason why historians seldom mention God (even when they believe in him) is that they limit themselves to what can be seen and heard. True, sometimes historians are concerned with thoughts, as for instance, what were Stalin and Roosevelt and Churchill thinking of at Yalta? But thoughts are facts that scientists all admit; while God is not the kind of fact with which science can deal. So "historical science" as it is called confines itself deliberately to the kind of fact that science describes. Now God—let it be repeated—is not in that class of things at all. He is not a thing, he is not in a class. He works in history, but not in the way a man works, still less like a force such as that of wind or rainfall or volcanic eruptions. God can be seen, but only with "eyes of faith." He can be known, but by no means as simply as your cat be known. God works in history, not separately from events and men, but in men and forces. As Paul says, God is over all, through all and in all.

King's Intention

According to the Bible, God can work in and by mean of the acts of men who do not know him at all. There is a mystery here which no writer in the Bible undertakes to explain, a mystery which perhaps no human mind is capable of understanding. But the fact is believed by men of faith. Take for instance the famous king Cyrus, known to history outside the Bible as well as inside it. He was one of the great conquerors and administrators of all time. At a peak of his career he made himself master of what had been the Babylonian Empire. He knew that many a temple had been plundered and destroyed by the Babylonian kings, and he knew that the many displaced persons from all the conquered cities where those temples had been, would be grateful for the restoration of those temples. So King Cyrus, in order to make himself "solid" and popular with this mass of subject peoples, adopted the policy of returning the "gods" of those peoples and authorizing the restoration of their temple worship. It used to be thought that Cyrus was a worshipper of the Jews' God, but archaeologists have discovered the original edict or announcement of Cyrus, explaining what he was doing, and asking that all these gods whose worship he was restoring, would pray to Marduk, whom Cyrus regarded as the king over all the gods, on Cyrus' behalf. Isaiah says plainly that Cyrus did not know the true God,—but God knew him, and wrought out his purposes through him, ignorant of God though he was.

People's Devotion

The Bible shows also that God works through the devotion and service of men who do know him. We may doubt whether the proclamation of a Cyrus would have done any good if there had not been men who were eager and ready for just such a chance to return to Jerusalem and restore the worship of the true God. We have had in American history one of the many other illustrations of this same point in the freeing of the slaves. The emancipation proclamation of 1863 was not made altogether from charitable motives. There was a strong political-military purpose in it; the immediate object of the proclamation was not to free the slaves everywhere, but to win the war and restore the union. Later, when slavery was abolished by the Constitution, the freeing of the slaves would have done more harm than good if it had not been for the devotion of men and women of both races who made it their life-work to educate and uplift those who were like sheep without a shepherd. God does work in history; but he needs the service of those who understand his ways and work with him.

in the State as well protected in this respect. The grades are not over 6 feet in a hundred. The road-surface is formed principally of quartzitic rocks through crystalline limestone and hard shale have also been used. The stone for repairs, which are made frequently is broken to about one inch and a half in size, and this together with the heavy traffic has produced a hard road-surface with few or no rough places.

With the founding of the State Roads Commission in 1908 the toll roads of Maryland soon came to an abrupt end. Legislation was passed authorizing the State to buy the turnpikes and make them free roads. By 1915 toll roads in Maryland were a thing of the past.

At the turn of the century there were about 800 miles of road in Carroll County. Today there are 990 miles distributed as follows: State roads, 225; county roads, 715; municipal streets, 50. This represents an addition of 190 road miles since the State Roads Commission went into business in 1908.

But improvement has not been so much in road mileage as in the width, alignment and quality of the roads. Most of the roads you drive on in the county today are built on old roadbeds. It has taken us many years to widen, straighten and pave the old road system, as well as build new roads.

It is possible to forecast that the next half century will find many fine new dual roads built on new locations, such as the Westminster BY-Pass. In many cases today it is found not only more satisfactory but actually cheaper to build roads over wheat fields than to widen existing roads, due to heavy right-of-way purchases involved.

Time marches on. Toll roads were highly popular in Maryland in 1800 and highly unpopular in 1900. Today the pendulum has swung again. Toll roads are back. Authorized by the Legislature of 1955, Maryland is about to build her first modern toll roads since the Reisterstown Turnpike just 150 years ago. This is the so-called Northeastern Expressway from Baltimore to the Delaware and Pennsylvania Lines, planned for opening in 1957 co-incident with the completion of the Baltimore Harbor Tunnel.

Thus travellers will be able to cross our State from Delaware to Washington, with no red lights and with the only stops being—as of old—at the toll gates.

SHERMAN E. FLANAGAN APPOINTED STATE SENATOR

Governor McKeldin, on Tuesday, appointed Sherman E. Flanagan, of Westminster, insurance man and Republican leader, as State Senator from Carroll County.

Mr. Flanagan, 56, succeeded Stanford Hoff, who was named chairman of the Public Service Commission on August 6.

Mr. McKeldin said he made the appointment after learning that the Republican State Central Committee in Carroll County had endorsed Mr. Flanagan for the position. Under State law, the Governor must follow the county recommendation.

Mr. Flanagan, a native of Frederick county, has lived in Carroll county for more than 30 years. Over this period, he has been a high-school principal, a member of the House of Delegates, a magistrate and head of his own insurance agency.

The new senator attended Frederick county public schools before entering George Washington University to take a bachelor's degree in education.

He later received a master's degree from the University of Maryland and a doctorate from George Washington University in 1936.

From 1924 to 1927, he was principal of Charles Carroll High School, near Union Mills, before he entered the insurance business.

He served as a delegate from 1930 to 1932, and was a magistrate during the Nice Administration.

Mr. Flanagan was long-time chairman of the Carroll county Republican committee. Last year, he was chosen to head the county's delegation on the Republican State Central Committee.

Lineboro 1 fire call, 10 man hours and monthly expense of $83.11.

Taneytown 2 fires and 8 ambulance calls, 34 man hours, 436 miles traveled and monthly expense of $910.00.

Sykesville 7 fire calls, 43 man hours, 39 miles traveled, 3 fire drills with attendance of 48 men and monthly expense of $150.09.

Union Bridge 1 fire and 4 ambulance calls, 40 man hours, 915 miles traveled and monthly expense of $810.00.

They have ordered a new Cadillac ambulance and 500 ft. of 2½-inch hose.

Pleasant Valley 3 fire calls, 26 man hours and monthly expense of $419.24. Their carnival will be held late in August.

Mount Airy 8 fires and 22 ambulance calls with 78 man hours, 660 miles traveled and monthly expense of $524.04.

New Windsor 1 fire call, 5 man hours of work, monthly expense of $145.50. A 2-way radio has been installed in the pumper and the new fire house will be dedicated on August 21 at 2 P. M., followed by a cold platter supper served to the public family style.

Why some people today swap one faith so easily for another is because very little is transferred in the transaction.

On June 29 the ship started a search that covered 50,000 miles. The White Marsh acted as a floating base for helicopters which were air-borne from dawn to dusk during the search.

CARD OF THANKS

I wish to express my thanks and appreciation to my friends and relatives for cards, flowers, fruit, visits and other kindness during my stay at the hospital.

JOSEPH L. MYERS.

It's easy to save through the Payroll Savings Plan. Ask your employer about this painless, automatic way of buying United States Savings Bonds. It's surprising how your savings grow.

ACCIDENT FACTS

Forty-three thousand of the 72,000-000 licensed drivers in the United States were involved in fatal motor vehicle accidents last year, in which 36,000 persons were killed.

The 1955 edition of "Accident Facts", the National Safety Council's statistical yearbook, which is just off the press, also shows that 1,350,000 drivers were involved in nonfatal injury accidents.

WITH OUR ARMED FORCES

Benjamin F. Crowl, Jr., pipe fitter third class, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin F. Crowl, of 30 Webster St., Westminster, Md., is serving aboard the landing ship dock USS Lindbergh on a re-supply cruise to areas near the Arctic circle.

The Lindbergh, one of the two converted landing ship docks of the Atlantic Fleet, will return to Norfolk in late October.

Ask your banker about the Bond-a-Month Plan. He will buy a Savings Bond for you each month and charge it to your account. It's the easy, automatic way to save for the future.

Buy a Savings Bond every time you pay your rent or make your mortgage payment. You'll soon have a good equity in a secure future.

Why not join the happy millions who own nearly 40 billion dollars worth of United States Savings Bonds?
