HIGHWAY PROJECTS IN CARROLL COUNTY

Plans for Route 97 from Roop's Mill to Big Pipe Creek Park

The State Roads Commission of Maryland has tentatively programmed advertising of approximately 250 miles of highway work in the next eighteen months, John B. Funk, Chairman-Director of the Commission announced today.

The work scheduled involves the use of approximately $115,000,000. The Chairman-Director said.

Appearing on the tentative program is work on interstate, primary and secondary highways.

Most of the program involves projects on the so-called "Go" system of roads, the network of primary highways and expressways scheduled for completion between now and 1965.

This speedup in primary highways was made possible by revisions in the Commission's Twelve-Year Program. The revisions were approved by the 1960 session of the Maryland General Assembly.

The tentative program of advertising between now and June 30, 1962 is for project with approximate advertising date:

Maryland Route 97, 7 miles from Roop's Mill to Big Pipe Creek (Carroll County) April, 1962

U. S. Route 40, Frederick toward Hagerstown (Frederick County) December, 1960

Maryland Route 75, Northernly for 2 miles from Newmarket (Frederick County) March, 1961

U. S. Route 15, 5 miles from Thurmont to Lewistown (Frederick County) March, 1961

John B. Funk, Chairman-Director of the Maryland State Roads Commission, announced today that bids have been asked for a bridge project on the Sykesville By-Pass.

The three-span structure will carry Maryland Route 32 over River Road, the south branch of the Patapsco River and the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad.

Bids will be opened December 20, 1960, Mr. Funk said.

Change in Social Security Law

An important change in the law reduces by about one-third the length of time a person has to work under social security to become insured for the payment of benefits to himself and his family.

Some 400,000 people will become immediately eligible for cash benefits because of this change in the law, including many wives, widows and dependent husbands and widows already at or beyond retirement age. First payments to newly eligible persons reaching retirement age (65 for men, 62 for women) this year need only about 3 years of work under social security instead of the 4 1/2 to 5 years required by the old law. If you reach retirement age any time next year, you will need to have worked under social security for only 3 1/2 years instead of the 5 to 5 1/2 years required before the change in the law. There is, however, a minimum requirement of a year and a half of work under social security — without which no benefits can become payable.

In terms of future eligibility, the reduction in the amount of work required means that many more wage earners and their survivors will be able to qualify for social security benefits when they reach retirement age.

Widows as well as workers now at or over retirement age, who have been told in the past that they were not eligible for payments for lack of work under social security should visit our office at their earliest convenience, to inquire about their rights.

Pleasant Valley Boys' 4-H Club has extended an invitation to the club to attend its Christmas party on December 16 from 8-11 p.m. at Baust Church.

The meeting was adjourned and a demonstration was presented on Making a Cover for a Dresser Table by Sonia Hottinger and Faye Martin.

Mayor and City Council Meet

The regular monthly meeting of the Mayor and City Council was held on Monday, December 5, at 7:30 p. m., in the Council room.

The Treasurer's report was as follows: Receipts $37,248.09; Expenditures $2,781.85; Balance $42,566.24. Parking Meter Fund Balance, $2,873.90.

Dr. Donald Fisher, Carroll County Health Officer, and Mr. Charles Kenney, Chief of Sanitation Division, Carroll County, appeared before the Council at the request of the local Jaycees Committee on Governmental Affairs. They had been requested to explain Fluoridation to the Council.

Dr. Fisher emphasized at the outset that he was not there to sell Fluoridation to Taneytown but simply to explain it to the best of his ability. In other words, his was a semi-neutral stand. A brisk and lengthy question and answer period followed Dr. Fisher's presentation. Mr. Kenney answered several questions on the engineering aspects of Fluoridation. No action was taken by the Council on Fluoridation.

Normal routine business was taken care of such as the giving of authorization to pay current bills, etc.

It was decided to give the parking meter receipts from December 19th through January 2nd to the local Boy Scout Troop this year. The receipts for a like period last year were given to the Girl Scouts.

The next regular Council meeting will be held on the first Monday, January 2nd even though it is a legal holiday.

I Remember Christmas

The Christmas Tree

The day before Christmas, just after dinner - that would be noon in those days - my father would bring in the tree and set it up. Of course, the tree had been delivered some time before. It was set up at the back of the house in a corner by the shed. And every day, we would go out and look at it and speculate about what kind of Christmas tree it would make.

It was always a big tree. The ceiling in the sitting room was about twelve feet high and the tree must always reach to the ceiling. Usually the tree was too big and so it was cut off at the top and sometimes at the bottom.

Sometimes there would be a "hollow" place. So my father would select an extra branch, drill a hole in the trunk and insert the branch. After the tree was trimmed no one would even guess that surgery had taken place.

After supper on Christmas eve, the youngsters of us were hustled off to bed so that Santa would have plenty of time to trim the tree.

As soon as we could, on Christmas morning, we would hurry down to see what Santa had done. And sure enough, he never missed, and every year we thought surely the tree was more beautiful than ever before.

One of the first things we would do was to look for various ornaments. There was the angel who was always way up in the top. Then there were small ornaments shaped like Santa Claus, about six or eight of them. Yes, they were all there; none had gotten broken. There were other ornaments to be checked in the same way.

There were also yards and yards of small balls on strings and which were draped back and forth across the tree. One of the special trimmings was the pop corn which was put on pins and stuck on the ends of the branches. (There were no electric lights or icicles in those days.) One of the strange things was that following Christmas the pop corn gradually disappeared from the lower branches. How did it happen? I am afraid some of the boys pleaded the fifth amendment!

On New Year's Day, the tree came down. The ornaments were stored away for another year. There were five boxes of them, the kind of boxes that were used in the stores for crackers and cookies, boxes that held meat in a bushel.

The Christmas tree was surely quite an institution at our house; almost a ritual.

Yes, I remember Christmas and I guess I would say that the Christmas tree was an important item in lasting impressions.

I hope you have a nice tree and a pretty one and that you enjoy it. I hope also that all the children will appreciate their tree.

The ladies of the Sewing Circle and their guests enjoyed a Christmas dinner party at Taney Inn on Tuesday evening, with Mrs. Clyde Hesson as the hostess.

The following conclusions, published February 1960, are taken from the Current Status of the Fluoridation Discussion—a report based on the proceedings of the third Medical-Dental Conference on Evaluation of Fluoridation held on March 7, 1959 in New York City:

1. Fluoridation is on a downward trend in this country. Not only are fewer cities adopting fluoridation programs, but many which have them are dropping them. The advocates of fluoridation blame this situation on a "militant minority" but the facts belie this. That fluoridation does not enjoy popular approval is demonstrated by the fact that it is defeated in a majority of referendums when the issue is placed before the public. It is now impossible not to acknowledge the rise of criticism against fluoridation in medical and allied scientific circles. During the years since the initial promotion of fluoridation the public has had to fight for a full presentation of the pros and cons, and great numbers of people have become aware of the stubborn inconsistencies between the claims made for fluoridation and the facts. Impressive pronouncements by the

WITH THE ARMED FORCES

SANDHOFEN, GERMANY (AHTNC)—Specialist Four Wayne M. Bowers, whose wife, Elizabeth, lives in Keymer, Md., recently re-enlisted for six years in the Regular Army while serving with the 8th Infantry Division in Germany.

A mechanic in Combat Support Company of the division's 18th Infantry in Sandhofen, Specialist Bowers entered the Army in 1956 and arrived overseas in February 1958 on this tour of duty.

The 22-year-old soldier, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond E. Bowers, Route 2, Taneytown, attended Taneytown High School.

"SPICE 'N' EVERYTHING NICE"

With all my heart, I wish you every morning
A smile that shall last until the next day's dawning.
I wish you health—life's greatest wealth;
I wish you always near so that I may help to cheer
Each future day and in some way—help to bring you happiness!

The phone bell rang and a sweet voice said "Mrs. Love?" "Yes!" Said I. "This is a tape recording. Will you hold on a minute please!" Then a masculine voice said, "This is Kirby and if you will call back this following number you will be presented with a wonderful Sheffield Carving-set!" I called the number given and a gentleman answered explaining that he would bring the gift to my home just to convince me of "KIRBY!" I made the engagement for an appointed time which was convenient to me. The hour arrived and in walked two very fine men with "Kirby" and the lovely gift. I must admit that I was curious to find out about Kirby as frankly I have never heard of it. Yet it has been on the market for a number of years in fact to be exact over 50 years but it has been so improved and advanced in all detail that it is tops on the market. The husband of any household will be as interested as the wife. First of all years ago, Mr. Kirby, the inventor made this machine in a little garage or building in back of his home and then went from door to door demonstrating it to the lady of the house. The first one that was sold meant another to be made one at a time by Mr. Kirby until two other gentlemen were interested. George Scott and Fetzter at 1920 W. 120 Street in Cleveland, Ohio. There are six branches in Baltimore and they expect to open six more this coming year! It was sold mainly in the West and kept coming Eastward with the sales gradually until it was built up to the highest pitch. It is truly a "SERVANT" in the house!

It cleans rugs, cleans silver, shampoos the furniture and rugs, is a massager for your body, sharpens knives, waxes floors and polishes them and much more.

So if you desire to purchase any vacuum or trade in your old one by all means have this young man come to your home as they go any place in Md. and Pa. and bringing you the gift which is the only way they advertise!

Mr. Lowell Thomas wrote a book on it which he called, "Revolutionizes The American Home!" This would be a grand Christmas gift in fact to each other. A very old chair was cleaned in my home as I stood and really gasped in wonderment! It is precision built to every detail and no wife or husband after seeing this demonstrated would settle for anything else. Just look in your phone book for there are places in every direction and ask the man to call with one and that way you could have several of the neighbors in at the same time. It really made me think of the program the other night of 1980 Garry Moore as Narrator. T. V.—C.B.S.

It will save your clothing by having the spray of a seconds in any closet. It is guaranteed for a lifetime! An old butcher knife was sharpened and it is now like new! No wonder all the other makes of Vacuum Cleaners are selling their products so low for they cannot compete with "Kirby!"

Next week, folks will write of "The Sagittarius Sign"—those December people from November the 20 to December 20. Don't miss it! Have a grand week end. Until next week D. V.

I Voted to Close The Church

Last Sunday I voted to close the Church - not intentionally, not maliciously - but carelessly, thoughtlessly, lazily, indifferently, I voted. I voted to close its doors that its testimony might be stopped. I voted to close the open Bible on its pulpit, the Bible that had been given us by years of struggle and by the blood of martyrs who died that we might have it to read! For, you see, I could have gone and I should have gone, but I didn't! I stayed away from Church last Sunday!

FACTS AND OPINIONS

According to the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, total costs of the federal highway program were first estimated at about $27.5 billion. Most recent estimates have upped this by almost $13 billion, to $40 billion. New January forecasts could further increase the bill.

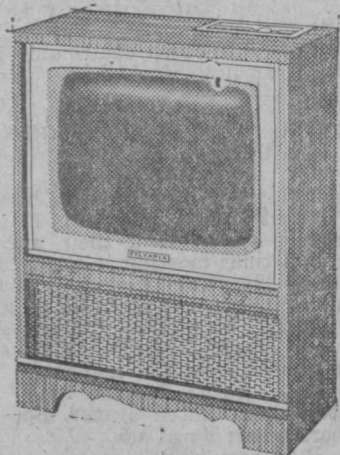

During the 1950's petroleum demand in the United States increased by 69 percent. Petroleum now provides more than 72 per cent of the nation's motive and mechanical power.

Dr. Bela writes in the Saturday Evening Post: "Few people know that in the Soviet Union under Nikita Khrushchev Jews must carry passes with the word 'Yevrei' (Jew) stamped on them, a serious handicap in employment and in other respects. Khrushchev has a long-standing record of anti-Semitism. When after the Nazi withdrawal in 1944, Khrushchev became the Prime Minister of the Ukraine and the First Secretary of the Ukrainian Communist Party, his rule was marked by anti-Semitic incidents."

Class 1 railroads pay about $400 million a year in taxes to state and local governments, according to the Association of American Railroads. This total is 27 times the amount of such taxes paid by Class 1 intercity truckers, 63 times that paid by intercity buses, 80 times that paid by domestic airlines, 400 times that paid by regulated water carriers.

In March, the Bureau of the Census reports, there were about 52,610,000 households in the United States, of which 75 per cent were husband-wife households.

From the Reporter: "The Atlantic Alliance must be rebuilt the West must stick together. Otherwise the western nations can just as well, one by one, drift away from the United Nations and let Khrushchev run the show."

A VOICE FROM CARROLL

So many of us, despite our many advantages, have developed to a great degree the capacity for being sorry for ourselves. We are forever alert to find cause for personal grievance in the working of our social, economic or political systems. The small things and the great things are alike in provoking our tale of woe. We dwell too much on the difficulties and dangers, the tensions and trials of modern living. How dangerous and damaging such thinking may be is found in the words of Seneca. "In thoughts of self-commiseration," he declares, "a man will discover no advantage but will rather incline towards deterioration and softening of himself, and with this there will come upon him a growing indifference to his fellow men."

In essence, the basis of self-pity is selfishness. People who are sorry for themselves can never be truly sorry for others. Once, we were in a hospital room when the doctor told the husband of a critically ill patient that his wife was dying of a brain tumor. She was already in a coma. How shocked we were when the man said: "When she is gone, what is going to happen to me?"

How many people we know whose conversation is filled with "I and me." No individual can reach full maturity until they cease to revile and complain. Each one of us must learn to make a virtue out of adversity. There is no tragedy that can happen to us that we can't turn to our advantage. We see this proven every day, but it does take courage. Read about the lives of most of our great men and women and we find that they became great only after they had suffered defeat or survived a personal tragedy. Sometimes we think that the emotional illness of our children, of which there are over a million is brought on by parents constantly complaining about something. This in itself is enough to fill the minds of our young people with doubts about their own capacity to face the world with all its problems. If we are to raise a generation of confident sons and daughters than we must show them that we as adults find the world a pleasant place and what problems exist can be overcome with courage and good humor.

Driving to town one morning, a farmer and his wife passed a pond. The wife conscious of their frequent quarrels and fights, said, "Pa, look over yonder at that goose and gander gliding along the water so nice and peaceable. Wouldn't it be wonderful if people could live so peacefully?" Long-married Pa drove on in silence. Just before sunset, the couple passed the same pond on their way home. There, silhouetted by the setting sun, were a goose and a gander gliding along the water. "Pa," said his wife, "look at the goose and gander still real peaceable. Wouldn't it be wonderful if people could live like that?" "Ma," said the farmer, "if you look a little closer, you'll notice that ain't the same gander!"

The French Club of Western Maryland College will present the annual Christmas program in McDaniel Lounge at 8 p.m. next Monday. Miss Margaret Snader, of the modern language department, is club sponsor. Among the soloists for the program will be Miss Joanne Hesson and Miss Nancy Roelke. The Christmas story from the French Bible will be read by Miss Ann Weller and Miss Constance Shankle.

Members of the Mt. Union Lutheran Missionary Society held their annual Christmas party Monday evening, Dec. 5, in the parish house. Carols were sung and a playlet was given by Mrs. Russell Bohn, Mrs. Emmert Miller, Mrs. Cleon Wolfe and Mrs. Ruth Bair. Gifts were distributed by Mrs. Paul Crouse. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Paul Leister and Mrs. Scott Crabbs.

The saddest and also the most frightening thing we have ever seen on television were the screaming mothers of New Orleans trying to prevent integration of the public schools. We cannot think of anything that could be more destructive to a young mind than a child seeing his mother with her face distorted with screaming insults to those parents who value education more than personal prejudice. There are ways to voice disagreement, but not through mob violence and mistreatment of those with whom we disagree. What a sorry sight for the enemies of our country to see and be able to say: "Look at the United States, where they preach democracy, but deny a segment of their citizens democratic principles."

We wish to pay tribute to one of Carroll County's most distinguished citizens who will celebrate his eightieth birthday Sunday. We refer to Dr. Thomas H. Legg of Union Bridge. It is always a privilege to honor a person of the medical profession who day in and day out endeavors to live up to the highest tradition of medicine in the art of service to the public. In the thirty years that we have known Dr. Legg "service" has been his trademark. Not only service to the public in medicine, but in education, community projects and politics. Union Bridge, his home town, has felt the impact of his kindness and generosity in many ways. His interest has kept the town alert to its own needs and sometimes his prodding made the citizens more aware of their own responsibilities as citizens. His beloved Trevanion he shares with the public and his interest in politics leaves no doubt in the minds of politicians in Annapolis just where Union Bridge is situated in Maryland. Like everyone else Dr. Legg can become very angry with injustice and disloyalty, but he overlooks and forgives the petty shortcomings of his fellowmen. Service is such a sweet word when one can look back over eighty years and know that for most of them it was the trademark of one's own life. To Dr. Legg, we offer our public congratulations on his birthday and only fate be kind to you and grant you many more.

President Eisenhower set a new precedent today when he welcomed President-elect Kennedy with pomp, dignity and friendliness to the White House. It gave notice to the rest of the world that though we Americans play very rough during an election, once it is over, we pretend that nothing nasty was said and if it was, we didn't mean it. Of course the rest of the world thinks we are a little crazy, but that's America!

If you must cry over spilled milk... please condense it.

White Gift Service & ULCW Meeting

The ULCW began their meeting Monday evening by singing "Love Came Down at Christmas". The scripture lesson 1 John 4:9-12 was read by Mrs. Marion Austin. She also read the fourth stanza of "O, Little Town of Bethlehem" for the prayer hymn.

The topic for discussion was "How to Make Christmas Music" and the leaders were Mrs. Hazel Cluts and Mrs. Marion Austin. The introduction of the topic was given by Mrs. Austin. The setting for the program was a meeting of a committee of church women planning what their church organization might do to share at Christmas in social mission. Those taking part in the committee were: Mrs. Kathryn Stine, Mrs. Elizabeth Myers and Mrs. Hazel Cluts and Mrs. Mildred Stine as "Opportunity neglected". A discussion period was conducted by the chair lady of the Christmas Service Committee, Mrs. Ellen Kiser.

We were most happy to have a trio from the Francis Scott Key High School sing "Twas the Night Before Christmas" sung by Miss Susan Crumacker, Yvette Hull and Susan Young accompanied by Miss Mathias. Mrs. Elizabeth Shoemaker had charge of the special and the number was greatly appreciated. The closing song was "The Happy Christmas Comes Once More". The offering was received by Mrs. Mary Devilliss and Mrs. Rachael Bostian and consecrated by Mrs. Hazel Cluts. This was followed by the Lord's Prayer and the Benediction. Miss Vallie Shorb was pianist for the meeting.

The White Gift Service followed the regular meeting. The auditorium was decorated in white which made an impressive setting. White mums were in the altar vases, also white candle holders and candles. Mrs. Valde Baumgardner and Mrs. Clara Clabaugh were the acolytes. The gifts were sent to Rocky Boy for the Indians. Mrs. Mabel Keeney was an angel who stood back of Mrs. Rachael Bostian who was dressed in an Indian suit made by an Indian.

The scripture lesson was read by Mrs. Virgie Ohler and prayer offered by Mrs. Clara Clabaugh. Mrs. Anna Clabaugh sang "O, Holy Night" accompanied at the organ by Mrs. Ellen Kiser. A reading "The Cobbler and His Guest" was given by Mrs. Helen Dougherty. Following the presentation of gifts to the altar every one wended their way to the social room where tables laden with cookies, candy and punch awaited them. The hostesses were Mrs. Mae Baumgardner, Mrs. Kathryn Coshun, Mrs. Mary Ausherman and Mrs. Elizabeth Myers. The tables were set in form of the letter U with red table clothes, candles and Christmas decoration. A cake baked the shape of a house and led with candy attracted much attention. It was made by Mrs. Kathryn Coshun. A cake was given to Mrs. Mary Devilliss, one to Mrs. Dahlys Fleharty and a basket of cookies to Mrs. Hazel Cluts. All visitors were most welcome. Come again and again.

Taneytown Jaycee Tree Sale to Begin this Week

The Taneytown Jaycees will begin selling Christmas trees this Saturday and Sunday, Dec. 10 and 11. This annual sale helps to raise money for their Christmas lighting contest, to contribute toward the improvement of the Christmas street lighting in town, and for other community projects.

The main lot will be located this year at Dunn's new Cities Service Gas Station, East Baltimore St., and will be manned by Jaycees each evening Dec. 10 thru 22nd, as well as Saturdays and Sundays. For the convenience of the public, trees will also be available at Bair's Market, East Baltimore St. extd., and Dougherty's Superette in the square.

For the first time since they have been conducting a tree sale, hundreds of perfectly beautiful sheared, nursery-grown trees will be transported by the Jaycees from Indiana County, Pennsylvania, the "Christmas Tree Capital of the World". It seems that the climate and soil in this particular area produces some of the greenest, fullest trees found anywhere. The tree committee also reports that they feel very fortunate in having a former resident of Taneytown now in the business there.

The committee in charge of this project are: Herbert Bowers, Ch. Robert Bowers, James Fair, Robert Flickinger, and every Jaycee to turn out Sunday afternoon to assist in cutting, unloading, and displaying trees.

A tea will be served to the faculty on Tuesday, December 20.

On Wednesday, December 21, each class will observe its annual Christmas party.

Schools will close on Thursday, Dec. 22 for the Christmas holidays and will reopen on Tuesday Jan. 3. There will be no Highlights during this time.

All students are invited to participate showing their various talents in the Talent Show on Friday, December 9 sponsored by the Student Council. The show will be held in the auditorium during activity period.

The second grading period at Taneytown High ended on November 30. Report cards will be distributed to the students on Thursday, Dec. 8. Parents are asked to review the reports, sign the cards, and see that each child returns the card to the school as soon as possible.

The clubs featured this week are the BOYS ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION, LEATHERCRAFT, ALPHA SIGMA RHO, JUNIOR HIGH GIRLS' CHORUS, and the RHYTHMAIRES CLUB.

The President of the BOYS ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION is Mike Wildasin. Dwight Copenhaver is Vice-pres. Jerry Tracey is secretary, and Wayne Hively is treasurer. The aims of the club are to help plan the physical education program, to help raise money for the physical department, and to engage in activities not in the regular physical education program but in which the boys are interested. The sponsor is Mr. Decker, the Physical Education teacher.

The LEATHERCRAFT club's purpose is to obtain some knowledge of the production of leathers and how to use them in the making of projects. The club's sponsor is Mr. Weigle. The officers are Robert Frearm, pres.; Byron Baer, vice-pres.; Paul Sittely, sec.-treas.

The ALPH SIGMA RHO, Senior High Science Club's sponsor is Mrs. Davis. The purpose of the club is to broaden the intellects and to create an awareness of the need for science. The officers are pres., Theron Claiborn; vice-pres., Carl Ebaugh; sec., Betty Waddell; cor.-sec., Valerie Nussbaum; treas., Kenneth Gilds; and reporter, John Rinehart.

The JUNIOR HIGH GIRLS' CHORUS has its aims to help girls become more familiar with girls' and women's music. Mrs. Jean Bowers, the vocal teacher, sponsors the club. The officers are pres., Audrey Wilhide; vice-pres., Diane Null; and reporter, Nancy Wegner.

The pres. of the RHYTHMAIRES CLUB is Linda Bowers; vice-pres., Elaine Bowers; sec.-treas., Francis Shoemaker; and reporter, Charlene Schildt. The aims of the club are four: To develop better rhythm in typing, to develop more speed and accuracy, to develop better proof-readers, and to have fun with typing. Mrs. Myers is sponsor of the club.

The English program in Taneytown High School is the program which emphasizes communication—the means by which children and youth receive ideas by listening and reading and express ideas by speaking and writing. Children have had six years of language experience before they enter school, plus six more years in the elementary school before reaching the high school. They have developed some skills in listening and have made use of oral language to satisfy physical, social, and emotional needs. The growth each child has made in vocabulary, pronunciation, usage habits, and confidence in expressing himself orally has been controlled largely by his home environment, along with the basic skills started in the elementary grades. The high school builds upon the abilities each child has and helps him to learn to use his language in acceptable and satisfying ways.

Each pupil needs to gain skill and to have rich experiences in all the language arts. Listening can be a way of learning or a personal delight; reading serves practical purposes in living and also extends experience, builds personal values, and gives sheer enjoyment; speaking permits inquiry, the sharing of information, and the expression of ideas and feelings; writing allows for organization of ideas and experiences and, for many, gives an outlet for feelings, thus becoming an instrument of self-discovery. Learning to use all facets of our language should be a thrilling experience for children and youth.

When evaluating the total English program in the school, careful consideration should be given to the interests, needs, and experiences of children. Because language is an integral part of all other subjects in the curriculum, it may require direct teaching of specific skills in a setting where the need arises. Concepts are developed gradually and consistently. Continuity of growth and provision of experiences best suited for each individual's development are given consideration, and knowledge of child growth and development is applied to the making of a workable program.

The basic guides for the English program provide enough flexibility to meet the specific needs of individual pupils, and language skills are facilitated in stimulating and encouraging situations. Moreover, the program draws its content from both school and out-of-school experiences. The purposes for listening, speaking, reading, and writing are essentially growth in the power of communication. In reality, the facets of the English program—listening, speaking, reading, and writing—are so closely interrelated that facility in one facet actually promotes facility in the others.

authorities have failed to resolve the ethical, moral and political issues raised by fluoridation. People today are as suspicious of contaminating water with a toxic substance such as fluoride, as they are of contaminants in foods and drugs. These public developments adequately explain the widespread resistance to fluoridation, without any need to resort to complaints about a nebulous "militant minority".

2. - Fluoridation is far from the simple trust worthy procedure the public has been led to believe. Maintenance of the fluoride content in public water supplies at the "optimal" level specified by advocates of fluoridation appears to be the exception rather than the rule. This Report documents in detail failures to maintain control in large cities as well as small; there is no evidence at all to indicate that the problems of control are being surmounted, and that the fluoride content of fluoridated waters will not continue to fluctuate as erratically in the future as it does at present.

3. - The evidence presented in the Report challenges the effectiveness of fluoridation in actually reducing caries, the sole purpose for which fluoridation is proposed. At this late date, after fifteen years of zealous promotion, it is obvious that the original claims and promises of reduction in dental decay were not soundly based, and grossly overstated any reasonably anticipated benefit.

At the present time the reported results of artificial fluoridation must be regarded as statistically dubious. Not only are the original data questionable, but failure to consider confounding factors such as intensive dental health programs in artificially fluoridated areas multiplies and compounds the errors. Such claims as "65% reduction in dental decay," "savings in community dental costs," "continued influence on the future preservation of sound teeth into adult life," etc. remain slogans, without convincing scientific support.

4. - The continued confirmation of fluoride accumulation in human soft tissues adds further apprehension over fluoridation. That such accumulations could even occur was long denied by prominent authorities promoting fluoridation. In fact, certain of them have promised the safety of their proposal on the assumption that such accumulation could not occur. The facts in this Report demonstrate the contrary. Here once again is evidence that all aspects of fluoridation were not carefully studied by the proponents, although the medical professions and the public have been led to believe differently. The significance of fluoride in the soft tissues remains unknown in this fifteenth year of artificial fluoridation; profound and extensive research will certainly be required before its effects in the body can be understood. Meanwhile it is known that such vital organs as the kidney, the thyroid, the aorta, the heart, the liver and the lung can be sites of unusually high concentrations of fluoride in a considerable number of individuals. Such information combined with the long-established fact that fluoride is a potent enzyme poison is a matter of persistent concern to many who are interested in causative and contributory factors in chronic disease. It will necessarily be many years before the role of fluoride in such conditions can be assessed. This alone should be ample cause for caution in the ingestion of fluoride from any source.

5. - That fact that a certain amount of dental fluorosis is inevitable with fluoridated water, and that such water will be ingested by workers engaged in occupations where fluoride is already a hazard should make it obvious that the safety of fluoridation can never be demonstrated. The proponents frankly admit that from 10% to 20% of the drinkers can expect to suffer "definite" dental fluorosis (mottling of tooth enamel). Even if only one in 100 of the anticipated individuals suffer a severer degree of mottling this will amount to about 200 such cases per 100,000 population, which is not insignificant either in terms of the number of individuals embarrassed by this affliction or the considerable dental costs entailed in attempting to correct it. In addition there will be some 10 to 20 thousand less severely, but nonetheless definitely, damaged individuals. This mottling should itself be abundant reason to condemn fluoridation.

6. - Sufficient factual material has been presented in this and earlier reports of the Medical-Dental Committee to thoroughly establish at least a presumption of hazard to health, beyond the known damage to teeth. Evidence has been presented by various investigators of symptoms and experiences implicating fluoride as the toxic agent. These cover many aspects of individual health such as conditions which may affect the birth of the child, develop mental defects in children, the life span, and specific effects on various organs of the body. The tendency of those promoting fluoridation has been summarily to dismiss such reports, revile the investigators, and discourage these investigations. Among those active in these hampering tactics have been some highly placed public health authorities, who apparently are so inflexibly committed to a policy of fluoridation that they can brook no criticism. This is a sorry and unfortunate comment to have to make on those who are assumed to hold the public trust. There can be no true scientific evaluation of the role of fluoride in the human body until investigations are conducted freely and with full discussion, unhampered by pressure from arbitrary public health policies.

7. - In the field of fluorine toxicology it must be emphasized that far more remains unknown than many realize. Gaps in our knowledge are enormous, and one often is surprised to discover that some of the most elementary aspects have received but scant attention. For example, the actual effect of fluorine on the teeth is unknown. This Report reveals the woeful dearth of information on the presence of fluoride in the soft tissues. It is deceptive and misleading for authorities who promote fluoridation to qualify their endorsements and "assurances" of its safety with reference to "the available evidence" without warning that this available evidence is not actually competent or conclusive. It may well take 30 years or more of diligent investigation to determine what fluoride can do to the human body.

8. - For those who wish to use fluoride, other means than injecting it into the water supply are readily available. A variety of preparations are on the market. Fluoride in the form of tablets, drops, etc. may be easily administered in prescribed and controlled individual dosages. If fluoride should prove truly effective in reducing dental caries, individual controlled administration would be the ideal method of intake. The choice of treatment is left to the individual, treatment can be discontinued if adverse effects occur, and unnecessary ingestion of fluoride is not imposed upon the great majority of the population, who have no need for it and who may be harmed by it. Voluntary individual administration would abate and resolve the inflammatory controversy which the fluoridation issue has aroused.

HENRY LIPPINCOTT

The following eighteen points constitute a recapitulation of most of the facts I have presented in earlier articles. I urge everyone to study them carefully. Those who doubt the authenticity of the following statements may obtain documentation on them from Ohio Pure Water Association, L. S. Stevens, Chmn, 72 N. Main Street, Akron, Ohio.

1. What is Fluoridation?
Fluoridation is the addition of fluoride (F), a powerful, cumulative poison (by-products of steel, aluminum and fertilizer industries) to public water supplies to lessen dental decay in children. The recommended amount is one part of F to one million parts of water (1ppm). Above 1ppm is considered hazardous even by those who are recommending fluoridation.

2. Is F Essential to Humans? No.
Public Health and Dent. officials attempt to prove that F is a nutrient. Calcium and phosphorus are necessary to human nutrition and sound teeth; research at the U. of Ind. establishes that F is not.

3. Is F Cumulative? Yes.
Radio active tracer studies at U. of Cal. proved that even in the most minute amounts F is stored in bone, joints, soft tissues, especially kidneys.

A committee of Wayne U. Professors reported to the Detroit Common Council in 1950: "Sodium fluoride is an extremely poisonous substance, even more so than arsenic; its addition to the water supply cannot be undertaken without creating certain possible hazards to the public health... it is undesirable to undertake the fluoridation of the water supply of metropolitan Detroit." Research by U.S.P.H.S. has shown that F is retained in the system for many years.

4. Does Fluoridation Benefit Teeth?
P.H.S. statistics, analyzed by a professional statistician, showed a delayed recognition—no permanent benefit. A survey by the Dept. of Education, U. of N.Y. State, Sept. 1954 found one third more dental defects in Newburgh (fluoridated) than in the control city, Kingston (unfluoridated).

Newburgh dentists agreed that P.H.S. claims of benefit are exaggerated. Research teams of U. of Melbourne, Australia and the Nat. Institute of Health, Paris, pointed to many fallacies contained in the official Newburgh and Grand Rapids statistics. Sound teeth depend upon inheritance, good dental hygiene, general health, diet, hard chewing, etc. People have excellent teeth in many places around the world where there is no F in the water, as in Samoa.

5. Does F Cause Gum Disease?
The late Dr. H. K. Box, U. of Toronto; Dr. G. C. Geiger, Fla. State Dent. Health Officer; Dr. C. C. Bass, dean emeritus, Tulane U., New Orleans are among eminent authorities who have observed clinically a marked increase in periodontal disease in F areas. A research team at Cornell U. has reaffirmed this experimentally.

6. Does F Permanently Disfigure Teeth
Disfigured teeth are found in natural F areas below the so-called "safe" concentration (1ppm). The P.H.S. expected and now reports mottling (white spots which may gradually become ugly brown or black stains) in the experimental town of Newburgh, N. Y. Health officers call these teeth "beautiful". 50,000 new cases per year can be anticipated in artificially fluoridated areas.

7. Can F Cause Harm To The Body? Yes.
Those affected first are individuals with a lowered tolerance to drugs, the elderly, ill, malnourished. Stiffness of the back called poker back, sores in the mouth, excessive thirst, digestive and urinary disturbances, failing eyesight, loss of control of arms and legs, are early symptoms of chronic F poisoning.

The medical literature reports these symptoms in natural F areas. Cases are now reported in the medical literature from artificially fluoridated water. Animal experiments at U. of Texas have shown that 1ppm F water causes the life span to be about 9% shorter. It causes damage to teeth, gums and kidneys. The U.S.P.H.S. constantly denies these facts.

8. Can Dosage Be Controlled When F Is Added To Water Supplies? No.
Human consumption of water may vary as much as 20 to 1 depending on individual taste, age, climate, state of health, type of work. Thus some could easily consume many times the 1 mg. of F (in 4 glasses of fluoridated water) which proponents consider the "safe" daily amount.

9. Is Fluoridation Like Chlorination and Vaccination? No.
Chlorination and vaccination prevent the spread of contagious diseases. They are genuine public health measures. Tooth decay is not contagious. It can be controlled by less costly and safer methods. When fluoridated water is boiled, F becomes more concentrated. Chlorine disappears when water stands or is boiled.

10. Is Fluoridation Wasteful? Yes.

One tenth of 1% of the water is consumed by children who may benefit from it. More than 99% of the tax money spent on fluoridation goes down the drain on car washes, fire fighting, plumbing, industry etc.

11. Can F Be Taken In Other Ways? Yes.

Tablets, drops, solution, provide controlled dosage using pharmaceutical grade, at 1/5 the cost of fluoridation to those convinced of its benefits.

12. Does Fluoridation Violate Moral Principles? Yes.

No one has the right to force another to partake of a dangerous drug against his will or to experiment on another human without his consent. Fluoridation has been introduced in many places without the people's knowledge. It should be emphatically rejected by every person who values his freedom. It sets a dangerous precedent.

13. Do Endorsements By Scientific Organizations Constitute Proof Of Safety Or Effectiveness? No.

Endorsements are useful in politics and when selling a commercial product. Scientific advances stand on their own merit. Endorsers refuse to sign statements assuming responsibility for any harm which might accrue to children or adults from drinking artificially fluoridated water. Leaders in medical societies, who examine the scientific evidence critically, refuse to endorse fluoridation. Sect. 20 of the Amer. Dent. Assoc. Code of Ethics prohibits dentists from opposing fluoridation under threat of expulsion from their society. The North Carolina State Dent. Soc. suspended 2 dentists Aug 1955 for 1 year.

14. Do Any Medical Groups Oppose Fluoridation? Yes.

Among them: "Medical-Dental ad hoc Committee on Evaluation of Fluoridation" consisting of over 1500 dentists, physicians, scientists. Statements are available through Dr. A. A. London, Roanoke, N. J. Amer. Assoc. of Phy. and Surg. Inc., (15,000 doctors in good standing with the AMA) passed a resolution 4/12/58 condemning the use of public water supplies as a vehicle for drugs (F is included).

15. Can Statistics Prove The Safety Of Fluoridation? No.

P.H.S. bases its proof on statistics which deal with averages. People are individuals, not averages. Each has a different degree of tolerance and susceptibility.

16. Have Any Cities Refused Fluoridation? Yes.

About 2500 U. S. communities have rejected F by official action or referendum. Some are Seattle, Portland, Boston, N.Y., New Orleans, Memphis, Atlanta, Columbus. Many communities have discarded it after a trial. 137 million are not drinking fluoridated water. In only 5% of fluoridated cities have people had an opportunity to vote.

17. Isn't F Which Occurs Naturally In Water Beneficial And Safe?

In nature, F is usually accompanied by other minerals, especially calcium and phosphorus. The latter both help to build sound teeth and render F less poisonous than when added artificially. Nevertheless chronic F poisoning does occur in natural F areas.

18. Who Are Opponents?

They are your neighbors, concerned about children's teeth and the health and welfare of their nation. They think for themselves; do not accept the word of a federal agency which has prematurely launched a project which they must now defend "militantly" to save face. Opponents spend their own savings to combat a project financed by tax money.

CCARC Holds Meeting

The regular bi-monthly meeting of the CCARC was held in joint session with the campaign workers of the annual fund drive at the Westminster Elementary School on Tuesday at 7:30 p.m., President Ray LeGore presiding. Invocation was by Father Wm. D. White, pastor of the Church of the Ascension, Westminster. The program for the evening was under the direction of the teachers and helpers of the Associations Day Care Center and the Board of Education's special education classes. Several skits, a piano solo, musical chairs and a rhythm band provided an interesting evening for those in attendance.

Following the program, President LeGore introduced Mr. Ben Smith, a director of the CCARC, who spoke on the annual campaign drive. Mr. Smith stated that a minimum of $10,000 would be required to meet the demands on the Association from Carroll County. Of this amount, he said, 85% of the funds would remain in the county and the remainder passed on to the State and National organization for research. Mr. Smith added that within the next few years a greater amount will be required to maintain the present level of instruction and aid as more and more demands are being made on the local association as the public is becoming aware of the program and are seeking the services of the group.

Mr. Smith pointed out that the Board of Education provides training for all Carroll County retarded children between the ages of 6 to 16 who can qualify for their special classes and pays all expenses incurred in this training, including transportation. There are, however, a number of children who cannot qualify for these special public school classes because of the degree of their handicap or because of their age. It is this group which the CCARC accepts the responsibility and care of.

Mr. Smith announced that the Civitan Club of Westminster will hold a milk bottle parade in the Westminster area on the following dates: Nov. 12 and 13, Nov. 19 and 20, and Nov. 26 and 27. All proceeds will go to the CCARC. Mr. Myron T. Uppercu is chairman of this project.

Mrs. Donald Blizzard, general chairman of the 1960 fund drive, was introduced to the assembly by Mr. Smith. Following benediction by President LeGore, refreshments were served in the school cafeteria.

The Great Promise

Lesson for December 11, 1960

NOTHING that happens is a surprise to God. Human beings are sometimes surprised when they need not be. The birth of Jesus was surely no surprise to God, for it was he that planned it. It need not have astonished any one, for it had been promised.

The trouble was, nobody had looked for just this kind of answer to their long prayers—long in the sense that for centuries the Jewish people had been praying for a Deliverer (that is what "Savior" means in the Bible).

Dr. Foreman

Furthermore, this Deliverer had been promised, for many of the prophets had pointed forward to the coming of One to whom they gave various names—Son of David, God's Anointed, God's Servant, Shepherd, and so on. One of the names was not a name, it simply expressed the great hope in a word: He that is coming (all one word in Greek or Hebrew).

Peace and Justice

The problem at this point may turn the mind to thinking about what Jesus really means to Christians now and eventually to the world. The problem, to make it short, is this: Why was it that the Jews, the very people who had cherished the Great Promise, the Hope of "One who is to come," the people in whose sacred books alone this Promise was preserved, the people whose prophets had pointed down the future to that great Coming—why was it that these very people of the Promise failed to see the fulfillment of that Promise when it came to pass?

One reason was that they expected everything to happen all at once. For example: In Isaiah 9, one of the famous prophecies about the Coming One, any reader can see the hope and expectation of justice, righteousness and peace. The coming Savior will set up a kingdom of peace and of justice. But when Jesus came he was born in a stable because of an injustice on the part of the government; and he died as a criminal, again because of probably the most unjust death sentence in the history of the world. Looking at the world today, peace and justice still seem far off. What has happened to the Great Promise?

Short Perspective, Long History

Travelers in very dry flat country have noticed that distances are deceptive. You see a watertank or a tower or a hill apparently a mile or so down the road, but the thing just seems to back away from you, the mile or two may turn into 25 miles before you reach it. What the prophets did not say (and maybe did not see) was the perspective; they had no time table of things to come. So when justice and peace did not descend on the world all at once when Jesus came, many thought then, and many nowadays think, that he couldn't be the One that God intended.

The Mighty God?

Another reason why people found it hard to see that the Great Promise of a Savior was fulfilled in Jesus of Nazareth, is the presence in some of the prophecies—Isaiah 9 notable among them—of startling language more than hinting that this Coming One was going to be far more than man, indeed no less than God. The "child," the "son" of Isaiah 9:6 is presently named "Mighty God, Everlasting Father." How can this be? And can we believe such high things of the Carpenter of Nazareth? Yes, we can believe it, we do believe it. But what the Christian church has come to see (not to understand) is something that most people in his life-time did not see: namely, that God does not always make himself known in awesome and terrible ways, but in gentle, yes even humble ways. The wonderful truth which the Christian accepts is that this very Carpenter of Nazareth, not only on the occasion of great miracles but every day in all the things he did and said, was God himself upon earth. We believe that Christ was saying the truth when he said, "He who has seen me, has seen the Father."

Walnuts and Chocolate Morsels Make Easy, Creamy Fudge

The perfect recipe team, fresh-tasting California walnuts and luscious semi-sweet chocolate morsels, are ideally combined in quick, creamy walnut fudge that takes just five minutes of cooking. This recipe from the Diamond Walnut Kitchen does have one secret. Be sure to bring the mixture to a complete boil, then start counting the five minutes of boiling.

Try California walnuts and chocolate together in cookies, cakes, pies, puddings and other desserts too. And if you want a second fine treat, use the fudge recipe again, only instead of chocolate, substitute butterscotch morsels.

California walnuts come in-the-shell in cellophane bags, or already shelled in handy vacuum cans or clear bags.

WONDERFUL WALNUT FUDGE

|----------------------------------------|-------------------------------------------------|
| 2/3 cup evaporated milk | 2 6-ounce packages semi-sweet chocolate morsels |
| 1 jar marshmallow cream, 5 or 10-ounce | 1 teaspoon vanilla |
| 1 1/2 cups granulated sugar | 1 cup chopped California walnuts |
| 1/4 teaspoon salt | |
| 1/4 cup butter | |

Mix first five ingredients in saucepan. Stirring constantly, heat to boiling and boil five minutes. Remove from heat. Add semi-sweet chocolate morsels and stir until melted. Add vanilla and walnuts; spread in buttered 8-inch square pan. Cool until firm. Makes about two pounds of fudge.
