100 YEARS OLD TODAY

Former Taneytown Resident Celebrates Birthday

On Sunday afternoon 49 members and friends of Grace Evangelical and Reformed Congregation joined in a motorcade which had as its destination Homewood Church Home, located on U. S. Route 11 between Hagers-town and Williamsport, Md. Here a surprise birthday party was held in honor of the congregation's oldest member and the home's oldest guest, Mrs. Ida Landis, who today celebrates her 100th natal anniversary.

After the rest of the home guests and the visitors were seated in the living room and the dining room, Mrs. Landis was brought into the room to behold the large number gathered to-gether in her honor. When she was asked to come to the large reception room on the first floor from her room on the third floor where she had some of her family visiting her, her com-ment was, "I can't come down now, I her cane; however, when she realized that there was nothing expected of her, but to be an attentive member of the special gathering and that every one would come to her to express their greetings, she was willing to forget about her cane. Mr. Wagner presented the minister of the honoring church, the Rev. Mr. Morgan Andreas, who in turn intro-duced Mrs. George Motter, who served as the mistress of ceremonies as das the histress of ceremonies as the prepared program in honor of Mrs. Landis was presented.

The assembly joined in singing the hymn, "Come, Thou Almighty King," with Miss Fairy Frock as accompanist, after which Rev. Andreas read appropriate scriptural passages from Psalm 100 and Ephesians 6:10-18.

"One Sweetly Solemn Thought" was sung by Mrs. George Motter, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Romaine Motter, following which Miss Fairy Frock rendered a piano solo entitled "Variations of 'Fairest Lord Jesus' and 'All Hail the Power of Jesus' Name'.'

Rev. Andreas then spoke briefly concerning Mrs. Landis' life, especially as it had bearing on and relationation and its many content of the concentration an ship to the congregation and its many auxiliary activities. The following is his prepared address entitled—"The Birthday of a Centenarian Child of

"As we read the Holy Bible there are always the wonderful stories of infant babes which seem to make such a wonderful impression upon us. None of us ever seem to forget the story of the baby Moses, who was hidden in the bull-rushes; we recall how the baby Samuel was dedicated unto the Lord for as long as he should live; and the richest memory which we can have is the significance attached to the unparalleled birth of the baby Jesus.

"From my recalling to your minds these several infants of long ago were born into the world to play such an important part in the religious history of the world, it would almost appear that God's greatest interest and pleasure and delight are in that of little new-born babes. It is all very true that our Heavenly Father rejoices in the birth of little children as He blesses with this rich possession those who come together as one in holy wedlock, else we could not accept and fully ap preciate what Jesus meant as he said, 'Take heed that he despise not one of these littles ones".

But we dare not forget that the Holy Scriptures also speak with pride and adoration concerning those who are crowned with many years of mel lowed age. There is something which only our inner feelings can comprehend as we read the passage, hoary head is a crown of glory, it is be found in the way of righteousness". How often we thank God for His ageold servants such as Jacob who lived 147 years, and Moses who was 120 years old when he died, and Joshua who died at the age of 110 years. "We as a congregation are very happy over the fact that this week our oldest member will mark her 100th birthday anniversary, and I'm sure that the Homewood Church Home family is also very proud of the fac that they can boast of having a child of God who will soon be a centenarian.

"This speaks very well for the home. It indicates that the best of care in food preparation , medical attention, physical comfort and warmest and most friendly relationships are to be found here. It shows that

SANITARY SEWER ABOUT COMPLETE

Final Test of System About November 1st

September 19, 1955

Mayor and City Council
Taneytown, Maryland
Attention: Mayor Raymond J Perry Re: Sanitary Sewerage System Taneytown, Maryland

As the construction of the Sanitary Sewerage System for Taneytown goes into its final stages, we would like to report to you the status of con-struction as of this date and the dates on which the various structures may be put into operation.

The outfall sewer from the limits of Taneytown to the sewage treatment plant has been constructed and tested and is ready for operation. The collecting sewers located within the town limits are substantially complete, with the exception of some work on East Baltimore Street adjacent to the eastern most limits of the town and the sewage force main and gravity sewer in York Street between the pumping station and Roberts Mill Road. It is contemplated that the Contractor will have all sewers completely constructed and tested by November 1, 1955. Although not all of the sidewalks or streets will be repaired at that time, the sewers should be ready to take connections from the various homes and business establishvarious homes and business establishments in Taneytown. In order to prevent future settlement of the sidewalks and street paving, it is necessary to allow the backfill over the sewer mains to thoroughly consolidate, and for this reason it may be several months before the paving is returned to its original condition.

The sewage treatment plant is near-

The sewage treatment plant is nearing completion and we believe that by October 15, 1955 the plant will be ready to receive any sewage that may be discharged to it. Since all of the sewers that flow by gravity to the treatment plant, which sewers serve approximately 75% of the town, will be completed by October 15, it will be necessible to begin the high in the first the several possible to begin the sex and the plant of the sex and be completed by October 15, it will be possible to begin the big job of making the necessary connections to the system in this portion of the town. It will not be possible to connect to the remaining 25% of the town until such time as the sewage pumping station has been completed and the force main laid along York Street. As indicated above however, this should be accomplished by November 30 and those persons residing in the section of town draining to the pumping station may make their connections tion may make their connections sometime after November 1.

The construction of this contract has been performed in an excellent manner and with very few incon-veniences to the residents of Taneytown. The spirit of cooperation as exemplified by the Mayor and City Council and the residents of Taneytown during the difficult construction days has contributed greatly to the success of this project and to the fact that the Contractor, W. F. Wilson and Sons, Inc., will complete his contract well ahead of the anticipated completion date. It may be necessary to make some adjustments in the dates discussed above if the Contractor's progress is hindered by unexpected hurricanes, severe storms and other adverse weather conditions. If this be the case, we will advise you at a later date when the project can be expected to be completed.

Very truly yours,

"I'm sure that if any one would have told Mrs. Landis when she was a young lady-pardon me, she is still a young lady—what I mean is a young-er lady when she was still living in Taneytown where she still has a host of many friends that one day she would be 100 years old, she would have laughed at them and would have felt that it just couldn't be. And yet today we stand on the threshold of that 100th birthday anniversary only

A BALANCED BUDGET!

According to columnist Robert S. Allen, "For the first time in years, it's now very possible the federal budget may finally be balanced by next July 1".

Mr. Allen adds that an all-out economy drive is underway. It is being spark plugged by President Eisenhower, who has ordered the Budget Bureau to direct all government agencies to cut expenditures "to minimum levels and minimum costs".

If this drive succeeds, it will be the greatest thing that has happened in a long, long time to safeguard the values of our money, to lessen the chance of more inflation, and to strengthen the economic foundation on which this nation's peacetime welfare and military security rest. Let it be hoped that the American people, in whose interest the drive is being taken, have the wisdom to give it unqualified support.-Industrial News Review.

THE INDISPENSABLE MAN?

As a general principle, practically everyone agrees that there is no such thing as an indispensable man. As a practical matter, however, any GOP political strategist, in a frank mood, would tell you that there is one man who comes mighty close to being indispensable and his name is Dwight D. Eisenhower.

All kinds of polls and surveys and studies have been made in preparation for the crucial 1956 general election. Most, if not all, have come to the same conclusions. One conclusion is that President Eisenhower, the individual, is far more popular than the Republican Party, the institution. Another is that, as of now at any rate, he could defeat any potential Democratic candiate in pretty much of a wait. A third is that no other Republican in the public eye has anything resembling the President's popular standing. It is not an exaggeration to say that many of the most experienced political observers are convinced that without Eisenhower there will be a Democratic sweep next year-while, with Eisenhower, the Republicans will certainly keep the Presidency and very possibly regain control of Congress.

The opinion is general that, even though it may go against his personal desires, the President will run. The Democratic leadership believers that Its present strategy, therefore, is inevitably devoted to seeking issues that are not only anti-Republican, but which will undermine the President's personal popularity and weaken public confidence in his policies and his

That has proved a formidable task. There is no real issue over foreign policy-both the Republican and Democratic leadership agree on the fundamentals. The "Eisenhower Depression" issue of a year or so ago has disappeared without a trace-production, employment, wage levels and other standard business indicators are at or near record highs. Ernest effort is being given to dramatizing and selling the idea that this is a big-business administration, bent on giving away priceless natural resources, such as oil and water power, to greedy interests. But no dispassionate observer can see where this has made any real headway or is likely to. And the attempt to turn Dixon-Yates into another Teapot Dome died aborning-the facts simply did not substantiate the

There also have been more subtle efforts to change public opinion. The Democratic Digest has drawn a fanciful parallel between the Grant and Eisenhower Administrations, even bringing in Grant's devotion to fast horses and Eisenhower's to golf. This caused Fortune to say editorially, "If that is the best the Democratic high command can muster, Mr. Eisenhower can afford to spend a lot of time at golf and fishing . . . . ."

The Democrats are not to be criticized for their zealousness. It is their duty as well as their right to search for effective issues. The Republicans have found themselves in a similar position in past times and have necessarily follower similar tactics. But, to date, it is clear that no effective counter to the Eisenhower prestige has been found. Columnist Frank Kent described the situation accurately when he told of a discouraged Democrat saying: "What we need is some kind of smear that will stick. But the - fellow seems smear-proof" .-Industrial News Review.

It's especially true in poultry raising. Healthy birds do make you more money. Beware of hidden hazards, though, as worms can be present even in healthy-looking birds. Treat now with Wormal Tablets, the 3-in-1 wormer. Expels large roundworms, cecal worms, and tapeworms from your birds. Free from worm burden, your pullets can lay more and be thriftier. CENTENARIAN'S BIRTHDAY MARKED BY CONGREGATION

(Continued from first page) is, since I at the age of 38 consider my self as a mere babe in comparison to her. I'm sure that another guest in this home, my old friend, Dr. Levan, who is well on toward the century mark as he was 97 last May, could do far greater justice in speaking about the birthday of a centenarian child of God. Parenthetically I might say that Dr. Levan has only one thought which disturbs him, and that is that he is not the oldest in this home, and that the one older than himself has to be a woman.

Landis, we would then all say, "May God bless you on your 100th birth-day".

The male Quartet composed of Messrs. Edgar Fink, Delmont Koons, Harry Mohney and Elmer Schildt sang For You I Am Praying" and "The Beautiful Land", accompanied at the piano by Mrs. George Motter, which was followed by several befitting re-marks by her nephew, Mr. Elmer Schildt, who related how loyal she always was in endeavoring to uphold the truth and doing what was right, is, since I at the age of 38 consider

"Yet, on the other hand I feel highly honored to be the minister of a church which always impressed him from his younger days: which has a member 100 years old, who has lived to be "an hundred years old." Mrs. Landis, we might say that this is your life, and I'm sure you could write such a very interesting book concerning your many joys of the last century.

Just think—being a member of the church 84 years which is a long time. Her devotion was long lasting as she took the lead for many years in preparing the children for the special programs at Christmas, Easter, Children's Day and on other special occasions. And for a number of years she saw to it that congregation was served to all the guests of the home and those attending the happy and joyous occasion. # House Of Our God

Lesson for September 25, 1955

W HY support churches? The first thing we need to understand about this, as Christians, is that support of the church is not optional, but a "must." During a year's time every citizen is confronted with more "causes" than most of us can keep up with. We are invited to share in many good works; orphanages, schools for the blind, boys' towns. foundations for the study of various diseases.

Dr. Foreman hospitals for crippled children, the Red Cross. all sorts of things. Most of us have to decide which we shall send our few dollars to, and which not. But if a Christian thinks he has a right to decide whether or not to support the church, he does not understand what the church is. The central reason why the church calls for the support of the people of God is that it is the "house of our God.'

Here They Know You

If those poor people in ancient Jerusalem pledged themselves to support the house of God, we who are Christians have even more reason to do so. For one thing, the church is where we really belong. Where else in the world is a person recognized for what he is, a child of God? Elsewhere you are a statistic, a consumer, a customer, a tax-payer, a cost item, a voter. These may be important facts about you. But the most important fact about any human being is not that he is kin to the human race, important though that is. The big fact is that every human being is made by God, for fellowship with him. Every man alive is a child of God. Either he knows that or he does not know it. Vast numbers of the human race live as if they were orphans of the storm, they live pigs' lives like the prodigal in Jesus' parable. But no one will tell them they are children of God. No one will tell them of the Father's house, no one will recognize them for what they are. Only in the house of our God.'

Here Citizens Are Trained

There are very shortsighted people who may tell you that money put into support of the church could better be spent in civic improvement, such as better schools or sanitation. On the contrary, supporting the church is the best thing that can be done for the betterment of society. It cannot be said too often: even if the church were only a listening post, even if a church did nothing at all but hold a meeting on Sunday, even if a church might as well be laid flat in ashes six days in the week, for all the work it does-still, even if it did no more than hear God's messages once a week, it would be doing a great and unique thing. For the people who hear those messages and believe them would come to know their true relation to God and their duty in his sight; they would live not as animals, not as the "beasts that perish" but as immortal sons and daughters of the Most High. Then if the church is more than a listening post, if it puts its members to work, they will be actually taught and trained in Christian living.

Here God's Will Is Sought and Taught

Are we talking about the real church or are we idealizing it? Well, of course no church is quite ideal. But taking the church by and large, these things are true, the church at its best wants them to come true, this is what it is driving at. For the church is the only place in town where large groups of people join in trying to know the will of God, and how to find it and how to do it. The church is the place where problems, personal and/or social, can and ought to be discussed in the light of God's Word and Will. It is the place where life is looked at in the light of heaven. A church that does not live up to its high calling is hardly worth support; but a church where there is a sincere effort to know what God wants for this community and for our part in it, a church where there is brave and honest opportunity for minister and people to think and to study and to speak out for God and his ways, a church which by prayer and service keeps the door open toward God, such a church is indeed a House of God; how can a Christian refuse to sup-

G. H. ENFIELD

(Under this heading we have been publishing contributions by Rev. G. H. Enfield. This week's article is devoted to Rev. Enfield and following is a clipping from The News-Herald, Morgantown, N. C. A feature writer Helen F. Jacksin, for that newspaper gives a splendid insight in the life and beliefs of our values correspondent.—Ed.)

"The Rev. G. H. Enfield, minister of the Presbyterian church in Glen Alpine, today looks back on a long preaching career. What he has learned and what he believes can be reduced to a few simple truths.

'The people of the world today are hungry for religion, but what they need is not big word preaching, but simple, plain, practical ideas that they can use in their daily living", the dynamic little preacher paused and

'I remember when I was in theoogical seminary, a group of students went to New York to hear some of the famous preachers of that day. They came home disappointed. 'Why', they said, 'They didn't preach. Even a child could have understood them!'" Religion should be the simplest thing in the world . While the Bible is a book of prinicples and ideals, it is also a record of ordinary and extraordinary experiences of mankind. Yet pleople try to accept the letter of the Scriptures instead of the spirit. They try to read prophecy and mystery and the supernatural into it, and only come away confused.

'Take the phrase 'Love your enemies'. Love has many meanings and many degrees of meaning". Mr. En-field continued. "In other languages, different words expressed the different degrees of love. But in translating the one word 'love' was used to describe all the various meanings.

'Nobody can love his enemies as he loves his family, but he can refrain from hating,' and he can even wish an enemy well, and in so doing he can save himself a lot of grief.

"Resentment against another per-

Rev Mr, Enfield is a newcomer to Burke, having been here little more than a year. He was teaching in the Alamance public school system where he met and last year married Miss Eloise Davis of Glen Alpine, and they moved to Glen Alpine to live.

Mrs. Enfield has returned to the Alamance school system to teach this Alamance school system to teach this winter, and Rev. Mr. Enfield wanted to be a preacher from the time he was only a little fellow listening to his mother reading from the works of leading evangelists of that day. Mr. Enfield accumulated five degrees in his quest for an education, and he has taught in colleges, elementary, grammar and high schools.

He has the equivalent of a doctordid not concentrate on a doctorate. He attended Millersville State Teachers College, in Maryland, Western Maryland College and Westminster Theological Seminary in Westminster, Maryland, Yale Divinity School and Dale Living Duke University to accummulate his Bachelor of Arts, Master of Arts, Master of Education, Bachelor of Divinity and Bachelor of Sacred Theoogy degrees.
He writes, and is at the present time a contributor to the editorial pages of The News-Herald, unpaid but not unsung. He has developed quite a following of his "Thoughts for Thought" column. He has also contributed poetry to a number of poetry magazines in the west.

His first charge after finishing Westminster Theological Seminary in Maryland was at Blue Ridge Summit, Pennsylvania, a noted summert resore Pennsylvania, a noted summert resore which was attended by Maryland which was attended by officials and other professionel men from Washington, D. C. and points west. The presence of these people in his congregation for the morning service, made him careful with his sermons, and they were excellent critics. He learned immeasurably from them. The local townspeople attend-The local townspeople attended the evening service, and he had to prepare an entirely different sermon for them, for they would not have been interested in the intellectual approach to religion.

Mr. Enfield also married at this time a girl from Lewistown, Md., whom he met while going to school in Westminster. One son was born, Clifton W., who today is chief counsel of the state highway department of Oregon.

Eight years ago the first Mrs. Enfield died, and it was a great loss, so great that if he had not been able to turn to God, he would have been in-

If you would have peace of mind, Mr. Enfield's parting advice is, 'Strive to find out the will of God. Every life is part of the plan of God and everyone has a place in that plan. Find His purpose in your life and work with Him. That has brought me into a happy, useful life."

ACCIDENT FACTS

Does crossing a city street leave you a nervous wreck? Do you long for the safety of farm life Well, you had better think twice. For the 1955 edition of the National Safety Council's statistical yearhook Safety Council's statistical yearbook "Accident Facts", shows that agriculture ranks among the most dangerous of industries.

Only high hazard occupations such as construction and mining surpass the accidental death rate of farm
