Why Teach Reading in High School

Reading as a separate school sub-ject has usually been thought of as belonging in the elementary school. However, parents and teachers alike are beginning to realize the need for an organized reading course in the Junior High School. They recognize the fact that many adults, products of our educational system, are not able to read and comprehend beyond the level of a sixth grade pupil - hence the need for an ever-increasing em-phasis upon the improvement of read-

Junior High School. Teachers realize that students need definite aid in correcting their faulty reading habits. In order for these students to succeed in the content reading habits. In order for these students to succeed in the content subjects, reading techniques must be improved. It has been said that read-ing is the inalienable right of every child, but he needs help in attaining that right that right.

that right. Naturally every teacher becomes very conscious of the reading prob-lems of the students. These prob-lems are of such a character that progress seems slow; therefore the teacher finds it necessary to study progress seems slow; therefore the teacher finds it necessary to study the pupil, his ability, his interests, his pupil, his ability, his interests, ome environment, and his school record in order to obtain information that will help to cope with the problem to the extent that growth may eventually be noted. The teacher may also find that grouping of the students at various achievement levels will aid materially in the success of an effective reading progarm. The remedial, or developmental, reading teacher's task is not a simple one, for he must understand nature of the reading process, the and should know how to diagnose the students' abilities and difficulties in each of the essential abilities and techniques involved in reading, and how to locate and take care of the handicaps which may interfere with learning to read. In addition, the teacher should know various good methods of developing the basal reading abilities and techniques, and he January 24, in Taney Inn. Beginning should be able to adapt the materials and methods of instruction to meet precisely the individual needs, and the strengths and weaknesses Six basal aims of the reading teacher are to teach: the meanings out of words, fluent reading for story comprehension, reading for mean-ing, and how to study. In every class where any reading is a necessary tool, there is a chance for the pupil and the teacher to put to use the various skills stressed by the reading teacher. Of course, the results may not be an overnight success, but in the course of time they will be noted with a degree of satisfaction to all. Finally students will become better readers— readers who "like" to read because they know "how" to read.

LETTER FROM ANNAPOLIS The Maryland General Assembly has finally shifted into high gear and many matters of importance are currently being considered by the Mem-bers of the Legislature. The Senate Judicial Proceedings

Committee, during the week of Jan. 6, considered several bills relating to pharmacists and the dispensing of dangerous drugs. These bills would provide for suspension or revocation of pharmacists' licenses for certain acts of professional misconduct. They would also prohibit the dispensing without prescription of drugs by itinerant vendors. Another bill considered by this Committee and passed with a favorable report would provide for legal authorization, before death, for post-mortem medical examinations and transplantation of parts of the body and would further provide for the revocation of this authorization by the donor in the event he so desired.

There were other bills considered by the Judicial Proceedings Committee which would set up certain procedure county school locations including Mrs. Faye G. Snyder at the Taneytown Elementary School, Mr. John E. Baughman at the Francis Scott Key High School, Mrs. Anna Motter part-time at New Windsor and Elmer Wolfe Schools, Mrs. Joan L. Silex to the Mount Airy Jr. High School, Mr. Lewis T. Miller returned from military Lewis T. Miller returned from military service to the Westminster Jr. High School and Mr. Robert H. Hinkle to Association of the State for cause shown. A further bill would prohibit Certified Public Accountants from practicing before the Maryland Tax Court. And another bill would pro-hibit one not admitted to the Bar of the State of Maryland from representing parties in proceedings before The Workmen's Compensation Commis-sion. All of these bills were intro-duced by the President of the Legis-lative Council and were recommended by the Legislative Council Committee on Unauthorized Practice of Legislation on Unauthorized Practice of Law.

One of the most important pieces legislation considered thus far of by the Finance Committee of the Senate has to do with scholarships. This is Senate Bill No. 12 and would set up a State Scholarship Board and provide for a four-point pro-gram. This bill would not affect any scholarship awarded prior hereto and in effect on the effective date of this act which would be July 1, 1961. There would be no awards under this bill until July 1, 1962. This particular piece of legislation has been vigor-ously opposed by your correspondent and the Senator from Frederick County, Samuel W. Barrick. We feel that this bill would deprive of an education many deserving persons because it eliminates all full scholarbecause it eliminates all full scholar-ships and provides for only tuition scholarships. It further eliminates the two scholarships per election district of Carroll County which is now held by the Board of Education. We also feel that the setting up of a Scholarship Roard would only tand Scholarship Board would only tend to complicate matters and would add an additional cost to the State of Maryland. The 1961 Farmer's Almanac states that we will have plenty of winter ahead even though the month of March. Why not prepare by purchas-ing one of those wonderful "Aladdin" lamps which are old at the BROOK'S store. They can easily be converted to an electric affair and then back again to oil. Thinking of cold wea-ther, I went to a department store to purchase two real winter night-gowns and I saw a very, very young couple there. She had on a new wed-ding ring with one of those matching affairs and she picked up one of those warm gowns (waltz length) and was going to purchase it and the young husband said, "I don't like that kind of a gown!" And, you know the rest, Folks she put it down and they both walked away arm in arm! Cute? So if you have Arthritis or any pain in the joints, be sure and purchase warm night clothing. The sub-zero temperatures this week is evidence enough that winter's icy grip still prevails. The blizzard started last Thursday and continued into Friday brought us about 15 inches of snow. Drifts swept by frigid gusts helped to aggravate the situation. Schools were closed Friday, many factories shut down and many public gatherings cancelled. On Mon-day a light snow fell, and on Tuesday high winds caused many roads to drift shut again. AMOS 'N ANDY BOOKKEEPING

Expansion of the social security system to include medical care for elderly persons, offers some tough nuts to crack. Experience shows that in politics things are advocated that are unworkable. Richard Starnes, columnist for the Washington Daily News, reveals some not very comforting statistics on the entire social security set-up. "In its first quarter century" he says, "social security took in $70 billion. It paid out $50 billion of that, and has $20 billion of government bonds in the kitty. Against that $20 billion there are obligations, at the present rate of benefits, of $360 billion".

If you wonder how the social security system has reached such a pass the answer is simple. Mr. Starnes cites a not unusual case-a pensionar who paid for three years. starting in 1937. Then he retired. Since then he and his late wife together have drawn $13,490 in benefits while their total contributions to the fund had been $40. But in the case of young people starting to work circumstances are reversed. They can never hope to take out as much as they are forced to contribute.

There is little justification for further taxing, in the name of social security, already overtaxed younger works to provide medical care for millions of elderly persons who are both able and willing to care for themselves. Senator Harry F. Byrd, a distinguished democrat who has as great an understanding of the fiscal problems of the federal governments as any man, does not mince words "I am opposed to . . . compulsory medical service and hospitzation under the Social Security System. I am convinced this would lead to socialized medicine with the possibility that is would bankrupt the social security trust fund."-Industrial News Review.

FACTS AND OPINIONS

Repeal of the excise taxes on passenger fares and communication services were characterized by the U. S. Chamber of Commerce as "the most urgent" issue in the transportation and communication fields confronting the upcoming session of Congress. The Chamber also said that two other issues regarded as ugent concerned the common ownership of transportation modes, as well as placing the postal service on a pay-asyou-go basis.

A statement of Herbert Hoover tells of one way to overcome his critics. He simply explains that he has outlived them.

The Antigo, Wisconsin, Daily Journal reports, "Drowsiness continues to be one of the major causes of highway accidents......Also, most accidents caused by drowsiness occur near the end of the journey."

Economic Intelligence says, "There are two ways of handing maturing debt; either retire it through accumulated Treasury surpluses; or refinance it by issuing new securities. Most of the time the treasury is forced to use the second alternative." Intelligence concludes that advance refunding does not solve key problems of debt management, but it provides greater flexibility to the Treasury and is a valuable innovation. Such refunding is all right as long as too many don't take it for granted as a way our of paying the National debt.

Fifteen inches of snow fell on do their off-spring. Looking back over our own school days, we cannot remember getting into a panic over exams the way school children do today or sending our parents into hysteria by remarking that we were go ing to flunk math, or English or history or whatever our weak subject happened to be. What has happened s made out of them? We have to wonder if exams can ever be a fain vard stick to measure the students grasp of a subject if he or she is under great tension and fear while taking the test. Can a test of ten or twenty questions really tell the teacher how much a student has gotten out of a subject? Is the exam an out-moded devise for measuring the ability of a student? We don't pretend to know, but these are the questions to ask and our responsibi-ity, to find the answers. There must some devise or method used to prod students to study, but we some times believe that tests are not the oroper method. Curiosity is probably the greatest incentive for seeking knowledge that has ever been devised. Children are born with it. They love find out the why and wherefore

Unfortunately about the third year in school, most of them lose this natural curiosity. Why? This is some hing for both parents and teachers to answer, for both must take the responsibility for stiffling the natural eagerness to learn in most children.

Many of us know that there are a great many things wrong with our educational system, both on the high chool and college level. Thanks to our ompetition with Russia in the field of science we are being forced to change. At least we can thank Russia

The Board considered a number of pieces of correspondence originating from school personnel related to improvements already made and/or contemplated in the various school loca. tions of the county. These matters were referred to the Superintendent for action and included a number of letters related to the planning of buildings for anticipated school en-rollment in the county. The Board was given copies of the population study and anticipated school enrollment for 1961-62 including a special report on the enrollment conditions confronting the Board in the Taneytown area. The Board took action to direct that that the proposed elementary school building for Westminster area would be advertised on Jan. 27 and that bids for this project would be opened at the next regular meeting of the Board on February 28.

The Board was advised regarding the circulation of petitions to the Legislature and Governor in connection with a higher state base sal-ary for teachers in Maryland. The Board also considered an art-icle prepared by the Superintendent on cost comparisons for the county as compared to the cost of education in mparable and other counties of the tate.

The Board appointed for a onehalf year tuition scholarship to West-ern Maryland College Edward Shil ling to assume the scholarship held during the first-half of the year by Patricia Roop.

Action was taken directing the Supcrintendent to communicate with the State Senator and members of the Legislature with respect to the op-position of the Board to the proposed evisions in the scholarship law which, eportedly, would remove the district scholarship appointments to West-ern Maryland College and put all scholarships in the hands of a State Scholarship Board. At 11:00 a.m. the Board opened bids on the marked built bids on the proposed addition to the elementary school in Taneytown. Bids received were numerous and the lowreceived were numerous and the low-est bidder for the general contract was E. E. Stuller Construction Com-pany at $73, 480.00; the second lowest bidder was I. H. Crouse & Sons at $79,435.00. The lowest bidder for the heating contract was B. C. Crabill heating contract was B. C. Grabill & Son, $9,062.00 and the second lowest was J. H. Allender Sons Co., $9,900.00. Lowest bid received on the plumbing contract was from G. T. Zepp & Son, $7,495.00; second lowest from West-minster Hdwe. Co., $7,500.00. The lowest bidder on electrical work at this location was G. T. Zepp & Son, $5, 375.00 and second lowest was Rodkey's Electric Service at $6,615.00. The Board debated for some time the wisdom of accepting contracts for the wisdom of accepting contracts for the construction of an eight-room building but sufficient support was not generated for the eight-room addition. The Board, therefore, voted unanimously to approve the low bidders for the four-room addition including cafeteria and toilets and dir-ected the Superintendent to have contracts prepared and executed as promptly as possible.

Adjournment was at 1 p.m.

Ever watch a woman window-Ever watch a woman window-shopping for appliances? Chances are she lingers longest over the electric dishwashers. This isn't surprising, since the automatic dishwasher is one of the most wanted of all major appliances. Housewives are tired of the monotonous, thankless job of hand-washing dirty dishes three times a day. They especially re-sent putting in kitchen overtime that forces them to miss family activities.

Time formerly allotted to hand-washing dishes is drasti-cally cut by an electric dishwash-er, giving the housewife more time for her family and other cativities. During the day, the time for her family and other activities. During the day, she can load breakfast and lunch dishes in the dishwasher. A pre-rinse cycle on many of the new electric dishwashers makes hand-rinsing unnecessary, even for eggy breakfast dishes. The dish-washer can be operated once or twice a day, according to the number of dishes, leaving the kitchen neat and the housewife free from hand dishwashing. Family health is another im-portant consideration. Because

HIGH SCHOOL HIGHLIGHTS

"How To Take Examinations" by Dianne Null, '94 The only good general rule for tak-ing examinations is "Be Prepared". This means that you should know who you will be held responsible for, and they all the questions that will who you will be held responsible for, and know all the questions that will be asked you on a test, not ust some of them. It also means to have your subject matter well organized. It means being rested, emotionally sta-ble and calm, and in the pink of ment-al condition. For the final review, you should have all of your notes and questions already written up. If you try to write and study at the same time, you will get too donfused and you wwill be unable to remember any-thing. When you schedule your time you wwill be unable to remember any-thing. When you schedule your time for revinwing you shouldn't make your time for continuous studying more than one hour shifts. The full length of time needed for studying for a Mid-Year Examination is on the average of about two to three hours. For a final Exam. five to eight hours. It does not pay to go without food, sleep and a reasonable amount oif recreation to "cram" for examinations. Staying up all night trying to catch up on your work, may seem like the right thing to do, but you pay dearly for it in the long run. During times of examination you should get your meals, sleep, and should get your meals, sleep, and reaction and do other studying on schedule. It can and should work a little harder than usual, but don't let it throw everything out of gear! In reviewing for an examination, you shiuld keep er-reading to a miniumu. Your review should em-phasize recitation. In reviewing a chapter try to recall the main ideas of the chapter, without referring back to your notes. If you fail to get the main idea or facts in the chapter, main idea or facts in the chapter, re-read it again. This is about all the re-reading you should do, because if you reread too much you will pose sight of the important points or skip over them aimlessly. Another good bit of advice is to "predict" what questions tre going to be on the test, such as: Is this something that could be a question? Has this been emphasized? How could a question be asked on this topic? Also take advantage of the clues furnished by the instructors. However, this advise could be misleading if you use advise could be misleading if you use it the wrong way. Don't try to out guess the instructor, follow those directions carefully. Students think of examinations as among the trials of life, ordeals that can't be escaped and must somehow be survived. This negative and fear-ful attitude is unfortunately reinforced by the fact that grades de-penrd on exams. The student who is not doing well can easily feel that the exam is aon ax poised to cut him down and out of the academic life. When a typical student gets his paper back, he looks to hee whether or not the instrductor made any er-ror in marking his paper and if there os anything to quibble about. Then he puts the paper aside and for-gets about it. Where you've lost credit or made mistakes, look the credit or made mistakes, look the matter up in your notes to see ex-actly how this came about. Did you fail to get something important into your study notes? Did you misread the question? These and other quer-ies can be answered by studying your exam paper. In this way you can proceed you can be and correct them uncover your faults and correct them for the next examination. All of us probably learn more by correcting our mistakes than we do from our successes ,and an exam paper is a good record of our mistakes.

The fame of the Southern cook has traveled far, and chicken is the most celebrated Southern dish of all. Here's a wonderful jellied chicken salad that looks and tastes like a million, yet barely tickles the budget because it is made so thriftily with evaporated milk. So smooth, so elegant in flavor, we call this ingenious recipe our Million Dollar Salad. It makes a party main dish, Sunday night supper, or luncheon specialty with make-ahead convenience and cool-of-the-morning cooking.

Best of all, with just slight variations in this satin-textured salad, you can make pretty Orange Carrot Raisin Salad or Lime Peach Des-sert. Evaporated milk blends so beautifully, you'll say this is the smoothest jellied salad you've ever made.

MILLION DOLLAR SALAD (Jellied Chicken Salad)

1 cup very hot water 1 package lemon flavor gelatin dessert cup evaporated milk 2 tablespoons lemon juice

2 cups diced cooked chicken 1/2 cup diced celery 1 tablespoon minced onion 1/4 teaspoon salt

Add very hot water to lemon gelatin in deep bowl. Stir until gelatin is dissolved. Cool slightly. Stir in evaporated milk and lemon juice. Chill until slightly thickened. Fold in remaining ingredients. Turn into a 4-cup mold or individual molds; chill until firm. Unmold to serve.

YIELD: 4 to 6 servings.

Variations: Orange Carrot Raisin Salad: Substitute 1 package orange flavor gelatin dessert for lemon gelatin. Substitute 1 cup grated raw carrot and  $\frac{1}{2}$  cup raisins for the chicken, celery, onion and salt. Turn into a 3-cup mold.

Cur Authority Lesson for January 29, 1961

I T HAS been said that once upon a time the "great man" had authority over others. The modern man who wishes to be great must be an authority on something important. After all, these two are not very different. If a man comes to be an authority on something of importance he will be accepted by others interested in the same things he is, as an authority over them, as well as on the subject.

Christ, Our Authority

Jesus Christ is said by St. Paul to be "Head over all things to the church." That is even more true today than when Paul wrote it. There are many churches, or more exactly Dr. Foreman denominations, many types of Christian individuals and groups. All of these claim Christ for their "head," though they may not all express themselves in just that language. This is a phenomenon that calls for investigation. How is it that Christ has retained his authority from the day he headed a small group of fishermen and other village people around Galilee, to this so different day and time, with more than 848,000,000 Christians around the world all looking to Christ as the Number One Authority for their lives?

Christian churches may differ as to the exact way in which the authority of Jesus Christ comes down to us. Some would say it does not come down at all. He lives in each Christian by His Spirit, and each Christian if he listens well may hear the still small voice of Christ's authority in his own heart. Others find his au' ority in the Bible, others in the officers and eaders of a church, in its bishops and other clergy. But it all goes pack to Christ. How it this?

Jesus' followers have never claimed that he is the world's leading authority on railroads, or financial methods for political campaigns, or flood-control, or Chinese music. There was a time when Jesus was considered by many people to have superhuman knowledge, even perfect knowledge about everything. But the church never took this notion seriously. What the church does take seriously, and does claim, is that our Lord was and is the greatest authority over what is more vital than railroads or politics, more urgent than flood control, more fundamental than Chinese music. He is our authority over life, because he is an authority on it, the authority on it. By life we mean in particular and in general all that is concerned with and grows out of human relationships, indeed all that is concerned with and growing out of the relationship we have to God.

When you have an all-day committee meeting at your house, you need a luncheon menu that can take care of itself while you conduct the business at hand. Birds Eye individual meat pies solve the problem. Set out a selection of beef, chicken or turkey pies... identified with a little paper label speared on toothpicks ... and let each lady take her choice. A hearty vegetable salad featuring quick-frozen cauliflower can be made ahead of time and kept in the refrigerator until it's time to take the pies out of the oven. Then, when the meeting adjourns, both hostess and committee members can sit down and enjoy this simple, yet satisfying, luncheon.

Authority Over Life

Jesus himself, we may be certain, had won his authority by actual living. His graduate degree in life was an earned degree, not an honorary one. It was not rolled out from a "degree mill," he had actually been through the hard school that Experience keeps. It may have occurred to you to wonder, sometimes, why the people took the Sermon on the Mount, and other high teachings of Jesus, as quietly as they did. Although his teaching about life is very difficult -more difficult to do than to understand-nobody ever said he was talking nonsense. Why didn't they? If his teaching was so foolish as some critics have thought it was, his friends surely would have seen to it that none of it would be exposed to the ridicule of posterity. But it was not that way. The teaching was heard, cherished, passed on. And the original reason for this was that the first people who heard him talking knew that he had hammered all this out on the anvil of his own living. They knew that he knew God and knew men, and he spoke out of knowledge, not by guesswork.

So that the church accepts him joyfully to this day not as one who had been taught to say a piece and said it—this is not what he meant by saying he spoke only the words of the Father. Christ was more than a recording tape. He was a faithful Son who had learned in his Father's school.

The beatnik look has changed to the neatnik look at school and on the college campus.

So, if you want to be in style this fall, you'll buy the season's casual, relaxed, clothes, and pay closer attention to good grooming and the hosiery you wear. Fashion authorities recommend colorful casual socks for classroom and sports, with a good supply of nylons for your busy social life.

Here the Lennon Sisters, featured singers with the Lawrence Welk show, demonstrate how to combine the casual and the neat looks in school fashions. Peggy, at left, and Janet, behind, select socks with built-in fit. Known as Rapture casuals, they hug the leg, refuse to sag. The two older girls, Kathy and Dianne, prefer seamless Rapture nylons for daytime as well as date-time wear.

TRY TRY AGAIN

Orators eulogize, writers extol and panegyrize success, "but how many reat panegyries or eulogies have been written on Failure"? Contending that man has an undisputed privilege to fail or make a miserable mess of many things in his attempts to climb to the heights, we shall here eulogize his Failuers.

Failure is the greatest teacher when you feel its clammy cold breath falling about your plans for achievements then turn it to an asset not a lia-bility. He who aims at nothing, will hit it every time. He may strut around displaying proud successes, but were they so great when the aim is consid-and?

He who stands on the edge of the range and fires at a distant target is iable to miss a number of shots but with determination, stimulated ambi-ion, sharpened wits and careful efforts at last, what seemed almost impostion, sharpened wits and careful efforts at last, what seemed almost impos-sible has been accomplished and Failure has taught more in a week than success can in a year.

Many of America's greatest men were once colossol failures in fact every great man who ever lived failed, not once but many times. From failure they rose again to become great. Failures were the stepping stones on the road to fame and glory.

on the road to fame and glory. Every great invention, every great utility, so commonplace to the people of today has behind it a record of numerous attempts ending in failure, but failure became the hypodermic that stimulated and inoculated the inventor against future misfortunes and mistakes. The ultimate success resulted from a series of failures. Failure helps to keep the chin up "and the ears" back", while success has been known just to "wag the tongue" and "wiggle the ears" the ears"
