CARROLL

Will Be Held in Westminster July 17th and 18th

The Carroll County 4-H Fair date is drawing nearer—so make your plans to attend the activities on July 17 and 18 at the Carrell County Agricultural Center.

The special events which will highlight the Fair are the judging of boys and girls exhibits, the square dance on Wednesday evening and the Style Revue and Farm Queen Contest on Thursday evening.

All 4-H'ers are invited to attend

All 4-H'ers are invited to attend the square dance which will be held on the show ring at 9 p. m. This is always a very gala affair with dancing under lights.

The main building where the girls exhibits are located will be transformed Thursday evening to a lovely setting for the 4-H Style Revue and Farm Queen Contest. In case of rain these two activities will be held at the Westminster High School Auditorium. Westminster High School Auditorium. The theme of the Style is the "4-H Bank of Fashion." This is a very big moment for many 4-H'ers who model the garments they have made during the year before an expected audience of 500. Immediately following the Style Revue—the Farm Bureau will present the girls who are competing for the title of Carroll County Farm queen. The winner will be decided upon that evening.

The 4-H Fair marks another milestone of 4-H work in our county, if you know anything about 4-H Club Work, you won't want to miss it; and if you aren't acquainted with this fine program for myell work, were

A smile that shall last until the next day's daysing

Last week, Your Observer sat in the Polytechnic Institute with approximately 1,500 youths who were on probation for the first semi-annual teenage traffic safety course. This the first of its kind in the country! The Mayor was there of Baltimore, Judges and Director of probation and safety education and Paul E. Burke, executive director of the Maryland Traffic Safety Commission. I wanted to hear about those teen-agers just for this

As I looked around, I observed much as I realized then and there that many "toughies" were seated right there. In fact, I thought I was in a different country! At least, a very refined young man sat alone in the renned young man sat alone in the seat in front of me and there was time to interview him. I asked him his age, "Just Seventeen", "What made you sit right here this evening?" I questioned. "Would you mind telling me?" "No, I do not mind in the least. I drove through a "STOP" sign and a Policeman caught up with me. The fellow in front stuck out his The fellow in front stuck out his hand & motioned for me to go around him which I did and then right through that sign!" "Well, that was too bad and now you know not to do as the dirver tell you but to obey our city traffic signs!" "Yes, that's right but it has meant that my license has been suspended for six monhs and I am on probation!"

That young man has learned his lesson, I can assure you but I learned as the evening went on most of those teen-agers were SPEEDERS! Talks were given from the stage on "SAFE-TY" driving and also moving picture slides showing the many deaths of individuals immediately afte rthe crit-ical accidents also from "DRUNKEN"

Just to think 1,500 youths in so short a time! There were very few girls. Who says our POLICEMEN are not on their toes?

And this in the Sunday morning paper—Driver, 15 years old—ordered to visit victim in Hospital one hour each day due to the SPEED causing a 39 year old woman, Mrs. Myrtle Goodface to lose her leg!

Goodface to lose her leg!

No doubt, many of my Readers who are "Wrestling Fans" heard the news by Bailey Goss on T.V. that Rocca was ill in the hospital in Washington, D. C. with Pneumonia. Now, I am wondering if he will be right there this coming Tuesday (which I doubt) although hit is scheduled for a Bout. Can't see how that could be possible. Eh? The very finest class of people admire this Wrestler from Argentina!

Never did I realize how very much the city people enjoy getting away to the country to a bathing resort as I did not the 4th of July. Hollaway Beach is such a resort and many come from Lancaster to enjoy it all and there were a great many Mennonites. As

"GRASS ROOTS OPINION"

LIBERAL, KANSAS, SOUTH-WEST DAILY TIMES: "Vice-President Nixon believes that last year's uprisings in Poland and Hungary were the beginning of the end of the Communist empire. Would that he is right."

SAC CITY, IOWA, SUN: "We talk about federal aid and we seem to believe that the government can hand out grants without reservation, to any group that requests it. We seem to fail to realize that before the government can provide aid to the hundreds and hundreds of groups who are asking for it, that the money must be forthcoming from someone, and that someone is Mr. Average Taxpayer."

PORT HURON, MICH., TIMES-HERALD: "Every year, tons and tons of government documents which have no value as news, public information or in any other way come into newspaper offices all over the Nationand most of it is thrown into the wastebasket after it has been scanned by the addressee.

"It must cost the Post Office Department millions of dollars to carry this torrent of useless mail matter over the Nation."

MILLER, S. D., PRESS: "Peddlers . . . don't have a thing to sell that you can't buy from a reliable merchant, who stands behind every product he sells, and if you aren't satisfied, you at least know where to direct your complaint."

LONDON, O., PRESS: "More and more is being heard about the field of 'public relations.' Put simply, public relations is just good-will on a business hasis. Most everyone knows that good-will is perhaps the most important asset in any business."

SANTA PAULA, CALIF., DAILY CHRONICLE: "If the trend since 1929 were to continue for another 50 years, about 99% of our economy would be socialized and only one person out of 100 would be privately employed. We now spend one-third of our working days each year working for the government. We are one-third socialized.'

ANCHORAGE, ALASKA, DAILY NEWS: "Who will be next? Whose life must ebb away because of this high speed nonsense? Fifty miles an hour will get you there-alive! You can save time—to the graveyard—at 60, 70, or 90."

HEBBRONVILLE, TEXAS, EN-TERPRISE: "Every industrialist in the United States-in fact, every employer-should hear this: '

if Thomas A. Edison and the Wright brothers were twenty years old today, they would have great difficulty in finding technical positions worthy of their talents.'

"This is the view of Carl G. Sontheimer, an execuptive of a leading electronic research and development laboratory who believes that much of the country's inventive talent is being wasted, ignored and over looked through the frantic efforts of industrialists to latch onto college-trained engineers-regardless of their creative abilities."

SCRANTON, IOWA, JOURNAL: "Democrat Thurman made the telling point that the USA had nowhere to get the dough for building schoo! houses but from the States-and he wasn't proved wrong when he said 40% of the collection would rub off in Washington and never get into brick and mortar."

JEFFERSONTOWN, KY., JEF-FERSONIAN: "The 400 independent light and power companies in the United States supply about 80 per cent o f all the electric customers, and seem to be doing a reasonably good job.

"With only 6 per cent of the world's population, our country is now using 41 per cent of the world's electric power."

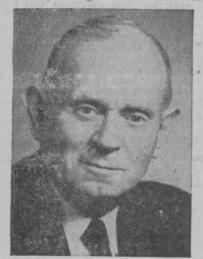

"And what do these 400 privately owned companies contribute annually to the support of government? Almost 24 cents in taxes out of each dollar in revenue. Last year their total tax bill was $1,790,000,000. Government power projects, by contrast, pay little or nothing in taxes."

During his career, he has ris-en through the Kiwanis ranks, holding the positions of club secretary, club president, as lieutenant governor and governor of the California-Nevada Hawaii District of Kiwanis International, and as chairman and member of a number of Kiwanis district com-mittees. He also has served as a member and as chairman of numerous committees of Kiwanis International. Prior to his election to the treasurer post, Arnold served two 2-year terms as a trustee of the international service organization.

Attendance at the Atlantic City convention—Kiwanis' 42nd — numbered approximately 15,000 to make the convention the organization's largest. In addition to naming Arnold president, the delegates chose two vice-presidents, a treasurer, and six international trustees. They are: Kenneth B. Loheed, Toronto, Onatrio and Everett F. Penshorn, Jamaica Plain, Massachus-etts, vice-presidents; Albert J. Tully, Mobile, Alabama, treasurer; Harold O. Danner, Cincinnati, Ohio, Ben H. Hazen, Portland, Oregon, Donald I. Cooler Cows Give More, Tests Show

Dairy cows give more milk when they are housed in cool barns, according to tests conducted at the University of Mis-

The tests showed that a temperature of 45 to 50 degrees is ideal for high milk production Holsteins averaged just under 50 pounds of milk daily at 50 degrees. Production dropped to less than 49 pounds at 60 degrees and to 46.5 pounds at 70 degrees. Agricultural authorities consequently urge farmers who want to boost dairy production to: 1. Adjust the breeding cycle of the herd so that most of the cows are dry during the hottest sum-

2. Insulate dairy parns so that they'll be cool in summer and so that proper temperatures for production will be maintained in the barns in winter.

3. Make sure barns are adequately ventilated to permit summer heat to escape.

4. Use light roofing colors to reflect radiant heat from the Barns can be kept cooler during the summer with thick mineral wool in walls and ce The insulation acts as a barrier to heat, helping the barn main-tain the coolness of the previous night by blocking entry of day-time heat. In winter, the mineral wool keeps the animals' body heat inside the barn, making it possible to maintain proper temperatures for milk production. In extremely cold climates, additional heating is ad-

To reflect the heat of the summer sun, many farmers have re-roofed their farm buildings with asphalt shingles in one of the many light colors available. The roofing is durable, can be applied to resist high winds, and the color brightens the entire farmstead.

A barn, like a house, should have a pitched roof with an open attic space so that air can circulate freely and heat can be expelled through louvers in the gable ends.

DON'T BUY ANY CAR BEFORE YOU DRIVE A CHEVY . . . ITS BEST SHOWROOM IS THE ROAD.

in motion-Chevrolet Bel Air Sport Sedan with Body by Fisher.

Here's why Chevy's best showroom is the road!

Because Chevrolet's sleek good looks, its advanced features, are only part of the story. The big bonus is its remarkable roadability, the crisp precision handling that has posted an entirely new standard for cars in every price class. There are reasons for this, of course: Chevrolet's balanced weight distribution that takes excessive loads off the front wheels, the wide stance of outrigger rear springs, Ball-Race steering, spherical-joint front suspension. Sure, you can admire the sculptured lines in the showroom. But Chevy's a car specifically designed for beautiful motion—you have to travel in this one to know just how terrific it is. Try it, this week!

FEESERSBURG (A Voice from Carroll)

All our lives we hear about some people's "good luck" and other peo-ple's "bad luck" but is there such a thing as good or bad luck? Who can say when luck is good or bad for they are so closely interwoven. An old man was living with his son at a run down farm on the top of a hill and one day he lost a horse. The neighbors came to express their sympathy for this misfortune, and the old man asked, "How do you know this is bad luck?" A few days later his horse returned with a number of wild horses, and his neighbors came again to congratulate him on the stroke of fortune, and the old man replied, 'How do you know this is good luck?' With so many horses around, his son began to take to riding, and one day he broke his leg. Again the neighbor came around to express their sympathy, and the old man replied, "How do you know this is bad luck?" The next year there was a war, and because the old man's son was crippled, he did not have to go to war. This is an old chinese tale but it truly emphasizes the fact that often what appears to be good or bad luck turns out to be the opposite. This kind of philosophy is what causes a person to endure the unkind blows that fate deals out to all individuals.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bohn, Union Bridge have issued invitations to the wedding of their daughter, Patsy Lee and Lt. Lee Theodore Hannah which will take place July 27th in the Mt. Union Lutheran Church near Union Bridge. A reception will be held in the church parish hall immediately following the ceremony. Miss Bohn is a graduate of the Elmer Wolfe school and the Frostburg Teachers College. For the past two years she has taught school in the Elementary grades at the Union Bridge school.

Every week or so we receive a letter from Senator Butler as most Maryland voters do. We take the time to read them because we are interested in what our Senator is thinking. Seldom do we agree with the reasoning of Mr. Butler but two weeks ago he wrote on the subject of Federal Aid to education and he made one point which is worth repeating and it is this: "Teachers and officials are a little too much interested in the buildings the children are taught in and not enough in what they are taught." We believe that buildings are important though of course not as important as good teachers, but it must occur to Mr. Butler that to obtain good teachers they must be assured a living scale of salaries and working places befitting a dignified profession. And our Senator must become realistic and face the truth that Federal aid to schools is not the big bad wolf that State righters like to picture it. Come, now Senator be truthful. Would Federal aid play as much political football with our school system as State aid does now?

The annual covered dish supper of the Mt. Union Lutheran Missionary Society will be held in the church parish house Monday, July 15, at 7 . m. All members and their families and members of the Sunday School are invited to attend. The only requirement is to bring along a fav orite covered dish. We have never seen corn fields look so green and beautiful as they do this year. Driving through Maryland and Pennsylvania it looks like the farmers have ignored Mr. Benson plea for less corn and planted all they pleased. It is a beautiful growing crop but it plays havic with soil and does cause serious soil erosion.

It is hard to believe that just 40 miles from Washington, D. C. there is a small community that lives by a code set down in the 16th century. The members still drive to church in horse and buggy, they have neither radio or television and they see that their children do not have free use of comic books. The only reason the children are sent to school is because it is the law and the school is because it is the law and they believe in obedi-ence to the law. This group that spurns all frivolry is known as Mennonites. They are also known as "people of the soil." They do not believe in insurance. If one member loses a barn by lightning or for any other reason the other members build it back again. They live by the rule "Bear ye one another's burdens." In the settlement near Washington there are no "old maids or bachelors." The girls "come out" at 16 and are married at 18. There are no divorces or separations. The community lives to itself and seems to thrive on its own simple laws and ways of living. How long this can last is hard to predict, for already the automobile is causing some friction. Some say they can no longer classify a car as a luxury, since it is a necessity in the 20th century. How long the group can de-prive their children of T.V. is another question for children are the same all over the world-filled with a natural curiosity. Once they are exposed to T.V. their small world will cease to interest them or hold them. A secure life is not always what some people want but it seems to be the main attraction for the Mennonites.

We wonder how parents feel about the question of their teenage son and daughters going steady. Do you think its a good or bad thing? We know all parents must face this problem sooner or later. It would be nice to hear from you on the subject and we will put the most interesting letter in this column. It is a topci often written about in magazines, but it wasn't till lately that we learned it has serious or rather unhappy aftermaths. Some people say its part of growing up while others contend its a trend of the times. No matter what has caused this "going steady" business parents have to live through it along with the teenagers and we would like to know how it is handled by other par-

Pat Rosencrantz recently wrote in the Frederick News an interesting article on Dr. Thomas Legg, of Union Bridge. We hope our kind editor of the Pilot will publish the article so that the citizens of Dr. Legg's home to read it. own will have a chance to read it. The Carroll Record printed it last week. I am sure a book could be written on Dr. Legg's experiences in his 49 years of service and a very interesting book too. He should be persuaded to write his memoirs.

"No matter how great a man is the size of his funeral depends upon the weather." A quotation from a clipping in Dr. Legg's office.—Ruth Roelke.

Corn King Was Also 1947 Winner Credits Fertilizer, Soil Management

Walter J. Harpel, a Crawfords-ville, Indiana hybrid seed grower who won the Corn King championship of North America for the second time at the International Grain and Hay Show in Chicago, says good soil management, good seed and plenty of fertilizer helped bring him victory. He won the title before in 1947.

The championship corn came from a 150-acre leased field adjoining Harpel's 300 acre farm in Montgomery County, Indiana. The land was in a soil-building legumegrass crop last year. It was plowed

The soil has had a steady input of plant food based on soil tests and recommendations by Purdue University agronomists. It regularly receives a plow-down application of 500 to 600 pounds per acre of a mixed fertilizer containing nitrogen, phosphate and potash, such as 4-16-16.

Last spring, Harpel added 200 pounds of 4-16-16 in the row at corn planting time.

Harpel's winning 10-ear exhibit was Indiana Certified 844-D, a hybrid strain developed at Purdue University. The corn yielded better than 100 bushels per acre. One 5-acre plot checked out at 150 bushels per acre.

The value of the soil's high organic matter supply, good structure and drainage was demonstrated during the 1956 growing season. Heavy spring rains—12 inches in one 10-day period in May—might have threatened disaster to many a corn crop. But the soil soaked up the moisture and retained much of it for the corn crop's use during the dry summer months.

Save Foodstuff If Power Failure Hits

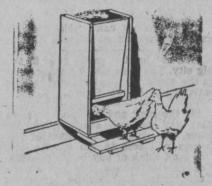

There is seldom any real need to lose your freezer full of meats, pies, ice cream, and vegetables when your electrical power is cut off for one reason or another.

Most frozen food lost during power failures is a victim of curiosity. People just have to open the door to see whether the food is spoiling—and every time they open the door of a freezer they actually help spoil the food. That's because the temperature within the freezer rises at least four degrees on every door-opening.

If you keep the door shut during a power failure, your food will be safe for up to 48 hours, depending on the insulation and the amount of food it contains.

And you don't have to open the freezer door to know the temperature inside. A remote-reading freezer thermometer can tell you this. This thermometer is attached to the outside of the freezer while the temperature bulb is inside. It's a handy gadget for every freezer

AMERICA-ANOTHER 4th OF JULY POEM -(Part 3)

What a fairyland, they tell us, America shall be When the time arrives for earth's great jubilee! Half of the people on earth, then, shall be here; So, God's reason, for keeping it hid, shall be clear.

At the rate we are growing, the papers say
One billion people shall be here on that day;
So, an object lesson, for all, it shall be
When earth celebrates her great jubilee.

For, as America is, God intends, the whole earth shall be; He wants all of His sons to be happy and free; So the warlords must find other things to do, When God has made this old earth new.

"The whole earth shall be full of the glory of God"
When man learns to dispense with the iron rod;
And, a land of "milk and honey", this shall be
At the very dawn of Earth's great jubilee.

So, a great responsibility rests on us, they say; For, God sends us here to do things His way; What He did, people say, in our golden west, Shows what shall happen to all the rest.

At the very beginning, our history books say, God sent men here to do things His way; They all were men who had lived before— Washington, "Abe" Lincoln, and many more.

God did not make this earth a prison to be—
He made it to be a home for His great family;
And, right here, with us, He shall always be Both now, and through all Eternity.

He once said of the people; "They forgot I was there." When, with some of His Sons, men failed to act fair; Justice, is His motto,, wherever men roam; So, He wants it to be the motto in every home.

That our God is like us, we shall some day know
When we learn to know Him and learn how to go
When He said; "Let us make man in our image he meant all
Who make their home on this great round ball.

God is not a will-o-the-whisp floating on air;
He is real; and, and His physical body is seen everywhere
He now lives in you and He lives in me; And, just so it shall be through all Eternity.

"God declares to man what is his thought," All our inventions by Him are wrought; So, the right thing to do is for every man To learn to know Him and to follow His plan.

He sent Jesus to earth to tell us how to do; For, through us, He is making all things new; This earth He intends our Paradise home shall be At the end of Time, and through all Eternity.

Like Jesus, God wants all of His Sons to be When we celebrate Earth's great jubilee; The lion and the lamb shall together feed; And, no longer kill, because of greed.

In the ages to come plenty shall everywhere abound Both in the air and on the ground; Love shall be the password here below And men shall use it evry place they go Through the atom, it is said, God has planned To spread abundance over all the land; So, the corn-fields like forests shall seem to be; When earth begins her great jubilee.

I have written much about God-how He shall do When He has made this old Earth new;
But, the Bible says, "The half has not been told"
About Earth, and its beautiful streets of gold.

The things God did before He created mortal man Also tell about Him as well as His plan; Such preparation was never known to be As God has made for His great family.

"The heavens declare the glory of God";
And, the Preachers tell it, to all on this sod;
But, what He did before He even created man,
Proves to me that love was back of His plan.

So, learn to know God; and, do things His way— That is our mission here, they all say; So, if you follow Jesus, and study God's plan You, too, shall become a model man.

As it was in the days of Noah, so it is to-day-"Things shall always be the same", some say; But, the time of the end is coming this way; So, prepare to enter the Thousand year Day.

To Give Advice

Lesson for July 14, 1957

TO GIVE advice is easy; to give advice that people will take is not so easy. To give advice that people will be glad they took, is hardest of all. Besides, some people are harder customers for advice than other people. Old people sometimes are more stubborn than young ones; & successful people may not listen so readily to criticism as will those who have failed: and members of one's own family may pay less attention than anybody

Old Man Jethro

There is a story in the Old Testament of a very old man who gave advice to another man who was younger than he, but still an old man too. The younger man had been tremendously successful, much more so than his father-inlaw had ever been. Yet it was the father-in-law who gave the advice. His name was Jethro and he lived about as far off all the beaten tracks as a man could go. When the young Moses had fled from a murder charge, naturally he had gone as far from civilization as he could; and there he came across Jethro, priest and stock-raiser. Moses had married one of his daughters, a somewhat stupid girl, no match for the brilliant Moses. Now, forty-odd years later, with all the glory of the great escape from Egypt fresh upon him, Moses had brought his grumbling people (most ungrateful for their freedom!) out to this same remote region to get organized for their march to Canaan. All day long old Jethro watched his son-in-law, sitting in the midst of a swarming crowd, all talking at once, no doubt, asking questions, demanding attention, complaining of grievances, accusing their neighbors, wanting Moses to settle all their quarrels. It was too much for any man, even a Moses. Old Jethro gave him a simple piece of advice: Set up a graded system of judges. Don't try all the cases yourself, only the hard ones. So Moses took the advice . . . and it worked so well that, forty years or so later, Moses seems to have believed that he himself had thought of the bright idea first.

Character

Why did Moses take the advice of Jethro so quickly? Of course the main reason, no doubt, was that having lived with Jethro for nearly forty years, Moses had listened to the old man before and knew he did not talk nonsense. But what was it that made Jethro worth listening to? To put it into terms of our own problems: What do I need, to get my own advice taken by other people? How can I learn to give advice that people will follow and like? The first thing needed, in order to give advice wisely, is character. Jethro was a man of God. Possibly his idea of God was not up to the Christian standard, perhaps not even up to that of Moses. But the God he knew, he revered and served. Then he was not only religious, he was practical. He knew what would work and what would not. A man of deep faith and conviction, who is also solidly practical, is the best kind of counselor, and people know it.

Acquaintance

Another thing: Jethro and Moses had lived side by side for forty years. Jethro knew Moses like a book, he knew his ability and his limitations. Advice is not best given by total strangers. Sometimes people in trouble will appeal to complete strangers for advice, but that is only because they don't like to tell some local man (or woman) the whole truth. In giving advice, the counselor needs to know as much as possible about the whole background of the person he is advising.

Concern

More than acquaintance is needed, to be a welcomed adviser. The aged Jethro could see that Moses was wearing down, under the impossible burdens he was trying to carry. If Jethro had not cared, he would hardly have offered advice. But he did care; and Moses knew it. Advice is not best when served cold. A good counselor advises from the heart not less than from the head. With the head, one can analyze a situation; but only with the heart can the adviser put himself in the place of the one he helps. (Based on or Trans copyrighted by the Division of Christian Education, National Council of the Churches of Christ in the U.S. A. Released by Community Press Service.) WOMAN'S WORLD

When Hair Is Dry, Or Lacks Sheen, Use Oil Treatment

SOAP and water are as beneficial to hair as to the skin. The treatment is one of the best prescriptions for hair beauty, particularly on a summer when you've been out driving a lot or spending a lot of time sunning in the sand.

Do work yourself into a good lather, whenever, and as often as your hair lacks sheen. Good sudsing removes dulling film, stirs circulation and puts new life in that permanent you got when the season was just beginning.

Empire elegance shows in this hair style with its soft, upward sweeping lines. Flirty forehead wisps and a rolled bun spell feminine flattery as well as coolness during hot days when you wear the hair in this fashion.

If the locks are sun or winddried, it's a good idea to precede the shampoo with a hot oil session. There's a real beauty bonus in this double treatment of oil plus

Tricks with Oil

It's easy to heat oil to use on hair and scalp if you pour it into a small glass custard cup. A good baby oil is fine for use. Place the custard cup into a strainer and lower it into a pan of water so about an inch of the strainer is actually in water. This way, it's simple to get out with no danger of scorched fingers.

To apply the oil, use convenient cotton balls which will hold the oil beautifully, getting it right into the scalp to do its good work. As each ball becomes soiled, take a fresh one and apply the oil along inch wide parts in the hair.

After the scalp has been covered, take a minute or two for vigorous massage pressing the thumb and fingers firmly to the scalp, rotating until the scalp seems to tingle.

Apply Hot Towel Steaming the oil into the scalp after massage will do a great deal for conditioning and softening dry hair. This is done with a hot towel and works quite well if you utilize the hot water faucet as a wringer. Simply soak the towel in steaming water, grasping each end, keeping them dry. Twist the towel around the faucet and keep turning until the wet portion wrings itself dripfree. This will keep from getting the hands hot.

Here's How You Can Keep Cool

When murderously hot weather becomes the main topic of conversation, don't rush into a cool shower to cool off. The shower will cool you only momentarily and in a few minutes you'll be just as warm as before.

More lasting cool and comfort is achieved by a warm bath or shower, and none of it should be done hurriedly. While cooling off bodily, use the opportunity to soothe your heat-jangled nerves at the same time.

Proper Bathing

A tepid bath is the best prescription for comfort. A bath, too warm, obviously will heat you and the too cool one will make the temperature at which you bathe too dissimilar to the one into which you will step out.

The whole process should be a bit on the time-consuming side, too. Add a few drops of pine bath oil to the tub you draw, if you're a man, Many women will prefer floral scented bath crystals. The fragrance has a psychological effect which can't be put aside too

Lie perfectly motionless in the tub, getting an enjoyable soaking. When you do start using soap and washcloth, use gentle, large sweeping washing motions rather than the brisk scrubbing variety you employ during winter. When you get out, pat yourself dry rather than rubbing, massaging or wiping. You don't want to stimulate circulation as this makes you feel warm. Dust with talcum powder and dress slowly if it's a daytime bath. Cool, cotton nightwear is prescribed if the bath is during bedtime.

Who Says Farming Only Man's Work? Successful Ohio Farm Indicates Otherwise

Notwithstanding the fact that mechanization has taken much of the back-breaking toil out of the business of farming, there are still many who firmly contend that you can't run a successful farm without a broad-shouldered man around the place.

Folks around Delaware, Ohio might argue this point, and justly so. Miss Hazel Clark, 5' 4" and 115 pounds, has (since the death of her father five years ago) carried out an entire farming operation on a 143-acre farm in Delaware and Morrow Counties.

Miss Clark lives on the farm

The Clark farm in Ohio is doing very nicely, thank you, without any men about the place. Hazel Clark stops working to accept lunch being offered by her mother.

with her widowed mother, Mrs. W. S. Clark and Hazel does all the work there is to do around the place. She saws her own wood, does her own combining, corn picking and hay baling. She likes to keep the farm looking neat and prosperous, so she mows weeds and fence rows with a scythe. She uses a Caterpillar Diesel D-2 tractor to pull a four-bottom plow and uses the same D-2 with dozer for removing small trees and for grubbing stones out of fields.

Miss Clark has built and repaired fences as well as taking care of all other outside work. She does housework, too, and makes her own clothes. She has been managing the farm since the death of her father. In addition to her mother, the family includes one brother who is in military service and plans to stay until retirement

Coccidiosis Is Often Difficult to Spot

Intestinal coccidiosis sneaks up like a thief in the dark and it takes a sharp poultryman to spot it in his flock, note Michigan State University extension poultrymen.

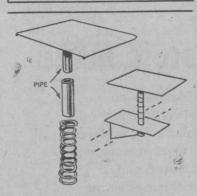

The disease commonly strikes between seven and 16 weeks of age, but poultrymen are seeing more of it at advanced ages, up to the time chickens come into production. It does not have many of the symptoms of cecal coccidiosis. There is usually some diarrhea and many pale birds may huddle in small groups around the house.

The symptoms are not striking, and the only way that the disease is spotted in many cases is when the healthy birds become noticeably larger than infected ones.

The coccidia are difficult to destroy with disinfectants, but the first method of control should be thorough cleaning, disinfection and sanitation, the poultry specialists

Most of the preventive medications that control the cecal type will aid in holding back the intestinal type of coccidiosis, but some are less effective. Treatment with sulfa drugs is recommended, and all moist and caked litter should be removed.

Tractor Seat

Spring - cushion tractor seat consists of suitable metal seat welded to a piece of pipe which telescopes into a second piece of pipe, the latter being welded to a plate for attaching to the tractor frame. Large coil spring is slipped over the pipe assembly to hold the seat a few inches above the lower pipe. In this way, weight of the drivers is carried on the spring, the second piece of pipe serving only to keep the seat in position.

Corn Prince From Family of Winners Grandfather, Father Took Corn Titles

Winning corn growing championships is an old tradition in the family of David Lux, 18, of Shelbyville, Indiana, who was crowned Corn Prince at the recent International Grain and Hay Show in Chicago.

David's grandfather, Peter J. Lux, started it all back in the 1920's when he won the Corn King title four times. David's father, Maurice was Corn Prince twice and his uncle Frank, also a former Corn Prince, was named reserve grand champion corn grower at the 1956 International show.

The Lux family attribute their corn growing success to the careful seed selection, good management and soil fertility program established by Peter J. Lux.

Corn growing championships are a tradition in the family of 18-year-old David Lux, new Corn Prince.

This year, David's prize winning corn was grown on a 5-acre field he had entered in the 1956 Indiana 5-acre corn growing contest. The seed was an Indiana Certified Hybrid, No. 844-D.

Altogether, the Luxes had 115 acres in hybrid seed corn last season on the family's 400-acre farm in Shelby County, Indiana. On most fields, the yields averaged better than 120 bushels per acre.

Last season, the fertility program included 400 pounds per acre of 4-16-16 plowed down before corn planting, plus 200 pounds added in the row at planting. In addition, 45 pounds per acre of 80 per cent nitrogen fertilizer was applied for the corn crop.

Creep Feeding Can Increase Profits

Creep feeding pigs will increase farmers' profits, says S. W. Terrill, head of the swine division at the University of Illinois College of Agriculture.

Using good starter rations in a creep encourages pigs to start eating earlier and thus gain faster. This produces heavier pigs at weaning and the heaviest pigs at weaning usually gain fastest at the lowest cost after weaning. Terrill says pigs will start eating within the first two weeks after farrowing, if they have a palatable ration. Pigs have a "sweet tooth" so sugar increases the palatability of the starter ration. Hulled oats or oat groats is a favorite of baby pigs too, and they like pelleted feed better than meal.

Many commercial feed manufacturers are following the University recommendations and including sugar and hulled or rolled oats in pelleted pig starter rations. These add to the cost of the feed, Terrill admits, but he says expense is not a big factor in the starter ration since pigs eat a relatively small amount of this feed.

When pigs are 4 to 6 weeks old, farmers can gradually switch to regular pig starter containing more corn. This will be a lower-cost feed and pigs can stay on it until they weigh 35-40 pounds.

Butter Churn

Plywood sheet can be used to convert washing machine into a butter churn. Cut a triangular hole in center of plywood so that it fits tightly over the agitator of the washer. Four separate compartments on the plywood base hold quart-size fruit jars. Fill jars only half full of cream and be sure lids are fashioned tightly before turning on the washer.

monia, and somehow his cough just didn't seem to get any better.

It was the next day that Susie got an idea. She read an advertisement in the afternoon paper of a small farm for sale very reasonably. Susie knew right at once that this was the very place for Johnny and herself.

They had a small savings account, enough for the down payment. Without any fear at all, Susie sent it to the owner of the farm and received a quick reply with a receipt for the money.

Susie hoped so much that Johnny would believe as she did, that this was the very place for him.

Johnny looked tired when she went in the kitchenette where he was working on one of his inventions. People sometimes insisted that Johnny was only a dreamer, but nothing could ever convince Susie that he wasn't a real genius.

She had brought him a glass of milk with an egg beaten in it. When he drank it, she said, "Darling, we-we've got ourselves a in any time. All they had to do was to pack up and catch a bus. Johnny looked worried. He explained that he could get odd jobs in the city but there weren't any in the country and it took money to run a farm. "It'll be all right, Johnny. It was meant for us to go." Susie's voice was warm with confidence. They caught a bus for the country the next day. The house was small. There was enough furniture and a tool house. A little stream danced by and Susie danced around in sheer delight.

"Isn't it wonderful, Johnny? Wonderful."

He nodded, but said there were many problems to be met. "Just have Faith, Johnny," Susie told him happily. After they'd been there several days, they had callers. An elderly jolly looking man and his wife who said they wanted to get acquainted. "We're the Jamisons and we're neighbors, you know," the sweetfaced woman told Susie.

They went to the tool shed, where Johnny was working, and the man stared at his gadgets with interest. "You know I putter around with contraptions myself, and by golly, it looks to me as if you got something in some of these things." He was looking at one of them particularly, which Johnny said was a new idea in the suction principle and he thought it might be an improvement on the milking ma-
