"SPICE 'N' EVERYTHING NICE" With all my heart, I wish you every morning A smile that shall last until the next dag's

It was just a few days before Christmas and the weather was bitter, cold with the heavy snow still in the streets and ice on many pavements. I alighted the No. 3 bus which goes down St. Paul Street. (within one block of the Pennsylvania Station.) The bus stopped at that corner and it seemed we were taking on a lot of The bus stopped at that corner and it seemed we were taking on a lot of passengers but instead there was a very poorly clad hatless young wo-man with four tiny children and a very slim boy of about 14 years of age. The little ones were crying as they appeared cold, hungry, sleepy and tired. There were shopping bags filled plus two suit cases, the latter being carried by the young boy who appeared very clean and immacu-late with his neatly combed thick straight black hair. As I studied the family, I knew there must be a story.

family, I knew there must be a story. The young mother carried another suitcase and a shopping bag and I noticed as she walked there was a heavy limp.

The bus stopped within one block of the Greyhound Station and although I was going to ride down as far as Lexington street to the shopping center, I also got off right there. I aided the Mother in carrying a shop-ping bag and one suit case and lifted the children off that bus. By this time, the two real young children about one ping bag and one suit case and lifted the children off that bus. By this time, the two real young children about one and a half and two and a half were really screaming. I took the hand of the small youngster and it was as though I grasped a piece of ice! That entire family had on all Spring clothing and the tall son wore a small jacket which was very thin without a lining! He was most quiet and fol-lowed every request his mother made. "You have come from a distance. Have you not?" I asked. "Yes, we came from Ohio and are going to visit my Mother on the Eastern Shore (naming the place). My husband is a Brakeman and we do not have to pay any fare so I want to spend Christmas with my Mother as she is very anxious to see the children, too. We have been traveling all night and the children are very tired. It makes it harder for me to walk as I am just getting over a broken leg!" I do not recall of ever seeing such poorly clad individuals and somehow, Folks I felt guilty with my warm coat! As we arrived at the station somehow I felt that it should have been the Trailways instead of Grey-hound and I quickly went to the win-dow to make inquiries only to be told that it was the Trailways as this organization does not go to that special destination. "I am sorry but you will have to take a street bus down to the Trailways which is not

THURSDAY, JANUARY 19, 1961

INAUGURATION DAY, JANUARY 20th

The affectionate understanding between Dwight D. Eisenhower and the American people remains intact as he prepares to leave the White House.

On Friday, John F. Kennedy will be inaugurated President of the United States with all the pomp and ceremony, the pageantry and parade, the receptions and balls, the high hats and flowing gowns, that usually mark the occasion.

When all the "hoopla" is over, there will be the sobering questions; what kind of President will Mr. Kennedy make? We hope with all our hearts he will make a good one. No one expects him to keep all those extravagant campaign promises. The rhetoric about the New Frontier served its purpose, and should be permitted to die a painless death. There is no mandate for a radical change. In a troubled world, our foreign relations have been handled in a way which kept us out of war, and we haven't kow towed to the Communists. On the domestic front, business as a whole is on the high plateau and operating profitably. Sales and savings and construction have all gone up at a high rate. Mr. Kennedy is taking over a pretty good country. Let's hope he keeps it that way. I, for one ,am going to support our new President every I possibly can. CARLSBAD, N. M., CURRENT ARGUS: . . . more of our citizens are receiving more education, staying in school longer, housed in better buildings and under guidance of better-trained teachers, than those of any nation in the world.

"We do not mean to imply that America has reached the ultimate in education, or that our program cannot be improved from its present state. However, it must be remembered that this has been accomplished through local, state and private initiative, and almost entirely without recourse to the federal government, and it's the kind of education that reflects the hope and aspirations of Americans in their homes and communities, not some distant burcaucrat's idea or the theories of a far-away professing educator".

MARION, IOWA, SENTINEL: "But when one thinks of the future of one's country, one cannot help but do some worrying. The commitments for social security, as of today, run into hundreds of billions. Women's Travel Authority How Do Brakes Work?

A gentle touch on the brake pedal by a dainty shoe and two tons of metal, zooming along at a mile a minute, are brought safely to a stop. As the woman who drives the family car, you should know how it's done.

4 seconds to stop FM

The brake pedal is attached to a lever assembly that increases your "push." That is, a pound of foot pressure can make as much as 7½ pounds of pressure at the end of the assembly. Twenty pounds of foot pressure makes 150 pounds,

The increased foot pressure works a kind of pump-called the master cylinder. The master cyl-inder forces liquid - called hy-draulic brake fluid-through metal tubes. A tube goes to each wheel, and each wheel has its own pump -or hydraulic cylinder. When the pressurized liquid reaches the cylinders in the wheels it forces the cylinders to move the brake "shoes." (In each wheel a set of brake shoes grips a heavy drum as your hands grip a heavy jar you want to lift.) So...you push the pedal, the pedal pushes fluid, the fluid pushes brake shoes, the shoes grip the drum-which is the shoes grip the drum-which is part of the wheel-and the car

A 200 horsepower car can reach 60 mph from a standing start in 12 seconds. Its brakes can stop it in four seconds: they have a stopping ability of 3 times the engine's pro-pelling ability. In distance, it takes the car 500 feet to hit 60 mph, but the brakes can stop it in 150 feet.

Be sure yours can do it. Have your service station dealer check them regularly.

Battlefield Rockets, Space Missions Loom for Guard

The twentieth anniversary of its mobilization for World War II finds the National Guard moving deeper into the age of missile warfare and the space program.

The Army National Guard, now manning NIKE air defense missile sites across the nation, will begin receiving "Honest John" battlefield rockets early next year.

Gen. McGowan Air Guard missions include flying supersonic jet aircraft in the active air defense of the U. S., and installing communi-cations and determined cations and electronics equip-ment at missile sites.

This ultra-modern military force offers a striking contrast to the equipment status of the National Guard that was called into federal service by President Franklin D. Roosevelt in the fall of 1940. Guardsmen took fail of 1940. Guardsmen took part in maneuvers using sticks and logs for machine guns, stovepipes for artillery pieces, and trucks for tanks. Given proper weapons and vehicles it took these men less than a year to become seasoned vet-erans. Many Guard units were in combat a year after being called into service.

Most military men point out that changing times present changing — and challenging — demands. It is now essential, they contend, for Guard units to train for possible employment in a matter of weeks. Major General Donald W. McGowan, Chief of the National McGowan, Chief of the National Guard Bureau, expresses the thought that the Guard's in-creased ability to react to an emergency is a result of a long-range training program aimed at up-grading the Guard's "mobilization readiness". This refers to the peacetime training that cuts down the amount of post-mobilization training that would be needed to certify a National Guard unit as ready for deployment.

Assignment of the ultra-mod-ern "Honest John" rocket to Army National Guard Divisions is but the latest example of how the Guard is well equipped. The "Honest John" is a so-called "tactical rocket", which means it was designed for battlefield use — to replace med-ium and long-range conven-tional artillery. It is a deadly weapon — accurate, supersonic, easily transportable, and able to carry either an atomic or high explosive warhead.

high explosive warhead. Within the next year, eight combat divisions of the Army National Guard will receive their full complement of "Hon-est John" launchers. The units to which they are assigned will train with them year-round, and upon mobilization would require little additional training.

Constant Alert

One of the requirements for keeping the Guard up-to-theminute is that of planning for future developments. No one questions the present-day need for Air Guard participation in our Air Defense program. For example many Air Guard squad-rons flying the latest super-sonic jets — F-100s, F-102s, and F-104s — are on constant alert, ready to defend our skies on a moment's notice. But it is also recornized that on a moment's notice. But it is also recognized that with the coming of the ballistic missile, manned fighter aircraft will someday begin to decline. in numbers in the Air Force inventory. Looking to this date, the Air Force is now studying ways in which to use the Air Guard's capabilities in its space program. One of the early mis-sions in this field may well be that of space surveillance. Air that of space surveillance. Air Guard Aircraft Control and Warning units, with their mod-ern electronic equipment, could easily be converted for such a purpose. Space capsule recovery has also been suggested as a possible mission area for Air Guard flying units. These are just a few of the ways in which the modern-day National Guard is training for tomorrow and planning for the day after.

Mrs. H. Richard Duden of Annapolis recently kept a two-week record of all her family's telephone calls. For each call she also estimated any expense, time and traveling that were saved by being able to telephone.

At the end of two weeks, her tally showed that the telephone had given them almost a full day of extra time, and had saved far more in traveling expenses than the cost of their telephone service.

Whether it was a call to summon a washer repairman or rounding up the youngsters, the phone made busy days easier.

Mrs. Duden found, too, that some calls provide pleasure and peace of mind that can't be measured in time or money saved. For instance, her husband who is an a insurance representative and football coach, had to make a business trip to Florida. His Long Distance call to the family went into a "special" category of her. telephone diary.

Perhaps you might like to keep a diary to see what your telephone does. We think you'd find, too, that your telephone saves much more in time, trouble and expense -than the cost of having it. THE C & P TELEPHONE COMPANY OF MARYLAND.

A VOICE FROM CARROLL

Mountaineers from a neighboring state, almost penniless, swarmed over the state line to take relatively highthe state line to take relatively high-paid jobs in a new factory. They proved to be good workers, but con-stantly voiced their dislikes about some of the laws of the state to which they had moved. One of these involved the cost of hunting and fish-ing licenses. Back home in the moun-tains, they hunted and fished when they pleased without a license. "Just tains, they hunted and fished when they pleased without a license. "Just how crazy can you git?", an agitated mountaineer demanded of a 'cal sportsman. "Three dollars fer fishin', another dollar fer trout, five dollars fer huntin' another buck fer a big game stamp, another for migratin' game stamp, another fer migratin ducks. Why it costs a poor soul eleven dollars just to go out and git some-thin' fer the pot. Back home I kin do it all fer free. Just what, mister is the difference?" What does the future hold for farmers? We believe that the years ahead offer great opportunities for the young farmers who are willing to learn new methods and to practise what they learn. The constant increase n population will open up new markets for food. By 1975 the population in the United States is expected to reach 250 million. In terms of food this means that farmers must produce over 50 per cent more eggs, chickens, hogs, cattle, milk and truck crops. The young farmers who see no future in farming should take a second look before they leave their second look before they leave their father's acres and go off in some other direction. There is no future in any-thing unless the individual has faith and courage in his own ability to meet the tests that life puts upon each individual During the depression of individual. During the depression of the thirties anyone with the daring to start farming was considered a fool. Never-the-less some of those fools did considerably well. However, due to the tremendous cost of equipping a farm, hard work and small returns in money profit the number of farmers will steadily decrease. But for those that stay the outlook appears brighter than it has for years. So much has been said and done about the common cold that we thought it refreshing to have a doctor say the other day "Accept colds and sniffles as a way of life and learn to live with them for I can assure you that we are no nearer finding a cure for the common cold than we were 50 years ago. "We are certainly happy to find one doctor so honest and truthful. From now on any common cold that has the audacity to seek us out is going to get our own special treatment of aspirin, water and a nice hot toddy with lemon thrown in. If it doesn't cure the cold at least you enjoy the treatment. Of course there is no such thing as a bad boy. But a great many of them are surprisingly good actors. The unheralded snow over the week church cemetery. While the snow was a surprise, the need for it can be seen in the slow trickle of water farm meadows streams and in the shallow Monocacy river. It was a wet snow and clung to trees and shrubs like whipped cream to a dessert. The trees in the woods looked like they had been sprayed with white cake frosting and if we had been like Alice-In-Wonderland we would have gone out to taste it expecting it to be sweet. out to taste it expecting it to be sweet. A retired husband often is a wife's full-time job. The superstition concerning Friday the 13th is losing favor with people because last Friday passed on without a single comment from anyone. We wondered how it ever began and were amazed to learn how much trag-edy happened on Friday. To begin with Mahomet tells us that Adam was born, sinned and was chased from Paradise on Friday. Christ was cru-cified on Friday. Julius Caesar was assasinated on Friday and also Pres-ident Lincoln. Joan of Arc was burned at the stake on Friday. We could go on and tell about many other instances of events occuring on this day that have changed the history of the en-tire world, but it would be too morbid. On the other to be fair we have to mention a few good things that occured on Friday among them was the discovery of the new world and all the most important events of the his-tory of the United States happened on Friday. The Pilgrims landed on Priceton and the emigrants at Ply-mouth Rock on Friday. George Wash-ington was born on Friday and so was Gladstone of England. The Declara-tion of Independence was signed on discovery of the new world and all ion of Independence was signed on Friday and Napoleon was born on Friday. And so we see Friday has it's good and bad side as so does every day in the week including Sun-

Meeting of Lions Club

Committees have been announced for the annual March of Dimes Card Party which will be held next Thurs-day evening, January 26 in the Test taken upon the first charter night displayed beside the head table.

The program chairman then relin-quished the floor to Sec. Shorb, who ably and thoroughly recounted the club's accomplishments during its prior years, prefacing his report with a brief history of the spread of Lionism from 25 clubs and 800 members in this country alone in 1917, to its 15,314 clubs and 622,606 members in 110 countries and geographical locations throughout the globe today. He read the actual minutes of the first Taneytown organizational meet-ing July 2, 1947, the first board meeting July 2, 1941, the first board inter-ing, and displayed the initial charter signed by Bernard J. Arnold, Charles R. Arnold, James C. Baumgardner, Murray M. Baumgardner, Curtis G. Bowers, Charles F. Cashman, John E. Chenoweth, M. C. Cutsail, N. Benjamin Cutsail, Harry B. Dougherty, L. J. Dunlop, Charles W. Eckard, Walter L. Eckard, Theodore F. Fair, Robert W. Feeser, Merwyn C. Fuss, Wilbert N. Hess, Theodore M. Jester, Walter W. King, Lou L. Myers, Merle S. Ohler, J. Hoke Ommert, Delmar E. Riffle, Robert E. Thomas, Wilbur O. Thomas, Donald H. Tracey, Thomas Tracey, Don R. Webb, and Robert H. Zentz.

Major projects, judged purely from the cost angle, have included a park pavilion $1430, park lighting $400, playground equipment $300, Carroll county hospital $300, high school band uniforms $200, Emmitsburg Reformed church rebuilding $100, Christmas baskets $90, retarded children's projector $90, boy scout delegate to Valley Forge jamboree $65, Carroll county medical center $50, baseball uniforms $50, high school letter insignia, artificial leg, crutches, port-able inhalator, Christmas lighting, eyeglasses, clothing, Elementary school paintings, safety signs, footwear, and many others. Of the original signers of the club's first charter, thirteen were present at this Founders' night recognition, namely Lions Murray M. Baumgardner (program chairman for the even-ing), Bowers, Dougherty, Charles W. Eckard, Fair, Feeser, Fuss, Ohler, Riffle, and Thomas, and including three former members who were loyal and thoughtful enough to accept this reunion invitation, James C. Baum-gardner, Lou L. Myers, and Thomas H. Tracey. The introduction of these last-named was warmly greeted and applauded.

Appropriate photographs were taken afterwards of the charter members present; of the oldest member, Lion Bowers; and of today's club officers.

At the conclusion of Lion Baumgardner's program the president pre-sented Gov. Dougherty who brought member of the Thurmont Methodist Church. He was twice married. His first wife, Margaret Forney Stam-baugh, died 48 years ago. His second wife, Susan Whitmore Stambaugh, died eight years ago. He leaves three children, Mrs. Merle Ecker and Mrs. Luther Rodkey, both of Taneytown, and J. William Stambaugh, Keymar, and two sisters, Mrs. Gertrude War-ner, Detour, and Mrs. Guy Wilhide, Thurmont. BUILDING SET-BACK LINES

During a meeting of the Carroll County Planning Commission and its Agricultural Advisory Committee on December 22, 1960 it was noted that a discussion on the effect of the building set-back line provision on farms had been carried in some of our newspapers. The Agricultural Committee members suggested that

The purpose of requiring all new buildings to be no closer than 50 feet to State Road right-of-ways, 70 feet from the center of County roads, and 25 feet from street right-of-way lines is to insure that any future road widening is possible without having to use our taxpayers' money to move buildings unnecessarily. So often this is proving to be the case today. Very often, too, a property owner on the opposite side of a road from buildings now too close to a road is penalized at greater distances than the Commission is recommending. The ordinance as proposed further

Burial provides that, in event it is a hardship to meet the building set-back line in any specific instance, such as peculiarity of the land or lot lay-out, the Board of Appeals may relax the condition after proper review.

I walked in and as the Clerk came to wait on me, I asked for the proprietor. He came forward, a fine elderly Jewish man and I told him the story and asked him if he would not give that boy a sweater to cover up his body under sweater to cover up his body under that little thin summer jacket. He quickly replied, "Yes, lady pick out anything you desire and please, please do not upset yourself this way or you will be ill!" I selected a dark 100% woolen brown pullover sweater in size 16. I thanked him and quickly ran back to the station and as I neared the table, I asked Lewis to stand up and take off his coat. I pulled out the sweater from the bag pulled out the sweater from the bag and slipped it over his head. It was a triffe large but I knew it would be warm and I folded up the long sleeves to make a cuff. Suddenly, I heard a terrific sob and there that dear little Mother had plead her head down in Mother had placed her head down in er arms on the table crying! Biographical Information Concerning Brooks Robinson

Brooks Robinson, who completed his sixth season with the Oriole or-ganization in 1960, is a 23-year old native of Little Rock, Arkansas. Brooks graduated from Little Rock's Central High School in 1955, where he won an all-state basketball pos-ition his last two years. Surprising-ly, the Oriole third-baseman ran track during his high school springs instead of handling the hot corner for the Little Rock high school. Actually, Central High did not field a baseball ceam during Robbie's stay, and his ball playing was restricted to the local American Legion team.

Most people are unaware that Brooks began his baseball career as a second baseman. It wasn't long, however, before the Orioles realized that he was a natural for the hot corner.

around play, the Baseball Writers of America voted Brooks a close third place in their annual American League Most Valuable Player Pole. Robinson received 211 votes and trail-ed Roger Maris (225) and Mickey ic disease'. Mantle (222). He was the only player, "Other r including the Yankee sluggers,

Brooks set a club record for total bases in one game (11) with 5-for-5 performance against the White Sox at Chicago on July 15th He hit for the cycle that day with 2 singles, a double, a triple and a home run. This barrage gave him a string of 8-straight hits. On June 3rd, he was hitting only .214 after 43 games, but in his next 65 games, through August 10th, he went on a .359 spree (94-for-262) which ele-vated his average to a seasonal high of .305. Over the last 109 games beginning June 4th, Brooks hit .322 (142-for-441). Although he finish-ed second to Jim Gentile in RBI, Robinson tied the old club record of 88 established in 1956 by Gus Triandos. He led all American League third baseman in put outs, assists, total chances and fielding percentage (.997) and was second only to the Red Sox' Frank Malzone in twin killings (34 to 36). Brooks missed only two games during the season, both on Labor Day, as a result of a tonsil infection. He hit .398 (35-for-88) against Cleve-land including 14 RBI and raised his lifetime batting average from .19 to .266. A week after the '60 season ended rooks made another acquistion, this ime it was a bride. He married former United Airlines hostess, Connie Butcher, whom he met on a ball club flight from Kansas City to Boston in 1959. The Robinsons are currently living in Baltimore the year round

But the chief resistance comes from others who consider fluoridation a breach of constitutional, moral or religious rights.

Is Sodium Fluoride the Same as Calcium Fluoride?

Proponents of Fluoridation tell us that sodium fluoride, which is used to artificially Fluoridate water, is the same as natures non-poisonous cal-cium fluoride. They qualify this by saying the fluorine ion in calcium fluoride is identical with the fluorine ion in sodium fluoride. This statment just as fatuous as stating that a Volkswagon is identical with a chrysler Imperial because they both equipped with Firestone tires. This is an attempt to drag in electrolytic chemistry to further confuse the public. Ordinary water is a weak electrolyte and we are no more concerned with cations and anions than we are with captions and onions. Anyway, the fluorine ion is poisonous, but it is the molecule and not the ion that does the dirty work.

Just in Passing

Are we going to learn from the cranberry incident? Must we wait until it is too late, until our bodies are undermined not only by the poisonous fluoride, but by the dozens of other chemical additives we are of other chemical additives we are forced to take in with our daily food and our daily water? Is man to be the eternal guinea pig to prove the dangers of stupid chemicalizations by senseless trial and error, which means that if the experiment fails, our health is destroyed? That is all. Our health is destroyed. Destroyed health may be a mere routine to some peo-ple but to me it is Hell.

There is one encouraging ray of hope in all the ominous fluoridation talk. It is making many Americans more chemical conscious. It is creating a mentality that is questioning cranberries, black jelly beans, stilles-tral and other harmful chemicals used in our foods. I think that a trend has been strongly established. From be much questionical additive procec has been aroused.

BELIEF does not always burst like the sudden turning-on of a thousand floodlights. Belief may come slowly, like the twilight at dawn, first only a glimmer on the edge of darkness, a sliver of lighter grey along a cloud's rim, growing into the glory of another sunrise.

So it has always been. Many books in the Bible are concerned with faith, or belief. Especially John. Not only is Jesus in the spotlight, but John turns the light also on those who be- Dr. Foreman lieved-and on those who did not. Why did the believers believe? Why did the unbelievers fail to believe ?

Can This Be The Christ?

Stories in the Bible get their names, often, not from the Bible itself but from some student or other (perhaps centuries ago) who tagged the story with a name it never lost. One such story is in John 4, its usual name is "The Woman at the Well." She certainly has the spotlight at first, but she does not keep it. Jesus, as always in the Gospels, is in the center of the picture; but the light, so to speak, is so held that it shines now on one, now on others of those who surround that central Figure. The story begins with the woman, but it does not end with her; it ends with the neighbors (she seems to have had no friends) who also believed. Let us look at just one thing in this story: how faith grew.

It began dimly enough, to be sure. The neighbors did not believe at an and the woman very little. But she was beginning to have an inking of the truth. Can this be the Christ? she said. This is the first stage of faith, and it is not very high. But it is necessary. Only from this can a higher step be reached. This is the stage of hesitation, of doubtful inquiry. But it is inquiry. It shows interest.

They Kept Coming

Evidently this woman's neighbors did not laugh her off. Even her trifle of faith was contagious. A man on the street may be seen looking up toward-what? He may

Your safety, and that of your family, dewould require a dime measur-ing 40 ft. in length. At nominal "city and village" speeds of pends on proper use and care of "city and village" speeds of 30 mph. you will travel 77 ft. before stopping. Allow 128 ft. to stop your car traveling at 40 mph. Going 60 mph., you can stop in 5 seconds, but you've covered 263 ft. of pavethese brakes.

It is friction that stops your car, reports J-M. Actually, the brake system employs friction to change motion energy into heat. The material that causes friction and the friction, and then absorbs and dissipates the resultant heat, is 346 ft. of precious stopping asbestos brake lining.

Thus, it is highly important Thus, it is highly important to your safety that the auto-mobile you drive is equipped with thoroughly dependable brake linings. They must al-ways respond to the pedal on steep grades as well as on the level at fast speeds on the at fast speeds as well level. as slow, in summer or in win-ter, in wet weather or dry. not know, himself. He may think maybe he heard a new kind of pleac overhead. But even if he is locking at nothing at all, others who see him will look up too. So we read that the men of Samaria w at out to talk with Jesus and to see him for themselves. The Greek word for "they were coming" or "they came" to him is interesting. It is not the word that would be used for one single act. It is the form of the verb meaning a thing is done over and over. It suggests that they did not all go out at once, they came out one by one, by little groups. Some of them were slower to wake up than others. Faith is like that. People have different reaction-times when driving a car, some will put their foot on the brake quicker than others. They have different reaction-times about faith, too. Jesus did not hold this against the late comers; neither should we.

"And We Know"

How do people come to know, to be assured in their minds and hearts, that Jesus is indeed the Savior of the world, and their Sovier? Very much as those Samovitans did. We usually begin by one else suggesting it. Maya parent, maybe a teacher. Type suggesting it timidly and not too confidently; but at least arousing our interest. The next step is personal contact with Christ. This is absolutely essential, the essential of any true Christian faith. No one can have deep faith in an X, a question-mark, a bare and unbodied name. This contact. must be more than for a moment only. As Christ came to that village and stayed for two days-and we can imagine how he must have been kept busy all day and far into the night-so he must be invited into our minds, our hearts. It is only after experiences like that, that one can say, "I have heard for mycelf, and I know." This knowing is not like knowing that 2 and 2 are 4. It is the kind of knowing when person meets person, a knowing born of forth bringing faith to its full power

Southern States hybrid ear. Now, compare it with the hybrid on the left. Note the small, shallow kernels and the big cob. You get more corn on less cob with Southern States hybrids. Want further proof? Shell them out and see for yourself. The Southern States hybrid gives you more shelled corn. Remember, a few dozen of these extra kernels per ear makes a big difference in your total yield.

So ask for Southern States hybrids. They grow more corn on less cob . . . and they're doubly guaranteed!

Sweets For An Evening

In towns and cities, as well as in the test kitchens of firms like the makers of Karo syrup, fall and winter is the time for homemade goodies—all time favorites being popcorn, divinity, and cider punch. Here we give you the three favorites from the Karo makers.

Popcorn Wreaths

Pop corn according to directions below. Shape popcorn on waxed paper into wreaths—5 to 6 inches in diameter for hanging and about 9 inches in diameter for center piece on table. Decorate with leaves cut from angelica, small red cinnamon candies or cake decorations. Makes 2 small or 1 large wreath.

Quick Candied Popcorn Mixture ¹/₄ cup corn oil ¹/₂ cup popcorn 3 cup dark Karo syrup % cup sugar 1/2 teaspoon salt

Heat corn oil in a 4-quart kettle over medium heat for 3 minutes. Add popcorn. Cover, leaving a small air space at edge of cover. Shake frequently over medium heat until popping stops. When cooled sufficiently, pick out unpopped grains. Meanwhile mix to-gether corn syrup, sugar and salt in a heavy saucepan; cook over moderate heat for 2 minutes or until sugar is dissolved, stirring constantly. Add popped corn and stir over medium heat 3 to 5 minutes, or until corn is evenly and completely coated. Remove Cider Panch from heat.

Cider Punch % cup light Karo syrup 1 12-oz. can apricot nectar 12 whole cloves

2 2-inch sticks cinnamon

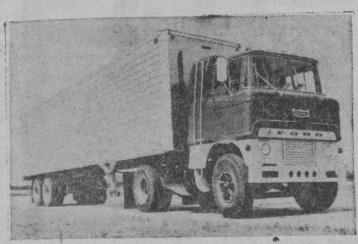

Combine Karo syrup, apricot nectar, cloves, cinnamon and cider in a saucepan. (Omit cinnamon if using cinnamon stick stirrers). Bring to a boiling point and simmer 10 to 15 minutes, or until cider is spicy enough to suit taste. Add lemon juice just before serving. Strain and serve piping hot in mugs. Makes about 1 quart.

Ford, the sales leader in gasoline-powered tilt-cab trucks, takes another step in its program to meet every commercial trucking need with the new "H" series tilt-cab diesels. Avail-ablé with a choice of five Cummins diesel engines from 180-to 220-horsepower or Ford's own proven Super Duty gasoline V-8 engines ranging from 206- to 266-horsepower, the rugged, extra heavy duty highway tractors are engineered for dura-bility, economy and comfort. Designed with the truck driver and long distance hauling in mind, the new line includes four diesel engine series and four series with gasoline-powered engines.
