Boys and Girls, as Members, Have Profited from Experience

4-H Club work, conducted throughout Maryland by the University of Maryland, by its Extension Service through its county and home demonstration agents has made a tremend-stration agents, has made a tremend-ous contribution in better citizens, not only on the farms but in the small towns and cities as well.

During the 40-year history of 4-H Club work in Maryland, several hundred thousand boys and girls have profited from their experience as 4-H Club members. The present enrollment is now 14,713.

4-H Club work is conducted in the counties primarily through the leadership of assistant county agents who work with boys and assistant home demonstration agents who work with girls. These activities are supported and financed in part by county funds under the supervision of the county commissioners. The state club leader and his assistants, who are staff members of the College of Agriculture, provide leadership, suggestions and support-ing material to the county extension

Basis of all 4-H Club work is the "project". Many projects have been set up and standards adopted governing how the project should be carried out. There are projects designed to be carried out by girls; others for boys and still others that either a boy or girl might perform.

When a 4-H youngster enrolls in the garden project, for example, he receives a leaflet describing good garden practices. This is prepared by the University vegetable extension processions. specialist. He also receives a record form on which he keeps track of what he plants in his garden, when and with what it sprayed and the amount of produce realized from the garden. The 4-H'er must keep a record of expenses and before his project is com-pleted, prepare a financial summary, showing profit or loss. He knows a lot more about gardening when he is through. It is the same whether the project is growing a dairy calf or a girl making a dress or refinishing her

The percentage of Maryland 4-H members who complete projects after starting them is about 82%. The kids learn to stick to it and carry it

"SPICE 'N' EVERYTHING NICE"

(Your Chatty Column)

With all my heart, I wish you every morning A smile that shall last until the next day's dawning.

I wish you health—life's greatest wealth!
I wish you always near so that I may help to cheer
Each future day and in some way—help to bring you happiness!

The following poem was discovered by Mr. George Morgan of the banking firm of Morgan, Drexel & Co, which was published in a country newspaper. He carried it in his pocket for five years, occasionally reading it to his friends. Inquiries for copies of it were so frequent that he finally had it printed for distribution. It finally was published in "Heart Throbs" in 1904.

IF YOU HAVE A FRIEND WORTH LOVING

If you have a friend worth loving, Love him. Yes, and let him know That you love him, ere life's evening Tinge his brow with sunset glow.
Why should good words ne'er be said
Of a friend—till he is dead?

If you hear a song that thrills you Sung by any child of song, Praise it. Do not let the singer Wait deserved praises long. Why should one who thrills your heart Lack the joy you may impart?

If you hear a prayer that moves you By its humble, pleading tone, Join it. Do not let the seeker Bow before his God alone. Why should not your brother share The strength of "two or three"

If you see the hot tears falling From a brother's weeping eyes, Share them. And be kindly sharing Own your kinship in the skies. Why should anyone be glad When a brother's heart is sad

If a silvery laugh goes rippling
Through the sunshine on his face,
Share it. Tis the wise man's saying—
For both grief and joy a place.
There's health and goodness in the mirth
In which on honest laugh has high In which an honest laugh has birth.

If your work is made more easy By a friendly helping hand Say so. Speak out bravely and truly Ere the darkness veil the land. Should a brother workman dear

Falter for a word of cheer? Scatter thus your seeds of kindness All enriching as you go—
Leave them. Trust the Harvest-Giver;
He will make each seed to grow.
So. until the happy end,

Your life shall never lack a friend! So long, Folks. See you next week. D.V. Have a grand week-end. Drive carefully and leave for your destination earlier so as there is no rush. I

A CONCERT

The Historical Society of Carroll County is planning to invite the pubne to its garden on the coming month. On Sunday, Aug. 5, there will be a concert by Noah Arbaugh's eighteen member orchestra, augmented by a quartette of female voices, from 7 to 8 p. m., and on Thursday, Aug. 16, from 2 to 5 p. m., there will be a garden party and pottery exhibit, with a talk by Miss Eugenia C. Holland, curator of the Maryland Historical Society and a ceramics expert.

Noah Arbaugh's orchestra is well known in Carroll County, where its leader and occasional soloist has been connected with orchestra and band musical activities for many years, as was his father before him, John W. Arbaugh, having belonged to the Carroll County Reed Band as early as 1863, and to the National Gray Band, under Professor Bailey Morelock, before that time. Noah Arbaugh made a profession of music in his youth, playing in the early nineties with Warfieldsburg Band of twentyfour members, organized in 1885 and continuing as a group until 1900. He tells of marching through the storm of snow and rain in the second in-augural parade of President Grover Cleveland, in 1893, when the band wore the gray uniforms with red equalets given them in 1892 by Gov-ernor Frank Brown, in whose campaign they had been active. In 1895 Mr. Arbaugh joined Sagwall's Medi-cine Show Band as trombonist, later going for two years to Wallace's Circus Band, before organizing his own band. He now devotes his time principally to farming the old Myers homestead, on the Bachman's Valley road in Manchester district, where he introduced the practice of contour plowing with such success that Governor Lane made a special visit to the farm to judge the results, which were also photographed from the air. Noah Arbaugh still continues his musical activities as an amateur band Elections will take place at the mem-bership meeting to be held later this of instruments, among them his baritone instrument, which is over seventy-five years old, and an old harmonica from the Historical Society's museum, and he has recently played with the Western Chapel Taneytown, Pleasant Valley, Mt. Pleasant, Manchester and Detour Pleasant, Manchester and Detour bands. Mr. and Mrs. Arbaugh have been married for fifty-seven years, and have eight children, fourteen grandchildren and thirteen greatgrandchildren.

CURRENT EVENTS FIFTY YEARS AGO

The Grangers' Pic-nic. The opening day of the Grangers' pic-nic, near Taneytown (Thursday) was a great success, the attendance in the afternoon being about 3000 which indicates double the number for Saturday. The grove was enlivened by the exhibi-tion and operation of machinery of tion and operation of machinery of various kinds, while "agents" were busy circulating around for business. The large number of ladies present added the necessary touch of color, and perhaps made the event more interesting to the male sex, while bright skies and many evidences of prosper-ity broadened the smiles of Grangers and Farmers' Clubmen, and music "by the band" added the necessary finish ing touches required for the ideal picnic.

The program was carried out, opened by an address of welcome by Hon. Jas. A. Goulden, of New York. As we go to press too early to give Friday's proceedings, that and Saturday's will be given in next week's issue. Saturday promises to be a gala day, with Governor Warfield, Congressman Talbott and other celebrities as attractions.

FEESERSBURG (A Voice from Carroll)

Paper, which we take so much for granted to wrap articles in or to write on has a very fascinating beginning. The origin and early history of paper as a writing material are involved in much obscurity. The art of making it from fibrous matter appears to have been practiced by the Chinese at a very distant period. Different writers have traced it back to the 2nd century. tury B. C. But however remote its age may have been in eastern Asia, paper first became available for the rest of the world in the middle of the 3th century. During a war between the Arabs and the Chinese, the Arabs captured some Chinese who were skilled in paper making and they gave their secret to their Arab masters. The Arabs soon had an abundance of paper for writing purposes because large numbers of Arabic manuscripts on paper dating back to the 9th century are in modern museums. Paper was first made entirely by hand, sheet by sheet, but in 1798, Louis Robert a Frenchman, invented a mathine to make paper. From then on to the present time most paper has been made by machine except in a few nstances like paper for bank-notes or special drawing paper, which is still iand-made. Paper, at one time was so costly that it could only be used in books and for letters. Today almost everything we buy is done up in some form of paper. It has become so cheap to make that scrap paper is not worth saving and it goes up in smoke. We wonder what the Chinese who first nade paper by hand would say if they could return and see the extent to which paper is used today and how ily wasteful people are with it. We are sure Confucius, the Chinese sage would have an appropriate word to say on the subject.

If the dairy farmer really wants to get rid of surplus milk he will have to do something about the stuff that is being sold as ice-cream. Our family use to consume ice-cream by the gal ons but that was when they were still butting milk and eggs in it. Now some of the so-called ice-cream must surely be made out of air and white-wash mix. It may be that the city people have never eaten ice cream made with cream, fresh fruit and lots of eggs and turned in a hand freezer. If they had they would never again buy the stuff they label now as ice-

Progress of a college student: Freshman-knows all the answers sophomore, knows only half the answers; junior, knows he doesn't know anything; senior, knows if he knew half of what he is supposed to know he could go on a quiz show and wouldn't have to finish college.

Last week the Nation went through a simulated H bomb attack. The radio and T.V. stations left the air for 15 minutes except for two stations over which emergency instructions to civilians were to be relayed. In the spirit of the test we turned the radio on the emergency station to hear what would be broadcast. We had a diffi-cult time locating the station and when we finally found it, all we heard was someone making a speech. We finally gave up and went back to work In the evening we watched over the T.V. how our Nation's Capital responded to the life or death test. First there were three high government officials casually walking down some steps with brief cases in their hands. They looked like they were on their way to lunch instead of trying to escape a bomb. Microphones were in the foreground and they stopped to say a few words to the public Imagine the public during an H bomb gathered around the T.V. waiting to near a fond greeting from anyone Later on we saw a fire truck rushing to the scene of disaster and putting out a smudge-pot on the roof of a building. This was so funny that we laughed until we suddenly realized it wasn't funny at all. For if what we saw was all the protection our people have against an attack by atomic bombs then we may just as well have no protection at all. Personally I think all this talk about protec-tion against atomic bombs is a lot of nonsense as there can be no protection against it except moral indignation, which will make the leader of all nations accept the truth that no one wants another war which could mean the destruction of all living things. We should stop rattling our H bombs and use atomic power for use in making all people happy instead of scar-

Poison-Ivy is a beautiful plant when it is growing beside a fence or isolated in the field but when one has contacted it and reaped the results it isn't so beautiful. Evidently some of the readers of this paper know of what I write because a number of them were kind enough to write and tell me about their favorite remedy against the deceiving plant. The majority suggested using yellow laun-dry soap to bathe the affected skin. remember now that my grandmother used this same precaution. I even re-call the name of the soap. It was Octagon. Another suggestion was bathing in a weak solution of lysol. We are over the poison now but we shall keep all suggestions close at hand because every year we have a time with the poison especially when the season is wet and the grass and weeds never lose their dampness.

We have it on good authority that the way to be a successful reporter in a small town is to watch the women In a small place when a woman wears a hat and gloves on week-days some-thing is going on so you just follow her and find out.

The hunting season is still a few months away but one should be prepared. The old signs are out. Instead of just plain "No hunting" the modern sign should read: "No hunting or uranium prospecting on this property."

We didn't realize how bad the rain storms have been in Maryland until we heard from friends in Montgomery County. They lost their beautiful home by flood waters and almost lost their lives. While many people like to live beside a river be-cause of its beauty the charm can pass swiftfly when the water starts to leave its banks.

When a woman indulging in rich pastry, commented that she had to watch her waistline, her friend pur-red: "And how lucky you are to have it right out there where you can." -Ruth Roelke.

PEN-MAR LEAGUE

Taneytown won two games this week, defeating New Windsor on Sunday 6-3 and on Tuesday evening. Jay Showvaker, erstwhile Littlestown High School athlete, hurled a two-hitter turning back New Oxford, 4-1, in a Pen-Mar League engage-ment at Old Mill Field, New Oxford. Ine former Thunderbolt star experienced trouble only in the fourth when he lost his shutout on a spurt ignited by Wop Staub's two-base blow.

Taneytown tallied in the second inning and clinched matters with three in the top of the fourth.

The victory was the eighth for the invaders and evened their record at 500. Earlier this month, New Oxford edged Taneytown, 3-2 but a protest filed by the losers was upheld and the game was ruled "no contest."

Taneytown trails fourth-place Fairfield by a half game with important week-end battles on tap. Sunday's schedule has Taneytown at Cashtown, New Oxford at Blue Ridge Summit, Fairfield at New Windsor and Union Bridge at Emmitsburg. Last evening's

24 HOUR DUTY AT FILTER CENTER

Full twenty-four hour operation of the Reno Air Defense Filter Center, began July 1, as part of the Air De-fense Command's protection network against a sneak enemy attack. The announcement was made at a general meeting in the center.

The session was attended by 70 civilian volunteers and principal speaker was A. E. Holgate, Washoe County Civil Defense Director who said that the Ground Observer Corps effort has been a big plus-sign for the security of the North American con-

(Mr. Holgate, is the husband of Agatha Belle Weant Holgate, daughof Mrs. Cora Weant Duttera .-

Quite often we hear it said, or it printed that the Ground Observers Corps' usefulness was rather remote at best," Mr. Holgate continued, "and that now, with all the talk of missiles which can be fired at thousands of miles an hour and be of inter-continental range, it can hardly be of use at all."

"This is a matter of misplaced perspective, Mr. Holgate said, "the missile threat is real, but it is a future threat is real, but it is a future." threat to the security of this country The threat to our security now and for some time to come lies in the long range bomber force of the Soviet Union. This is a force which is size-able. It is a force in being. It could be used against us today, tomorrow, next year.' "This is a threat, should it become a reality, which can be seen and heard. It is within the perception of members of the Ground Observer Corps to do something about were it employed in low level attack against our Strategic Air Command bases, or cities, our industrial areas, and other concentrations of our resources and our people.

"The missile threat, then, belongs to our tomorrows, and the Ground Observers Corps is and continues to be a part of our todays, and tonights. No matter if an amount of disquiet has been sewn among our Ground Ob-servers Corps and they wonder if they are not outmoded, this isn't so. We still need the GOC."

Mr. Holgate also said that both phases of the GOC program, the GOC post and the filter center operation are equally important to the overall air defense mission.

The importance of the GOC was stressed by Capt. Milton R. Rose, commander of the Reno Filter Center, who told his listeners that a recent exercise within the Western Air Deense Force area was a real test of GOC capabilities under unusually difficult identification conditions. "Due to the nature of the exercise," Captain Rose said, "the GOC was relied upon at all times for spotting, identifying and attacking exercise aircraft. fying and attacking exercise aircraft. In many instances the GOC supplied the first available information on the flight paths of the exercise aircraft." Captain Rose said that the Reno Filter Center had no part in the June exercise, since its area of responsibility of 117,000 square miles will be under the jurisdiction of the Sacra-mento Filter Center until July 1. The Reno Filter Center, one of 73 throughout the nation was established here in December 1955, since its former location at Oakland was considered too vulnerable against an attack. Its area of responsibility includes parts of Nevada, California, Oregon, and Utah.

THE BOGEYS OF THE PAST

Once the story-books used to tell Of an autocrat called Satan, a place called hell; But truth said, "Such things can not be; So, to-day, we demominate them, "past history"

There is nothing on earth God did not make Why create a creature His laws to break?
No! No! Our God is too wise to do such a thing, To divide a world over which He is King.

Satan, witchcraft, supestition-nonentities three, All belong to an age which used to be-Goblins, spooks, and the jabberwalk Are no longer things about which people talk.

So, after years of study, and much meditation,
I have discovered that, man is God, in manifestation;
I have also found that such things can not be; And that physical man is a duality.

Some still talk of things which occurred years ago; But, about God, and His plan, they do not know; The Bible says, "knowledge shall be increased"; So, from rubbish of the past, we should be released.

So it shall be when truth is fully known
The false seeds of belief the ancients have sown
Will refuse to sprout, and shall go to decay
Recease people no longer believe what they say Because people no longer believe what they say.

They used to tell us that the earth was flat-"All such imaginary rubbish as that; They thought the Sun and the moon which shone Were made only for this earth alone.

But, God made them heat and light to give To eight other planets that they too might live; They did not know this earth is a star; And, like all other planets, travels far

Each year we make a trip around the Sun, 975 million miles, its orbit is said to run; To say the earth is flat is only a silly notion It is perfect example of "perpetual motion."

That is the way men used to think they did not know, When the old horizon was hanging low); Both Science and revelation tell us to-day God's wonders are all done a different way. Since man is etheric—a duality (don't you see)? He must have a physical body in which to be; Jesus, Himself, came to earth that way So God, to man, this truth might convey.

No one on earth has ever seen the real you; It is through him or her God tells us what to do; Men call this their conscience; do not know Who it is who tells them the right way to go.

The real you is a Spirit being—(don't you see)?
He or she is destined to live through eternity; No one of God's children shall ever be lost, Regardless of what his salvation may cost.

Each one of us has a psychic body, they say;
For God, to communicate with us, there is no other way;
The body of the real you, some writers say
Excels the sun for brightness at noon day.

God does not speak to the physical man; That has never been a part of His plan;
He only speaks to these physical bodies of ours
Through Nature—the earth, the trees, and the flowers.

The average mortal knows he is here; But why? to him, the reason is not clear;
He is here to build a body which shall not decay
In which to live through the endless day.

Man must have a body in which to be Not only in Time, but in eternity; For, he is God's mouthpiece, also "His hand," It is he who executes all His plans.

All talk about a devil and spooks you shall find Has had its origin in an untutored mind; All is not true which the ancients have said; 'God is a God of the living not a God of the dead."

God has sent us here to learn to be like Him, Not a cater to self for each tiny whim; About love and charity we must all know; If through future ages we hope to go.

We must grow to be like Him; there is no other way By which one can live in the endless day; God's face in every mortal we must see Before he can enter eternity.

As the tree in the acorn an oak must be, So it is with God and humanity; Jesus said to all peoples, "I am the way"; So we all must be like Him in the endless day.

The real you, it is said, knows everything;
But, to physical you, false doctrines still cling;
So, all who come to visit this earth Should brand them lies from their day of birth.

As the tree which stands in the storm-cloud's path Must train its roots to encounter its wrath, So man must prepare in every way
To weather the storms of the endless day.

As I understand, a part of God's plan
Is to make of you a perfest man;
So, reincarnation is the only way
To prepare to live through the endless day.

A single life span too short would be To learn how to live in Eternity; So, back to earth man must return; It is here the fires of hell still burn.

This earth is God's school-house where all must be Taught, trained, and made fit for eternity; In a land where a thousand years are as one day, One must have a body which shall not decay.

When you are made perfect you shall be Like the boy who once lived in Galilee; God gave Him full control over land and sea, And so it shall be with you and with me.

NEITHER BATTLEFIELD nor housework defeated Molly Pitcher.

Her real name was Mary Ludwig Hays.

'And on June 28, 1778, she came to Monmouth County, New Jersey, to visit her husband, an artilleryman serving in the Revolutionary War. When the battle of Monmouth began, Mary saw so much to be done that she just stayed.

She carried countless pitchers of water to the exhausted and wounded soldiers. And when her husband fell wounded, she took his place at a cannon. Before the battle ended, Mary Ludwig Hays became famous as Molly Pitcher, one of this country's first heroines.

Today's battles are being fought on the economic front. And there's much that any woman can do to help in this field. A family's sound financial standing depends as much upon a woman's ability to manage money as it does her husband's ability to make it.

Of Suffering

Lesson for July 29, 1956

WHAT they did in ancient times without the mimeograph machine it is hard to imagine. If a modern church executive said to his secretary, "Miss Jones, take a letter; get it out to all the Christians in Pontus, Galatia, Cappadocia, Asia and Bithynia," Miss

Jones would hardly know what to do without a typewriter and carbon paper at the least. She might wonder, too, what Christians in places as out-of-the-way as Bithynia might have in common with Dr. Foreman Christians in Asia. However, when Simon Peter wrote his letter, he knew what all those Christians had in common. "Now for a little while (he meant, to the end of their lives) you may have to suffer various trials . ." Trouble, trials, affliction, suffering - how many words there are for it, how many different kinds of it! St. Peter's letter, written so long ago in Greek, now in English has a fresh contemporary look about it. For trials and troubles are very ancient, but they are as new as the morning paper, they are as universal as the human race. Suffering and Prayer

Christians in particular are bothered, when they think about suffering — especially their own or that of other Christians—in two ways. What is the use of suffering? and, Why should Christians suffer? These are the problems which Peter rolls into one problem: What use is it to Christians, to suffer? He brushes off one kind of suffering-when one gets into trouble on account of one's own wrongdoing. That is no puzzle. The puzzle comes when the good man, the Christian suffers perhaps because he is a Christian and for no other reason. One use of suffering Peter remembered from his own experience. When he was in jail in Jerusalem, the church held a prayer-meeting for him. Somewhat to their astonishment, their prayer was answered. Can we suppose that Peter himself had not been praying? His trouble, in short, had brought both himself and his friends to their knees; it had made them acutely aware of their need of God, and God in turn had made them know his p Some people make fun of "foxhole religion"; but isn't it better than none?

Genuine Faith

Faith that has never been tested can be real; but only God knows it. Faith tested by suffering, when it endures, demonstrates how real it is. A missionary in India was trying to talk to an Indian about Christ. The Indian, who had just lost a wife he deeply loved, cried, "You lead a happy life, everything comes your way. If you had to go through what I go through, you'd not talk about faith!" Within a few months the missionary too lost his wife by death. At the funeral he stood by the casket and said: "If the man is here who told me I had never been through what he went through, I want to talk with him after this. Now maybe he will believe me." To make the story short, the Indian did come to believe as a Christian.

Everybody Has a Heartache

Another use for suffering is that it can open the heart wide. It does not always do this. Suffering by itself has no magic. It is only when the sufferer reaches up in trust to God that anything like "magic" comes to pass. But when one who is afflicted trusts in God even then, he may not have his painphysical, mental or spiritual, whatever it be-removed; but he will find that he has joined the great fraternity of pain. His heart, hitherto in-turned, now turns outward. He knows the password to every human heart. For every one has his own heartache, and those unacquainted with grief find no entrance. Your own heartache is the key to the hearts of all men everywhere. Suffering "as a Christian"; this above all, as Peter says, is a mark of brotherhood' throughout the world. The minister in Mississippi who loses his pastorate because he says a word of sympathy for wronged Negroes; the Indian who is stoned from the village well because he has turned from Mohammed to Christ; the Spanish Christian who is not allowed to worship except in forms approved by the government; the Chinese Christian who is forced to march in a parade at the hour of church worship; do we not suffer with them? For they are our own.

Let's Think

G. H. ENFIELD

PSALM FIFTY-THREE

There is a close resemblance between psalm fifty three and psalm fourteen. One student of the psalms says psalm 53 is practically identical with psalm 14. Another says psalm 53 is a second version of psalm 14. A significant addition to psalm 53 is in

For God will scatter the bones of the ungodly; they will be put to shame, for God has rejected them. It is believed that the foregoing points toward some coming historical event.

The fool says in his heart,

"There is no God."

According to the Revised Standard

Version, the fool is continuing to say,

"There is no God." He has not ceased disclaiming God. The King James translation is, The fool hath said in his heart, There is no God. Here the act is complete. He has said once for all, There is no God.

The fool says in his heart, There is

The fool says in his heart, There is no God. Where else could he say it and have it mean so much? His language is inarticulate. He says, There is no God by what he does or by what he fails to do. Acts speak louder than words. They also travel farther, and are more often talked about. Lack of deeds by one who should perform them is a manifestashould perform them is a manifestation of the fool's assertion, "There is no God." His whole life is built upon that premise. "As a man thinketh in his heart so is he." And "Out of the heart are the issues of life." He who ignores his moral duty, and shirks his religious obligations, says in his heart, there is no God.

After relating what the fool says, the Psalmist reveals God in presenting the Lord's reactions. He sees, He speaks, He acts.

In Scripture the fool is characterized by wickedness as well as by folly. His weakness is both mental and moral. What he does or fails to do, what he thinks and says as a conviction, is what he believes in his

The Psalm presents a childlike conception of God. He is looking down from the balcony of heaven in search of good men.

Good looks down from heaven upon the sons of men to see if there are any that are to see if there are any that are wise, that seek after God.

Seemingly, individual fools were so numerous that the Psalmist includes everybody in the category:
They have all fallen away,
they are all alike depraved;
there is none that does good, no, not one. They are so rapacious that they eat up my people as they eat bread, and they do not call upon God. Since they hold there is no God, they have no God to call to. Theirs is a prayerless life. for theirs is a prayerless ways of life. way of life.

The Psalmist prays for his people He prays for their release from fear, and for their deliverance from the influence of atheism. He would have their salvation ome from Zion, God's dwelling plan from which God's help come that their deliverance when God restores the captivity of the prosperity of the people, then Jacob will rejoice and Israel be glad.

God looks down from heaven, not out of idle curiosity, but because He has a purpose for His children. He is seeking their deliverance from the power of those who say, "There is no God."

Summertime Is Iced Tea Time

Summertime and iced tea time are synonymous with the pleasure and fun of outdoor dining. Easy-to-fix meals that satisfy ravenous appetites and a refreshing beverage that appeases an unquenchable thirst are summertime necessities. To quench the thirst, there's nothing like iced tea . . . and for a quick and easy meal, you might like to try this Baked Bean and Canadian Bacon Casserole which like to try this Baked Bean and Canadian Bacon Casserole which can be prepared out-of-the-oven.

To make iced tea the new, easy way, pre-measure ½ cup loose tea. Bring 1 quart of water to a full rolling boil in a saucepan. Remove from heat and while the water is still bubbling, add all the tea at one time. Brew five minutes. Stir and strain into a pitcher or container holding 1 quart of cold water. Serve in ice-filled glasses with lemon and sugar to taste. This method requires less boiling water, less preparation time and less ice cubes.

To prepare the Baked Bean and Canadian Bacon Casserole, sauté 1 cup diced onion in 2 tablespoons of salad oil. Empty 6 cups of canned baked beans (without tomato sauce) in a 2-quart casserole. Add sauted onions, 1 tablespoon prepared mustard, 1 teaspoon salt, a dash of tabasco, 1 tablespoon brown sugar and ½ cup molasses. Blend. Heat on top of stove in casserole. Sprinkle 1-2 tablespoons of brown sugar over 1 orange cut in thin slices and halved, and 8-10 slices of Canadian bacon.

slices of Canadian bacon.

Sauté in separate skillets until bacon is crisp and rims of orange rind are lightly browned. To serve, arrange a circle around the inside edge of the casserole alternating with orange and bacon slices. A crisp, crunchy cole slaw salad goes well with this dish.
