Federal Child-Labor Law No Bar to Many Part-Time Jobs For Students

Chambersburg, Pa., Aug. 7, 1959 - William Hargadine, Jr., Regional Director of the U. S. Department of Labor's Wage and Hour Division, pointed out recently that the Federal child-labor law does not prevent students from earning money part-time jobs.

Stressing the importance of finishing high school, Mr. Hargadine said that earnings from part-time jobs may enable some students to return school who otherwise might not be able to do so. "Teen-agers can earn while they learn, if they observe the guide-lines set by the Federal child-labor law," he emphasized.

Most jobs under the Fair Labor Standards Act—the Federal child-labor law—may be done by 16-year-old students. Students who are 14 or 15 years old may be employed in 15 years old may be employed in some jobs, including sales, office and custodial work, outside school hours. "There are hours restrictions on the employment of 14 and 15-year-olds." Mr. Hargadine said; "they may work no more than three hours a day on school days and up to eight hours on Saturdays or other days when there is no school." However, the total number of hours cannot exceed 18 during any week while school is in session. In vacation periods, when school is out, 14 and 15-year-olds may be employed up to 40 hours per week but are not permitted to work more than eight hours in any one day. All their work must be done be tween the hours of seven in the morning and seven in the evening.

Mr. Hargadine cautioned that some occupations, such as truck driver or helper, have been declared hazardous and require an 18-year age minimum under the Act. The Act applies to employes engaged in interstate commerce or the production of goods for interstate commerce, unless specifically exempt. "A very important exemption from the child-labor provisions is one for newspaper delivery boys," Mr. Hargadine said. Teen-agers, their parents, and employers are urged to inquire for further information about the Federal child-labor law at the Divisions' local office, 303-B Calvert Building Fayette and St. Paul Street, Baltimore, Md. PRESIDENT'S APPEAL TO CURB UNIONS

He Said, "Legislation Needed to Protect People from Racketeers"

President Eisenhower spoke to the people last Thursday night demanding that Congress pass a law to drive "the gangsters, racketeers and other corrupt elements" out of the labor-management field.

Corruption, racketeering and abuse of power which have been brought to light constitute a national disgrace, he declared.

In a 15-minute appeal for "truly effective" labor legislation prepared for nationwide radio and television broadcast, Eisenhower bid strongly for public support of his effort to persuade the House to pass a labor bill to his specification.

'It is my earnest hope that Congress will be fully responsive to an overwhelming national demand," he

"As the Congress prepares to vote on labor reform," he said, "the ques-tion before the people is whether they shall continue to govern themselves. If they do not, crooks and racket-eers could prevail".

Many favorable comments on the President's speech appeared later in the newspapers, radio and television. Among the letters sent to the President was a copy of the following one sent by Frank P. Parrish, Taneytown, Rt. #1.

Our democracy is on trial before the world at a critical time in world history. If we fail to measure up to our duty and obligation in a crisis as glaring as this one, the fault will lie, not in our system, but in the quality of our individual integrity which, to a great extent forms our national If the American people can not depend upon our elected representatives in such a vital situation, what view can we expect the rest of the world to take of this "national disgrace" and our democracy? Any degree of gangster oppression would be too high a price to pay for political expediency. No one expects perfection and there will always be differences in opinions, but, thanks to a free press, the basic facts underlying this issue are clearly before us and the end re-sult will mirror the quality of individual and parties' integrity. I hope the people as a whole will not fail to voice their views and support the administration bill.

LET'S CALL OFF MEMORIAL DAY

Prior to last Memorial Day, a county government in an Eastern state appropriated $250 and sent it to the Memorial Day Committee for the purpose of hiring a band. But a proviso was attached—that it had to be a union band, and not a school or other volunteer band.

The Committee, it is pleasant to record, sent the check back. It said that it wouldn't pay men "to take part in a patriotic celebration."

The incident drew this ironic comment from the Flemington, N. J. Democrat: "Let's call off Memorial Day until we get everybody in this country into a union. Let's bury no more veterans without the services of union pallbearers, union gravediggers, union embalmers, union chauffeurs driving the mourners to the cemeteries, union-made and set grave markers, union-grown flowers and union made-up floral pieces, unionmade American flags over the graves, placed, not by volunteers like the Legionnaires and the Sons of Veterans but by card-bearing retired members, says a publication union grave decorators to the exclusion of comrades in service. neighbors, friends, relatives. And let no word of scripture be uttered, no prayer be said except by a AFL-CIO licensed and dues-paying pastor." The grim fact is that this isn't just sheer fantasy. It's precisely what some of the labor leaders would dearly love, judging by their drives for more and more monopoly power.

TO A "T"

A new bill is in the legislative works which sets new precedents in the area of federal regulation over wages and hours. And one thing is sure-if it becomes law, we'll have a new wave of price inflation. Retail trade has always been exempt from the wage-hour law-one good reason being that retailing is a local business, in which a unit of the largest chain system must compete purely on the local level, and so should be regulated by the states, if at all. The new bill, however, would apply the federal minimum wage to all retailers doing an annual volume in excess of $750,000. And it would also apply the wage to any retailer doing les than $750,000 but who is in competition with anybody affecting interstate commerce.

That means that the proposed law would cover almost every main street in the country. No less an authority than AFL-CIO President George Meany said that he could think of no retail establishment "which was not engaged in competition with another retail establishment affecting commerce."

If the American people want more inflation, and if they also want a further destruction of state and local rights, this bill should suit them to

FACTS AND OPINIONS

Columnist Marquis Childs writes: "The surplus of wheat stored today under loan or government inventory is 1,200,000,000 bushels, valued at more than three billion dollars.

"It is stored in boats on the Hudson River and boats on Puget Sound. It fills great warehouses from one side of the nation to the other and the new crop, for lack of space, spills out on the ground along railway sidings and farmers' storage bins.

"Whether the dam will break during the 18 months he still has to serve, Secretary Benson does not venture to say. But he is confident that when it does the politics of the price

According to a Gallup poll, 50% of the American people think it would be a good idea for President Eisenhower to invite Premier Khrushchev to visit this country, 36% say no, and 14% are undecided.

The magazine calls "staggering" the post office's use of hand labor, and reports that every piece of mail must be picked up, read, and put somewhere an average of 12 times. Many post office methods stand untouched from the day when Benjamin Franklin was sworn in as the first Postmaster General in 1775.

Petroleum Week finds that the oil ndustry, despite the general economy's vigorous upswing, is continuing its recession-triggered drive to cut production costs. Companies are standardizing equipment, demanding better quality of pipes and other materials, making more efficient use of manpower and machinery and pressing the search for improved tools and techniques. The reasons: profits are being squeezed between rising cost and stable prices, and companies have realized that many economies forced by the recession make sound ousiness sense no matter what the ecnomic outlook is.

Clabaugh gave an excellent address touching on the importance of men taking a more active part in politics. The picnic was not-icably attended by many side-shows and fakirs with their wares. The exhibits were noticeably more numerous than other years, giving the event quite the appearance of a fair. Wednesday was "Good Roads day" the chief address being delivered by Mr. Guy W. Will The Company Profit From Your Loss?

This message is beamed primarily at men over 40. Modern industry is not looking for the man "willing to die for my company." Rather, the great premium is placed on men willing to follow the rules of good health, and thus live for their companies.

At middle age-fortified with years of experience, vast knowledge of this craft or profession, and steady working habits-an individual is of greatest value to his concern. Management, with few exceptions, is aware of this. To capitalize on the contributions that can be made by the middle-age group, industries are placing a new emphasis on health and its preservation.

No longer is the person so dedicated that he works 12 or 15 hours a day placed on a pedestal and revered by his employers. Too many of his kind have driven themselves to their doom when they were at the height of performance and productivity.

YOUR LAWN WILL look like a fairway this season if you follow this advice from the experts: Be sure your tools are in workable condition. Check with your nurseryman for the best mowing height for your particular kind of grass. Ask your agriculture experiment station or county agent for advice on grading, fertilizing and sowing. And be sure to rid your soil of grubs now by applying a chlordane spray, such as the Antrol Hose-Spray Soil Insect Killer with a built-in sprayer head. It will keep your lawn free of brown spots caused by grubs all season.

April 15 and its tax deadline are just ahead!

Tax experts say in the winter snow as on the summer beach. ... It's a scientific fact that the color white reflects most of the light rays striking it, according to researchers for the Murine Company, major producer of eye lotion. why snow absorbs only a few light rays and bounces back most of them, hitting our eyes with almost full impact. So, in late winter driving, we can take a tip from skiers and other sportsmen of the snowy season. They regard dark glasses as a must.

COLOR headlines news. Bright & low, cerulean of the hues that will affect milady's ensemble, in bright blendings or dramatic mixtures. What better cue for color pictures. (Simple aim-and-shoot cameras, themselves a fashion note this spring, are available in a choice of white, red, or blue.) For those who would pose their prettiest: (1). That patterned outfit will look best against a plain back ing the camera from a three-quarter angle makes less of waist and hips. (3) Moistening lips just before the

For God hath not given us the spirit of fear; but of power, and of love, and of a sound mind .- (II Timothy 1:7.)

When we come to realize that our fears and anxieties cannot come from God but only from our lack of trust in Him and love of Him-that naught but good and power for good come from Him-then we will find His presence through Christ Jesus, and glory in new-found joy and strength.

It was the boast of a bully, and Jimmy Hoffa blurted it right out for all to hear. "We may eventually have to do what labor unions do in Europe and call general strikes," he cried. "If Congress is stupid enough to pass a bill banning secondary boycotts we'll fix it..." He would paralyze the country, Mr. Hoffa made clear, by hav-ing all labor contracts expire on the same day.

The words were out of Hoffa's mouth before he could stop them. He threatened a nationwide strike - and all the denials in the world won't "fix" that fact.

CONGRESS And, that fact.

MUST SPEAK "stupid" old Congress of ours might just surprise Mr. Hoffa and all his kind among the u n i o n bosses. Before it adjourns this summer, Gongress might just put some real teeth into labor racket reform.

We hope it does. We hope Congress will protect workers, employers and the public against the secondary boycott — that shameful squeeze play that injures an innocent party by choking off supply and transportation lines. to any businessman who doesn't knuckle under to absolute union

We hope Congress will put an end to blackmail picketing
... the ugly practice of calling in outside picket gangs to force working people against their will into a union they don't want.

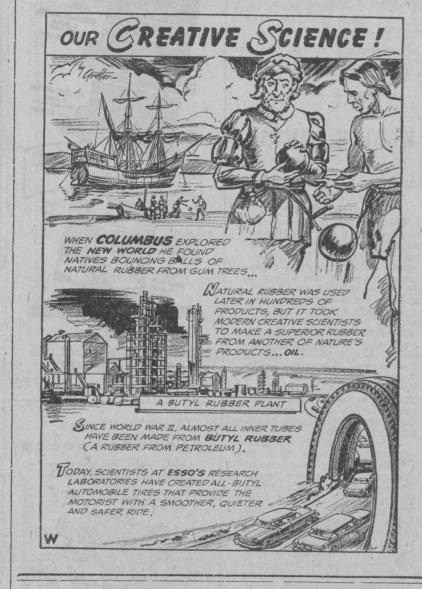

We hope Congress will give working men and woman a real voice in the affairs of their unions. When a union acts, it should act for its membership, not for its leadership. It's astonishing but true that almost one out of every five work stoppages in 1958 were caused not because the workers wanted higher pay or better working conditions. They were caused by union leaders jockeying for power among themselves, or seeking to extend their rule into new territory.

We hope Congress cleans up these foul abuses, and if the top union brass doesn't like it, that will be just too bad. For the country is fed up with the tyrants and underworld charac-ters who rule the rackets of organized labor. It's time now to put real teeth in the labor racket reform bill. It's time to enact a true labor reform law, so that a qualified man may work at his job in peace— without coercion, without threats, without fear.

There is not much time for Congress to act. With adjournment coming up, some union bosses will use every ugly tactic in the book to prevent real la-bor reform legislation. They will threaten to withhold votes. They will put up a smokescreen of confusion. They will one day say they want labor reform, the next day cry "anti-law." If the union strategists can keep Con-gress off balance, they can hope to prevent any and all labor reform legislation! If they can keep Congress impotent this session, they will be one giant step closer to their ultimate aim: domination of the whole American economy by union

Now is the time for the Congress to show Mr. Hoffa that his threats and slurs cannot control the U.S. Government.

SHORT STORY

Safety First

By Ona F. Lathrop

WAS standing at the top of the steps of my plane remembering all the things they had impressed upon us in our training for stewardess-safety and comfort of the passengers come first -things like that. It was my first flight on this line and I wanted to do just the right thing-sort of a trial run.

The two young things coming 9 - Minute across to board Fiction the plane looked like a honeymoon couple. She had on a light blue suit and a little flowered hat covered with pink veiling over her blonde pony tail, and he had a flower in his navy buttonhole.

Then suddenly a figure came dashing through the crowd and out through the gate, gesticulating madly for them to wait. He carried a cardboard shoebox and his dark curly hair was flying in the wind and rain. A fine drizzle had started and the girl came on up the steps out of it, and turned to look back. There seemed to be a great argument going on down there. Her boy-friend kept pushing the box back into the other man's arms.

"NO, NO, I won't take it. No, Nick, I don't want the thing." "But you must. It is the only way. It is our one chance—' The dark foreign-looking fellow gave the box one final thrust into the young man's arms and then dashed back and disappeared in the crowd.

"I don't like it," I told him. "He holds that box too gingerly.

"It's my cousin, Nicholas, baby. He wants me to-to-" he looked at me apprehensively and then rushed into the plane, dragging the girl with him. I followed along curiously, making a pretense of helping them find a seat. He kept shifting the box nervously. "Would you like to sit near the front or back?" I queried in my usual Hostess Voice. They chose the seat next the emergency exit window, and strangely, he went in first. The thought flashed in my mind that I could always open it if worst came to worst. I went right on up front to the pilot's cabin. "I don't like it," I told him. "He holds that box gingerly as . I walked back and stopped to chat. "Would you like me to put the package up on the shelf for you?" I inquired pleasantly.

"Oh, no, no," he cried. "I have to hold it. It must be kept -uh, warm." He broke off as if he were biting his tongue. "But darling, what is it?" the girl kept asking.

He answered impatiently now. "Francie, I can't tell you. Now don't ask again. Why don't you go sit in the back? The view is better."

The plane had taxied out to the takeoff runway and was revving up the engines, but still we didn't go. I glanced at my wristwatch. Probably waiting for the tower-signal—the fog was getting worse.

It must be a matter of time. I went forward and pulled at Wilcox's sleeve. "You've got to do something," I cried. "I can't get it away from him, and he says we MUST get off on time. This is murder!"

Wilcox snorted. "All right, Miss Benson. Take over, Hannigan." He followed me back. "Let's have a look, young man," he said sternly, grabbing the box.

"Oh please, sir, don't open it here—I beg of you." Reuel scrambled over his bride's 'knees and followed us to the control room.

Wilcox was opening the strings. He lifted off the cover and there lay-a setting of duck eggs, I guess-big fancy white eggs. "What on earth-" I screamed in relief. "It was my cousin's idea—he wanted to send them to our uncle in California, but I told him nothey might even hatch on the way. But he made me take them, and I didn't want Francie to know-" After he had gone back and shoulder, Wilcox laughed. "Delivering ducks-what next!" And I breathed a sigh of relief. I had done my best-for the safety and comfort of the passengers!

TEMPTING MID-SUMMER MENU

Summer time should include vacation and playtime for the home-maker as well as her family. This takes special planning because the hot weather doesn't reduce the number of meals she must provide her family. But she can arrange to prepare food ahead of time during free periods either at night, early in the morning or whenever they happen to occur. A menu of cold fried chicken, Vegetable Rice Croquettes, whole ripe tomatoes, bread sticks, watermelon, cookies and lemonade need leave only a minimum of preparation for mealtime. The melon and tomatoes need only to be refrigerated until serving time. Frozen lemonade can be reconstituted in a matter of seconds and chilled for use. The chicken can be fried according to any favorite recipe either the right before can be morning it is to be used. While it is becausing the night before or the morning it is to be used. While it is browning, the ingredients for the Vegetable Rice Croquettes can be combined. Since cooked rice is used in the recipe, extra rice left over from a previous meal may be used. It is often a time saver to cook more rice than you will need for one meal for it keeps for days in the refrigerator and can be quickly heated with a little water to its original texture and flavor for another day.

When mealtime arrives, this menu leaves little to do but shape and crumb the croquettes and quickly fry them to a golden brown.

VEGETABLE RICE CROQUETTES

3 tablespoons butter or margarine 1/2 medium onion, minced 2 tablespoons flour l teaspoon salt

½ cup milk

1 teaspoon celery salt

2 teaspoons prepared mustard

1/8 teaspoon pepper 1/2 teaspoon lemon juice 2 cups cooked rice 1 cup mixed cooked vegetables 2 teaspoons minced parsley 1 egg 2 tablespoons water

Melt butter in a 1-quart saucepan. Add onions and saute until transparent. Remove onions from pan. Add flour and mix until smooth. Add milk and cook stirring constantly until sauce thickens. Add salt, celery salt, mustard, pepper and lemon juice. Combine sauce with onions, cooked rice, vegetables and parsley. Mix well Chill at least 2 hours. Shape into balls or cones.

Beat egg slightly and add water. Place crumbs on waxed paper. Roll croquettes in bread crumbs then in egg mixture then again in bread crumbs. Let stand while heating fat. Heat enough fat to reach a depth of about 2½ inches at 390° F. Fry croquettes for about 3 minutes or of about 2½ inches at 390° F. Fry croquettes for about 3 minutes or until golden brown. Drain on paper toweling. This makes 6 2½ inch croquettes.

4-H Battles Night Traffic Desperado

Have you met Black Bart-the demon of night driving? He's a menacing and sneaky desperado representing perils of increased accidents after dark, a top safety problem. Eight winners of $400 General Motors scholarships for outstanding 4-H safety activities have pledged all 4-H members to defeat Black Bart because three times as many accidents occur after dark as during daylight hours, in proportion to miles driven. "Last year, 20,800 people were killed in nighttime accidents," they told newsmen recently in Chicago. "This is specially serious in rural areas where roads are dimly lighted."

Have Headlights Aimed Twice a Year The national winners and all state safety winners received all-expense trips to the 4-H Club Congress from General Motors to recognize their superb farm, home and highway safety work.

Reducing speed at night, dimming headlights when meeting a car, and having headlights aimed twice a year are leading night safety suggestions of these teen-age safety specialists. Typical was Ralph Zimmer, 17 year old national winner from Lakewood, Colo., who plans to become a traffic safety engineer "Most drivers don't realize that headlights on new cars as well as old ones can be jarred out of line by normal road bumps and that up to 80% of the light needed for safe night driving is lost when headlights are improperly aimed," he said.

Nine Times More in Safety Work General Motors is in its 15th year of sponsoring the 4-H safety program. In that time, participation has zoomed to 935,000. Other National Winners include: Mary Ann Harrington, 17, Eusiis, Fla.; Marie Hasfurther, 18, Genesee, Ida.; Virginia Partridge, 17, Allerton, Ia.; Karen Perret, 17, Reserve, La.; Anita Hollmer, 18, Schuylerville, N. Y.; Andrea Suiter, 19, Tipton, Okla.; and Norman Warminski, 16, White Deer, Tex.

and electricity properly are among the many common sense precautions that can keep you and your family off the home front casualty list.

Electrical fuses are made to protect you. They blow out when there is a short circuit or overloading. The common fuse is 15 amperes. When fuses are blown, they should be replaced with those of similar capacity—never with pennies or wires.

When a fuse blows turn off the master switch. You should have a list on the fuse box, indicating the circuit for each box. Disconnect all the electric devices from the circuit with the blown fuse. If a new fuse blows, the wiring circuit is "shorted" and qualified service is required. If the fuse does not blow, the fault may be due to a "short" in the appliance. This can be located by connecting appliances individually to see which one causes the trouble.

Don't change fuses in the dark.

Keep a flashlight handy.

Major plumbing jobs should be turned over to professionals. Frozen pipes can be thawed by using electric irons, boiling water, heat lamps and even hair dryers. One of the workless methdryers. One of the workless methods is to remove as much of the water as possible from the top of the pipe and slowly shake enough household lye into the pipe to make it hot to the touch. As pipe cools, add more lye until it is clear. When the drain is thawed, flush it with plenty of hot water.

Minor leaks in pipes can some-times be repaired with special cement—at least they seal the leak until a plumber arrives.

Comment from the Capital -

RIGHT OUT OF THE HOFFA'S MOUTH by Vant Neff

"I absolutely do approve the use of union funds to defend officials accused of violating the law."

That is the reported testimony of James R. Hoffa, Teamster President, before the Senate rackets committee. And it points up a truly frightening fact about many leaders in the high command of organized labor today.

Too often, union bosses defend not only those accused, but those actually convicted of crimes! Larcenists, blackmail-ers, extortionists — these are some of the men who make up the thugs' cabinet in the inner circles of labor gangsterism.

These gentry have muscled or wormed their way into high union places. And they are kept there and defended against the law with money paid into their mions by dues-paying mem-Don't blame UNIAIN the members!

They, too, are the victims of union racketeering. Under present law, union members have little real protection against union racke-teers and tyrants who hold

What, for instance, would become of the Teamster official arrested three times and convicted once . . . of the Mid-western Teamster boss arrest-ed for larceny and extortion ed for larceny and extortion ... or the union big gun arrested fifteen times for bombing, conspiracy, assault and viola-tion of anti-trust laws? Will the rank and file of American la-ber support this brand of lead-ership forever?

Wili they support for long these so-called "servants of labor" who do their service on yachts off the Florida coast, in Cadillacs on every Main Street in America, and from poolside at Acapulco Then there are the shake-down experts. These are the union officials who force small businessmen to "kick in" thousands of dollars if they want labor peace. As for the shakedown loot — well, it surely doesn't go into union coffers, where it might turn up on an accountant's books. The fact is, no one really knows what happens to this money — except the union bosses. And we wonder what the union members think about their leaders who appear be-fore the McClellan Committee and hide behind the Fifth Amendment. One union leader even refused to tell the Com-mittee when he was born! His answer, he said, might tend to incriminate him! Now, there is a way to control the union bosses. There is a way to end the rule of the thugs' cabinet in organized labor.

Congress can give the country a real labor reform law. Not just a law asking labor leaders to behave like "gentlemen," but a real law, with real teeth in it. This law should stop the shameful ruthlessness of blackmail picketing. It should stop the brutal extortion of secondary boycotts. It should give working men and women their basic rights as American

The labor reform bill now The labor reform bill now before the House of Representatives can do the job if it is given real teeth. As it stands now, this labor reform bill, as one Senator said, is no more than a flea bite to a bull elephant. Before Congress adjourns, let it take a good close look at union bossism. Let it look at the crying need for labor reform in the country at large. Then — let the Representatives act!

Consider Garbage Removal In Summer Health And Safety Check

The "cunce of prevention" that's worth a pound of cure bears particular attention during the summer months. Children home from school have more time for play, but they also have more opportunity for accidents - most of which could be eliminated by forethought.

How recently have you checked your yard to make sure it's free of any broken glass or rusty wire? Are you especially careful to store cleaning fluids, medicine, and knives out of reach of inquir-ing young hands? Do you check the children's toys regularly so that a shaky bicycle won't lead to a painful fall or rough edges on a metal baby carriage cause a nasty scratch?

Have you thought about the summer health hazard presented by your garbage? Even more distressing than the inconvenience of carrying out the garbage and cleaning the pail, is the proven fact that food wastes decay more rapidly in hot weather and serve as a breeding place for germ-car-of an electric food waste disposer like the General Electric Disposall. The new "Super-Grind" Dis- and the menace of garbage for posalls recently announced by good.

General Electric incorporate an exclusive Carboloy cutter (almost as hard as a diamond) for unprecedented speed and efficient grinding action. With this appliance food waste worries literally go "down the drain," to sewer or sentic tank, endir both the mess septic tank, endir = both the mess it.

The best "preventive" solution to this problem is the installation of an electric food waste disposer helps eliminate summer health hazard resulting from more rapid decay of food wastes.

Bible Material: Lamentations Devotional Reading: Psalm 30:1-5.

Steadfast Love

Lesson for August 16, 1959

WHY IS IT (some have asked) that we hear so much about the love of God in the New Testament, but in the Old Testament find his love seldom mentioned? The answer is, that it is all through the Old Testament too, occurring not less than 215 times. In the Hebrew original, that is. For centuries this fact was concealed from the Englishspeaking reader by translations which turned the Hebrew word into "mercy" or "kindness" or other words. It is Dr. Foreman now realized that the best way to translate that common word is "steadfast love," and it is so translated throughout the Revised Standard Version. It means something stronger than simply "love;" it expresses the enduring, persistent, patient and steadfast quality of God's love to man.

Love Among the Ruins

People ask sometimes, What does the Bible tell us about God that other religions do not? Are not all religions worshipping the same God by different names? Of course the one greatest truth about God, which we find in the Bible and nowhere else, is that he is the God and Father of Jesus Christ. But long before Jesus was born, the Hebrews knew that God is a God of steadfast love. Other religions did not know this. That God is to be honored, worshipped, obeyed and feared, yes all religions knew that. But only the Hebrews knew the God who is Love.

It may be a surprise, but it is very like the whole Bible, that we should run across the same little word ("chesed" in Hebrew), in a very unpromising place, the book of Lamentations. This little "book" (8 pages long) lives up to its name; it is the most mournful book in the Bible. Well it may be; for it was written about the dreadful time after the downfall of Jerusalem, in the cruel hardships of defeat. Yet even here the "steadfast love" of God is felt and praised. Even among the ruins of a once fair city, the inspired poet does not give up his faith in the God of love.

New Every Morning

There is a wonderful thing about the love of God, which all those who know the true God realize, even when they do not understand it. That is, his love never grows stale. It is never, so to speak, a habit, it is always a surprise. Just at the moment of deepest discouragement, just at the very brink of fatal temptation, the inner Voice speaks, and joy and strength return again. God's love is the most surprising thing in the world. It is, as this poet of the Lamentations said, new every morning. We do not deserve it. we may give up counting on it-but there it is.

All God's saints, that is, those who have felt most deeply this divinely persistent and pervasive love, have discovered at some time or other, usually at some crisis, some time of trouble or of grief, that it is not on the sunniest days that God is most likely to make himself known.

No Heavenly Grandfather

The writer of Lamentations leaves with us a needed warning. It is easy to get a little too enthusiastic about the love of God. Many persons have felt so sure of itand sure of God-that they felt now they had a license, so to speak, to do whatever they like. They think of God's love as something so sure and certain, so guaranteed, that nothing they do makes any difference to God. He is no longer a heavenly Father, in their sight, he becomes a heavenly grandfather. He is up there always ready with something specially nice for his favorite little ones. But the poet of the Lamentations knew better than that. In the downfall of his beloved city he sees the hand of God, a God who had endured the carelesness, disobedience and pride of his people till (to use Isaiah's word) he was tired of it. A father or mother, if they really love a child, will discipline the child when he needs it. A father who would never punish his son, no matter what, does not actually love him. It is because of God's love, not in spite of it, that he punishes us

MORE ABOUT THE 5 RACES

As things were in the past we find them to-day—
(God is no respecter of persons, the scriptures say)
Some are white, some black, others red, yellow and brown— But God does not use colors to detect renown.

Color is a mark of detection (not of morals); they say: "Some with black bodies surpass us to-day"; The sons of Ham are not yet like Japath's sons, they say But, who can tell what they shall be someday?

Who knows what God thought when He made His plan-(Especially, the part which includes mortal man?);
He wanted him to have a suitable place to stay;
So, He built him a house (body), they tell us, of clay.

God, Himself, is just like the real you and me-(If there is anything He hates, it is monotony!); So He made the ears of corn white, yellow and red For the same reason He colored the races, it is said.

God, too, has hobbies just like you and me—(Like us, our Great Father is said to be);
But, His ways differ from ours, the scriptures say;
So, why not listen to Him, and do things His way? God colored things as He did to tell them apart-

(His colors, they say, are masterpieces of art!)
Who but He could have figured out a plan That would help out substitute - mortal man? The turnip wears a necklace of purple, we say,
And the Irish potato wears a coat of grey;
All through the vegetable kingdom, that is His plan

So, He used it to distinguish the 5 races of man. The carrot is orange, and the tomato is red—
(They all are colored by the rays of the sun, it is said)
That, too, tells of love and wisdom, they say;

So, why should puny man try to change God's way?

There are 5 races of men on earth to-day—
(None, as a whole, have yet reached perfection, they say);
So, who knows what the future has in store For those who leave here, and come back to learn more?

Of the vices and virtues of the races, I shall not tell;
But, there is one truth you all know well;
2000 years ago man's larder was the tree; So, our ancestors among them were said to be.

The races all went back; the records say: "Some still are far in the rear to-day"!)
When Nero's troops invaded England in 50 A. D.;
The natives, like monkeys, got their food from the tree.

So, one cannot tell how things shall be
When we are all made fit for eternity;
But, after earth celebrates her great jubilee,
They tell us, all races, one family shall be.

Take the Negro race, as an example to-day;
He has made more progress in 100 years, they say,
Than has ever been made by mortal man—
That is another puzzle in God's great plan.

In the days of Moses—(3000 years ago)
History, says the black man stood in "A-row";
But, he, too, went back like the others, they say,
And is again coming to the front in our day.

Moses was the greatest man on earth in his day
Ziporah a colored woman, became Mrs. Moses, they say;
So, judging the future by the past is the only way
To tell how the wind blows in our day.

Jealously belongs to the bird and chicken, they say But, your substitute, man, must do things God's way; Perfection is his mission here on earth to-day; And, unless he obeys the real you, he goes to decay.

What is it that causes the Negro to shout and sing? (Some say, till he makes the very rafters ring?) Every time the story of Jesus is told,

And he hears the old song about streets of gold.

And, here is another truth, many people say,
(A truth part lie in this modern day)
All Negroes fear the place called hell; And, none of them want to go there to dwell.

Then, too, of God's great law the Negro is said to be Far ahead of all races known to you and me; It is said, he makes a brother of all his clan; And, that is one of the "musts" in God's great plan.

So, the brotherhood of man, some writers now say, Is a problem that must be solved some day; For, until man becomes what God wants him to be The gates are all closed to eternity.

Weatherstripping In Door Frame Really Does Job

An important new develop-ment in home building today is a new door frame with built-in weatherstripping.

The new door frame, made of ponderosa pine, has weather-stripping of fabric-covered wood along both sides and the top. The strip is backed by a hidden metal tension spring that keeps it in constant weather-tight contact with the door, sealing out cold drafts in winter, heat in summer, and dust all year around.

Metal tension spring built into new ponderosa pine door frame keeps weatherstripping pressed against door, assuring efficient weather seal.

The new weatherstripping presses against the interior face of the door at its edges, permitting the door to fit more closely into its frame and avoiding wide, unsightly cracks.

This new frame is available in units consisting of frame and weatherstripping alone or as a complete entrance with jamb, sill, weatherstripping on all four sides, and door ready-hung with hardware. It can be installed in less than 15 minutes.

The Danger In Letting Your Sincerity Become "Infectious"

Question: What travels faster than a rumor? Answer: The "office cold." The offender who so generously shares his watery-eyed snif-fling and hacking cough with his co-workers often does so with no malice aforethought. He or she is, in many cases, a sincere and devoted employee. This very sense of responsi-bility, as a matter of fact, can be the motivating force behind the virus peddler's philanthropic ac-tivities. He prides himself on his attendance record. He's likely to boast: "Haven't missed a day in five years, except when we put Aunt Jezebel to rest one Wednes-day in '53."

A platinum-plated lapel button signifying five years' lack of absenteeism may rival the Medal of Honor in the eyes of the recipient. But it's little consolation to those upon whom he bestows his cold. Measured in terms of production, the office cold costs industry billions of dollars every year. Those who place a lesser premium on the lapel button have no aversion to staying home once they've been infected. Take the word of your doctor of chiropractic: You'll be doing everybody a disservice-yourself included—if you go to work on those days you "should have stayed in bed."

When you mix genius with a little weat you got about as good a recipe for success as there is.

Fresh Vegetables Make Good Dips For Snack or Meal

R AW vegetables are a treat in themselves, but they're especially good when served with dips as a snack or an appetizer for the meal. Smart homemakers keep the carrot, celery or green pepper sticks refrigerated along with a jar or two of dipping "stuff" so the family can get their own snack.

This is the way to get the fullest vitamin count from vegetables, and at the same time savor the vegetable at its best.

Most dips are simple but appetizing combinations of cream cheese and flavorings. Try some

Organize Kitchen For Efficiency

Your kitchen cabinets may not have been built recently, but there are all sorts of helpers available that can be used or installed easily to give you more space, more organization.

If you have a reasonable amount of cabinet space and still can't find things easily, chances are that it's not properly stored. Check over some of the aids available and see what efficiency you can bring to the kitchen.

First, there are the dishes. Easy. to get to and to put away? No? What about a handy rubber rack which will take care of three different sizes of plates and the cups as well? They take much less space than stacking the dishes in cupboards and prevent chipped dinnerware simply because they're organized.

Try Some Racks

If you can't reach serving platters or pot lids easily without jumbling through everything you've got, wooden racks to give you vertical storage on the pieces are just the thing. Your handy man can build them, if necessary, from odd pieces of wood to fit right into drawers or cabinets. They save time and temper.

Metal racks can be slipped into lower cabinets to take care of lids, too. These will take advantage of the up and down space in cabinets and give you a filing system. This safe file system can also be used on shelves for casseroles, pie and cake pans, especially if they're made of wood. You should have these made so the wooden partitions can be moved into different slots to fit the different size

Shelves to Fit Deep cabinets call for other tricks to yield more space. Hanging shelves can be installed on several to hold the smaller pack-

Step-up shelves can be used to accommodate both the tall and short items, be they packages or

On the inside of the cabinet doors you can attach shelves to hold spices and flavorings or other small items. In some cases you might utilize swinging racks on the doors for these items.
