Barbecued chicken is familiar to the people of the Eastern Shore in the heart of the broiler industry, and those people who have eaten chicken prepared in this way feel there is no finer way to prepare or serve chicken. The farm organizations of the county are making a special effort to provide from 800 to 1000 people with fast service.

There will be no place nicer to go on a hot July afternoon than the beautiful wooded hillside where the Agricultural Center is located and have a fine barbecued chicken dinner.

Country and town people are invited to join in this festive occasion and get a real barbecued chicken dinner. Everyone come to the Agricultural Center, Westminster, Md., on July 26. Tickets are on sale now-don't delaw in getting yours.

FISHING RODEO SET FOR JULY 19

Event for Children Sponsored by Taneytown Jaycees

The Taneytown Junior Chamber of Commerce will hold their third an-nual Fishing Rodeo for the children of the Taneytown area on Saturday, July 19, at the Rod and Gun Club Pond, 1 mile east of town. It is open to all children through the age of 14 years, and will run from 9 a. m. until 2 p. m.

This has been a very successful service project of the Jaycees, and has been enjoyed by many children each year. Many fine prizes will be awarded to two different age groups, those up to age 10, and those over age 10. There will also be a free light lunch given the young participants at noon.

All participants must have an application blank signed by their par-ent or guardian. Although adequate safety precautions will be taken, neither the Junior Chamber of Commerce or the Taneytown Rod and Gun Club may be held responsible for accidents. Entrants must also supply their own gear and baits. An application blank is printed elsewhere in this paper and may be used for several children in the same fam-

LIONS HOLD FAMILY PICNIC IN PARK JULY 8TH

The meeting of Taneytown Lions for Tuesday, July 8, will be remembered for the beauty of the evening, following upon the heels of some very torrid days, and its setting at Memorial Park, in the pavilion which had been one of their contributions to the park's attractiveness. The ample picnic fare included hot dogs roasted over charcoal, delicious barbecue sandwiches, quite a selection of soft drinks, and all the other things which add so much to the pleasure of dining outdoors amid family and friends.

Lewis R. Baer was in charge of arrangements for this Lions Family Picnic and he was assisted by Donald R. Baker, Curtis G. Bowers, Harry B. Dougherty, Wilbert N. Hess, Orville E. Keefer, and Charles I. Little, appointees of President Frank T. Dunham, who himself was inde-

TWO PICTURES TO REMEMBER

Two pictures for parents to remember appeared in recent newspapers.

One showed a mother and seven children gathered about a man in an iron lung. The caption, under a Michigan dateline, said that the whole family had been vaccinated against polio except the father. Now he is so paralyzed that he cannot breathe without mechanical aid.

months in a respirator tank. The caption, datelined from Texas, said from working in his regular job. that the baby was a victim of polio The damages awarded came to paralysis.

What does a father think when he gazes up from an iron lung into the sorrowing, bewildered faces of his children? What goes through a mother's mind when she looks down on the polio-wasted body of her

One thing they must both realize, to their horror and regret, is that polio today is unnecessary. There is a safe and effective weapon against it in the Salk vaccine. When it strikes a person in 1958 somebody almost surely has been guilty of neglect.

Far too many Americans share this guilt-nearly three out of seven, in fact. And among these neglected or neglectful millions, none is safe from polio-neither the helpless infant nor the wage-earner of a family. Last year babies under two showed the highest rate of polio attack. Young adults ran them a

FOR VALUE RECEIVED

The new postal rates which will shortly go into effect mark an effort to do something constructive about the huge taxpayer subsidies that have been given the postal serviceand to have the users of mail come nearer to paying for what they get. This is especially true in the rate increases scheduled for third-class matter.

But the new post office bill, as approved unanimously by Congress and signed by the President, does not do anything about fourth-class mail, which is parcel post. And it is here that further reforms are needed.

Parcel post is and almost always has been a producer of deficits. That is simply a way of saying that the people who don't use parcel post must pay a part of the cost of providing service for the people who do. And it can't be argued that parcel post contributes to public knowledge and enlightenment, as do other mail categories. Parcel post is a 100 per cent commercial service. It competes directly with taxpaying private package carriers, both national and local. It didn't even exist until 1913.

The direct deficits-all taxpayersupported—accountable to parcel post have run into hundreds of millions of dollars over the years, and are still mounting. On top of that, parcel post is responsible for indirect costs which make a material contribution to the over-all cost of operating the post office department. There's certainly nothing unfair or unreasonable in suggesting that the people who use parcel post pay for value received.

IT COULD BE YOU

my house." Then you dismiss it from your mind. You might not be so complacent if the figures on fire losses were placed before you in big red letters.

During 1956, there were 865,561 reported fires in communities of 2,500 or more population which means that a fire started every 37 seconds.

Almost everything you own, from a house down to a dishpan, costs twice as much today as it did a compartively few years back.

In most cases, even though you are carrying double the insurance you carried 15 years ago, you would still be out of pocket in replacing the things destroyed by fire. Your best protection is to see that every possible hazard around your property is reduced to the minimum. It is cheaper to call in an electrician or furnace man to make needed repairs and replacements than it is to call the fire department.

FACTS AND OPINIONS

The swift depreciation of the franc has been partly to blame for French political unrest, in the view of the president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, and should be a warning to this country. The franc today is worth only 1/84th of its 1918 value. If the same fate should befall the dollar, a $100 suit of clothes would sell for $8,400; a $100 social security check would buy two pounds of hamburger, and $100,-'000 in life insurance would provide board and room for a widow for about a year.

The U. S. Supreme Court has handed down a decision upholding the right of a non-union employe to The other showed an infant of five recover damages from a union because its picket line prevented him $10,000—$500 for loss of pay, and $9,500 punitive damages.

Tip for Handyman

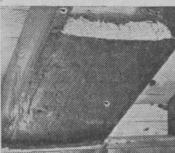

Install Insulation with Care

Practically any home handyman (or woman) can install mineral wool insulation, but proper installation is important to get its full heat-stopping value.

Here are step-by-step rules for installing batts or blankets of mineral wool in ceilings and

1. Cut the insulation slightly larger than the space it is to fill, leaving a flange of vapor barrier at each end. 2. Wedge the insulation tight

2. Wedge the insulation tightly between joist, stud, or rafter, permitting the vapor barrier flange to overlap the wood framing member at the end of the space, as shown in the photograph.

3. Sapar or tail the flange to the first one.

Clown Sundaes For The Kiddies

The children can make these circus clown sundaes for themselves and will love doing it, too. Store-bought doughnuts form the ruffs, scoops of ice cream the heads, sugar cones the hats and snips of gumdrops the features. A delicious, easily-prepared pineapple sauce completes these party sundaes.

To make the sauce, a package of instant pudding, corn syrup and evaporated milk are blended together with crushed pineapple folded in. It is thick enough to pour in about 10 minutes—and what a treat for the very young—and the very young at heart.

Instant Pineapple Ice Cream Sauce for Clown Sundaes

1 package Jell-O vanilla instant pudding 2/3 cup light corn syrup 1/2 cup evaporated milk

1/4 cup pineapple juice 1/3 cup drained, canned crushed pineapple

Combine pudding mix and corn syrup in a bowl. Mix until smooth Gradually add milk, pineapple juice and pineapple. Stir until well blended. Allow to stand about 10 minutes to thicken sauce. Serve on ice cream, cake, or other desserts. Makes about 2 cups of sauce.

FEESERSBURG (A Voice from Carroll)

Every newspaper and magazine these days carries an article on diets and how to take off the extra pounds one doesn't need or especially want. Not only is it unhealthy to be over-weight but it may be politically un-wise to have too many extra pounds around the waist. One half the world's population spends its time fighting to eat. The battle is fought and frequently lost on every day of the year from childhood through maturity to old age. In a very real sense these people have seen more days than dinners. What does this mean to us? It emphasises the vast gulf between the citizens of the United States and the citizens of undeveloped countries. We overeat and add unneeded pounds to worry about while others undereat and worry about hunger. There must be found someway to even things up. When people get too hungry they start a revolution. When people overeat they get fat, lazy and fuzzy in the When we were a young nation pushing ahead with not too much time to spend thinking of food pictures show that there were very few fat pioneers. For one thing they didn't eat too often and another reason they burned their fat off with hard work Today with not too much to do and even less inclination to do that much, we think of food as an escape for our frustrations and unhappiness. All we succeed in doing is adding more blubber to our already overloaded bodies! and making hungry people hate us for being so piggish.

discovered and sooner or later polio will be brought under control people are wondering what National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis will turn its talents to next. This question will soon be answered for according to our information the Polio Foundation will soon unite with the Arthritic organization to make war on crippling arthritis. The polio Foundation will also continue to seek better vaccines for polio and other viris diseases. We don't think writers write any more just to entertain the reader. They write such serious stuff and the endings leaves the reader with a feeling of just going through a hideous nightmare or having suddenly lived through a tarnished love affair. We wonder what became of those writers of dime novels which we as a girl was forbidden to read. We read them anyway. We wonder what all the fuss over them was about. We can't remember too much about them now, but we do know that they contained no violence and no sex compared to what is written in every book today. And the endings were always happy which left one with a nice comfortable feeling. Today writers want realism although the readers are tired of so much of it. Realism faces people every day in earning a living and reading newspapers. After all reading should be fun sometimes. And getting knifed in the back, shot in the head, or losing ones spouse to a sleepy, sneaky blond is not our idea of fun. Or are we just a bit old-fashioned? Senile might be a better

We would like to offer Alaska our congratulation for becoming a state at last. But not all people in Alaska are happy about it. A month ago we had a letter from a citizen of Anchorage and he was hoping that congress wouldn't pass the bill. He gave his reasons which we thought were purely selfish ones as they concerned taxation. We are glad Alaska was admitted for the simple reason that we were tired of hearing about Texas all the time. With Alaska over twice the size of that state there will be no more bragging from south of the Mason-Dixie Border. And we were tired of oil wells too. No doubt we will hear a lot about Alaskan salmon, timber and climate but at least it will be a change from cattle and million-

We feel that this year we have accomplished something as far as gardening is concerned. After years of trying we have finally grown parsley. Every spring for over ten years we painstakingly followed directions for parsley but never any luck till now. It must have been the soil and the weather that contributed to our success this year. Since we use so much parsley in cooking we are very proud of our accomplishment.

ARE WE LOSING THE COLD WAR?

Stuart Symington-solemnly warns the Nation that we are in grave danger of losing the cold war to the Communist Bloc nations.

Such a warning coming from an acknowledged authority on national defense carries tremendous weight. It should shock and alert every American. It shocked the Senate into almost a billion dollar increase in the defense budget.

Sen. Symington of Missouri probably knows as much about national defense as any man in Washington. Before being elected to the Senate he was Assistant Secretary of War for Air, and Secretary of the Air Force. He is a member of the Armed Services Committee and the Senate Preparedness Investigating Subcommittee.

When it became known that he planned to address the Senate on national defense, other Senators came to listen and the galleries were packed. His warning, however, needs more emphasis than press reports gave it.

Our Survival Threatened

"If," he said, "we continue to drift as we are drifting, the question of our survival as a great Nation will become as important to us tomorrow as it is to the people of France today.

"We still have the right to choose the way, but if we continue to drift and dream, that choice will not be ours for long.'

The greatest threat to our survival in the conflict with communism, Sen. Symington declared, is the smug complacency with which we take for granted that we can

A man who should know-Sen. win all wars because we never lost

We already have suffered a series of diplomatic defeats, he said. American prestige is at a low ebb all over the world. Russia is not unaware that we are experiencing serious economic difficulties.

"Russian military superiority is more than idle boast. Russia alone has 175 divisions that are combatready. We are in the process of reducing our Army to 14 divisions, at least 4 of which are largely equipped with World War II weapons," Symington said.

Soviets Are Gaining

"Russia is at least 2 or 3 years ahead of us in missiles development, and gaining. She has put into orbit a 3,000-lb. missile, more than 100 times as large as anything we

"The United States cannot airlift and properly support over-seas a single division. We would have to depend upon some miracle to transport troops where needed.

"We knew as far back as two years ago that Russia had a modern fleet of some 500 submarines, more than 10 times the number Hitler had. Russia has the capacity to launch missiles from nuclearpowered submarines.

"The facts show clearly and incontrovertibly that the military strength of the Communists is growing faster than our own. The survival of the United States demands that we embark immediately upon an all-out, top-priority research and development effort in the field of new weapons.'

Two Room Air Conditioners Cool Entire Home in South

living room and part of the dining room in his 1,700-square-foot brick veneer bungalow, but wanted to air condition the entire house to make the hot Georgia summers more comfortable for his family

If you want complete air conditioning in your home but feel you can't afford a central cooling system now, you might consider following the lead of William H. Hogan, of Savannah, Ga.

Hogan was using a ¾-ton window air conditioner to cool the living room and part of the gia summers more comfortable for his family.

His budget wouldn't permit an investment in a central system, but he had heard that a small house of about 1,000 square feet could be comfortably cooled with a room air conditioner if it had thick insulation in walls and ceiling.

Why, he wondered, wouldn't two ¾-ton units do the cooling job in his 1,700-square-foot house if he added more insulation?

Hogan checked with a local mineral wool contractor, who agreed it would work. Using pneumatic equipment, the contractor blew a 4-inch thickness of mineral wool on top of the 2-inch thickness already in the at-

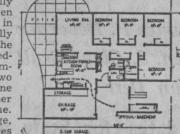

Here's A "Pocketbook Version" Of a Luxury-Class Home

A "pocketbook edition" of a larger, more imposing house by "name designer" Donald Scholz, this contemporary home "Has Everything" in good measure at lower cost.

Sacrificing nothing in architectural styling, Scholz has confined building cost savings to smaller floor area, and necessary elimination of some luxury features and appurtenances. In outward appearance and indoor functional plan and charm, however, this home is on a par with many houses in higher cost brackets.

Study the design with particular care if you have a large family and are trying to decide between three bedrooms or four. Here in equal floor space and virtually equal building cost, you'll find the ultimate. Note that the extra bedroom has been obtained by compromising only on the size of two rooms—the living room and one of the original bedrooms. All other rooms and areas remain the same.

With either floor plan, the large, well-lighted central foyer features 2-CAR CARACE a massive planter for grace and beauty, and easy access to all rooms for convenience. Two bath-rooms, a kitchen-family room, and a patio with access through sliding-glass doors are among features that place the home above Total floor space of the house is 1,240 sq. ft. For further information on this versatile house, write Don Scholz Design Associates, Dept. 104, 2001 N. Westwood. Toledo 7, Ohio.

Good Orientation Reduces Costs of Air Conditioning

Proper orientation of an airconditioned house can save as for Builders, engineers ex-plained that the general rule of thumb in siting an air-conditioned house is to keep the midafternoon and late afternoon sun from striking windows and walls that have living space directly behind them.

Although it's rarely possible to achieve ideal orientation because of the size and shapes of lots and their contours, these main rules, as illustrated in the drawing, should be followed as closely as the lot allows:

1. Face the broad sides of the house north and south.

2. Place the garage or porch on the west side to act as a buffer to late afternoon sun.

3. Use wide roof overhangs to shade walls and windows, ditioning and apply white or light-color luxury.

All That Glitters Is Not "Chrome"

Using the word "chrome" to describe the exterior trim on today's car is as outmoded as the by-gone term "horseless carriage." Witness the above evidence.

Spread out around the handsome '58 model pictured are the approximate 170 pieces of stainless steel which auto makers actually rely on to protect and beautify a modern car. There are some 20 pounds on this Dodge Custom Royal hardtop. The strength of stainless is utilized for such parts as grilles, bumper and headlight guards, wheel covers, door fixtures, outlines for window areas and design strips, among others. Another reason for stainless being top choice for these parts is the metal's high resistance to rust and corresion. Thus, brightwork of stainless remains clean and attractive.

Jesus on Justice

Lesson for July 13, 1958

IF any one is an authority on the subject of justice, it should be God Almighty himself. Christians believe that God's mind is revealed to us in Jesus Christ. So it is extremely important to find out what Jesus had to say on any topic. Now Jesus never once used the expression "social justice." He didn't have to. For the question of justice never comes up at all unless there are as many as two persons involved in a situation. And if there are as Dr. Fereman many as two, you have a social situation and any justice there is social justice. Furthermore, the kind of justice that counts is social. Court-room justice isn't worth much if it does not produce social justice.

Nothing Cancels Out Justice

Some people have supposed that living in the New Testament light, we have outgrown the need for justice—that Christians live by love, or grace, or faith, or mystic vision, or something else, any-thing else but justice. Some people will tell you that the gospel cancels out justice, that justice is an Old Testament word and we Christians have outgrown it. This is not true. Nothing cancels justice. For one thing, most of Jesus' teaching dealt with right relationships among men, and the short name for that is justice. For another thing Jesus did speak directly of this thing. He condemned the Pharisees severely because they had forgotten it. According to Luke's account, Jesus said the Pharisees had neglected justice and the love of God. In Matthew's story, Jesus said the Pharisees had neglected justice and mercy and faith. Note in both cases: Justice and . . . He mentions justice first always.

is Justice Impossible? About the only way to get around this (or to try to do so). is to fancy that somehow or other Jesus' teachings do not apply to us. All one need say about that point of view is that when a "Christian" reaches the point where he will not take his orders from the Lord Jesus, he had better consider whether he rates the name of Christian after all. However, there are a pair of further objections we should consider. One is that since only God knows what is finally fair, we must leave all matters of social justice to him. He alone is judge of the whole earth; and our own "justice" can never be based on full knowledge of all the facts, as God's is. So let's give up the whole thing, shall we? NO! Such talk is unadulterated nonsense. The grain of truth in that argument is that perfect justice—like perfect mercy or faith or love of God-is not attainable in this life by us mortals. Nevertheless, mercy and faith and love are the Christian's business-and so is justice. We need God's forgiveness for the injustices of our "justice;" but we would need his forgiveness far more if we never tried to be just Isn't Ours a "Different" World? Another way people try to by-pass Jesus' teaching is to point out that we are living in a different world from his. One very important difference is this: Most of the people we deal with, in our complex, industrial, urban civilization, we never see and do not even know who they are; whereas in the world of Jesus' time a man knew all his neighbors and he never dealt with any one else. It is a difficult business just to live right with people you know. But how is a dairy farmer going to be fair with the consumers in a distant city he never sees? How is a stockholder in General Motors going to live right with, and do right by, Mr. Reuther? How is a plain citizen of the U.S.A. going to do the right thing by a plain citizen of the U.S.S.R.? These are terribly difficult questions. Any reader can write out a page full of such problems between now and church time. He will not find all the answers in the book, Perhaps no one knows the answersyet. But remembering how our Lord put justice first, we cannot dodge the duty of thinking hard and long on how we in our time can make justice a real thing.

The two young things coming Minute across to board Fiction the plane looked like a honeymoon couple. She had on a light blue suit and a little flowered hat covered with pink veiling over her blonde pony tail, and he had a flower in his navy buttonhole.

Then suddenly a figure came dashing through the crowd and out through the gate, gesticulating madly for them to wait. He carried a cardboard shoebox and his dark curly hair was flying in the wind and rain. A fine drizzle had started and the girl came on up the steps out of it, and turned to look back. There seemed to be a great argument going on down there. Her boy-friend kept pushing the box back into the other man's arms. "NO, NO, I won't take it. No,

Nick, I don't want the thing." "But you must. It is the only way. It is our one chance-' The dark foreign-looking fellow gave the box one final thrust into the young man's arms and then dashed back and disappeared in the crowd.

"It's my cousin, Nicholas, baby. He wants me to-to-" he looked at me apprehensively and then rushed into the plane, dragging the girl with him. I followed along curiously, making a pretense of helping them find a seat. He kept shifting the box nervously. "Would you like to sit near the front or back?" I queried in my usual Hostess Voice. They chose the seat next the emergency exit window, and strangely, he went in first. The thought flashed in my mind that I could always open it if worst came to worst. I went right on up front to the pilot's

I walked back and stopped to chat. "Would you like me to put the package up on the shelf for you?" I inquired pleasantly. "Oh, no, no," he cried. "I have to hold it. It must be kept -uh, warm." He broke off as if he were biting his tongue. "But darling, wha: is it?" the girl kept asking.

He answered impatiently now. "Francie, I can't tell you. Now don't ask again. Why don't you go sit in the back? The view is better." The plane had taxied out to the takeoff runway and was revving up the engines, but still we didn't go. I glanced at my wristwatch. Probably waiting for the tower-signal—the fog was getting

It must be a matter of time. I went forward and pulled at Wilcox's sleeve. "You've got to do something," I cried. "I can't get it away from him, and he says we MUST get off on time. This is murder!

Wilcox snorted. "All right, Miss Benson. Take over, Hannigan." He followed me back. "Let's have a look, young man," he said sternly, grabbing the box. "Oh please, sir, don't open it here-I beg of you." Reuel scrambled over his bride's knees and followed us to the control room. Wilcox was opening the strings.

He lifted off the cover and there lay-a setting of duck eggs, I guess-big fancy white eggs. "What on earth-" I screamed in relief. "It was my cousin's idea-he wanted to send them to our uncle in California, but I told him nothey might even hatch on the way. But he made me take them, and I didn't want Francie to know-' shoulder, Wilcox laughed. "Delivering ducks-what next!" And I breathed a sigh of relief. I had done my best-for the safety and comfort of the passengers!

In spite of all the work-saving devices, many homemakers still consider housework a drudgery. Here's a trick that one homemaker uses to make it a challenge rather than a chore. She always plans some pleasant activity after she's through with her work. If a complete house cleaning is on the agenda, she plans a big party be-fore she gets out her mop and pail. And, as she washes the floor, she plans her menu, decorations and guest list. Her floor work is cut in half because she uses a special no-rinse cleaner. In her daily work plan, she does the toughest job first and gets it out of the way, but she always has some simple pleasure in mind—having a cup of coffee with a neighbor, an outing with the children, or visiting an old friend. Even the small anticipated pleasures make work go faster and it seems less of a chore.

Take full advantage of all housework has to offer as an exercise to keep your figure trim, advises the Spic and Span Cleaning Clinic. In scrubbing floors, for instance, the right equipment and the right cleaner are important—a handy squeeze-type mop and a cleaning product specifically designed for hard-surface floors that requires just a once-over wiping and no rinsing. Working with the mop is a fine chance to strengthen abdominal and back muscles. Here's the way to do it. Keep your abdomen flat and your back straight as possible. Use small strokes, working to the right and to the

Is your coffee table scratched and beaten-up after many years of use? Here's an easy way to make it look like new. Cover the top with the vinyl tile that looks like marble and it will clean like a dream. Just wash it with the same no-rinse cleaning solution you use on your floors and painted walls. You'll never have to worry wans, You'll never have to worry about spilled beverages or food, since it will be so easy to wipe up. If you would like low, oversize coffee table, cov it flush door with the marble ti. and put brass legs on it. It will be a handsome addition to your room.

So you've finally succumbed to Junior's pleas to add a puppy to the family. Of course, he's promised on Scout's Honor to care for the dog. This he'll do for a week. But you can bet from there on Mom's the care-taker of the livestock—even for Dad's hunting dogs.

After you've learned that man's best friend isn't always the same for women, you'll also have to realize that there are several very basic things to caring for the family's ca-nine mascot. He needs exercise, the right food, and understanding. For example, too often children—and adults too—forget that a puppy is a baby and should be treated as such.
Most of the leading dog food processors have excellent booklets on raising and caring for dogs. Even before the puppy arrives you should get a copy or consult a veterinarian. Keeping Towser clean heads the list of musts for a happy pup. Bathing him too often, however, is harmful. It removes oils from his coat and invites skin troubles. Proper feeding and frequent brushing will keep his coat shining and reduces "dog" odor, Don't forget, a dog's nails grow too. Clip or file them when they get too

If your dog lives in his own private house, it should be cleaned frequently to protect him against the spread of diseases and parasites which are harbored by nooks such as dog kennels. A disinfectant solution made of household lye—1 can of lye to 10 gallons of water—does an excellent job of killing roundworm eggs, flea larvae, distemper virus, and eggs, hea larvae, distemper virus, and many other germs which can harm your dog. You can protect the pup by scrubbing his kennel and food dishes with this solution. It's about as economical and effective as anything you could use.

Milestone Tractor

NO. 1,200,000—A. A. Thornbrough, president of Massey-Ferguson, Inc., drives the 1,200,000th Ferguson System tractor off the assembly line at the company's newly-expanded Detroit plant. The milestone tractor, 250,000th to be produced at the Detroit plant since it began operation in 1948, marked the completion of a $3,500,000 modernization and expansion program which has-doubled the plant's capacity to 250 tractors per shift. One of the most advanced industrial facilities in the world, the local factory supplies the North American market with a broad range of farm and industrial tractors. The first Ferguson System tractor was produced in 1935.
