CHAMBER OF COMMERCE HOLDS MEETING

New Constitution and By-Laws Adopted

The Taneytown Chamber of Commerce met at Taney Inn on Monday March 16th at 6:30 p.m. The business meeting was preceded by a most delicious and enjoyable dinner.

The new Constitution and By-Laws of the Chamber was presented, article by article, for discussion by Past President Fuss. A few minor changes were suggested, most of which were accepted by the group and incorporated in the document. It was then formally approved by the Chamber and becomes effective immediately.

Mr. Arch Carpenter, in reporting for the Roads Committee, stated that his committee intends to ask for a meeting with the new 7 member State Roads Commission in Baltimore as soon as it is formed. This Commission will replace the present 3 member group. The purpose of the meeting will be to discuss aims and plans for roads in our Community.

The Industrial Committee, represented by its Chairman, Mr. Sam Breth, reported contact has been had recently with several manufacturers who are interested in the Taneytown, area. Nothing definite can be reported at this time but it seems likely that at least one or more of the prospects may establish in our Community.

Past President Fuss reported recent contact with Westminster representative of the development corporation which plans to erect homes on the Fairground site. He stated he was unable to get a definite commitment from this representative but was assured that progress is being made even though it is slow.

Rev. Hendricks suggested that it would be a nice gesture for the Chamber to sponsor a program for newcomers to the Taneytown area based on the Welcome Wagon principle. An interesting and at times humorous discussion followed. The entire group seemed in sympathy with what Rev. Hendricks hoped to accomplish with his idea, however, some members felt that the Welcome Wagon idea had commercial connotations and felt that a welcoming committee from the Chamber to call on newcomers and make them feel welcome in our community would be an even better idea. No definite action was taken at this meeting but the idea will come up for discussion at a later meeting.

At the conclusion of the meeting President Ohler showed kodak krome slides of the Tournament of Roses which he had taken on a vacation trip. Needless to say, they were beautiful and showed a definite professional touch.

The next meeting will be a dinner meeting at Taney Inn on Monday, April 20th at 6:30 p. m. Members are encouraged to attend the Chamber meetings, not only from the standpoint of Community development and improvement, but for the fellowship and entertainment that these meetings afford.

Mr. Wargny introduced Mrs. Delores Snyder, visiting teacher for Carroll County, who discussed the "Emotional Needs of Children." She explained that emotions are necessary, but children must learn to use them constructively.

She offered the seven following points of maturity: 1. Be realistic; 2. Accept disappointments; 3. Stand on your own two feet; 4. Cooperate with other people; 5. Use your ability effectively; 6. Develop a capacity to love other people; 7. Postpone to later's desires for a better future. Mrs. Snyder then discussed the different periods — nursery, training, family, romance, latent, puberty and adolescent, that children go through from infancy to adulthood. Parents were given some signs to watch for in children which might indicate emotional problems. A chart was shown which indicated the characteristics of children at different age levels.

A good rule for parents to remember in running a home - the 3 A's: Affection, Acceptance and Approval. The meeting was then adjourned.

A letter that cost 2c to mail fifteen years ago now costs 4c—a 100% increase.

"SPICE 'N' EVERYTHING NICE"

With all my heart, I wish you every morning
A smile that shall last until the next day's dawning.
I wish you health—life's greatest wealth!
I wish you always near so that I may help to cheer
Each future day and in some way—help to bring you happiness!

Riding over to Carroll County last week and visiting many "Around The Town" was really a pleasure.

Taking along a friend who expressed "what a clean little town it is" and she, too observed town.

First Doc and his family live and had a few minutes chat with his charming wife as she was scheduled for a very busy meeting.

Dropped in to say "Hello" to Frankie—that nice butcher boy but he had gone to Baltimore for the day.

Then, drove to the most fascinating interesting and beautiful "Antique" gift home which I have not visited for some time.

What a beautiful group of pieces in every type of "ye olden days"! The display of the furniture was chucked, full of charm in fact I have never been in any antique shop that could compare. The many pieces were truly handsome and most valuable yet the prices are not too steep.

The old fashioned sofas, the beautifully decorated chairs of the periods of many years ago, two lovely Grandfather clocks, old beds, chests and chests of every description. One really could furnish an entire house from all the selection and then you would have a house that truly was furnished with the most substantial and lovely furniture.

We went up in the attic which I recall was the apartment for the nice daughter who now lives across the way and that upstairs has so many lovely items. The pink Geraniums! Upon being taken to the rear buildings, there were the first signs of Spring which I have seen this year—the sweet Crocus—showing their budding!

Now, if you desire to give Easter gifts take my advice and visit this most fascinating place. Betcha, you will purchase something or other for there is China, glassware and much else.

We dined this time and which was my first visit to "Tropical Treat" Just 21 Shrimp to a serving. Mmmmm good!

The nice little Waitress, Mrs. Miller, recognized me immediately. I recall the owners who visited me when residing near the town. They surely do have a most attractive place and so comfortable. The color scheme, too is carried out in a most fetching manner.

"Around The Town" will always be "home" to me for they were truly happy years there. So many wonderful memories and it is always wonderful to look back on the many beautiful things in one's life.

Today a beautiful letter arrived from our President of these United States thanking me in the encouragement which I have been giving that grand man, Mr. Dulles! I know he will be on full schedule soon. Anyone can get sick, you know.

Now, here is for the request of the "Pisces" sign from Feb. 20 to March 20 inclusive. These people have shining characters in every respect and dislike anyone who would tell them any type of untruth as they are so honest themselves. They also dislike anything that is smutty. They are usually very strong and healthy in fact this sign lives to a great age having trouble mainly with their feet such as fallen arches etc and they should always purchase the very best and most expensive shoes. They are quite gifted when it comes to music and will practise hours to maintain

JOHN FOSTER DULLES WAS A TIRELESS WORKER

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, to say the obvious, has had his impassioned critics as well as his impassioned partisans, both in this country and among our allies overseas. This was inevitable for several reasons. For one thing, Mr. Dulles is a man of utmost resolution who, once he believes a policy to be right, pursues it to the end with every resource at his command. For another, Mr. Dulles, by the very nature of things, has had to deal with enormously delicate and complex problems, in areas of high international strategy which cannot help but be fogged with nagging doubts as to what will ultimately prove wise or foolish, and what will succeed or fail. For still another, the price of a major error on so high a level could be a war of indescribable destruction.

But Mr. Dulles has never been criticized for sparing himself. He is one of the most dedicated of men. It has been revealed that when a malignancy was discovered a little more than two years ago he was advised by his physicians to take the time for radiation treatments. But there was work to be done, and Mr. Dulles refused putting what he conceived to be the interest of the nation and the free world first. Now, the malignancy has spread.

The upshot of this—aside from the personal tragedy involved—is that, in the words of U. S. News and World Report, Mr. Dulles has become "the West's indispensable man." The worry is that there is no one to adequately replace him, if it turns out he must step down. The magazine observes that in Congress all criticism of Mr. Dulles was stilled, and that a prominent Democrat said that he "knows more about this whole foreign problem than any other American."

The hard fact is that the world is in another crisis, perhaps the most serious of all. The Berlin situation is now at the heart of it. The Kremlin has presented its ultimatum—that the Allied powers must remove themselves from the city by May 27, or else. Whether this would be supported with drastic action no one can tell. But the risks are incredibly grave. For the first time in all history, the world seems to have armed itself to the extent where it can totally destroy itself.

A foreign ministers' conference of the great powers is projected for the Spring. An enormous amount of work must be done in preparation, and decisions of the most decisive kind must be made. As U. S. News puts it: "Ordinarily, Mr. Dulles would be overseeing every detail." But that hardly seems possible now.

Mr. Dulles, of course, will remain in a top advisory and policy-making position. But others will be called upon to carry the heaviest of loads. There are several likely candidates. Under Secretary Herter, an able man who has spent most of his life in public service and was intimately associated with Herbert Hoover in foreign relief work, is one. Another is Under Secretary Dillon, who is the State Department's economic specialist. A third is Henry Cabot Lodge, leader of our delegation to the United Nations. And the name of Thomas Dewey is also mentioned as a possible Secretary.

In any event, the firm Dulles policies will be carried on—the President has made that clear. And Mr. Dulles, whatever the future brings, has made his lasting mark on history.

GRASS ROOTS OPINIONS

PLENTYWOOD, MONTANA, HERALD: "An old time King of Siam had a nasty way of getting even with any noble he happened to dislike. He would give the man a white elephant.

"Since the white elephant was sacred to the Siamese, anyone who happened to own such a beast was required to keep it in style. In fact, the cost of maintaining a white elephant was so great that any noble who received one was automatically condemned to financial ruin.

"What brings this to mind is the national highway program, now in its second year. Has this program become a white elephant to America's car and truck owners?"

"If things keep on the way they've been going in the program's first two years, a project that was presented as a boon to the nation's car and truck owners will turn into the biggest and costliest white elephant ever wished on a group of suffering taxpayers."

WILMINGTON, DELAWARE, MORNING STAR: "Will the successful Cuban revolution set off a series of time bombs under other Latin dictators? Only time will give that answer, but at least the dictators are looking suspect at all smoke signals for fear there may be fire."

SYKESVILLE HIGH SCHOOL STUDENT SELECTED TO MAKE EUROPEAN TOUR UNDER PLAN TO PROMOTE INTERNATIONAL UNDERSTANDING

Itinerary of the junior good-will ambassadors' tour will include England, Holland, Belgium, Germany, Austria, Italy, Switzerland, and France. The objective is to provide tour members with a sound basis for the establishment of effective plans to improve international relations in their home communities.

In Holland, Germany, and France tour members will stay in the homes of students, eating one or two meals with their European hosts. In Geneva, all tour members will stay at the International School. It is hoped that through informal contacts tour members will become acquainted with European family life and mode of living and that better understanding will result because of friendly, informal visits such as these.

"The group will represent the most outstanding young people in our nation," said Mr. Van Pool in describing the method by which participants were selected, "for each student had to be a member of this student council, active in extra-curricular program, a good student academically, and highly recommended by his high school."

"Most important of all," he continued, "each student had to submit with his formal application an original plan which he had devised for the improvement of international relations and which he thought he could carry out in his school and community upon his return from Europe. Follow-up studies of these student plans will be made next fall by NASC."

The group is composed of 32 boys and 32 girls, from small as well as large schools, and representing 27 states and the District of Columbia. In addition to the students the tour will include 10 adult student council sponsors, four members of the NASC headquarters office staff and two registered nurses.

No students were selected until the list of chaperones had been completed, and only adults known to the NASC office as successful student council sponsors and trained youth leaders were invited.

The National Association of Student Councils is an affiliate of the National Education Association through its department, the national Association of Secondary-School Principals. More than 8000 of the 20,000 schools having student council organizations hold membership in NASC. There are member chapters in all of the 49 states and all U.S. territories and possessions, including the South Sea Islands and American schools in U.S. occupied countries.

The special rate of $850 for each participant, including transportation, all meals and lodging, chartered buses with drivers and guides, all entrance fees and a boat trip on the Rhine, was made possible by grants from General Mills, Inc., Minneapolis, Minn., and the L. G. Balfour Company, Attleboro, Mass.

Lenten Meditation

—ARTHUR W. GARVIN,
pastor of the Messiah Evangelical United Brethren Church

(This is the 2nd of a series of 4 Lenten Meditations prepared especially for The Carroll Record by the members of the Taneytown Ministerium)

Life consists of many "Y's" in our traveling just as we find roads branching off into "Y's". When we come to the "Y" in the road we must make a choice if it shall be to the right or to the left. The road we are traveling is not pictured clearly before us and not knowing what we shall find. There are hills and valleys we must pass over and through until we come to our destination. But these choices are rather difficult to make even though we have enquired about the conditions of the way.

The right way may be the road that is conditioned to bring the pleasure and satisfied confidence after starting along the trek. But it may seem to us much farther and not as desirous as the road to left.

The road to the left may be described as one of easy going. So the left road is taken. The brakes are not needed for you can go as fast as you care to travel. Retardation is not considered in any manner for the way has all the freedom one so chooses to do. There are so many more traveling and more company for good times along the way, but to view the end of many are sluffed off and ignored. When we started this road the car purred and traveled in tip-top condition. The trip was a high-lighted event. Then all of a sudden there is a blow-out of one of the tires. Help is needed and it seems that the friends we were traveling with have driven on ahead and one must make the best of the situation. To fix the flat we need help but that has to be done by ourselves. The atmosphere is getting colder and colder in struggling to get on the road again. But there is no help, and there is no way of knowing how to get help. But you see a light from a car nearby on the other road as it seems to be so near for the road draws near one another. The crossing to the other road is nearby and we beat it to this road to hail a car. To our great surprise there is a person whom we had called many names and had done many unkind and thoughtless deeds in the past. But this car pulls beside you, the man asking if there is help that is needed and the willingness to give a helping hand. The light began to dawn in the heart who your friend was in the end.

The Way of the Cross leads to the city which Jesus called, while hanging on the cross, "paradise." On the cross to his left was a thief hanging who had taken the wrong road in life. This man recognized the flat tire had to be fixed, so his request was made to Jesus that he be remembered. This man recognized the right way meeting him and so the request was made. Jesus that day granted this man's desire by saying, "this day thou shalt be with me in Paradise."

All through life we find that those who do have difficulties go to those who travel the right road for the help in their life. This help can calm the troubled soul and encourage the one on his way.

The one who travels the right road has a helper at all times. This helper is Jesus and he never fails. He spoke and said, "Heaven and earth shall pass away, but my words shall not pass away" (Matthew 24:35), and he also declared in Matthew 28:20, "Lo, I am with you always, even unto the end of the world." This is the promise one can have and can be sure of the helper when needed.

The Way of the Cross led Jesus to the place of sacrifice and he was willing to give his life for the world. John 3:16 says, "For God so loved the world that he gave His only begotten son" as the salvation for mankind. People in India years ago used to sacrifice their children to appease the devils, so the people believed. But Jesus gave his life once and for all times so mankind can be redeemed from the power of sin.

The many persons who have truly accepted Jesus are now changed persons. They were persons in rags, filth, dirty clothes, drunken condition and vulgar, but now have been changed to be respectable citizens of their community. They are a real testimony for one to travel the right road. First they were going on the road toward destruction. The need and desire for the better way they saw and by taking Jesus as their saviour a new life had begun. Jesus gave his life upon the cross of Calvary that "whosoever believes on him" and accepts him shall be in Paradise.

Judas, one of the disciples, made the choice to turn off the right road to the wrong road. He became so engrossed in the idea of money to the extent that he sold his best friend for "thirty pieces of silver." What was the result at the end of the road for him? Let Matthew 27:3-5 tell. "Then Judas, which betrayed him (Jesus), when he saw that he was condemned, repented himself, and brought the thirty pieces of silver to the chief priests and elders. Saying, 'I have sinned in that I have betrayed innocent blood.' And they said, 'What is that to us? see thou to that.' And he cast down the pieces of silver in the temple, and departed, and went out and hanged himself." By choosing the road that seemed the best, proved a failure because his downfall was greed and selfishness.

The closing thought about the "Way of the Cross" is this: What are we choosing in life—to give ourselves over to the great invitation to take Jesus for real service or just live a life similar to Judas—greed and selfishness? The way real joy comes in one's life is giving oneself to a worthy cause for Christ and the Church, helping others to a better and higher way of living. Jesus said, "whosoever shall lose his life for my sake shall find it." Many persons have found their place in life by choosing the Christ way and following "The Way of the Cross."

A portion of the poem by Frank H. Keith is as follows:

Is it nothing to you who close your eyes
To the Saviour's suffering as He dies;
And the little church with its empty pew,
And room for one more—is it nothing to you?

Is it nothing to you, the debt you owe
For His crown of thorns, His blood-red flow?
That the taste of the gall you give Him anew
By passing Him by—is it nothing to you?

Is it nothing to you that only He
Can carry you over eternity's sea?
That He is salvation, total and true
And your only hope—is it nothing to you?

Good Friday before Easter

Will something wonderful happen to you before Easter? You're not planning on it? Great events in history don't just happen. They're planned. It was true about the Normandy invasion and it must be true if your personal history is to include anything significant this Lent.

Take Easter—that was planned. God determined to enter man's history and change this rebellion, this lost cause, to a new alliance with Him. He was determined to break the devil's hold on man by overcoming his chief weapon—death. And Easter proves His victory! Jesus Christ came back to life—and you can come back to live with God.

But Good Friday came before Easter. Good Friday reminds us that it cost God to save man. The love that stoops to help the man in the gutter, the mangled in an automobile accident, the dying in war, will itself know dirt and blood and agony. This was true for God. His Son, Jesus, died on Good Friday to make Easter possible.

Only God can make a great change in your life with Him this Lent. But you're a part of His planning. Come to church this Lent. The Lutherans in your community would share Good Friday with you—so that you can share Easter with God!

Some of the streets of Taneytown are covered with a thick coat of mud and filth, which if not removed will require thousands of gallons of water for sprinkling in order to keep down the dust.

Rev. Wm. B. Duttera, D. D., wife two children of Salisbury, N.C. are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Amos Duttera. Mr. Geo. W. Baumgardner returned home, last week, from an extended trip of several months through the West and South.

Mr. James B. Galt took charge of the Bark Hill School, on Monday because of the illness of the teacher, Mr. Harry O. Harner.

Road Meeting. Another public meeting will be held in the Opera House, Taneytown this Saturday afternoon, at 3 o'clock, in the interest of trying to have the Westminster Taneytown road selected as a State Road. This will be the last meeting and all interest should be present.

Frizzellburg.—A very delightful time was had Wednesday night, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Schaffer, where a carpet rag social was enjoyed by many of their neighbors and friends.

—Frank Hatfield is building an addition to his dwelling house, which will be occupied by his father and daughter.—Our principal teacher, Jesse Billmeyer, was absent from school a few days last week with an attack of grip.

Stopping at a way side service station in Arizona, the lady motorist inquired: "Do you have a attendant?" "Nope," returned the attendant, "When any of us gets tired, we just sits on one of those oil drums".

A proud parent called the newspaper and reported the birth of twins. The girl at the news desk didn't catch the message over the phone. "Will you repeat that?" she asked. "Not if I can help it", was the reply.

FEESERSBURG (A Voice from Carroll)

When you received your Easter Seals this month what did you do with them? Did you feel irritated at another drive and chuck them into the waste-basket or put them aside and promise yourself that tomorrow you would mail the money knowing that it will probably be a long time before you think about them again. If you belong in either of these two groups retrace your steps for some crippled individual is depending upon you to give them a chance to overcome their handicap. Right now there are four children and two adults receiving treatment from the Easter Seal center in Frederick that are from Carroll county. Not many people know that the money they contribute through the Easter Seal campaign is used to help people in their own community. Learn more about this service by visiting the Frederick center on Crippled Children's Day March 21 from 2 p.m. until 5 p.m. Mrs. McElroy and her staff will be happy to meet you and show you what the Easter Seal center is doing for the handicapped. When you see the wonderful work that is being done you will be glad you helped by buying Easter Seals.

Many Carroll countians have visited Harpers Ferry, W. Va. and found it both charming and beautiful. Once this small historical town is visited, the tourist is drawn back for a second look. It has some of the most spectacular scenery in the United States. It is also known for the famous John Brown raid a hundred years ago. This coming fall, in October the town will hold a centennial in observance of John Brown, the Kansas abolitionist who believed he was "an instrument of God to liberate all slaves". He later was convicted of treason and hanged. The town itself was established in 1747, when Robert Harper set up a ferry service. George Washington when he was President selected the site for a Government arsenal. At the present time much of the town is being developed as a National park.

As usual March is reluctant to step aside and let spring take her bow. It reminds one of a surly old man, who knows he must retire but doesn't intend to until he is knocked down and dragged out. But the robins know its time for a change because last week they arrived by the hundreds. We went out in the woods to move some dogwood trees and there in the sheltered part of the farm were hundreds of robins. We had often heard they arrived in flocks but that was the first time we had ever seen it. They made a pretty picture feeding among the trees so fat and plump and cheery after a winter of rest. Soon they will be at work building nests, searching for worms to feed their offspring and fighting off their natural enemies. But birds are not the only ones that look forward to spring. Every animal, including man gets the urge to be out in the sunshine and working at his particular job. When mother nature whispers the magic word "spring" then every thing begins to move and struggle into the cycle called life. Its a wonderful time to be alive.

A river boat man fell off his barge, drowned and left his widow $10,000 in his will. "Just imagine," said a friend, "he left all that money—and he never learned to read or write!" "Yes," said the widow, "or swim."

We note with sadness the passing of Mr. Louis H. Dielman of New Windsor. He was a man of many talents and he used them usefully. Once as a favor to a writer who was editing a book, he compiled a list of over ten thousand individual combatants of Marylanders in the Civil War. This was typical of the man, but probably Mr. Dielman could be best described as a "friend of learning". It would be difficult to estimate how much he had contributed to the aid of others in their search for knowledge during his 95 years of living, but many have benefited by his wisdom and his work. And even with his going, the work he did will continue to enlighten others for a long, long time.

One of the most unpopular men in any county is the dogcatcher and he knows it. That's why few men want the job. There are many unwanted dogs running loose but who knows which is unwanted or wanted. Not until the dogcatcher puts them in the dog pound does he know which is a family pet or a community's nuisance. And there are ever so many people who decline to buy dog tags. They seem to resent the man who tries to sell them, knowing full well that it is the law, and a protection both for the dog and the owner. But there are some laws that are unpopular and this is one of them. Farmers lose many animals each year by roving dogs and the only way to combat this loss is to put the dogs in the pound, if they can be caught. Unfortunately that isn't so easy. So, the dogcatcher is damned if he does his duty and damned if he doesn't. No wonder no one wants the job.

We wonder why the dairies are so concerned about the consumer these days? For a long time they have been cutting the milk and cream content of ice-cream down so low that many people have stopped buying ice-cream. If they are really concerned about the consumer why don't they give them some value for their money. In all the controversy at the present time over milk two things stand out. One, the dairies want to buy milk as cheap as they can even if it means pushing Maryland dairy farmers out of business and second the farmers themselves had better stick to the Maryland Cooperative Association unless they want to see the old adage of "Divide and Conquer" come true. A columnist died after a lingering illness. His savings barely covered hospital and doctor bills, leaving nothing for funeral expenses. A friend after soliciting funds all day, lacked only one dollar of having enough. Wearily he asked a stranger "Could you give me a dollar to bury the columnist? The stranger pulled out a five dollar bill, and said, "Here—bury five of them."

their goal. Many great musicians are born under "Spices". At times they have lacked confidence in doing things due to the fact they are so very modest. They make excellent teachers. Many hold Executive positions in life—for instance Mr. Dulles and the future Mayor of Baltimore—Mr. J. Harold Grady and many, many more!

What a delightful meal down at "Miscantons" in the East. Point shopping centre where I dined as to the gift on the Panel of W.B.A.L. "What Do You Think?" Each month there is a foreign atmosphere—food being served exactly as each country of Europe serves and the waitress also is attired in the Native costume. The food is really excellent and the Sunday on which day, Your Observer visited the place had quite a crowd. A Charming atmosphere and—so different! One meal will convince you!

Have a grand week end, Folks. Until next week D. V.

Two Men Killed at Bear Branch on Rt. 97

Two Baltimore men were killed when their car crashed head-on with a tank truck three miles east of Taneytown on Route 97 Saturday.

Both John Russell Brennan, 42, and Earl Edgar Ausherman, 40, the driver, died instantly in the crash, according to Dr. James T. Marsh, Carroll County medical examiner, who pronounced them dead at the scene. He said death was caused by crushed chests.

Troopers 1/C L. L. Dunn and Cpl. P. M. Doolan, who investigated, said that the car collided with a truck driven by Donald Diller, Taneytown, who was injured. Diller was taken in the Taneytown ambulance to Annie M. Warner Hospital, Gettysburg, where he was treated for multiple cuts and bruises and deep wound of the left side. He was returned home Sunday.

The crash happened about 10:15 a. m. Saturday near Pipe Creek Park. The automobile was demolished. Damage was estimated at over $1,000 to the oil tank truck owned by S. Lease Warner, Frizellburg.

Ausherman apparently failed to drive to right of the center of the highway, the troopers said.

The Cross

Lesson for March 22, 1959

IN A POPULAR novel of some years ago, dealing with the time of Jesus and afterwards, the Roman officer who had to crucify Jesus is represented as being quite shocked by the whole idea, having seldom if ever seen a crucifixion. This is a historical slip on the author's part; for in the Roman world, a far more brutal one than ours, fatal crucifixions were pretty common affairs. They were so common, in fact, that although we have four gospels each telling about the crucifixion of Jesus, not one gives any details at all about the actual crucifixion itself. Such details were not necessary; most readers of the gospels in those days had seen such things and did not need to be reminded.

Dr. Foreman

On the Cross What was extraordinary there on Calvary was not the cross itself. There were three in use that one morning; the one on which Jesus died had very likely been used before and would be used again. They do not nowadays make the electric chair over for every new criminal.

No, the extraordinary thing was not the cross, as ugly an instrument of torture as ever seared the eye of man. What the gospels take more pains in describing was what happened on the cross. No two of the gospels tell precisely the same story, though they do not contradict one another. Luke's story has been selected for this week's study. Consider a few facts that Luke's story highlights. First is that an innocent man hung on that central cross. That he died between two bandits only brings out more strongly his own innocence.

Furthermore, it is extraordinary that this Jesus made no complaints about having been "framed" as many an innocent man in his place would have done. Jesus' mind was filled with the thoughts of others rather than himself. The reader will find it revealing to read these stories of Christ's death carefully.

Through the Cross If you did not already know otherwise, you might think that as time went on, people who adored Jesus would prefer to forget that bitter ending of his life on the cross. Quite the contrary; Christians have always gone to some trouble to remember it. Every time we observe Communion we are proclaiming the Lord's death. The communion table in many a church has carved around it the words "In Remembrance of Me." But what holds the church's mind and heart is not merely the historical fact, that a certain teacher named Jesus was unjustly executed on criminal charges. The church believes that through the cross we have God's forgiveness. We believe that this was not a merely human tragedy. We believe that this was actually the suffering of God on our behalf and in our place; that the self-giving, dedicated, forgiving spirit of Christ is a revelation of God's own heart. Browning put it very simply: "Thou must love Me, who have died for thee."

At the Cross But there are two ways of believing this. One is the belief of admiration. What wonderful love this is, that the godly should die for the ungodly, the innocent for the guilty; that God should offer up his own son "for us all!" We can stand at a distance and admire the sacrifice... and get no good from it at all. We have to stand in a more personal way than the way of admiration. The same Saint Paul who wrote that God gave up his own Son for us all, put it much more personally when he wrote, "I live by faith in the Son of God, who loved me and gave himself for me." (Gal. 2:20.) Standing at the Cross, as no one can do for another but each one for himself, and you for yourself—standing there we see ourselves in a new way, we are forced to see that we are the same kind of people as put Jesus on that cross, we are sinners. We see God in a new way—we see him dealing with sin in a new way, taking the effects of it upon himself. And looking from the Cross, we see other men too, as brothers for whom Christ died.

Lenten Meditation "THE CHALLENGE OF PALM SUNDAY"

(This is the 3rd of a series of 4 Lenten Meditations prepared especially for The Carroll Record by the members of the Taneytown Ministerium) by Rev. William M. Hendricks, pastor of the United Presbyterian Church, Taneytown, Maryland

Palm Sunday is an excellent time for impressing upon human hearts the common need for decisive religion. We need a religion that dares to decide for Jesus Christ, that dares to go out before the world and to live true to Him for whom the decision is made.

Palm Sunday is not merely a picture of yesterday, an event that occurred in history and which we can remember or forget as we please. Palm Sunday is an ever recurring drama. Palm Sunday is the setting forth of eternal principles that control all the destinies of men. Here we see the love of God in Christ reaching out to men the hand of reconciliation. Here we see what happens when men trifle with God's love, when they treat it superficially and with indecision, as though it were a plaything and not the dominating principle of their lives.

Do you think Palm Sunday is old? Oh, no, it is as new and as fresh and as sad as that tragedy going on right now in the heart of that man who ought to be giving his heart to God today, definitely, decisively and forever. But in such an hour, so many are saying: "Not now, maybe tomorrow!"

Palm Sunday expresses our common need for decisive religion by showing us clearly the unsatisfactory character of superficial and indecisive religion.

Recall the first Palm Sunday in Jerusalem as crowds followed Jesus into Jerusalem shouting "Hosanna to the King". What was the matter with those people that they could greet Jesus so enthusiastically that day and then only a few days later shout "Crucify Him"? The answer is quite simple—superficial in their thinking. They had long tongues but small minds; they could yell but they could not think. They had time for parades and excitement but not time to study the prophets to know who this Man really was.

It has been said that softness of the head has done more harm than hardness of the heart. Palm Sunday certainly illustrates this point. Here is a group of people too shallow to think and too excited to reflect and to meditate. There is no interest in prayer or time to study the claims of this man Jesus. Such are not criminal and yet in the long run are more dangerous. They are "double-minded in all their ways", one day wanting to proclaim Jesus king and the next satisfied that He should be crucified!

It is often suggested in discussion of spiritual things we should maintain "an open mind". Sometimes that is true but no mind should ever be so open as a sieve so as not to retain anything.

On some subjects, there should be a closed mind. Is there a God? Is Jesus Christ true? Ought I to follow Him? Woe to the man who limps back and forth between the affirmative and negative of such questions! Indecision shall crucify his soul in the end. In such times, openmindedness spells ruin. It is better many times to decide wrongly than to make no decision at all. This is what Jesus had in mind when He was speaking to the church in Laodicea: "I know your doings - you are neither cold or hot; I would that you were cold or hot! Accordingly, because you are lukewarm and neither hot nor cold, before long I will vomit you out of my mouth." (Weymouth translation)

Palm Sunday also expresses our need for a decisive religion by showing us the danger of delayed acceptance.

Why was it that these people who proclaimed Jesus as King one day did not come to his rescue a few days later? Was their enthusiasm on Palm Sunday only make-believe? Here's the way it is - men procrastinate in giving their hearts to God, but Satan never procrastinates in the work he is able to do. He strikes like lightning - quickly, sharply, deadly. These people did not realize the nature of evil. They did not realize how short their day of grace was. They passed by that golden word, "now". They waited for a tomorrow that was not to come. "Now is the day of salvation; now is the acceptable time."

How we need a decisive religion! We need it more than we think. Only such religion can cope with an uncertain world and with ever menacing evil. If Jesus is decisive in its works, Christian faith must be even more so.

Palm Sunday meets our need for decisive religion by presenting to us in all His glory and beauty and majesty Jesus Christ as our Savior and King. Long before, the prophet had said "Behold thy King cometh unto thee." Strange, isn't it, that it is not we who go to Him, but He comes to us! No, not so strange, for we are sitting in darkness, without God and without hope. "The natural man discerns not the things of the spirit" and therefore is both ignorant of his need and incapable of finding the answer to his need. But "God so loved the world that He sent His Son into the world that all who believe in Him should not perish but have everlasting life." Jesus said "I came to seek and to save that which is lost" and "behold, I stand at the door and knock."

So on Palm Sunday in 1959, Jesus Christ will present Himself to you again. Will you continue to procrastinate? Or will you open the door and let Him in?

"O Jesus, Thou art waiting Outside the fast-closed door, In lowly patience waiting To pass the threshold o'er; Shame on us, Christian brothers, His name and sign who bear, O Shame, thrice shame upon us, To keep Him standing there

"O Jesus, Thou art pleading In accents meek and low, 'I died for you, My children, And will ye treat Me so?' O Lord, with shame and sorrow We open now the door; Dear Savior, enter, enter, And leave us nevermore!"
