HIGH SCHOOL HIGHLIGHTS

Schools will close on Wednesday, November 23 at 3:30 p.m. for Thanksgiving Holidays. There will be no school on Thursday, Thanksgiving Day, nor on Friday, School will reopen on Monday, November 28 at 8:30 a.m.

Congratulations to the following students, who read a number of books during participation in the Davis Library Summer Reading Club: Curtis Baughman, Sylvia Dayhoff, Diana Fair, Martha Harman, Beverly Miller, Nancy Myers, Billy Overholzer, Ronnie Ridinger, Darold, Sandra Stoner, Lamar Wagerman, Susan Welty. Some of these people have read twenty books this past summer. It is to be noted that for most of these people the Bookmobile Service made it possible for them to participate in the summer reading program.

Congratulations to the Junior Dramatics Club of Westminster Senior High School for the excellent and most appropriate Veterans' Day program presented to the student body and broadcast over Radio Station WTTB.

On Friday, Nov. 4, a group of twenty-five students accompanied by Mr. Robert Neal and Mrs. Lloyd Carl travelled by Pennsylvania Railroad to New York where they toured the United Nations building. While at the U. N., Carol Bair, Diana Dinterman, Gloria Copenhaver, Bill Formwalt, John Hawk, Cherie Phillips, David Hopkins, Geneva Lambert, Jean Howarth, Sandra Harver, Nita Jester, Jackie Myers, Myrna May Myers, Elaine Bowers, Linda Bowers, Darlene Shaffer, Frances Shoemaker, Judy Utz, Lydia Schott, Emma Jane Formwalt, Mary Ellen Stoner, Robert Lawrence, James Carl, Larry Heltembre and Kenneth Weishaar attended a session of the Economic and Social Council which discussed the issue of human rights. The group dined at Cobbs Corner, a restaurant on Times Square. A brief bus tour of New York city completed the trip.

The F.B.L.A. Club met on Friday, November 11. The program was "Barter Day". Everyone was to bring something that they no longer wanted, but which was still valuable. The object was to trade around with the other students until each person had what he wanted. Mr. Fuhrman conducted the program and also showed us his coin collection.

On Friday, November 18, the F.B.L.A. Club is sponsoring a "Sadie Hawkins Record Hop" from 8 to 11 p.m. at the High School.

The Girls' Physical Education Program by Audrey Willhide, 9A—Physical Education plays a necessary and vital part in a student's weekly classes. The participation in athletics, whether a player or just a spectator, is a part of the student's education (not a right) which carries with it many responsibilities. While you are playing, your conduct is representing not only yourself, but your school, team, student body and community. Your athletic experiences add to the knowledge, skills and attitudes that a person acquires and which help to make him a better person and citizen. Students should realize that the athletic program was organized for some specific reasons. These are called the objectives. One objective is to win the game but another is how to win-the-game. Other objectives contribute to health and happiness, development of physical skills, emotional maturity, social and moral values, sense of cooperation, competition and self-discipline. All of these objectives develop over a period of time and help you to grow physically and mentally.

The girls' fall physical education program begins with field hockey which is played on a competitive basis. Hockey requires eleven players, each using hooked or bent sticks. The eleven players consist of five forwards three halfbacks, two fullbacks and one goal keeper. The game is started with a "bully" between the two center forwards on each team. The object is to get the ball between the goal posts to score a point.

The other fall sport is speedball which also consists of five forwards, three halfbacks, two fullbacks and one goal keeper. The ball must be played on the ground unless it is caught off of someone's foot. Then it can be volleyed in the air. The center forward starts the game by lifting the ball up to someone on the same team. There are four ways of scoring: a field goal, a touchdown pass, a drop kick, or a penalty kick.

Both of these sports require a lot of running. To prepare for the running, one should run around the playing field a number of times. It is easy to see why one must be in the best of physical condition to play them.

The main winter sport is basketball. Six players are needed for a basketball team. Three forwards and three guards. The job of the guards is to keep the other team from scoring and to get the ball and pass it to the forwards to score. The forwards job is to keep the ball away from the other and to score. No player may violate any of the rules. This game requires an ability to cooperate with others and the best of physical fitness.

The spring sport is volleyball. This requires either six or eight players. The team rotates before each serve for its team. To score, the ball must go over the net and the other team must miss it.

The other spring sport is softball. Softball is closely related to baseball except that it is played on a small-

FLUORIDATION DISCUSSION CONTINUES

Pros and Cons are Again Outlined

One of the most important aspects of the recent furor over pollution of the recent furor over pollution of the matter of "potentiation"—which means simply that one poison, taken at the same time as another poison, increases many times in deadliness.

Chemicals tested on animals for their toxic effect are given to carefully selected, perfectly healthy animals whose drinking water is distilled, whose air and food are carefully guarded from any kind of pollution that might affect the results of the test. Human beings, on the other hand, are daily exposed to scores or perhaps hundreds of chemical poisons, not any one of which is toxic enough to kill immediately or even to make one acutely ill.

However, scientists at the Food and Drug Administration have discovered that giving a laboratory animal two poisons at the same time greatly increases the damage that each does to the animal. Giving three poisons increases much more the damage that each of the three does. And so forth. Where this leaves the pitiful modern human being, surrounded by poisons in foods, in insecticides, in air pollution, is anybody's guess. There is one sure thing—no scientist will ever be able to know which of the poisons to which any given human being is subjected is the final one that, added to all the others, brings on the cancer, the heart disease, the kidney trouble the gland condition that finally brings chronic illness and death.

According to the New York Times for November 11, 1959, the Assistant Surgeon General of the United States stated on November 10th, at a meeting of the National Audubon Society that it was conceivable that man could commit "specie suicide" and that "there might not be a historian left a century from now to look back on today's events." The cause? The chemical, radiological and other pollutants man has produced. He cited the cranberry pollution instance and recent alarm over pollution with DDT of waters in which salmon are caught. In the light of all these facts, does it not seem the height of suicidal folly to deliberately pollute city drinking water—the only drinking water available to everyone, sick and well, young and old—with a rather mysterious poison, sodium fluoride about whose toxic effects all of us know little except that the smallest, microscopic dosage over the "proper dosage" is capable of doing great damage to teeth, kidneys, to bones, to muscles, to hearts, to thyroid glands, etc. (we are miraculously supposed to get the "proper dosage", no matter how much or how little water we drink.)

If one susceptible person is going to be damaged by fluorides in the water supply, is there any excuse for fluoridating? Prominent allergists in this country have collected many cases of patients whose symptoms stemmed only from artificially fluoridated water. Symptoms disappeared as soon as the water supply was changed and reappeared as soon as the patient went back to drinking fluoridated water. Our authority for this statement is George Waldbott, M.D., of Detroit, Michigan, allergist and author of many books, among them "The American Fluoridation Experiment", published by Devin-Adair, 23 E. 26th St., New York, N. Y. which reveals in full the certain danger that water fluoridation poses.

(Credit - J. I. Rodale)
IS WATER FLUORIDATION ECONOMICAL?

Proponents of water fluoridation tell us that it is economical. The Citizens Committee on Fluoridation, Inc. of Washington, D. C. has done some figuring to discover just how economical it is. In their statement to the District Sub Committee of the Senate Appropriations Committee, June 29, 1959 they say: "You are going to fluoridate 175 gallons per capita daily and drink a quart or a quart and a half. Since 175 gallons is equal to 700 quarts, it does not require a great deal of mathematical skill to figure out that one and a half quarts consumed per day by the average person amounts to 214 one-thousandths of one percent of the total."

But this figure is itself misleading in that children of an age to benefit from fluoridation represent only 10 per cent of the population. Thus only 214 ten-thousandths of one percent of all money spent for fluoridation can have any possible benefit....

"Since the current appropriation for the District of Columbia contains an item of $130,000 for water fluoridation, applying the above waste factor, we find that only $27.82 will serve a problematically useful purpose while the remaining $102,172.18 or 99.97 per cent will be a total waste." Except we add, for the chemical companies who are busy selling fluorides—up to now a waste product too poisonous to dispose of otherwise.

CHEMICAL WEEK (a periodical whose subscriptions are sold only to top executives in the chemical industry) has this to say in its July 7, 1951 issue: "Only one per cent of the nation's water is now treated (with fluoride) thus the market potential has fluoride makers goggle-eyed. Any apathy or opposition on the part of the public is made up for by the United States Public Health Service's zeal in drumming up the program. It is asking for federal money to develop

Local Democrats Entertained at Home of State Comptroller

On Sunday, November 13th, a group of democrats were afternoon guests of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Goldstein of Mr. State Comptroller of the Treasury. Mr. Goldstein's estate is located a few miles below Prince Frederick, Maryland, and is known as Oakland Hall. This beautiful old Southern type mansion is situated about a mile or more off the main highway on an acreage of over 500 with a wooded area in the foreground and back-ground, hence the name of Oakland Hall is very appropriate as there are many stately oak trees in the territory. The home inside is furnished with many lovely antiques.

Shortly after arrival, which was approximately 3 o'clock, Mr. Goldstein served his guests oysters on the half shell reported by those they ever tasted. After a period of visiting, a delectable Southern Style buffet dinner was served.

Mr. Goldstein had tendered the invitation to this group when the democrats visited Taneytown, October 19th, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George L. Harner.

Those who thoroughly enjoyed the occasion are as follows: Mr. and Mrs. George L. Harner and Clarence, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Arnold, Dr. & Mrs. E. A. Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Legore, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Fair, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Phillips, Mr. and Mrs. Neal Powell, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Shorb and Sandra, Mrs. Edna V. Hess, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Boone, Mrs. Rhoda Boone, Mrs. Cora Cookson, Mr. and Mrs. Sir Vantis Henshaw, daughter Mary, and sons, Frank and Billy.

Kiwanis News

Last Wednesday evening, November 2 the Kiwanis club of Taneytown entertained Miss Jerri Fiorilli, better known as Miss Maryland at the club. Additional guests were Lt. Ray Davis and wife, Mr. Robert Winsett and wife, Mr. Rodgers Hall and wife, Mr. George Smith and wife, Mr. Neal Powell and wife, Mr. Eugene McCaffery and Mrs. Ruth Poole. A short program was held at the Inn after which the club traveled to Big Pipe Creek Park for an evening of dancing.

Mr. George Crouse presented the club with 150 children's tickets to the Boudin Temple Circus held in the 5th Regiment Armory, Saturday, Nov. 5 at 10:00 a.m. The board of Kiwanis implemented the project and transported the kids to Baltimore, under full police escort. A most excellent trip was the outcome.

The following slate was put to nomination by a committee previously appointed by President Tom. The members names were as follows: For President, Robert Neal; Vice-President, Leonard Reifstader; 4 directors, Ned Musser, Norman Graham, Wallace Reindollar and Paul Morelock.

The Shorb Brothers from Silver Spring, Md. will make a personal appearance at the Frisellburg Church of God on Thanksgiving Day morning at 9:30 for the annual service held there. The team will have complete charge of the meeting.

This trio of young men organized for full-time Christian service in October, 1958 and since then have sung at youth and temperance rallies, singing conventions; evangelistic, Sunday School, worship, dedication, and memorial services; banquets, talent shows, funerals, weddings, high school assemblies and Bible Clubs, and over radio and T.V. In these two years since their organization they have made over 500 appearances up and down the East Coast.

A warm welcome is extended to everyone to attend this Thanksgiving Service.

CHRISTMAS SEALS SALES BEGIN

The Fight Against Tuberculosis Continues

Gaily colored Christmas Seals, annual reminders of the Yuletide season's spirit of love and generosity, have become an American tradition, symbolizing the campaign waged by tuberculosis associations in Carroll County and throughout Maryland to defeat a disease which attacks many citizens each year.

This month more than 13 thousand letters containing Christmas Seals will be mailed to homes in Carroll County in the 54th Annual appeal to the public to continue its support of the slowly winning fight against tuberculosis, according to Preston G. Coffman, Chairman of the 1960 Christmas Seal Campaign in Carroll County.

"The American people never have, and never will, let this campaign down as long as TB remains a threat to our homes," Mr. Coffman said.

Great strides have been made in the fight against tuberculosis in recent years but the battle is still far from over. The Christmas Seal has proven of great value in focusing public attention on facts about tuberculosis—its cause, its prevention, and its cure.

"It is estimated that 50 million Americans are infected with TB germs and that about 250,000 Americans have active tuberculosis. That makes it everybody's fight," Mr. Coffman stated.

The annual Christmas Seal Campaign combines simple giving with love and concern for our neighbor. It tempers us to a kinder and more generous mood, and interests us in helping those who are sick and in distress. When we are able to stamp out tuberculosis we will be one step nearer Browning's world where "God's in His heaven, all's right with the world," Mr. Coffman concluded.

High School PTA Meets

The regular monthly meeting of the Taneytown Jr.-Sr. High School P.T.A. was held Monday evening, Nov. 14, in the school auditorium. President John Hottinger presided.

Frank Dunham gave the invocation which was followed by the salute to the flag. A seventh grade chorus sang "Sitting by the Bright Firelight" and "I ain't Gonna Grieve My Love No More." Soloists for the second number were Nina Bell, Dennis Fair, Sylvia Stoner, Carolyn Formwalt, Tommy Baumgardner and Howard Mills. Mrs. Jean Bowers, music instructor, led and accompanied the group. Ralph Minnick, instrumental music teacher at the school, played two trumpet solos, "Trumpet Tune" and "Trumpeter's Lullaby."

The minutes of the October meeting were read by the secretary, Mrs. Kenneth Nushbaum. The treasurer, Mrs. James Fair, reported a balance of $429.83.

Paul Dell, president of the Carroll County P.T.A., was introduced by Mr. Hottinger as the speaker of the evening. Mr. Dell selected for his topic, "What the County Council Does". He explained that this is a coordinative body composed of four delegates from each school. Most of its work is done through committees. By presenting its action as a group, the Council is in a better position to get favorable results than it would be if there were only action by individuals. As an example, Mr. Dell stated that the Council has recommended that speech therapy be made available in the county schools. The organization also makes an effort to affect legislation.

A card party and turkey and oyster supper on Saturday, December 3, have been selected as the major money-making projects of the P.T.A. for this year. The card party will be held in the auditorium at two o'clock, and the supper will be served in the cafeteria from three to eight o'clock. Chairmen for these events are the following: card party, Mrs. Kenneth Shorb; supper, Mrs. Ralph Stoner, Mrs. Gilbert Stine; advertising, Miss Helen Bankard; serving, Mrs. Virginia Sanders; coat check, Key Club.

President Hottinger announced that the P.T.A. membership is now 383.

Following the meeting, refreshments were served in the cafeteria.

Scout Paper Drive Saturday, Nov. 19, in Taneytown and Harney

The regular collection of rags, magazines, and newspapers will be conducted by Boy Scouts of Troop 348, Taneytown, sponsored by Hesson-Snyder Post 120 of the American Legion, on Saturday, November 19, starting at 8:00 a.m., weather permitting. The community of Harney will be included for the first time, and besides Taneytown itself, the roads to Mayberry, Copperville, Crouse's Mill, and Bridgeport, will be covered, as well as the usual rural pick-up list. The secure bundling of papers will be appreciated, although scouts gladly fetch from your cellar or attic if called upon while the drive is in progress.

Scouts also to assist with the scrap drive on Saturday are requested to report promptly by 8:00 a.m. In the event of early and continuing rain, the collection will be postponed to the following Saturday.

"SPICE 'N' EVERYTHING NICE"

With all my heart, I wish you every morning
A smile that shall last until the next day's dawning.
I wish you health—life's greatest wealth;
I wish you always near so that I may help to cheer
Each future day and in some way—help to bring you happiness!

It is ELECTION NIGHT AND THE TIME IS JUST 10 P.M. I have not turned on the Radio or T.V. to hear the "RETURNS" as yet and won't do so until the hour of 11. This Column will be just like "The Candid Camera" all but the pictures as I am going to write about the Campaigning experience I have had. There will be laughs, I am sure and I do hope much interest for I have learned more about Human Nature in these past two months than all of my life put together! I do hope, too that no one will get angry but that you will go along with me and read on and that you really will enjoy it, too.

It was two months ago, after studying the qualifications of each Candidate that although registered a Democrat, I would vote for Nixon with all his wonderful experience and with the brilliant man who was the other side of the team! I then volunteered in the Campaign and much literature was sent to me direct from Washington D. C. from a man by the name of Peter Flaminigan (who must be a real Irishman with a name like that!) The big sheet of the prices of buttons plus the literature was also sent to me and I contributed.

I stood on the corners of the department stores in town and also one day in front of Stewart's on York Road plus twice at Sears-Roebuck. AND THIS IS WHAT HAPPENED! I smiled as I handed each one a piece of literature and I was so proud of the huge button which I bought and which I displayed on my coat. (The picture of Mr. Nixon!) Some of the ladies came up to me and this is what I heard and all so different! "Oh you do think Nixon is going to win? Don't you?" "I am hoping" I quickly replied. Another came to me and said, "If Nixon does not win, I don't feel like remaining in this country!" Another woman after seeing the picture of the two men who could answer all the questions came scowling to me after and crumpled the literature to tiny bits in her hands and stamping her foot at me with a frustrated frown saying, "How could you?" Throwing it at my feet! Another lady with tears in her eyes and much anxiety in her voice said, "Oh, I think I will have a real breakdown if Nixon does not get in! Tell me please just what do you think?" I looked into the saddest eyes I have seen for many a day and I tried to convince her that I thought Nixon would win. She somehow doubted it which I observed immediately by her expression as I had stopped right there to gaze upon her sweet face as she slowly walked away. Only God knew what was in the heart of that little mite of a lady.

A number of women came up to me and told me that they were Catholic women but were not going to vote for Kennedy. I handed them the literature and they walked away. Several other ladies were in back of me overhearing what those women said and they came before me taking the literature displaying huge buttons of Nixon, too and this is what one lady said, "I hope you did not believe that group did you Lady?" I just smiled and

COMES THE DAWN

Despite the razor-thin popular majority of some 300,000 votes out of the 66 million cast, and the subsequent charges of voting irregularities sizeable enough to change the picture in some states if they were substantiated, we expect to see young Mr. Kennedy inaugurated as the 35th President of the United States.

And we applaud the fine sportsmanship of the Vice President in combining his acknowledgement of defeat with congratulations to his opponent and his reminder to the rest of us that the election is over and that we must back the US team. We note, too the generous invitation of President Eisenhower to have his boys coach the replacements on what the score is at this writing.

President-elect Kennedy appears grateful for these considerations - as well he ought to be. But for all the consideration that may be extended to him from any and all quarters, the clock ticks steadily on to the day when he will be on his own and will have to come up with some answers he failed to give in his campaign speeches.

It will soon be necessary, for example, for him to give thought to a method of financing his welfare projects for young and old at home and abroad; of rebuilding the standing of the US among its neighbors and restoring our ability to fill the hearts of potential enemies with terror - all within a balanced budget.

On better acquaintance with his new job, which President Eisenhower has made immediately possible, the President-elect is likely to discover that the US is more highly regarded by the neighbors than he had thought, and definitely more feared by the would-be obstreperous ones.

Even so, there are still his lavish pie-in-the-sky promises to all and sundry and his pledges to labor of still greater freedom to whipsaw and hamstringing the national economy and national defense. On these, the retiring Administration cannot help him. The new President will have to decide for himself how far he can go and what he had best forget. Nor should he presume too much on the backing of a Democratic Congress. Whatever its political makeup, it will not be a rubber-stamp Congress. — U. S. Press Association.

Bright Ideas

BOATING ANYONE? If your answer is "Yes," don't scuttle your savings. You still can buy the boat of your dreams by borrowing the money instead. It's just about as easy to float a boat loan today as it is to borrow money for a new car. Demand for all kinds of pleasure craft—from small outboard to large cruiser—has made this nautical sport a good investment. Thus, more and more banks are now offering special loan plans to would-be boat-owners. And you'll probably find it cheaper to borrow the money yourself—directly from a bank.

SPECIAL NERVE CELLS, located in our upper nostrils, are headquarters for our sense of smell, science tells us. It's also known that odor molecules in the form of solids and gases are carried to these cells and produce chemical reactions we recognize as smells. But something new has been added to our storehouse of scientific knowledge about smell—a recent discovery that different kinds of odors call for different kinds of treatments. And today's home-maker benefits from this finding. The newest in aerosol room fresheners are Wizard's two new formulas—Fresh Breeze, a kitchen deodorizer, designed to kill cooking odors, and Mountain Mist, for bathroom use. Both leave a clean, light fragrance as they wash odors out of the air.

BASEMENTS ARE NO LONGER just places to store away home-made preserves. They add new rooms to the home, and as such, they need their own particular attention. Because they are "submerged," they are often too damp for comfort—personal or property-wise. The answer? A dehumidifier which provides protection against dampness, mildew and rust. A dehumidifier can remove up to 24 pints of water in 24 hours. McGraw-Edison's Coolerator engineers point out some of the benefits derived from an efficient moisture remover in your home: Keeps valuable tools and equipment from rusting. Stops basement walls and pipes from sweating and dripping. Dries clothes faster when hung in the basement. Makes any room dry and livable for only a few pennies a day. Protects expensive furniture from swelling and warping.

COMES THE DAWN

Despite the razor-thin popular majority of some 300,000 votes out of the 66 million cast, and the subsequent charges of voting irregularities sizeable enough to change the picture in some states if they were substantiated, we expect to see young Mr. Kennedy inaugurated as the 35th President of the United States.

And we applaud the fine sportsmanship of the Vice President in combining his acknowledgement of defeat with congratulations to his opponent and his reminder to the rest of us that the election is over and that we must back the US team. We note, too the generous invitation of President Eisenhower to have his boys coach the replacements on what the score is at this writing.

President-elect Kennedy appears grateful for these considerations - as well he ought to be. But for all the consideration that may be extended to him from any and all quarters, the clock ticks steadily on to the day when he will be on his own and will have to come up with some answers he failed to give in his campaign speeches.

It will soon be necessary, for example, for him to give thought to a method of financing his welfare projects for young and old at home and abroad; of rebuilding the standing of the US among its neighbors and restoring our ability to fill the hearts of potential enemies with terror - all within a balanced budget.

On better acquaintance with his new job, which President Eisenhower has made immediately possible, the President-elect is likely to discover that the US is more highly regarded by the neighbors than he had thought, and definitely more feared by the would-be obstreperous ones.

Even so, there are still his lavish pie-in-the-sky promises to all and sundry and his pledges to labor of still greater freedom to whipsaw and hamstringing the national economy and national defense. On these, the retiring Administration cannot help him. The new President will have to decide for himself how far he can go and what he had best forget. Nor should he presume too much on the backing of a Democratic Congress. Whatever its political makeup, it will not be a rubber-stamp Congress. — U. S. Press Association.

J. Harold Musser
J. Harold Musser, Manager since 1955 of Penn's Peaceful Meadow Farm, Mount Joy, Pennsylvania, keeps winter milk production high by adding Alfa-Zyme to his feed.

"This Ration Keeps My Milk Production High All Winter"

"We have twenty-six milkers on our farm in Mount Joy, Pennsylvania. When they're on summer pasture, they produce about 900 pounds of milk a day. Through the winter, we keep their production up to nearly 800 pounds a day with this ration:

1,800 lbs. cob choppings
800 lbs. crimped oats
850 lbs. 32% dairy
175 lbs. molasses
35 lbs. minerals
35 lbs. salt
125 lbs. Alfa-Zyme

Alfa-Zyme gives our cows a good appetite, and helps them digest their corn better.

I would recommend it to anyone."

"Increases Digestion by 15%"

"When I came to work at Stonaire Farm last June, I ran a test on Alfa-Zyme's effectiveness. I gathered samples of manure, added water, and checked the grain settlement. In my estimation, Alfa-Zyme increases digestion by about 15%. It boosts nutrition, cuts down the amount of feed required to finish our high quality steers, and helps get our registered Angus in top shape sooner."

ALFA-ZYME
Works to Produce More Meat and Milk

Fresh growing forage contains millions of live organisms which help cattle convert their food to proteins; helps them build meat and produce milk. But process this same forage into winter feed, and you kill these beneficial digestive organisms.

Alfa-Zyme simply puts these live organisms back into your feed; helps your cattle produce at their best. They will eat 15% more roughage, drink more water, pass less undigested feed, be free of Acetone, and they won't go off feed.

TREVANION

In the dialect of Wales, the word Trevanion suggests a place where two streams meet. So it is with the stately, picturesque, old mansion now located near the junction of Pipe Creek and Meadow Branch streams.

There are many names involved in the history of Trevanion—here we will mention only the most important of these. The first person located in the neighborhood of Trevanion was probably Martin Kitzmiller in 1753. At this time, tracts of land were sold to the people of the government. David Kephart began the present estate by purchasing the tract of land, "No Spring" (208 acres) and "Stony Hill" in 1792. He died the same year. David Kephart, Jr., added "Something" to the estate and began building up the property. The main stay at the time was the brick mills which were known throughout the area. He built the first bridge at the junction of the streams. In 1817, David Kephart, Jr. built the original building to house his growing family. The bricks were from England and the builders or "mechanics" were from Philadelphia. At the time this was probably the best house in the neighborhood. In 1832, Kephart had the land re-surveyed and called it Brick Mills. At his death in 1836, Brick Mills became the property of his son, Geo. Kephart.

George Kephart worked the property and carried on the business well from 1836 until he sold in 1855 to William W. Dallas.

William W. Dallas purchased the land in 1855 and named it Trevanion, a family name, thus a double meaning for the name. Now begins the era of gay life, money-spending and socializing. Dallas' first act was to move the site of the mills from the stream to higher grounds. These worked successfully here for several years. He then built the farm house and several outbuildings. To the main house, he added the lower verandahs, extended the parlor and bay window and added the heavy cornice. Under the loving care of a scotch gardener, grounds became a thing of beauty. In 1857, Mr. Dallas built the gothic building extended the dining room into a kitchen making it 45' long. He added a large kitchen and housekeepers room, 1st floor billiard room and library on the second floor, the third floor he made into sleeping apartments. In 1858 he built the barn and finished the outer buildings.

The Dallas family was a well known one, giving us lawyers, judges, and William's brothers was once vice-president. Many important people were entertained at Trevanion during these years. Then came the Civil War. Mr. Dallas sympathized with the South and took up arms to defend his beliefs. When he returned three years later, the estate was in very neglected condition. Financial conditions were bad and once-loyal employees were now demanding past due wages. Under these unfavorable conditions Mr. Dallas decided to sell Trevanion to Mr. James L. Shultz for an inadequate sum of $36,000 on October 31, 1865.

Mr. Shultz owned the property for two years and finding that no profit was forthcoming without extensive work he sold the property to Charles McFadden, of Philadelphia, for the sum of $40,000 on October 28, 1867.

Charles McFadden was a successful railroad contractor and inventor who operated out of Philadelphia. He fixed Trevanion for his family who moved here for a short while. Finding it too inconvenient to carry on business from afar Mr. McFadden moved his family back to Philadelphia after three years. He hired someone to farm the land and continue the training of horses. Later, his son, John W. came to live at Trevanion and did great work in training the horses. He built the tract, stables, and house across the road to care for the large number of horses. The favorite trainer at this time was George Dericks who was carried to death by his favorite horse. Mr. Dericks was driving back from the train station and as he attempted to cross the bridge, water was so high it swept him, horse and buggy right down the stream. His body was found later at Otter Dam Mill.

In 1889, the house was completely renovated. Hot air furnaces were installed to aid in keeping down dampness, the wood work was repaired, painted and papered. The grounds were kept better to make the place more presentable to the community.

When Mr. Charles McFadden died in approximately 1896, he left 5 million dollars—1 million to each of his five living children. Trevanion became part of the inheritance of his daughter, Adelaide who was living there with her husband, Percival Shriver. When Adelaide died she left the property in trust for her daughter, Percy Adelaide who was one year old at the time. When P. Adelaide became twenty-one she was to do as she wished with Trevanion. Upon receiving the property on October 9, 1930, she sold it to her aunt, Irene McFadden Winder, on October 25, 1930 for the meager sum of $500. Mrs. Winder wanted the property for her daughter Irene McFadden Winder Brodish. Through the years after the death of Adelaide Shriver while the property was in trust and during the ownership of Mrs. Brodish, Trevanion became just an old dilapidated building. The out buildings were falling down, the main house was in need of repair and the grounds were a "sore eye" to the community. In other words, the old place had about seen its best days. The property remained as such until February, 1948.

Dr. Thomas E. Legg, healer of the sick, restorer of the injured, a philanthropist in his own right, and a man of great integrity became interested in Trevanion when it seemed no one was going to take care of the once beautiful land-mark. He thought, "maybe its possible that the place can be partly restored and made an asset to the community". With this idea in mind, Dr. Legg purchased the main house and surrounding buildings from Mrs. Brodish in 1948. The farm was sold. Then began the Age of Restoration.

humor and our sense of the ridiculous we pulled ourselves together and survived until the plumber came Monday and restored everything to normal. All except our self-esteem. It is going to take some little time before we are ever smug again about modern conveniences, and how little they mean to us.

The election is over and we must agree with the Washington reporter when he said that some one should set aside "a lets be friends again week". Even members of the same family were divided on this election. But good common sense will eventually prevail and with the candidates themselves setting such a good example, all of us will bind up our wounds and get to work for the survival of our country. The next few years will either bring out the best or the worst in each of us, but it had better be the best. For like one of our forefathers said "Either we stick together or hang separately."

Anyone with either a bad heart or hypertension should not watch the Colts play football. The game last Sunday was one that even a person with steel nerves would have trouble keeping his heart from pounding. It must have been real tough on the Chicago team. They had the game won until the last minute of play and then Unitas snatched it away. No wonder they call him the greatest gambler in football.

Several elderly church members were being asked to what they attributed their longevity. "And why do you think God has permitted you to reach the age of 95?" one wealthy old lady was asked. Without hesitation she responded: "To test the patience of my relatives."

Thank offering services will be held in the Mt. Union Lutheran Church Sunday Nov. 20, at 7:30 p.m. There will be special music and guest speakers. The public is cordially invited to attend.

All progress is made by men of faith who believe in what is right and what is more important, actually do what is right in their own private affairs.

of course would not get into any discussion.

There was a woman with an expression of hatred with many wrinkles in her face who had been following my little walk around of a few feet square as I handed out the literature. Finally, she edged up to me and I realized she was a fighter with hatred in her heart and I felt sorry for her. "Don't tell me that you are not getting paid for handing out these papers?" I looked at her quickly and said, "No, Madam I am not getting paid and this is just what I received this morning the receipt of the money I sent to Washington to help defray expenses!"

She read the receipt and again with much sarcasm in her voice said, "I'll find out about that one!" I was relieved when she finally walked away for I think I should have walked still farther away if she had not. Much else was said! Then, the following topped it all making me feel better as the different ones held out their hands for the literature. "That's my MAN!" "Me for HIM!" "I don't need anything further to read about him. Here he is displaying a big button of Nixon on their dresses and giving me a great big smile!"

As I stood in line at the Polls, the big button of Nixon was still on my coat which had been there for two months. As I stood there for two three quarters of an hour awaiting to get into the building to cast my vote, a policeman came up to me and smiling sweetly said, real close to my ear, "Please remove the button until you come out for I think you know what I mean!" I smiled and said, "Of course!"

And now I have stopped long enough to turn on the T.V. and by the looks of those numbers I know Kennedy will be our next President! Never have I seen so much advertising switching from Channel 2 to 11 and back again. Those stations must have made a fortune with the Sponsors: "Twin Pack Potato Chips," "Westinghouse," "Gleem," "Koebers Bread," "Muntz T.V.," "Wilkins Instant Coffee," "Wrigley's Spearmint gum," "City Finance," "Weber Moving and Storage Company," "Colgate Tooth Paste," "Tide," "Viceroy," "Uncle Willie's Cigar," "Rolaids for stomach acidity," "Govan's Chevrolet," "Tuna," "Vitals," "Parkers Pen" and much else I cannot remember. But this, I heard of a interest and there is talk of seeking federal subsidization of water treatment. Standing to benefit from the boom are chemical companies and equipment firms. It adds up to a nice piece of business on all sides."

CHLORINATION VERSUS FLUORIDATION

Medical journals have published articles showing the harmful effects of drinking chlorinated water over a long period of time. But chlorine is apparently a necessary evil, if we would nullify the contamination which might result in disease epidemics. Chlor-fluoridators sometimes confuse chlorination with fluoridation, but many physicians are well aware of the difference. For instance.....

"But dental caries is not communicable and is not contagious. It is here that the plausible comparison breaks down and the efforts of public health officials begin to take on a different hue. When they step from the bounds of communicable and contagious disease, they step out of their legitimate, well-recognized field, into the realm of medical therapy, whether preventive or curative, where the rights of individuals are of paramount importance and far transcend the interest of the public.... To consider the addition of fluoride or any other therapeutic substance to a pure public drinking water is immediately to raise the question of the principle of mass medication, with a public water supply merely serving as the vehicle....

"Thus the meat of the problem is not the question of fluoridation, but the newly propounded doctrine of mass medication. Or, perhaps it is more correct to say the doctrine of compulsory mass medication.... Fluoridation endorsement by the American Dental Association is utterly meaningless for the same reason the clergymen are expected to be against sin.... Considerable interesting information on the medication of community water supplies, of which the addition of sodium fluoride is but the current or initial possibility, has come to light since this question was first viewed. If American medicine would do the public a service it should recall immediately any and all endorsements pertinent to fluoridation.... Then it should restudy the entire problem in ALL its ramifications and implications in the light of the evidence now available."

Letter to the Editor

Dear Editor:

I note with some interest Mr. Ned C. Musser's letter to you appearing in the November 10th issue of the "Record."

I gather, by inference, Mr. Musser feels I stepped out of bounds by not sitting passively while the proponents of Fluoridation gave the citizens of Taneytown only one side of the story. In the face of overwhelming evidence that Fluoridation is indeed harmful, I could not, in good conscience, do this. I had to speak out.

He charges me with filling my first article with ambiguities. Ambiguities, my eye: How specific does he want me to be?

As far as our ingestion of oxygen goes, any schoolboy knows oxygen is vital to the sustenance of life. Therefore, I feel we can dismiss further discussion of that point.

I take exception to the assertion that we ingest great quantities of Chlorine. Chlorine is added to water as a gas. Much of it escapes when the water is drawn from the tap, and all of it is expelled when the water is heated. Fluorine remains in water which is heated, hence, the water boils away, the fluorine becomes more concentrated.

Mr. Musser suggests we accept the endorsement of the ADA and the AMA blindly. I accept nothing blindly. I demand to know all the facts and it is my birthright, as it is everyone else's, in this great country of ours, to receive them.

At this point I would like to quote Dr. Benjamin Nesin, director of laboratories for the New York City Department of Water Supply, Gas and Electricity, at a meeting of the American Water Works Association on April 22, 1956, who spoke sharply against water fluoridation.

Said Dr. Nesin, "Never in the history of water supply has a substance so toxic in nature, with such high degree of physiological potency and associated with so much adverse evidence affecting the public health, been considered seriously for introduction into the water supply." "Fluoridation of the public water supply," he went on, "would inevitably increase the average individual's intake of fluoride threefold or greater. Such increased rate of intake dynamically places large sections of population within range of health hazards associated with fluoride. 'It would be hazardous to assume that fluoride is physiologically inert except for its action on the teeth. The possible avenues of fluoride involvement are tortuous, insidious and subtle, and at the present defy understanding. The situation is further complicated by unknowns related to the varying susceptibility of individuals. 'We cannot ignore the possibility of discovering some connection between fluoride and many vaguely understood, present-day pathological conditions.'"

In conclusion, may I say that I do not need Mr. Musser to apprise me of my responsibility, as an elected official, to the citizens of Taneytown. I am fully cognizant thereof. I was not speaking in my official position as a councilman, however, I would be remiss indeed, as a councilman, if I did not take steps to insure that the citizens of Taneytown hear both sides of this controversial matter.

Moreover, being fully informed, they can, and I am sure they will, weigh the facts. I have every confidence that common sense will prevail in this instance.

Autumn Treat

October, which often starts with warm Indian-summer days and always ends with Halloween parties, is an appropriate month for frozen desserts . . . and here's a new idea among desserts to be made ahead of time.

Combine those popular flavors—orange and coconut—in a delicious ice cream. Using those always-available items, frozen orange juice concentrate, canned evaporated milk and angel flake coconut, you can whip up a wonderful and inexpensive dessert without much forethought or special shopping.

As a party touch, serve this flavorsome homemade ice cream in orange shells, and top with toasted coconut. You'll be proud to serve it on all entertaining occasions.

Orange Coconut Ice Cream
1 envelope (1 tablespoon) 2/3 cup sugar
gelatin Dash of salt
1/2 cup water 1 cup whipping cream
1/2 cup evaporated milk 1 cup Angel Flake Coconut
1 can (6 ounces) quick-frozen concentrated orange juice

Mix gelatin and 1/4 cup of the water in bowl. Heat evaporated milk with remaining 1/4 cup water. Add to gelatin mixture; stir until gelatin is dissolved. Then add concentrated orange juice, sugar, and salt; mix well. Pour into freezing tray of refrigerator and set control for coldest temperature. Freeze 3/4 hour, or until mixture is frozen about 1/2 inch around edge.

Spoon mixture into bowl and beat with beater until light and fluffy. Whip cream and fold into orange mixture. Return to tray and freeze 1/2 hour longer. Beat again with beater until smooth but not melted. Fold in coconut. Freeze until firm. Freezing time: about 3 hours. Makes about 1-1/4 quarts. Serve in orange shells garnished with toasted flaked coconut, if desired.

The object of this suit is to procure a divorce a vinculo matrimonii by the Plaintiff, James J. Garver, from the Defendant, Pearl M. Garver his wife. The Bill states that the parties were married on the 3rd day of September, 1945, by the Reverend Elwood S. Falkenstein, a Minister of the Gospel, at Westminster, Carroll County, Maryland, and they thereafter lived together until the month of December, 1956, that the Plaintiff and Defendant have for more than three consecutive years prior to the filing of the Bill of Complaint, voluntarily lived separate and apart without any cohabitation, and such separation is deliberate and final and is beyond any reasonable expectation of a reconciliation; that two children have been born to the parties as a result of said marriage, namely, Jimmie Lee Garver, aged nine years, and David Eugene Garver aged three years, both of which children are in the custody of Mrs. Grace Harris residing along Stone Road near Mt. Pleasant, Carroll County, Maryland; that the Plaintiff is a resident of Carroll County, State of Maryland, and has been such for more than one year prior to the filing of this Bill of Complaint but that the Defendant is a non-resident of the State of Maryland and when last heard from was residing at 1814 Silver Star Road, Orlando, Florida.

It is thereupon this 31st day of October, 1960, ORDERED by the Circuit Court for Carroll County, in Equity, that the Plaintiff, by causing a copy of this Order to be inserted in some newspaper published in Carroll County, Maryland once a week for four successive weeks before the 5th day of December, 1960, giving notice to the said absent defendant of the object and substance of this Bill, warning her to appear in this Court, in person or by Solicitor on or before the 21st day of December, next, and file a plea answer or other defense within fifteen days thereafter, showing cause, if any she have why a decree ought not to be passed as prayed.

Clerk of the Circuit Court for Carroll County.

Soap Safe For People With Skin Rashes

People undergoing treatment for four major types of dermatitis need no longer change their personal pure soap usage habits, according to an article published recently in the Journal of the American Medical Association. The use of pure soap has been shown to have no adverse effect on either the rash or its treatment.

This conclusion was reached by five Cleveland physicians after a clinical study of more than 250 persons proved that the use of Ivory Soap for washing and bathing did not adversely affect the response of the skin diseases to treatment.

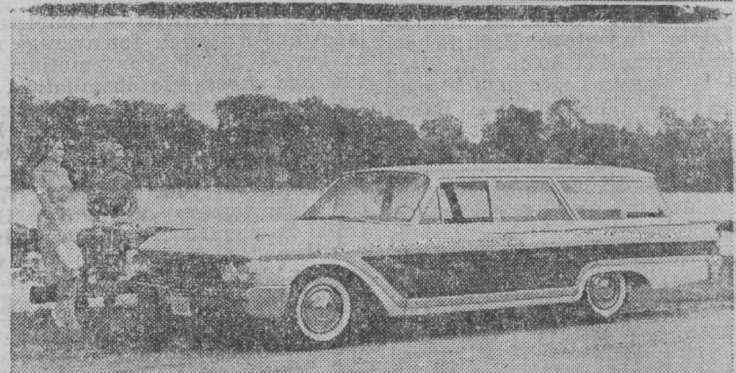

Previously, it was felt that the use of soap might hinder the curing of skin rashes. Many patients were advised to change their routine cleansing habits radically while undergoing treatment.

This made for some difficulty since "soapless" personal cleaning methods were unacceptable to many patients, and they were reluctant to follow the prescribed treatment to the letter.

The results of the study, therefore, become "of practical advantage in permitting the use of soap in the management of patients with eczema without fear of adversely influencing the course of the disease," according to the article.

The article was written by Doctors Richard B. Stoughton, Lew W. Potts, William Clendenning, Stuart Fisher, and Morton Kress — all of the section of dermatology, University Hospital, Cleveland, where the study was conducted.

The 1961 Ford Galaxie Club Victoria (top), a new model in the Ford line that will be introduced to the public on September 29, features the crisp, fresh appearance that earned a gold medal from an international fashion authority for "functional expression of classic beauty." Ford's station wagon series includes the nine-passenger Country Squire (bottom) and introduces another new model—a six-passenger version of the Country Squire. The new Ford station wagons have a roll-down tailgate window, and the tailgate itself is seven inches wider than in 1960. All 1961 Fords feature new dimensions for greater maneuverability and such major engineering improvements as 30,000-mile lubrication, heavier, self-adjusting brakes, and longer-lasting bright trim and underbody parts.

We Give Thanks

Lesson for November 20, 1960

"THANKSGIVING will never be as commercialized as Christmas," some one remarked, "because no presents are given at Thanksgiving. Stores can sell Christmas gifts, but they can't sell gratitude!"

Well... is this true? No presents at Thanksgiving?

On the contrary, when this holiday is truly celebrated, it is precisely because of the avalanche of gifts. Only these are not gifts that can be bought in a store, they are not gifts to which any price tag can be attached. They are God's gifts, and Thanksgiving is the day when we stop to think about him and thank him. Or do we?

Dr. Foreman

Who Give Thanks

You don't always feel very deeply grateful for something you have earned by hard work. You may be very glad you got whatever it was. You may be highly satisfied by getting it. But if thanks are due, they may be more in the way of self-congratulations than anything else. You are most in the mood for thanks when you know very well that you did not and perhaps could not have produced whatever it is for which you are thankful. We who give thanks to God—whether every morning or every Sunday or on such special occasions as our national Thanksgiving holiday—are his beneficiaries. There is no possible way of repaying God for his blessings.

It is quite true that there are some blessings in life which we do not have unless we work for them. For example, the respect of the community where we live is a real blessing; but without genuine effort on a man's part, other people will never respect him. Health is an incalculable asset; but health never perches over a man's door if the man persists in doing all the things that ruin health. Health is earned, respect is earned, in a way but nevertheless, in both these cases, and others the reader can think of, one can demand neither respect nor health. There is no "delivering" so much honor or respectability, in barter for the respect. There is no precise set of rules for the keeping of which one will always be as bouncy as a sixteen-year-old. Some people keep health rules all their lives but are dogged by illness. Others live honorably, yet are repudiated by their own neighbors. (Jesus suffered that tragedy.)

Whom Do We Thank?

There are other blessings which more evidently come from God. They were, so to speak, woven in with the world at creation. The succession of the seasons, the beauty of the skies, the marvel of life itself, this body so cramped with miracles, this spirit that can soar out of time and space; for all these we thank God because there is no other Creator. Yet there are also blessings that come to us through friends, parents, brothers and sisters—yes, even through our enemies. Here we can give double thanks. First we can thank those who brought these blessings to us—friends, relatives, strangers—and also we can thank God. For if you sit down at a quiet time and ask yourself about any particular blessing, let us say the trust of a little child whom you know—ask yourself, where did this come from, in the long run?

For What Are We Thankful?

We give thanks to God for the great mercies, for sparing our lives from destruction, for the forgiveness of sins (the greatest single blessing we can have) and for the "hope of glory." But in the brightness of these great mercies we may overlook the smaller gifts from His hands, those lesser mercies without which the greater could not be. Easiest of all to overlook are those blessings which come disguised. In a time of deep suffering one may not see what God has in mind—one may be tempted even to feel that God has forgotten and does not care. But in time—in God's time—we can look back and see our pain in perspective. And then we may gratefully see that not only did God permit it, he sent it, for reasons even we shall see.

"Thank you for employing such wonderful people"

The above words, which we value highly, are in a letter received from a young college coed. The letter goes on to say that she lost her wallet while running an errand for her family. She rushed back to the store, looked everywhere, but had no luck in finding it. Finally, sure that she would never get the wallet back, she started home feeling pretty down in the dumps.

But at almost that very minute the doorbell rang at her house and a voice said "Excuse me, I think this wallet I found belongs to someone who lives here." The voice belonged to a C & P installer, and the result was a greatly relieved young lady.

In itself this is a small thing—what any good neighbor would do. And we're glad the desire to be of help is so natural with telephone people. Whether it's a service representative taking a real interest in your problem, an operator making an extra effort, or an installer returning a lost wallet—the spirit of service is the same.
