SENATOR FLANAGAN

Problems of the State Legislature Explained

The Maryland State legislature convened last week for its short session of thirty days. As you probably know our work will be confined to the budget and pressing state-wide bills. Local legislation must wait until 1959.

With your permission let me give you a picture of the financial position of our state at this time. In order to do this we must go back a few years and see what has happened. Like a family, Maryland has an income it receives from its citizens in the form of taxes out of which it pays for the construction of buildings and to meet payrolls to persons whom we hire to perform certain services for the public good. Over the years it has become the policy of the Federal Government and the various States to accept many responsibilities that were borne by other agencies, such as the family and other private groups. While this new concept has received universal acceptance in America several things have happened to distort the financial impact upon us.

To mention a few, we begin to work and earn our own living much later in life; we live longer and therefore spend more years in re-tirement; at the first hint of illness we are hospitalized; when a crime is committed we are confined and treated instead of being sent to the chain gang. At the same time our standard of living has risen to new heights and the purchasing power has descended to new depths. All of these are reflected in the cost of Government.

On July 1, 1956, the State ended its fiscal year with a surplus of over 26 millions of dollars. Even though we spent more the next year this money in the bank permitted a balanced budget without new taxes. Then because of higher personal incomes more taxes were collected than were expected and that year ended with a surplus of nearly 23 millions. But during the summer and fall of 1957 there was a slow down in the national economy and the year ending this July will find us without any surplus worth mention-

So we will begin the new year without the usual windfall, while creased population and expanded services will require more income to the tune of over 20 millions. This means that instead of having a surplus of 20 millions we will have a deficit of nearly 40 millions.

After the supper the meeting was held with Mrs. A. D. Alexander and Mrs. Sara Michea leading the devotions. Mrs. Harry Reindollar was pianist. Miss Sandra Shorb sang "I Sylvia Howarth, Catherine Clingan, Howarth, Catherine Cli ments for State employees almost given, the entire increase is again reflected in the functions of Education, Health, will receive the National Citation for Welfare and Correction which together with Retirement System re- Jan. 23rd. quirements account for 92% of the

While the income and sales taxes spread the burden of the State over the entire population they are very sensitive to the ups and downs of the national economy. When we have layoffs, reduction of salaries through part-time employment, closing factories or reduced prices of commodities to farmers, we immediately see less taxes going to the State treasury. The fiscal officers of Maryland have tried to be conservative in their estimates of income, but unless there is an upturn in the economy by late summer, we could end the year with a deficit. On the other hand if employment increases we could expect a surplus.

Turning the pages of one of my scrap books (and I have three of them) causes a smile and a sigh and pleasant memories! As I opened the book which is one for all types of 'Memories' I saw the cute Valentines the boys sent me many years ago. As I read the affectionate verses which were sent to me while in my first parsonage, I again imagine that I parsonage, I again imagine that I am right there living those wonderful years all over again. "I think I could rise quickly with a Sweetie like you!" "No other Valentine could compare with you!" and the third one from the youngest "It's a safe bet, I want to get on the ground floor and have you for my Valentine!"

and the boys were all married, a very important one arrived from the West and this is it—"A Valentine for Mother, most people seem to think this is a special time, some way, but to me its not much different from any other day. For though I love you lots today, that's always true, you know. The only difference. Mother, is, today, I'll tell you so!" Then on the bottom of that Valentine was. "To My 'Best Gal', Love, Francis." Who says, "Don't look back!" I say, "Look back at the beautiful things in life and omit all those things which make you feel sad!"

make you feel sad!" Then, as I turn another page, a pamphlet of "The Convict Ship", named "Success" which was launched at Moulmein, B. E. India in 1790, which was touring the principal ports of the world as an educational object lesson and visited by over 21 million people. That Convict Ship was down in the waters in Baltimore years ago. The entrance fee was 50 cents and then it had an American Commander, Captain D. H. Smith. That ship will linger in anyone's memory, of the tortures inflicted by the English many years ago. Even at Moulmein, B. E. India in 1790, the English many years ago. Even for so small a thing as a debt! I wrote of this ship in a column a few years ago for "The Carroll Record". Remember? Then, there is the circular about the most beautiful painting I have ever seen, called, "Nana". There are many write-ups of the plays I have written and produced and the big article about winning the contest titled, "What would yo do if you were suddenly left a lot of money" (and that reminds me, in a very near future column) I will write, "When I was left suddenly with a

ECONOMIC HIGHLIGHTS

Debate over American education, with special emphasis on the high schools, has been running hot and heavy for several years. Practically everyone seems to believe that something is seriously wrong-but, naturally, there are wide differences as to what should be done. Proposed solu- characters 'die' by the dozens every cent of all high school students took tions run a wide gamut—better pay day in racket shows, westerns, high- chemistry; 24.5 per cent took physics; for teachers; still more elaborate school plants and facilities; federal aid; major changes in curricula; special schools or classes for exceptionally bright students, and so

Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare Folsom has told us that only one out of every three or four recent high school graduates has been exposed to even a year of chemistry or physics, or mathematics beyond simple algebra. Russian secondary school graduates, on the other hand, have taken five years of physics, four of chemistry, and big doses of mathematics. So the question is: What's wrong, and what can be done to remedy matters?

The Wall Street Journal sent its reporters to talk to school officials, teachers, and others throughout the country. As was to be expected, many of those queried stressed the need for better teachers and better schools. But the answer did not stop there. As the Journal puts it: ". . mainly about the students-their lack of interest in science and math, their hesitancy to take courses in

A New York physics teacher said: "The majorty of youngsters today prefer to take the softest classes, they can find," and added that his school only had about half as many physics students now as 10 years ago. A San Francisco educator said much the same thing: ". . . our big problem isn't a shortage of teachers or facilities, but a shortage of serious students with the aptitude and interest to get the most out of their work."

How can such a situation exist in our enormously expensive school establishment? In answer a Detroit teacher told the Journal: "The elective system has reached the point where students can choose almost anything they want." So they choose easy courses instead of tough courses and get the same credit. On top of past week, that, there are all manner of academic frills which divert students from academic work-driver training classes, cooking classes, citizenship classes, etc. And school administrators, too, have been misled by the frills with the result, according to the Journal, that school funds have been diverted ". . . from basic academic needs to athletic programs, social events or other 'non-essentials'."

What all this adds up to is a belief, held by many informed people, that money alone is not the solution to this country's science education problem—though, of course, there is no The state has been waging a tough doubt that more money is needed in many cases both to attract better teachers and to improve school facilities. There is an urgent need to reexamine and re-assess our school systems, particularly in regard to science teaching. That is going on have been declining. Where they now, the Journal reports, in numbers of places-and there's little doubt there'll be more and more of it.

The roof on the old covered bridge at Bridgeport, over the Monocacy, partly caved in this week, but not sufficient to render the bridge impassable. Commissioner Fink, for Carroll, and Annan, for Frederick county, inspected the damage and it seems likely that the whole top of the structure will be given thorough repair. The bridge is 58 years old, and some are of the opinion that practically a new one is needed.

The Governor has proclaimed Feb. 21 as World Day of Prayer. This observance, which is world wide, has been taking place for quite a number of years and is becoming more and more observed in Carroll County each year. Services are held in 144 different countries in 1000 languages. (I heard this item over the TV). The women of the Keysville community will observe the World Day of Prayer on the 21st by holding services at 7:45 in the Keysville Lutheran church with Mrs. Walter Horine of Walkersville as the speaker. It is too bad that our young people will not be able to attend this service in great numbers because of the Carroll County Basketball Tournament which begins in Westminster on that night. The Union Bridge Girls 4-H Club will meet on Feb. 17th with Betty and Mary Helen Shibley, Louise Nelson and Georgia Asbury as the hostesses. It has been decided to hold this meeting in the Keysville Church basement.

Little Barbara Gross, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Gross, Gettysburg, was the overnight guest of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Luther Keeney and uncle Jerry of near Keys-

FEESERSBURG (A Voice from Carroll)

"It's beyond me!" a young farmer told his wife. "You're always tired and overworked. My mother raised eight of us kids, tended a big garden, helped dad with the butchering, kept a big flock of poultry, milked the cows half the time, cooked for hired men, taught Sunday School, churned and baked, carried wood to the old kitchen range, did the washing by hand, and read us bed-time stories while resting before doing the supper dishes. Re torted the provoked wife: "I just prefer not dying too young". Senator Butler of Maryland sent out an interesting letter January 27th on the subject of education. Quoting from his letter: "Sputnik has awakened the American people to the fact that Russian students are well trained and contrary to usual communists beliefs are provided with every in-centive for individual performance. Many teachers in America think it is undemocratic to give the gifted child greater advantages. They seem to think that admission of failure is worse for the child than pretense of success. Our schools must discharge further responsibility. Every high school graduate must have an appresidation of the economic facts of life. ida where they visited many places They must be made to understand of interest. For some time we have been looking for the early robin heralding the coming of spring. But no robin has dared to appear with zero weather around. Instead we have two cardinals and two bluebirds that appear every day. The other morning the bluebirds looked especially plump, and for a minute I thought they had put on winter underwear. But they

family ever enjoyed being kept out of the kitchen. When modern homes only allowed a six by ten kitchen with all modern appliances there was no room left only for the cook. Now the trend is to large family sized kitchens where the emphasis is on comfort ather than style. There is even room a rocking chair and a cat. I never did like those white efficiency kitchens. They reminded me too much of an operating room. Whenever I pre- G. pared a meal in one, it seemed to me that I was setting up for an appendix operation instead of just getting an ordinary lunch. The contrast is ghastly isn't it, but that is just the way I felt. The Pennsylvania Dutch knew how to make a kitchen large and comfortable enough to accommodate every member of the family. REPORT OF CAMPAIGN FOR FUNDS FOR THE CARROLL COUNTY ASSOCIATION FOR RETARDED CHILDREN

Col. Joseph R. Hess, campaign chairman, announces the total amount collected during the third annual fund-raising campaign for retarded children to be $7678.62 with an additional $184 worth of equipment and donations made directly to the schools during the campaign period. The sum of these gifts, donations, and campaign funds makes a grand total of $7862.62.

Though no goal was set, this amount compares very favorably with the $8095.95 figure for last

Following is a statement of the amount collected in each district: Barrett, $47.43; Franklin, $112.50; Barrett, $47.43; Franklin, $112.50; Freedom, $866.74; Hampstead, $480.-16; Manchester, $685.55; Mt. Airy, $1190.69; Myers, $369.40; New Windsor, $367.71; Taneytown, $446.55; Union Bridge, $430.56; Uniontown, $190.47; Westminster, $2031.77; and Wooley, $450.09 Total $7678.62 Woolery, $459.09. Total, $7678.62

Those serving as district chairmen were: Westminster door-to-door solicitation, Mrs. Frances Kuhler and Mrs. Ethel Barrick, co-chairmen for the American Legion Auxiliary; Westminster businesses, Mrs. Paul R. Leatherwood, Jr.; chairman for Jaycettes; Hampstead, Mrs. Richard Dickson; Uniontown, Mrs. Richard Dickson; Uniontown, Mrs. John Hyle; Taneytown, Mrs. Charles D. Baker, chairman for the Firemen's Auxiliary; Union Bridge and Middlebur, Mrs. Raymond Selby, Jr.; New Windsor, Mrs. Fred S. Condon, chairman, for the Firemen's Auxiliary man for the Firemen's Auxiliary Sykesville, Mrs. Marion Cook; Barrett, Mrs. Milton Edkhardt; Mt. Airy, Mr. Herman S. Beck, Jr., chairman for the Mt. Airy Lions Club; Woolery, Mrs. Merwyn D. Dutterer; Manchester, Mrs. Eugene Jordan; and Myers, Mrs. Robert H. Harman.

The members of the Association for Retarded Children are very grateful to Col. Hess and the district chairman whose untiring efforts made this another successful campaign. They are grateful, too, for the cooperation of the radio and press; and, even more, for the continued support of the people of Carroll County in this worthwhile cause. Fifteen per cent of these funds will be sent to the National Association for Retarded Children for research; the remaining eighty-five per cent will be used in Carroll County in establishing one or more of the projects making up a total comprehensive program for retarded children. This program includes a community diagnostic-treatment clinic, home counselling, nursery classes, day care centers for the severely retarded, classes for the trainable retarded, ing recreational, social, and counseling facilities, religious education classes, community minded residence center, and research and professional

A survey is being made at the present time to determine which of these projects should be given foremost consideration in order to best serve our Carroll County children.

cience of the times RELIEF FROM HYPERTENSION

HYPERTENSION—high blood pressure—is still pretty much of a medical mystery. Doctors know the immediate mechanical cause of high blood pressure—the constriction of the arterioles, the smallest branches of the artery tree. To force the blood through these narrowed passageways, the heart must work harder, thus increasing the blood pressure.

The question is: what causes the arterioles to narrow? Many diseases can cause artery con-striction, and in such cases, high blood pressure is no mystery. In most instances, however, high blood pressure exists alone, or it leads to other diseases. In these cases, the underlying cause is still a matter of specu-

A wide range of treatments have been used to combat high blood pressure, such as drugs to dilate the blood vessels, special diets and delicate nervesevering operations. All these methods work in some patients, are ineffective in others.

Recently, a two-pronged approach to treatment of high blood pressure was announced at the Cardiac Clinic of St. Barnabas Medical Center, Newark, N. J. This involves a combination of two drugs, mecamy-lamine, a drug that blocks the passage of the nerve impulses that constrict the blood vessels and the tranquilizing drug "Miltown," which acts to ease anxiety and tension, make patients more manageable and, in general, improve their outlook.

Used in this manner the two drugs brought a significant reduction in blood pressure to 35 of 37 patients, in some a reduction to normal levels, as well as a decrease in headaches and apprehension, common symptoms of high blood pres-

The doctors report that the course of the disease.

tranquilizing drug could not be considered of value in actually lowering the blood pressure, but that in some patients it appeared to add to the effect of the nerve-blocking drug. Its chief value, they emphasized, was in reducing the anxiety that normally accompanies a disease of this kind. In this respect, they added, "Miltown" has advantages over previous drugs used as aids in the treatment of high blood pressure, in that it is not habit-forming and lacks serious side effects.

The nerve-blocking drug, they point out, is superior to previous drugs of its kind in that its effect lasts longer, and that all of it gets into the blood stream to do its work, rather than being absorbed in other parts of the body where it is of no value.

The doctors caution that although the combination is definitely of value in reducing blood pressure and improving the patient's symptoms and outlook, it is too early to predict how this one-two attack on high blood pressure will change the

It's only natural to forget. Even an important date, or an anniversary, can slip your mind until the very moment is here. Time was, when you forgot an event, there was no quick solution. Today it's no trouble at all to recapture time with a phone call. And that call gives the person you momentarily forgot a pleasant feeling of being remembered. Lesson for February 16, 1958

W HY IS there so much talking in church? By the preacher, that is. There are denominations that don't take much stock in preaching—and in consequence are not famous for good sermons. But the churches supporting this column are all preaching churches.

They make a  great deal of it. When you attend a "worship service" at 11 A.M. on Sunday in one of these churches, out of an hour's time you will be ex-

all printed out? The Christian curom of preaching arose because this religion took its start among illiterate people. Those who could really read and write, beyond a few words, were far more rare than they now are in the civilized lands of the world. Furthermore, since all the first Christians were Jews, they were already used to the synagogue service, where from childhood they had been brought up to expect some one to read aloud and to explain the Scriptures.

Person to Person If the Christian church had depended, when it began, on written literature, it would hardly have got a start. All through the New Testament one finds expressions like "faith comes by what is heard." Not by what is read! The very word "preaching" means proclaiming, and seldom refers to written proclamations. The question may occur to a modern Christian: Isn't this out of date? Don't we live in an age of public schools and literacy? A e we expected al-ware, and not by eye? There are many good reasons ways to have fath by ear, as it

why even the most progressive churches have no intention of giving up preaching, or to put it on one side. It is quite true (and has always been true) that there are other ways of "hearing" the Gospel than by ear. Nevertheless preaching is still blessed by God. This does not mean that every socalled sermon enjoys God's blessing. Some "preaching" is no better than a lot of unlovely noise. But preaching is blessed; that is, by it men are aroused from indifference to God, they are converted, growing Christians are helped to grow, and suffering Christians are helped to take their burdens in a Christ-like way. Why is this? One of the reasons is that good preaching is person-to-person. It has a thismeans-you overtone in it. A written thing can be ignored, thrown into a wastebasket; but it is harder to ignore a sincere man who is talking to you about God and you.

Congregations could help themselves, and the preacher, if they would do something about this. Try to make out what the subject is. What's He Driving At?

The common expression, "What's he driving at?" really means, What is he trying to say, in a nutshell? What is the theme, the topic, the subject, of his remarks? A poor preacher may not even know; or he may know what he is trying to talk about, but his actual sermon may cast no light whatever on his subject. But in a good sermon everything the preacher says comes out of his central theme or idea. And -a most important point: his central theme or dea ought to be drawn from God's Word. If not, then the so-called preacher is actually only reading an essay or giving a nambling talk on some of his own notions

What's He Driving For? If a minister really preaches the Word of God, if he takes the whole Bible for his base-line, he will not lack for vital and thrilling subjects. But one of America's most famous preachers, whose wife used to ask him regularly every Friday night, "Darling, what's your subject for next Sunday?" was thrown into a tailspin by a different question from her, one night: "Darling, what's your object?" Preaching, when it is good, is persuasive. The object is to take people from where they are at least a little nearer to where they ought to be. Ministers are often taught to "preach for a verdict." If a minister is really preaching the Word, he will be proclaiming the Way of Life. He will be making the way to God simple, and the life in God real. Like Paul, he wants by all means "to win some"-to Christ.

Why guess? Have your soil sampled and tested free by A.A.C. Soil Service.

How much fertilizer will your crop need?

Y OU CAN'T expect to get a high yield on next year's crop unless there is enough plant food available in your soil. But guessing how much fertilizer your soil needs to grow that big crop is risky business. You can eliminate this risk by taking advantage of the free A.A.C. Soil Service.

Guided by the size and topography of your field, an A.A.C. fieldman will take an adequate number of borings for a good soil sample. He'll record a complete and accurate crop history of the field, too. Then the carefully marked sample will be mailed to the nearest A.A.C. laboratory where trained chemists will analyze it to find out how much available plant food it contains. Tests will also be run to determine soil pH. Results and field history will then be studied carefully by A.A.C. agronomists familiar with farm practices in your area.

In a few weeks you'll receive a complete report of the fertility level of the field, with sound, practical advice on how and when to fertilize and lime to grow a better crop. Recommendations will be made for your particular crop and soil. This report can take the guess out of buying fertilizer.

NOTICE TO IRREGULAR VOTERS

Attention of residents of the county who have not been in their voting habits is called to a statute which requires that their name be stricken from the voting lists if they have not voted within the last five years. In recent months, the Board of Election Superivsors of Carroll County, have struck the names of thousands of persons from the list of eligible voters for the reason that they have not exercised their right of franchise for five years.

The Carroll County Election Board now located on the first floor of the new county office building, has been removing the names of those who have not voted for five years, in com-pliance with section (b) of paragraph 40 of Article 33 of the Annotated

Code, which provides:

"If a registered voter in any county has not voted at least once at a primary, general or special election within the five preceding calendar years, it shall be the duty of the Board of Election Supervisors of each county, or of the Board of Permanent Registry in counties having a system of permanent registration, to cause the registration of such voter to be cancelled by erasing his name from the registry . . . or, in counties having a system of permanent registration by removing the registration cards, or forms of said voter from the original and duplicate files and placing the same in a transfer file; a notice of such action and the reason therefor shall be sent to the last known address of such voter; provided, however, that the registration of no person shall be so cancelled during his service in the Armed Forces of the United States and further provided that this sub-section shall not be applicable to Baltimore City."

If the name of a person has been stricken from the rolls, he must re-register in order to qualify to vote in any future election.

For the convenience of the public, the Board office in the new county building will be open every Saturday from 9 a. m. to 3 p. m. to accommodate any one who wishes to register, transfer, change name or affiliation, or transact any other business with or transact any other business with the election group, now composed of J. Then, there are in that special scrap book, the programs of the minstrel shows when I was master of ceremonies and interlocutor. They were truly lots of fun which minstrel shows are always. (It makes it all the more interesting when we know the characters taking part.) There is the Gettysburg 'Lincoln Address' which I heard by actor-singer Ray Middleton in that immortal 157-word speech at the pageant that was just 100 years old in 1948, just ten years ago. On a program, there is the signature of then the governor of Maryland, W. Preston Lane, Jr. As I turn another page of the scrap book, there is the large photograph of a princess whom all America loves, sitting on a chair in the long and beautiful hallway of Buckingham Palace with bent head looking at a magazine, outfitted in a most glamorous evening gown. On another page is the signature of Ripley given to me on the train just be-fore his death returning north from Florida at Easter time. Then, there are several articles and pictures of that great General MacArthur, who said, "Old soldiers do not die but just fade away!"

Then, there are the papers of "The Quill", which was published monthly by The Amateur Press Club of Maryland which was a club for those who had talent in writing. That was 20 years ago. In one part of that particular issue it states about two great personalities being born in February, Abe Lincoln and our first president, George Washington. Of course, there were other 'greats' in February, too, Paul Revere, Millard Fillmore. Alexander Hamilton, Benedict Arnold, Daniel Webster, Gen. Robert E. Lee, Stonewall Jackson, and Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

There are two other most unusual greetings for Christmas from a flyer in our Service of the year of 1943. One reads, Seasons Greetings, The United States Army Forces, China, Burma and India, and another personal greeting which reads, "Dear Nice People "Another one" overseas but now closer to—Peace on Earth—good will to men! Best wishes. Bill!

There you have it, folks, just part of one of my scrap books. The other two are a little different—one of many famous letters and the other entirely of Franklin Delano Roosevelt from the time of babyhood to his death-and this book won the plue ribbon right here in this county.

And hope, gentlemen, you did not miss last Tuesday night's mat performance with the all-time favorite, Rocca and the German, Karl von-Hess. I had not enjoyed such a good laugh for many a moon and then, too, with that little he-man of a referee who seemed to help things along! Eh?

So long, folks. Have a grand week end. Don't drive if you are tired or sleepy and don't turn over the wheel to Jr., if he is not a most careful
