"FREEZE" APPLICATIONS FOR DISABLED WORKERS

The deadline for filing "freeze" applications by disabled workers was extended recently by Congress, according to L. J. Gillespie, Field Representative of the Social Security Administration for Carroll County. This amendment extends the deadline to June 30, 1958 and makes it possible for persons severely disabled before January 1, 1955 to file an application for a "freeze" to protect their social security benefit rights. Before extension, the deadline was June 30, 1957.

Social security benefits are based on the average earnings of the worker. Under the disability "freeze" provision, years of no earnings because of disability may be dropped in figuring the average earnings. This will result in larger benefits for the disabled worker, as only those years he actually worked will be counted. For further and complete information concerning this or other benefits, contact your local security representative or call or write to Social Security Administration, District Office, 3107 Greenmount Avenue, Baltimore 18, Maryland.

"SPICE 'N' EVERYTHING NICE"

(Your Chatty Column)

With all my heart, I wish you every morning a smile that shall last until the next day's dawning. I wish you health—life's greatest wealth! I wish you always near so that I may help to cheer.

Each future day and in some way—help to bring you happiness! The last beautiful white rose of the summer is now in the bud vase beside me which I picked from the rose garden just outside of the picture window in the kitchen.

The trees are putting on their dresses of red and gold and with the green background, it is truly a picture that any artist would be thrilled to paint. It is the grove of trees back on the two and one-half acres of ground where we always picnic in the summers.

Many do not like the Fall but I have always thought each season has its special type of beauty and I do think we all appreciate the glorious array of colors. The Orchid Mums are plentiful which means always a nice arrangement of flowers in vases especially for the center of the dining room table.

And thinking of dining room tables, Mrs. Housewife, the round ones of which I wrote were slowly creeping in for the future are surely here to stay for a few years and as to the woods—well, mohogany is always in style and is richer than anything else for it lasts down through the years and one never seems to tire of it.

By this time every one knows of the charms of the personality of Her Majesty, Queen Elizabeth of England. No other could have ever compared and as to His Royal Highness, Prince Philip is loved, due to his real HE MAN self plus his grand cooperation with the Queen! That is what has endeared him to the public in any country. Just think how the servants must have been on their toes due to all the attire for each occasion! All the pictures of the Royal couple were excellent. I know they both must love America. Eh?

Thinking of T.V.—hope you did not miss the fabulous party of Mike Todd (Around the World in 80 Days) last Thursday night. I thought I was gazing upon a circus! Think of all the real good that money could have been spent on but they tell me he is most charitable in all directions on the side and that without anyone advertising it. He does like advertising of course for his pictures especially the new one which will be on the screen soon.

The enormous cake was 30 feet wide, 14 feet high and cost $18,000. It took two weeks on the drawing board! Elizabeth Taylor appeared even more beautiful than in previous pictures and the gorgeous array of diamonds (late gifts) she wore with simplicity.

Last Wednesday, I stood by a grave to direct the exact position and location for the Monument to be set by that nice company, Jos. Mathias and Sons of Westminster. Never have I seen a finer system in any type of work I witnessed right there. Bill was simply beyond describing as to the method with a Helper by his side. Bill has been with the company for 25 yrs. and he sure does know that "Setting" business. First measurements and that to be exact were made and nails and string were placed in the position. The wide space was dug out to four feet and huge rocks were placed, then bucket after bucket of cement and finally the layer of dirt on the top. The foundation of the Monument was brought over and laid perfectly, measurements going on all the time with a ruler. Then the beautiful monument was brought over from the truck and that placed on the foundation exactly by being cemented first. I was there about three hours and still there were two more hours of work! It truly was the work of an artist when completed! Somehow, as I stood there and looked down upon it all, I realized then it was FINAL—which I had not realized before! So you see, folks in purchasing anything it is always wise to get it from a first class and reliable dealer.

And now this will surprise you. The Alladin Company for the Kerosene Lamps is still going strong and there are many who use this type of lighting. For more than 46 years, Aladdin has lighted rural homes not on power lines. It is sought still for this purpose and today for emergency, people still seek it. How awful it is when the power goes off. Eh? There is a certain something about owning one of these Aladdin Kerosene Lamps and now they are so modern that they can be converted into an electric affair and back again for emergency lighting. Send for full information to Aladdin Industries, Inc., Nashville, Tenn.

See you next week, D.V. when I will write of the "Scorpio" sign from the 20th of October to the 20th of Nov., inclusive. Have a grand week-end. I am,

Faithfully, YOUR OBSERVER.

COME AGAIN, MA'AM

Elizabeth II, who had a merry quip for Williamsburghers about her ancestor George III who lost the Colonies, won them back in her first whirlwind visit as Queen. Huge American audiences who saw and heard the dainty little Monarch in person and on the TV screen were charmed by her presence and her speeches—whether her mood was serious or gay. That English editor who criticized her delivery awhile back has no friends in America.

It must have been an exhausting routine—with day after day of split-second timing, speech after speech, personage after personage, crowd after crowd—but the Queen seemed to be actually enjoying herself. Perhaps she'll be back to visit those 70 US towns with British names whose mayors have invited Her Majesty. If so, several million friends will be awaiting her return.

THE FLU EPIDEMIC

It is generally expected that Asian flu will reach epidemic proportions in this country this fall or winter. But there is no cause for panic and wild fears. The illness is of short duration, is generally mild, has few complications and has a very low mortality rate. An effective vaccine (safe except for patients with a known allergy to eggs) has been developed, and the supply will gradually increase.

In this connection, the American Medical Association has made an important statement, asking for the cooperation of American business and industry. If the expected epidemic materializes, business firms will experience a marked increase in absenteeism. Even so, the AMA emphasizes, industry "... should not get panicky and rush into a program of mass inoculation for its employees until essential priority groups in the community have been inoculated." First priority on available vaccine should go to those persons vital to the community—such as health, police, fire, communications, transportation, and utility personnel—and to those who, in the opinion of physicians, constitute a special medical risk. Individual physician are urged to adhere to local priority systems, which may vary from place to place for one valid reason or another.

As for those who get Asian flu, the AMA points out that there is no specific treatment. Bed rest and fluids are necessary. All patients should be isolated so far as it is convenient. And during the acute stage of the disease, the patient should not be allowed visitors.—Industrial News Review.

HOLE IN THE CONSTITUTION

In the event that a President of the United States is unable "to discharge the duties of said office", states the Constitution clearly and firmly, those duties "shall devolve on the Vice President". But the utter lack of Constitutional advice on who is to decide the matter is deplored by Don Wharton in his article "If a President Becomes Disabled" in the November issue of Reader's Digest.

Mr. Wharton reminds us that twice in our history Chief Executives have been incapacitated—President Garfield for 80 days, and President Wilson for the greater part of 17 months—and in the absence of a prescribed procedure, nothing was done to provide the nation with leadership. "We would have had an even more critical situation in 1945," he says, "if Franklin D. Roosevelt had been paralyzed rather than killed by his cerebral hemorrhage. His fourth term had three and three-quarter years to run." It was five days after the Eisenhower heart attack of September 1955 before the President was able to sign an official paper and nearly a month before he could withstand an hour's conference without "ill effect". Mr. Wharton notes that when he came out of the hospital two years ago, President Eisenhower "urged Congress to act so that the nation would not again be without a leader". "But Congress doodled," he says. "Five months later another warning bell rang—the President's intestinal attack." And the author asks: "How many times must we be warned of the perils of being a nation without a Chief Executive?"

The lack is not of plans, but of action. President Eisenhower has endorsed a proposal that would give the Vice President authority to decide on the Presidential disability, with the written approval of a majority of the Cabinet.

"Ex-President Hoover thinks that the power to decide should be given to the Cabinet. Ex-President Truman believes we should create a seven man panel composed of the Vice President, the Chief Justice, the Speaker of the House and the majority and minority leaders of the House and Senate."

But there can be no machinery for succession-short-of-death until the Congress acts. And, as Mr. Wharton warns, "... we court the peril of being caught without a President, perhaps at an exceedingly critical moment in history". In view of the crises of recent years and of the moment, this seems an understatement.

FACTS AND OPINIONS

In 1955, according to the Wall Street Journal, 21.5 per cent of the consumer dollar taken in by the private electric utilities went for taxes—national, state and local. By contrast, the tax payments of publicly-owned power operation amounted to only 29 per cent. Since that year, the proportion paid by the utilities has substantially increased.

The first local legislation passed by the Hanover Township, Pennsylvania, Board of Supervisors in the community's 154-year history recently went onto the books. It is aimed at litterbugs. A fine of $100 is provided for the dumping of trash inside the Township's borders, and residents are asked to report the license numbers of offending motorists.

It is reported that there are more than 700 federal corporate activities which compete with private enterprise.

For one-eighth of one cent—1/24th the value of a three-cent stamp—railroads carry first-class letters an average distance of 487 miles.

From Dorothy Thompson: "America's policy-making officials do not understand even the rudiments of the principles that should govern the behavior of a great world power in the middle twentieth century."

"A great power should behave like a gentleman and gentlemen don't brag. Besides, the poor have never loved the rich but rather envied them, and when the rich continually advertise their wealth and benevolence as well, they invite 'schmorrer', a delightful and indispensable Jewish word for a peculiarly talented hijacker."

According to a U. S. News and World Report estimate, the average income per person this year for the country as a whole will be $2,009, or 52.7 per cent over the 1947 figure. Largest percentage increases are found in the Southeast and Southwest.

As of September 30, 1956, says the American Hospital Association, there were 6,966 hospitals in the continental United States with 1,607,692 beds. The average daily census was 1,355,792 and the total personnel required was somewhat larger—1,374,704.

A late Gallup Poll survey asked people what they consider to be the Chief Problem now confronting this country. The top three concerns, in order of mention, are avoiding war; living costs and inflation; integration.

It is forecast that by 1965, and perhaps sooner, there will be 81 million motor vehicles registered in this country, as against 66,275,000 now. This gives special relevance to a statement by Lewis H. Mumford, an authority on city planning: "Americans who once sang, 'We love our rocks and rills, we love our templed hills' now could accurately sing, 'We love our expressways and parking lots, big cloverleaves and traffic knots'."

STOCKTON, KAN., ROOKS COUNTY RECORD: "There is no doubt about it. A quarter doesn't go as far today as it used to unless you happen to drop it on the sidewalk."

vice parlors, clothing section and settled down to a specialty line—food for the family.

"Since World War II, as all of us have realized, the trend is now back to the 'general store' idea and the big chains that are leading the conversion have even gone into the cattle-feeding and slaughtering business and some have their own canning factories.

"Latest gimmick, presumably a drawing card or goodwill promotion, is that of competing with the newspapers on a classified ad basis.

"One local grocer has a mechanical gadget where customers write out their own advertising display cards for things that are for sale or services that are available. The display keeps rotating these cards around for viewing by the public.

"Still another grocer prints his own handbills and invites any and all to advertise free in his throw-away.

"Is there any enterprise that the grocers do not plan to invade?"

"In order to compete must the clothing stores enter the food business, along with the hardware, gas stations, drug stores, and now the newspapers?"

"And to think that the Government wants to cling to the idea that packers can do nothing but slaughter and process meats!"

"Perhaps Mr. Achgill is right in suggesting that the newspapers must now add groceries as a side-line. But considering that the grocers mentioned provide their customers with advertising for free, the same public will no doubt expect to get its eatments from the newspaper office on the same basis. This might be awkward to arrange, since - as we understand it—there are times when nutritional procurement is a bit of a problem for the editor himself.

We hope Mr. Achgill will keep an eye on this situation and report on it further from time to time. But while we are waiting, we will hazard the guess that customers who go to the grocery to read the ads will disappoint the grocer, and these who go to restock the larder will disappoint the advertisers. The only proper job for advertising in a grocery store is to point to products that are right there on the shelf for mama to grab. And she'll do a lot more grabbing if an advertisement in the newspaper tells her in advance that the produce will make her prettier, make wash-day a romp, give the baby rosier cheeks, get her husband a raise or impress the neighbors.

BOB TAYLOR.

OUR NAVY—OCTOBER 27, 1957

"The free world cannot stand together if the U. S. Navy should be unable to insure the freedom of the seas." This quote from a recent statement by one of the senior officers of the Navy, demonstrates the importance of the Navy to our country and to the freedom loving peoples of the world, this Navy Day, October 27, 1957.

Since the time of Noah and his Ark, seapower has been the deciding factor in the rise and fall of nations throughout history. As far back as 4,000 years ago the ancient Creteans dominated their neighbors through seapower. The rise and fall of the ancient capitals of history are the lessons of the scope and possibilities of the rise and fall of sea power. Ancient Greece's decisive battle of Salamis in 480 BC against the Persians brought power and glory to ancient Greece. For over 600 years Rome ruled the Mediterranean as "Mare Nostrum" and gained an empire. Constantinople and Venice brought wealth and glory to their respective nations through sea power.

History records that Portugal, Spain and France all gained power, wealth and empires with their fleets. And modern history from Nelson and his ship, HMS Victory, through World Wars I and II give us a better insight on the effect of having freedom of the seas.

Over 70% of the world's surface is water, and in case of war 90% of the inhabited areas of the world can be reached by ships of our fleet and our carrier-borne air-craft. Control of the seas is essential to peoples who want to remain free, and sea power is as enduring a factor in the welfare of the United States as the oceans that surround it.

The Navy and Marine Corps, together with their sister services, the Army and the Air Force, form a balanced team to maintain the security of the United States and the free world. Our modern Navy is in the fore-front in the development of new weapons in the nuclear age. The great armadas of World War II have given way to a highly mobile Navy, with the ability to carry the fight anywhere in the world; cold war, limited war or all out war. The Navy of the future is heretoday, nuclear powered ships, guided missiles, supersonic planes, electronics, and the men with the know-how to deliver the Sunday punch.

In today's troubled world the Navy serves with Honor the peoples of all free nations. The men of the Navy in performing their mission of keeping the peace are the ambassadors of good-will to the many nations they visit each year. In many instances they are the only hope of peace and security to the peoples they visit. And their presence has often inspired a new hope and peace of mind.

Our Navy has many things to be thankful for on this their day. A nation whose people are of all peoples, who use their strength to help the weak, to feed those without bread, to give heart to those in chain of tyranny, and protect the freedom of all. We of the Navy are proud to serve.

Since losers must far outnumber the winners, why feel we should always be the ones to grace the winners' column?

FEESERSBURG (A Voice from Carroll)

Sunday, being the kind of day not meant to spent indoors, we decided to spent it somewhere in the mountains. The family could not decide whether to drive to the Maryland woodland area or to the skyline drive in West Virginia. Finally we compromised and decided to go to Purcellville, Va. to visit relatives. It turned out to be a very happy choice for we met the Queen of England and Prince Phillip on a narrow country road near Purcellville. We crossed into Virginia at Point of Rocks and drove into Leesburg. The minute we reached Virginia soil we noticed many state policemen. About every other car was a state trooper, but we assumed they were out in such numbers due to the heavy Sunday traffic. When we passed through Middleburg, Va., the streets were filled with people. This seemed a bit unusual for most small towns on Sunday afternoon are as empty as churches on a Saturday night. As we approached the road where one turns off to go into Purcellville there were a dozen state troopers on either side of the entrance. We were told that we could not enter until the Queen and her party came out. All of us suddenly remembered then, reading in the paper that she was going to visit the Mellon estate to inspect thoroughbred horses. The state trooper told us that if we cared to we could get out of our car and stand along the roadside and see the Queen and Prince Phillip as they passed by. We did not need to be urged nor did we have to wait long. For in ten minutes or less, preceded by a dozen motorcycle policemen the Royal party came into view. We were about five feet from the Queen's car as she passed and she waved and smiled to the small cluster of people gathered to see her. Prince Phillip was in the third car behind the secret service and he smiled and waved too. It seemed so kind of them to acknowledge the greetings from a handful of admirers along a roadside. This kind of graciousness is what makes them so popular with everyone. I heard one little boy ask his mother after the Royal party had passed from view if he could tell his schoolmates that he had seen the Queen. His mother replied that it would be alright. The Queen surely must have admired the Virginia countryside. The colors of the trees were as brilliant and as varied as the colors of the jeyels she wears. The well kept roadside were a credit to the people of Virginia. No trash heaps, no bill boards, no graveyards for junked cars and no gas-stations. We traveled one hundred miles and never saw an eating place or a filling station except in the small towns. The roads are all blacktopped even the unimportant roads that go nowhere. Missing also were electric poles and telephone wires along the roads. Indeed for 150 miles there wasn't one thing to mar the unbroken stretch of scenic natural beauty. It was a picture fit for a Queen.

In spite of the unpopularity of the secretary of Agriculture among a large percentage of farmers, Mr. Benson has succeeded in doing what he planned to do when he first took office. That is—get the farmer off the land. In one single year there has been a drop in farm population of 1,861,000. This means that one out of every eleven farm dwellers moved off the farm. The off-farm movement is attributed to the reduced need for farm labor due to machines and to the many opportunities for work at better pay in the towns and cities. But what about the farmer who doesn't want a job off the farm, but has to leave because of the price squeeze? What becomes of the farmer who due to his age can't find a job off the farm? What becomes of the farmer who is too old for another job and too young for retirement and social security? These are some of the questions to be answered by someone, but not Mr. Benson. His theory is that when it comes time to choose between farm and farm surplus, he will choose to obliterate the farmer to get rid of the surpluses. And to think there are millions of people in this world that are born never to know in their life span what it is not to be hungry. And they dare to tell us that leaders have brains!

Recently Mrs. Agnes Myers, writer and lecturer on educational matters said that the "cold war" has shifted from a competition in arms to a competition in "Brains". America must meet the challenge in its "public school system by changing to the "scientific attitude." We have lagged behind in our recognition of the importance of science. Scientific method leads to an open mind rather than the closed mind. It is far more important to our survival to use ideas rather than to accept dogmas untried or unproved. At present we are preparing our children for a society that no longer exists.

Rev. Joseph Callahan, the new pastor of the Uniontown Lutheran church conducted services at Mt. Union on Sunday morning. Pastor Callahan and his family moved to Uniontown last week. On Wednesday evening, Oct. 30, the members of the Mt. Union church will welcome the new pastor and his wife at a reception in the parish house.

Mrs. Millard Roelke attended the board meeting of the Carroll County Tuberculosis Association at the Medical Center in Westminster, Monday evening. Plans were made for the annual Christmas Seal sale. This year the high school students all over the county are helping with the work by placing the material in the 12 thousand envelopes that will be mailed out in the near future. The work and services of the association has grown in scope and importance with each passing year. This year it hopes to give the public more information and education about tuberculosis through films and lectures. Like everything else the treatment and methods of diagnosis of the disease are undergoing changes. It is important that the public be kept well informed about the changes.

Asian flu is being blamed for many absences in school but we wonder if some aren't just blaming the flu germs to get away from books and the classroom. One school authority became suspicious and had several flu-suspects flushed from pool-rooms.

One of our favorite stories: Bobby's mother sent him to bed for misbehaving and cautioned him to say his prayers. She listened but heard nothing. Finally she called: "Bobby, I can't hear you saying your prayers." His reply was: "Of course you can't. I'm not praying to you."—Ruth Roelke.

THE SECRET OF DEATH

Death is better than birth, some writers say;
But, it is not the consensus on the earth today;
So, it must have been spoken by one, they say,
Who knew more about Life than we do to-day.

Our earth they tell us, is one billion years old;
And, we have been here before, we are also told;
But the people still do not know of God's plan,
So they think each new born child is another man.

But, that is not the way God intends things to be,
That is how He prepares us to live in Eternity;
So, in His great school, we learn to know
More about Him, and the right way to go.

The average man who lives on earth to-day
Would wither like the flowers, and soon fade away;
But, here he is trained how God wants him to go,
And the secrets of Life he is taught to know.

Many fear Death; and, our friends all weep;
But the Scriptures say; "It is only a sleep";
It is an interlude in the great drama of Time
After which in new bodies we continue to climb.

"If your body were you it would be different" they say;
But the Scriptures call it a tenement of clay;
The real you is like God they also say;
So, you must be like Him, in every way.

The Truth is we are all gods they say in embryo;
So, God sends us here, to learn how to go;
The decree is; Like Him all His Sons must be",
Before they can go from Time to Eternity.

And that, it seems to me, is a wonderful plan!
How else, under the Sun, could He make a god of every man!
For, until we are like Him, we go our own way,
Regardless of what the preachers all say.

When one learns the Secret of God's great plan
He becomes a god; and, don't act like a man;
Our "brother's keeper" we all try to be;
So, in that way, we are made fit for Eternity.

The Hebrews Moses led out of Egypt, they say,
Acted like many people do in our day;
But in new bodies they all entered Canaan, they say;
And, so it shall be with us; for, that is God's way.

That, they tell us, was a symbol of how things shall be
When we all go from Time to Eternity;
So, were it not for Reincarnation man would be
A victim of the plagues which around us we see.

Few of those who left Egypt entered Canaan, they say;
And, so it shall be with all of us some day;
We still don't know God, nor do we know of His plan,
To make of you, what we call, a model man.

So, as I see it, Death is not an enemy, as men say,
But, to make a change in us, that is God's way;
The Sun, too, seems to go down; but, it rises again;
And, so it shall be with all the sons of man.

Your God lives in your body the Scriptures say;
So, it must be made perfect in every way;
Since He sees with your eyes; and, you are His hands,
It is through you He carries out all of His plans.

That, too, is something we all must know—
It is God who tells us how we should go
But, He gave us "free-will" to try our plan;
And, when it fails, He makes of you a perfect man.

That is how God works, the Scriptures say—
(Because He is perfect, He never changes His way!)
And, that is how all His sons must be,
When they go from Time to Eternity.

So, they tell us, when man learns to go God's way,
Every command he makes, they strictly obey;
So, all things are possible, even in our day,
When we learn to know God; and go His way.

The things Jesus did seem impossible to you and me;
He commanded the winds and walked on the Sea;
Even the law of gravitation He controlled the same way;
For, He entered the heavens, on a cloud they say

And just so it shall be with you and with me;
For, God intends we shall live in Eternity;
Then, follow Jesus; and learn of God's plan;
And you, too, shall become a perfect man.

Jesus came back to earth many times, they say,
Before He reached perfection; and, went God's way;
But, He learned how to act; and, died as God said,
So, He gave Him power, to even raise the dead.

These are things we all must learn to know—
God sent Jesus here to tell and to show us how to go;
So, if we follow Him, and do as the Scriptures say,
We, too, shall walk on the water some day.

What I have just written is old you may say;
But, that is God's plan; and, the only way
By which mortal man can leave this sod—
He must follow Jesus; and, he must listen to God.

If you follow God's plan, a short cut it will be
Which leads from Time to Eternity;
But, until you do, many lessons you must learn
So, the fires of hell still continue to burn.

So, always do what the preachers tell you to do—
To God and your neighbor always be true;
God sent you here to learn what they have to say;
And to prepare you to live in the endless day.

This story about Death and mortal man
Also gives a slight hint of God's great plan;
For, all of His sons just like Him must be
When they go from Time to Eternity.

Cold Weather
Needn't Mean
Giving Up Porch

One of the unhappiest things about the arrival of cold weather for many families is giving up the extra living space provided in summer by an enclosed breezeway or porch.

But builders say this isn't always necessary. Many breezeways and porches can be made livable for many extra months with thick insulation and a small space heater.

Insulation engineers recommend that mineral wool at least three inches thick be installed in ceilings and walls which are touched by cold on the outside. If the porch or breezeway is built over an unheated area, such as a crawl space, the floor also should be insulated.

Areas which the home-owner can reach easily can be insulated with batts or blankets obtainable from building material dealers. "Enclosed" areas, such as finished walls and small attic spaces, can be filled with insulation by a contractor who pumps mineral wool in under air pressure.

For greater comfort and heating efficiency, windows should be fitted with air-tight storm sash, and any cracks or air leaks around doors, windows, or in framework should be filled with caulking compound. Tight-fitting storm sash of polyurethane are available to fit windows of all sizes and can be painted to harmonize with both interior and exterior color schemes.

Clogged Gutters Endanger House

Roof gutters clogged with falling leaves can be a potential danger to a house. If water standing in the gutters freezes, it can act as a dam which may cause water to back up under the edge of the roof and leak into the house.

Two safeguards against this are:

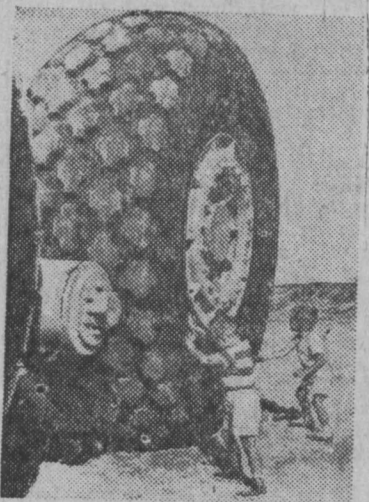

1. Keeping gutters clear of leaves and other debris.
2. Properly applied roofing. Recommendations for application of asphalt shingles, the most widely used roofing for homes, call for an extra layer of waterproof material under the shingles at the eaves.

This is an "eaves flashing strip" recommended for use in addition to the usual underlayment, metal drip edge and starter course of shingles, wherever there is danger of freezing temperatures creating ice dams along the eaves. When asphalt shingles are then applied according to specifications, the roof will have a long, trouble-free life.

Three Millionth Girl Scout

Surprised to find out she is the three millionth Girl Scout in the United States, 12-year-old Janice Brewer of St. Louis, Mo., holds the form indicating she has been officially registered as a member of Girl Scouts of the U.S.A. Nationwide Girl Scout membership has tripled since 1944 but many girls, like Janice, must wait to become Girl Scouts because there is a shortage of adult troop leaders.

Three and-a-half-year-old Stevie Rees (left) and younger brother Mike, sons of an Arabian American Oil Company transportation superintendent, seem to have picked out some mighty big playthings. The "toy" tires are ten feet tall, weigh 9,250 pounds, cost about $7,000 each, and are capable of hauling a load of more than two hundred tons across the Saudi Arabian desert.

Christian Freedom

Lesson for October 27, 1957

LIFE would be simpler if it were all in clear black-and-white. There is no mistaking one for the other. Daylight and dark can't be confused. But twilight is confused and confusing. There are some actions, some ways of living, which are evidently and undeniably good; there are others which are just as plainly bad.

(Quoting again from Billy Sunday: "If a man starts arguing with you that stealing isn't a sin, don't argue with him—search him!") But there are many problems in living which can't be solved by simple rule. There are many actions about which sincere Christians may differ, some saying Do, others saying Don't.

Twilight Zone

In the twilight zone are many actions, or proposed actions, which are really unprecedented. The Bible says nothing about them, even the state's legal code may not mention them. One day a woman threw a whiskey bottle at the door of England's prime minister. She was arrested and fined. But she said to the judge: "I'll be back with another bottle. The government is throwing hydrogen bombs, and throwing bottles is nothing near so wicked as that. This is my protest against the wickedness of the H-Bomb." Well, it is certainly against the law to throw bottles. It's not against the law to experiment with H-bombs. But many people would feel the woman was right, no carload of glass bottles can do a small part of the harm that one H-bomb can do. But it's in the twilight zone. More simple, personal matters are also in the twilight zone. Is it right or wrong for a Christian to attend the theater? to read a book of fiction? to use tobacco? to drink wine, beer, whiskey, gin? Christians are not unanimous in their verdicts.

Abusing Freedom

We can get a good deal of light on at least part of the twilight zone, by reading Paul, and the Gospels. Paul gives us a guiding line which can appeal only to Christians; but for Christians it is a strong directive. At Corinth, for example, there was a peculiar sort of twilight-zone problem, the question of meat that had been offered to idols. In every Greek butcher shop there were cuts of beef, veal, lamb and so forth, just as in our super-markets, only of course much less sanitary. When the 20th-century housekeeper goes shopping for a steak, she does not inquire how the cow died. Presumably it was killed by some one paid for doing such things. But there is nothing religious about a slaughter-house. In Corinth, in the First Century, on the contrary, the cow from whose dead body the steak was taken, very likely had died in a religious ceremony, killed in sacrifice on altars dark with blood and black with fire and smoke. After the ceremony in the temple, most of the dead animal would be taken and sold in the market-place . . . and so find its way to the tables of the ladies of Corinth.

The problem was: Could a Christian eat steaks and chops from animals slaughtered in heathen religious rites? It was a twilight-zone question. Many Corinthians were saying, "Certainly, I can eat without sin. Idolatry is bad, but if a cow breathed her last in an idol's temple, that doesn't infect the roast beef with sin!"

Using Freedom

Wait a minute, Paul says in effect, when they ask him about this. You are free, to be sure. This particular twilight-zone thing is not a sin. Eating such meat is not an approval of idolatry at all. But suppose some weaker brother knows what you are doing, and concludes that you are approving idol-worship? Then what? The question is not any longer, Is this particular act right or wrong? The question for you is, What will be the effect on my brother if I do this thing I am free to do? This brother may be weak, he may even be stupid; but Christ died for him. Are you going to drive back into sin this man for whom Christ died? So it is with many twilight-zone acts today. You may be strong, and free; doing them will not hurt you at all. But what about other people? I am never so free, if I am a Christian, that I have a right to abuse my freedom by leading some one else into what for him is sin.

Dr. Foreman

HAMPSTEAD YOUTH FOR CHRIST

Rev. Reuben C. Cantrell, founder and director of the Hagerstown Christian Youth Center, Inc., Hagerstown, Md., will have a return speaking engagement at Hampstead YFC, Saturday, October 26, 8 p. m., in the Greenmount EUB Church, one mile North of Hampstead.

A native of Tennessee, Cantrell held pastorates for eight years before entering the evangelistic field, where he specialized in youth camps, daily vacation Bible schools, and city-wide revivals.

October 26th soloist will be Justin Lawrie, 68, who for 25 years was minister of music at the Foundry Methodist Church, Washington, D.C. He continues to direct the "Justin Lawrie Singers" a group of 60 all-professional soloists who perform at many civic and church functions in the nation's capital.

The November issue of CORONET Magazine, now on the news-stand, features an excellent article on Youth for Christ International, entitled "God's Teen-age Commandos". Written by Joseph N. Bell of the Coronet staff, this five-page article gives a most favorable presentation of the work of Youth for Christ. Learn all about the practices and coes followed by these dedicated teenagers—about the activities and guidance instrumental in the YFC success.

"Happiness has to be earned," writes Arthur Gordon in a January Reader's Digest article. "It doesn't come in pills." The writer reports a certain amount of tension is an unavoidable part of living. "Parents who insulate their children from any sort of discomfort," he says, "are cheating them of the chance to acquire the flexibility and toughness they are going to need."

BOARD OF EDUCATION

The Board was given a report of the settlement of insurance claims resulting from the Sykesville fire.

Approval was given for the restoration of water service at the Sykesville School to permit the new building to be constructed by the use of the well in the building destroyed by fire. The low bidder on the project was the Westminster Hdwe. Co and it was directed that work proceed immediately.

The Board devoted some time to consultation with a committee representing the Carroll County Teachers' Association.

Approval was given by the Board for the participation of the schools, under a plan worked out by the superintendent and principals, in connection with the drive for funds for the Carroll County General Hospital. Approval was also given for the plan for school participation in the collection of funds for the restoration of the U.S. ship, Constellation.

The superintendent was directed by the Board to continue his negotiations in connection with the State road location adjacent to the Sykesville School.

The Board appointed Paul Benham, of the Manchester District, to a one year tuition scholarship to Western Maryland College. This scholarship was recently vacated by David Sullivan, of the Manchester District.

The Board directed the superintendent to proceed with the preparation of the 1958-59 Budget and that said budget should include an excess County appropriation in sufficient amount to retain and hold teachers in service, and to permit the recruitment of new and additional teachers for 1958-59 required by the increasing enrollment which is expected to exceed 10,000 in September, 1958. The superintendent was directed to proceed with recruitment and employment of teachers for the school year 1958-59.

Approval was given for the cooperation of certain school classes in assisting with the distribution of Christmas seals.

Approval was given for the addition of a teacher to the Mechanicsville Elem. School faculty to reduce the size of the primary grades in this school. The assignment of Mrs. Darlene Churchman to this vacancy was approved.

The Board heard a brief report regarding the session of the Maryland State Teachers' Association in Baltimore and of a recent meeting of the Superintendents of schools of the Counties of the State held early in October.

The Board directed that all possible effort be made to assure the votes of the Carroll County Delegates and Senator to over-ride the Governor's veto of House Bill No. 253, thus permitting more adequate assistance from the State to the Counties, in the area of teachers' salaries. The superintendent was directed to make all possible effort to secure this support, working through the P.-T. A.'s and the friends of education.

It was directed that the next meeting of the Board be set for November 12, said meeting to be held in the Mount Airy High School. The superintendent was directed to make every effort to have the School Budget for 1958-59 ready for adoption at this meeting.

Attention of the Board was called to the construction of an additional parking lot at the Mount Airy School through the efforts of the Student Council and with the cooperation of the principal of the Mount Airy School. It was directed that a letter of appreciation be sent to the Student Council for this very creditable project.

The Board considered a number of additional miscellaneous items related to school operations and adjourned at 4:15 p. m.
