HEALTH FOR ALL

Teach Your Child Independence

This is the week we celebrate "the Glorious Fourth," the day that marks the American Declaration of Independence. Our ancestors decided that independence is a good thing for people, and the development of our nation in 182 years seems to prove them right.

Independence isn't just a political affair. People, the same as nations, must be independent to develop properly. Some of us seem to forget this. You've seen people who bring up their children as if they expect them to be dependent for the rest of their lives. They spoil them while they're little and cute, and can't understand why they grow up wilful and irresponsible.

In a delightful book titled "The Story of Human Emotions," Dr. Geo. M. Lott, a psychiatrist, gives directions for making your child grow up "with a maximum of handicaps and undesirable character traits."

Here they are: "First, do everything for the child, so he can't learn to do for himself. Lie down with him to get him to sleep. Help him to dress, and do not let him participate. Pick up after him so he won't learn to put away his toys. Usually keep him in so he won't be hurt or get dirty. Allow no playmates of his own age, and take his side and protect him in his struggles with his contemporaries. Deny him little, so that he will expect too much."

Follow the above directions and you are guaranteed that your child will grow up to be a hypochondriac and a spoiled brat. And "when in the course of human events, it becomes necessary" to cut the apron strings, he'll fall flat on his face.

Meeting of Historical Society at Seminary

The Historical Society of Carroll County met in the Chapel of Wesley (Westminster) Theological Seminary Thursday evening, June 26. After conducting a brief business meeting, President T. M. Whitfield introduced Dr. M. J. Shroyer who announced that Prof. D. R. Chandler would conduct the first part of the program, assisted by Dr. E. H. Ferguson in charge of projection. The first feature was a movie of Seminary life in 1928 when Dr. H. L. Elderdice was president and Dr. C. E. Forlines a member of the faculty. The film brought an emotional response from many in the audience who remembered them. Still pictures of the early days were also shown.

The second part of the program consisted of personal reminiscences of Dr. M. J. Shroyer from the time he entered the Seminary as a student in 1912. He gave a vivid description of what he called co-education limited in the Victorian days, when Western Maryland College was separated from the Seminary campus by a high board fence. He also introduced colorful character portrayals, ranging from Prof. J. T. Royer, the first person he met in Westminster, to "Uncle" George Washington Bell, for many years the beloved janitor of the Seminary. Dr. Shroyer concluded with memories of the building of the present Seminary in the summer of 1920, when he along with other members of the faculty took part in the actual construction.

Pres. Norman S. Trott then explained to the Society the reasons which have made necessary the removal of the Seminary this summer from Westminster to Washington. First, the institution is under mandate from the General Conference of the Methodist Church to have an enrollment of 350 students. It is impossible for the school to expand to capacity in its present location. Moreover, Western Maryland College needs the present Seminary ground and buildings for its own expansion. The choice of the northwest corner of the campus of American University has proved to be a happy one. The change of name from Westminster to Wesley was made necessary by geography. Therefore, the first Methodist Seminary in fact the 1st Protestant one, in the nation's capital, will bear the name of the denominational founder. Pres. Trott paid a tribute to the past when he stated that it alone had made possible the future. Pres. Whitfield concluded the program with an expression of appreciation for the service of the Seminary to the community.

Announcement was made of a concert to be given in the Historical Society garden between 7 and 8 o'clock on the evening of July 13. It will include a hymn sing directed by Mrs. Norman Hunter. On Wednesday, Aug. 13, there will be a Society tour through the old Quaker settlements surrounding Union Bridge.

MARYLAND SHOE FACTORIES BENEFITED

By taking advantage of a loophole in our law, foreign makers of tennis shoes have been avoiding paying the duty on canvas shoes with rubber soles by sewing on a small patch of leather in the tongues and sending them in as "leather shoes". This practice adversely affected the Maryland tennis shoemakers, who employ many Marylanders. Senator Beall took an active part in putting through the Senate a new bill which would protect our Maryland citizens against this abuse on the part of the foreign shoemakers.

FIREWORKS FORBIDDEN IN MARYLAND

Approval Must First Be Obtained From Insurance Commission

The attention of the public is called to the fact that all fireworks within the State are forbidden by the statutes of the State of Maryland unless approval has been obtained from the State Insurance Commissioner.

Under the law, fireworks of every description are banned unless such approval has been obtained. It specifically bans the use of firecrackers, squibs, rockets, sparklers, Roman candles, torpedoes, bombs, paper caps, grenades, fire balloons, signal lights and any combustible or explosive composition. No section of the State is exempt from operation of this Law, and any person violating it by possessing, discharging or selling fireworks is guilty of a misdemeanor, and is subject to a fine of not more than $50.00. Any person selling fireworks in violation of the provisions of the Law shall be subject to a fine of not more than $200.00 for each offense.

Permits for special displays of fireworks are issued by the State Insurance Commissioners after investigations have been made to ascertain that the applicants have complied with all sections of the Maryland Statutes. In accordance with these statutes, a certificate of insurance must be filed, made payable to the Insurance Commissioner of Maryland, in an amount prescribed by him and to be held as collateral in the event of injury to any persons, or damage to any property resulting from said display.

By reason of the enforcement of the Fireworks Act, loss of life has been greatly decreased and there have been few accidents as a result of burns and explosions incident to the use of fireworks.

FBLA CONVENTION IN ST. LOUIS, MISSOURI

by Donna Eyster

On Saturday, June 14, three FBLA representatives from Maryland left for Philadelphia and joined other FBLA students from Pennsylvania and New Jersey. That evening at 7:00, we boarded our train known as "The Spirit of St. Louis," and arrived in St. Louis at 11:30 Sunday morning to attend the National Future Business Leaders of America convention, which was held in the famous Statler-Hilton Hotel during the 15, 16, and 17.

Representing Maryland were Delores Berry from Pikesville, who is Maryland State FBLA president and she ran for vice-president of the Eastern Region, John Myers from Mayberry was entered as a contestant in the Mr. FBLA National Contest, and Donna Eyster from Keyville, who is the State FBLA spelling champion and first vice-president of the state. All three participated in the spelling relay in which Maryland placed fifth out of thirty-six states. Maryland also received honors by having the second-best state report which was presented by Delores Berry.

Upon arrival at the Statler Hotel from the train station, we registered in for our rooms. There were many meetings and business sessions to attend, and there we became acquainted with people from all over the United States. Some of the events of most importance were the FBLA national speaking contest, the national spelling relay, election of national officers, and the many discussions we had concerning FBLA work. To conclude the convention, on the last night the award banquet and formal dance was held till midnight and was very nice.

Throughout the convention, purposes of this organization were discussed thoroughly, and suggestions and proposals were set up in order to promote a more successful organization. The Future Business Leaders of America organization composed of young adults in high schools and colleges, seeks to: Develop competent business leadership; Strengthen the confidence of young people and their work; Create more interest and understanding in the intelligent choice of business occupations; Encourage members to improve the home and community; Develop character, prepare for useful citizenship and promote patriotism; Encourage and practice thrift; Encourage improvement in scholarship and promote school loyalty; Improve and establish standards for entrance upon store and office occupations.

Following the convention, we boarded the train Wednesday evening at 6:30 and arrived home safe, but tired, the following Thursday afternoon.

We will be looking forward to the National FBLA Convention next year, but without the wonderful aid and support of our sponsors we would not have been so fortunate to attend this one. It was very enjoyable, full of experiences, and most educational.

"SPICE 'N EVERYTHING NICE"

With all my heart, I wish you every morning
A smile that shall last until the next day's dawning.
I wish you health—life's greatest wealth!
I wish you always near so that I may help to cheer
Each future day and in some way—help to bring you happiness!

Arriving at the bungalow for a few days weekly is such a real vacation for me and somehow I appreciate it all even more so than before. The birds came so close to me on the lawn and Mr. Bob White kept repeating his name to me as though I had forgotten and then I would return that famous whistle and he was happy as he moved his head quickly from side to side!

Even the running brook or stream sang louder to me as I leaned moving the huge lawn and this year there are more roses in the rose garden than ever before!

Well, folks living in the country has taught me that no life can compare with it after all the years! The Blue Spruce in fact all the shrubs have grown more this year than all the previous years.

Each morning, I place the flag in the center of the lawn just as I did near "around the town" when I use to place it in the corner of the lawn at "Loves' Retreat" Remember?

Now, folks it is never wise to take any medicines without consulting your M. D. Here is just one of the reasons. Advertising those sleeping pills—SOMINEX—can do much harm and here is the secret. It is not advertised that way on the outside label of the bottle but on the inside of the bottle is a tiny piece of paper which reads "Some persons have glaucoma of the eye which is a disease of the eye and those who suffer from this should not take this medicine or any other similar!"

Well, Ladies skirts now are exactly to the knees! And as to grand Hosiery. The best buy so far I have discovered is "Parklane Hosiery" at 103 W. Lexington and very inexpensive plus grand quality. The shades are delightful. If you have any difficulty with seams—by all means purchase the Seamless for there is nothing more untidy than crooked seams which may spoil your entire outfit. Did you read about "The Egg Beauty for the Skin" in the Baltimore News-Post? You mix one egg yolk with one teaspoon of castor oil or olive oil. Smooth this mixture over the face and neck and leave in for 20 or 30 minutes. Then rinse with warm water and then wash with Simple enough and most inexpensive. This is a grand facial treatment. Try it once and see and then for a finer texture keep it up twice or three times weekly and (especially when eggs are way down low in price!) As the article read—there may be fewer eggs in the omelet but you can go to the table with a radiant skin!

And don't forget if you really want to rest, relax and reduce at the same time for your vacation—write to Oakland Manor Health Farm—R.F.D. #4 Ellicott City, Md. which is located mid-way between Washington, D. C. 20 miles north, Baltimore, 10 miles South, New Rt. 29. Transportation is furnished. You will return with a lovely figure and yet not go way out West where "Our Mamie Eisenhower" journeyed!

How nice to receive copies of the two Hymns left at the Record Office for me by Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Oliver Angell which Mr. Angell composed. Titles, "The Only Name" and "I have a Friend". And thinking, too about other people—a Dr. ut. who now resides in Nevada and a retired life was with the "From Here to Eternity" Regiment in Hawaii!

Met a little boy very early in the morning on Howard Street alone looking in the windows. I approached him and asked him (it was the last week of school days) why he was not in school or on his way and then he told me that his school closed and his parents both went to work and he did not want to remain in bed so he was just walking around! Ugh

I know of a young woman going to work daily and prays for Dr's visits and I realized she did not eat the substantial things or bother cooking for herself. Then, I asked her what she ate for her meals and this is what she said, "When I am not invited out for dinner, I just eat snacks!" Snacks as you know are not a body builder and what she is paying to go to the Dr's office, she could purchase food!

And thinking about Doctors—Dr. Hornstein of 6 W. Madison Street has just about the most up to date equipment in his office—thousands of dollars of every type to aid the patient. And this I saw, too, I was amazed—my Blood Pressure dropped 26 points (as it was a little high) immediately after the marvelous treatment! If you want to stay young, "Go Chiropractic!" A young man who was in the service had suffered with Migraine headaches for 13 years! He was told he could not be cured, yet this young Dr. told him to come to his office for treatments. And after "three" treatments the patient was cured. The Dr. saw his gentleman in a public place recently and he smiled at the Dr. holding up crossed fingers! What say you?

Fourth of July will be one long week-end as the Governor has also named Saturday the Fifth a Legal Holiday. Be careful when you drive for it will be the biggest week-end for the 4th for a long time. Have a grand week-end. Folks. You may be complaining about the cool weather but, betcha when Summertime really starts, it will be HOT! See you next week D.V. I am,

Faithfully,
YOUR OBSERVER.

ANY TWIGS TO BEND?

It should be a source of deep pride and satisfaction to small-town and rural America that Jolitta Schlenhuber, 14-year-old farm girl of McPherson, Kansas, who won the 1958 National Spelling Bee, has gained her education thus far in a two-room school-room—without the "frills" of "progressive" teaching.

But, by the same token, Jolitta's victory may be causing parents of youngsters who attend schools that are more pretentious but less respectful of the three R's (and spelling)—that put globalism above nationalism and socialism above self-reliance—to do a little soul searching.

While most of us favor fine facilities for our public schools, we must not forget that it is not the temple itself but what goes on within its walls which is of the utmost importance.

For those who are disturbed over the preparation for the responsibilities of life and citizenship that their children are receiving, there is a book by Augustin G. Rudd called "Bending the Twig" that is must reading.

E. Merrill Root, the distinguished professor of English at Earlham College, describes it as "a sane, wise, strong book, scholarly and temperate and yet devastating, which reviews, sums up and criticizes the unfortunate perversions that have been called education in modern times. It should awaken parents—and speed the day when sanity and freedom may return to education."

And from the "Editor's Corner" of the American Legion Magazine: "The American Legion has a special interest in this story and Col. Augustin G. Rudd, the man who tells it, because the Legion and the Colonel joined forces back in the 1930's to fight the collectivist infiltration of our schools. If you want to be brought up-to-date on this subject and learn what you can do about it, get a copy of Bending the Twig."

Col. Rudd is a dedicated American. He entered the US Army as a Cavalry shavetail in 1911, was retired as a major in 1929, went back to fight his second war in 1941. At the end of World War II, wearing a colonel's eagles and the Legion of Merit, he again retired from military life to take up once more the crusade for sound education, which he had begun in 1938. He has assigned all rights and royalties in Bending the Twig to the New York Chapter of the Sons of the American Revolution for the furtherance of this vitally important work.

Col. Rudd recalls in his book that Earl Browder said, as General Secretary of the Communist Party: "Who wins youth wins the future America". Perhaps we'd better find out who is winning, and join the fight before the battle is lost.—U. S. Press Association.

GRASS ROOTS OPINIONS

LEESBURG, FLA., DAILY COMMERCIAL: This weekend you may hop into the car to take the family for an early spin in the country, or get out into the garden while your wife does spring cleaning, or get the screens in shape. While you're doing that, 200,000 individuals will have been added to the population of the world. For the current rate of increase—births over deaths—is somewhat more than 100,000 a day. It's far past the time when we should be thinking soberly and continuously—and demanding that our statesmen do the same—about the problems this growth brings in its train.

MCCOMB, OHIO, HANCOCK COUNTY HERALD: "Drugstores across the country which have served their communities long enough to fill a million prescriptions are receiving some deserved recognition. They are being given plaques attesting this by Lederle Laboratories. One went the other day to a Savannah, Georgia pharmacy which filled prescriptions for General Robert E. Lee and which has preserved one of them as a cherished relic of the Confederate hero."

SULLIVAN, ILL., MOULTRIE COUNTY NEWS: "How widespread is the abuse of unemployment compensation claims? The percentage of unjustified claims that are paid may be small, but when they are flagrant, they leave a sour taste in the mouths of all employers."

"Unemployment compensation should not be allotted to workers who 'quit to go fishing'."

ELOY, ARIZONA, ENTERPRISE: "Hard-to-understand government actions frequently result in the U. S. taking sideswipes at the very spirit of private enterprise which it so piously fosters in voice and print."

"Typical is a little-publicized but significant ruling by the Internal Revenue which disallows certain advertising expenditures made by a privately managed public utility company, a ruling vigorously protested and now under test in the courts in form of a suit filed by an affected company. The outcome of the case can be indeed be far-reaching, and, in the opinion of many, result in a definite curb on a basic freedom of speech."

ELLCOTTVILLE, N. Y., POST: "Anger is a wind which blows out the lamp of intelligence."

SYLACAUGA, ALA., NEWS: "Every so often some self appointed censor conceives the idea of cleaning up the newsstands. Invariably our reply is a stock one. The reading matter to which they take exception is legally published, legally distributed and legally licensed for resale, and under these conditions any adverse action on our part would be interference with free enterprise. Our suggestion would be that the censors inaugurate an educational campaign toward the reading of a good literature rather than a cleanup campaign directed at resale."

REEDLEY, CALIF., EXPONENT: "The American people, and especially the rank-and-file of labor unions will hardly be satisfied with anything less than a labor control law that will really control, and perhaps eliminate, the professional hoodlums and racketeers which have infiltrated the labor movement. However sincere the AFL-CIO leaders are in their efforts to provide controls of their own; the most they can do is to expel a union led by crooks from the federation. But that doesn't help the members of that union. No, nothing short of a tight labor control measure will do. And now is the time to do it."

EL DORADO, KANS., TIMES: "... There is no clear-cut sentiment around the country for a tax reduction at this time, as congressmen discovered their Easter holiday. The worker out of a job is not in the least bothered by taxes and those with incomes seem to be more concerned about the threat of inflation. What the latter group wants much more than a tax cut now is economic stability and a halt to rising prices."

LAMBERTVILLE, N. J. BEACON: "Which way will our nation go in the next few years? Will we salvage our system of free enterprise, of freedom of action, or will we drift more swiftly toward the central state than in the recent past?"

SAFETY FACTS

CHICAGO, June 13—A fifth can be deadly on the Fourth—and even two cocktails are dangerous if you drive within three hours after drinking them.

Fourth of July celebrants were given that reminder today by the National Safety Council, which points out that the average person needs at least three hours to eliminate the alcohol in two cocktails.

Social drinkers are a greater menace than commonly believed, the Council said. They greatly outnumber the obviously intoxicated driver. And Council studies show the drinking, but not necessarily drunk, driver is a big factor in holiday traffic tolls.

Alcohol, even in small quantities, impairs the critical judgment needed by drivers, these studies show. And two cocktails may reduce vision as much as wearing dark sun glasses at night. What's more, coffee does not offset the effect. Only time can eliminate alcohol from the blood stream.

The throttle and the bottle are the arch villains in the nation's holiday traffic death toll, the Council said.

An analysis of highway fatalities during both summer and winter holidays showed that about half of the drivers involved in fatal accidents had been drinking. And speed was a factor in more than 7 out of 10 fatal holiday traffic accidents.

Forty-five million motor vehicles are expected to be on the nation's roads over the three-day Fourth of July holiday—so drivers will need to be especially alert and responsive if they are to avoid trouble, the Council said. "If drivers avoid drinking and speeding the highways will be much safer for themselves and others."

During the Middle Ages, the four suits in a deck of playing cards represented social positions, the Playing Card Association tells us. Spades meant nobility; hearts, clergy; diamonds, tradesmen; and clubs, peasants.

Drinks For All Occasions

THE TALL DRINK SEASON IS HERE! There are always occasions when there's nothing as good as a fine tasting thirst-quencher. When the youngsters raid the refrigerator, when the teenagers gather, at your afternoon parties and when the family watches TV programs—these are a few of the countless times when drinks are in order.

To be prepared for all these demands, it is well to have an assortment of bottled carbonated beverages chilling in the refrigerator. Everyone's favorite flavor should be included. Small sizes take care of the quick pick-up drink for a member of the family, and the large size bottles are best for making drinks for a crowd. Popular flavors are black cherry, grape, orange and lemon-lime and, of course, ginger ale. A scoop of ice cream added to a tall glass of any flavor makes a wonderful soda. Here's a drink, delicious and pretty enough for a party.

Stir in cream, reheat, but do not boil. Pour into blender with 1/2 of avocado. Blend for 3 minutes. Add balance of avocado, chopped, and chill thoroughly. Makes 3-4 servings.

JEST JOKIN'

The dress buyer of a large middle-west shop, on his annual buying trip in New York, called the firm of Jackson, Parker and Lewis to give an order: "Mr. Jackson or Mr. Parker, please."

"Sorry, they are out of town," said the receptionist.

"Then I'll speak to Mr. Lewis."

"Mr. Lewis is tied up."

The next day he called back, and was again unsuccessful. On the third day he telephoned and was told the two partners were still out of town.

"Well, what about Mr. Lewis?"

"I'm sorry, Mr. Lewis is tied up."

"Here I want to place a large order," the buyer shouted, "and two partners are away and the third is still tied up. What's the big idea?"

"Oh," explained the girl, "Mr. Lewis is the junior partner. When the others go away, they always tie him up."

"We'll have to rehearse that," said the undertaker as the coffin fell out of the hearse.

"The most curious thing in the world is a woman who isn't."—Brian Keith.

FEESERSBURG

(A Voice from Carroll)

By this time most Americans are well aware of the Sherman Adams affair and wonder how a man who was a champion of the highest public virtue could allow himself to get involved in the dilemma he now finds himself in. Why Mr. Adams risked his reputation and the prestige of his office for a rug, a coat and hotel bills is still unexplained. Mr. Walter Lippmann writing in the Washington Post says that President Eisenhower cannot afford to keep Mr. Adams no matter how important to him Mr. Adams may be. There is a growing suspicion on the part of the public that men in high places in the government are willing to swap favors for expensive merchandise and trips around the world. Once the public is convinced that every man elected to office or appointed to high places can be bought by those who can afford to give expensive gifts, faith in the government will vanish and we will find ourselves in a similar predicament as France. Therefore it is of highest importance that President Eisenhower make it clear that he will not tolerate the slightest appearance of dishonesty in any government official. Mr. Adams has by his actions raised the finger of suspicion in his direction. Staying on his high position would not serve the best interest of the President or the American people.

We have never been sold on all the newsprays on the market promising to kill weeds and insects and nothing else. We have always reasoned that if they killed weeds they would also kill things planted in the garden. We had our suspicions confirmed last week. We sprayed weeds ten or fifteen feet away from the garden but evidently the wind was strong enough to carry it that distance. We not only kill the weeds but didn't do the garden any good either. Last summer when we were still on the farm we used a fly spray on some calves. One died from licking the spray off her back. The moral of all this is don't try every new thing on the market.

American doctors, meeting in San Francisco last week were told by one of their colleagues that the American people expect "Something for nothing." We can't imagine what Dr. Allman meant when he made this statement for certainly American doctors are not working for peanuts. Years ago one could find a doctor who was as poor as a farmer but not today. On the contrary, Doctors today who don't accumulate a small fortune can't put the blame on their patients wanting something for nothing. Even if they did it wouldn't be given them. There is no higher income bracket than the doctor's profession. And the American patient is footing the bill. Every month the cost of living goes up and one cause is medical expense. Instead of Dr. Allman saying the American public wants something for nothing he could have said, "Let our profession give the public a square deal. Let us give them something in return for what they render to us."

Prejudice is as old as man himself and will continue to survive as long as man walks the earth. We are inclined to believe that we are less prejudiced than our grandparents. But, are we? We find, in talking with people that some prejudices are on their way out while others are increasing. Prejudice is born when people jump to conclusions without getting the facts. We can't inherit prejudices but we learn them. We learn them from our surroundings, our parents, our associates and from reading matter. Everyone can become prejudiced about religion, politics, the color of one's skin or a hundred other things, but some don't. The people that bear no prejudices are those who look beneath the surface of things. They search for the truth and will accept nothing at face value. The person full of fears tends to believe the worst about everything and everybody. This type of person is always ready to make a scapegoat out of someone else to cover his own mistakes. We have heard people say that if a certain religious group was eliminated all would be well with the world. This is not based on facts but upon emotional bias, fed by prejudice a thousand years old. How can a person overcome prejudice? By asking himself why he thinks the way he does and what is it that he fears. And then he ought to be like a scientist. Accept no belief until it can be proven.

A school advertised a "Short course in accounting for women." A few days later a note reached the school's director reading: "There's NO accounting for women."

Three years high school graduates are finding it difficult to secure a job. Nothing is so devastating to a person's morale than to want work and not be able to get it. Youth needs to be busy more so than adults. Idleness creates so many problems. We hope that employees will make every sincere effort to hire girls and boys looking for their first job. It is very important that the whole community look upon employing youth as a vital step in making them mature, self-reliant citizens.

Recently we were in a crowded restaurant when a young mother and her three daughters came in. The girls seemed to be ten, four and three years old. We were attracted to them because they were so pretty and had such quiet, lovely manners. But what made them even more outstanding, was the fact that when the waitress brought their dinner, they all bowed their heads and said a silent grace. It was so inspiring to see three lovely little heads bowed in prayer that the entire restaurant took on a different atmosphere.

It won't be long before the bulldozers and caterpillar tractors will be churning up the road from Taneytown to Littlestown getting ready to lay down a new highway. Some houses have already been moved and others are in the process of being demolished or moved. Some more rich farmland will become a roadbed for automobiles. While we cannot dispute the fact superhighways are needed, nevertheless it fills us with concern to see more and more good land used as a road. With the ever growing population demanding more food we may regret using the most fertile land as highways.

People are funny: They spend money they don't have, to buy things they don't need, to impress people they don't like.

This really happened. Some one asked me today why we celebrate the 4th of July.—Ruth Roelke.

Did anyone ever see a more beautiful Rainbow than was seen in the Eastern sky on Thursday evening after the nice shower of rain? It was the most wonderful Bow that I have ever seen and I have seen many since I was a little girl. It always reminds me of a verse in Psalms; "The Heavens declare the Glory of God and the Firmament Showeth His Handiwork". And in the 9th chapter of Genesis read about the Covenant and Bow.

These are the homey, simple things—A bird's soft call and waving wings. The sunlight on the kitchen floor. And bright petunias by the door. The smell of newly launched clothes. A dew-drop in a budding rose. A letter from an absent friend. A rainbow when the storm clouds, end.

The church bells ringing in the night And prayers by golden candlelight. The simple, homey things—no less—Bring calm content and happiness.

—Laverne Brown Price.

NO CHILD-PSYCHOLOGIST

An eight-year-old was painfully practicing on the piano.

A salesman who had knocked on the screen door and hadn't received any answer called in to him, cheerfully: "Your mother isn't home, is she, Son?"

"You must be nuts, Mister," replied the little fellow disgustedly.

Tax Cut Sought On Expenditures To Better Home

Home owners will get an income tax "break" on home repairs, maintenance, and improvements if Congress enacts proposed legislation into law.

Three bills, two before the House of Representatives, and one in the Senate, call for deductions of up to $2,500 on expenditures exceeding 3 percent of adjusted gross income on home repairs, maintenance, alterations, and additions.

This means that any expenditure made by the home owner to keep a house in good condition would actually cost less, since the new deduction would lower his income tax payment.

For example, if a home owner decides to reroof his house and pays cash for the job, he would get part of the money back in his tax deduction that year.

If he borrows the money, he gets an even greater cut in his tax since interest is deductible. One of the best types of loans for this purpose is an FHA home improvement loan. A new roof of asphalt shingles is authorized under one of these loans because it is a home improvement that better living conditions.

Some other benefits of the proposed legislation are:

1. A sturdier national economy resulting from the increased use of manpower in the production, distribution, and application of building materials.

2. Helping make it easier for the home owner to have a better place to live.

3. A healthier community, financially, as a result of increased business and labor activity.

4. Keeping up tax values of homes, and avoiding deteriorated neighborhoods.

THE DEVIL AND MAN

All through the ages mortal man, they say, Has pictured God as doing things his way; But, in the Bible a different picture, I see; He is not a physical Being like you and me. When mortal man first saw the light,

An imaginary Devil caused him great fright; The 5 senses, now, that devil, are said to be; But, to many, they are as real as if they were he. They called him Lucifer in that early day

And, worshipped him, because of fear, they say; There are still 3 churches in France to-day Whose members worship the same old way.

But, such besighted actions, I am happy to say, Are not in vogue with many, in our day; Man is God's representative, the Scriptures say, So, God made no devil, to lead us astray.

Mortal man as God's steward here below

(We hear that said every place we go!); The Bible, too, says: "We are God's hands; So, it is we, not a devil, who carry out His plan.

God made everything but a devil; great writers say: "He is too Great, too Good, too Wise to act that way; So, that He never made him, we know well; And, without a devil there can be no hell.

In the past century tremendous progress has been made, The foundation for our country's greatness was laid; So, as America is, all countries shall be When the time arrives for Earth's great jubilee.

To America, now, all peoples come and go; For more about its Great Builder, they want to know; One of God's "cities of Refuge", it is said to be; So, when people need help, to her they flee.

For 5000 years the tallow candle furnished light For all kinds of labor done at night; Now the fluorescent light is a common sight to see On most of the streets in America.

We do not worry about distance any more; Instead of the oxcart standing before the door We take an air liner; and, glide away Thousands of miles in a single day.

Then, too, the life span (in 50 years) has increased they say More than it did in 2000 years, in grandfather's day; It all goes to show that, according to God's plan This earth shall be the future home of man.

Even the common man has luxuries, they say, Which were undreamed of by kings in their days; So God, Who is known as the Father of us all, Is making some changes on this great round ball.

Being made in God's likeness, you know the way To make things easy on earth, they say; We no longer plan the ground with a crooked stick, The riding plough is better; and does work quick.

So, labor saving machines of every kind Are daily giving people peace of mind; God never intended man should sweat and grind So, to do things that way, we are not inclined.

When man first came, the records all say He got his food from the trees day after day; That is how by him all food was found Before he learned to till the ground.

We must work out on economy of some kind That shall do away with labor and sickness, I find Until we do, the sages all say We shall continue to worry, and go the wrong way.

We must learn to use our God given brain; And, until we do, we should not complain; That is why God keeps sending us back to earth; We must be made perfect until the land of our birth.

When our talent for friendship, and love is brought out We shall never mistrust a neighbor or doubt; Nor say to others: "He is not worth his salt." If that is true, it won't be your fault.

If your neighbor is financially in a hole Slip him a few bills from your roll; That is why the God of heaven sent you here; You did not come to criticize and domineer.

God said, "Vengeance is mine", the Scriptures say; So, to make yourself perfect, try His way; Even the animals respond to praise, they say And follow the fellow who does things God's way.

There are things we all must learn to know Before, to Paradise, God permits us to go; So, every mortal on earth like Jesus must be Before He is fit to live in Eternity.

There are many things God wants you to do When He has made a perfect man of you, Through all future ages you shall be His hands And help to carry out all His plans.

We must be "born again", the Scriptures say; To reach perfection, there is no other way; All through the ages God has followed that plan To make a perfect woman or man.

"The fathers shall be the children" the Scriptures say; So, to make us perfect, that is God's way; This earth is God's school; and, here we must stay Till we learn to know Him and do things His way.

Summer Blooms

Simplicity is what counts when arranging the lush, fragrant blooms of peonies, for their generosity of size can often present a problem. To overcome this difficulty, unless you have a large space to fill, use only a few blooms — remembering that five peonies equal a dozen of most other flowers in bulk — and graduate the stem lengths so that each bloom can be appreciated for itself. The arrangement above, designed by Alyn Wayne, official stylist for Florists' Telegraph Delivery, has an oriental feeling due to the simplicity of the design and the lavish use of shiny Ti leaves. Peonies are plentiful and inexpensive this time of year, and are suitable for any occasion—be it glad or sad. They make an ideal gift to send or wire to friends and business associates both here and overseas.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

International Uniform Sunday School Lessons
BY DR. KENNETH J. FOREMAN

Bible Material: Deuteronomy 6: 10-12
—11:1; Psalm 145; Micah 6:8-9; Romans 8:6-11
Devotional Reading: Psalm 89:1-2, 5-6, 13-16.

Justice and Mercy

Lesson for July 6, 1958

FOR the next three months, the 80 denominations using the "International Uniform Lessons" which these columns follow week by week, have chosen the general theme of Social Justice. Since some of our readers, or friends of our readers, may have some questions in their minds about this, let us clear up one or two points right away.

It Won't Wash Out

One thing that preachers hear sometimes, when they preach on social justice or any part of it, is something like this: "Why don't you stick to the Gospel? Social justice is the affair of courts, of politics, it belongs anywhere but in church. You stick to religion and leave social justice alone." Indeed, believe it or not, some ministers who have said a brave word for social justice in exceedingly unjust situations, have been called communists for their pains. Such objectors just aren't familiar with their Bibles. This week's Bible material is mostly from the Old Testament, the next week's is going to be from the New. In either Testament it is made quite clear that social justice is part of true religion.

Not An Invention of Cranks

Some people have an odd misunderstanding about social justice. They think it's a hobby of egg-heads, an invention of cranks; at best a special interest, something to be taken or left as you like. At worst (though it is hard to realize any one could be so stupid) it is supposed that social justice is a sort of copyright interest of communists, a lie which communists themselves are only too happy to spread. The simple fact is this: Social justice means treating all human beings with justice and with mercy. Admitted, it is hard to strike a balance between mercy and justice; nevertheless that is the way every sane person wants to be treated, himself; and the principle of social justice means no more nor less than giving everybody, so far as we can, the same sort of treatment we want (and sometimes demand) for ourselves.

What's Religious About It?

Social justice is everybody's affair, not a hobby for a few. But if this is so, what can be specially religious about it? There are religions that take no interest in this; but we are speaking for the Christian religion, the faith of the Bible. Two facts are a vital link joining social justice and religion. One is the fact that the irreligious man is pretty cold to what other people need and rightly want. If I can "get my cut," that's all I ask. When blessings are passed out, I want to be near the head of the line. That's the way the irreligious mind works. Such proverbs as "Look out for Number One," "Every man for himself and the devil take the hindmost," express this selfishness. The second fact linking religion and social justice is that in the Bible, God himself is known as the God of justice and mercy, or as our newer translation puts it, justice and "steadfast love." Human justice is rooted in the fact that we are created by, and responsible to, the God of justice; and human mercy is likewise rooted in the character of the God who made us in his image.

Love Without Hypocrisy

"Let love be without hypocrisy," said St. Paul to the Romans. (Rom. 12:9, A.S.V.) The one commandment Jesus singled out as First, is, Love God with all your heart and mind . . . not half of it! Now it is hard to love God and not love what he stands for. It is impossible to love God and not love the kind of God he is. A person who claims to love God, but who at the same time low-grades or brushes off social justice, raises doubts as to the sincerity of his professed love for God. Can one truly love God and not wish to be like him? Perhaps the greatest single obstacle to Christianity, that is to believing that its claims are true, are the people who with their lips (let us say in hymns or otherwise) profess to love God, and yet in their daily lives show the love only for themselves.

Planning A Party? Easy Does It!

When the crowd comes to your house impress them with this delicious but easy-to-do menu: hearty hero sandwiches, chocolate chip raisin cookies, and beverages. For the sandwiches, provide the fixings, bread, cheese, ham, etc., and let the guests assemble their own. For the dessert use one package of chocolate chip cake mix to make a generous batch of delicious cookies, that will make a big hit with everyone.

Chocolate Chip Raisin Drop Cookies.

1 package chocolate chip cake mix
1 tablespoon water
2 eggs, unbeaten
1/2 cup softened shortening
1 teaspoon vanilla
1/2 cup raisins, chopped

Empty half of cake mix into bowl. Add water, eggs, shortening, and vanilla. Beat well with wooden spoon. Then add remaining mix and beat until smooth. Stir in raisins. Drop by teaspoonfuls onto greased baking sheet. Bake in moderate oven (375°F.) about 12 minutes. Store in tightly covered container. Makes about 4 dozen cookies.

Cake For A Beautiful Wedding

LET THIS BE THE "CAKE TO EAT" AT THE WEDDING! Make it yourself—it's easy with a white cake mix . . . and let your favorite baker make the one for the tiny packages for guests "to dream on."

2 PACKAGES INSTANT WHITE CAKE MIX . . . make up according to package directions. Bake one cake in a 13x9x2-inch pan . . . and one cake in a 9x9x2-inch pan. Both pans should be greased and floured in advance. Bake according to directions.

1 CAN ANGEL FLAKE COCONUT tinted to match the wedding's color theme.

FLUFFY WHITE FROSTING.

To Decorate: Place the larger cake on flat tray and cover entirely with any white frosting. Cut a 2 1/2 inch strip from one side of the 9-inch square cake, and use the remainder for the second layer; again covering with frosting. Cut the 2 1/2 inch strip in half and place halves side by side on top of second layer; frost. Then, with remaining frosting and cake decorator, make garlands around sides of cake. Tint 1 can of flaked coconut a soft yellow and pile in small mounds on top of cake and around bottom tier. If desired, top with wedding bell or other decoration.

Good Color Adds Value To a House

Whether you plan to build a new house or remodel an old one, don't forget the importance of good color, says California home color stylist Margaret Hargreaves.

Properly used, color can add greatly to the value of a house. Wrongly used, it can take value away.

In an article in Practical Builder, a magazine for the light-construction industry, Miss Hargreaves lists important rules to help home builders use colors more effectively. Here are some of her tips:

1. Consider the outside and inside as related areas and coordinate their colors carefully. An abrupt change in color between the exterior and interior can lead to "color shock"—an undesirable sensation psychologically.

2. Choose the roof color first and choose it carefully, since all other colors inside and out should be related to it—even the accent colors on sofa pillows in the living room. The roof actually becomes the color "key" for the entire house.

3. Let the shape and size of the house decide on a light or dark color for the roof. Asphalt shingles in silver-gray, white, or a pastel will make a low house look taller and a dark roof tends to "lower" a tall house.

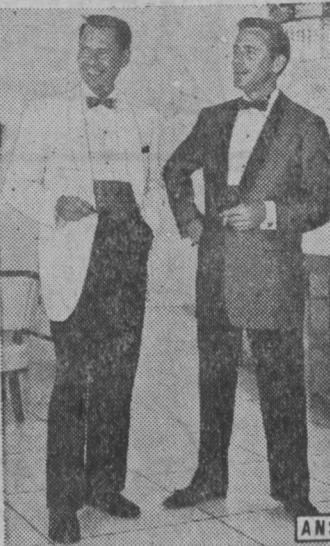

4. Sidewall colors can either blend with the roof color or be in a complementary color that contrasts with the roof. A third harmonizing color can be used on trim, but three exterior colors are the limit.

5. Plumbing fixtures establish the color scheme for the bath. As color progresses outward from this core, fixture colors become the starting point for the entire interior color scheme. Because of this, plumbing fixtures should be in the same color "family" as the roof. This permits the outside and inside to "meet" harmoniously.

Formal Glitter

FULL DRESS affairs are on the comeback, but the male uniform is quite a departure from the "soup 'n fish" of old. After Six, for example, has taken the "penguin look" out of formal wear by using brilliant Luxe metallic yarns. The traditional white jacket is spruced up by a matching multi-colored set of cummerbund, tie, cufflinks and handkerchief. And for the bolder male there is a textured silk and shimmering blue Luxe dinner jacket with a full set of accessories to match.

DOLLAR DIPLOMACY DEBACLE

All over the world we are in trouble in our self-appointed role of the modern Good Samaritan.

We are in grave danger of losing the friends and allies we thought we had bought with more than a hundred billion dollars in foreign aid since the end of World War II.

A sizeable, vocal and violent minority in many parts of the world thoroughly distrust and dislike us. There is increasing evidence of anti-Americanism among the peoples of the so-called "friendly nations" of the Free World.

There is a growing feeling in many nations where we have spent most freely that we have baited a trap for them with our lavish dollar generosity; that we have lured them into an impending war with Russia and her allies.

Our motives are, to say the least, suspect. We have made no secret of the fact that the main reason for our global spending spree has been to build a defense against the spread of Communism.

A Pound Of Flesh

Recent saber-rattling by the Kremlin has led some people abroad to fear that the day may be fast approaching when we will demand our "pound of flesh"—their lives—in repayment of our generosity.

Their fear of Communism is exceeded only by their horror of world-wide atomic and hydrogen bomb war. They had rather live with Communism than not live at all. Many of them do not share our dedication to "give me liberty or give me death."

We know of no-one in this country who wants war with Russia. All of us would do anything we reasonably and honorably could to avoid a war that could again doom civilization to the "Dark Age." Yet, to many people in the world, we appear to be the aggressor.

Russia has waged a propaganda peace offensive; she has talked much about co-existence, live and let live. She has announced an end to atomic and hydrogen tests and has challenged us to do the same. We have refused.

Facts as we know them are important, but people all over the world are influenced by what they believe. Many of them believe Russia rather than us.

What Do We Do Now?

The first thing we are doing already is a reappraisal of our foreign policy. We're taking a new look at the breakdown of dollar diplomacy. We're beginning to question whether dollars are more convincing than words.

Talk, we have always been told, is cheap. Russia has made better use than we of words. She may be able to talk more and longer than we can spend, and, if she does, we may find we have lost some allies we believed we had in our pocket.

So, the first departure from old policies is to be a gigantic, world-wide, American-financed public relations program. We are going to try to sell freedom and democracy rather than buy friends and allies.

We should continue our foreign aid program, but take the price-tag off it. We should quit trying to tell the people of other nations what kind of a government they should have, and how they should manage their affairs. We should begin to mind our own business and quit meddling in the affairs of others.

We should try to make friends rather than buy friendship. Our whole concept of foreign diplomacy may be about to undergo the most dramatic revision in more than 100 years.

THE DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENCE

by G. H. Enfield

Before the Revolutionary War, which was a war for independence for the colonies of America, the Americans were in a rather peculiar position. War was inevitable, though it was not as yet a war between two nations. To many outside the parties in conflict, the colonists were bad children at odds with their mother, rebels antagonistic to, and fighting their own government. If colonial soldiers were captured, they had no rights of prisoners of war if tried for treason. And as treaties are between nations, no foreign nation was going to make a treaty with the rebellious colonies.

The leaders in the colonies were fully aware of this, but their ambition to gain their rights and demands was heightened by the writings of a brilliant and sympathetic Englishman, Thomas Paine, who said:

"To know whether it be the interest of this continent to be independent, we need only ask this easy, simple question: Is it the interest of a man to be a boy all his life? . . . We have it in our power to begin the world over again."

One of the three greatest orators of the day was the forceful speaker Patrick Henry, a lawyer of Virginia, who in his "Liberty or Death" speech before the Virginia Assembly at Richmond, in 1775, stirred the patriotic souls of those assembled with the awe-inspiring words:

"Is life so dear, or peace so sweet, as to be purchased at the price of chains and slavery? Forbid it, Almighty God! I know not what course others may take; but as for me, give me liberty or give me death!"

Only a few weeks after the delivery of this speech, the first battle of the American Revolution was fought, and the first blood shed, at Lexington and Concord, Mass., April 19, 1775.

Richard Henry Lee, another Virginian, made the following motion in the Continental Congress "that these colonies are, and of right ought to be, free and independent states."

At once, a committee was chosen to draft a formal paper setting forth the reasons for the act. Benjamin Franklin, Thomas Jefferson, and John Adams were the most outstanding men on the committee. Jefferson wrote the paper and the other members made slight changes in the draft. On July 2 all the states except New York went on record favoring breaking political connection with Great Britain. Then on July 4, 1776, the Declaration of Independence was formally adopted by the Congress.

The Document contained three distinct parts:

1. The first section states the right of all men to life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness.

2. The second section enumerates the grievances against the King of England, who was George III.

3. The third section announces that the colonies hence forth are to be free and independent states.

The fate of a nation hung in suspense.

But how could the Young Nation fail, with 56 men of the calibre and integrity of the Signers of the Declaration of Independence

"And, for the support of this declaration, with a firm reliance on the protection of Divine Providence, we mutually pledge to each other our lives, our fortunes, and our sacred honor."

WITH OUR ARMED FORCES

June 27, 1958
After a 30-day furlough at home, M/Sgt. Calvin S. Powell, his wife Ann, daughter Ginger and son Pepper, returned to Fort Knox, Kentucky, for a start on a new six year re-enlistment. In May 1958, he was credited with 16½ years of service.

Two weeks before their furlough, the Powells moved into their new 10 wide 51 foot Mobile Home at a new address, just 15 minutes from Post.

Box 905, Hillview Trailer Court, Radcliff, Kentucky.

While on furlough, they visited many relatives and friends. M/Sgt. Powell enjoyed a three day fishing trip in Virginia with his Dad and four friends on the "Trade Winds", a 42-foot fishing launch. The group had a good catch.

A family dinner was given on June 22nd by the parents, Mr. and Mrs. John C. Powell at their home on Bull Frog Rd., Taneytown, Md. There were four generations present. Those attending were Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Unglesbee, Mr. and Mrs. John Lowery, Baltimore; Mrs. Marion Unglesbee, Mt. Airy; Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Freeman, Hanover, Pa.; Mrs. Walter Fredericks, sons Gary and Ronnie and daughter Patricia, Woodstock; Mr. and Mrs. Edward Powell, sons Edward, Jr., Alvin, David and daughter Catherine, Owings Mills; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gamber, and daughter, Brenda, Westminster; Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Powell and sons Michael and Steven, Taneytown; Mr. and Mrs. Norman Powell, daughter Sue and son Gerald, New Windsor; Novella Grimes, Woodbine; Thomas Knight and Robert and Earl Powell, Taneytown. Movies were made in color of the gala affair.

On the Powells' return to Kentucky at 5:32 a. m. on June 23rd, just 8 miles out of Frederick, they had a narrow miss of a head-on collision. The Powells were moving west when a car going east side-swiped another east-bound car and gained speed in the opposite lane of traffic heading for their car. Quick action on Powell's part and alert motorist going east to Frederick avoided the head-on. The driver apparently had fallen asleep at the wheel. He hit the guard rails and bridge abutment and rolled 25 feet to his death.

The Powells went to Camp Dietrick where M/Sgt. Powell's right arm was x-rayed. In assisting the injured driver, the wrecked car door came down across his arm. There were no breaks but his arm was cut and bruised. The hospital staff on duty so early were most courteous with hot coffee and fruit juice for the children.

JEST JOKIN'

A doting dog-owner enrolled her poodle in a training school for dogs. When the dog came home to lunch after the first morning session, the fond owner asked, "And what did you learn today, Cuthbert? Geography?"

The dog merely shook his head.

"Arithmetic?"

Again the dog shook his head.

"Perhaps you studied a foreign language?"

The pooch arched his back, lashed his tail, and answered proudly, "Meow!"

The teacher had asked the class to list, in their opinion, the nine greatest Americans. After a while, she stopped at one desk and asked, "Have you finished your list yet, Bobby?"

"Not yet," he replied, "I can't decide on the shortstop."

Two billboards spotted side by side: One was advertising ladies' hose and showed a pair of lovely—how do you say it, gams? Alongside was a billboard advertising a new car. The man's head was turned, apparently looking at the pair of legs, and the headline on the board read: "Stop dreaming—price it!"
