Lions Plan For Year

Lions Homer Y. Myers and Harry B. Dougherty, reporting last Tuesday in Taney Inn on their participation in the Lions International convention at New York, June 30 to July 3, passed out to all members give away emblems used in the District 22 hospital room there. They aroused considerable interest by their enthusiastic report of other sectional reception rooms and their conversations with strangers from all walks of life, all parts of the nation, all regions of the globe, gathered 40,000 strong to share their triumphs and their problems in a gigantic international conference.

The caliber of the speaking was evidenced by the choice of Lebanon's Dr. Charles H. Malik, President of the General Assembly of the United Nations, who delivered the day's principal convention address on Thursday July 2.

Both conferences spoke feelingly of the well known sight conservation work practiced everywhere by Lions and brought home forcibly to them by their witnessing a blind man and his seeing eye dog negotiate the big city's subway system. The animal saw for him and made its decisions known simply by placing a paw on its master's foot when it had brought him to the station platform's edge. The dog selected the proper train, counted the stations, and made the transfer to another train on a different level and in a different direction, a feat difficult enough to catch up the unwary traveler himself who can both see and unconsciously interpret the signs through habit and familiarity. The sightless one exclaimed that he did not know how many times his seeing dog had saved his life.

The entire club meeting was conducted with precision and dispatch by President Delmar E. Riffle, having opened with the National Anthem, the president himself accompanying it on the piano; and Merwyn C. Fuss pronounced the invocation following the pledge to the flag.

Norman R. Sauble presented his son-in-law, Dr. Boyd Metcalf, as his guest, and Attendance Chairman Merle S. Ohler urged those who would not be going to the next meeting, an Oriole game at the Stadium on Wed., Aug. 12, to make up their attendance at the Linesboro-Manchester parade and at the same time earn the club a dollar.

"Important reminders," a printed notice placed at each table by the efficient president, called attention to the Community Birthday Calendar, the Polaroid Land camera to be given away at the Crab Feed, and to the Crab and Shrimp Feed itself, a public affair which will be held Tuesday, Aug. 25, in Memorial Park.

General Chairman Singleton E. Rensburg seconded the calendar project reminder by requesting that members complete at once their assigned solicitation. This writer heard David B. Shaum say that every family on their beat (Lion Dougherty and his) responded wholeheartedly, which made a pleasant evening of what could well have been foreseen a drudging chore.

The Program Committee's work, (carried out by Chairman Fuss and Lions Dougherty, Robert W. Feeser, and Myers) was alluded to by President Riffle, who asked each member to look up the schedule sent out by Bulletin Editor Donald R. Lawyer.

The meeting was thereupon handed over to His Excellency, Murray M. Baumgardner, Finance Chairman, who outlined briefly for the Lions significant changes in the current budget to be acted upon by the club's directors when they met afterwards at the president's air-conditioned place of business. The Activities portion, including items like Needy Christmas gifts, Calendar project, Midget league baseball, sight conservation, county hospital, and safety signs, was proposed at $1750, whereas the Administrative portion was left pretty much intact at a proposed figure of $1055. Chairman Baumgardner commended Immediate Past President Frank T. Dunham for having supervised the increase of the club's resources from some $900 to nearly $1500 in his administration. In general, it should be said that the wide-awake brother Baumgardner put no one to sleep, although he had complained of a confere's amazing ability to do just that to him.

VOLUNTEER MEMBERSHIP GROUP MET

Carroll County Milk Producers Held a Tour Last Thursday

The first quarterly meeting of the Maryland Cooperative Milk Producers, Inc., Volunteer Workers Group in Carroll County was held last Thursday.

Although the day was one of the first sunny ones in some time, 32 dairy farmers who are giving their time to increasing the Cooperative's membership in the County were present to inspect the MCMP Warehouse at Eldersburg and hear reports from Directors and MCMP Staff Members.

From the Warehouse, they went to inspect the huge milk manufacturing plant at Laurel, Howard County. This is owned by the Maryland & Virginia Cooperative, which supplies Washington with the bulk of its milk; however, through a working agreement between the two dairy co-ops, the MCMP (which put together a "lend-lease" agreement, $150,000 for a "pan" for condensing milk, delivers a considerable portion of its excess milk to the plant every day. A picnic lunch was served in the pavilion adjacent to the home of Arthur Robinson, manager of the plant.

Those who noted their names on the pad passed around by Fieldman Gil Morgan for the purpose were:

From Sykesville: J. Henry Koller, Jr., H. A. Smith, Harvey M. Houck (a MCMP charter member) and Melvin E. Leppo.

From Finksburg: MCMP Vice President and Director H. S. Brauning.

From Taneytown: Earl D. Roop, Harvey B. Dickinson, Director Hubert J. Null, John Wm. Stultz, John Speaks, Maurice E. Meunier and Andrew F. Baumhan.

Steel Strike: No "National Emergency"

One reason President Eisenhower is not invoking the 80-day cooling-off period in the steel strike (the Taft-Hartley law gives him this device in a national emergency) is that he does not think this is a national emergency. It may become one, but not now. There is a great deal of steel on hand. The automobile industry can get by until winter without more steel. Industries have been buying steel heavily for months, in anticipation of a strike. Steel workers have four weeks' pay—covering the last two weeks' work plus two weeks' vacation. The pinch in steel will not come for perhaps two months. Then, the President could apply the cooling-off-period procedure.

Railroads and railroad workers and coal miners will be hurt. But the biggest losers, next to the steel workers and steel shareholders, will be the Federal government and the general public. The Federal tax loss on profits of $500,000,000 for an 8-week period will be about $250,000,000, and the tax loss on wages of $650,000,000 for that same period will be about $125,000,000. And this tax loss will have to be made up in some other way.

Teachers Can Receive Social Security

School teachers of retirement age (62 for women and 65 for men) may be eligible for social security benefits during the summer months of 1959, according to L. J. Gillespie, Field Representative of the Baltimore (North) Social Security District Office.

Teachers who expect to have earnings of $100.00 or less for each of the coming months, and do not engage in self-employment, may be eligible for benefits by filing an application with their nearest social security office. Mr. Gillespie pointed out that this is true regardless of their total annual earnings, and even though they receive in excess of $100 for services rendered in the other months of the year.

If you are a woman, and elect to receive benefits between the ages of 62 and 65, you will take a slight reduction in your benefits. The social security employees will be able to give you more information on this provision of the law.

Teachers who plan on filing an application should bring their social security number, proof of age and W-2 Form (withholding statement for 1958). This will expedite payment of your claim, added Mr. Gillespie.

Remember an application must be filed before benefits can be paid. For more complete details, call or visit your social security office, which is located at 3107 Greenmount Avenue, Baltimore 18, Maryland.

We understand that one of the group who opposed the County Commissioners employing the Technical Assistant hasn't paid his taxes of 1958 on personal property which amounts to less than $60. He certainly is a good one trying to tell our county officials what to do and what not to do. When a man isn't able to manage his own affairs — he isn't qualified to have a say in someone else's. It might prove interesting to check on the status of some of the others who are protesting this appointment.—Bit By Bit by "Slim" in The Democratic Advocate (Westminster)

Legion Elects Officers

The annual election of officers of Hesson-Snyder Post, The American Legion, was held before their regular meeting on Thursday, July 23, 1959. The Commander's post went to Neal W. Powell, while Robert D. Boone became Adjutant (secretary). Boone is not new to the job, having served two consecutive terms as commander in 1947-48 and 1948-49. Boone brings a lot of practical experience into the job having served as secretary to both the Taneytown Volunteer Fire Company and the Junior Chamber of Commerce. The other officers were filled as follows: 1st vice commander, Russell Long; 2nd vice commander, Glenn Lookingbill; chaplain, Robert Wantz; finance officer, Francis Lookingbill; service officer, Clarence Harner; sergeant-at-arms, Ray Fair; historian, James C. Myers, Sr.; senior color bearer, George Danuth; junior color bearer, Howard Welty; executive committee, Harry Baker and John Myers Jr.

During the meeting, congratulations were extended to Clarence Harner who recently won the post of Carroll County Commander. Harner, after acknowledging the best wishes of the Post, reported that the 1st Carroll County Council meeting of the new year will be held in the Hesson-Snyder Post Home on August 31, 1959.

Installation of the newly elected officers will take place at the regular meeting Aug. 20, 1959 with County Commander Harner officiating. The following Legionaires will be invited to attend the installation as guests of the Post: John O. Chilcote, Immediate Past Department Commander; Richard Graham, Incoming Western Maryland District Commander; and Charles Wolf, Immediate Past Carroll County Commander. In addition, the Post Commanders from the following Posts, plus a delegation they will select, will be invited: Sykesville, Mt. Airy, Hampstead, Frederick, Emmitsburg, and Westminster. Our own members are encouraged to turn out in strength to help make our visitors welcome.

Considerable discussion was held on ways and means of increasing attendance at Legion meetings. In the near future, all members will be queried on their opinions for making the meetings more interesting, thus encouraging attendance. Maybe all we need to do is get into the habit — let's start the new Legion year on August 20, 1959 right, that is, by attending the Legion meeting. The Post will welcome all veterans, Legionnaires, or not, to this meeting. Come out, find out what the Legion is all about and we are sure you will want to join.

Good News Clubbers Attend Camp

During the past three weeks, the following boys and girls of the Taneytown Good News Club have each spent a week at the Mountain View Bible Camp near Manchester, Md. During boys' week, July 5-11, Leroy Smeak, Wayne Baker, Buddy Nusbaum, Eddie Baker, Carroll Foreman, Barry Dayhoff and Danny Shriner were campers. From July 12-18, Vicki Abrecht, Sylvia Dayhoff and Diane Smith Nichols (now living in Ellicott City) were there. From July 19-25, Jackie Bair, Teresa Zent, Sharon Feeser, Debby Mort, Peggy Jo Smith, Beverly Utz, Connie Jean Nusbaum and Margaret Hird attended.

Each week there was an enrollment of 55 or 56 boys and girls from all over Maryland. Many of these children had earned half of their week's camping cost by participating in a three month "Exploring Scripture" study. This involved Bible reading with written questions, weekly attendance at Good News Club and Bible memory work. Valerie Nusbaum was a junior counsellor at camp for two weeks, and Mrs. Kenneth Nusbaum attended as senior counsellor for one week.

Cub Pack 899 Activities

The Uniontown Cub Scouts of Pack 899 held a very successful paper drive on June 20, 1959, (thanks to everyone who help to make it a success). After the paper collection the Cubs and their families went to Sebastian's farm pond for a picnic and Pack meeting. About 50 people attended.

Ted Parrish of Den #2 received his Bobcat pin and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Parrish were introduced to the group. Neighborhood commissioner Fred Pyne and Mrs. Pyne were also introduced. Mr. Pyne spoke briefly to those present on his trip to a Scout Leadership Training Camp in New Jersey. The new Cubmaster, George Martin discussed some of his plans for in the near future in regards to the Cub Pack.

The July Pack meeting was held at the Taneytown Memorial Park on Saturday evening, July 25th, 1959. There were about 35 present to enjoy the picnic supper and fellowship. The Cubs played baseball and one of the mothers provided several games. After the meal, Rev. Calahan of St. Paul's Lutheran church made some timely remarks concerning the progress of the Pack. Then Cubmaster George Martin presented a Gold Arrowhead to Jeffrey Hanes of Den #1. Then Neighborhood Commissioner Frank Parrish spoke of the membership drive for the coming season. Plans were made for another paper drive on Aug. 15, 1959 at 2 p. m. In the Uniontown and Frizellburg areas. All those that have paper for the Scouts please have it out or let the Scouts know that you have paper for them.

The next Pack meeting will be held August 29, 1959.

"SPICE 'N' EVERYTHING NICE"

With all my heart, I wish you every morning a smile that shall last until the next day's dawning.

I wish you health—life's greatest wealth! I wish you always near so that I may help to cheer to cheer.

Each future day and in some way—help to bring you happiness!

The roaring of the engines of the planes overhead are either taking the vacationers to or back from their homes and it seems there are more of the planes than I have ever heard.

Just received word by phone that Atlantic City is jammed that people are going around in circles trying to locate rooms! So if you are planning; be sure you make reservations ahead of schedule and that way you will be safe.

Visiting the sick in the Maryland General Hospital—the new part that is appears very beautiful with every modern convenience and that much through the generosity of Dr. Frank Marino!

"Sugar" knows who Mr. Softee is! As soon as she hears that familiar bell of the nice white truck, she runs to tell me that he is at the front door and I should buy her a cone! As she sits and eats it as I hold it, David Copperfield the gentlemanly Cocker (black) Spaniel next door tells me he would like a lick, too, and so they share the cone! Cute?

If you decide not to go out of town for a vacation why not vacation down at the Arthur Murray Studio on Charles Street. That will mean all the latest steps which you will bring back with you and once you have learned it will be just like swimming—you won't forget and then, too you will be in great demand. It sure is at all times the "MURRAY-GO-ROUND!"

Well, folks, Mother will be wearing Father's derby this fall, the only difference there will be some kind of trimming plus the veil. It is a good joke and won't that give the males plenty to laugh about! Eh? They should not laugh for it is the males who create the fashions and women are foolish enough to wear what the men design. Skirts will be just below the knee so on cool days, make the hem of your dresses shorter as the styles have not changed and your dresses will be right in for this coming winter.

If you are going to remain home due to a number of children round your house, why not take them to see and learn so much about historical Philadelphia where history was really made? That would be a wonderful treat and it will mean a real composition to write upon their return to school. First of all, the bus is best to take as it takes you right in the heart of town near everything of interest and within walking distance from each and to each building. Here is truly the best schedule, the start and finish. Walk through the arch of the old City Hall. Walk to the Betsy Ross house at 239 Arch Street, the Independence Hall, Congress Hall, Christ Church, Be sure and see Elfreth's Alley located between Second and Front Streets near Arch which is lined by charming colonial residences that have been occupied continuously for more than 200 years! Carpenter's Hall on Chestnut Street near Fourth, Old Rittenhouse Square with its lovely shaded walks is a quiet haven in the busy center-city. There you could eat your lunch if you decide to take it with you. On the top of City Hall looking up you will see the statue of William Penn, 547 feet from the base to the crown. The grand old Liberty Bell. Be sure you wear a most comfortable pair of walking shoes. You will say, "It was well worth the trip!" Think of the thousands of people who visit these historical places and you living so near, many have not seen any one of these buildings which recall the Spirit of '76.

Downtown Philadelphia has been much modernized but these wonderful old buildings have not been touched. You will stand with much reverence when you visit Independence Hall where two of history's greatest documents were signed, the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution of the United States. As you walk around, don't be timid about asking questions as all Philadelphians like myself love to tell the visitor just where to go.

Upon returning home, be sure and have some of those wonderful Swanson Frozen Dinners in your freezer which you can quickly place in the oven and have the quick meal—Ummmmmmmm!

Have a grand weekend, folks. Sometimes when you go away for just a few days vacation, you enjoy it more than if you had remained for a month! Until next week D.V., I am, Faithfully YOUR OBSERVER.

San Francisco, Calif. (FHTNC)—Jerome T. Fisher, seaman, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Fisher of Spencer Road, Rt. 6, Westminster, Md., serving aboard the attack aircraft carrier USS Midway, took part in a full-scale naval review and visit to San Francisco, Calif., July 17-20, after completing a major exercise held off the California coast.

The 15,000 men and 26 ships of the U. S. First Fleet were reviewed by Admiral Herbert G. Hopwood, USN, the Commander-in-Chief of the U. S. Pacific Fleet, as they passed under the Golden Gate Bridge.

The exercise which preceded the San Francisco visit involved fast-moving aggressive attack carrier teams which struck at simulated mainland targets as naval air patrol squadrons and submarines held the defensive roll.

Exercises of this type are designed to give advance training to personnel preparing to make cruises with the U. S. Seventh Fleet in the Western Pacific.

FACTS AND OPINIONS

Construction expenditures by electric utilities in 1958 amounted to $3,764,000,000.

Max Ascoli writes in The Reporter: "Perhaps Khrushchev, by raising the issue of Berlin and of Germany, thought that the time had come to cash in on a superiority in missiles and similar weapons that, in the years ahead, may make Russia stronger than we. If this is so, he has proved to be a singularly imprudent man. For the two major powers still have, and are likely to maintain for quite some time, a capacity for reciprocal obliteration. The greater the destructiveness of the new weapons, the less their usefulness as a threat. Between powers that communicate with each other by attrition-diplomacy, aggressiveness never pays. When the means of warfare are of immeasurable and universal destructiveness, ultimata can serve no purpose."

Gilbert Burk writes in Fortune: "Americans are buying some 630 million books a year including paperbacks and juveniles but not textbooks, up from 330 million ten years ago. The success of the paperbacks, which are selling several hundred million copies a year, is enormously significant. A large percentage of the total is trash, but paperback versions of The Iliad and The Odyssey have together sold more than a million copies. . . . The paperbacks," says Clifton Fadiman, "are democratizing reading. They are conferring upon it the simple, healthy status of a normal habit."

The railroads of the United States constitute a huge market for the products of industry. Last year they spent an average of $3,564,000 a day for fuel, materials and supplies.

Many parents and adolescents visiting doctors about physical ailments may really be seeking help in understanding the adolescents' behavior, according to two Wisconsin doctors, writing in the Journal of the American Medical Association. They say the adolescent delinquent is characterized by angry feelings, impulsivity, self-centeredness, and many other physical and psychological symptoms. The family physician may sometimes help an adolescent delinquent overcome his difficulties by the 'loan' of strength and a moral code.

Newsweek points out that "never have so many owed so much." In April, latest month for which the figures are available, consumer debt reached $44.9 billion and non-farm mortgage debt $120.6 billion.

Texas has produced 36% (23 billion barrels) of all U. S. oil in the first century of the industry's existence.

Viewed as a market for goods and services, the importance of agriculture in the U. S. economy is relatively as great today as it was 20 years ago, despite the considerable decline in the number of farms and the farm population, according to the National Industrial Conference Board. Farmers' purchases of goods and services have quadrupled from the 1937-41 level, a gain approximately equal to the growth in gross national production.

It is predicted that the trend to supermarkets will continue, with 310,000 food stores doing $69 billion in sales by 1965. In that year, also say the experts, the typical supermarket will probably stock 10,000 items in the same size store that now stocks 5,000 or 6,000.

Three out of four Americans now depend on gas service in their homes, with 33 million families using gas for cooking, 23 million for water heating, 24 million for house heating, 3.5 million for refrigeration, and 2 million for laundry drying.

Board Chairman George W. Stark of the American Meat Institute predicts that closer cooperation between veterinarians and producers of meat animals could probably wipe out livestock losses which now exceed more than $2 billion annually. He adds: "We read and hear much about the huge government budget for agriculture. But did you ever stop to think that it's not nearly as large as the preventable livestock losses from diseases and poor handling? Most livestock losses are man-made and could be prevented."

Safety Facts

Are you a good housekeeper? One way to answer the question—objectively, that is—is to count up the number of accidents you've had in your home in the last year.

If you went accident-free, then you probably keep a pretty neat place. If you had a couple of serious accidents, then there's probably room for improvement.

According to the National Safety Council, good housekeeping and safety go hand-in-hand.

"Good housekeeping," the Council says, "can especially help reduce the number of falls. Keep roadblocks such as hassocks, stools and toys, for example, out of traffic lanes. You'll have far fewer falls."

Other Council suggestions: "Don't leave medicine and potential poisons around where children can get at them."

"Keep your home neat and clean—but don't overdo things. A floor too highly polished is an invitation to a fall."

Letter To The Editor

Dear Editor,

We have gotten pretty used to the idea in meeting community problems - whether at the Federal, state or local level - that money is the sure-fire solution (and the only solution). Thus we were happy to read the dissenting remarks of Editor Don McCausland of THE FORSYTH (Mont.) INDEPENDENT and commend them to the serious attention of all communities that have problems. In fact, we would go farther than that and say Mr. McCausland's views and the spirit demonstrated by Forsyth voters should be considered in every community that has schools - whether it has fiscal problems or not.

"It appears that the local school system, faced with ever-increasing costs of operation, is now also faced with the problem of getting the most out of what they have in the way of funds."

"School authorities and board members fear that it will be necessary to eliminate some of the studies and courses which have become a part of the scholastic program. Actually, their problem differs very little . . . from similar situations which confront business from time to time."

"A small business can not hire a hand for every job under the roof. When the financial road becomes rough they have no pool of tax money to dip into. If they continue to exist, and most of them do, they accomplish that end by trimming the non-essentials, giving one employe additional duties or responsibilities, and when pay hikes are in order the deserving receive them. The inefficient or incompetent, for reasons of their own making, do not share in this consideration."

"Blanket raises for all teachers are just as unsound as blanket raises for all store clerks, all printers, all farm or ranch hands, or any other specific group of professionals, tradesmen or laborers. Nor is a round-the-table pay hike fair to the ambitious, conscientious teacher who not only wants to do his job well, but wants to get ahead at a pace commensurate with the position he holds. When the underserving are rewarded also, the fire of enthusiasm becomes an ill-affected part of incentive as far as the deserving are concerned."

"This newspaper truly doubts there is a single individual in the district or the county who does not favor the best in educational facilities and opportunity. But the great majority of all these individuals have expressed themselves at the polls as apparently believing that additional tax money is not the answer to everything. Maybe they are old-fashioned, but they have indicated rather conclusively that the educational job must be done locally without pay raises and the hiring of additional teachers as well."

Further, Editor McCausland's commentary gives us some reason to hope that the American public may be coming to its senses and to a realization that public extravagance is just as immoral as private profligacy and that voting a bond issue and retiring the bonds are two different things. It is logical that this awareness will originate in the grass-roots (as most reforms do) and ultimately penetrate the metropolitan ant-hills.

Sincerely,
 BOB TAYLOR

How Much is a Billion Dollars

We hear the words "million" and "billion" tossed around, and actually used interchangeably by some careless speakers. A graphic illustration of the difference: If you had a million dollars in 1,000-dollar bills, it would make a stack 12 inches high; a billion dollars in 1,000-dollar bills would make a stack 88 stories high!

—U. S. Senator Beall

So Simple

SPRING CLEANING TIME means cleaning pantry shelves and all the miscellaneous pots and pans that are seldom used, such as the large roaster, and special cake pans. Give these pots or pans a sudsy rubbing inside and out with an oval interwoven soap pad which shines as it cleans.

OUTDOOR CLEANING is a must for many people in the spring: the aluminum storm windows and doors as well as the panes. Try using an oval steel-wool pad on the aluminum areas to make them bright and new looking.

THE FAMILY CAR deserves a "spring cleaning" too on a sunny day. Wax and chrome polish will do the trick . . . almost. But don't forget the whitewall tires and the easiest way to clean them—with an oval interwoven soap pad.

Try This "Calorie-Light" Cold Drink

If you're a weight-watcher, don't forget to count calories in beverages as well as in foods. Happily, there are things you can do with summer drinks to make them fit in with just about any kind of weight-control program.

An example is this delightful "Cruiser Cooler," a popular thirst-aid served at St. Croix in the Virgin Islands. Normally it would contribute 126 calories per glass. But simply by using the non-caloric sweetener, Sucaryl, in the recipe, rather than sugar, calories have been slashed to fewer than half that number. Note that this recipe also makes use of one of the calorie-free ginger-ales, now available in markets everywhere.

Enjoy this calorie-light fruit drink often during these warm-weather days. It's delicious!

Cruiser Cooler
(Low-Calorie Beverage)

- 2 1/2 cups unsweetened pineapple juice
- 1/2 cup lemon juice
- 1/4 cup lime juice
- 1 tablespoon Sucaryl solution
- 1 pint dietetic gingerale

Combine fruit juices and Sucaryl; chill well. Just before serving, pour over cracked ice in 6 tall glasses; fill to top with gingerale. Garnish with mint.

Makes 6 servings. Each serving contains 62 calories; 0.5 gram protein; trace of fat; 17.5 grams carbohydrate. If made with sugar, each serving would contain 126 calories.

STRENGTH FOR THESE DAYS

from The Bible

Have mercy upon me, O Lord, for I am weak; O Lord, heal me... (Psalm 6:2.)

The great Abraham Lincoln spoke often of the many times he had fallen to his knees because he had no place else to go. The realization of our human weakness and insufficiency is the first step toward God's mercy and help—so freely granted to heal us and save us, through devout prayer and faith.

FEESERSBURG

(A Voice from Carroll)

The staff and guests at Camp Greentop held "open house" for visitors and parents Sunday afternoon, July 26th at 3 p. m. The children served as guides and conducted groups of visitors through the camp and explained in detail the function and purpose of every phase of camp life. Camp Greentop is part of the 10,000-acre Catoctin Mountain Park, a national forest six miles west of Thurmont, Frederick County, and is adjacent to the President's Camp David. It is situated in the midst of beautiful wooded mountain country, and nestled among the trees are rustic lodges, each accommodating eight campers and a senior and junior counselor. The spacious dining hall provides a lounge, made cozy by a stone fireplace. On the Green-top site are playgrounds, craft shops, a council ring with hewn log seats, totem poles and other Indian symbols, an outdoor chapel for non-sectarian services, an infirmary with a full-time nurse and a doctor on call and a 25 by 75 ft. swimming pool. Camp Greentop is specially equipped for physically handicapped children and was organized by the Baltimore League for Crippled Children in 1937 and was one of the first summer camps for handicapped children in the United States. Children from seven to fifteen years of age are eligible to be considered as guests but as the capacity is 100 children evenly divided between boys and girls, all applicants cannot be accommodated. Since therapeutic treatments, diets and extended outdoor life are important phases of the Greentop program, no child is accepted for less than the full seven weeks. The purpose of Greentop is to give the handicapped children confidence and faith in themselves and others. Proof that the Camp accomplishes this purpose was demonstrated Sunday when the children put on water show for the visitors that could put many adults to a good test. They swam and handled themselves in the water like seals and their confidence in themselves revealed that they had an inner security that no physical handicap could touch. Children come away from the camp with pride in their accomplishments in creating craft items... in the miracle in swimming though walking may be a real effort;... they learn about companionship from their counselors and fellow-campers and about offering a helping hand to others who, like themselves, cannot make it alone. Camp Greentop is a good place for those persons to visit that feel sorry for themselves and moan about their lot in life. There is neither time nor need for that at the camp. The staff is busy teaching each child to meet his physical handicap cheerfully and effectively and to live bravely and boldly with what they have. The counselors themselves demonstrate how wrong critics are to label teenagers irresponsible and thoughtless for all of them at the camp were either high school seniors or first year college students working without pay. The visitor comes away from Camp Greentop feeling that there are still an awful lot of good and kind people left in this world regardless of the depressing stories in the newspapers.

We wish that we had never learned to drive a car for it has spoiled our ability to be just a passenger in a car. By nobody's yardstick are we a driver yet whenever we ride with someone else behind the wheel we are tempted to direct the driving. This is known as back seat driving and is very unpopular with all drivers and especially one's spouse. People like me should take something along to distract their attention away from the driver—like a three year old child who wants to eat an ice cream cone and a bag of potato chips at the same time, but decides to eat the chips while the ice cream melts down the cone on your new dress. This will keep your mind off the driver for about two miles; then start a lively conversation about what you see along the highway. For instance, the beautiful house going up on the right... the misses a ditch; then mention the beautiful girl in the pink convertible... the driver turns to look and the car is in the ditch. With that you decide that you will drive while he enjoys the scenery. It works. At last, you are behind the wheel and everything is fine. You cruise along at 30 miles an hour, thinking how nice it is to enjoy a leisurely drive when you are startled, out of your semi-coma by a police siren. An officer pulls along side and asks where you are going. You say "Nowhere in particular, just out for a drive." The officer in a very stern manner: "Well, lady, either drive the car or get off the road. You are holding up traffic." You glance at your spouse and he has a sly smirk on his face. Then you tell him to drive and you are a passenger again and this time you keep quiet until you reach home.

Miss Patricia Murphy, attractive owner of a New York restaurant that feeds over a million people a year, says that there would be fewer divorces and far happier home life if women would take a more attractive table. She doesn't like paper plates or paper napkins only on a picnic. And food tastes better if served on a flower bedecked table set with pretty china and an attractive cloth. She thinks women are spoiled and many make no effort at all to make eating attractive and something special for husband and children to look forward to. We don't know what she bases her conclusions on but we have been under the impression that women set a more attractive table than their men did. It is true that paper napkins are in everyday use but most women use bright table cloths and colorful china, with fresh cut flowers from the garden. Maybe city women have sloppy habits but women in small towns and rural communities still take a lot of pride in the way they serve their meals. If Miss Murphy will come to Carroll County, we will prove it to her.

A wise man of Athens was asked when injustice would be abolished. "When those who are not wronged feel as indignant as those who are", he said. Two small girls brought home a box full of dirt the other day and told their mother to be very careful of it. Their mother agreed but wanted to know why it was so very special. "Instant Mud Pies", they told her. —Ruth Roelke

MARRIED

BOSTIAN—ZENTZ Miss Shirley Grace Zentz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chester T. Zentz, Sr., Thurmont, and Rodney Kent Bostian, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph P. Bostian, Middleburg, were married Sunday afternoon, 2:30 o'clock, at the St. John's Lutheran Church, Thurmont. Rev. Eugene R. McVicker officiated at the double-ring ceremony. The altar setting was of white gladioli, palms, and lighted candleabra. The acolyte was David Zentz.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length gown of silk organza, with a Sabrina neckline accented by an Alencon lace motif. Long tapered sleeves ended in a petal over her hands. The gentlest sweep of fullness in the back ended in a chapel-length train. Her fingertip veil of tulle illusion was attached to a crown of silk nylon and seed pearls. She carried a white Bible with satin streamers topped with a white orchid.

Mrs. Oliver T. Leaking, Keymar, sister of the bride, served as matron of honor. Mrs. James E. Shankle, Woodsboro, sister of the bridegroom, and Mrs. Donald R. Cecil, cousin of the bride, served as bridesmaids. The honor attendant and bridesmaids wore identical gowns of orchid nylon chiffon over taffeta, waltz-length, fashioned with sabrina neckline, tiny sleeves and fitted bodice encircled with bands of matching taffeta which formed into streamers down the back of the gown to the hem. They wore a crown headpiece and shoes dyed to match. They carried colorful bouquets of carnations and pom poms.

James E. Shankle, Woodsboro, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, was best man. Ushers were Chester T. Zentz, Jr., Hyattsville, brother of the bride, and James Keyton, Woodsboro. Mrs. Lewis L. Roberts, church organist, gave the nuptial recital and played the traditional wedding marches. Mrs. Clifton Blair, soloist, sang "Oh, Perfect Love", "At Cana's Wedding Feast", and during the ceremony, "The Lord's Prayer", by Malotte.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Zentz chose a champagne lace dress over taffeta with matching accessories, and an orchid corsage. Mrs. Bostian, mother of the groom, wore a beige lace dress over taffeta with matching accessories, and an orchid corsage. The reception followed the ceremony in the church social room. Mrs. Kenneth W. Gaither, of Brunswick, served as guest registrar, and Miss Frances K. Ogle, Waynesboro, aunt of the bride, cut the wedding cake.

For traveling south to Florida, the bride chose a baby pink acrilan dress with white accessories and the orchid corsage lifted from her Bible. The bride graduated from Thurmont High School in 1953 and also from the Waynesboro Business College, Waynesboro, Pa. She is now employed at Fort Detrick.

The groom, now employed with his father in Middleburg, is a 1952 graduate of Elmer Wolfe High School, Union Bridge, and recently completed a tour of duty with the U. S. Army serving 15 months in Germany. Following the wedding rehearsal, the bridal party and guests were entertained at the home of the bride by the bride's parents.

A pre-nuptial party was a bridal shower given by Miss Nora V. Hoke, of Frederick, and a surprise miscellaneous shower was given by the choir of St. John's Lutheran Church, Thurmont where the bride served as organist.

WHO IS THE CHRIST?

The Christ in Jesus existed before Jesus was born (His advent was only the dawn of another morn); God sent Jesus here to show how we must be Before we can go from time to eternity.

"The man Jesus in David became a Christ", they say; Christ, God's ideal Son, existed long before that day— He entered Jesus when God sent Him this way To be the "Light of the world" the Scriptures say.

"The Christ exists before personality," they say; "Just so it is with all people to-day"; God only sent Jesus to earth, they say, To show us, as Jesus said: "I am the way".

Christ is the spiritual mind in us all to-day— (The offspring of Jehova, great writers say); So, when you become like Him, you are God's Son That, they tell us, is true of everyone.

When Paul said: "Until Christ be formed in you" He was thinking of how we all must do; That Jesus had reached that stage is clear So God said: "This is my beloved Son" for all to hear.

It is written in the Psalms: "Ye are gods", they say; But, we do not become His Sons, till we go God's way; Jesus was the first to do that very thing, So, God has made Him earth's future King.

"Bless the Lord, O my soul", some writers now say, Is an affirmation we should use each day; "He satisfieth thy desire with good things in every way; So, thy youth is restored like the eagle's", they say.

Man can accelerate the growth of the Christ mind to-day; But, to do so, he must learn to go God's way; It is beyond the attainment of a novice, they say; But, those who follow Jesus, seem to know the way.

So "Praise ye the Lord"! Let it not be said of you or me; "That fellow once refused a follower to be— Of Him, who fed the hungry and raised the dead, When on the streets of eternity we shall tread.

The spiritual man is clothed by the natural man; (In a body God sends us here to carry out His plan) So, always do what He tells you to do; For, He is building a home (body) for himself and you.

Faith, they tell us, acts like a germ— (We always get the thing we affirm!); So, always listen to God; and, act like a Son; And you, too can say: "The Father and I are One".

We must pray believing, the scriptures also say— (To get something from God, that is the way); Faith is the cherub who opens the door To a world of enchantment not known before.

To see oneself strong and courageous in mind, they say, Will instill health in the body from day to day Which, in due time, works to the surface, they say; And, helps to build a body free from decay.

A change of mind changes the character of a germ; So if you feel droopy, take time daily to affirm; Say to mortal mind: "God has told me what to do; So, I have no time to listen to you".

That is how God wants things on earth to be; It is also one of the laws of eternity; There God, the Doctor, shall cure you quick— Isaiah says: "The inhabitants shall not say: I am sick".

So, don't forget!, the Christ in your body is the real you; (It was He who told Jesus what to do!); Jesus always obeyed Him, the Scriptures say, So, God sent Him here to show us the way.

THE SONS OF GOD

The Being you are is not the person we know— (He is only one of God's Sons in embryo); God sent you here many lessons to learn; And, when that is finished, you shall return.

The physical body is only the home Of one of God's Sons in which to roam; He is God's mouth, eyes, ears, feet and hands; So, it is he who executes all of God's plans.

So, for him, God has what we call a fixed plan To make of him a perfect man; He would never be satisfied here to be; For, he knows he shall live through eternity.

This earth is God's schoolhouse—(don't you see?) Where man is trained to live in eternity; God has thousands of things for us to do When our pilgrimage on earth is through.

The various bodies in which we live here Are only new homes in which we appear; Like the rivers, we must come and go; Till all of Life's secrets we shall know.

It is here Life's lessons we must learn— (Here the fires of hell still burn!); Here we are taught how man must be Else he could not live through eternity.

Many great souls of the far distant past Among the immortals by men now are classed; But, God sends them back to show us the way Our bodies must be in the endless day.

Every time a new born child comes to visit earth Many persons imagine it is a new birth; But, that is only a part of God's great plan To make a perfect woman or man.

This is not your first visit to Mother Earth— (It is only another try through another birth); And, so it shall be till God in man we see; And, we are all made fit for eternity.

These are things every mortal should know; And, we must learn them here below; God is too good and too wise to take us away, And to let us suffer from day to day.

In your last incarnation you came a different way In order to learn a different lesson, they say; And, so it shall be with you and me Till we go from Time to Eternity.

There are 12 attributes which in man we must see Before he becomes like Jesus of Galilee; And those traits must be seen in every man Because it is a part of God's great plan.

These visitations are made by the same people, they say Only they come in a different way. And, just so it shall be with you and me Until we go from Time to Eternity.

There are many lessons which man must learn— (That is why the fires of hell still burn!); It is a sin to say God made a place called hell; And, sends His children there to dwell.

It is the same Being who comes and goes— He keeps coming and going till Life's secrets he knows; These bodies of ours could not survive in the endless day; So, man must be perfect in every way.

God and man live together—don't you see? That is why man in a perfect body must be; He must learn to be like God in every way Else he could not live through the endless day.

Our "God is Love", the scriptures say; And, Nature proves it, day after day; It is He who declares to man what is his thoughts; So, all our inventions by Him are wrought.

Without God and His love mortal man could not be For God is his Life through Time and Eternity; God is even with us in the hell we make And puts out the fire just for our sake.

Such love and mercy has never been known As God to His wayward children has shown; And the reason He does so is not hard to see— He prepares us all to live in Eternity.

I can't tell you how; but let me here say God shall make this earth a heaven some day; There shall be no more night, but, we all shall see The blazing lights of Eternity.

Carroll MCMP Volunteer Membership Group Meets

From New Windsor: J. Jean John (who has been a leader in the volunteer group since its inception early in the spring) and R. L. Wilson.
From Detour: Carroll M. Wilhite.
From Westminster: Roland Pool, Roger J. Myers, Robert Muller, O. E. Beaver, Donald Stansbury and Floyd V. Myers.
From Union Bridge: Ira R. Albaugh, Sr.
From Linwood: Woodrow S. Well-er and John D. Roop.
From Mt. Airy: Francis M. Hunter and William D. Smith.
From Hampstead: Sterling J. Leister and Malcolm E. Cope.
From Lineboro: Robert H. Sterner.
From Manchester: Edgar E. Sellers, John T. Pierce and Director Russell L. Royer.

Also on hand from the Board of Directors was Edwin O. Adams, Jr., of Clarksville, Howard County. He is the Chairman of the MCMP Membership Committee and he and Mr. Royer comprise the Equipment Division Committee.

The meeting began promptly at 10 A. M. with Warehouse Manager R. Monroe Stauffer taking the committee through the structure and explained its operations and functions. Chairman Horace S. Brauning then took over. He introduced the Messrs. Null, Royer, John and Adams all of whom spoke briefly.

Fieldman F. G. Morgan then discussed the MCMP membership situation as it was in March in Carroll County and as it is today.

"At the time of the March meeting, as all of you well remember, confusion was spreading," Mr. Morgan said. "False rumors were flying. No one knew who or what to believe and members were leaving the Association at a fast rate. Today, the picture is completely reversed. Everything is calm and this can be credited primarily to the work of you members in this group today."

There are 406 Maryland Cooperative Milk Producers, Inc. members in Carroll County today and 116 non-members and since the New Windsor meeting in May, there has not been a single contract violation—a MCMP member "jumping" his contract—Mr. Morgan reported. He went on to say that there were only two reasons why Carroll County dairy farmers were not members of the MCMP. One, "Selfishness has convinced him that he is getting more money by being non-member. You and I know that the few cents he is so proud of is costing both you and him dearly. The average yearly producer for milk in Baltimore has decreased 56 cents per hundredweight in the last five years due almost entirely to those few cents your non-member is so proud of. So far, the 1959 price has been even lower because of the same thing—non-member milk."

The second reason, the speaker went on, is "lack of knowledge of milk marketing principles. All he knows is that he gets his check . . . with no knowledge of how the price was determined. He has no idea that he is competing against himself."

The answer to the "selfish" dairy farmer, Mr. Morgan said, is to show him by every member's active interest in the Cooperative and to indicate at all times that it is the Cooperative which has actually done the most in marketing milk.

The answer to the uninformed non-member is to "give this man as much information and facts about milk marketing as he can possibly absorb. Discuss marketing principles with him at every opportunity. On rainy days, go to see these people on a friendly basis and discuss this marketing problem on a friendly basis."

Following Mr. Morgan's remarks, Mr. Brauning called on Head Fieldman Oscar D. Turner to explain the present status of the Federal Milk Marketing Order. Mr. Turner, using blackboard illustrations, checked off the various steps, saying that a "recommended decision" is hoped for early in August and the Order itself in October.

MCMP Manager W. P. Sadler closed the meeting at the Warehouse. He reported on the disturbances in the milk market in recent months. "Our job in selling milk today is much like running a farm", he said.

"The girls at MCMP headquarters come to work each morning knowing that they are going to typewrite or run an IBM machine. We who are selling can't do that. Just as you make plans in the evening for the morning work, then have to discard them, we never know what may turn up from hour to hour.

"We are fortunate in having an operation so flexible today that we can meet almost any emergency.

"Right now it is extremely difficult to predict the milk market. Much may depend on the length of the steel strike—30,000 some people are out of jobs in Baltimore, many others are on vacation.

"We look to the Federal Order as a stabilizing influence. It cannot accomplish everything—it won't sell any milk—but I believe it will put a platform under us—one from which we can work to increase milk prices."

Maryland Cooperative Milk Producers, Inc. members of the Carroll County Volunteer Workers Group held their first quarterly meeting on Thursday, July 23. They met at the MCMP Warehouse at Eldersburg, inspected the operation, then held a business meeting. Following this, they journeyed to the giant milk manufacturing plant near Laurel (where the MCMP puts a sizable quantity of surplus milk) and inspected it. These MCMP members were photographed while "Larry" Robinson (pointing), son of the plant manager, explains the operation of a piece of equipment. In the photograph are Robert H. Sterner of Lineboro; Edgar E. Sellers of Manchester; Sterling J. Leister of Hampstead; Andrew F. Baughman of Taneytown; Harvey M. Houck and Melvin E. Leppo of Sykesville; Floyd Myers and Robert Muller of Westminster; and J. Jean Johns of New Windsor.

Man's Smallest Enemies

Hidden Viruses Are Suspected Of Causing Much Unseen Damage

(Editor's Note: This is the second of three articles on viruses, the harm they cause, what is being done about them, and even what good they may do, by Dr. Henry W. Kumm, chief of virus research for the National Foundation, veteran of 23 years on investigation of malaria, yellow fever and yaws while with the International Health Division of the Rockefeller Foundation.)

By HENRY W. KUMM, M.D.
Chief of Virus Research,
The National Foundation

Can viruses which cause apparently mild childhood illness make people sick years later, when they have grown up? This is one question scientists under National Foundation grants are now trying to answer.

The idea seems almost ridiculous at first. After all, we are all familiar with a virus disease like measles. Most of us had measles when we were young. We got sick; then we got well. But did we really get totally well?

Measles can sometimes be very serious. Occasionally the virus gets into the central nervous system (which means the brain and spinal cord) and causes inflammation. This is called encephalitis and can be an extremely bad thing. It can cause paralysis or the loss of functions directed by the brain. Fortunately, severe encephalitis occurring during an attack of measles does not happen often.

But what about youngsters who do not get measles encephalitis? Do some of them nevertheless have some damage to their central nervous systems which may cause disability under the stresses of later life? There is reason to think that this may happen. Dr. Jonas E. Salk, who developed the vaccine against polio (which is itself a central nervous system disease), believes that such damage may indeed occur. And he believes that what is needed is a vaccine or vaccines to protect against these virus diseases which sometimes produce central nervous system diseases, even those which are apparently mild childhood illnesses. He is working on this problem with March of Dimes support.

Study Brain Waves
There is another attack on this problem now being conducted in Chicago. There, Dr. Frederick Gibbs and his associates at the Brain Research Foundation have been given a March of Dimes grant to study the brain waves of children. This is done by using a delicate electrical recording called the electroencephalograph. It is a perfectly painless procedure, but it is already indicating that mild virus disease in childhood sometimes can leave a legacy of defect behind it.

But why would anyone think in the first place that such diseases leave problems behind them? The answer is that scientists are now coming more and more to the belief that when viruses enter the human body they always remain, at least in small amounts. And where virus remains there is an ever-present possibility that there may be damage.

One reason scientists think this way is because of growing understanding of the body's defense against viruses. In most cases, when we are invaded by viruses, we develop antibodies as a defense mechanism. These antibodies are really small units of extremely complicated proteins which can destroy or neutralize the virus that is attacking.

Antibodies Keep Producing
But in many cases antibodies are still being produced in the human body as long as 70 years after the original virus attack. Many scientists now believe that this is so because a small amount of the original virus remains for life, still stimulating the body to produce antibodies.

Antibodies don't last long, a few weeks at most. All the antibodies you have now were produced within roughly a month. It is conjectured that if, at the age of 40 or 50, you are still producing antibodies to a measles virus that attacked you when you were six or seven, some of that virus must remain within your body.

Network of Research
The National Foundation uses March of Dimes funds to support a vast network of virus research laboratories from coast to coast, charged with studying this and other questions. From this research we expect the answers to many problems and the control of certain diseases that as yet we cannot stop.

Virus disease is a major phase of the expanded program of the National Foundation. Other areas of March of Dimes activity are polio, arthritis and birth defects.

(The third article by Dr. Kumm will discuss viruses that may be of benefit to man.)

International Uniform Sunday School Lessons

Bible Material: Job 1: 19; 28; 38; 42.
Devotional Reading: James 1:2-12.

Testing of Faith

Lesson for August 2, 1959

THE CHAPTERS forming the "Bible Material" for this week are inadequate, and the few verses chosen for printing in most Sunday school quarterlies or leaflets are pitifully inadequate, to give the reader an impression of the book of Job such as that tremendous book deserves. This column therefore will be devoted this week to giving briefly the background of Job and to encouraging the reader to explore the great book itself.

Dr. Foreman

An "All Men's Book"

One of the great writers and thinkers of the 19th century called Job an "all men's book." Just a year or so ago a distinguished American writer produced a play, "J. B.," based directly on the book of Job. This book speaks to people who never read any other book of the Bible. Most of the Old Testament is distinctly Jewish (not that this is a mark against it); but the book of Job is not Jewish. There is in it no mention of the promised land, or of the people made famous in Hebrew history. There is no reference to the temple nor to its sacrifices, no quotation from any prophet. In fact Job is not represented as even being a Hebrew himself. He is one of the "children of the East,"—in Jewish eyes a foreigner. There is nothing to attach the book to any particular place or time. For the problem dealt with here—and it is indeed a problem play in a profound sense—is your problem and mine and everybody's.

Prologue in Heaven

The theme and the problem is suffering. Every human being either suffers personally or has to watch the suffering of those he loves. But this is more of a puzzle to religious persons. The non-religious person can shrug it off, decide to grin and bear it, and say, "Well, what can you expect? We are caught in this vast universe like a fly in a printing-press, no wonder we get crushed. No machine cares for what it mashes." But the religious person believes in a God who is all-powerful, all-wise, all-merciful. All creatures are in his hand, the whole world is in his hand as the song says. So then why doesn't he prevent suffering, if he can?

This is the problem; but it is not discussed as a professor or theologian might discuss it, in an essay. It is put into the form of a dramatic poem.

It begins with a prologue in heaven. God's sons have come to see him, and among them is Satan. God asks Satan where he has been, and Satan says on the earth. God asks him if he has seen that good man, God's servant Job, "a blameless and upright man." Satan says yes, but he doesn't think much of Job. God says Job well for being good; who wouldn't be "good" for the prosperity and happiness which Job enjoys? Take away the prosperity and happiness, and then you'll see Job throw his goodness away in the whirlwind; and will renounce God to his face.

Man's Faith in God

Satan has no faith in Job; but God has. God lets Satan bring calamity after calamity on Job's head, quite sure that Job will hold true. And Job does hold true. His faith stands the test. But meanwhile there is a tremendous and agonizing wrestling with the problem. Job has three friends who come to "comfort" him but all they do is debate. They believe that all suffering is caused by sin, and therefore all Job has to do is repent and his troubles will vanish. He knows that his sins have not brought on these troubles, so how can he repent? So begins the great debate. This is not a book for children, it is for grown people who have wrestled with pain, grief and bitterness. The reader should try to read Job for himself, and see how it comes out. One striking fact: The question, Why do good men suffer? is never really answered in the book; it is unique in the Bible in raising a great question it does not answer. But two great truths stand out: God's faith in his servants, and God's servant's faith in God.

The WEEKLY Handyman

By Don Burrowbridge, Director Thor Research Center

Glass has a lot of uses besides being something to look through in window frames. It can be the subject of an enjoyable extra-time hobby—glass etching.

Decorative scenes can be engraved on the glass tops that protect coffee tables, desks, sideboards and end tables, using a portable electric hand grinder for the etching.

But before starting on a serious engraving project, practice this etching technique on some scrap pieces.

Glass etching can be an exciting hobby.

Simply paste a copy of the picture you want to engrave on the underside of the glass. Turn the glass face up and follow the outline carefully. Be sure that the glass is on a perfectly-flat surface.

Some of these advanced projects may lead to intricate glass-cutting problems like this one posed by a reader:

"How can I drill holes through a heavy piece of glass without shattering the glass?" This isn't as easy as etching and the solution lies in patience and careful preparation. First, grind the point of a triangular file—similar to the ones used for sharpening saws—to a pyramidal shape. An electric bench grinder does this job quickly. Then use window putty to build a dam around the area to be drilled. Fill this dam with turpentine and, using a bit brace, slowly turn the bit against the glass, exerting only the lightest pressure.

When the point of the bit breaks through, turn the glass over and complete the boring.

(Questions from readers about do-it-yourself problems or projects are welcomed. Send them to Thor Research Center, Marengo, Ill. They will be answered in these columns or by letter.)

Business Forecast

Belatedly we report Clark Printing Company's (Kansas City, Mo.) "Forecast for 1959" contained in its excellent newsletter. It follows:

Business will continue to go where invited and remain where appreciated. Reputations will continue to be made by many acts and be lost by one.

People will go right on preferring to do business with friends. Go-givers will become the best go-getters.

Performance will continue to outsell promises. Enthusiasm will be as contagious as ever. Trust, not tricks, will keep customers loyal.

FORT GEORGE G. MEADE, MD. (AHTNC)—Cadet Richard N. Dixon, 21, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Dixon Jr., 36 Charles St., Westminster, Md., is receiving six weeks of training at the Reserve Officer Training Corps summer camp at Fort George G. Meade, Md. The training is scheduled to be completed July 31.

Cadet Dixon is attending Morgan State College, Baltimore. He is a 1956 graduate of Robert Morton High School, Westminster.

COLLEGE PARK — A selected group of Maryland high school students have just completed a concentrated summer training program in band and choral music at the University of Maryland.

While attending the High School Band and Choral Workshops, the students studied and performed under the direction of nationally known musicians. The director of the band workshop was James Neilson, professor of music and director of bands at Oklahoma City University and president of the College Band Directors National Association. Robert Hufstader, director of Rollins College Conservatory of Music, and formerly head of the choral music department of the Julliard School of Music, directed the choral workshop.

On July 17, the week long training program was concluded with a joint concert of the student band and choral groups.

COLLEGE PARK—Seven Carroll County High school students, members of the University of Maryland High School Band and Choral Workshops, are spending a week at College Park. Participating in the High School Band Workshop are: first row, from left, Rita Blavvelt, Julia Marie Hook, Rebecca Myers, and William Sharkey from Westminster. Members of the High School Choral Workshop are: second row, from left, Richard Clingan, Taneytown; Wanda Myers, Sykesville; and Sandra Shorb, Taneytown.

World Famous Writer Outlines Need For Fearless Free Press

TALLAHASSEE, FLA.—Home town America's newspapers are the last bulwark against the ever-increasing loss of freedom, Philip Wylie, internationally famous author, tells Pat and Bill Derus, right, pictured here following a talk at an annual scholastics award dinner at Florida State University. Derus heads a Chicago news feature syndicate servicing more than 5,000 newspapers.

Ricky, left, who helped initiate an unofficial much-publicized 1956 world air trip that resulted in a best selling volume "The Innocent Ambassadors" hears her husband outline the steps by which the large daily press is losing its freedom as emphasis increases on money making, and less attention is given to free reporting of the news. Another Wylie book, "Generation of Vipers" published in 1942 was annotated this year and reissued by popular demand because of its amazingly accurate predictions of world events and Wylie's uncanny insight into human behavior and its influence in shaping the greatest issues of modern times. It is so thought provoking it is required reading in many colleges.

Objective of too many big city newspapers is not to give the news, but to peddle the most saleable details of daily events, Wylie said. Press associations all over the world are busy sending in stories to fill front pages designed mainly to sell issues packed with stories to feed morbid, shock-hungry readers. Factual news and editorial comment are outweighed ten to one by intimate and insignificant happenings of questionable value in the entertainment world and sports, he added.

It thus falls to the smaller newspaper to prevent complete loss of freedom's franchise, which they can lose as a trolley line loses its franchise when it's not used, Wylie continued. By accurate news reporting and elimination of slanting or coloring, editors of these papers can do the job their metropolitan counterparts are shirking. Every newspaper can be courageous and free, he said, only if its editor or publisher crusades for something that enables the publication to exercise its right to free expression and molds public opinion thru true accounts of actual events.

Emphasis on worth of the classroom over the gymnasium or gridiron is a primary need, Wylie asserted. Newspapers playing up to circulation sales demands, have sabotaged the United States by loading up our educational institutions with muscle men, turning our universities into entertainment centers, rather than focal points of learning.

Cheating and dishonesty in class work and tests has been encouraged by the knowledge that an athletic star commands more attention and respect than exceptional scholastic achievement, Wylie complained. This accounts for Russia's present gains against us in the race in science and research. In Russia, sports are purely professional and have no connection with scholarship. There is no amateur in the Soviet Union. Excellence in athletic ability is completely subsidized. People are constantly screened for what they can do, not what they want to do. Then they are assigned to work without regard to their feelings, as everything is state ordered. This can be prevented here by an alert press, Wylie concluded.

FIRST SIGN OF SUMMER. Farmer confidence in a prosperous '59 wheat crop is demonstrated by this record off-season shipment of 63 grain combines. All but one of the big machines were presold, early in January, by a Massey-Ferguson dealer in Julesburg, Colorado, to farmers and ranchers in Colorado, Wyoming, Oklahoma and Nebraska. Believed to be the largest delivery to a single dealer in history, this combine shipment, valued at one-half million dollars, required 21 flat cars to make the trip from the company factory in Toronto to Julesburg.

Shoe Company Plans East Berlin Building

Borough Council President Charles Wallace announced recently that a new factory building will be constructed in the northeast section of town.

Work is expected to begin within four weeks on the warehouse and equipment storage building to cover 30,000 square feet for the Gettysburg Shoe Co. The building will cost about $200,000, and will house $150,000 worth of equipment.

Plans call for two thirds of the building to be used for the manufacture of shoes and one third as warehouse space. Upon completion, the industry is expected to provide employment for between 100 and 150 workers.

Bids have been solicited and awards will be made soon. The cinder block building with brick front will be erected on a 17 acre plot owned by the Gettysburg firm. The company also holds an option on additional property.

Half of the construction costs, $100,000 will be borne jointly by the East Berlin People's State Bank, East Berlin National Bank and the Littlestown State Bank, while $50,000 has been subscribed by East Berlin and area residents, Wallace explained.

East Berlin Realty Co., a subsidiary of Gettysburg Shoe, will be the owner of the completed building, said Wallace.

People Like Benefits, Hate Taxes

I believe that the people are beginning to realize that when they get something from the Federal government—like, for instance, a new post office, or school, or hospital, or urban renewal project, or improved housing, or unemployment payments, or any of a hundred other good things—they are simply getting back some of their own money. They know now that when more "benefits" are voted, it means more taxes. It's well for us all to hold on to this simple and hard fact when we hear an occasional eloquent plea for more billions for, say, housing, more billions for this or that—more billions for government spending.

—U. S. Senator Beall

"Boys' Nation"

Three senior Senators got together yesterday (July 20) on Capitol Hill to discuss affairs of state and legislation. They were John Marshall Butler (R-Md.), 62, Joseph R. Bailer, Jr., 17, and William Robert Shortall, 16.

Messrs. Bailer and Shortall visited Sen. Butler in his offices in their capacity as senior senators from Maryland for the eight-day caucus of "Boys' Nation" in Washington, D. C. The program is an annual event sponsored by the American Legion's Americanism Commission, and this year marks the 14th visit by "Boys' Nation" to the Capital to study the machinery of the Federal Government.

Mr. Bailer lives in Westminster, Md., and is sponsored by Carroll Post No. 31 of the American Legion while Mr. Shortall is from Centerville, Md., and is sponsored by Centerville Post No. 18.

The two young solons (elected by 200 of their peers in a recent state convention to serve as senior senators) took time out from a busy schedule to exchange notes with Sen. Butler on the processes of American democracy. After observing the passage of legislation in committee and then on the Senate floor, the two boys will tour, later in the week, the Supreme Court, historic shrines, the Federal Bureau of Investigation, the Executive offices and several government agencies.

Sen. Bailer, who plans to become a lawyer, was asked by Sen. Butler for his impression, so far, of his eight-day visit which will end July 24. The young Marylander, who also evinced an interest in the field of politics, said flatly: "This is the most wonderful experience of my life."
