TANEYTOWN'S TAX RATE REMAINS AT 85c

Maximum Personal Property Assessment Raised to $1000

The regular monthly meeting of the Mayor and City Council was held on Monday, October 11, 1960, with all members present.

The Treasurers report was rendered as follows: Receipts $1,961.04; Expenditures $4,356.63; Balance $3,904.43; Parking Meter Fund Balance $4,080.80.

The new Tax Ordinance was adopted for the current year setting the tax rate at 85c on $100.00. It was previously reported it had been determined to continue this rate for another year, even though increased expenditures clearly indicated the need for a higher rate.

Several new residents were placed on the tax rolls and their personal property evaluation fixed.

It was found necessary to raise the maximum personal property tax assessment to $1,000.00. This increase will become effective for the current tax period.

Halloween vandalism was discussed with a view to giving our citizens better protection this year from those persons who are not content with harmless Halloween pranks. Our Police schedule will be altered so as to provide coverage from dusk to dawn Halloween night.

Welcome Visitor ticket proofs were examined and discussed. This ticket, if adopted, would be used in certain cases of minor violations instead of the regular violation ticket, for visitors to Taneytown who through oversight or unfamiliarity with our local laws might be guilty of a minor infraction. The ticket would constitute a warning and at the same time, make the recipient feel welcome in Taneytown.

Women's Guild Hears Mr. William Tsitsiwa of Ghana

The Women's Guild of Grace United Church of Christ held their meeting in the church sanctuary with Mrs. Ned Musser Christian Education chairman in charge.

After the prelude by Mrs. Romaine Motter, the audience sang "Where Cross the Crowded Ways of Life". This was followed by scripture reading, prayer and the hymn, "The Morning Light is Breaking".

Rev. Andreas presented the guest speaker, Mr. William Tsitsiwa, education attache, of the Embassy of Ghana in Washington. His topic was "Ghana Today".

There has been great change in the parts of Africa where the countries have changed from colonialism to independence. The change has been swift because of the modern means of transportation, through the press and access to raw materials. The greatest changes are seen in the countries that were under British rule and French rule and those on the west coast as they had the longest contact with Europe and the United States.

In Ghana, the influences that have brought about the greatest change were through trading, communication, and social welfare. Much credit is given to the Christian missionaries as they were the first to introduce formal education. It was through them that agriculture was improved. Their problems are concerned with tribalism, need of skilled labor, and capital. Skilled labor is being recruited from Europe, Asia and the United States. Teachers are very much needed.

To offset this teacher shortage, education is being stepped up. Some students are being sent to Europe and the United States for study. The masses are being educated as fast as possible.

The housing conditions in the cities and town are being improved through Government funds.

The health of the people is being improved through hospitals, clinics in outlying districts, and by mobile clinics.

Their various industries include fishing, timber, mining, making of aluminum utensils, and furniture. These can be further developed whenever the capital can be obtained.

The main concern of the leaders is the raising of the standard of living and the welfare of the people.

After a duet by Mr. and Mrs. David Reifsnider and the hymn "O Zion Haste" the congregation adjourned to the social hall for a fellowship hour.

Prior to the worship and presentation in the sanctuary Mr. Tsitsiwa was the guest of honor at a buffet supper at the parsonage under the sponsorship of the Executive Board of the Women's Guild.

Those present were President, Mrs. Morgan Andreas; Vice-President, Mrs. Otis Shoenaker; Treasurer, Miss Mary Shriver; Christian Education co-Chairman, Mrs. Ned Musser and Mrs. Charles Anders and Messrs. Musser and Anders; Spiritual Life Chairman, Miss Freda Stambaugh; Christian Service Co-Chairman, Mrs. John Garner and Mrs. Frank Wagny and Mr. Wagny; Christian Stewardship Chairman, Mrs. George Freag; Missionary Education Co-Chairman, Mrs. Anna Mary Sell and Mrs. Elvin Study; Christian Social Action Chairman, Mrs. Glenn Martin; Thank-offering Co-chairman, Mrs. Clyde Hesson and Mrs. George Motter and Mr. Motter; Immediate Past President, Mrs. Marian Rue, and Mrs. Romaine Motter, Miss Carrie Bell, Mr. William Fouche and Paul Andreas; President of the Churchmen's Brotherhood, Mr. Delmont Koons and Mrs. Koons; Vice-President of the Consistory, Mr. Carol Frock and Mrs. Frock; the Rev. Mr. Andreas and Mr. Tsitsiwa.

Mrs. Vallie Fouche and Mrs. Ernest Parker, assisted by Misses Stella Study and Cyndy Andreas, arranged and served the supper.

The committee arranging and planning for the refreshments in the Sunday School room after the formal program consisted of Mrs. Carol Frock and Mrs. Harry Clingan. Mrs. Bruce Villard and Mrs. Fred Clingan presided at the punch bowls.

They gave Ez Tike a physical down to the draft board. Afterward, someone heard Doc Stearnes remarking to the head of the board, "on the other hand, he's really not in shape to be a civilian either."

Defeat only leaves a bitter taste if you swallow it.

FLUORIDATION FACTS PRESENTED BY JAYCEES

Questions and Answers Pertaining to Fluorides

The Taneytown Jaycees along with other interested persons, present the following assertions and facts on Fluoridation of a Public Water Supply.

The Assertion:

Fluorides added to public water supplies will do untold damage to the internal organs of adults.

The Fact:

Persons who raise "warnings" have no evidence on which to base their charge. Those who make unsubstantiated statements on harmful effects should be challenged to bring forth facts to support their contentions. Actual observations of individuals who have lived up to 70 years or more in areas where water has a high concentration of fluoride have not revealed injuries to the internal organs.

The Assertion:

Fluorides are used by industry as hardening agents and will also cause hardening of the arteries.

The Fact:

This conclusion is based on a complete lack of understanding of the chemical and physiological actions of fluorides. The word "hardening" as it applies in industry is entirely different from "hardening" applied to the physiological process of calcification of the arteries.

The Assertion:

Fluorides weaken the bones of cattle.

The Fact:

It has been reported that in some industrial areas, fluoride-bearing dust from some manufacturing plants has laid a heavy coating of the material over nearby pasture lands. Cattle grazing in these areas have therefore consumed large quantities of fluorides and have suffered ill effects. Dust control measures have been taken to prevent further such occurrences. It is dangerously misleading, however, to compare the effects of very high concentrations of fluorides with the minute amounts in public water supplies in the ratio of one part per million.

The Assertion:

Fluoridation is still in the experimental stage.

The Fact:

Fluoridation of public water supplies cannot be considered "experimental" in the usual sense of the word that the procedure has not been adequately studied. Various factors relating to fluoridation have been under study for at least 25 years.

The Assertion:

Fluoridation benefits children only.

The Fact:

It is true that in the beginning of a fluoridation program, the greatest benefits will accrue to the younger children; however, as these children become adults, they will continue to benefit and eventually the entire community will be enjoying the full benefits from fluoridation. Studies conducted among adults in fluoride areas show that the dental benefits continue throughout life.

The Assertion:

Costs are going up all the time, and the city cannot afford to add another item to its budget.

The Fact:

This statement might more correctly be put, "The citizens can hardly afford the luxury of going without fluoridated water." Experience in more than 1,100 (January 1956) communities in the United States has demonstrated that fluoridation is an inexpensive procedure. The cost varies in different cities but averages less than 9c per year per person, often less than the cost of a candy bar. Fluoridation will reduce future dental bills for fillings, extractions and replacements. The cost of an average (continued on page five)

"SPICE 'N' EVERYTHING NICE"

With all my heart, I wish you every morning
A smile that shall last until the next day's dawning.

I wish you health—life's greatest wealth;
I wish you always near so that I may help to cheer.

Each future day and in some way—help to bring you happiness!

It is MODERNISTIC all the way at the lovely new Sheraton-Baltimore Inn across from the Johns Hopkins Hospital! Glamorous is the only word befitting and yet there is that cozy and homey atmosphere plus style in every room. There are 150 rooms and each one differently decorated. I observed the lovely patterns of all the floor coverings which are wall to wall and everyone entirely different. It is air-conditioned and each room has it's own T.V. and radio plus bath. In the halls, stands a cooler compartment where the guests may just reach out and get the ice cubes without calling a Porter or Bell Hop. Connie was taking me around to view it all and explaining in detail to me. For a room divider upon entering to the left is a series of sculptured glass blocks which is truly a brand new affair which I have never seen before. The Ball room consists of a huge room which can easily be divided into three separate rooms. This room overlooks a lovely landscaped garden. There are private rooms which may be engaged for special parties or meetings. This gracious addition to Baltimore has all the oomph in every detail and all Baltimoreans can be proud. Take a drive down, Folks and see for yourself. Mr. J. Quinn is the Manager and he will be a most successful one. The Garden Cafe is right off the lobby and the waitresses are dressed in a medium shade of gray with aprons of striped rainbow colors with matching collars. I was amazed at the crowd in that room for the opening day. There is plenty of parking space which really is a joy to any driver! Surrounding grounds are not completed and I imagine there will be a high wall or lined trees in the rear to beautify it still further.

"High Time" at the New Theatre did not appeal to me for it really underestimates Bing Crosby—the Star! There is a College either in North or South Carolina where Bing Crosby decides to further his education along with all the youngsters and this really makes him appear years older if even he does the stunt in the gymnasium by chinning the bar a dozen times!

There is so much activity as to games & pleasures constantly that one would take it for granted that a College is a place not for that "LARNIN"

WEST VIRGINIAN UTOPIA WITNESSED BY TANEYTOWN LIONS OCTOBER 11

"The Utopia we all dream of" was the billing given to a lovely Esso motion picture on the beauties and attractions of West Virginia by Frank O. Wagny, program chairman for the evening of Tuesday, Oct. 11, when Taneytown Lions met in Taney Inn for a tasty filet of haddock dinner.

President Glenn O. Reever opened the meeting, Murray M. Baumgardner called upon the deity for that necessary blessing and guidance, and Harry I. Reindollar accompanied Lion Tamer Donald E. Lawver's conduct of group singing. The latter was refreshingly new, with "Coming round the mountain", "For he's a jolly good fellow", and "Vive l'amour" among his choices. Governor Tawes's proclamation of Oct. 10 as Lions Day was read, as well as several communications from other clubs -- among them announcements of a Turkey supper at New Windsor Oct. 15 and the Region IV Social at Peter Pan Inn Oct. 25, which is to be a gigantic affair according to the word passed to us by International counselor Murray D. Ryan of sponsoring Mt. Airy.

A drawing for two free meals contributed to by all present was handled by David C. Hiltner and Donald R. Baker of the Convention committee, being won this time by Charles W. Eckard and Ralph W. Stonesifer. Singleton E. Rensburg then made an illuminating report on the success of the annual Lions Community Calendar project, in which the Gold team headed by Lewis R. Baer was victorious over the Blues captained by John T. Hottinger. High salesmen for listings and calendars were Delmar E. Riffle (Gold) and President Reever (Blue), who each turned in more than $50. On Lion Rensburg's motion, seconded by Hiltner, it was decided that the high-scoring salesmen of both teams should be rewarded by having the lower half of the cumulative sales ladder each contribute the cost of a meal to the convention fund, demands for which will be particularly heavy this year because one of the club's own members, Harry B. Dougherty, is District Governor.

A letter of high praise for the most recently monthly report of Secretary Kenneth C. Shorb was received from Fern L. Smith, chairman of Zone 2, Region IV, and its reading was spontaneously and warmly applauded. The evening was then turned over to Lion Wagny, whose movie on West Virginia was raptly received. Frank T. Dunham, native of that mountain wonderland, was the one called to mind by the Utopian reference, and indeed its parks, industry, and scenery seemed the stuff that dreams are made of. Most intriguing to this viewer were the artistry of the glass blowing craftsmen, the mechanization of the mining industry, and the breathtaking sights of autumnal coloring along its great highway system. It called out to the Wanderlust in each person present.

The next meeting of Taneytown Lions will be that of Tuesday, Oct. 25, Father and son night, when program highlights will be selected by Lion Baer.

GRASS ROOTS OPINIONS

CORVALLIS, ORE., GAZETTE-TIMES: "Constitutional provisions prohibit a president from knocking single items out of appropriation bills. Consequently, Congress always lumps a lot of appropriations together and submits them as one bill. It usually contains some undesirable or selfish items mixed in with the necessary ones. The Federal government is far behind most state governments in this respect. The governors of some 39 states—exercise item veto power."

ELMWOOD PARK, ILL., HERALD (Reprinted from Publishers' Auxiliary): "When we think of Russian newspapers, we are inclined to think of Izvestia and Pravda, just as Russians are probably inclined to think of the New York Times, for example, when they think about the American press."

"But in each country, there are more than 11,000 small and large newspapers, each with considerable influence in its own community. Although we are sure that newspapers in the United States have considerably more freedom to say what they choose to say, it is also remarkably interesting to note that the pattern in Russia is more newspapers and broader circulation. This could be a healthy trend."

BOONVILLE, IND., ENQUIRER: The question, 'Do you read the Bible?' asked in a crowd, would produce very interesting replies, if the truth were told.

"There are some people who think themselves superior because they place scant reliance in the book which is still the world's best seller."

"Any number of our best citizens can, and will, testify to the great influence for good this book has exerted upon their lives. They know that its study has brought them values not equally by any other publication."

DAYTON, O., LABOR UNION: "Have you ever wondered about advertising that made you want to buy something you thought you couldn't afford? Well... pause and be thankful for it. It's this very ability of advertising to prod us into wanting something better that keeps our economic machine whirling away at top speed."

"Few can deny that we have achieved a 'good-life' in this country. We will continue so long as we keep up this urge for self-betterment."

MORRISON, ILL., SENTINEL: "At twenty, a young man thinks the competition in getting ahead is fierce, and so it is. At thirty he finds it worse because more is expected of him."

"Skipping the other decennials brings us to seventy, at which age it would seem that the competition would subside, but no. Those who survive seven decades find themselves members of a hardy, tough, seemingly indestructible group."

PHILLIPS, WISC., BEE: "Instead of individuals in the states contributing extra money to the federal government in order that the federal government may dole out educational handouts, wouldn't it be far better if the states themselves would collect that same money and hand it back to the individual districts in the state?"

DULUTH, MINN., PUBLICITY: "The U. S. income tax was 47 years old Feb. 25. Does anyone want to sing 'Happy Birthday' to celebrate the joyous occasion?"

"When it was born in 1913, few people foresaw how the tax would grow. It started with a nibble of one to six per cent. Now it gobbles 20 to 91 per cent."

A VOICE FROM CARROLL

Chewing gum is one of America's claim to fame and probably one reason why Americans are considered ill-bred by more cultured Europeans. But it is a favorite pastime for all kinds of people... young and old, rich and poor, educated and non-educated, male and female. The quarrel is not with gum-chewing but how it is chewed, where it is chewed and how it is disposed of after it has been chewed. Some people chew gum like it's a life or death undertaking. They give it everything they've got. Nothing coy or cute about it. One knows where they stand by the workings of their jaws. But the worse offender is the gum-chewer who insists on being heard by cracking the gum. This sound can stretch some people's nerves to the breaking point. We know of an instance when the girl lost the man she was about to marry because he couldn't face a future with a wife that used chewing gum to produce sound effects. But the key to a gum-chewer's character can be analyzed by the way he disposes of the stuff. If he puts it in a lightwad; if he tosses it on the street for someone to step on and carry home; if he either thoughtless or anti-social. But if he carefully puts it in a piece of paper and drops it in the garbage he is thoughtful, likes his friends and is polite to his enemies. Chewing-gum is fine. Its good for the teeth and its good for nervous tension but it isn't good for carpets, children's hair, bedposts, table tops and city streets.

The Carroll County Historical Society has been left $5,000 by the late sung B. Beasman, executive of a contracting firm in Baltimore, who died in July.

Two owls make their home in our woods close to the house, and along about midnight they begin calling to each other. Sometimes we are engrossed in a book and when the wailing whoo-loo-loo begins we forget about the owls, for a minute we are convinced that the melancholy sound comes from a person in deep trouble or from one that has long departed and has returned to tell about the woes of the hereafter. Owls have always been associated with tragedy. This of course is folklore. When the whoo-loo-loo comes wavering and quivering out of the depths of night, it is recommended to jump out of bed and throw a piece of iron on the fire, or kneel and make the sign of the cross. Dark things are on the prowl and dark thought are in the air! But Henry Thoreau was not one to believe in superstition as he was a lover of nature and so after listening to the sound of the owls he wrote: "The doleful responses, thrilled along the roadside, reminding me sometimes of music and singing birds, as if it were the dark and fearful side of music, the regrets and sighs that fain would be sung... they give me the vastness and mystery of that Nature which is the common dwelling of us both."

"Oh-o-o-o" that I had never been bor-or-or-orn!" sighs one owl on this side of the pond, and circles in the restlessness of despair to some new perch in the gray oaks. Then, "That I had never been bor-or-or-orn!" echoes one on the further side, with a tremulous sincerity. The quality of an owl's melancholy music is not likely to ever to be better described. The speckled plumaged little owl that produces all these dark sentiments and disastrous images in its human hearers is found throughout most of the Eastern America and different varieties are found all over the world. In much of New England and New York, the owls are a permanent resident, though there is a certain amount of migrating over short distances in search of food. For this reason some areas are with owls during the summer, but have them during the fall and winter. Because of this owls may be associated with coldness, fallen leaves and the death of the year. But seeing an owl at close range is to see a pudgy, fluffy-feathered little bird with gray and brown streak feathers soft as a kitten. It's two little ear-tufts rise perky above a soft feathered face that shows an absurd little downturned beak and two big sleepy eyes blinking at the sun. Such is the terror of the night that makes the hair stand up on one's head and an icy hand tingle one's spinal column when he utters his who-loo-loo.

Dr. Patrick B. Storey will be the guest speaker at the Carroll County Tuberculosis Association dinner Oct. 17, to be held in the Agricultural Center, Gist Road, Westminster. Dr. Storey is on the staff of the University of Maryland School of Medicine and is directly associated with Tuberculosis work in the field of Pulmonary and Education Committee for the Maryland Truadeau Society. Also appearing on the program will be Miss Nancy Roelke and Miss Carleen Ritter of Western Maryland College who will perform a medley of songs. The dinner will spearhead the 1960 Christmas Seal Sale Campaign with Preston G. Coffman, business man and civic leader of Westminster serving as chairman.

An example of how people can help themselves in the present education dilemma is the Carroll County Scholarship Fund. Here is an idea that was launched just a few years ago and is steadily growing thanks to some intelligent and thoughtful citizens who believe that the best way to solve things is at the local level. At the present time more than half a dozen students are being helped to become future teachers with the funds donated. With the shortage of teachers being so acute this is a very good beginning in eventually easing the situation. It is hoped that as time goes on more and more citizens will concern themselves with education and contribute to the Scholarship Fund. Remember, God helps those who help themselves.

By the time Mr. K leaves New York he will understand that neither an election or a visit by him can keep the World Series from taking top billing. Some historian will some day comment on this and wonder what kind of a person an American was that he was more interested in a baseball than an atom ball.

FLUORIDATION FACTS

age filing will pay for fluoride for one person for about 30 years.

The Assertion:
Fluoridation is a restriction of religious freedom.

The Fact:
Some people assert that the free exercise of religion is interfered with by the fluoridation of community water supplies. This contention is based on the supposition that the addition of fluorides to water converts the water into a medication. Even if fluoridation could be considered medication, precedents in the interpretation of the First Amendment to the Constitution of the United States demonstrate that the right of a special group to engage in the practice of its religion must not unreasonably interfere with the right of a community as a whole to enjoy what it determines is beneficial for its well-being.

The National Institute of Municipal Law Officers has expressed the opinion that fluoridation does not violate constitutional rights of freedom of religion. This opinion has been upheld in recent legislation directly concerned with fluoridation. The constitutionality of the fluoridation program has been upheld in several legal actions, among others: De Aryan vs. City of San Diego, 280 P.2, 98 and Kraus vs. City of Cleveland.

The Assertion:
The fluoridation of public water supplies constitutes mass medication.

The Fact:
The generally accepted definition of medication as used by dentists and physicians refers to the administration of remedies to treat or cure a given condition. Fluoridation does not constitute a remedy; it does not treat an existing disease. Fluoridation supplies a normal constituent found in human teeth and makes fluoride available in the proper amounts through a natural source for the development of decay-resistant teeth.

Fluoride, like calcium and phosphorus, is a natural constituent of teeth and bones and must be supplied to the body through food or drink in order to produce normal calcified structures. Fluorides in the public water supply are no more a medication than are other substances normally found in water or than the various constituents of food necessary for the maintenance of health. Adding sodium fluoride to the water supply is no more a medication than adding table salt or other materials to food to make it palatable and healthful, or adding chlorine to the public water supply for the prevention of intestinal diseases. The addition of certain chemicals to white flour to enrich it is now required by law in some 27 states as a nutritional measure.

The Assertion:
An accident in the water plant might cause over-dosage and severe harmful effects.

The Fact:
Acute morbidity manifested by increased salivation and vomiting may be caused by ingesting 0.25 g. sodium fluoride. The quantity in an 8-oz. glass of water represents 1,000 ppm sodium fluoride, or about 450 ppm fluoride. To obtain this concentration, it would require more than four tons of sodium fluoride per million gallons of water processed which is obviously not possible in a program of water fluoridation, even if gross negligence occurred.

The Assertion:
The American Medical Association did not give an unqualified endorsement of fluoridation of drinking water.

The Fact:
A resolution of the House of Delegates of the American Medical Association at its meeting in Dec. 1951 endorsed the fluoridation of water supplies. The A.M.A. secretary stated that the House of Delegates did not "urge" adoption of the dental measure and explained that "it was the opinion of the Council (on Pharmacy and Chemistry) that this question (of recommendation for or against) should be answered by the dental profession". The A.M.A. statement of policy concludes that "Fluoridation of water supplies in a concentration not exceeding one part per million is nontoxic and its principle is endorsed".

The American Medical Association also approved a statement of the Inter-Association Committee on Health, of which it is a member, which reads: "Resolved, that the Inter-Association Committee on Health urges the fluoridation of the fluoride-deficient public water supplies of this country as rapidly as plans can be approved by the local medical, dental and health departments officials and the state departments of health."

In 1955, four years after the original A.M.A. endorsement of fluoridation, the A.M.A. secretary said in an editorial in Today's Health Magazine: "... the unscrupulous opponents of fluoridation have spread the impression that the American Medical Association did not endorse this public health measure (Fluoridation). The fact is that it did, and that it stands by its endorsement. It is true that the endorsement did not urge any action whatsoever upon responsible officials because that is not the function of the Association. Both the A.M.A. Council on Pharmacy and Chemistry and the A.M.A. Council on Foods and Nutrition expressed themselves definitely to the effect that fluoridation is safe. If this is not an endorsement—what is it?"

but to have one grand time at all times! He finally falls in love with the French teacher and goes over big when he croones to her, "The Second Time Around" (she is a widow in this farce). In the picture Bing's son and daughter are furious because he is attending College and are peeved when they learn of his romance. However, all get their diplomas and finally, Fabian is singing, "The Foggy, Foggy Dew!" "Nuff Sed!"

Well, ladies skirts seem to be at the knee and I don't mean for all teenagers either! As to hats, many appear as those of the English Bobble! As I redeemed an S & H Stamp book, there was a lady with 26 of them! She told me she had been saving for years since it all started again and the one big thing she desired was a typewriter! They brought out a "Corona" for those books! Nice? I do hope you did not miss "The Fred Astaire" show with Barrie Chase. He surprised many with all the old time song numbers near the closing hour. As for another grand T. V. show—DuPont—with "Men in White". The acting was super-duper, none finer! Eh?

All the stores are now handling the special kind of "Diamond"—this past week the Hecht-May Co. is introducing "DIAMOND-ITE". It is a simulated gem and all are set in 14-Kt. gold by diamond setters. Incidentally there are 100 "points" to a carat and they can be bought from one to twenty carats. There are different shapes, Round, Emerald, Marquise, or Pearl Shape. There is an exact reproduction of the engagement ring of Princess Margaret. It is a ruby center with a cluster of diamonds circling. Ask to see that one. They claim that these gems will not discolor and can bear very close inspection under a brilliant white light. Your Observer examined them closely so as I could write about them and they are truly dazzling and exclusive with the Hecht-May Co. The collection also consists of earrings, pins, and necklaces. They claim they are truly flawless and they have a registration number!

You, no doubt will be glad when Daylight Saving leaves us once again for the winter and that will only be a matter of days!

So long, folks. Have a grand weekend. In my next Column will be writing about the three bus loads of The Maryland Hobby Club to Penna. Will be seeing you next week D. V. Until then.

I am,
Faithfully,
Your Observer.

Trust In God

Lesson for October 16, 1960

CHRISTIAN religion looks different from the inside. What an outsider thinks is nonsense is seen from the inside as the highest wisdom. This is particularly true about trust in God. The non-Christian just labels this superstition, but a Christian knows very well that if he could not trust God he might as well not believe in God at all. The non-religious person classifies trust in God with trust in a rabbit's foot. But the Christian knows that there is an infinite difference between God and a rabbit's foot. One is the Maker of heaven and earth; the other only a thing, and a silly thing at that. It is high wisdom to trust in God; to trust in charms such as a rabbit's foot is not only silly, it is sinful.

Why Trust in God?

The 121st Psalm suggests some solid reasons for trusting in the one true and living God. Trust unattached, trust by itself, trust without any one or anything to trust in—this is meaningless and may be disastrous. It isn't the trust that is the main thing, GOD is the reason for trusting God. He is the one who made heaven and earth. We have a right to believe this earth, this life, is livable, because we are confident that God made it so. God made this earth for improvement, not for destruction. (To be sure, it will be destroyed in time; but it is a sin to hasten that day.) God made heaven and earth. He knows what stresses and strains they can stand, and he does not subject them to what they cannot bear. He created man, and he knows what man can stand.

This Psalm suggests a title for God, seldom used: "Keeper of life." God's will is always first for life, not death; health, not sickness; up-building, not down-dragging. Life which he creates, he preserves. Why not trust in God?

Hour of Danger

The poet who wrote Psalm 91 thinks of God specially as a protector in time of danger. He mentions particular dangers of his own time; how familiar they are to us these many centuries after! Pestilence—the great killers like T.B. and polio; war (the arrow that flies by day); terror in the night—what morning paper does not have its story of some who never expected death but who died suddenly, before dawn?

Yet as he reads these words, the Christian of the present day may feel very uneasy. Did the poet of Psalm 91 promise too much? If you take this Psalm literally, no one who trusts the Lord is going to get hurt. This, we feel, is saying too much. People who trust the Lord do get hurt.

Trust Versus Presumption

It is important to remember that in the story of the temptations of Jesus, this same 91st Psalm comes up. Strangely enough, Satan quotes it to Jesus. Satan, you may be sure, means no good for Jesus. But he sounds as if he were a preacher preaching on the text: Believe in God. Satan urges Jesus to jump off one of the high towers of the Temple. Go on, jump, he says. Don't you read your Bible? It says [and here the devil quotes the 91st Psalm], "On their hands the angels will bear you up, lest you strike your foot against a stone."

Jesus knew better. Satan wanted him to take that ancient poem literally. He wanted Jesus to think that no matter what he did, nor where he went, he simply could not be hurt because God would be sure to look after him. But Jesus was too wise, he knew God too well, to take those words as if they were the last words and the only words about trust in God. Jesus knew that it is wrong, it is "tempting God," to get into a dangerous situation deliberately and expect God to keep us from so much as stubbing our toes. Further, Jesus knew that faithful, even perfect service of God and devotion to him, will not guarantee freedom from danger, agony and defeat. Jesus himself went to a cross. Every one of his disciples died a violent death. Yet over it all are Christ's own great words: "Be of good cheer . . . Believe in God, believe also in me . . . I have overcome the world."

YOU CAN
FIGHT FIRE
WITH FIRE PREVENTION

The best way to fight fire is with fire prevention. The fire you don't give a chance to start will cause you no loss—will never destroy your home or business—nor endanger your life or the lives of others.

You prevent fires by exercising care and by correcting conditions that cause them to start. At this season it's time to check heating plants and chimney to correct dangerous defects. Time, too, for being careful in burning fallen leaves and trash.

Among other things, you should be sure electrical wiring is adequate to serve today's increasing number of electrical appliances and as an important fire prevention measure, adding more extension cords to single outlets should be avoided.

Trash and old newspapers should never be allowed to collect in cellars or closets—and always particular care is called for with smoking. Careless smoking causes fires everywhere. Play safe—fight fire with fire prevention.

Date Peanut Butter Drops

Date Peanut Butter Drop cookies and mugs of chilled milk make a mighty good snack for hungry youngsters just home from school.

With plenty of Date Peanut Butter Drops on hand, you're well prepared for after-school raids on the cookie jar. Youngsters will go for the dual taste-treat of familiar peanut butter and sweet, chopped dates in these chewy cookies.

These easy-do drop cookies provide a quick energy pick-up as well as generous amounts of food iron and three B vitamins needed for good health and hearty appetites. When "famished" youngsters reach for Date Peanut Butter Drops after school, you know they're helping themselves to a handful of wholesome nourishment.

DATE PEANUT BUTTER DROPS

2 cups sifted enriched flour	1 cup sugar
2 1/2 teaspoons baking powder	1 teaspoon vanilla extract
1/2 teaspoon salt	2 eggs
1/2 cup shortening	1 cup chopped dates
3/4 cup peanut butter	1/2 cup milk

Sift together flour, baking powder and salt. Cream together shortening, peanut butter and sugar. Blend in vanilla extract and eggs. Add dates. Add flour mixture to creamed mixture alternately with milk. Blend well. Drop by teaspoonfuls onto greased baking sheets. Bake in moderate oven (350°F.) 15 to 20 minutes.

Makes about 7 dozen 1 1/2-inch cookies.
