4-H CLUB WEEK AT UNIVERSITY OF MD.

Campus Swarms with Boys and Girls

Once each year, during the summer, the University of Maryland campus swarms with around 1300 4-H club boys and girls who came from all over the state to participate in annual club week. This year the dates were August 6-11.

These young people between the ages of 12 and 21 years spend "five glorious days" on the campus where they sleep in university dormitories, eat in the dining hall, and meet in University class rooms. They attend classes in agriculture and home economics, meet in general assemblies, and join together in organized recreation.

Throughout the week, the hundreds of youngsters are banded together democratically by Indian tribal custom. All activity is organized through two Indian nations, their corresponding tribes, and their appointed chiefs and leaders—all 4-H'ers. Each club learns the art and satisfaction of self-discipline through the democratic work and play of their tribal set-up.

Club Week includes many phases of the year-round 4-H program—state public speaking run-offs, satte dress revue, a talent show, a 4-H pageant demonstrations, educational classes, and the final All-Star consecration service and initiation of new members.

The "five glorious days" on the Maryland campus live on in the memory of every club member and leader who attends—an inspiration to attain more fully the ideals of the four-fold life for another 12 months.

THE OBJECTIVE OF THE DISTRIBUTOR

The Holy Father, Pope Pius XII, spoke to the participants in the recent International Congress of Food Distribution in Rome. In his discourse he said this: "What is the objective of the distributor? To reduce prices, ensure quality, increase the well-being of the customer by giving him an abundant choice of the commodities and the facilities for acquiring them."

In a single sentence, the Pope thus described something that has been achieved in the United States under mass distribution. It has happened in all branches of retailing.

Today the average worker's take-home pay buys more of the necessities and luxuries of life than it ever did before. Today the consumer is confronted with an almost bewilderingly large variety of brands when he goes shopping. And the standards of service, display, advertising, and sanitation in our retail stores are infinitely superior to those of the past.

This has not happened because merchants live on a higher moral plane than the rest of us. It has happened because of competition. Competition inevitably and swiftly stamps out inefficiency or dishonesty. With equal inevitability, it rewards those with the ability and the desire to serve us well and fairly.

In this connection, the Pope said: "The improvements made in the process of distribution tend toward the same goal: to increase the real service rendered to the community. Profits will follow as a normal consequence."

GRASS ROOTS OPINION

ODESSA, WASH., RECORD: "The man who lived through the depression . . . had seen conditions that were really rough. His greatest lesson is the one that gives him comfort now. He studiously avoids going into debt, has devoted a part of his annual gain into savings designed to carry him through any bad years . . . When we have provided this protection, we are independent of governmental whims and fancies."

CLAREMONT, MINN., NEWS: "For the past twenty-five years there has been a wild race among the different groups of people in this country to get more back in the form of subsidies than one pays to the subsidies of other groups. It is admittedly a poor practice all around as in the transfer, politicians and their appointees take off a large slice of the ex-horted money."

WARREN, R. I., GAZETTE: "A group of foreign manufacturers being shown an American plant saw a machine that took a piece of steel and in one operation stamped, punched and shaped it into a finished product. After they had watched it for awhile, an apparently bitter argument broke out, with much arm waving and finger shaking. The guide asked the interpreter accompanying the party what the shouting was all about. 'Some of them,' said the interpreter, 'insist that it can't be done!'"

MYRTLE BEACH, S. C., DAILY NEWS: "We can take a lesson in democracy from Iceland, where 90 percent of the voters actually voted."

Party or family breakfast can start off with tumbler of chilled citrus juice or halves of grapefruit, for this is the season for citrus. Follow this with a choice of prepared cereals or some steamy cooked ones, or baked eggs in casseroles. A steaming beverage and a quick coffee cake are just the finishing touches.

Baked or shirred eggs, as they are sometimes called, yield a nutritious breakfast with plenty of protein to start off a busy day. They're simple and effective to serve for a crowd-sized breakfast because they require no last minute preparation.

No Skill Needed to Redecorate Room

"But my fingers are all thumbs when it comes to doing actual work in decorating my home," says many a homemaker.

It doesn't really matter how many thumbs you have these days because decorating is made easy with easily followed instructions, easily used materials and any number of kits.

Paint can be applied with rollers so you don't have to worry about even brush strokes, wallpaper is ready-pasted, ready-sewed tape and hooks to slip in ready-sewed pockets make pleating draperies simple and even rubber tiling can be installed by a novice with a kit that practically does all the work.

Add Color to Rooms

Fresh paint will do wonders for a room which looks weary because you can choose good decorator colors which are all ready mixed and easy to apply. Amateurs will like the quick results and professional appearance of rooms which "rolling the paint" on the walls gives.

For new draperies, you might choose easily wiped off plastic which can be sewed from yardage or which are all ready made.

You'll find cornices ready made for windows which can be papered or painted. Or, you might tack on some drapery material to match the cornice.

Custom-Made Floors

What about floors which at first glance look impossible? There's a special kit now available for about $1.50 containing all the special tools needed to install resilient rubber flooring. This kit includes a notched trowel spreader, awl for marking and scoring tile, a special flooring knife, carpenter's chalk and chalk line. You can use your own kitchen rolling pin to smooth the tile after it's laid or rent a roller from your flooring dealer.

Besides being lasting and easily cared, rubber tile is a particular boon to those who like a custom-made design.

Quick Summer Casserole

Summertime is here and everyone wants leisure time to spend outdoors. The wise homemaker will plan meals that are satisfying and appealing, but do not require long hours of preparation. The Pyrofax Gas test kitchen gives us this delightful, quick luncheon or supper casserole dish.

Sardines offer a full quota of protein and the dish has an added advantage—it can be made in the cool of the morning and reheated in a few minutes at serving time.

Scalloped Sardines

3 cans sardines (3 1/4 or 4 oz.), 1 1/2 cups packaged stuffing mix, drained, crushed
1 small onion, minced 3/4 cup cream or evaporated milk
1 bay leaf
1/2 cup butter Salt and pepper to taste

Melt butter; add onion and bay leaf and cook gently for a few minutes until onion is tender. Remove bay leaf. Add stuffing mix and stir together well. Grease individual casseroles and spread a layer of whole or broken sardines, a little cream, seasoning to taste, then another layer of crumbs. Continue this way until casseroles are filled. Finish with a layer of crumbs. Bake in a moderate oven (350°F.) 25 minutes. Makes 5-6 servings.

The number of really worthwhile hints you can pick up from your neighbors is amazing. For instance, yesterday when I was pulling out dandelions from my lawn, one of my new neighbors brought over a long-handled forked-knife and suggested I cut the weeds at ground level or a little below, rather than pull them out by the roots. "Pulling up weeds," she said, "only spreads the seed and makes them grow better. And besides, with this gadget you don't have to stay on your hands and knees."

Because I wanted to be an appreciative neighbor, I invited her in to have a cup of coffee. When we stepped into my air conditioned kitchen she immediately began to relax. The tense lines in her face disappeared and she said she was comfortable for the first time in days. (We were in the midst of a 90 degree plus siege of sizzling—muggy weather.)

So, I returned her gardening hint with a hint of my own. I know we both use LP-Gas for heating the house, so I told her to check with her LP-Gas dealer to find out about using it to cool her home in the summertime, just as we do. I don't know any of the technicalities about our gas air conditioning system, but I do know there are no expensive installation costs for heavy duty power lines.

We simply set the thermostat for the temperature we want—either winter or summer. We've found that if we keep the summertime temperature in the house about 10° lower than outside, we are always comfortable but never chilly. That's partly because about 90% of the air. You know the old saying—"It's not the heat, it's the humidity."

Air conditioning our home was one of the best investments we made. Our whole family has much more ambition to do things now that we aren't exhausted "fighting the heat." The baby takes a nice long afternoon nap even on the hottest days. And there certainly is a lot less dust and dirt in the house since we don't have to have all the windows open for fresh air. I know I save hours of cleaning time every week.

Not to let me outdo her in the exchange of hints, my neighbor left by saying, "If you ever do get real hot and want a refreshing summer drink, make a charged water limeade using salt instead of sugar. It's not only good for you, but tastes delicious."

CURRENT EVENTS FIFTY YEARS AGO

Chas. G. Buffington, wife and son, of New York City, are here on a visit and vacation.

Rev. Thurlow W. Null, of Manchester, Pa., will preach in the Reformed church, on Sunday evening.

D. Allen Stull, of McKeesport, Pa., is on a visit of inspection to his farm near Bridgeport. Before returning home he expects to visit Indiana.

Jack Crapster has been awarded the scholarship at Maryland Agricultural College, made vacant by the resignation of Mr. Shipley, of Freedom district.

The extreme heat of the first of the week, and the humidity of the latter part, has made this the most oppressive week of the summer to both man and beast.

Mr. J. C. Strayer, a graduate of Lebanon Valley College, has arranged to open Milton Academy and will be here next Tuesday and Wednesday to see the patrons of the school. Mr. Strayer comes well recommended.

Wilson-Stitely—On Aug. 3, 1906, in Uniontown, by Elder W. P. Englar, Mr. Charles E. Wilson and Miss Zora E. Stitely, both of Union Bridge district, were married.

Harney—The cigar business has taken a boom in this place. J. V. Eckenrode informs us that he can give employment to at least 25 hands and would take them if he could get them.

Pleasant Valley—Cider making and apple butter boiling has begun though the apple crop is considerably shorter than last year. The pear trees are loaded and a great many of them will be used for cider.

Uniontown—On Friday evening of last week, the patrons of the Woodside Creamery were entertained on the creamery grounds; about 200 persons were served with refreshments, ice cream, cake, bananas and lemonade. Two graphophones, and numberless katydids enlivened the occasion. About ten o'clock, patrons and friends bade the genial host and hostess, Mr. and Mrs. M. D. Smith, good-night, and with many expressions of pleasure for the pleasant evening.—The M. P. Sunday School, of Uniontown, will hold an all day Basket picnic on Saturday August 18, in Harry Stouffer's grove, on the road leading from Uniontown to Linwood.

Plenty of Zip at a pip of a price

(It's a great time to buy a Buick!)

SERIOUSLY—where else can you get so much snap and ginger at such a peach of a price?

Where else can you get a big, high-powered, steady-riding hardtop like this '56 Buick Riviera—at a figure that's pretty close to what they're asking for similar models of the well-known smaller cars?

Nowhere else that we know of—which is one big reason why Buick outsells all other cars in America except two of those smaller cars.

BUT RIGHT ALONG with low price is something else behind Buick's big success: Buick is a lot more automobile for the money.

It gives you more room and luxury—more zip and power thrill—fine handling and sure-footed stability.

And it gives you something you can get in no other car—today's advanced new Variable Pitch Dynaflo.* It's the only transmission in the world with the cruising thrift and the switch-pitch safety-surge taken from the modern plane's propeller.

So WHY WAIT any longer—when the time to take action is now, so you can start enjoying all the golden months of summer and fall in a new '56 Buick?

Now—when Buick prices are as low as—perhaps lower than—they'll ever be again.

Now—when your present car is at its peak of worth—and when today's high volume '56 Buick sales permit us to make you an even better trade-in allowance.

Come see us—and look into the car that puts you years ahead right now.

Come see us today—and discover the dilly of a deal that will make you wonder why on earth you waited as long as you did.

*New Advanced Variable Pitch Dynaflo is the only Dynaflo Buick builds today. It is standard on Roadmaster, Super and Century—optional at modest extra cost on the Special.

FEESERSBURG (A Voice from Carroll)

A mother with only one child is like a hen with only one chick. Both create too much fuss and do too much worrying. Every mother feels a tug at her heartstrings and a bit of apprehension when she sees her children trying their wings and beginning to fly. But to a mother with only one child the awareness that soon the fun-loving youngster will be an adult and leaving the sheltered place of home there is an added pang of regret that life cannot stand still and allow children to remain children just a little longer. Even when on certain days our children become impatient with their mother's ideas and ideals and think mother is out of step with the modern world we grow fonder of them because we realize they still have so much to learn and so much will be in bitter lessons that life as a teacher seems fond of teaching to everyone. Parents would like to shelter their children from all bitterness and harm but that is impossible. If we would have our children mature we must allow them to test their knowledge and ideals with the outside world. Home can be a wonderful place full of safety and security but it can be a prison too if we attempt to hold on to our children when the time has come for them to try for their independence. Parents with only one child seem more often guilty of stifling their child's growth than do parents with three or four children. It is easy to see why this is true and it is for this reason that it is both unfair to the parents and to the child that some homes are only blessed with one child.

According to reliable information Maryland will build 347 miles of modernized roads with its share of the money recently voted by Congress. These roads must meet the specified standards set by the Federal government.

We were always under the impression that the most expensive room in a new house was the kitchen but we learned last week the bathroom is higher. A kitchen, including foundations, walls, roof, tiling and fixtures costs about $25 per square foot while a bathroom costs about $35 per square foot. It is nice to know about these things for one never knows when one might get on a T.V. show and win enough to build a new home.

It is perfectly advisable to teach one's children about the birds and the bees providing one has boned up on the subject and know more about the subject matter than do the children.

This year due to labor shortage we did not enjoy the luxury of our own garden but we must confess we are enjoying our neighbors and friends, very much indeed, due to their kindness and generosity. This year, thanks to plenty of rain gardens are flourishing and will pay for all the expense and work of planting. Today we asked the price of tomatoes and learned that they are selling for $5 per bushel. Potatoes and onions too are extremely high but we never object to higher prices for farm products providing the farmer gets his share. One farmer received only 35 cents per dozen for sweet-corn which isn't enough when one considers the price of other things. Sweet-corn near the cities is selling for 75 cents per dozen.

Is it ever the function of a Christian to remain silent in the face of injustice? One of the many injustices that we Americans have to bear upon our conscience is the injustice inflicted upon the American Indians for the past 450 years. Ever since a European made the most overrated statement of the 15th century—that is, "Columbus discovered America" the Indian has been mistreated, cheated and all but annihilated by white men professing to be Christians. Americans are a generous people when it comes to handing out money for this and that and we are sure if the true plight of the American Indians was widely known our sense of justice would make our Government do something about the deplorable conditions under which the wards of our people are forced to live. Through a friend we learned that the Indians are so poor they don't even have soap to wash their clothes with—they use sand. They have been forced to live on reservations which are located on some of the poorest land in the U. S. and to try to make a living where mountain goats couldn't survive. No doubt the reason the Indians have received no better attention from our government is because the Indians cannot vote and therefore make themselves heard. What the Indian needs is for someone to speak for him and that is where the Christian conscience should assert itself. We have spent billions on the people in Europe and Asia, which is all right but we should also spend some money on the people whose land we discovered and called it our own. It is not a very pretty picture for a country as wealthy as ours to have wards so poor that they can't afford soap and live in the most unbearable conditions. Christians, where is your Christianity?

The new fall hats for women are out and we have ours in the stage of pre-designing. Truthfully we are not making it but a band of energetic hornets are. They have just about completed a reasonable facsimile of a Mr. Johns hat in our dairy barn window. It is bell-shaped in a soft-gray color and all we have to add is some gray plumage from a resentful Rhode-Island red rooster's tail and we are all set for the fashion parade.

Next week we will be off to the Democratic National Convention in Chicago by way of T.V. Whether this column will be written next week we do not know—it depends entirely on how interesting the convention is.

Four years ago nothing was done here on the farm—we were all at the convention, and we learned a great deal. Some of it was disillusioning but never-the-less exciting. American politics is in a class all by itself. It is a wonder it works but it does and pretty good with all the hocus-pocus that goes with it. Once ever so often you get the feeling that it is pretty wonderful to be an American. Political conventions don't give you that feeling but after it all over and another President elected you feel highly pleased that the people of a great country elect its leaders in such a hodge-podge manner and makes it work. Its strange that it does work and its all due to that creature of mixed heritage and extraction called an American. . . . meaning you and I.

Don't ever belittle your wife's judgment. Just look who she picked for a husband.—Ruth Roelke.

A famous movie star married well and often. Last week, she decided on another sudden divorce. Her lawyer, suggested Mexico. "But I don't know Spanish," she protested. "So what?" said the lawyer. "Whenever there's a lull in the conversation, say 'Si, si'."

The beauty created a sensation in an obscure Mexican village, and when her case came to court, the entire population turned out. There was much excitement and bowing, and the star kept saying "Si, si."

Suddenly everyone cheered. "Well, I guess I'm divorced," the movie queen said.

"Divorced?" cried her perspiring attorney. "You've just married the mayor!"

As Smith stood on a street corner one evening he saw an acquaintance named Johnson approaching, accompanied by a lady. Johnson was being very attentive, and he evidently uttered some clever sally, for the lady laughed heartily. Suddenly it began to sprinkle and Johnson gallantly dashed into the traffic to summon a passing taxi—narrowly missing being run over.

The next day Smith met Johnson and he said: "I saw you last night, Johnson, just as it started to rain. You certainly flirted with death."

"Death?" Johnson echoed. "That wasn't death, that was my wife."

SHORT STORY

Hijacking Hijinks

By Lonnie E. Legge

FIFTY years ago doctors paid fancy prices for human bodies dissect, as you might say, for in side information. Val Jenkin was just one of the men who could supply them, locally. Val was an undertaker in a small mid-western town, and what Val intended Val could resurrect, that is, with the aid of Ruben, his assistant. Ruben did the work while Val got the credit;

3-Minute Fiction

also the cash. Ruben got along fine at funerals with a lot of folks around for company; but grave-robbing was a horse of another color and Ruben's courage needed a little boosting which Val furnished in the way of a pint of "red-eye" just before a midnight operation.

When old man Henderson, who had been an infidel all his life, kicked the bucket, Ruben dug his grave while Mr. Jenkin worked the old man over until his few distant relatives hardly recognized him. When it came time to pay his funeral expenses, the supposed heirs found out there

THE MANY GASES

God is great; but how stupid am I
That I let all His wonders escape my eye?
This earth is a model for every sphere,
Since God Himself once lived down here.

Because of stupidity, mortal man
Knows little about God's inimitable plan,
Even the scriptures often fail to tell
Of things we would like to know so well.

About whence we came and whither we go,
About heaven above or earth below—
All we know is what little we see;
And much of that is "Greek to me".

Everything which we see on Mother Earth
From the various gases gets its birth;
They are all in the ether we breathe day and night;
So, I can not conceive, why they do not unite.

Perhaps, it is because of some mighty decree
That each one consents by itself to be;
For experience proves God intends to choose
The very ones which He wants to use.

Take water!—without it, nothing could be;
There would be no oceans, no fish in the sea;
H<sub>2</sub>O makes water (this we all know);
It is God's greatest blessing wherever we go.

Without it, no clouds would cool the land,
This earth would be dry and worthless sand;
Like the moon, a dead planet it would be
Without a man, a flower, or a tree.

Or, take the air!—without it, a vacuum would be,
The words you speak would not come to me;
The chimes of earth, and the song of the bird
Would never by mortal ear be heard.

From the different gases all things are made,
From the air we breathe to the grass on the glade;
They from the great mountains and the hills
Our lovely fountains and the little rills.

Everything which attracts the eye—
The trees, the flowers, the earth, the sky,
The fruits; the many things we have to eat,
Without the gases would not be complete.

We use gas to cook with and gas to heat,
Gas to illumine the home and the street,
Gas to transport us by auto or plane;
Without it, this earth would archaic remain.

The wisdom displayed in creation by gas,
Is beyond comprehension, out of our class;
Who but God could have made a world with gas,
Or, caused such wonders to come to pass?

Thanks to the Great Chemist whose inimitable thought
Such marvelous blessings to man has brought,
Who rides on the wind, who walks on the sea,
Who is doing so much for humanity.

Fellowship

Lesson for August 12, 1956

THE word "fellowship" is battered around a good deal without people's always knowing just all that the word can mean. When some men use the word they may mean no more by it than lunching in the same place with other men of about the same age and salary bracket, once a week, calling one another by their first names and in general acting as jolly as possible. This is some distance off the meaning of the same word "fellowship" as we find it in the New Testament. There it is a very important word. Indeed it sums up all that the Christian church is and ought to be at its best.

Dr. Foreman

With God

Fellowship,—the word, that is—even among Christians can be misunderstood. It is not just the same thing as "sharing." Some forms of sharing, or what goes by that name, are not fellowship at all. The writer was in a meeting once where a good deal was said about sharing with the needy of the city and in other lands. Toward the close of the meeting it came out what was being planned: an old-clothes drive. Everybody present was exhorted to go through his or her attic and closets and find clothing, hats and what-not that wouldn't be used again, and to have these ready on the porch when the boys came by for it. Of course that was not real sharing at all, it was only a scheme to get rid of some fire hazards, to tidy up for full housecleaning. Real sharing always involves giving up something which one would otherwise have been glad to use. But even real sharing may not be fellowship as the New Testament has it,—not as our Lord and the beloved John meant it and practiced it. A traveler can share a seat on a bus when he would much rather sit alone. Fellowship is sharing-with-love, it is a sharing love.

With Man

It is a striking fact that although John is writing to and about the Christian church, he writes two of his three letters without ever using the word. Perhaps it was too cold and formal a word for him, although Paul loved the word "church" and so may we. But John did not want to be misunderstood. So he uses simple words like "God's children," "brothers." The church is the place for fellowship among God's children. In a real church, there is bound to be a closer, dearer tie between Christian and Christian than there can be between persons outside the church, or between Christians and outsiders. What brings Christians together in the first place is not simply themselves as human beings. It is their fellowship with God. It is because they are so close to him that they become close to one another. Now fellowship with other Christians in the church—again more than sharing. Even on the sharing-level, how much of it is done in the typical church? What do "members" of the same church share? Pews, hymnbooks, the same sermons, preacher, potato salad at church suppers? All this may be the doorway to Christian fellowship, but still not quite it. Two people can sit at opposite ends of the same pew, and eat out of the same salad bowl, for years on end, without ever finding out what real fellowship means. It is only when they really share the love of God, when together they let his love flow through them in joyous service in his name, that they discover Fellowship.

Learning How

Christian churches would wither without Christian homes. Little children learn lessons in living first at home before they learn in Sunday school or church. Father, mother and children can learn together what Christian fellowship is, and if they do, they will know what the preacher is talking about. If they do not learn at home, the minister, and the Bible, will seem to be talking in a strange language. Actually, there is not a great deal of time to practice fellowship in the church. Maybe one spends five hours a week there; it's more than most do. But there are 168 hours in a week; what about the other 163? If the church is the lecture-room for fellowship, the home is the laboratory. The Bible tells us that it will work. Home is where we can find out how right it is.

SHORT STORY

Surprise Visitors

By D. L. Alexander

THE young man and woman, followed by the taxi driver carrying two suit cases, passed through the wrought iron gate at the palatial Montgomery home and rang the bell. It was answered by a man in his late thirties, who looked at them inquiringly.

"I am Mrs. Arnold Hudson, Mrs. Montgomery's niece, and this is my husband," the young woman explained.

"We neglected to let my aunt know we were coming, so I guess it will be a surprise to her."

"I'm sorry," the man at the door answered. "The madam has been gone for a week but I look for her back tomorrow night."

"Oh. That's too bad."

"Come right in. I guess it will be all right."

"Thank you. I hope Aunt Hester will return before we have to go back."

The man at the door took the two suit cases.

"Come this way," he directed.

"I'll show you to the guest room."

They followed him up the broad staircase to a spacious bed room.

He placed the luggage on the floor and walked across the room to another door. "This is the bath," he explained, as he opened it. "And if you wish anything

"What does this mean?" he asked in a trembling voice. "just ring." He indicated a pull-rope beside the door.

"Thank you," Mr. Hudson said. The man bowed, and left.

The young couple stood for a few minutes, taking in the lavish furnishings of the room. Then they faced each other. "This is going to be a cinch," Mr. Hudson remarked.

There seemed to be no one about the place except a few servants, who kept aloof, but the young couple passed the afternoon away wandering through the different ground floor rooms admiring the costly furnishings. After dinner they strolled about the grounds until dark and then, selecting books from the well-stocked library, they returned to their room.

The next morning they announced their early departure. "We are very sorry to have to leave without seeing Aunt Hester," Mrs. Hudson told Henry, the doorman.

"I'm sure Madam will regret it, too," he returned.

"Bring our luggage down, and then call a taxi."

"Yes, Ma'am."

He returned in a few minutes with the suit cases. "I'll call the taxi, now."

He hovered around the door for a time, and at last entered the room where they were sitting. "Your taxi has arrived," he announced.

Mr. Hudson rose from his chair and glanced out the window. His face became instantly pale as he noticed a police patrol at the curb and two officers coming to the door.

"What does this mean?" he asked in a trembling voice as he turned to the doorman. Henry was covering them with a revolver.

"It means, Mr. Hudson, if that is your name, that you and your wife are under arrest."

"I consider this an outrage," the young woman cried indignantly. "I'll tell Aunt Hester of this insult as soon as I see her."

"No need to tell me anything."

The voice came from a white haired woman who had come in to the room behind them unnoticed. "I know all about it. I am Mrs. Montgomery, and I've never had a niece or nephew, and have no other living relatives."

"Mrs. Montgomery lives alone with her servants," broke in Henry. "I am the doorman, and also a private detective hired by her for protection. You two have been hunted for some time, and the notice that Mrs. Montgomery had gone away for a visit in the society columns of the paper was only a plant in order to catch you."

AND WAS HIS FACE RED

In the congregation of an Oak Park church during Sunday morning service was a young bride, whose husband was an usher. Becoming terribly worried about having left the roast in the oven, she wrote a note to her husband, sending it to him by another usher.

The latter, thinking it was a note for the pastor, hurried down the aisle and laid it on the pulpit. Stopping abruptly in the middle of his sermon to read the note, the astonished pastor was met with this written injunction: "Please go home and turn off the gas."

ONCE IS ENOUGH

A statistician gave up his Saturday afternoon golf to take care of the children. When his wife returned from her shopping, he handed her the following report:

Dried tears: 9 times.

Tied shoes: 13 times.

Toy balloons purchased: 3 per child.

Average life of balloon: 13 seconds.

Cautioned children not to cross street: 21 times.

Children crossed street: 21 times.

Number of Saturdays I will do this again: 0.

OLD RELIABLE WAY

Mable: "When you have a quarrel with your husband, do you threaten to go home to your mother?"

Ruth: "No, indeed—what good would that do? I threaten to have mother come here."

"Nowadays, it is very hard for politicians to sell the class conflict any more. The reason is that tens of millions of workers are property owners, with a big stake in the nation's continued prosperity. It is to those worker-capitalists vital interest that their pay checks keep coming along regularly, that the dollar's buying power remain steady, and that the nation stay out of war as long as it honorably can."—New York Daily News.

"Income tax of any kind is only 43 years old in this country. It began very modestly, but has now reached rates declared even by the last Commissioner of Internal Revenue to be confiscatory. This gives an idea how quickly such a tax can become onerous. That is why the introduction of income tax levies in municipal and school districts is something for all of us to worry about."—Oneida (N.Y.) Dispatch.

FISH BAIT

"Is your husband a book-worm?"

"No, just an ordinary one."

GET THE HOSE

He: "Dearest, I'm burning with love for you."

She: "Come, now darling—don't make a fuel of yourself."

If you would make a man happy, do not add to his possessions but subtract from the sum of his desires.—Seneca.

how Advertising helps you

BY CHARLES B. ROTH

Midst of Revolution

EVERY American school child, of course, knows the story of the American Revolution, knows how the staunch colonists overthrew the existing government, freed themselves from the shackles of political and religious slavery, and stood forth as free men. But it took violence and bloodshed. But don't all revolutions take violence and bloodshed?

Not any more they don't. Some of the most drastic revolutions are accompanied only by pleasantness and gains, such as the tremendous revolution in living.

This is the newest style in revolutions—and the force which is motivating it is advertising!

To be an eye witness of this great revolution take an observer's place, as one noted advertising man, Fairfax M. Cone, did at the checking stand of a modern super market.

Watch the people as they go by and check what they have in their baskets. They have all manner of wonderful things... wonderful things like ready-cut cellophane-wrapped meat... cake mix and oven-ready biscuits... frozen chicken pies and pizza... fresh frozen vegetables... concentrated quick frozen vegetable and fruit juices.

But the folks who are enjoying these miracles are not the rich people. They are the everyday people of every American town.

If you follow them out to their cars, you will see them climb into sleek new shiny sedans, more beautiful and efficient than the rich men's cars of a few years ago. And they will drive to new ranch-type homes, in which you will find a TV set, a couple of radios, an electric refrigerator, a home freezer, automatic dishwasher, and washing machine.

We take these things for granted, but we shouldn't, for they did not "just happen." All were caused, all were caused in exactly the same way—by the miracle of advertising, which showed the way to the revolutionary way of life we Americans are living.

In every way a good force in our existence, advertising never served us better than in pointing the road to modern revolutionary living!

Inspired By President's Daughter

THE FIRST AND ONLY MIX OF ITS KIND, Dromedary Pound Cake Mix has much more than the usual background of food technology. In this mix the special ingredient is inspiration. The formula itself was inspired by a favorite recipe owned by Martha Jefferson Randolph, daughter of Thomas Jefferson, our third President.

Few of us realize the culinary glories of that era. From his years of service in France as American Minister, Thomas Jefferson acquired a discriminating taste for the best. His enthusiasm for good food pervaded Monticello, his beautiful home in Charlottesville, Virginia. Pound Cake was a favorite there.

So it is with great pride that The Dromedary Company presents this Pound Cake Mix inspired by a famous recipe—a reminder of our precious heritage of fine food. In the old times, a glazed coconut cake was very popular. So in a retrospective mood, we suggest the following:

POUND CAKE WITH COCONUT GLAZE

1 pkg. Dromedary Pound Cake Mix
1 egg
¾ cup butter or margarine
¼ cup light brown sugar, firmly packed
¾ cup milk
¾ cup shredded coconut

Prepare Dromedary Pound Cake Mix with milk and egg following package directions. Allow cake to cool in pan then spread top with following glaze. Melt butter or margarine in small pan. Stir in brown sugar until melted. Remove from heat and blend in shredded coconut. Spread evenly over cake and place under broiler 6 inches from heat. Allow to glaze 2 or 3 minutes until mixture bubbles and coconut turns golden. (ANS)

Climate Study May Aid Crops

Microclimate: Down Next To Ground

Plant scientists are concerning themselves with an unusual kind of climate, known as microclimate. It's the environment down next to the ground.

Microclimate, according to agronomists at the U. S. Regional Pasture Research Laboratory at the Pennsylvania State University, differs from the generally observed climate in many ways.

Night temperatures next to a bluegrass sod, for example, may be as much as 6 degrees lower than at shoulder height. In close-growing crops where plants restrict air movement, temperatures during the night may range as much as 12 degrees higher than the atmosphere at shoulder

The temperature at ground level may be as important as soil nutrients when it comes to producing top yields, since science now says plants are susceptible to high and low temperatures and light changes. As science learns more about the effect of "microclimate" on crops, the farmer should be able to better protect his crops and get higher yields.

These differences are of great concern to scientists and have necessitated the development of special instruments to measure moisture, light, temperatures, and other conditions of both low-growing and taller plants.

Studies under way for the past five years have revealed that some plants are susceptible to light deficiencies, some to low temperature, and still others to wide variance in daily temperature.

The studies also are revealing information affecting the breeding quality, growth habits, and insect-disease relations to plants, particularly forage crops.

Fumigation Program Against Khapra Beetle

A grain-storage-building fumigation program that the U. S. Department of Agriculture believes is the largest of its type ever undertaken is now underway against the Khapra beetle in California, Arizona and New Mexico. In this unique program, entire buildings—not just their contents—are sealed over, so the fumigant will reach every crevice that might conceal the cranny-seeking beetle.

Fifteen large California grain warehouses were fumigated with methyl-bromide gas in an all-out effort to eradicate this recently introduced, stored-grain pest, first discovered in this country in 1953. State pest control agencies, property owners, chemical companies and pest control firms, USDA's Agriculture Research pest-control personnel and Agricultural Marketing Service research entomologists are cooperating in the work.

The beetle was eradicated from an infested California warehouse in an experiment last January. This and other tests have shown the effectiveness of the only practical method yet developed for eliminating this hard-to-kill insect from infested buildings. More than a million cubic feet of storage were wrapped in a gas-tight cover of sealed tarpaulins and given 2½ times the methyl-bromide dosage and 12 times the exposure duration normally required to kill exposed Khapra beetles.

Prevent Scum

It's always annoying to return to a paint job and find that paint scum has formed. Scum will not form in a closed can if you cover the paint surface with a disc of aluminum foil before storing it away. Set can over aluminum foil and scribe around it to cut disc to proper size. Push foil disc into can and down to paint level. Later, simply pinch and lift off foil, stir paint and begin painting immediately.

REUNION

The 11th Harner-Trostle reunion was held Aug. 5, 1956 in the Parish Hall of St. Paul's Lutheran church, Harney, due to the inclement weather. It was to have been held in Taneytown Memorial Park.

After the meal the meeting was opened with group singing, "Faith of Our Fathers." The scripture was read by Mr. Donald Harner followed with prayer by Mr. Geary Bowers. The minutes were read and approved followed by treasurer's report.

Mr. John H. Harner gave several remarks about the history of the clan. The program consisted of a solo by Pat Worley; recitation "If I Could Sing" and a solo, "Twinkle Little Star" by Steven Harner; song, "Follow the Leader" by group Linda, Darla, Jane, Barbara and Dennis Harner.

The following officers were elected for 1957: Pres., Mr. Donald Harner; Vice-Pres., Mr. Ray Harner; Sec., Mrs. Horace D. Worley; Treas., Mrs. Arlene Moser; Historian, Mr. Harry J. Harner.

A GARDEN AND POTTERY EXHIBIT

The Historical Society of Carroll County invites the public to attend a Garden Party and Pottery exhibit to be held at the Home of the Society on Thursday afternoon August 16, from 2:00 until 5:00 o'clock.

Miss Eugenia C. Holland, curator of the Maryland Historical Society, will identify pottery which members and friends are invited to bring with them just for the afternoon.

Between 1822 and 1832, according to the diary of Katherine Jones Shellman, George Trumbo and his son were potters in Westminster. They lived on the North side of Main St., just beyond the Manchester road. The Historical Society of Carroll County would like to exhibit any specimens of his work which may be available. Miss Clara Brining of Taneytown will exhibit a little crock which was made by Samuel Crouse of Taneytown in 1865 and presented to Miss Brining's mother when she was a little girl visiting his shop. Believing that other potters must have plied their trade in Carroll County in the early days, the Historical Society asks for information concerning them as well as for specimens of their work which may be exhibited. Be sure that the name of the exhibitor as well as that of the potter is firmly attached to each item, in case the name of the potter is known, in case an approximate date is known, it should be added.

The hostesses are Mrs. Milson Raver, Finksburg; Mrs. Robert Showers and Mrs. Justus Denner, Manchester; Mrs. Bernard L. Sieverts, Hampstead; Mrs. Edwin A. Englar, Miss Margaret Snader, New Windsor; Mrs. M. H. Rakestraw, Union Bridge; Miss Sue Billingslea, Miss Madeline Geiman and Mrs. Norman Hunter, Westminster.

A FAMILY PICNIC

On July 29 a family picnic was enjoyed at Caledonia State Park by the following persons: Mrs. Mary Lookingbill, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Weant of York, Pa. Mr. and Mrs. Wade Weant and Evone of Union Mills; Mrs. Alice Weant of Harney, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Weant, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Weant, Mr. and Mrs. Scott Weant, Linda and Tommy Weant, Sirrell Weant, and Joyce Rowe, of Deerfield; Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Wivell and Miss Cora Mae Six, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Rhodes, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Glass, Richard Marvin and Michael Glass and Jimmy Martin, all of Emmitsburg, Maryland.

Swimming, pitching, horseshoes and softball was played by all after a picnic lunch. It was decided to have picnic at the same place on the last Sunday of July next year.

PCWYF

Walter Plank opened the meeting with the reading of the Scripture. He then explained it. The business meeting was opened by Vice-President Weant. The reading of the minutes and treasurer report followed. We decided to go on our trip to Gwynn Oak Park, August 17, at 7 p. m. with our guest. The meeting was then adjourned.

There's a couple from my hometown who married early so's they could have young babies. Who wants OLD babies?"—Herb Shriner.
