GOOD FRIDAY

Three Hours of Service in the Presbyterian Church

The annual three hour Good Friday worship marking the dying hours of Christ as the sacrifice for mankind will this year be held in the Presbyterian Church beginning at 12 o'clock noon.

During those hours of agony and anguish such as none other of God's children ever had to endure our Lord spoke audibly seven times, and these expressions have been identified as "the words from the Cross."

The words are "Father, forgive them for they know not what they do;" "Today shalt thou be with me in paradise;" "Woman, behold thy son;" "Behold thy mother;" "My God, my God, why hast thou forsaken me?" "I thirst;" "It is finished;" and "Father, into thy hands I commend my spirit."

The ministers of the local Protestant Churches will present meditations upon these words and special music will be provided by the members of the various churches, in addition to the scriptural readings, prayers and hymns which are part of the total worship.

The people of the community are urged to give themselves to any or all of the periods of devotion and to let their spirits be quickened by the real meaning of the first Good Friday.

EASTER IN GRACE CHURCH

On Sunday evening at 8 o'clock Grace United Church of Christ will conclude the 1958 Easter Season with a moving and inspiring program by the Sunday Church School.

The various classes of children under the direction and supervision of their teachers will present songs and give recitations.

A pageant entitled "Easter Wonders" will be dramatized. The story of the pageant centers around the people who saw Jesus alive after his having risen from the grave and of his victory over death. In a doubting and unbelieving world the people of our time can and will find new hope and strength in the testimony of these early believers to the greatest event in human history—the Resurrection of Christ.

The Spirit of Christianity introduces the various scenes so that those present are so vividly taken back to the fright and awe of the soldiers guarding the tomb and how the crafty priests endeavored to find a loophole out of their predicament by resorting to bribery. The witness of the women who went to anoint his body, finding the tomb empty, fails to soothe the aching heart of Peter because of his earlier denial. Mary Magdalene's hopeless sorrow is turned to complete joy when she testifies concerning her risen Lord.

The maidservants in Herod's palace are concerned and very much frightened about the happenings of the horrible crucifixion. The faithfulness of the doubting Thomas is turned to belief when he beholds his Master. The appearance of Jesus himself as a supper-guest in a follower's home quickens their hearts to bear witness to his great victory.

At the conclusion Jesus visits with his disciples touching their hearts with an undying love as they recommit their lives to a greater service and those of his present day witnesses are challenged to rededicate themselves to a more loyal and faithful service as his followers.

The Senior Choir will sing special music throughout the pageant. The cast of characters is as follows: Misses: Jeanne Howarth, Doris Myers, Elaine Wiley, Vicki Lambert, Phyllis Clingan, Elaine Anders, and Sandra Motter and Ruth Shoemaker; Messrs: Robert Lawrence, Jr., Allen Baumgardner, William J. Stonesifer, Paul Andreas, Wilbur Thomas, Neal Powell, David Reifsnider, Roland Reaver, Jr., Glenn Reifsnider, William Fouche, George Motter, George Fream and Rev. Andreas.

The committee arranging and planning the program consisted of Mrs. Morgan Andreas, Mrs. Ned Musser, Mrs. Mary Clingan, Miss Margaret Shreeve and Mr. Frank Wargny.

CHARGES AGAINST LOAN ASSOCIATION

Senator Beall Will Ask For An Investigation

Washington, D. C.—U. S. Senator J. Glenn Beall (R., Md.) took the Floor of the Senate to expose the operations of "The Family Savings and Loan Association," doing business in Maryland, with its activities centered in the Maryland suburbs of Metropolitan Washington. Senator Beall charged that the company's advertising was misleading, that while they "boldly advertise payment of 4-1/2 per cent on savings," which is above current rate, "they pay 3-1/2 per cent in cash and credit 1 per cent on 'insurance.'" He also said that this company advertises that savings accounts are "insured" up to $10,000 and that the insurer is the "American Indemnity Company," which, so far as the Senator can determine, has no office in the United States.

Senator Beall asked the Committee on Banking and Currency to look into the operation of this company. The text of Senator Beall's remarks in the Senate:

"There has been called to my attention the misleading advertising of a so-called savings association operating in my State of Maryland and in the suburbs of Metropolitan Washington.

"If their advertising is misleading, is it not reasonable to question their whole operation? This is a matter which should be looked into immediately, if we are to take proper steps to safeguard the hardearned savings of our citizens.

"Here are the facts: 'The company calls itself "The Family Savings and Home Loan Association," and it has offices in Baltimore, Silver Spring, Suitland, Hagerstown, Cumberland, Elkton, and Frederick, Maryland. It boldly advertises payment of 4-1/2 per cent on savings which is of course above the current rate, but when one reads the fine print he learns that they pay 3 1/2 per cent in cash and credit 1 per cent on "insurance." Personally, I'd like to know the value of that so-called insurance.

"The company also boldly advertises that savings accounts are insured up to $10,000. That magic figure of $10,000 is no doubt borrowed from the legitimate advertising of Federal savings and loan associations, whose accounts are insured by an agency of the Federal government. But let us see who insures the savings handed over to "The Family Savings and Loan Association." The accounts are "insured" by another company which calls itself "American Indemnity Company," and so far as I know this "American Indemnity Company" has no office in the United States. Certainly it is not licensed to do business in Maryland or in the District of Columbia. Its brochure shows three addresses, one in Panama, one in Canada and one in England.

"This so-called savings association claims to be a member of an organization called "American Council of Independent Savings and Loan Associations." I cannot find anyone who has ever before heard of this organization.

"From this evidence, it looks to me as though this might be a company taking advantage of the public. Therefore, I am today asking the Committee on Banking and Currency, of which I am a member, to look into this matter and take appropriate steps."

"SPICE 'N' EVERYTHING NICE"

With all my heart, I wish you every morning
A smile that shall last until the next day's dawning.
I wish you health—life's greatest wealth!
I wish you always near so that I may help to cheer
Each future day and in some way—help to bring you happiness!

Well, folks, here I am in my little apartment at 8 West Madison Street, near Charles. From my windows, I can look out on the street I have always thought most fascinating, Charles Street! I can see the nice hotel of the Sheraton Belvedere just a couple of blocks away, I can look out and up to the statue of the First President of these United States, Geo. Washington. I am within a stone's throw of the lovely Peabody and attend the Mt. Vernon Place Church where I was christened many years ago. Then, I can have a little bit of the country by sitting in the Park at the Washington Monument. This entire atmosphere makes one think of Central Park, N. Y.

This following all happened within a little over a week. I'll never forget as many thousands up in Harford County when the real blizzard arrived which cut off completely all electric power which meant no water, no light and no heat!

There I was in my little bungalow alone without hearing the dial tone of the phone picking up the receiver! It all was coming down thick and fast with such big flakes and laying heavily that all the beautiful branches of the trees were laying on the ground. I did not know what to do when suddenly the phone bell rang and there were really voices. I heard just this—

"We are sending the ambulance after you immediately and the big tractor will be there first to pave the way!" I hardly had said, "Please don't, I'll try and manage somehow or other!"

The house was colder than a barn and I as well as that Precious Cocker, "Sugar," started shaking with such violent chills that we could not stop. I picked her up and held her tightly to me wrapping a woolen blanket or afghan around her and she would look up at me as much as asking, "What is this all about anyway?" But—she is my FRIEND and she felt as long as she was with me, nothing else mattered! There was so little water in the pipes but I had managed the night before to heat a kettle of it and place it in a real old fashioned rubber hot water bag. I ran it up and down the cold sheets before I entered the bed and then I took Sugar along with me and she snuggled up to me to keep warm. Then the following morning—Brrrrrr—I'll never forget it!

The water that I had in the bag, I used to wash my face and hands and in the kettle was just enough water to make some coffee. There were so many other experiences too numerous to mention BUT—this, Folks I want to remind you to purchase coal for the next nine winters, place a coal range in your kitchen, instead of the electric range get a GAS one. Folks, don't let it catch you again—PREPARE! If you have not a pump—have one dug before next winter—that is a HAND one! Remember it is a Fool who does not prepare after a bitter experience. I have heard a number of people state they never would have another ELECTRIC range. Nuff Sed about all that. And be sure you order the ALADDIN for that is as wonderful as 250 candle or what they call electric light.

The lady at the big store who sells just about everything in Dublin called me on the phone the other day and stated she wished that she had taken my suggestion seriously. Now, she has put in the order right now for those lamps! Hope you did not forget to change your clock for the summer!

What a big surprise from Nelson Eddy. He sent you Observer a lovely large recent photo and that did please me for he will always be my favorite.

Almost forgot to mention that the ambulance drove down to Bel Air to one of my friends for a couple of days and not to the hospital. Aberdeen and Harve de Grace as you may have read was hit very, very hard.

People all over will never forget this winter but it will run in cycles so this is only the beginning of a ten year stretch and that goes for Florida too!

Well, after the storm although the bungalow was freezing, much wood was brought from Bel Air by my friends and there I was packing getting ready for the move which was this past Tuesday—25th—then it meant unpacking seven rooms into a four room and foyer apartment. The moving men said, "Lady, I would like to know where you are going to put it all?"

And it is just about straightened already with things in the proper places due to the fact I have four tremendous closets with sky lights in them which can give you ideas. Nuff Sed!

Will be seeing you next week D.V. in the Easter parade on North Charles Street. Have a grand Easter week end and if you join Church regardless of the Denomination—do attend regularly and partake in all the activities as a busy church is a Christian Church. I am,

Faithfully,
YOUR OBSERVER.

FACTS AND OPINIONS

It has been three-and-a-half years since Congress passed the law authorizing private industry to own and operate nuclear electric power plants. In that time an expanding atomic energy program thus far involving more than $500 million of electric utility company funds has evolved, in which 123 of these companies are actively participating.

Our lawmakers seem to be getting busier and busier. According to the Portland Oregonian, the 82nd Congress passed 594 laws the 83rd passed 781, and the 84th passed 1028. Its likely that the current Congress the 85th will pass still more.

Columnist Victor Riesel reports that the AFL-CIO big union, working through its Committee on Political Education, will go all-out this year to elect political candidates who are favorable to its goals and programs. At least 40 million pieces of literature will be distributed in the next eight months and an attempt will be made to see that all of the union's 13,500,000 members are registered to vote. Emphasis is on grass-roots activity.

According to the Tax Foundation, for every billion dollars cut from the federal budget the average family of four could keep $19 which otherwise would go to Washington.

Time says that "Britain's womb-to-tomb National Health Service is in the red again." Individual contributions are due for big increases. It was originally estimated that the plan would cost $490 million a year. Actual cost, in the next fiscal year, will be in the neighborhood of $2 billion.

Kite flying season is just around the corner, and the Pacific Gas and Electric Company has issued a cartoon-style booklet containing "safety-first" advice. Here are some of the "nevers": never fly a kite with metal in the frame or tail; never use a line made of metal or containing metal; never fly a kite in the rain or near electric power lines; never run across streets or highways while flying kites; never let a kite go over radio or TV aerials.

The annual Red Cross campaign for members and funds is underway. According to General Gruenther, Red Cross president, disaster expenditures have totaled $56 million in the last two-and-a-half years and have swept away all disaster reserves and cut deeply into already inadequate emergency funds. He adds that the organization is in a more critical state now than at the beginning of World War II.

BASE JUDO TEAM TAKES FOUR FROM BOLLING AFB

The Base Judo Team took four out of six matches to win over Bolling AFB in an exhibition Judo Tournament at the Base Gym last Friday.

Throws made by Plattsburgh's Ed Friend, Pernel Green and Bob Barno over Stan Teruya, Jim Gottlohm and Jerry Busley of Bolling won three matches and the fourth was won by Dick McQueen of PAFB over Tom Shea on a decision made by the referee.

Impressive Show

Larry Davidson and his opponent, Marcus Sola of Bolling gave an impressive show but match ended in a draw.

Last year Larry won the Judo Championship in England in the 150-lb. class.

The only win Bolling AFB was credited for was the match between Plattsburgh's Jim Elder and rival Armand Valcourt which the latter won by a hold called the choke.

McCoid Demonstrates

John McCoid, Plattsburgh Judo Coach, gave the audience a small exhibition of the oriental sport called "Karate". In this sport the edge of the hand becomes as hard as steel and is capable of breaking large pieces of wood with a single blow. Coach McCoid proved this by breaking three full inch planks held by two mates with a single blow.

This is an art of self-defense developed by Okinawan priests centuries ago. This was a must as all weapons had been taken from them by their conquerors and they were constantly beset by highway robbers.

Karate is a means of self-defense unequalled by any other method short of carrying an arsenal around with one. In Karate the fists, fingers, edge of hands, elbows and literally every portion of the body, is developed into a weapon that is designed to maim or kill the opponent.

Sgt. McCoid is making plans to hold tournaments with various bases from the Eighth Air Force in coming months.

"MOTHER"

A picture we see of a beautiful face, Reflecting an image of heavenly grace A picture which shows many traces of care,

And yet an expression of sweetest love there. The work of an artist, the loveliest art—

A picture of Mother that is framed in our hearts; And though she has crossed to her haven of rest, Sweet memories of Mother lie wrapped in our breasts.

The print of her footsteps again we can see. Her voice we hear saying "My dears, follow me"; No artist can paint us a picture so fair;

It takes a true mother, her love, faith and prayer. Sadly missed by her loving FAMILY.

WARNING TO KITE FLYING

Once again with the March winds blowing the fun of kite flying is in evidence with children of this area. But, while kite flying today is just as much fun, it can also be dangerous, warned S. E. Breth, manager of the Potomac Edison Company.

The local utility company is conducting the annual "Fly Kites Safely" campaign. Numerous posters are being distributed to area schools warning children to exercise caution while flying kites and model airplanes and pointing out the dangers of flying kites near electric wires and TV antennas.

Mr. Breth pointed out that there are still many tragic accidents each year resulting from carelessness in flying kites and model planes. Fatalities are numerous and severe burns often are suffered when necessary precautions are not heeded, he said.

The utility company manager listed some basic rules which children should follow and he urged parents to instruct their children accordingly.

First, be sure the child is using a kite without any metal in it. Secondly, beware of cord with tinsel or strands of wire wrapped in it. If they come in contact with a power line, these metal cords can cause burns and shocks.

Urged youngsters to pick a level spot away from power lines, TV antennas, rocks and trees so they have plenty of room to run. Discourage them from using streets or highways where there is danger from cars.

Parents also may help by telling their young kite flyers to leave the kite alone if it gets caught in a tree or on electric wires. It's better to get another kite than to have a child injured.

BRUCE TO SHOE-LEATHER IN CARROLL COUNTY NEXT WEEK

Stepping up his campaign for the Democratic Senatorial nomination, James Bruce next Wednesday will spend the day touring the highways and byways of Carroll County.

The visit will be a part of a statewide tour covering the 23 counties in which Candidate Bruce hopes to solidify gains already made and to crystallize an acknowledged growing sentiment. The increase in favor of Bruce which took long strides in the past ten days with the endorsement of his candidacy by the dominant organizations in Howard and Queen Anne's Counties is calculated to spread to other areas as the campaign reaches its height.

"I've felt right along," said Jim Bruce, "that my real strength is in the Counties because as a County man myself I resent the machine organization of the big city and any attempt it makes to force its will and candidates on the counties."

Specific illustration of the sound reasoning behind the Bruce strategy to make his strong bid in the county areas is in the sponsorship of the reelection to be given him in Queen Anne's County on April 12.

On that date, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence W. Miles, there will be a reception for Bruce with the four prominent hosts representing four different counties: W. Preston Lane, Washington County; George M. Radcliffe, Dorchester County; Millard E. Tydings, Harford County; and Mr. Miles of Queen Anne's.

WESTERN MARYLAND CRIPPLED CHILDREN AND ADULTS

Last week a preliminary survey of the 1958 Easter Seal Campaign revealed that Carroll County contributions were slightly below last year's receipts at this stage of the campaign.

With only a few days remaining, Mr. Kenneth Bohn, vice-chairman of the Western Md. Council for crippled children and adults, asks that every person who is able to help, send a contribution to "Crippled Children—care of your local post office". Ninety percent of the money raised during the Easter Seal campaign remains in Maryland to provide vital therapeutic services and devices for those children and adults who are financially unable to afford these steps to rehabilitation.

Spring marks the rebirth of nature around us—a successful Easter Seal campaign will give new hope for crippled children and adults who need the help of the Easter Seal Treatment Center in Frederick, Md. As Mr. Bohn stated recently, "Send your contributions today to 'Crippled Children—care of your local post office' give a helping hand to a neighbor who needs a lift along the road to rehabilitation."

AGENCIES RECEIVE SHARE OF CHEST FUND

The six member agencies of the Carroll County Community Chest will receive only 63.5 percent of their budget requests for 1958, it was announced yesterday. In a special session, the Chest's Board of Directors revealed that only $20,356.19 had been received in the fund drive which sought $35,000.

Following the lengthy meeting, the Community Chest officers announced the funds received in the two-month long campaign would be distributed as follows:

Children's Aid Society	$10,758.73
Boy Scouts	4,116.66
Girl Scouts	3,520.55
Humane Society	838.50
Salvation Army	754.17
U. S. O.	367.58

Allan Roadcap served as campaign chairman for the drive which was conducted from December 1, 1957 to January 31, 1958. Mr. Roadcap pointed out that the Community Chest Campaign usually held in October was postponed until December in deference to the campaign for funds for the Carroll County General Hospital. Throughout the entire campaign period, Mr. Roadcap noted, campaign workers were continually hampered by snow and driving rains.

After announcing the distribution of the funds, the Community Chest Board of Directors expressed its gratitude to those who contributed their time and money in the past. In order to keep these agencies operating efficiently it is necessary that the budget be met, and it was recommended that the campaign be suspended until a future date. The Board said that participating agencies should be left to their own resources in future drives until such time as there is an apparent need to combine their efforts in a united drive.

ROBERTA STARNER, Secretary.

SHORT STORY

Timothy's Tale

By Gertrude Pierson

TIMMY stood, nose pressed against the shop window, gazing dreamily at the pink satin bed jacket. He had been looking at it every day for a week now—but the sign still said $9.98. It was just about the prettiest thing he had ever seen. Mama would like it, and look real pretty wearing it, too. She didn't have anything pretty, nothing pink either—and all that fluffy white stuff around the edges looked so soft. That jacket was exactly what Timmy would buy Mama for Mother's Day—if he had $9.98.

Without thought of damage to shoe leather, Timmy scuffed down the street toward home. He had to find some way to earn extra money for the jacket—he just had to. His paper route money for the next week wouldn't be nearly enough. Maybe he could cut grass or something. Maybe for that guy who lived in the house next to them—his yard was a mess. Hey! That man never did anything but stay home and write stories. He didn't even have a job. Maybe he, Timmy, could find out how he did that! Timmy's feet twinkled faster and faster.

He had been looking at it every day for a week, but the price remained the same.

"Look kid, I've other things to do besides standing here answering fool questions." The man said crossly in answer to Timmy's breathless query.

"But how else can I find out?" Timmy asked, reasonably.

"Okay, okay, the answer is, sure you can sell stories—if you can write them."

"Who buys them?" The man grinned. "Oh, lots of people, editors of magazines and newspapers mostly. Now run along, kid, and let me get back to work."

Timmy said thanks and ran. Screwing up his mouth in concentration and holding his pencil tightly, Timmy wrote his story. It was about a ten-year-old, freckle faced tow-headed boy whose father was dead; a boy who needed five dollars to buy his mother "the prettiest, shiny pink bed jacket with fluffy stuff all around it." And ended, "So, the editor bought Timothy Smith's story and Timothy bought the Mother's Day gift that made his mother's pretty brown eyes shine."

Mr. Jackson looked up, frowning, when Timothy burst into his office that evening at half-past seven. "What's the matter Tim?" "You betcha. I got a story for you," Timmy said breathlessly, placing a couple of crumpled sheets of tablet paper on Mr. Jackson's desk.

Timmy held his breath, his head hanging, one to scuffing the dusty floor. It was awful quiet in here without the presses going. He could hear the clock tick. It ticked awful loud. Timmy looked up anxiously at Mr. Jackson's stern face. He didn't like the story. He wasn't going to buy it. Timmy wiped a sleeve across his eyes and started toward the door. He didn't want to hear Mr. Jackson say it wasn't a good enough story for the Journal.

"Where you going, young fellow? Can't you give me time enough to read your yarn? And aren't you going to wait for your money?" Mr. Jackson asked just as Timmy was about to open the door.

Timmy ran back to the desk. "You mean you like it?" He asked his eyes bright. "You're going to buy it—and print it in the paper?" "You can just bet I'm going to do both, Mr. Shakespeare. In fact, I'm even going to give you six dollars for it. How's that?"

Thursday, Timmy's story was in a box on the front page of the Midville Journal. With "By Timothy Smith" right under the title. At first Timmy thought he'd better hide the paper, so Mama's surprise wouldn't be spoiled, because Mother's Day wasn't until Sunday. But, of course, he didn't hide it. Just the same, it all turned out as Timmy had predicted in his story, except that Mama hugged him tight, her pretty brown eyes shining—even before she saw the pink jacket.

MEMORIES OF OLD TANETOWN

Here is one Poem you all should keep—
(What it tells about, in my memory, linger deep)
It tells of things, when I was a boy, up there;
And, when sleighbells jingled everywhere.

Old Taneytown and Taneytown of to-day
Are like two different places, oldsters say;
But, it always has been a place of renown;
And, still has no equal, in any small town.

When I was a boy, the town was small—
(We had 4 short streets—(that was all!)
From the square to where the town and country meet,
One could throw a ball to the end of each street.

But, the famous old well in the center of the square
It is said, had no equal anywhere;
The only time it was ever known to go dry
Was the day the Army of the Potomac went by.

The well is wide; and, 100 ft. deep, they say;
And, from it, people carried water each day;
On the bottom you can turn a 12-ft rail;
So, from it, went many a pitcher and pail.

What an ornament a fountain would be! Some say,
To take its place, in this modern day;
If the army of the Potomac got by it they say,
Surely the average fellow would find a way.

And, what a shame it was! I, too, say,
To treat the old well, as they did, that way;
For 200 years it had served the people well,
And had many interesting stories to tell.

It was like shutting off, forever, the light of the sun
After its daily course has been run—
"It was a sin," many say, to close that well
With all the fond memories it had to tell."

People of old were proud of that well;
And, many tales about it, used to tell;
"Old Bolivar" watered many horses there;
So they made his "shotbag" bulge on the square.

The town is now modern; but, try my way!
Tongues would waggle everywhere they say!
Many strangers who, over terra firma roam,
Would make the New Taneytown their home.

The town is still surrounded by 4 big farms,
Five lovely churches add to its charms;
But, to me it was then a haven of rest,
And all of its people seemed to be blest.

God seemed to be closer to earth in these days
When people all went in buggies and sleighs;
But, they did not know Him like we do to-day;
For, He is always with us, the Scriptures say.

To whistle on the Sabbath Day used to annoy
Many oldsters, in the town, when I was a boy;
And, a Sunday newspaper nowhere could be found—
It was a disgrace to see one around!

But, Time has made changes—(even our ways!)
We no longer journey in buggies and sleighs—
Now the auto pulls up to the door;
And, we think nothing of going 100 miles or more.

Then, too, what has become of the "hobo"? people say,
Those itinerants who once came their way?
100 years ago, it was a common sight to see
Many such fellows on the roads in America,

When I was a boy, in the country almost every day
Some of those fellows came our way;
It is true, they never once did us any harm;
But, they always took a beeline to our farm.

Hunters were far more destructive, they say—
One shot an "Alderney" heifer one day;
I saw the beautiful creature lying on the ground;
But, the fellow who shot her was neither sought or found.

Another sent the barn up in smoke;
But, of neither incident, the old folks spoke—
(They did not act like they owned earth and sky, Nor from on the fellow in rags who went by.)

There were many such people, when I was a boy—
Some had backaches; but hearts full of joy;
If we had more like them, many people say,
We would need fewer lawyers in our day.

I shall never forget one dark, stormy night!
(To save the woods, a terrific fire we had to fight);
To get a "coon", they set on fire a big hollow tree,
And the roaring flames caused much anxiety.

I did not tell the famous well on the hill—
Of how young and old would stand and swirl;
It was there the town's children used to go
With their sleds to revel in the snow.

The water in the well came direct from the sky;
And, it was a treat, to all when dry;
It entered the well through a spout from the roof;
And, of its excellence, there was much proof.

Some may laugh about rain water; but, let me say—
That is what Coral Islanders are drinking to-day;
The Island of "Bermuda" was built by insects, they say;
So, to store water, a cistern is the only way.

Through land built by insects water does not flow;
For, there are no veins through which it can go—
Like the blood in our bodies, water must flow
To give Life and existence here below.

Were it not for God, both you and I
Would be drinking water which falls from the sky;
Like the Moon, a dead planet Earth would be;
Without a man, a flower, or a tree

That, alone should cause us to stop and think,
Every time we go to the faucet to get a drink;
To make a perfect earth is a part of God's plan
For this shall be the future home of man.

A CITY VIEWPOINT

Elected Baltimore City Democrats
Pledge Support To
"Unity and Victory" Ticket

The Democratic "Unity and Victory" ticket, headed by J. Millard Tawes and Mayor D'Alesandro, has received one of the most sweeping endorsements ever accorded Democratic Primary aspirants. Every election district joined in the endorsement.

Affixing their signatures to the endorsement were: the four Democratic members of Congress, the entire membership of the Baltimore City Council, seven elected officials in the Courthouse, seven of the eighteen members of the Baltimore City Democratic State Central Committee, four of the five Democratic State Senators from Baltimore, and twenty-five of thirty-three Baltimore Democrats in the House of Delegates. Among those who signed are: Leonard Abramson, president of the City Council; State's Attorney J. Harold Grady; Sheriff Joseph C. Deegan; Frank C. Robey, clerk of the Court of Common Pleas; James F. Carney, clerk of the Superior Court; Lawrence R. Mooney, clerk of the Criminal Court; G. Gordon Kirby, clerk of the Circuit Court No. 2; John O. Rutherford, clerk of the Baltimore City Court; and Leroy C. Shaughnessy, register of wills. State Senators signing the endorsement were: Joseph A. Bertorelli, Thomas F. Dempsey, Philip H. Goodman and George W. Della.

Members of the House of Delegates who signed were: John J. Norwakowski, James J. Silk, and Elmer E. Walters, First Legislative district; Edward W. Brooks, J. Raymond Buffington, Jr., Joseph A. Acker, and Edward J. McNeal, Second district; Rudy Behounek, Edward J. Bartos, and Joseph A. Antonelli, Third district; Murray Abramson, Sol Friedman, Truly Hatchett, Morton C. Pollack, and Jerome Robinson, Fourth district; Edgar P. Silver, Maurice Cardin, Marvin Mandel, Carl W. Bacharach, and John C. Luber, Fifth district; Arach, and John C. Luber, Fifth district; and Mrs. Fred Loose, William P. Corriegan, Henry T. Baynes, W. W. Meyers, and W. J. Myers, Sixth district.

"We believe that the harmony Democratic ticket, consisting of J. Millard Tawes, for Governor, Thomas D'Alesandro, for United States Senator, C. Ferdinand Sybert, for Attorney General, and Louis L. Goldstein, for State Comptroller, is the strongest, most capable and most experienced group of candidates to seek approval of Maryland Democrats for many years."

"We believe that all of these candidates truly represent the overwhelming choice of Maryland Democrats in the primary election and we further believe that they will go on to sweeping victory as the people's choice in the general election. We endorse them without reservation and pledge them our wholehearted and active support."

Democratic leaders were quick to note that seldom, if ever, had so many elected Democrats in the city of Baltimore gotten together in support of a single Primary ticket.

A COUNTY VIEWPOINT

Editorial from Cumberland Sunday Times

Harmony For Victory

THERE ARE SEVERAL impelling reasons for Democrats to welcome the "Harmony Ticket" of Tawes-Sybert-astically support it in the May primary election. In the first place the four candidates are already holding public office by choice of the electorate. J. Millard Tawes, for governor, has shown impressive competence as state comptroller, a position to which he has been four times elected; C. Ferdinand Sybert is outstanding as attorney general, the office to which he seeks re-election; State Senate President Louis L. Goldstein, seeking the Democratic nomination for comptroller, has not only won election to the state senate, with the presidency of the upper house; more, elected to five terms in the U. S. House of Representatives before he won election as chief executive of the nation's sixth largest city, has the experience and capacity to serve creditably in the U. S. Senate.

THESE FOUR MEN have demonstrated a vote-getting ability sorely needed by the Democratic party in Maryland. None of their opponents hold public office and have not demonstrated their capacity in elective posts of trust. Section of the efforts of so many party leaders in conceding individual viewpoints and personal interests in assembling the "Harmony Ticket." It is not an arbitrary action, but an earnest recommendation to Democrats everywhere to select these candidates of tried and true ability in public office who have demonstrated their vote-getting prowess in general elections. Certainly the top elective position in the state is the governorship. There are two senators but only one governor. It was no minor sacrifice on Mayor D'Alesandro's part to give up his worthy ambition to be governor, all in the interest of party harmony and general election victory next November.

WITH A TAWES victory as certain as anything may be in politics, it is most advisable to have Baltimore City represented on a well rounded "Harmony Ticket." Maryland's chief city with a 3 preference for D'Alesandro in unmisgarry Baltimore by a substantial majority to win a state election. The "Harmony" candidate for U. S. Senate has never lost an election. His withdrawal as a candidate against Tawes insures battle for the gubernatorial nomination. His own candidacy for the senate serves the enthusiastic aid of every Tawes supporter in the May primary. Service in the House of Representatives is the best training available for the U. S. Senate. D'Alesandro's five terms in Congress were a perfect preparation for his extraordinary administration experience as Mayor of Baltimore. Tawes, Sybert, Goldstein and D'Alesandro form a combination certain to end the Democratic eclipse in Maryland. Democrats will be doing their party and their state a real service by giving these capable representatives an overwhelming majority on May 20.

Victory Day

Lesson for April 6, 1958

EVERY Sunday is VE Day, if people only knew it. It is the day the church celebrates the greatest victory in history. VE here stands not for Victory in Europe, but for Victory on Earth. Other planets unknown to us may be, or may have been, the scene of other kinds of victories; but on earth the first Easter day saw, and each succeeding Easter—indeed each succeeding Sunday commemorates the great victory which Christ achieved over the two greatest enemies of man: sin and death. Some of our Easter hymns bring out the note of triumph, notably the familiar "The strife is o'er, the battle done."

Dr. Foreman

Two Victories

Of all the enemies of the race of man, the two that do us the most harm, that have the greatest power over us, are sin and death. Both these are personified in the Bible. Probably the writers who spoke of Sin and Death as if they were personalities, evil demons as it were, knew what they were doing, and knew that to speak of sin and death as living personalities is a bold figure of speech. We use such figures of speech all the time, however, and need offer no apologies. We say "sin rears its ugly head" or "Death laid its cold hand on our friend"—and so on. Sin is not a person, and neither is death; but we can speak of them as if they were personal. And they certainly do us harm. Sin twists, deforms and paralyzes man's best impulses; sin keeps men from being truly normal; sin is indeed responsible for most of the troubles of mankind. Death also seems to hold a grudge against us human beings. It always seems to come too early or too late; and it never chooses a convenient time. (There is a sense, also, in which death is the greatest friend of man; but that is another side of the story. In the Bible death is always against man, not for him.) Christ's whole life, culminating in the Cross, was a victory over sin; and the resurrection was a crowning victory, over death.

"Immeasurable Greatness of Power"

Certainly since the first Easter, or since people began to meditate on the meaning of that momentous morning, Christians have not been afraid, as many persons still are, of sin and death. They have found victory over both, in Christ. You find this thought in many places in the New Testament, not only in Ephesians: that the Christian so identifies himself with Christ that he can be said to go through the same experiences Christ had—of death, burial, resurrection. To put it another way, the victory of Christ over sin and death is not his own lone victory, rather it is a victory shared with his people—with all who deeply desire to share it. This is part of what being "in Christ" means.

Assurance of Victory

So Easter is more than a day when we remember a victory long ago. It is a day when Christians should remember that this is their victory too. It is a victory both won, and yet to be won. It is past, in Galilee and Jerusalem; it is present, in the life of true Christians; it is future in its final and complete glory. Most Christians, sad to say, do not realize this. If they would take their New Testament seriously they would discover that God has for them resources never yet tapped. The same mighty power that was in Christ and that made it possible for him to conquer sin is "in us who believe"—if we really want it. The same power that raised him from the dead goes with us into the Valley of the Shadow. The church, when she takes herself seriously, is not afraid of calamities. She has outlived many; she can outlast many more. For in the church, and in the individual Christians who make up the church, is the very power of God. So Easter is the day of Destiny; the light of Resurrection morning is a foregleam of the glory God holds yet in store. For the world may totter from crisis to crisis; but the purposes of God will not fail us as he goes marching on.

LADY TRAVELER WILL APPEAR IN CARROLL COUNTY

Peace Pilgrim will return to Carroll County on April 13 and will remain until the morning of April 15. She may see her walking along the highway—a silver haired woman dressed in navy blue slacks and tunic with pockets all around the bottom in which she carries her only worldly possessions. "PEACE PILGRIM" is inscribed in white letters on the front of her tunic and "10,000 MILES ON FOOT FOR WORLD PEACE" on the back.

Actually, she has walked 12,000 miles to date, all over the United States, through all the provinces of Canada and even in Mexico. This is her pilgrimage vow: "I shall remain a wanderer until mankind has learned the way of peace, walking until I am given shelter and fasting until I am given food." She walks without a penny in her pockets and she is not affiliated with any organization. She walks as a prayer and as a chance to inspire others to pray and work with her for peace. She speaks to individuals and to groups wherever she finds them, with or without advance notice. If any group or any individual would like to meet Peace Pilgrim, contact with her may be through Dorothy Elderdice, 75 W. Green St., Westminster.

SHORT STORY

Someone Wants Me

By Fran Pachter

THE lad stood apart from the rest, pitiful in his efforts to show disinterest in those around him. Visitors day at the orphanage was not unusual but it did herald the cautioning to be well behaved; perhaps someone might want you. This was an old story to Mike as he had witnessed it too often. He'd seen many of his companions leave but no one wanted a boy who was crippled.

3-Minute Fiction

He'd been here six years; six years spent in wishful dreaming that maybe this time someone would want him. Hope had given way to resignation. He was twelve now and could only look forward to getting out when he was sixteen.

Mike was a handsome lad with dark curly hair, lovable personality and genuinely well liked by all who knew him well. The nurses knew how he tried to hide the hurt of being unwanted and they tried to ease his discomfort by playing up how much he helped them. Mike was limited in his ac-activities by the handicap of one leg being shorter than the other and his sensitivity over this defect made him shy from boys his own age and he took upon himself the role of big brother to the smaller children.

"No, sir. Just another orphan." Mike's tone spoke volumes.

Each time a request came through for placing a child, the supervisor tried hard to sell them on Mike but each time his defect and his age acted as a detriment.

Little did Mike or anyone else for that matter think that the appearance of Major Andrews would precipitate a change in his life.

As they entered the play room, Mike was in the process of limping over to pick up a little girl who had taken a fall and was crying bitterly. In a matter of minutes and with a tenderness odd in a boy of his age, Mike had her soothed and happy. The Major and his wife exchanged glances and the Major walked over to Mike. "Is that your sister," he asked.

"No sir. Just another orphan." The Major's next question surprised Mike. He asked, "Could you come for a ride with my wife and me?"

"Sure," was Mike's reply, "but why me? I'm a cripple, didn't you notice?" He looked over to where the Major's wife stood. "Women like that like well kids, not kids like me."

The Major's eyes twinkled as he said, "We both want you to come. I'll clear it with the superintendent."

Later, seated between the two, Mike's shyness wore off and he began to enjoy the countryside, chattering like a magpie. Before long they drew up before a rambling large white ranch house and by this time Mike felt they were his friends. As they got out of the car a huge collie came to meet them.

Mike's eyes glowed and twinkled with excitement. Suddenly they changed as he espied a little girl in a wheel chair awaiting them. "Is she yours?" asked Mike.

The Major answered, "Yes, she is. She's had polio and isn't able to walk as yet." He and his wife noticed the quick surge of sympathy that surged over Mike.

Mike walked over to the porch and said, "Hi. Don't feel bad because you can't walk. I don't do such a hot job of this walking business either."

The little girl's face lit up at Mike's words and the Major and his wife entered the house leaving them alone together. Later that evening during their dinner the little girl asked Mike, "Are you going to be my brother?"

Mike showed his astonishment as he answered, "You mean you'd like me to be? I'm a cripple. No one ever wants a crippled boy."

"Your heart and mind aren't crippled, Mike. That's what is important. We want you if you want us." As the Major finished speaking, the little girl reached out her arms to Mike.

Mike sat held in stupefied disbelief repeating as though for reassurance, "Somebody really wants me."

Pinkeye Season Calls for Care

Urge Early Treatment For Affected Animals

Summer and fall months often find cattlemen concerned with a variable number of cases of sore-eyed cattle. In many cases the animals are probably suffering from a condition commonly called pinkeye, says the American Veterinary Medical Association.

The term pinkeye is descriptive of the condition in that parts of the affected eye become reddened and inflamed. It may be caused by different germs, and in some cases a mechanical irritant has paved the way for the bacteria to gain a foothold, the report states.

Such irritants as dust, plant pollen, and insects are more plentiful in pastures during the late summer, making the animals more susceptible at this time of the year. Pinkeye affects cattle of all breeds and all ages, the association says. Since pinkeye spreads readily, unaffected groups should be pastured or kept as far away from affected cattle as possible.

The association suggests that the several affected animals should be isolated in a small shaded area or in a shed or barn. Feed and water should be close at hand because the affected eyes are extremely sensitive and animals will not graze in bright sunlight. Some are completely blind and unless properly treated the blindness may become permanent.

Don't Take Chances With Cornpickers

There is an old saying that "you can't beat the machine" and this time of year is appropriate for using this phrase to point up the fact that this fall many a careless farmer will not understand the truth of this statement until after he has been injured in a cornpicker accident.

The facts are simple:

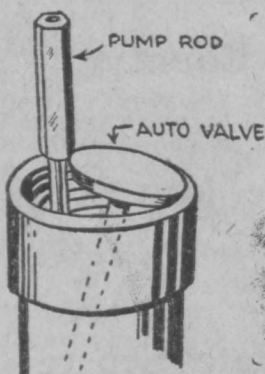

A stalk of corn goes through the snapping rolls at a speed of 7 feet a second. By scientific calculation, you need 4 of a second to perform the simple reaction of letting go of a corn stalk. This means that a stalk goes 3 feet through the rolls while you are reacting to the danger.

Most cornpicker accidents, naturally, are the result of carelessness, or are caused by the foolish act of attempting to unclog or adjust a cornpicker without stopping it.

Added to the unreplacable loss of a finger, hand or arm caught in snapping or husking rolls, there is an equally disastrous financial loss.

Such an accident costs several hundred dollars in doctor and hospital bills—much more if it is necessary to "fill in" for the missing hand with an artificial limb or hook. And while they're laid up, they have to hire extra help to do their farm work.

Good Idea

A disconnected pump rod is kept from dropping into the well pipe by wedging an old auto valve between the rod and the pipe. The valve is easily removed when the pump is installed.

4-H CLUBS OFFER WIDE VARIETY OF AWARD PROGRAMS

The 4-H Clubs throughout the state are setting up project schedules for 1958, according to the Cooperative Exchange Service which directs the 4-H programs. Club members carry on a wide variety of projects including farming, homemaking, and community service.

Among the specific 4-H activities in which boys or girls may enroll this year are three national 4-H award programs: Beautification of Home Grounds, Boys' Agricultural, and clothing. County, state and national awards are offered in each for superior performance.

Objectives of the 4-H home grounds beautification project are just about what the name implies, plus the development of character and good citizenship which is the most significant goal in all 4-H Club work. This marks the 21st year that Mrs. Charles Walgreen, of Chicago, is providing awards.

Club members who complete the project will be eligible for one of eight national awards, all-expense trips as delegates to the National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago, Nov. 30-Dec. 4. The state champion will receive an inscribed 19-jewel wrist watch, and gold-filled medals will go to as many as four winners in each county.

The 4-H Boys' Agricultural program embraces all phases of farming. International Harvester Co., Chicago, a long-time supporter of 4-H, is donor of awards. A $400 college scholarship and Chicago Congress trip expenses will be awarded to six national champions. The state winner also will get a trip to the Congress, and four winners in each county will receive the Boys' Agricultural medal.
