Letters to be answered

Dear Observer:- I have a friend who always says she hates T.V. and would not think of ever owning one yet when she comes to my house, I Things are beginning to roll here in Annapolis. Up to the time of this writing there have been introduced in the Senate over 130 bills, including Control to the time of here in the senate over 130 bills, including about a person like that for I do not want to hurt her feelings? Signed. -Reader.

Dear Reader:-It all depends just how many times weekly she visits you. If it is only once a week be polite for after all she is your guest and a good Hostess always pleases her guests even if at times the guests are not considerate as they should be. I have a sister who practices 8 hours daily on the piano and she always said that she would not own a T.V. set yet just recently she purchased one. My eldest nephew who teaches school said the same thing and now he does not go out any evening but remains at home glued to that set See what I mean? Your Obs. Dear Observer:-I have been a wid-ow for the last four months and never was there anyone so lonely for never was there anyone so lonely for I had a very good husband. I visit my friends in New York once a month also an elderly couple without children. When this man met me at the train the last time he said to me (and it did shock me) "Would you (and it did shock me) "Would you marry me if anything happened to my wife"? (mentioning her name). We have been friends for many years and replied, "Don't be ridiculous". What do you think of this, Observer for I would like to hear your opin-ion? Gratefully-signed Widow. Dear Widow:-I think that man should see a Dr. quick! Furthermore if I were you I would not visit them anymore. His wife may outlive him for many years even as you stated for many years even as you stated in your letter she has not been a wife to him for 15 years. And, there may be a reason to that one! Your Obs. Dear Observer:-Although, I have been separated for many years from my husband (not being divorced as my religion does not sanction divorces) I have been in love with a Dr. who is a Widower and we live together as man and wife. I have been so upset through all this yet I been so upset through an this yet I never could give the Dr. up. Please advise me what to do. I read year Column always although I am in another city. Thank you! Most Conscientious. Dear Conscientious:-Do you what you are doing Religious? That is the reason I firmly belive in Di-vorce for things happen like this every day. I am sorry that I could not write your entire letter as I have realized you have under gone much realized you have under gone much unhappiness. By all means talk it over with your Clergyman and I am sure he, too will tell you that you have committed Adultery and you should be divorced so as you can Last evening the Church Council of Trinity Evangelical Lutheran Church was host to the councils of the Luth-eran Churches in Church High School and I just hate school for I am not a brilliant pupil either and There were 129 councilmen, pastors I want to leave and go to work. Please help me. Thank you time. Please help me. Thank you! Dear Girl:-By no means leave school. Try to stick it out for three years for that is the only way you will be able to secure a position any-where. Why not talk it over with your teachers and I am sure they will be able to assist you even if it is time of their own. They are always willing when they understand a pupil is really trying. Just tell them as you told me and even go to the Principal and explain. Good luck! Your Obs. Dear Obs. I am fifteen and my Mother objects to dates with boys as going to a Movie to the city in a car. I cannot see anything wrong in this. My Mother always reads your Columns so please answer right here. Signed-Fifteen. Dear Fifteen:-You never will go wrong if you listen to your Mother and I do think she is perfectly right. How about going with a group of youngsters and having an adult for a Chaperone to and fro? That would be much nicer. So many, things hapan interesting age and it can be all the more beautiful if you always remember that you took your Mother's advice. Your Obs. Dear Obs:-I am going on 19 and very good looking and have talent for the Movies or even on T.V. I want to go to California--Hollywood in for the Movies on the set of fact and my parents are having fits! Signed Blondie. Dear Blondie:-Whatever you do do not attempt to go out to Hollywood for there are thousands of girls who return so disappointed. Why not try to go on the Amateur Hour? Mary have been made Stars overnight rig there. Write to Box 191 for an audition in New York in % of The Geri-tol Co. T.V. Will be watching for you! Your Obs. Well, Folks have a grand week end. The judging committee was Charles Stonesifer, editor of The Carroll Record; James Burke, Postmaster and Raymond Perry, Mayor.

OUTSTANDING YOUNG FARM-

ER RECOGNIZED:

An award for The Outstanding Young Farmer was presented to Donald Bollinger, 30, RD No.1, Taneytown for his outstanding achieve ments in the field of agriculture. After leaving school the young agri-culturalist through his activeness in 4-H work organized several 4-H clubs in this community area. Mr Bol-linger holds the honor of receiving Carroll County's first 4-H alumna award given in 1954 and again receiving it in 1956. The young farmer is also the recipient of more than 100 placing ribbons received for 4-H showings. The young efficient farmer is presently engaged in raising Aberdeen Angus Cattle on a farm near Taneytown. He is married to the former Arlene Unger of near Taney-town, and they have three children, Donald's name has been entered in the state competition to be held on January 31 at Towson. The judging committee was comprised of local agricultural consultants. Mr. Thomas E. Phillips, Taneytown was also honored in claiming the distinction of becoming the local chapters first "Exhausted Rooster." 'Exhausted Rooster" is a term applied to members upon reaching 36 years of age which is the age limit for membership in the Junior Chamber of Commerce. President Robert Waddell presented Tom with a lapel pin denoting faithful and honorable service to his club, and congratulated him for his fine cooperation during his membership. Grover C. ning's program. As scoutmaster of American Le-gion Troop 348, he introduced as club guests Assistant Scoutmaster Robert J. Rock and members of the Panther patrol, winners of the 1958 inter-patrol contest in the local troop: Patrol leader Donald Koontz, Assistant patrol Samuel Bower, Scribe Da-vid Hopkins (since then named leader of a new group ,the Rattlesnakes), Ronald Airing, Terry Bell, Rickey Clingan, and Nicholas Hird. Under Koontz's direction a problem in first aid was reenacted by Hopkins, Bower, Airing, and Bell based upon a story parented by Hird Clingrap was the narrated by Hird. Clingan was the patient, and a .Morse code message was flashed back to Koontz. The boys' phase concluded with all participating in a knot tying relay, using a care-ful demonstration of the method of tying and an explanation of the nots' uses.

The second half of the program was made possible through the cour-tesy of Robert F. King, Assistant scoutmaster of Troop 705, Pleasant Valley who showed and ably described the scenes in some beautifully colored slides taken last July when he led half the 20-man Carroll County contingent which made the 17-day trip to Philmont Scout Ranch near Cimarron, New Mexico. Hopkins from Troop 348 was one of the group, and it was nearly through Lions club and it was partly through Lions club aid (as well as through J. C., Kiwanis, and friends of the Legion) that his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Hopkins, could provide him that high adventure. As Mr. King described it, and his blides made clear it was and as his slides made clear, it was the trip of a lifetime. This ended the program, and with a reminder by President Dunham for all Lions to turn in fruitcake money and to make plans for Father and Daughter night February 10 (in charge of Donald R. Baker), the meeting' was closed with the sounding of the gong by the president's gavel.

and an increase of $7 billion over 1957.

There is speculation in Washington over the possibility of bringing about a realignment of the two political parties into liberal and conservative groups. One report says this might happen more rapidly than is generally believed likely. Both parties now contain high elected officials who have virtually nothing in common.

In 1957, average family income in this country was $5,000. About onetenth of our 44 million families had incomes of $10,000 or more, while two-fifths were in the $5,000- $10, 000 range.

Wheeler McMillen of Farm Journal writes: "The pitchfork, scoop shovel and bushel basket are giving way in the barn to automatic devices. The barn itself has to change, too. Almost no farmer would think now of using the types of field machinery that were the newest and best in 1920; yet many struggle along with barns and sheds that were built in 1900 or earlier. It will be cheaper to tear down some of those old structures and start anew than to remodel. I look for a spurt toward more efficient farm work buildings; estimates indicate that 50% to 85% of them are obsolete.'

By Don Burrowbridge, Director Thor Research Center for Better Farm Living

A simple way to change the character of a "cold" room-especially a large one with plain, unbroken walls-is to panel the bottom part with knotty pine. One reader contemplating this remodeling job asks: "Is it necessary to remove the present plastered and painted wall down to the studs to put up knotty pine paneling 40 inches high?"

A.—Definitely not. You can put up this "wainscoting" over the plaster easily. The only thing to remove is the shoe-mold at the bottom of the baseboard. Then run a 3-inch strip of wood around the room with the top kept level at 40 inches. The strip should be as wide as the baseboard (usually 1-inch stock). Nail this strip through the plaster to the wall studs.

Table Etiquette Has Long History

It's easy to take the knife, fork and spoon for granted because we use them so many times each day. Actually, though, these pieces have come down to us only after a long history almost as old as man himself. Below are a few pictorial highlights.

Even in pre-historic times, it was found that there were bet-The first "flatware" actually came along after man had dister ways to eat than with one's hands. A relatively crude knife and fork for eating had evolved by the time of the middle ages. Pieces were smaller and easier to handle. But as late as the Renaissance, the fork was used only as a server. Next, simply nail the knotty pine paneling to the top strip and the baseboard. Use tongue-andgroove lumber. Nail at an angle through the tongue and the groove of the next board will cover the nails. Replace the shoemold, if you wish, and add molding to cover the nailing strip and the top of the paneling. A lightweight power sander will help ease any finishing needed.

Q.—"I'm just getting interested in metal work, but have trouble with the hacksaw when cutting thin metal. It gets caught up and bends when I start to saw. How can I avoid this?"

A.—You might find it easier to use a tinner's snips on thin metal. If you want to cut very thin metal with a hacksaw, however, insert the metal between two wooden blocks and mount the pieces in a vise. You'll have to saw the wood as well, but the blocks will hold the metal firm. You may also be using too coarse a blade. Try using a finer blade with more but smaller, teeth to the inch.

result from two basic causes. Some of them, it is true, stem

(3) If your gross farm income is more than $1800 and your net farm earnings are $1200 or more you must use the actual amount of your net earnings. Mr. Hamm added that use of the option enables farmers with gross income as low as $600 to obtain social security protection for themselves in their old age and for their survivors in case of death. However he emphasized that regardless of the way in which you figure your net earn; ings of at least $400 (from farming alone, or in combination with other SE earnings) in order to get social security credit for the year.

In addition to the revised optional method, the law provides social se-curity coverage to some farm owners who receive cash or crop shares from tenant farmers. If the farm-landlord under his agreement with his tenant, materially participates in the production or management of production of the farm crops raised on his land this income may be reported for so-tional and district organization exists to assist the local club to function in accordance with Kiwanis objects and objectives.

The International President and the new members of the Board of Trustees take office in August and immediately set about making plans for the next year. The District, Di-vision and Club officers are elected in September or October so that they may receive training for the coming year. The International officers seyear. lect a theme, choose objectives and set up a schedule for training Kiwanis officers.

The 30 Kiwanis Governors are call ed to Chicago for approximately one week of indictrination and training. They later call together the Lieuten-ant Governors for a period of train-ing. The Lt. Governors call together in turn the Presidents of their di vision for training and the Presi dents return to their club and hold a training session for Directors and Committee Chairmen; All of this is done so that nearly 5000 clubs and over 250,000 Kiwanians may serve better. At the Denver International Convention in 1924, the men who were directing the destiny of Kiwanis chose objects as the guiding principles of the organization. They are:

- To give-To Enco
- Encourage-To Promote-
- To Develop To Provide— To Cooperate—

Note the verbs with which these objects begin. Each is a potent one and challenges action from men of Kiwanis, they are the guiding principles of Kiwanis.

These are to Kiwanis what the Constitution is to the United States. Like the Constitution they are as brilliant in their human qualities today as they were when chosen and they will be tomorrow as bright as they will be tomorrow as bright as they are today. Each year a theme and objectives are chosen that supplement these ob-jects. This year our theme is, "Build Individual Responsibility". Eleven objectives were formulated. I looked back in some of my old notes, and back in some of my old notes and found that the theme for 1948 was, "Aggressive Citizenship our Individ-ual Responsibility", in 1950 it was, "Dedicated Community Service". With each there was a set of objec-

With each there was a set of objec-tives suggesting the way for us to carry out the theme. The President of your club has brought most of this information back to you. He has planned his campaign for the year and you are selected to work with han to make Kiwanis' a moving vital spirit in this town. The organization of your club is amazing in its diversity and simplicity. There are 19 committees arranged under are 19 committees arranged under three headings. 1) Kiwanis Adminis-tration, 2) Citizenship Service, and 3) Youth Services. A chairman has been appointed to preside over each committee. Each of you has been as-signed on one or more committees. The committees are the work horses of the club. There are nearly 200 monographs available to these committees from Chicago just for the asking. These contain many help-ful suggestions so that each commit the tee can direct its activity around the theme and objectives. How effectively the committeee function determine the success of the club. They should always have one or more meetings per month to study local conditions, review community needs and plan projects to get action. It is necessary that they report month

fun because it is voluntary service. Kiwanis is not a philosophical society nor an ethics club. Its high idealism is put into practical action by men like you working through the com-mittees with activities based on the needs of your community. You enjoy it because you are working with men who have similar interests. They like you, are serving youth through Key Club, the Boys and Girls Committee, the Vocational Guidance Committee, the Vocational Guidance Committee, etc. They are working through the Public and Business Affairs Commit-tee to promise safety programs, re-duce traffic tragedies, to increase the interest and participation in County, State and National Government and raise the business standards and prac-tices of the community. They are working through the support of Churches Committee to give spiritual leadership in the churches of their choice and to enrich life by living the Golden Rule. Where can there be found such a broad opportunity to serve mankind. Kiwanis ideals pen-etrate into the real innerself of man. It anneels to noblect inversels of etrate into the real innerself of man. It appeals to noblest inmpulse of man. It inspires self-confidence and develops talents. Integrity faith, indus-try, vision thrift and an interest in the other fellow are the accepted fundamentals of Kiwanis. Kiwanis is not a cloak to be put on when you come to the meeting and to be taken off at the end. Kiwanis is a way of life to be led daily in conformity to high ideals and in service to one's fellow man. One must sacrifice to serve. This changing world requires more sharing, more personal service and greater sacrifice. God wants men great enough to be small enough to be used.

This is Kiwanis-Kiwanis for 1959. Let us all rededicate ourselves to the principles and ideals of Kiwanis service in the challenge of the future, on this our 44th excited on this our 44th anniversary. It is our "Individual responsibility". Mr. Robert Neal, Educational and Fellowship Committee, is to be com-mended on being able to have Dr. Sturdivant with us on his reserved.

ment, he was shutting the mouths of those who tried to make him look silly. Without saying Yes or No to their tricky yet practical question, he called their attention to the fact that they owed Caesar something, and owed God something; and perhaps hinted that they were behind with their installments on both accounts. However, looking beneath the surface of Jesus' brilliantly simple answer, we can see a truth which is just as good for America as it is or was for a province of the Roman Empire centuries ago. Every man, whether he realizes it or not, is a citizen of two worlds. One is the human world around him, as in America here. All of us owe America a great deal. We can appreciate our country more if we stop to think that more people would like to move here, than to any other country on the globe. Our country has a right to our loyal support.

The other world is called the Kingdom or Realm of God. It is not visible always ("it cometh not with observation"), but it is far more important, and infinitely more enduring, than any human commonwealth. If we owe our country much, we owe the Kingdom of God yet more.

Many Problems

It is not easy to say, indeed im-possible, just where the kingdoms of this earth end and the Kingdom of Heaven begins. People speak of the two worlds as distinct; other people say they overlap. One thing is sure: if they overlap, they do so in us, for we are citizens in both worlds. This raises many problems, especially where the two worlds overlap. Suppose the State says a thing is wrong which I know as God sees it, is right? Suppose the State commands me to do something I am quite sure God forbids? I know I should be a good citizen; but can I be a good citizen and go against my conscience? One thing is sure. If I try to be a citizen of man's world only, I shall find myself sometimes fighting against God. But if I take my citizenship in God's world only, I shall be indif-ferent to my human brothers and sisters. Only by loving both God and man can I be a good citizen of both worlds.
