KIWANIS NEWS

Boy Scout Week Observed by Club

In the absence of the president, Vice President Geo. Crouse called the regular meeting of the Taneytown Kiwanis Club to order at the Taney Inn last evening. Guests of the club were Truman Cash of Westminster and Key Clubber Ronald Hopkins. Smokey Morelock presented a program well calculated to observe National Scout Week which will be observed throughout the nation Feb. 7-15. Mr. Wilbur Thomas, Mr. Henry Reindollar, and Mr. Robert Bowers presented an interesting account of the objectives of the scouting movement along with an enlightening clarification of Boy Scout terminology.

It would appear that a boy in our community may begin a scouting career as early as the age of eight. He would become affiliated at this tender age with Pack No. 714 which has been sponsored for the past ten years by the Lutheran Brotherhood. Mr. Franklin Fair has been credited with being among the first of those in Taneytown to interest himself in this phase of scouting, and Cub Scouts in this vicinity also owe a debt of gratitude to Mrs. Felix Westine, Mrs. Wm. Hopkins and Mrs. Chas. Hopkins, all of whom have in the past served as Den Mothers.

The boy of eight when he becomes a Cub proceeds to learn the motto, the clasp, the sign and the promise. He then becomes a Bob Cat and gets a Wolf book. At the age of nine he becomes a Bear, and at ten he is elevated to the status of Lion. At eleven he is graduated to the Boy Scouts, at which time he leaves his Den and his Pack and his Mother and becomes a Candidate. Having successfully passed First Aid tests, Hiking tests, and First Building tests, etc., he then becomes a Tenderfoot, Second Class Scout, and First Class Scout in turn. If he is diligent and if he has learned the Morse Code and if the Board of Review is sufficiently persuaded that the boy has become proficient in any five of 110 different areas of endeavor he may become a Star Scout. Should he earn 10 merit badges he becomes a Life Scout, and if he earns 21 he becomes an Eagle Scout. Not too many boys become Eagle Scouts and should their interest begin to wane they are at the age of fourteen eligible to become Explorers. An Explorer is concerned with Outdoor and Social activities which may take him as far away as the North Woods on hunting expeditions or to such places as Hershey Park for Ice Capades or into Baltimore or Washington for ball games.

He also goes in for a good bit of service to his community and may be exposed to vocational training of one sort or another.

As was well pointed out by one of the speakers, a boy's life nowadays is pretty busy and Scout Leaders are constantly challenged to make their program as interesting as possible so as to be able to compete favorably with those other things which make great demands on a boy's time.

Kiwanians cooperation was enlisted and they were exhorted to help recruit members and Den Mothers for the scouting movement.

I wish you health—life's greatest wealth!
I wish you always near so that I may help

Each future day and in some way—help to bring you happiness!

The Auto Show of 1958 at the Fifth Regiment Armory which I visited today was simply glamorous! I stood right there and looked upward and there I truly saw the rainbows in the sky. The massive white columns atop decorated with flowers helped, of course, to give it a sumptuous air.

As to automobiles, last year this Observer stated in the column that it could not improve in any way whatsoever. I was wrong! This is greater! This year there are live models giving a line as to the make car they are representing and of course, fashion is the word and good-looking! I think the Lincoln Company on the TV Ed Sullivan Show was the original for this added feature which they feel increases their business.

Although, black cars or white ones were supposed to be the colors for the HOIST THE FLAG!

If every man and woman in America whose job would not exist but for Thomas A. Edison were to knock off to celebrate his birthday Tuesday, February 11th, would be a national holiday!

It would be difficult indeed to estimate the millions whose work derives from his nearly 1,100 patents—and the ideas he didn't bother to patent—who generate and distribute our electric power, make and exhibit our movies, provide us with records and players, entertain and inform us via radio and TV, and produce all manner of equipment and appliances that feed on the force he made available.

At no time in our history since Thomas A. Edison's birth, 111 years ago, have the things he represents been so important to our continued progress, in fact our very existence. His was not only an inquiring mind, but a disciplined one. He assigned himself a task, and stayed with it until it was licked. The Edison Storage Battery, for example, was no miracle (as some said) but the result of ten years of application and 50,000 experiments! He might well be called the father of practical research—practical, because when he perfected an invention he found a company to make it and put it to public use. And his long lifetime of research and development provides inspiring assurance to youth that every new idea begets a train of others. Invention is never finished, scientific curiosity never satisfied.

It was this inspiration that guided young Max McGraw in the field of electricity and in building an electrical equipment manufacturing concern that was ultimately, as the McGraw-Edison Company, to acquire not only the name of the world's electrical wizard, but to perpetuate his ideas. In the merger of the Edison Industries and the McGraw Electric Company, Thomas A. Edison's passion for organized research fires the imagination of present day scientists in the laboratories of the company's 28 divisions and subsidiaries. And, as the birthday of the world's most famous train-butcher rolls around, the emphasis of research is being stepped up—just as it is throughout the nation.

This anniversary in 1958, a year of peril and trial for the country Thomas A. Edison served so magnificently, is a good time to study and to emulate his way of getting things done.—U. S. Press Association.

THERE IS A WAY OUT

There is no better publicized "mess" in Washington today than the Post Office. Chairman Olin D. Johnston, of the Senate Committee on Post Office and Civil Service, calls it "staggering" estimates the postal deficit at two million dollars a day.

But, despite his 13 years on this unpopular committee—seven as chairman—the Senator is still optimistic. Writing in the February issue of Reader's Digest, he outlines a four step program by which "in a few years we can get out of this postal mess and have the best mail service in the world."

First, Senator Johnston would "establish a basic postal policy", separating postal costs that should be paid by users of the mails from non-postal costs that should be borne by the Government as public services. The author listed eleven examples of extraneous post office services—such as the sale of "duck" stamps to waterfowl hunters, sale and redemption of Government savings bonds and stamps, registry of aliens, counting deer and grouse, handling donations for a dozen nation-wide charity drives a year and helping the families of deceased veterans procure funeral flags.

Next, with policy firmly established, it would be possible to "raise" rates rationally".

The third step, a truly colossal one, would be "a long-range, big-scale modernization program for the construction of efficient building, streamlining of facilities, development of advanced mechanical devices". To pay for this, the Senator has already proposed that Congress authorize the Postmaster General to borrow two billion dollars from the Federal Employees' Retirement Fund at 3½ per cent. This would make the Fund members happy since their money, invested in Treasury bonds, presently earns only 2½ per cent, and still be a break for the Post Office which is now paying 4 per cent on its limited borrowings.

Finally, Senator Johnston would "increase employe efficiency" by paying more money—enough more, for instance, that a postal worker doesn't have to get an extra job (as many now do) to make ends meet.

It is pretty certain at this writing that postal rates will be increased (to four cents, not five, on first class mail) and that postal workers will get an across the board wage hike. But to take steps two and four without the vital first and third will be worse than useless. Only a basic reorientation and a complete modernization program such as Senator Johnston outlines can clean up the "mess"—and make it possible for us to get better service when we pay more for our stamps.—U. S. Press Association.

With Alfalfa Seed...

YIELD COUNTS

NOT COSTS!

It is not the price you pay per pound of alfalfa seed that really counts, but the yield per acre at harvest time. Often you can purchase unadapted seed at 5c to 10c per pound less than Southern States adapted, known-origin alfalfa seed. But this $1.00 to $2.00 per acre saving means nothing if you lose a single cutting on your entire crop.

So for bigger yields, and sure yields... use Southern States adapted, known-origin Alfalfa Seed. You're certain of a profitable crop when you sow Southern States!

Beverly Priest, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Priest, Forest and Stream Club road, near Detour, returned to her studies at Gettysburg College this week.

Sandra Weishaar, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Weishaar, spent part of the week end at home. It will not be long before Sandra's week end at home will be scarce for her schedule of studying and training will be changed in the spring.

The Keysville United Lutheran Church Women met on Feb. 3 with Mrs. Roy Baumgardner and Mrs. Robert Stine as the leaders. The topic was "American Missions Arithmetic". The program was handled by having interviews. Mrs. Marian Coshun was interviewed because she told the part of the surveyor. Mrs. Mildred Stine posed as a Mission Developer. Mrs. Helen Dougherty, Mrs. Agnes Roop, Mrs. Mary Roop, Mrs. Mary Devilliss and Mrs. Kathryn Coshun each took the part of a pastor of a church which had been affected by missions, some had received help and others had given help. This topic was quite interesting because it made us realize that the Lutherans were working with a lot of other denominations in the development of Mission congregations. Miss Donna Lee Eyer sang "It Is No Secret" and "The Lord Will Understand"; she was accompanied on the piano by her mother, Mrs. Raymond Eyer. Steven Harner played "Twinkle, Twinkle, Little Star" on his accordion and sang "Rudolph, The Red-Nosed Reindeer", accompanied on the piano by his mother, Mrs. John Harner. The specials were arranged by Mrs. Lloyd Wilhide and Mrs. John Harner. Mrs. Carroll Dougherty presided at the business meeting. Mrs. Charles Trout announced that Mrs. Luther Horine of Walkersville will be the speaker at the World Day of Prayer meeting. This is being held with the help of the United Church of Christ in Keysville and will be held at the Keysville Lutheran church on Feb. 21 at 7:45. Everyone is urged to attend. Mrs. Elizabeth Shoemaker, Mrs. Carroll Dougherty and Mrs. Carroll Wilhide will serve as the representatives of the ULCW on the Evangelism Committee. Mission Study was discussed but as yet no plans have been made. A card of thanks from the Rocky Boy Mission was read. Mrs. Clara Clabaugh thanked the flower committee for their cooperation last month. The flowers for the altar committee this month is Mrs. Maynard Ausherman, Mrs. Marian Coshun and Mrs. Edward Coshun. The group was told to watch for the article written by Mr. Yaszumi Eto which is to appear in the March issue of Lutheran Women's Work. Mr. Eto spent three weeks in this area in June. Mrs. Dougherty reminded us that the extra offering for Special Aids would be received next month. Mrs. Lloyd Wilhide, Mrs. Rachael Bostian, Mrs. Agnes Roop were the hostesses. Cherry Dessert with whipped cream, corn sticks, candy and coffee were served. We could plainly see that in February St. Valentine's Day, Geo. Washington's birthday and Lincoln's birthday would be celebrated. Games were in the hands of Mrs. Elizabeth Shoemaker.

C. E. Priest and Mrs. Carroll Wilhide met with Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Wilhide at the Lloyd Wilhide home to make plans for forming an Evangelism Committee for Keysville Lutheran church. Mr. Priest and Mr. Wilhide are collaborating heads of this committee.

FEESERSBURG (A Voice from Carroll)

The Maryland Legislature opens this week and it promises to be a "do or die" session for the teachers' pay raise. Governor McKeldin is already crying "unfair" to the concerted effort of all wide awake citizens that have contacted their district representatives and made it clear to them that the teachers must have an increase in salary. The Governor has visions of having his veto over-ridden and he doesn't relish the idea. Until Mr. McKeldin became governor we always thought he was a man who had vision and the ability to change when times called for change. But in the controversy over the teachers' pay increase he has proven to be a stubborn reactionary. For in spite of all the evidence presented and the facts arrived at he still maintains the same old position of "no pay raise over my dead body." We wonder how the Governor was able to change his position on the sales-tax. He was voted into office on the theme that the tax was evil and unnecessary. He promised to get rid of it. But once in office he found out it wasn't evil at all. In fact he found it so palatable that he wants to increase it. If the Governor can change his mind on the important subject of taxes why can't he change his mind on the equally important subject of an increase in teachers' pay. Surely the sputniks taught us the simple truth that survival depends upon educated minds. There will be no educated minds without competent teachers and there will be no competent teachers unless there is some incentive to be competent. It's as simple as that. Maybe what's wrong with the Governor is, that he had no competent teachers when he was in school to teach him simple arithmetic.

In these days of heavy competition in every field, people are always thinking up ways to attract customers. One way to do this is for business places to pay for the customer parking. It is one of the biggest arguments that a would-be shopper has against a town or city. Most people don't mind any longer paying for parking, but they do mind having to run back and forth from shopping to put a coin in the meter. Some stores in Baltimore already pay for the customer's parking and more are thinking about doing the same thing. It is an angle for all business places to think about.

There are 15,751 women postmasters in the U. S. Altogether there are 36,766 postmasteresses with women filling almost half of them. Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield said recently that employing women has been a huge success for they have proven to be capable managers and very conscientious workers. We have several women postmasters in our area and they certainly bear out Mr. Summerfield's remarks.

We wonder how many adults could make a passing grade in a geography test? Not many, we venture to guess. Although most people read the newspaper every day and many names like Cyprus, Poland, Indonesia, New Guinea and Berlin are familiar, not many persons could pick them out on a map outline. This was one of the questions on a recent examination given to the senior class. The class made a very poor showing on the question for two reasons. First, the seniors were never taught geography in the elementary school and, secondly, the maps of the world change so fast that even mapmakers cannot keep up. Every family should buy a recent map of the world and pick out the names of the places in everyday news. In no time every member of the family will learn enough geography that they will know Gana is in Africa and not Asia and that Cyprus is off the coast of Greece and Turkey and not off the coast of Greenland. We took the senior exam and flunked it. That is why we got out the maps and started all over again to study geography. Its fun, try it instead of looking at T.V.

Are you calm? Easy going? The gentle soul who always agrees? If you are, you'd better take a drastic right-about face. No worthwhile creative work is ever accomplished unless you get riled up once in a while. Drag your personal philosophy out in the open where you can get a good look at it and show it to others. You may be unpopular at times but you will never be a bore. People should not go through life with a chip on their shoulder, but once in a moon or two, chips pay off. We all have pet peeves and most of them are trivial and shouldn't be mentioned but if you have a peeve against some person's selfishness or injustice, don't keep quiet about it, sound off, for a lot of changes are brought about by people who get angry and raise their voice to high heaven. Dr. Fostick wrote a best seller because he became so mad at people who reversed their stand when the going got rough. He believed that one must have the courage to uphold one's convictions even though everyone else may be on the other side of the fence. There are a good many things that should cause anger. No doubt they do, but people don't seem to be in the mood to shout their anger out. Instead, they brood, grow nervous, and take pills. Maybe what we Americans need is some hair-nulling and muscle-stretching instead of mumbbling to ourselves.

By the kind of weather we are having this week, Mr. Groundhog must have seen his shadow. But we know he didn't come out of his cozy home at Merry Knoll. He had more gumption than that. He knows the fields were barren and the North wind was blowing and it was only fit for humans to be outside. And only humans would be crazy enough to be outside.

We would like to hear what the person who said "There is no fool like an old one" would say after he attended a teen-age dance and saw them doing the new steps.

When winter wraps a dreary world in robes of ermine snow,
It sets the weary human heart
With happiness aglow.
It brushes from the groggy brain
The cobwebs of despair,
And from the remnants of lost hope
It weaves a picture fair.
Thus February, with its winds
And crystal-crested earth,
Might well be hailed a messenger
Announcing springtime's birth.

COMMUNITY LOCALS

Merritt A. Copenhagen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Copenhagen and a student at Lebanon Valley College, returned to the college this week after spending his mid-term examination vacation with his home folks.

A letter received this week from one of the guests at the National Lutheran Home, Washington, D. C., tells of a thrill they had Saturday evening Jan. 25. A government secret service man brought to the home for the guests two dozen of beautiful yellow carnations from the White House, with Mrs. Eisenhower's card, and a picture of the White House on them in the chapel for the Sunday morning service, and again they were used as a centerpiece on the table at a party the afternoon of Jan. 27. We felt much "peppered-up" to be remembered thus.

CARD OF THANKS

I wish to express my sincere thanks to my friends and relatives for the prayers, cards, visits and flowers and all kindness shown me while a patient in the Annie M. Warner Hospital. All was greatly appreciated.

MRS. BESSIE M. SHRY.

NATIONAL ELECTRICAL WEEK

Imagine, if you can, what your life would be like without electricity.

Imagine a world without electric lights . . . radio, TV, motion pictures . . . without electric clothes washers and dryers, irons, refrigerators, vacuum cleaners, a world without X-Ray and electrocardiograph equipment . . . without electrically powered machine tools and office equipment. A world without whole industries that depend on electric power.

How different a world it would be from the one we know. So different that it's hard to realize that the changes in our civilization that have resulted from the harnessing of electricity have taken place in the short space of a man's lifetime - in the 78 years since Thomas A. Edison invented the first practical incandescent lamp.

This record of progress is the reason for National Electrical Week, which is observed annually during the week of Edison's birthday . . . this year, Feb. 9 through Feb. 15.

During this week, the men and women in all the various groups that make up the electrical industry join together to pay tribute to Edison and the other pioneers of electrical progress, to celebrate their industry's past accomplishments, and, most important, to rededicate their industry to continuing progress and service to the nation.

With the invention of the electric lamp, the way was open to a new world and an industry that was to become one of the nation's largest and most vital was born.

Since Edison's invention, the electrical industry has grown to the point where it now employs directly more than 2,600,000 persons. How many others owe their employment indirectly to electricity is incalculable. Virtually every industry in the nation is dependent on electric power to some degree. In the manufacturing industries, the chemical and petroleum industries, communications and entertainment industries, electricity is a vital necessity.

The use of electricity in the United States has at least doubled every ten years since the turn of the century, and as production has increased, costs have declined.

In the 78 years since Edison's epoch-making invention, electricity has become available in abundance and at low cost for use in countless ways that contribute to our health, safety, our national strength and to our high standard of living. In short, these past 78 years have been a period of tremendous progress for the electrical industry and the nation it serves.

OF INTEREST TO FARMERS

Self-employed farmers may use an alternate method for figuring their earnings for their farm. L. J. Gillespie, Field Representative of the local Social Security Administration office, and W. M. Metcalf Collection Officer of the Internal Revenue Service, reminded farm operators today.

It was pointed out that self-employed farmers may figure their earnings for social security in several ways.

(1) If your gross income from agricultural self-employment is not more than $1800, you may count as your net farm earnings either your actual net or 1/3 of your farm gross income;

(2) If your gross farm income is more than $1800, and your net farm earnings are less than $1200, you may use either your actual net or $1200;

(3) If your gross farm income is more than $1800 and your net farm earnings are $1200 or more, you must use the actual amount of your net earnings.

The use of the option will enable farmers with gross income as low as $600 to obtain social security protection for themselves in their old age and for their survivors in case of death. However, he emphasized that regardless of the way in which you figure your net earnings, you must have net earnings of at least $400 (from farming alone, or in combination with other SE earnings) in order to get social security credit for the year.

In addition to the revised optional method, the 1956 amendments extended social security coverage to some farm owners who receive cash or crop shares from tenant farmers. If the farm-laborer under his agreement with his tenant, materially participates in the production or management of production of the farm crops, raised on his land, this income, formerly excluded as rental income, may be reported for social security purposes. This provision is effective for taxable years ending after 1955.

Requests for information regarding taxes due and tax return forms should be directed to the Internal Revenue Office at Baltimore 2, Maryland. Questions concerning the old-age, survivors, and disability insurance program will be answered by your social security office at 3107 Greenmount Avenue, Baltimore 18, Md.

OPEN LETTER TO COUNTY COMMISSIONERS

The Commissioners of Carroll County, Maryland

Information, that the Jail Board of Baltimore has chosen a site in Carroll County, has come to the attention of the Gamber-Smallwood Improvement Association. On that site they intend to construct a penal institution for the rehabilitation of alcoholics, the incarceration of young offenders and others. What the term "others" connotes we do not know.

Regrettably, some of the young criminals are a very dangerous type. Experience tells us that there would be escapes who would be a threat to the peace, quiet and safety of the community. We do not have a police force to cope with such a situation.

The area of Carroll County is not so large as to warrant further depletion of the taxable base except where benefits accruing to the county would justify it. The penal institution referred to does not appear to promise comparable benefits. And the social disadvantages would far outweigh any possible economic contribution.

There might be some employment for residents of Carroll County but most likely the employees would come from the civil service rolls of the city and justifiably so. Sooner or later the county would be called on to furnish facilities which would cost much more than any income the county would receive as a result of the institution being located within its limits.

However much we may sympathize with the Jail Board's efforts to solve a very serious problem, it is well to remember that it has been stated by reliable persons that they have suitable acreage near needed hospital services and police protection.

Therefore we must earnestly urge the Commissioners of Carroll County not to consider a site in or near our community or in the county.

The Gamber-Smallwood Improvement Association. George Edward Knox, President.

It costs you nothing to give it (You'll keep it all the while!) It lives with you, and you live it—I'm speaking of a smile.

NEW CONCEPT OF AUTO INSURANCE

After a year of successful testing in Maryland and Delaware, a new concept of auto insurance is now being introduced in 10 other states by a major insurance company.

The coverage, developed by Nationwide Mutual Insurance Company, contains a simplified answer to a complex and often controversial problem.

The old problem: Who is entitled to payment—and how much—for injuries suffered in an automobile accident?

The new answer: Pay everyone that's hurt—up to $2,900 per person—regardless of the circumstances of the accident or who was at fault.

This answer, in substance, is the unique feature of the coverage tested in Delaware and Maryland for the past year under the name of "Alternative Compensation." Now it's being extended to other states as a basic part of the Nationwide Policy, under the new name of "Family Compensation."

Basically, it's an expansion of what is known as "medical payments," broadened to afford greater protection to the policyholder and his family—whether as drivers of any car, passengers in any car, or as pedestrians.

But the unique feature—a "first" in the industry—is the extension of this protection to the general public. J. Alfred Heltebride, local agent for Nationwide, gives the following example of how the new coverage works:

In a two-car accident, for example, the injured persons in both cars are offered immediate compensation if either car (or driver) is covered by "Family Compensation." These benefits are available to all injured persons, regardless of which driver was at fault. There is no need to establish liability.

Murray D. Lincoln, president of Nationwide, explains that the coverage was developed "on the theory that all injured persons are entitled to some compensation without being required to find a wrongdoer. We believe there needs to be an economic remedy, as well as a legal remedy. It is expected that this coverage will make compensation available to many injured persons who heretofore were unable to recover any part of their economic loss."

C. W. Leftwich, a Nationwide vice president whose office developed the new coverage, explained that the immediate offer of compensation does not interfere with the laws of negligence, which up to now have been the basis for settlement of third-party bodily injury claims.

"Family Compensation," Leftwich says, "is an alternative. An injured person may accept the specified benefits of 'Family Compensation,' without proving anyone was in the wrong; or he may pursue his claim under the laws of negligence, in which case he would be required to establish the liability of the person from whom he seeks damages. Either course is open to the accident victim, whichever he thinks is to his advantage."

Benefits under "Family Compensation" are for up to $2,900 for each injured person, and up to $7,900 in case of death.

MEETING OF HISTORICAL SOCIETY

The County Commissioners' room in the new county office building was filled to capacity when the Historical Society of Carroll County met there on the evening of January 23.

The following were at that time installed as officers of the organization for 1953: president, Dr. Theodore M. Whitfield; first, second, and third vice-presidents, Dr. Howard L. Knight, Lloyd B. Wilhide, and D. Myers Englar; secretary, Miss Edith Rill; treasurer, Irvin M. Hahn.

Those members of the Board of Directors whose term will expire December 31, 1953 are Mrs. Edgar G. Barnes, Uniontown; Miss Elizabeth M. Annan, Taneytown; Mrs. James M. Shriver, Myers (Westminster); Miss Estie Bosley, Dolersey (Finksburg); Mrs. Frank A. Woolery, Freedom (Sykesville). Those whose term will expire in 1954 are Mrs. Lloyd Wilhide, Middleburg; Mrs. Edwin A. Englar, New Windsor; Miss Pauline Fuss, Union Bridge; Mrs. Kriete Osborne, Berrett (Westminster); Mrs. Rena Kennedy, Mount Airy. The newly appointed members who will serve through 1960 are Leeds K. Billingslea, Westminster; Harry J. Starr, Westminster; Mrs. Homer Twigg Hampstead; Mrs. Margaret Stewart, Manchester; and Mrs. Edgar Pickett, Westminster.

Mrs. Arthur G. Tracey, membership chairman, reported that 20 new members have joined since November, making a total of 591.

The main feature of the evening was a guided tour in the new museum room of the Society, preceded by the announcement that the room will be open to visitors every Monday, Tuesday and Friday afternoon from 2 until 4 o'clock. Miss Sue Billingslea will head the following committee of volunteer guides: Mrs. Helen Morrell, Miss Pauline Fuss, Mrs. Edward D. Hahn, Mrs. Herbert Kyler, Mrs. Irvin Hahn, Mrs. Howard Knight, Mrs. Rena Kennedy, Mrs. Grace Bish, Miss Estie Bosley, Miss Mabel Albert and Mrs. Myrtle Gorsuch.

Mrs. Edgar G. Tracey, program chairman, announced that the next meeting of the Society will be Thursday evening, March 27, at the home of the organization. She requested that everyone attending bring a picture, description, or anecdote connected with an old mill that one stood in his neighborhood—including, of course, any that are still standing.

Spring cleaning brings to many homemakers' minds—care of carpets and rugs. Vivian L. Currutt, Maryland University Extension home furnishings specialist, reminds the housewife of these two bulletins: "Carpet and Rug Repair" Farmers' bulletin 1960, and "Clothes: Moths and Carpet Beetles—How to Combat Them", Home and Garden bulletin 24. Both are available for a small fee from Superintendent of Documents, U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington 25, D. C.

SENATE GLOAKROOM

by J. Glenn Baill
United States Senator Maryland

Remember the old joke about the thoughts connected with little Elmer's enrollment in school for the first time?

As I remember, it went something like this: His mother: "Just think, my little darling is almost grown up."

His father: "I hope he makes full-back."

His older sister: "That means I've got to walk to school with him instead of going with the kids."

His teacher: "I hope he's smarter than he looks."

His neighbors: "Thank heaven! Now we can have peace for a few hours a day."

Thoughts of Officials

That was all of the original item, but it seems to me that it could now stand a little serious up-dating.

Today, for instance, we could well add the thoughts of the public officials who must find the money to pay for little Elmer's education, and these thoughts would probably run like this:

Federal Responsibility

The problem is extremely important in all areas, but it is especially acute in those sections where the need for educational facilities has been increased because of activity by the Federal Government.

In the past the Government has recognized its responsibility to these areas and has provided financial aid under two public laws, one of which deals with the construction of school facilities and the other of which pertains to the maintenance and operation of them.

Personal Support for Aid

Now, unfortunately, the Congress has been asked to reduce this assistance.

As one of the original supporters and one of the most consistent advocates of Government aid for Federal-impacted areas, I fully intend not only to fight to maintain present payments but also to increase them to the level where they ought to be.

Two Considerations

Two considerations are involved in this issue—the moral and the economic. The moral aspects are obvious.

When the Government moves into an area and places new burdens on it, it must pay for the effects of the intrusion.

In fact, it should be even more than it has been doing, especially in cases where it removes valuable tax properties from the books of the local subdivisions.

Economic Aspect

The economic aspect of this matter is also very important. We must not dump heavy responsibilities onto communities, counties and states which cannot bear the burden, since to do so would merely disrupt a segment of the national economy which we are striving to strengthen.

Moreover, we cannot talk one day of increasing educational benefits and then plan the next day to take action which would necessarily lower the efficiency of a portion of our school system.

MR. THOMAS J. S. WAXTER SPEAKS TO COUNTY OFFICIALS AND WELFARE BOARD MEMBERS

Mr. Thomas J. S. Waxter, Director of the State Department of Public Welfare, met with the Carroll County Welfare Board and local officials on Monday evening, January 27, 1953, at Hoffman's Inn. Mr. Waxter talked about the Maryland Welfare Program and what changes are being presented to the Legislature this year. There were two major recommendations which were being made to the Legislature. The first proposal would increase the allowances for food for public assistance recipients. At present a single person receiving old age assistance receives $21.00 a month for food allowance. The new amount would be $27.00 a month. In his discussion regarding the need for an increase for food allowance, Mr. Waxter cited the fact that present Department food allowances are based on 1946 diet requirement and 1950 prices. With the increase of living costs, the present food allowance does not meet the minimum diet requirements.

The second proposal is for funds to be used toward improving present institutions for delinquent children and providing additional facilities for the study of children in trouble. This would include money to establish an institution to provide for the care of older and more aggressive boys. Also some of these funds would be used to establish a detention or study home for children in the Washington, D. C. area of Maryland. This home could be used by the Courts to study the children who come before them so that they could decide what might be the best plan of care for these children. Mr. Waxter also referred to the need to change Barrett Training School for Colored Girls to a school for both boys and girls so that the extra space which is available in that home can be utilized for more children. Mr. Waxter pointed out that even if the rate of children committed remains the same in relation to population, it will mean more children committed because of increase in population. This increase in population has been evident in the last ten years.

The dinner meeting was led by Mr. Edward O. Weant, Chairman of the Carroll County Welfare Board. Besides members of the Carroll County Welfare Board and its staff, Representatives Donald six, Joseph Hahn and Carroll Smith, and County Commissioners Edmund Carr and John D. Young attended the meeting. Mr. A. Earl Shipley, attorney for the County Commissioners, was also present.

The present members of the Board are Edward O. Weant, Jr., Chairman, Mrs. Margaret Englar, Mrs. Ernestine Prough, Mr. Murray Baumgardner, Mr. Edmund Carr, Mr. Ray LeGore and Mrs. Norman Boyle.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Dear Friend:

It is indeed a pleasure to pause in the rush and hurry of everyday life to write this special letter to you just for the purpose of saying thanks.

Reviewing the past year and the fact that Maryland had a reduction in its highway death toll of two (548 for 1957 and 550 for 1956), we must acknowledge your help and cooperation. We know that any reduction and progress which has been made in the field of traffic safety is due directly to your co-operation and the confidence which such citizens as yourself have placed in this Commission. We want you to know that your contributions to this worthy cause are sincerely appreciated by all of us.

However, when you compare two deaths to the year's total of five hundred forty-eight, it seems small in contrast. The fact remains, these two precious lives which were saved could very easily have been yours and mine.

We fully realize the tragedy and

Home Buyer Can Be Sure Of Insulation

Looking for a house to buy? Here are seven questions and answers about insulation you should know when you inspect any house. They'll help you judge whether you would live comfortably in it and whether it would be economical to run:

1. What areas are insulated? Outside walls and ceilings should always be insulated. In basement houses there should be floor insulation over crawl spaces or around the edges of a concrete slab. Insulation forms a tight blanket around house living spaces. It keeps heat in during winter, out in summer.

2. How much insulation? A 6-inch thickness of mineral wool in the ceiling, 4 inches in walls, and 2 inches in floors where necessary is recommended if a house is electrically heated or air conditioned. At least 4 inches in the ceiling, 3 inches in walls, and 2 inches in floors is recommended for houses with conventional heating systems.

3. How can proper application be checked? Although much insulation is hidden, it's possible to inspect attic or attached garage insulation. If there is a crawl space, go in and look.

4. Is insulation tightly applied? Staples used in application of batts or blanket insulation shouldn't be more than 6 inches apart.

5. Is insulation complete? Look for gaps in insulation. Odd-shaped and small spaces should be insulated. Insulation should be brought snugly up to electrical boxes, wiring, and pipes.

6. Is the vapor barrier properly installed? Insulation should have its vapor barrier toward the heated-in-winter side of walls and ceilings. The vapor barrier should be snugly applied.

7. Is the space over ceiling insulation ventilated? Ceiling insulation works better if the space between the inside surface of the roof and the outside surface of the insulation is ventilated. Louvers under eaves or at gable ends of the roof make a house more comfortable.

New Uses Suggested For China Cabinets

Stock china cabinets have many uses besides storing family china or glassware. The cabinets, made of ponderosa pine, can be used as enclosures for high fidelity music components and records, as book shelves, for special flower arrangements, and as a special exhibition place for rocks and shells, or other collectors' items.

The bottom portion of the cabinets can be altered as a hiding place for one of the new thin television receivers.

Available from building material dealers, ponderosa pine cabinets can be finished in rich natural wood tones or painted to harmonize with room decor.

Daring To Teach

Lesson for February 9, 1958

TEACHING is not always a drab matter of pounding facts into people's heads. It can be something much more exciting than spinning fine theories which only a few "egg-heads" can understand. Teaching can be dramatic; it can even be daring. It can be met not only with sleepy indifference but with stones, rotten eggs or worse. This is true of the teaching of the church. Admitted, what the church sometimes passes off for "teaching" is dull stuff. There are churches where what is taught seems to make no difference whatever to the people who hear it. There are churches where the preacher or teacher seems to have joined the politician in singing the praises of home, peace and mother, amen.

How It Was With Jesus

Teaching can get people into trouble. Jesus himself went to the cross because of his teachings. The mobs that nearly lynched him on more than one occasion were stirred by his teaching. Whether people were angered or not, they were always impressed.—astonished, Matthew says. Yet he dared to teach, and did not quiet down over "controversial" issues. He expected his followers to be equally daring, but he did not tell them to expect every one who heard them to believe them. If the church in any way follows Christ, it must be a teaching church, and must not shrink from teaching the unpopular, the unpleasant, when it is true. The first word spoken to Jesus after the resurrection, so far as our record goes, was the word Rabboni which means Teacher! One of the last commands he gave his disciples was to go and in their turn make disciples of all nations—that is, make pupils, for "disciple" means "learner," "Student."

Teaching Through Centuries

All down the centuries we find the church teaching. Philip teaches a lone rider the meaning of a passage from the Bible; Paul highlights two special matters for Timothy's special concentration: himself—his personal life—and his teaching. Timothy is to entrust the truth to men who will be able to teach still others. When Paul is urging Timothy to follow his (Paul's) example, the first item he mentions in his teaching. When Paul holds up the importance of the Scriptures, the first point he mentions is the usefulness of the Bible in teaching. There was plenty of preaching in Paul's life, but he was not one to let teaching fall out of sight.

So it was in the long history of the church. It is true, there were places and times when the teaching duties of the church were forgotten. But as the Roman Empire crumbled and darkness fell across Europe, it was the Christian church which undertook the vast work of teaching the raw and untamed barbarian peoples of the continent. Every monastery was a center that kept the lamp of learning alight. One Bishop of the 8th and 9th centuries—Theodulph of Orleans, was not only the leading poet of his time, but as Bishop he insisted that every one of his priests establish a school and make education open to all. Guibert of Nogent, an Abbot who lived at the time of the Crusades, wrote a little book he called "How to Make a Sermon" but it is plain he had no use for pulpit orators; he wanted sermons from which wide-awake listeners could learn Christian truth.

The Courage to Teach

In our time, what with the printing press, radio, TV, prosperity, and photography, the church teaches in many more ways, and more effectively, than could be done in any Christian century before now. In Sunday schools, day schools, colleges, conferences, study groups; in newspapers, quarterlies, tracts, magazines, books, film strips, catechisms, plays; in pronouncements of church courts, in textbooks, in popular books, in the findings of great interchurch study conferences such as the one at Oberlin last September; in these as by the week-to-week preaching of the Word all around the world, the church is teaching her members, often what many members do not welcome (as when a southern church speaks out against segregation), what the Word of God means when spoken in today's world.

Natural Light, Ventilation Vital in Attic Conversion

New windows add more light and ventilation to attic living space. Inset, right, shows same attic "before" conversion.

One of the major problems of converting an attic into comfortable living space is the need for more natural light and ventilation.

The ideal solution is to construct dormers with large windows. But this is expensive, since it means extensive remodeling by professional workmen.

Another solution is shown in the photographs. Here single windows in the gable ends of the attic were replaced with double casement units of ponderosa pine. This more than doubled the amount of light in the attic, and increased ventilation at least four times, since the casement windows open 100 per cent.

This added ventilation, plus the installation of thick mineral wool insulation in walls and ceilings, makes the attic comfortable even on the hottest days of summer. In winter, the insulation keeps heat inside. The new attic living space stays warm and is more economical to heat.

In the attic shown, windows of ponderosa pine were used since they could be painted to match other windows on the outside, and painted or stained on the inside to complement interior decor.

Many teen-agers were trying out "The Safety Car". I think mainly to win the big sum of money which was offered in the test and of course as I stood in that car and listened, I observed much! Nuff sed!

The Tempo Matador station wagon capable of seating 12 people is one of the newer German vehicles and the local distributor is City Chevrolet Co., on West Mt. Royal Ave. That wagon appeared as the type which is the delivery for the bread man to your door. Not much style! American station wagons may seat less individuals but they truly are in a class by themselves.

All down through the years visiting the Auto Show—this year is the GREATEST!

More letters to add to my famous collection. This time one from United States Representative to The United Nations, Henry Cabot Lodge. There's a man American needs for a president.

One from Vincent Lopez, one from our President, and one from a grand former Senator (who will always bear that title), Senator George L. Radcliffe.

Hope you did not miss the "Come Back" of Frances Farmer on the program of "This Is Your Life!"

Well, ladies, that awful chemise dress is getting more severe all the time and is really hideous, not even becoming to a slim gal. As for those balloon skirts for the teen-ager, they are ridiculous and the crazy part is just this—men laugh so much at the styles and yet they are the creators.

Are you keeping up with the interesting story of Bernard Baruch running in the News-Post of Baltimore? It is so sweet and homey and I think you know just what I mean. He is a "Leo" born individual, from July 20 to Aug. 20, and, well, they are just the smartest.

Then, there is the story in the Reader's Digest of "Mark Twain" which you will love and perhaps bring a tear or two. It tells just how he adopted his pen name of Mark Twain.

What a surprise in visiting the patient in Church Home hospital and when making inquiries at the information window, a little elderly lady opened what appeared to be a note book and ran her fingers smoothly across the page. She was reading braille and then directed me to the location. You see what I mean, folks, when you read in my columns that life is most interesting and beautiful? In the far off corner of the hospital is a tiny room where food is served by ladies who volunteer for that service for the hospital. Anyone can partake of the sandwiches, soup, cakes, ice cream, coffee or a soft drink. That hospital is just one hundred years old this year and a big Valentine Party is scheduled at the Sheraton-Belvedere Hotel and the public is invited. The proceeds go for many things which the hospital needs.

And that reminds me, don't forget that the 14th of February is Valentine Day so be sure you send those red, red roses to your bestest! They speak and say, "I love you" in any language. Candy, too, is always a treat but regardless of age there is something about sending flowers that touch the heart of any girl or woman regardless of age.

And as to the famous Zircos down at Hochschild's, they are fabulous and inasmuch as diamonds are shown at the same counter, the buyer, believe it or not, selects the Zircos. Diamonds are positively not a Girl's Best Friend!

See you next week D.V. Have a great week-end. Be careful when you drive. I am,

Faithfully,
YOUR OBSERVER.

GUS TRIANDOS IN TANEYTOWN

Approximately 90 persons attended the sports banquet on Monday, Feb. 3 in the Taney Inn sponsored by the Junior Chamber of Commerce. The meeting was opened with prayer by Bill Copenhaver followed with the Jaycee Creed. President Robert Boone extended welcoming remarks to the group after which Bill Copenhaver who was toastmaster for the event introduced the guest speaker, the Oriole Baseball Catcher, Gus Triandos. Gus commented humorously on his experiences in field of baseball and then invited questions from the group. The program of questions and answers became quite interesting and entertaining to everyone.

At the annual pottery works picnic there were a lot of girls looking for husbands—and a lot of husbands looking for girls.

One Nation, Undivided!

The great need of today is for spiritual leadership. A continued rivalry of might and muscle, among men and nations, will lead to the abyss. We sit with finger on the trigger of forces of self-destruction. Only the spirit of "live and let live" can save us. Let us take the lead in working for tolerance, good-will and understanding among the peoples of the earth.

No Banking Business will be Transacted on this Holiday.
