"SPICE 'N EVERYTHING NICE"

With all my heart, I wish you every morning a smile that shall last until the next day's dawning.

I wish you health—life's greatest wealth! I wish you always near so that I may help to cheer.

Each future day and in some way—help to bring you happiness!

The Rose of Sharon bushes are in full bloom and there are many of them which are a beautiful deep pink toward the lavender side.

The lovely riding horses walk close to the fence near me in the field opposite and now and then a rabbit scampers across the lawn.

The lightning bugs are fascinating to watch these hot nights. The huge lawn appears thicker than ever due to so many heavy rains. And thinking of lawns, now is the time to look after it as usually much crabgrass comes after wet weather. Ask your dealer for Scott's "Scut!" to control invasions of this awful "crab" And be sure to fertilize your lawn by feeding monthly or even every sixty days with "Spread Turf Builder".

"Norway's grass roof at the 1938 San Francisco Exposition was so beautiful that I knew someday I'd live in a house with grass on the roof". This is what Architect Lawrence Hess tells people when they express surprise and ask him about the unusual roof he designed. "Surprised? They certainly are! Full of questions, too". Is it insulation? (some). How do you water or sprinkle? Does it leak? (No, it has waterproof roof below). Do you plant wild flowers in it? (Yes, every year). The Hess roof-lawn is 8 years old and has been seen by many people.

"Stoweholm" the Hess home, is a popular ski resort and summer vacation lodge for 40 guests. Many families came back each year to "the house with the grass roof". In Norway, grass roofs have been rather common, traditionally underlaid by birch bark instead of polyethylene and tar of the Hess roof. Villagers prefer grass roofs for the very practical purpose of fire protection in a land where roof fires are common.

In the August Coronet is a most interesting article, "When A Woman Ran The White House." Very few of us realized that during the time of the President's grave illness of Woodrow Wilson.

Hope you keep watching that wonderful Theodore Nadler of St. Louis, Mo., on the $64,000 question or Challenge at 10 o'clock on Sunday night. It surely does pay to keep on reading and gain knowledge along many lines. And to think this man went only to the 7th grade of school. He just about baffles everyone on the program and the big audience from Coast to Coast.

Jehovah's Witnesses were in New York two hundred thousand strong last week. Thirty six thousand arrived from overseas! They surely do know "The Good Book" from A to Z and it is interesting to hear any one of them talk. One of my friends from Florida visited me before going to New York and she joined to become one of the ministers just ten years ago. No money is ever passed for anything but the actual cost of the little booklets which are published and which they are distributing as they call from door to door! They foot their own expenses to the last detail. Even while in New York, they are given the territory to call on the many thousands!

Letters to be answered—Dear Observer: Can you answer this one for me? I have tried just about everything? My husband is a lawyer and each night until dusk he plays tennis and I surely am a tennis widow. He has done this for years. How could I cure him? Signed, Distacted.

Dear Distracted: I think that tennis is a grand diversion especially in or after the day of law practice. Your husband needs this outdoor exercise after being "shut in" all day. Try to be patient and be glad he is the healthy type that can do this sort of sport. Your O.

Dear Observer: I am 82 years of age and live alone in a two room apartment. I do a lot of crocheting and do it beautifully. Can you tell me how I could get this on the market? Old Lady 82.

Dear Lady: First of all, congratulations! You must be wonderful. Truly life does begin at 80! More power to you! A letter follows directed to you. Your O.

Dear Observer: I am just about crazy since my husband's retirement. He just walks in and out each room and don't know what to do with himself. I am getting to be terribly nervous and now have high blood pressure from the strain. How glad women should be when their husbands do not retire but just keep going. Is there any solution to this constant worry? Thank you! Mrs. D. L.

A answer—Dear D. L.: Perhaps you could get a position for you to remain out of the house many hours of the day. Your husband, too, should have something to employ his mind. Try working out some solution between you. Talk it over nicely without becoming angry.

Be seeing you next week, folks. Have a grand week end. Drive carefully and slowly and that way you will enjoy it all the more. Until next week D. V. I am,

Faithfully,

YOUR OBSERVER

Young man, I'll teach you to kiss my daughter.

You're too late. I've already learned.

NO NEED FOR PANIC

We have heard much of the alleged plight of the nation's schools, ascribed to grossly inadequate pay for teachers, inadequate building of physical facilities, and other such neglects. The commonly proposed solution is Federal support of education.

Now, however, the Institute of Social Science Research has issued an exhaustive study which reaches very different conclusions. It is signed by Roger Freeman, an acknowledged authority in this field who, among other things, was consultant on school finance to the White House Conference on Education.

Here are some of the points Mr. Freeman makes and substantiates: In terms of cost, education is the largest public service in the country next to national defense. Between 1929-39 and 1955-56, personal consumption expenditures doubled whereas public school expenditures tripled. In 1956, we spent $103.94 per capita on education as against $34.17 in Russia. In late years, the number of certified teachers has increased materially more on a percentage basis, than the number of pupils. In these years, in addition, college majors in education have increased by 33 percent where majors in other fields decreased by 28 percent. The classroom shortage has been exaggerated and is rapidly decreasing.

Finally, in 1957 teachers' pay, on the average, was 94 per cent above the 1929 level; earnings of all workers were 82 per cent above.

The study certainly does not claim that everything is perfect in education. But it certainly does show that our educational problems have been magnified out of all reason. There's no need to press any panic buttons.—Industrial News Review.

WHO IS THE WINNER?

If Elfrida Von Nardoff, record quiz show "winner" of $220,500, thought she was going to have a big bank account from her once-in-a-lifetime accomplishment, she had a sad awakening.

After the tax collectors skimmed the cream from her earnings she had left about 50,000 forty-eight cent dollars. That's the price of big wars, big centralized government and peaceable acceptance of the socialistic philosophy which saddles us with the "welfare state."—Industrial News Review.

FACTS AND OPINIONS

Railroads last year again proved themselves the safest way to travel, according to data compiled from governmental and other sources. Travel by rail was nearly twice as safe as travel by domestic airline and bus, and about 37 times as safe as travel by automobile and taxi. The automobile fatality rate, the data also shows, was 22½ times that of rail, air and bus lines combined.

Alaska, the 49th state, probably will formally enter the Union before this year ends. And she'll be the biggest state by far—more than twice the size of Texas. By many of contrast, the entire population is only that of a middle-sized city—about 210,000.

According to a feature article in The Wall Street Journal, "The nation's military chiefs are making a new assault on a problem crucial to national survival: How to develop new weapons faster than Russia does". Reforms include giving defense contractors a freer hand in airplane and missile development; streamlining of the military channels manufacturers must go through to get decisions; a reduction in the number of different planes, missiles and vehicles under development, and the abolishment of many Pentagon committees.

Nation's Business reports that a majority of 157 top executives taking part in a recent poll expect their companies' sales to improve in the next 12 months as compared with the past 12, or at least to hold to the same levels.

This is the biggest summer ever for outdoor eating, says Chain Store Age. Sales of barbecue grills, charcoal and accessories by food chains with two or more stores will total over $20 million this year.

Retired Admiral Ben Moreell, who now heads a steel company, feels "The United States is on a suicidal course to slavery because in recent decades we have been yielding to government our individual responsibility". He proposes "ending all further raids on the public treasury, whether conducted by unions, businessmen, farmers or any other group."

U. S. News & World Report says that the farm-machinery industry sees better times ahead. The reasons: large 1958 harvests, and the improved financial position of farmers in general.

An article in The Exchange Magazine states that business aircraft owned by corporations and individuals now exceed 26,000—15 times the fleets of all airlines combined. The business fleet flies nearly a billion air miles a year.

In Walter Lippman's view: "The ultimate power of the state cannot be entrusted to men whose conception of public virtue is that their integrity is adequate if they cannot be convicted of crime. It is not asking too much that in the highest places men must be an example of what ought to be the general practice. They cannot excuse themselves by saying that in fact they have done only as many others have done."

Ice Cream Quickie

A TRAY OF ICE CREAM in the refrigerator means cool assurance even when unexpected guests arrive. Serve it for dessert, with cookies, or as a topping on cup cakes or sponge shortcakes. This creamy, easily made, chocolate ice cream calls for sweetened condensed milk, needs only one beating while freezing and is always delicious.

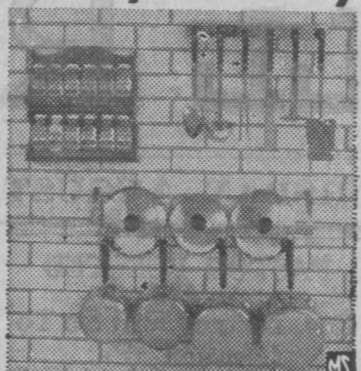

MAGIC ICE CREAM
¾ cup (½ can) sweetened condensed milk
1 square (1 oz.) unsweetened chocolate
½ cup water
½ teaspoon vanilla extract
1 cup heavy cream

Set refrigerator control at coldest point. Put sweetened condensed milk and chocolate in top of double boiler. Cook over rapidly boiling water, stirring often, until thick (about 10 minutes). Slowly add water, mixing well. Chill. Stir in vanilla. Whip cream to custard-like consistency. Fold into chilled milk mixture. Pour into freezing tray. Cover tray with waxed paper. Freeze to a firm mush (about 1 hour). Turn into chilled bowl. Break up with fork. Beat with rotary beater until fluffy but not melted. Return to tray, cover with waxed paper. Return to freezing unit. Freeze until firm.

Handy And Arty

One of the most appealing trends in living room decoration today is to hang a mixed grouping of pictures and other objects as a carefully balanced unit. You can also achieve this same artistic effect with the cooking pans and accessories you hang on kitchen walls.

Modern designers of kitchenware have helped by coming up with some of the most graceful shapes imaginable in ordinary cooking pans and utensils, and very often include matching wall racks. They have also been using the world's prettiest and most durable metals, notably stainless steel which combines years of serviceability with a built-in decorative luster that requires only soap-and-water cleaning.

When arranging your kitchen wall spaces, look upon these objects aesthetically as parts of an overall balance. The simple example shown above harmonizes both weights and colors. The larger stainless steel saucepans are set at the foot of the group, with their covers acting as a mirror reflection of the overall kitchen color scheme. The warm fruitwood of the spice cabinet set above on the left ties in with the bright copper bottoms of the pans. Six stainless steel kitchen accessories have been placed on a rack set slightly above and to the right. The spoon, ladle, pot fork, spatula, potato masher and turner have been arranged to complete the balance of the whole grouping as well as for the convenience of having these most-used utensils easily at hand.

Q. What is the name of this meat cut?
A. Lamb Shanks.

Q. Where do they come from and how are they identified?
A. They come from the front shanks of lamb and contain the two fore shank bones, elbow and part of the arm bone. Layers of meat surround the bones. A thin paper-like covering called "fell" covers the meat.

Q. How are they prepared?
A. They are cooked slowly by braising or in liquid. After cooking until tender, they may be boned, stuffed and finished cooking. This cut of lamb requires approximately 1 to 1½ hours for cooking.

Sally Lewis says...

The garbage pail isn't the daintiest thing we have to live with, but let's face it, we'll have it around for some time. First, we make sure that garbage gets into the can; then we look for ways to keep it cleaned out.

Sooner or later the bottom drops out of a metal garbage can. But you can prolong the life of the container. Paint the bottom and sides near the bottom both inside and outside with roofing cement. Also, rest the can on a base to provide ventilation. Bricks, cinder blocks, stones and wooden blocks will do.

Another idea for protecting the bottom of the can is to melt down your old candle stubs and pour them over the bottom.

No matter what, garbage cans need periodic cleaning and disinfecting.

Household lye is as effective and economical as anything you use to do a good job. Lye cuts the grease and dirt and destroys the source of odors. Two tablespoons of lye in a gallon of water make a very effective detergent. Scrub the can and lid thoroughly, let the solution work for 10 minutes, then scrub out loosened matter. Drain and rinse.

If you have steel kitchen cabinets, why not clean them with the same wax recommended for use on your refrigerator and other appliances. Wax cleans and protects the finish.

Fruited Lemonade Flip

Photograph Courtesy of Birds Eye

LEMONADE IS THE CLASSIC, old-fashioned summer cooler good as is, even better dressed up as a fruited flip. In this frothy modern version, quick-frozen lemonade is combined with beaten eggs and crushed fruit. The fruit goes in the bottom of a tall glass, the lemonade-egg mixture is poured on top. Serve with a long spoon so you can scoop up every last drop.

LEMONADE FLIP

- 1 can (6 ounces) quick-frozen concentrated lemonade
Cold water
3 eggs, beaten
Crushed pineapple, strawberries, or other fruit

Mix concentrated lemonade with cold water as directed on can. Add the beaten eggs, mix well, cover, and chill thoroughly. To serve, put a spoonful of fruit in each glass and fill with lemonade mixture. Makes about 4 1/2 cups (without fruit), or enough for 6 six-ounce servings.

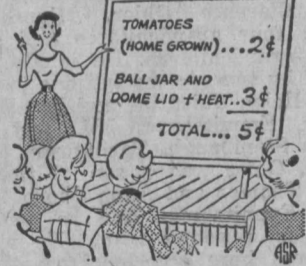

How You Can Stretch
Your Food Budget

Put Pennies to Work, with Home Canning

The penny, long neglected in these days of soaring prices, is coming into its own! This summer 20,000,000 homemakers will put pennies to work by putting up over a billion jars of fruits and vegetables.

And their families will enjoy nourishing, delicious meals all year with that ever-popular budget stretcher: home canning.
How much do you save? If you have a few tomato plants you can produce tomato juice for only 5c a quart, allowing 2c for cost of raising the tomatoes and 3c for cost of Mason jar (based on average jar life of 10 years), and fuel. So easy to do—and you can season it just the way you like it.

Comparable savings can be made by home-canning fruits, vegetables, meats, jam and jelly. In fact, a leading researcher has found that you put a dime in the piggy bank every time you put up a quart. That makes dollars—and sense!

Every one loves a picnic. Maybe the kettle takes longer to boil, and the ground isn't as soft as a chair. Maybe, the butter runs soft in the sun, and the cake seems to wilt in the air.

Maybe a wasp drowns himself in the jam, and the leaves float on top of the tea; and maybe you got a bit cramped in your foot, when you balance your plate on your knee.

But you eat from a table the whole long year round, politely, from Jan. to December, while a meal in the open air loosens your laugh and is always a joy to remember.

Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Sylvester Warner, Mrs. Hanna Mae Boone, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Williams and children, Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Boone, Mr. and Mrs. Roger Boone, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Boone and Tommy; Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Graham, Mrs. Louise Parrish, Carol Ann Knouse, Mr. and Mrs. Myles Harmon, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Miller, Denise and Charles, all of Westminster and vicinity and Mr. and Mrs. James Warner and Debra, of Reisterstown and Barry and Diana Hollenbaugh of Owings Mills.

Despite inclement weather an enjoyable time was had by all. The clan decided to meet again next year "the first Sunday in August at the Royer home."

U.S. FORCES, GERMANY (Ahtnc)

Army Privates Glenn O. Wagner, 23, and Earl E. Leese, 23, Westminster, Md., recently participated in a field training exercise with the 3d Infantry Division in Germany.

Wagner, whose wife, Sarah, lives at 10 Fair Ave., is the son of Mr. and Mrs. G. Vernon Wagner, 290 E. Main St. He attended Westminster High School and worked for the Reisterstown (Md.) Lumber Co. in civilian life.

Leese, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy D. Leese, Route 2, is a former employee of Carroll Shoe Store in Littlestown. Both men are riflemen in Company C of the division's 4th Infantry. They entered the Army in November 1957 and completed basic combat training at Fort Benning, Ga. before arriving overseas in May.

PHILIP WYLIE STATES WHY WOMEN GO FOR HEELS

Philip Wylie speaks his mind and tells why women go for heels. He states that some women marry inferior men to prove their manifest superiority, while others feel it would be a feather in their caps if they could reform the heel. And then—there are still some other women who are genuinely in love with the heels of their choice.

SUMMER TOUR OF HISTORICAL SOCIETY

The Historical Society of Carroll County announces its sixth annual summer tour for Wednesday, August 13. The cars will assemble by 3 p. m. at Winter's Church on State Highway No. 75 between New Windsor and Union Bridge, with cars facing Union Bridge. This historic church dates back to 1766 when George W. Winter donated an acre of ground on which the Lutheran congregation, assisted by the German Reformed built a house of worship to be used by both denominations, for a time.

As the caravan proceeds it will note the following sites in passing:

Weller's Mill. This was built by George W. Winter sometime after he located in the Pipe Creek Valley about 1750. In 1833 the mill was purchased by William Engleman who ran it until 1853 when the present mill was built on the original site. A succession of owners followed before the present owner's father, Joseph Weller, took possession. This is now one of the three mills in operation in Carroll County.

Site of the Hance Steelman Cabin. Here at the confluence of Hance's Branch and Pipe Creek lived the early Indian trader, Hance Steelman, one of the first white settlers in this section.

Home of Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Roop. Here there is a massive linden tree which gave the village of Linwood its name. The tract of land was patented in 1768 as Cornwall. There is a brick-end barn here.

Home of Mrs. Joseph Haines. The original home was burned in 1804 and the present home built the same year by William Haines. It features a brick cave for vegetable storage. Here, too, is a brick-end barn.

"Forest Home." The tour will pause here to be guests of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Haines, present owners of this historic home built during the war between the States.

Resuming the tour, the caravan will continue to note in passing:

William Poultry Farquhar Home. He was the cousin of William Farquhar, one of the original settlers. The home is now owned by Mr. Granville Hibberd.

Home of Mrs. Scott Clemson. Also built on land owned by William Farquhar.

Kilfadda. The first survey of land in Union Bridge district was a large tract patented to John Tredane June 10, 1729 and afterward to Allen Farquhar who in turn conveyed it to William Farquhar. The home of Mrs. Earl Buckley and part of Union Bridge are located on this tract.

Rinehart Home and Quarry. A beautiful brick home once the house of a Rinehart family is now the property of the Lehigh Cement Company. The famous American sculptor, William Rinehart fashioned his first works from marble in the nearby quarry.

Home of the late Miss Pauline Fuss. This is the site of the old Stoner Mill listed on Griffiths map, 1795.

McKinstry's Mill. The first mill was built of logs in 1767. Purchased by Evan McKinstry in 1814 it has passed through a succession of owners and is now the property of Mildred and Dorothy Zumbur.

Priestland Valley and Linwood. This beautiful and historic valley will be noted on right of road to Linwood.

Solomon's Folly. This home of Solomon Shephard built in 1795 by Solomon Shephard marks the end of the tour. Here the caravan will enjoy box suppers. Mrs. A. Earl Shriner will be hostess, along with Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Dow and Mr. James H. Scott who reside in the home.

On the return trip the caravan will note Pipe Creek Friends Meeting and Cemetery. The meeting house was erected in 1772. Andrew Hoover and his wife, great-great-grandparents of former President Hoover are buried in this cemetery.

SAFETY FACTS

The car of tomorrow will be super-safe, auto experts predict.

Accidents will be designed out, they say.

Everyone agrees, though, that one accident factor will never be done away with: human error. It will be as great a problem in the year 2000 or 3000 as it is now.

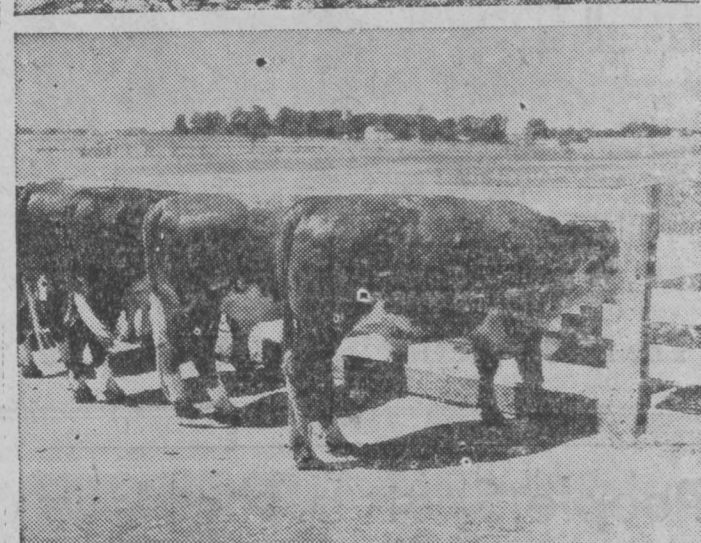

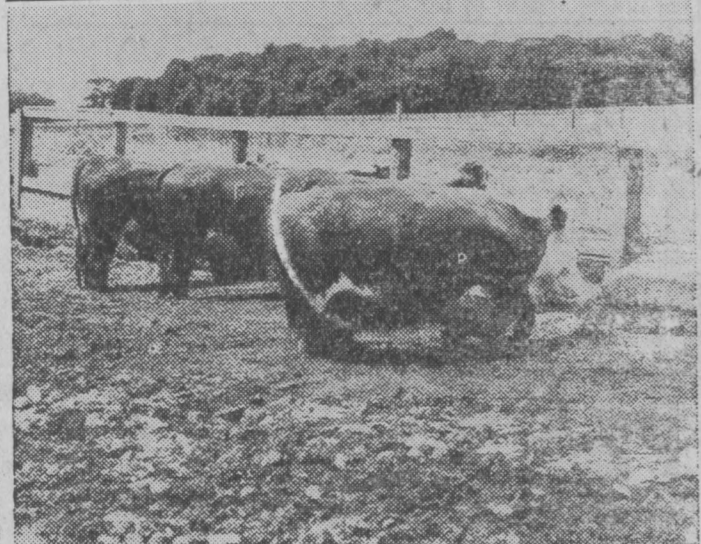

"Despite every automotive advancement, people—not speed or unsafe conditions—still will be the major cause of accidents," the National Safety Council believes.

Why?

"You can equip a car with all the latest life-saving devices—seat belts, padded dashboard and steering wheels that give when pressure is put on them—but you can't design out human errors and unsafe acts."

"The new safety gadgets are marvelous—and they undoubtedly help protect motorists. But without good, cautious driving, the traffic accident toll will remain high."

PAVED BARNLOTS PAY

In muddy lots cattle use up energy that could have gone into extra weight gains. A concrete paved strip along side the feed bunk means more beef from each pound of feed, Purdue University agricultural researchers report.

Beef cattle kept out of the mud will gain extra pounds. When the cattle have a firm footing they put on more weight than when they have to wade around in muddy yards, say animal husbandry research men at Purdue University.

Dr. W. M. Beeson and Dr. T. W. Perry found out that even a small strip of concrete alongside a feed bunk will more than pay for itself in increased beef gains. In a research trial (using two lots of 14 steers confined for 112 days) the average gain per steer in the lot with a 16-ft. concrete strip on one side of the feed bunk was 95 pounds compared to only 62 pounds for each steer confined to the unpaved lot. Each steer on concrete gained 33 additional pounds. The steers in the unpaved lot ate less total feed, but each steer required 35 pounds more feed to make a pound of gain.

Income from this extra beef means that paved strips are profitable. And by paving a small section of the yard each year, you will soon have a complete paved holding area which will lessen choretime and reduce labor. Also, valuable manure can be saved—and more easily handled on a paved yard.

This and other valuable research information was made available to farmers, stockmen and agricultural editors attending Purdue's 1958 CATTLE FEEDERS' DAY. A copy of the full research report on the paved versus unpaved strips is available on request to the Portland Cement Association, 512 Keyser Bldg. Baltimore, Md.

MR. SAM AND DAN DISCUSS UNFAIR CONTRACT AWARDS

Daniel B. Brewster, Democratic Congressional Candidate, discusses with the Hon. Sam Rayburn, Speaker of the House of Representatives, reasons for protecting Maryland shipyard workers and industry against unfair contract awards. Loss of 4 ships contracts, despite lowest bids, was "unfair, inequitable, and deplorable," says Brewster.

Comfort Comes In Many Types Of Cooling Units

Air conditioners, like horses and women, come in many different sizes, shapes, types, temperaments, and degrees of efficiency.
And the comfort-seeking home owner, like the horseplayer or the man ready to settle down, wonders:
Which one shall I put my money on?
To help him, and you, if you want air conditioning but can't decide what kind, here are the major types, plus an explanation of how each works:

Room Units

1. The familiar window-style, available through appliance dealers, is designed to cool a single room. It generally is the least expensive of all air-conditioning units, and comes in various sizes to handle large and small rooms.
2. The "through-the-wall" type is similar to the window air conditioner except that it is installed permanently in an outside wall. Although both of these room units ordinarily are engineered to cool one room, they often are powerful enough to air condition an entire small house if the house is thickly insulated with mineral wool.

Central Systems

1. The forced-air system, which uses the same circulating ducts as the heating system, is popular for both new and older homes. Air is cooled, filtered, and dehumidified at the central unit and circulated by blowers to all rooms of the house.
 2. Independent systems have no connection with heating. They operate in the same way as the forced air system, but separate ducts to each room are required.
 3. For a house that has hot-water heat, a special air conditioner is available that sends chilled water through the heating pipes.
- A point to remember in choosing an air-conditioning system is that adequate insulation can reduce the size and the cost of equipment by as much as 50 percent.

For Iced Tea Without Waiting Use Powdered Instant Tea Product

Nothing is more refreshing with a summer meal than iced tea. And many's the time you set the table for such a cooling repast only to find you've forgotten to make it. Too late now, you think, to boil water, measure tea leaves and strain, or count tea bags and drain. Not to mention waiting for the steaming brew to cool, or else diluting it beyond recognition with large quantities of ice cubes. This summer you can toss all such cares to the winds by using Nestea, an instant powdered tea product, to make iced tea. Nestea makes iced tea the easiest drink of summer. There is no fuss, no muss, and no advance planning necessary. It dissolves instantly in cold tap water. So you can have iced tea any time with practically no work and no waiting. Allow 1 rounded teaspoon of Nestea for each glass of tea. Add it to the cold water. Then add ice cubes if you wish. And there's your iced tea—as easy as that!

You'll find Nestea Iced Tea has a wonderful, inviting color, as well as authentic tea fragrance and flavor. It's a perfect way to toast the pleasures of modern living this summer.

HOME OWNERS' QUESTION BOX

Q—The "jet-age" appearance of our new room air conditioner makes it stand out like a sore thumb in our early American living room. Any idea what we can do to make it look like it belongs?

A—Try hiding the air conditioner behind louver shutters of ponderosa pine. When stained in natural wood tones, these shutters suit any early American decor, and the louvers permit the air conditioner to operate efficiently.

Q—Roots from a tree in our front yard get into a drainpipe and I have to pay a plumber annually to ream the roots out. Is there any other solution to this problem?

A—Next time the drain seems to be nearly plugged, mix a solution of 2 ounces of copper sulphate crystals to one gallon of water and pour down the pipe. The roots will stop the solution and give it a chance to work. It burns off root ends without damaging the tree. One treatment a year usually is enough.

Government

Lesson for August 10, 1958

WHEN a preacher tells the truth about liquor from the pulpit, that isn't news. But when a preacher in a New Jersey church took out a bottle of liquor from the pulpit, and told his congregation where he got it, that was news. It was a college town and there were laws closely regulating the sale of liquor, only the police paid little attention to the laws and the public paid rather less. Preachers aren't supposed to know where illicit liquor can be had; but this one did. He made things so hot for the police department that finally he was offered the job of mayor—and he took it. His congregation gave him a leave of absence, and he went to work trying to get the laws enforced. His enemies made it hard for him. He himself was "tailed" (as the detective stories put it) day and night; if he drove one mile above the legal speed limit, some policeman was right there to give him a ticket. But he outlived the embarrassments and he outfought the underworld and he showed that you can have good government if you want it. And then he went back to his preaching again. People listened more than they used to, for now they knew this was a man.

Dr. Foreman

Politics and Religion

A vice president of the United States stepped off the train in a big city. Even a vice president rates at least one reporter, and so there was one there. He asked the V.P. his views on a matter in the public eye at the time, but the high official did not oblige. "I came here," he said, "to speak to a night's Bible class. Politics and religion don't mix." "Politics and religion don't mix" is what every shady character in or on the scene of politics would like us all to believe. Men who view public office as a chance to build up their private fortunes are only too glad if the church people will look the other way. Religion that is worth anything, religion that resembles and is drawn from the religion of the Bible, is interested in political questions. We cannot escape from government of some kind.

Eyes to See

Norman Thomas, a Presbyterian who was a sort of perpetual and never successful candidate for President, years ago, was talking to a room full of students for the ministry. "Don't use your pulpit for a political platform," he said. "If you feel called and impelled to go into politics, get out of the ministry at least for the time being, and do your fighting in the political arena." Mr. Thomas was warning against a real danger. It is true that what a minister is trying to do, and the way he tries to do it, are different from what (let us say) a good congressman is trying to do and the way he tries to do it. It is also true that most ministers are not trained in political science and are still less fitted for the sort of scramble that most legislative bodies are. Nevertheless, the minister, and the church generally, ought to be able to see the moral issues involved in public affairs, problems and decisions. Most "political" questions, local or national, affect human beings; and whatever affects human beings is a concern for all Christians.

In There Fighting

The church, as an organization, should never turn itself into a political pressure group. A church no better than a political party need not be surprised if it receives no more respect than a political party. Nevertheless Christian people, helped by their ministers and their churches, ought to be, and are, in there fighting for better government, just laws, better law enforcement. In our Congress and Senate there are many convinced and committed Christians. At a great Christian men's convention last year the most effective speaker (many believed) was none of the visiting spell-binding preachers, but the Christian governor of the state. Every branch of government can use, and sorely needs, Christian men and women who will try to apply in public affairs the sturdy faith that is in them.

SURVIVAL STOCKPILE

ODCM Has Vast Supplies In 'Bank' If U. S. Is Hit

One of the nation's largest "bank accounts" against the possibility of enemy attack is the Office of Defense and Civilian Mobilization's stockpile of strategic materials.

Stored away in 43 ODCM warehouses across the United States are about $225,000,000 worth of medical and engineering supplies—enough to aid millions of Americans after an attack.

MEDICAL STOCKPILES include 1,932 civil defense emergency hospital units and back-up supplies estimated sufficient for the emergency medical care of 4 1/2 million persons for three weeks.

In the engineering stockpiles are approximately 25,000 tons of equipment and supplies. They contain material essential to restoration of public facilities—water pumps, generators, purifiers, storage tanks, pipe and similar items.

To assure that this survival "hardware" will be located where it would be most needed after an attack, ODCM has chosen warehouse sites convenient to but outside the nation's 92 critical targets.

Among these storage sites are three "general reserve" warehouses with stockpiles designed to supply any section of the country. Most unusual of these reserve storage areas is the vast, underground warehouse in a converted limestone mine near Neosho, Mo.

IN THIS HUGE privately-owned cave, shared by ODCM with the stockpiles of industrial concerns, is 14 acres of space served by special automatic sprinkling and ventilating equipment.

Blueberry-Coconut Bonanza!

Tender-thin flakes of coconut add wonderful flavor to fruit shortcakes. As the fresh fruits come into the market, make the most of this excellent recipe and serve coconut shortcake often. For a special change, melt about two tablespoons butter or margarine and saute the flakes until golden, then use as a garnish for the whipped cream topping. Yummy!

Blueberry Coconut Shortcakes

3 cups sifted flour	1 cup Baker's Angel Flake
3 1/2 teaspoons double-acting baking powder	Coconut, toasted
3 tablespoons sugar	1 cup milk
1 teaspoon salt	3 cups (about) sweetened cultivated blueberries
1/2 cup shortening	Additional coconut for garnish

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder, sugar, and salt, and sift again. Cut in shortening until mixture is the consistency of coarse corn meal. Stir in coconut. Add milk all at once and stir until soft dough is formed.

Turn out on lightly floured board and knead 20 times. Pat or roll dough 1/4 inch thick and cut with floured 3-inch biscuit cutter. Place half of circles on ungreased baking sheet and brush with melted butter. Top with remaining circles. Bake in hot oven (450°F.) 15 to 20 minutes.

To serve, separate halves of shortcakes and spread with softened butter. Put together with sweetened blueberries between halves and on top. Garnish with whipped cream and flaked coconut, plain or toasted. Makes 9 shortcakes.

Davidson

THIS WEEK

—In Washington

With Clinton Davidson
WASHINGTON RACKETEERS

There is something hidden and far more sinister back of the Sherman Adams vicuna coat sensation than has been put, or is likely to be put, on public display.

Compared with the multi-million dollar a year racket engaged in by several hundred professional influence peddlers, the vicuna coat and other gratuities bestowed on Adams by Boston industrialist Bernard Goldfine are strictly peanuts.

Goldfine undoubtedly was following what he believed to be a normal practice of getting what he wanted in Washington. Adams was accommodating a long-time, generous friend. Both were, to say the least, indiscreet.

The number of people who make a fat living as Washington "representatives" is not known, but a generally accepted estimate is between 5,000 and 6,000. That does not include the 500 or more associations and organizations maintaining legitimate representatives of their interests.

Many Are Phonies

The influence peddlers operate behind the scenes, and they have lavish expense accounts. They claim to "know the right people," or to be able to get legislation passed through devious methods. Many of them are 100 per cent phonies.

As an example, a few years ago we knew a lawyer who had nothing to do with getting a new tax formula adopted, but who looked over his list of clients the new formula would help and billed them for up to $45,000 each. He collected.

In more than 20 years of close association with congressmen and administrative officials we have known only a handful of government officials who would yield to influence. The vast majority resist efforts to influence their actions.

Congress Should Investigate

Congress has spent millions of dollars investigating all kinds of business and labor racketeering. Numerous committees have held extensive hearings, both in Washington and across the country. Some of their findings have made headlines.

But some of the worst racketeering in the country goes on right under the noses of congressmen. Many of the influence peddlers are known to the congressmen, although not favorably.

These racketeers operate within the law, or at least within the shadow of it. Quite a few former congressmen have become Washington representatives who legitimately sell their intimate knowledge of how Congress operates.

The practice of selling influence is far more widespread than the relatively innocent giving of gratuities. Most of the latter are simply an expression of appreciation for honest performance of duty by a government official.

There is need for some code of ethics, however, which public officials can follow as a guide in accepting entertainment and gifts from those with whom they deal in the performance of their duties.

Less House Cleaning, Too

Better Family Health Top Benefit Of Central Home Air Conditioning

Important as summer comfort is, it's actually a secondary benefit of a good air-conditioning system in the home.

First, and most important is better health for every member of the family. Here's why:

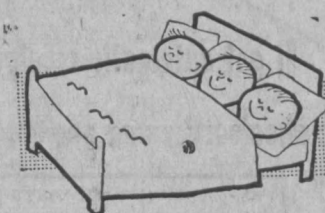

1. Air-conditioned air is washed, filtered, and dehumidified.

BETTER APPETITES

fied. There's less dust for germs to float around on, and consequently children and adults alike have fewer colds and other diseases caused by airborne bacteria. Doctors agree that air conditioning also is the best "cure" for sufferers from allergies such as hay fever.

2. Appetites are better in an air-conditioned house. Children especially eat more because they feel better. The food is better, too, since there's less reason for the housewife to object to cooking hot meals in an air-conditioned kitchen.

3. Everyone sleeps better and longer in controlled temperature and humidity. Young children take naps more readily, and babies are better nattered because air conditioning does away with much heat rash.

4. Air conditioning can lead to a longer life. Medical science says that when the temperature goes above 85 and the humidity is high, the heart works harder to keep body temperature down. Dr. George F. Burch, professor of medicine at Tulane University, a strong believer in air conditioning for health, reports: "A hot and humid environment can increase cardiac work as much as strenuous exercise."

These health benefits alone of air conditioning can mean a tremendous annual cash savings on doctor bills and medicine. This, coupled with the fact that a house thickly insulated with mineral wool can be equipped with a central cooling unit and operated within the budget of the average home-owner, makes air conditioning almost a "must" for every family.

Another important benefit is mental health and attitude. Hot days can't make family members irritable. Children, especially teenagers, prefer to stay home on summer nights. Dad is glad to come home from work, and Mother is more cheerful when he does because her day has been more comfortable and less strenuous.

Equally important is cleanliness. In an air-conditioned house

LESS HOUSE CLEANING

there's less housekeeping because there's less dust, and the housewife has more leisure time. Clothing, draperies, furniture covers and bedclothes stay cleaner, reducing laundry and cleaning bills. Furniture lasts longer because it isn't affected by as much dirt and humidity.

Another "cash savings" benefit is on heating fuel. A house insulated with mineral wool according to recommendations for air conditioning—6 inches in the ceiling, at least 3 inches in walls, and 2 inches in floors where needed—can be heated for as much as 40 percent less than a house without insulation.

Possibly the least important benefit (except to a woman) of air conditioning is that make-up stays fresher in the cooler, dehumidified air.
