FORCED LABOR IN THE U. S.

General Douglas MacArthur warns that if the government's "lust for taxes" is not curbed this country may be taxed into socialistic slavery.

He cited the fact that in 70 years the average per capita tax rate has risen from $1.98 to $444.86 more than 200 times. He added: "The government takes in taxes over a third of the income of the average citizen each year. That means that he or she is required to work entirely for the government from January 1 until May 10. This begins to resemble the Soviet forced labor system.

There are more ways to enslave a people than by bloody revolution and the violent seizure of power by dictators. Confiscatory taxation is one of those ways.

AN APPROACH THAT MAKES SENSE

There is at least one approach to the farm surplus problem "that makes sense"—and it is found in the concept of an expanding animal agriculture.

This view comes from an officer of American Meat Institute. He points out that in animal agriculture we have a built-in formula of checks and balances that doesn't exist in many other fields of farming. To take a striking example, animal agriculture has built into it the principle which underlies the soil bank. Animals are converters of hay and grain, and remarkably efficient ones. If you have bacon and eggs for breakfast you have consumed the equivalent of four pounds of corn. If you ate the same amount of corn in the form of cornmeal mush, you'd consume two gallons—an obvious impossibility. According to the Institute spokesman, if 10 per cent of the land currently used for food and industrial crops was shifted over onto the large proportion of our land already used for livestock, the result would be a balance between agricultural production and consumption.

This is a long-range concept, and it cannot be achieved easily. Yet it looks like the logical next step in the revolution that has so greatly changed the science of agriculture in a very short space of time. The subsidy program, with its political controls, simply can't be continued forever. To quote the Institute official directly, "The farmer is entitled to the right to produce efficiently what he can sell to best advantage. I, for one, believe that the millions we pour into agriculture to maintain the social and economic status-quo is seriously interfering with the efforts of the agricultural community as a whole to adjust properly with the needs and desires of consumers. Animal agriculture will meet the challenge with increasing know-how no matter what the road blocks may be."—Industrial News Review.

FACTS AND OPINIONS

British taxes are among the heaviest in the world. And, according to Watson Sims of the Associate Press, one-third of all the taxes British citizens pay go to support the welfare state program. Where the cost of this program was $1,960,000,000 in 1947-48, it is estimated at $4,695,600,000 for 1957-58.

Fortune reports that "The appearance of a union of union organizers has caused some embarrassment among A. F. L. - C. I. O. officials." It is known as the Field Representatives Federation, and it wants recognition as a collective-bargaining agent. Officers of the big union are said to be regarding its demands with cold eyes.

Current forecasts say that the free world oil industry must spend $115 billion on exploration and development if it is to adequately meet the expected demand of the next 10 years.

Signs of the times: A computing machine that can add up to a trillion (1,000,000,000,000) has been developed. This leads the Wall Street Journal to say, "... the way things are going, if someone else had not invented a machine that can add up to a trillion sooner or later the Government would have to."

Under the apt heading, "Benevolence Unlimited", The Reporter discloses that there are well over 6,000 benevolent endowments in this country, as against only 600 a decade ago.

From an address made by Herbert Hoover in 1953: "It is a false liberalism that expresses itself by Federal operation of business in competition with the citizen. It is the road not to more liberty but to less liberty. True liberalism is found not in striving to spread bureaucracy, but in striving to set bounds to it. Liberalism is a force truly of the spirit coming from a realization that economic freedom cannot be sacrificed if political freedom is to be preserved."

An official of a major automobile manufacturing company says that the use of seat belts on all American cars would prevent 21,000 traffic fatalities a year and reduce the number of serious injuries by half.

Chairman Martin of the Federal Reserve Board recently testified before a House committee on money problems. In the course of his remarks he said: "The tight-money policy, I insist, is a misnomer. Actually, what we have been faced with in the country is loose money. It has been tight in the sense that demand has been tantamount to a California gold rush."

As of a late date, the cumulative postoffice deficit since 1945 was in excess of $5 billion.

American banks now have outstanding loans of $111,260,000,000—10 per cent more than in 1956, according to an article in The American Weekly.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Dear Editor:

We have not yet heard whether that campaign of Editor D. J. McCausland in THE FORSYTH (Mont.) INDEPENDENT is getting results up in Forsyth—but it seems to have worked pretty well in Tomah, Wis., and we expect favorable reports from other points.

You may recall that we mentioned the McCausland drive to install a shoeshiner in his town in this space on August 16th, and that he had said editorially: "In this modern day of scientific achievement, the little things of life are being overlooked." He went on to mention some of the big things that Forsyth has, only to lament, "But we ain't got no shoeshiner."

He pointed with pride to the enterprising youngsters with which his town is well supplied, and also pointed out that: "... the shoeshining industry is the only business I can think of off hand that can be launched today without an investment of several thousand dollars. And, if a fellow works for himself, he isn't likely to be bothered with labor troubles."

Editor L. W. Kenny, of THE MONITOR-HERALD, picked up our letter in Tomah, Wis. on a Monday and reports: "Tuesday afternoon, Jerry Schneider walked in to our office with his shien kit under his arm, and announced that he was ready to go to work."

"This is Jerry's first venture into the business world and there were a lot of things he didn't know about establishing himself in business. We suggested that he try the barbershops to find a location. Jerry tried one and didn't click. He came back to our office and was a bit discouraged. We gave him a talk on the ups and downs in business and told him that a fellow shouldn't expect to click on every call. We hit upon an idea and we told Jerry—'Look up Chief of Police Al Clumper—he'll find you a place to set up your shoeshine business.'"

"A half hour later, Jerry came back to our office and announced 'I'm all set up in the shoeshine business—I'm over at Shorty's Barber Shop, next door to Hoppy's Cafe.'"

"Jerry is an ambitious lad", concluded Editor Kenny, "and we hope all of our friends and enemies will patronize him when in need of a shine."

So now Tomah is fixed up, and we hope Forsyth is, too, and that a new wave of Horatio Algerism is about to sweep the country at this eleventh hour and save us from creeping socialism. As Editor McCausland said in starting this thing, "We firmly believe that every worthwhile newspaper should have a campaign of some sort." And, for a subject, he may have picked better than he knew.

Sincerely,
BOB TAYLOR.

BAKE SALLY LUNN — SWEET BREAD BELLE

Sally Lunn is a real Southern heroine; one who gives competition to Rebel Rose or Scarlet O'Hara! In fact, she's so delicious that she waltzes back and forth across the Mason Dixon Line all the time, with no questions asked. A sweet rich yeast-raised bread, it was first introduced by a lady of the same name in Bath, England during the 18th century. There the loaf is traditionally split, spread with butter and then returned to the oven for a last minute toasting. In America we bake it in a square pan and cut it into squares.

SALLY LUNN

- | | |
|-----------------------------|--|
| 1 cup milk | 1/2 cup warm, not hot, water (lukewarm for compressed yeast) |
| 1/4 cup sugar | 1 package or cake yeast, active dry or compressed |
| 2 teaspoons salt | 3 eggs, well beaten |
| 1/4 cup margarine or butter | 4 cups sifted enriched flour |

Scald milk. Stir in sugar, salt and margarine or butter. Cool to lukewarm. Measure water into a large mixing bowl (warm, not hot, water for active dry yeast; lukewarm water for compressed yeast). Sprinkle or crumble in yeast; stir until dissolved. Add lukewarm milk mixture. Stir in eggs and flour. Beat until smooth. Cover with a cloth and let rise in a warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk, about 50 minutes. Stir down and pour into a well-greased pan (8 x 11 x 2 inches). Cover and let rise in a warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk, about 45 minutes. If an extra dark crust is desired, sprinkle 1/4 cup sugar over top. Bake at 400 degrees about 30 minutes. Remove from pan and cut into squares.

Come in... we'll prove it to you!

Ford is the only fine car in the under $2000 class. No wonder it's America's favorite!

No ifs, ands or budgets about it. Ford is the lowest priced of the low-price three.* But low price is only half the story behind Ford's 30% sales gain this year. You see, Ford also gives you the finest car in its field.

It has long, low styling. And when it comes to silent, solid riding, there's nothing as smooth as the all-new "Inner Ford." Then, too, Ford offers you the Thunderbird's own V-8 or the most powerful "six" in America.

Laying Slumps

By "laying slump" we mean the gradual decline in laying that results in a few less eggs each day until the basket is only half full. It's usually due to non-specific conditions or stress factors.

My Recommendations:

When laying birds slump off, they may need extra nutrition, extra help against common nuisance-type bacteria. To help overcome laying slumps and restore good production, check general management practices and use Dr. Salsbury's Medic-Aid. You'll like the results.

Sliding Door Saves Space

Space savers are important in today's smaller, more compact homes. A useful trick of this kind is a sliding louver door between kitchen and dining room, as shown in the drawing.

By gliding smoothly out of the way, this door of ponderosa pine doesn't take up space swinging out into the room as do conventional doors. With the door closed, the louvers let air circulate, keeping the kitchen from becoming hot and stuffy.

The door can be painted or stained on each side to match colors or wood tones used in both rooms. Louver doors of ponderosa pine can be obtained from building materials dealers in many stock sizes and styles, ready to be installed.

The sliding louver door idea also is a good one for other rooms in the house, especially closets. The louvers permit circulation of air in closets, preventing mustiness. Installed between rooms, the louver doors make heating and air-conditioning systems more efficient.

CHEVROLET PICKUP CLIMBS PIKES PEAK THE HARD WAY ...OFF THE ROAD!

An off-the-road run up Pikes Peak was called impossible by people who know the mountain well. But a production Chevrolet pickup actually did it ... to prove its pulling power and ruggedness!

All the way to the top without using the road! Here the truck scales high boulder pile near the 14,110-foot summit.

Steep grade near timberline—a rugged test of power. The power and torque of Chevrolet's famous Thriftmaster 6 proved more than a match for the most difficult grades.

Miles of loose boulders and thinning air offer extreme challenge. Yet the big Chevy engine never faltered; it performed flawlessly mile after mile, all the way up the mountain!

Final effort achieves summit! Pickup conquers Pikes Peak ... shows why Chevrolet trucks are famous for staying and saving on tough jobs! Talk trucks with your Chevrolet dealer.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

International Uniform Sunday School Lessons

BY DR. KENNETH J. FOREMAN

Background Scripture: Daniel 1-6.
Devotional Reading: I Peter 5:6-11.

Daring Daniel

Lesson for September 22, 1957

"DARE to be a Daniel" was the name of a song that used to be sung in Sunday schools all over America. Maybe people read the stories of Daniel then more often than they do now. Any one who thinks the tales about this man are exaggerated and sound more like legend than history, might ask himself this question: What sort of man must Daniel have been, what kind of reputation did he leave behind him, to have such stories attach themselves to his name and memory? No meek little man was he. On the contrary his very name is a symbol of courage against odds.

Two Kinds of Courage

There are two kinds of courage: physical and moral. Physical courage means keeping on doing what you know you ought to do, even when you are being terribly hurt, or about to be hurt. A scoutmaster in a boat with some small boys got into some heavy waves, the boat overturned, and everybody climbed on top of the upside-down craft. Then it became evident that there were too many for the boat in that position. So the scoutmaster, after pulling the last boy out of the water, swam alongside for a while, and when he could swim no longer, quietly sank... dying to save a boy's life. That took courage. Then there is also moral courage, which means doing or saying what you believe to be right, in spite of ridicule or powerful contrary opinions.

Against Orders

Courage always is against something,—danger, public opinion, pain. Daniel's courage sometimes was of the rare and risky sort, courage to defy orders from his official superiors. Daniel's salary was paid by the royal court, and like many salaried men, when ordered to do something against his conscience and religion, might have shrugged it off: "Well, I hate to do it, it goes against the grain. But this is my job and who am I to talk back to my employer? I've gotta play ball if I stay on the payroll." Daniel was made of stouter stuff. When he knew that God said one thing and his boss said another, even if the boss was a king with powers of life and death, Daniel saw no choice but to obey God rather than men.

Against Custom

Daniel "bucked" not only an old-fashioned, oriental dictator, all dressed up in crown and gown, but something that is just as tyrannical: public opinion and long-standing customs. If he had had the public on his side, he might not have been reported (for example) in the incident of the prayers at the open window. Back home in Palestine many would have known that he was right; here in Persia almost no one agreed with him. To go against "what everybody does"—usually meaning by "everybody" the more important people of a community—takes nerve. It can be wrong, too, for very often public opinion is just about right. One ought to think very carefully before flying the opposite course to every one else. But when Daniel knew he was right, he knew that fifty thousand Medes and Persians could be wrong; and he acted accordingly.

Against Personal Interests

Many people take the easiest way. All they ask is, "What does this get me? Where does it get me? Will this bring me more prestige, will it end in my promotion, will it help me up the ladder?" If the answer is Yes, then they go ahead. They don't dare do anything contrary to their own interests. But Daniel dared. More than once he had the courage to do something or to say something when it looked as if by doing or saying it he would put an end to his career. But the king always kept him on, though for a while he might turn against him. Men admire courage of all sorts, especially Daniel's kind. The king and everybody else knew that here was a man who could be counted on to say and to do what he was convinced was right, even if it hurt him,—even if it killed him. Here was a man who could not be threatened, could not be bought. Such men were not plentiful then, they are not thick as blackberries now. But they're God's men always.

TEA'S EASY WITH THESE TIME-SAVING TRICKS

When it's your turn to entertain the ladies, whether it's the church committee or just a friendly get-together, plan something a little different and have an outdoor tea. Set the table in a shady part of the patio or porch and serve dainty foods in buffet style.

Start with a big punch bowl brimming with amber iced tea — use Instant Tender Leaf Tea for speedy mixing and full rich flavor that no amount of ice can dilute. Save extra time, too by chilling the tea with lemon ice cubes — use a mixture of lemon juice and water and put lime and lemon slices in the ice tray sections before they're frozen.

Arrange one or two trays with hot savory snacks and tea-time tidbits that are quick and easy, like these:

HAM TIDBITS

- 6 English Muffins
- 2 2/4-ounce cans deviled ham
- 2 tablespoons chopped chutney

Split muffins with a sharp knife. Mix deviled ham and chutney; spread on muffin halves. Place under broiler for 4 minutes, or until ham is bubbling but not browned. Cut each muffin-half into pie-shaped quarters and serve immediately.

ROYAL NUT SAVORIES

Spread crisp ginger snaps with pineapple-cream cheese spread. Garnish each with canned blanched almonds.

RASPBERRY FINGERS

- 1/4 cup margarine or butter
- 2 tablespoons crushed graham crackers
- 1 cup confectioners sugar, sifted
- fresh raspberries
- 16 graham crackers

Cream margarine or butter in a bowl; blend in sugar and raspberries. Put 4 crackers together, sandwich fashion, with raspberry filling. Repeat with remaining crackers and filling to make 4 stacks. Wrap in waxed paper and chill. Slice each stack in half and serve.

Childproof Floors This Fall

In your fall housecleaning schedule, list floors that lead directly to the outdoors and other linoleum or tile floors for special childproofing to protect them from fall weather wear, and more hours of indoor living.

Childproofing is a simple wash and wax routine that keeps floors bright. Clean floors thoroughly before waxing. Use a floor wax which combines water-repellent and scuff-resistant qualities. One new type for childproofing all floors is a self-polishing floor wax made with vinyl. This new wax combines brightness with better-than-ever water-repellency and scuff-resistance.

You'll find childproofing protects floors from adult track-ins, too, as flower bulbs are toted from garden to storage and summer things make way for cold weather living.

Mrs. Russell H. Smith, who won title of "Mrs. U. S. Savings Bonds" at 1957 "Mrs. America" grand finals, Ft. Lauderdale, Fla.

Mrs. Smith goes to town for U.S. Savings Bonds

Meet Mrs. U. S. Savings Bonds! She's Mrs. Russell H. Smith of Tulsa, Oklahoma. Blue-eyed, vivacious Mrs. Smith is the mother of 3 (5 months to 5 years) and typifies today's efficient young housewife who deserves most of the credit for making American homes spiritually strong and economically secure.

Here's her practical advice on a problem facing every family today.

"Saving means security and security means peace of mind; these in turn make for a happy home."

That's why so many women are urging their husbands to invest in U. S. Series E Savings Bonds. They know what a Savings Bond nest egg means. They know that the principal invested in Bonds is safe—and the returns are sure.

And now Savings Bonds pay better than ever! Every Series E Bond purchased since February 1, 1957, pays 3 1/4% interest when held to maturity.

So help your family win financial security tomorrow—by encouraging your husband to invest regularly in Savings Bonds today!

BOARD OF EDUCATION

 mation regarding the concert will be available to eligible pupils in the schools of the County. Admission has been specially arranged at 50c per pupil. This is a very unusual opportunity for a segment of the school population, to enjoy the work of the Baltimore Symphony Orchestra.

The Board was given information regarding settlement of the Sykesville fire loss and further information regarding the extension of the State road on to the existing school property.

A brief report was given to the Board regarding special maintenance work accomplished during the summer by the work crews, including a special report of renovation at the Mount Airy School.

The Board directed that the superintendent, and others, prepare a special article for the County newspapers related to the financing of education in Carroll County and the comparison with educational costs in other counties of the State. This article will attempt to clear up misunderstandings and inaccuracies regarding the costs of education. Since Carroll County has been operating its schools at a very low cost, compared to most of the rest of the State, the article is to be prepared and submitted to the newspapers as soon as possible.

The superintendent reported a successful and efficient opening of schools and furnished to the Board special statistical report on enrollment in the County schools as follows. This report gives the enrollment in the schools as of September 9, 1957. This is a total of 9,797 pupils and the superintendent reported that a probable enrollment of up to 9,850 or beyond was anticipated by Friday, September 13.

The Board was given information regarding successful professional and organizational meetings of teachers and supervisors prior to the opening of schools.

Action was taken to grant permission to the superintendent and staff to make necessary changes in transportation routes and in special assignments to schools, consideration being given to the best interests of the schools and pupils.

The Board took action to approve a suggestion that publicity be given to the policy existing in the County with respect to Negro integration, giving a complete report on the history and progress related to this issue in Carroll County.

The Board took action to award a one-year tuition scholarship to Western Md. College to David Sullivan, graduate of the North Carroll High School, and a resident of the Manchester District.

The Board heard a brief report on progress in connection with the construction of the Francis Scott Key building and approved the sale of two unused school buses and one bulldozer, after advertising that these are available.

Action was taken to endorse the idea of a Carroll County Public Library. This issue is receiving some emphasis in the County. The Board of Education is, at present, unanimously in favor of the extension of library service throughout the County.

Some time was given to the discussion of problems connected with school operation and related to the use of automobiles for pupils. It was directed that study be given by the school principals to this problem and that the superintendent make recommendation regarding control and regulation of this practice as early as possible. The problem is brought about by the increasing number of automobiles at the schools, for which parking space is not available, and the operation of which works out the detriment of the school program and some danger to pupils. It is expected that a regulation concerning this matter will be announced in the very near future.

The Board directed that in school publicity, reference be made to the problems being incurred in several of the schools where over-crowding exist and to the unfortunate necessity of double sessions at the Sykesville school, urging that citizens and those interested in education appreciate the handicaps which exist and the excellent work being accomplished in meeting these problems.

 Adjournment was at 4:00 P. M. The Board will meet in regular session on October 22.

In recent weeks you have heard a great deal about Certified Wiring, adequate wiring, full housepower and related terms. You have been told the dangers and disadvantages of inadequate wiring; and the comforts, pleasure and time-saving advantages of proper wiring systems.

Undoubtedly the question has come into your mind... "What is all this going to cost me?" Just how much will it cost to install adequate wiring in a home you are planning to build? What will the bill be to modernize the wiring already built?

Only an electrical contractor or builder can tell you exactly! However, a few general facts will give you an idea as to what may be expected before you call in the experts.

To wire a house to Minimum standards may cost from 2 to 3 1/2 per cent of the total cost of the house. The cost of wiring ADEQUATELY may amount to about 2 1/2 to 5 per cent of the total cost of the house.

In other words, full-powered wiring averages in cost about 1 per cent more than wiring for the bare necessities of electrical existence.

That is very little. Actually, as a part of the total cost of your house, and amortized over the length of time you will live in it, it is significant. Remember too, this slight difference in the cost of good wiring over poor wiring will be paid back to you in daily satisfaction for years to come.

Perhaps you feel that you will be able to do "well enough" for the time being with a minimum standard system—and add more wiring when you need it. If so, consider this—any future wiring you may do will cost about 80 per cent more than if it had been done when the house was being built.

If you wish to finance modernization of the wiring system of your present home, ask your bank, public utility or your electrical contractor about payment plans covering such costs.

New, better, more highly-powered appliances for your home are being developed constantly. Be sure your wiring looks ahead to the time when it will be required to power them.
