ILLITERACY

by Nancy Wargny, 9A

Did you ever think what it would be like if you couldn't read a mystery book, read traffic signs, read store labels, or even write your own name?

Unfortunately, to about 13.5% of American adults, according to the 1940 census, this is not hypothetical. Illiteracy is one of the major drawbacks in their lives. These people are unable to carry out some of the activities of everyday life which are dependent, partly at least, on the ability to read or write.

Illiteracy can be physically dangerous. To an illiterate in a burning building, what good is a fire extinguisher when he can't read the directions for operating it? Also, to an illiterate there is little difference in the various bottles of medicine he possesses. The illiterate is blind to warning signs such as "Keep Out," "Explosives," "No Smoking," or "Caution, Inflammable."

Besides the physical dangers, illiteracy makes it impossible for a person to discover by himself the beauty in a book of poems, the excitement in a mystery book, the knowledge in a science book, and most of all, the spiritual guidance in the Bible.

Let us make sure that none of our children are open to the dangers of illiteracy or robbed of the beauty, excitement and understanding found in books.

ANNOUNCEMENT OF EXAMINATION FOR STATE SENATORIAL SCHOLARSHIPS

Maryland High School seniors who wish to become candidates for a State Senatorial Scholarship for the 1961-62 scholastic year will take the examination on Saturday, Feb. 11, 1961, at Westminster Sr. High.

Since Senatorial Scholarships are awarded on a rotating four-year basis or as interim vacancies occur, these scholarships are not automatically available in each institution each year. Information concerning scholarship vacancies can be obtained from the local school, the State senator representing the county or the Baltimore City legislative district residence of the student, or from the participating colleges in which the student is interested. Students should determine the availability of a scholarship in the college or colleges in which they are interested before making application for a Senatorial scholarship. Each prospective candidate should be reminded that the one examination scheduled for February 11, 1961, will enable him to become eligible for either a Senatorial scholarship or a Teacher Education scholarship, or both.

Candidates for the scholarship to the Peabody Institute who are successful in making a satisfactory score on the examination administered on February 11 must report later to the Peabody to take the special music examination it requires.

A separate examination for scholarships to Charlotte Hall School will also be given on Saturday, February 11, 1961, in the same test centers. High school students interested in this examination can obtain information from their high school, the local Senator, or Charlotte Hall School regarding availability of scholarships for the 1961-62 school year.

C. & P. PLANS IMPROVED SERVICE

Taneytown is Among Areas to be Benefitted

Nearly 77,000 telephones are now in use in the Westminster district, which includes Carroll, Cecil, Frederick and Harford counties according to R. A. Robertson, district commercial manager for the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company of Maryland. This is an increase of nearly 4,000 during the year 1960 and nearly 24,000 during the past five years.

A part of this continued expansion, Mr. Robertson pointed out, came from the increasing number of families with telephones as a result of improvements in service and calling arrangements. Today nearly eight out of ten households have telephones, compared with just over six out of ten, five years ago.

W. O. Hallmark, district traffic manager of the C. & P., said during 1960 nationwide dialing of long distance calls was further extended. This new, high speed service, for direct customer dialing of station-to-station calls, is now in operation in Aberdeen, Balnbridge, Bel Air, Cardiff, Churchville, Darlington, Havre de Grace, Jarrettsville, North East, Perryville, Port Deposit, Westminster and Wilna.

Telephone users in the company's Westminster district made more calls during 1960 than ever before according to Mr. Hallmark's records. The new peak was 91,000,000 as compared with 61,000,000 for the year 1955. He attributed this rise to the continued service and equipment improvement program directed toward making calling easier and faster; and the extension of dialing privileges.

The company's long term dial changeover program continued to move ahead, during 1960, high-lighted by the completion of new buildings and new dial installations at Aberdeen, Bel Air and Havre de Grace. The total spent for these three projects was $6,000,000.

Also, either completed or underway, or approved for completion early in 1961, are major expansions and improvements in twelve exchanges at a building additions to house enlarged dial equipment installations; dial locations and modernization and extension of outside cable and wire networks. Exchanges included in this program are: Brunswick, Buckeystown, Frederick, New Market, Hampstead, Jarrettsville, North East, Perryville, Taneytown, Thurmont, Union Bridge and Walkersville.

W. N. Keller, district plant manager also noted that a service center and garage building to house installation and construction vehicles and equipment was completed in Elkton and at Bel Air. These two projects will require an expenditure of $160,000.

It was also pointed out, by Mr. Keller, that in addition to its major construction programs, the company also completed service improvement and expansion projects in virtually every exchange in Carroll, Cecil, Frederick and Harford counties.

For the state as a whole, Mr. Robertson said telephones in service reached an all time peak of 1,303,000 at the end of 1960. He pointed out that while the census shows the population was increasing 32% over the past ten years, telephones more than doubled in number.

He also cited C. & P.'s $86,000,000 contribution to Maryland's economy through expenditures by the company for payrolls, materials and services. The company is now planning construction expenditures of more than a quarter of a billion dollars during the next five years to further improve and expand Maryland's telephone system.

REPORT OF STATE LEGISLATURE

Unemployment Insurance was One of Bills Considered

Much time this past week was consumed in lengthy hearings regarding unemployment insurance. These hearings were had at joint meetings of the Senate Judicial Proceedings Committee and the House Judiciary Committee and were held in the House Chamber.

Perhaps the most widely discussed piece of legislation was Senate Bill No. 19. This bill was introduced as a result of studies held during the summer by a subcommittee of the Legislative Council which committee was appointed to investigate the swiftly shrinking unemployment insurance fund. Senate Bill No. 19 would revise the law to prohibit duplicate periods of benefits arising out of the same employment. It would set up a one week waiting period for benefits and would disqualify or reduce the benefits to eligible claimants who at the same time were receiving pensions, Workmen's Compensation or certain other payments. It would increase the maximum weekly benefit from $35.00 to $38.00 and would limit payments for dependents for those to whom the claimant furnishes chief support. It would also set up disqualifications for voluntary work quits, misconduct or failure to accept similar work.

It is the intention of Senate Bill No. 19 to plug up the loopholes which have existed in the unemployment insurance law and have made it subject to many abuses.

Senate Bill No. 186, also dealing with unemployment insurance, would revise the unemployment insurance law by raising the benefits from 26 to 36 weeks and broaden the definition of "available for work." However, the proponents of this bill were unable to furnish accurate estimates as to the cost of the proposed plan. They did sponsor Bill No. 187 which would revise the law relating to employer contributions with respect to employment but here, too, they were unable to make accurate estimates as to the amounts which could be expected to be provided by this plan.

On February 7, 1960, the Court of Appeals of Maryland, in the case of State vs. Greenburg, decided that Article 27, Section 469, of the Annotated Code of Maryland concerning public dumps or junkyards outside of municipalities was unconstitutional. For this reason the State Association of County Commissioners requested your correspondent to institute legislation to give the County Commissioners the right to promulgate regulations affecting the location and operation of junkyards. The bill provides that any regulations proposed for adoption by any County Commissioners must first be advertised in a public newspaper, thereby giving those affected an opportunity to be heard before the adoption of said regulations.

The perennial bill to provide for a Veterans' bonus to be financed by a beer tax was introduced as Senate Bill No. 172.

There has been a bill proposed to raise the driving license fees to provide for driver training in the public schools. Another bill which has been introduced would eliminate capital punishment from our legal system.

We now have hearings which have been scheduled for the week of January 30 regarding all of the reappointment bills, the civil rights bills, as well as additional hearings on Senate Bills Nos. 5 and 6 which relate to "pharmacists" and dangerous drugs."

"SPICE 'N' EVERYTHING NICE"

With all my heart, I wish you every morning
A smile that shall last until the next day's dawning.
I wish you health—life's greatest wealth; I wish you always near so that I may help to cheer
Each future day and in some way—help to bring you happiness!

This year it is called, "CARCAPADES" down at the Fifth Regiment Armory for the Automobile Show and although they claim there are more cars shown this year than any previous one, the little car is stealing the show.

The decoration of the armory is in blue and yellow and it is almost a navy blue and not supposed to be. The ceiling was not draped either as in other years and there were no flowers or small trees as in former years which always gave one an imaginary breath of Spring as one entered. So to this Observer it lost that certain comph. There is special entertainment such as ice skating, one Star VonBirgelon who was formally with the Sonja Henie Show.

Then, too the colors of the cars are not nearly as gay and many are in the darker tones of paint. Of course, there was the "Auto Queen", a Miss Carolyn Lee Dover, a 19 year old Miss and very sweet looking with an extremely high hair-do which I understand is her first entry in any contest.

The "CORVAIR" has been placed on a revolving chasis or whatever they would describe that for the prospective buyer to see all the mechanism underneath. Although, many in these past two years stated they would not purchase one due to the position of the motor being in the back instead of the front, it surely is here to stay!

The Studebaker Models appeared more prominent than any year previous. As to any make of STATION WAGONS—they surely are right there and one gentleman told me after buying his first one, he would never have anything else for they do so much for the entire family.

The biggest crowds were around the "PLYMOUTHs" but as one approaches the "OLDS" you say to yourself, "Ah!" (especially if you have ever driven one) and now they are making the $5 no doubt instead of the $8. The "MERCURY" is nearest to the "OLDS" every way and as to that "COMET" one could be finer as it is chucked full of style to every detail and is below price of the other compact cars and is truly a "Big car ride" for the money as it has all the features of the large and expensive car.

The Rambler is surely going places and the one turning around on the special show circle is a dream with its beautiful shade of green in the finish of metallic which even makes an old car always appear glamorous. I made inquiries about that paint job from the salesman and he stated it was not available just yet but it would be in time. Rambler can be bought in either, four, six or eight cylinders. They are the most economical, attractive and stylish small cars and can be bought of course with all added features for a figure far below the other cars.

And I would not fail to mention those Teen-agers—those mechanical-minded boys—the brains of the future and as I watched them trying out the different gadgets and noticing every detail plus their conversations, it all amazed me. Boys are wonderful!

Next week, Folks my Column will be for "Widows" all through a letter sent to me by a Widow and it may help many for which I am hoping.

Don't forget to throw out feed for the birds these bitter mornings for they are so hungry and—oh—so cold. Will be seeing you at "The Dog Show" next week D.V. Until then have a grand week-end I am,

Faithfully,
YOUR OBSERVER.

Send in Your Money for T. B. Seals

Statewide returns in the Maryland Tuberculosis Association's 1960 Christmas Seal Campaign for tuberculosis control are lagging over $18,000 behind the comparable mid-January for last year. Mr. Preston G. Coffman, chairman of the Carroll County Seal Sale campaign, said, "We know that many people wait until January or even later to send in their contributions. We would like to remind these people that it isn't too late and that we are most grateful for their support. The tuberculosis control programs created by the use of Christmas Seals benefit all of us. Casefind services, medical research projects, personal services to hospitalized patients, and educational programs for patients, TB control workers, school children, medical students and nurses are offered by TB associations all over the state. However, costs of these programs are high and ever increasing; therefore, we are making this sincere reminder that we need help now."

Since the seal sale campaign opened in November, 4 new cases of TB have been hospitalized in Carroll County.

Our hope is that delayed contributions to our Christmas Seal campaign will enable us to expand our efforts to control TB.

A GOOD REPUBLICAN SPEECH

President Kennedy's inaugural address was inspiring in its adherence to basic American principles. Listen to these words: "My fellow Americans, ask not what your country can do for you—ask what you can do for your country." Here is the very essence of the free enterprise system which encourages self-reliance rather than dependence upon government handouts. Those who had feared a possible return to wild-spending sprees and "give-away" programs, with the resulting tax increases and cheapening of the dollar, took a sigh of relief when those reassuring words were spoken. They did more than that; they burst into applause. Our President, in these few well-chosen words, expressed the philosophy of responsible individualism, which is Americanism. This basic principle, which the pinkies and the socialists and the spenders would have us desert, made America the greatest nation on earth—and this in a few generations' time.

If our new President can implement these fine words without compromise, the U. S. A. will continue its progress during his term; there will be a climate for free enterprise and initiative, our standard of living already the highest in the world, will continue to improve, and our people will remain self-reliant and strong.

The major portion of President Kennedy's inaugural address was directed to international relations. His new Secretary of State, Dean Rusk, said it when he said that there would be no radical departure from the Eisenhower foreign policy. (It was through this policy that Peace was preserved without the forfeiting of one iota of national honor and respect, throughout the Eisenhower Administration, America stood like a Gibraltar against every threat—and we had Peace.)

All in all, it was gratifying to hear the new President expressing his dedication to the traditional beliefs of the nation—Glenn Beall, U. S. Senator.

FACTS AND OPINIONS

Peak production. A sow produces up to 12 piglets in 116 days, and a litter of 10 pigs becomes a ton of pork in five months.

Why the editor's job is a headache. "Professor Ernest Brennecke, of Columbia University, is credited with the discovery of a sentence that can be made to have eight different meanings by pacing the word 'only' in all possible positions in the sentence: 'I hit him in the eye yesterday.'" -Coronet.

Dr. William J. Thaler, 34, a highly creative physicist, created a sensation in the newspapers in Washington, D. C. by accepting a $12,000-a-year teaching position at Georgetown University in preference to a $40,000-a-year job in private industry. Dr. Thaler said he chose teaching because it would give him time to experiment. He has already been given credit for the development of some of the nation's greatest breakthroughs in the atomic field. As the Washington, D. C. Labor expressed it, "We're glad to salute Dr. Thaler for his decision. There are undoubtedly many more educators in our land who place ideals above dollars."

"It does seem peculiar," says the Johnsonburg, Pennsylvania, Press, "that the Rural Electrification Administration—socialistic retailers of electric power in many areas of the country—can, by law, borrow money at 2 per cent from the Federal government and, because they have surplus, loan it back to Washington for 3-1/2 per cent.

FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover reminds us, "The freedom we enjoy came dearly to this Nation; bought in blood, and tears, and sacrifice. It has given us a truly magnificent system of justice, and of government, and of commerce, and of social institutions, and a standard of living which is the highest ever recorded by any civilization."

GRASS ROOTS OPINIONS

JAMAICA, N. Y., LEADER OBSERVER: "The community newspaper is in a unique position to make or break many affairs sponsored by local organizations. Through its ability to supply or withhold publicity, the newspaper may be said to have almost a strangle hold on the community's activity. That the publications do not abuse this power is a tribute to the public interest."

DUBLIN, GA., COURIER-HERALD: "According to a report released by the Federal Bureau of Investigation today 'The nine-month period, January through September, 1960, recorded an eleven per cent increase in serious crime in the United States over the same period in 1959.'"

"It's a job not for law enforcement officers alone; it is a task, we think, for all Americans who believe that government by the law is the surest way to freedom and that violations should be speedily and effectively punished."

THREE FORK, MONT., HERALD: "Automation, which ranks high among the most controversial developments of our day, is not exactly new. In fact, it can be traced back hundreds of years and in our own times, produced a considerable uproar in the '30's under the title of technocracy. Now, teaching machines are beginning to aid our flesh-and-blood teachers in the task of instructing youth! . . . the teaching machines tell a student when he has made a mistake and make him try again before the lesson proceeds. The more expensive ones even record the student's score and advise him on his progress and speed in answering!"

WALTHAM, MASS. NEWS-TRIBUNE: "Complaints about the cumbersome aspects of our presidential election machinery are periodic and not to be regarded with surprise. What has become painfully evident in 1960 is that in many areas there appears to be a rather haphazard, disorganized approach to the problem of checking the accuracy of the vote count."

"When the count is known, election authorities thereafter should be prepared to receive and investigate promptly all responsible charges of fraud or other voting irregularities."

FRANKLIN, IND., REPUBLICAN: "Americans have a tradition of hard, effective work, of bold, imaginative experiment, of cheerful hopeful assault on all their problems. They are believers in meaningful liberty, in the freedom of men to rise to their best levels of achievement and well being."

"Men in this country who at least try to live according to these tenets can proudly wear the label of 'American'. Those who do not are empty shells, lacking in the substance of greatness. If at any time in our history we shall find too many of these among us then our national greatness itself must be called in question. For America is only as good as the Americans who make it up."

MARION, IOWA, SENTINEL: "Freedom of opportunity is related in one of the parables of the Bible. You will remember the parable of the talents, wherein three men were given one, two and five talents. The man who has one talent buried his, but the other two worked hard and they increased their holding twofold."

BIRMINGHAM, ALA., UNION LABOR NEWS: "As a citizen you are a shareholder in the United States. Do you take an active interest in its government, studying proposed legislation, spending programs, et cetera—while they are still being discussed, or do you just gripe about them afterwards?"

"Carry the analogy into everything of which you are a part—and then ask yourself whether or no you are an investor."

CORVALLIS, ORE., GAZETTE-TIMES: "Communism uses poverty, illiteracy and illness to conquer nations, as in Cuba to establish a base for new aggressions. Reduce poverty, illiteracy and illness and you reduce opportunities for communism to spread and overwhelm us. But we must never lose sight of the fact that the ultimate goal is a free world."

It's a Breeze To Insulate Old House

Thousands of homes across the country will be uncomfortable and costly to heat this winter because their builders skimped on insulation.

Today, thanks to a special process developed by mineral wool engineers, any house, old or new, can be insulated.

The process involves a special mineral wool insulation called

Working from outside the house, workman removes brick and forces mineral wool under air pressure into wall through hole cut in sheathing. Hole is later sealed and brick neatly replaced. Result: warm house

Pieces of siding are removed at intervals along outside wall so that workman can be certain each stud space is compactly filled with insulation. When the job is done, holes in sheathing are sealed and siding is carefully replaced, as it was before.

"blowing wool." An insulation contractor forces the insulation into walls, ceilings and floors by air pressure.

The result is a complete seal of insulation that can reduce heating costs by as much as 40 per cent and provides greater comfort winter and summer.

NAHB Head Tells Goals Of Builders

By MARTIN L. BARTLING, JR., President National Association of Home Builders

Homes better built than ever before in history . . . homes designed with the entire family's use, comfort, and recreation in mind . . . the right kind of homes for all families at prices they can afford.

This is the goal of the 44,000-member National Association of Home Builders. The association is justifiably proud of the fine new homes that have sprung up all over the country in the post-war years, changing the face of America.

To give the public a chance to inspect the latest homes each year, the NAHB sponsors National Home Week in cities throughout the country. The celebrations this year will be from Sept. 24 to Oct. 2, but some areas have chosen other dates for the unveiling of their new homes.

The community-wide celebrations of National Home Week, with their array of open houses, are stellar events in the annual program of some 350 local home builders' associations which are affiliated with the NAHB.

Many new products and materials will be seen in this year's new homes—the realization of housing research the NAHB has spearheaded for the past decade.

Through its Research Institute the NAHB is developing new building materials, new ways of using known materials, new building techniques and processes, all of which spell better homes at less cost.

To test the new materials and procedures before their general use, the NAHB has built four research houses—at Knoxville, Tenn.; South Bend, Ind.; Kensington, Md., a Washington suburb, and East Lansing, Mich.

This year the NAHB established a research laboratory in the Washington area to test new building systems. The lab is aimed not so much at producing a better single item that goes into a house but, rather, at producing a better total house.

To help its builder-members improve their own operations, the NAHB holds many regional clinics and conferences on the wide variety of problems before the housing industry, which is the nation's largest industry in dollar volume.

Policyholder Questions Answered by the Institute of Life Insurance

Q. How many different kinds of life insurance policies are there?

A. First, there are three chief types of protection: group insurance, bought at the shop or office; industrial insurance, the kind issued in small units on the weekly or monthly premium basis and collected at the door; and ordinary insurance, that bought individually in units of $1,000 or more, with premiums based on an annual premium, although it may be paid more frequently. Within this ordinary insurance, which accounts for nearly two-thirds of all life insurance, there are scores of different policies.

Among the most widely used policies are: straight life, with protection and premiums for life; limited payment life, with protection for life, but premiums payable for a limited period; endowments, providing accumulation of the face amount of the policy for the policyholder himself within a stated period and family protection meantime; term insurance, giving coverage for a limited period; retirement income insurance, giving life income for the policyholder to begin at a stated age, with protection for the family until that age; modified life insurance, usually having small premiums for the first few years and then stepping up; family income insurance, providing family income for a stated number of years and then paying the policy's face amount in full; family plan, insuring all members of a family; and many combinations or variations of one or more of these plans. Each policy has its purpose and is best for that purpose, but for the selection of the specific policy, your agent should be consulted.

Q. A neighbor of mine has all of his debts covered by what he calls "credit life insurance." What is this and can I buy it?

A. Credit life insurance is a type of insurance sold to borrowers through lending offices (or department stores, sales offices, etc.) to insure any unpaid balance of an outstanding debt. If your bank or installment office does not make this available, you can accomplish the same thing by taking out a low-cost policy of your own to cover the total indebtedness.

CHARACTER COUNTS

2 Million Women to Join Mothers' March To Support March of Dimes Health Goals

The Golden Key of Hope—a new symbol for a new decade of medical progress against crippling diseases—is the badge some two million volunteers will proudly wear in the 1961 Mothers' March climaxing the New March of Dimes.

Symbolizing the need for research to unlock the mysteries of such major cripplers as birth defects and arthritis, the Golden Key also represents the vaccine "keys" to polio prevention perfected through research made possible by the March of Dimes.

In most communities, the Mothers' March will take place the evening or afternoon of Tuesday, Jan. 31. Volunteers identified by the Golden Key badge will call on their neighbors for support in the campaign against tragedies which affect one in every four American families.

Each of the estimated 40 million households visited in the Mothers' March will receive valuable health information cards including Do's and Don'ts for expectant mothers, Arthritis Warnings, and Vaccination Alerts for the almost 85,000,000 Americans still not protected against polio.

Beclouded by centuries of superstition, birth defects are considered by medical authorities to be the nation's most serious child health problem. Yet the fields of cause and prevention were largely unexplored until funds from the March of Dimes began to make intensive research possible. Findings derived from early research are included on the cards to be distributed by Mothers' March volunteers.

The cards are also designed to bring home the realization that more than 11,000,000 Americans suffer from some form of crippling arthritis. Many victims, grasping at straws, pay out a total of more than $250,000,000 annually on quack "cures." The fact is that the causes of arthritis are largely unknown. There is no known cure, no known preventive. But research to find the key is being rapidly advanced through March of Dimes support.

Glimpsed through a keyhole, three small victims of dread crippling diseases hold the Golden Key of Hope, 1961 Mothers' March symbol of March of Dimes-supported efforts to unlock the mysteries of their afflictions. They are, left to right, Gail Berg, 3 1/2 years, arthritis patient; Allen Markowitz, 5, polio victim; and Rosalie Porretto, 7, born with a birth defect, all of New York City.

To improve treatment and rehabilitation of those crippled by birth defects and arthritis, a network of clinical study centers is being established by means of March of Dimes funds. Techniques developed

There are indications in the realm of fashion, that stripes will be fashionable this spring.

Harney—Samuel Harner, who arrived home from the west, bringing his driving horse with him has sold the fancy driver to Samuel Weikert who will drive her on his mail route.

—J. Bush Horner and William Plank, two of our western boys, are here on a visit to their home friends. They are looking well and are very favorable to the west.

An Enjoyable Surprise Party.—A very enjoyable surprise party was given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Valentine, living on the Keyville and Taneytown road, on the evening of January 26, in honor of their son, Lennie on his return from a ten-day visit to New Oxford, Hanover, and Littlestown. He was greatly surprised to find about forty or more of his friends waiting to greet him on his return.

Junior and his kid sister may see the inside of a first-aid station before they see the moon on their toy rocket if one of the tricky small-fry space age toys are not soon improved by their designers.

This warning has been issued by the National Association of Claimants' Counsel of America, a nationwide group of 9,000 attorneys who are launching a new program of consumer protection throughout the U.S.

The NACCA Bar Association has urged makers of mechanical and chemical toys to exercise "utmost care" so that a fun-time toy does not become a painful weapon.

Real court cases have shown that toy airplanes powered by carbon dioxide gas pellets can cause injuries and toy darts, airplanes and catapults have figured in many suits in the past.

Those involved with making youngsters' playthings have to remember that engineering geniuses of three can't read and even if they could, wouldn't use the same common sense as an adult.

It's quite possible Junior may hit on an exotic use for his new atomic missile gun that the maker never foresaw but should have—like squirting Mom's best perfume into Baby Sister's eye with it. And when the littlest toddler starts tasting the new toys and chewing their paint off—well, says the NACCA, that's the time for the toy manufacturer to take extra steps to protect His Royal Highness, the Baby Consumer.

Reporters Vote For Close Shaves

CHICAGO — Close shaves were the order of the day for 80 newspaper reporters during the recent Republican National Convention here where Sunbeam chose to unveil its new self-sharpening electric shaver at a Chicago hotel during the GOP conclave. Shown are some of the 80 newsmen who were on hand to test the latest Sunbeam product which utilizes three self-sharpening steel blades. Informally polling the group, syndicate writer Bill Derus of DMS Editorial Pace reported that a majority favored the close-shaving results of a blade shave as designed into the new product. Derus said 73 of those sharing in the sample test said they would switch to the new shaver and 23 also added they would favor giving it as a "most wanted" gift when it becomes available for purchase in drug, jewelry, appliance and department stores in time for Christmas buying.

(Tuesday) the Keysville - Detour road—the part between the Forest and Stream Club Road and the Six's Bridge road is having the snow removed from it so that two-way traffic can move there. A "road closed" sign has been on that road for some time because of some closed roads and much ice. Mrs. Cecil Priest and her daughter, Lois, Forest and Stream Club road were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Valentine one night early last week because they got stuck in the snow.

Wayne Fleharty, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Fleharty, Detour, Md., was brought to his home by his aunts, Misses Carol and Faye Wolfgang on Sunday. SNOWTIME SCENARIO

Color movies of action in the snow are lively souvenirs of a winter resort vacation. Think how much fun you had last year when you went to the mountains for a holiday on bobbeds and skis. But think how that fun would have lasted if you had a color movie of it all.

This winter, if you're going back up to the slopes, take along a movie camera. Here are a few tips to help you capture the action, beauty and color of fun in the snow:

Plan your shots, so that every activity is covered. The simplest "script" to follow is one that starts with early morning breakfast, goes through the day on the slopes to the evening songfest by the fire in the lodge. You needn't take it all on one day. Shoot whenever you can, then edit for continuity by cutting and splicing when you have the developed film.

Think how the picture will look on the screen. Somebody falling down in a flurry of snow can make a fine action shot. But if it comes right in the middle of scenes bearing no relation to it, the viewer will be confused. If you happen to catch such a scene, you can make it much more effective if you shoot some others to be spliced in before and after. Thus: a distance shot of the slopes... then the climb to the top... followed by a closeup of the skier and the smooth start of the descent... then the flailing of arms, legs, skis and poles... and a final shot of the skier picking himself up.

Vary the distances, and don't be afraid of closeups. Avoid the common tendency to "pan" every scene. A series of quick shots from differing angles and distances is often a much more effective way to present an overall scene than a long, slow panning shot that serves no dramatic purpose.

A "Sweetheart" Of A Dessert

Valentine Coffee Jelly

An ideal time for a party, especially with the younger set, is St. Valentine's Day. A real "sweetheart" of a dessert for the occasion is "Valentine Coffee Jelly". This melt-in-your-mouth combination of coffee-flavored gelatin, whipped cream, and cream-filled chocolate cookies couldn't be easier to make. Here's how:

Valentine Coffee Jelly

- 1 envelope unflavored gelatin
- 1 cup hot strong coffee
- 1/2 cup cold water
- 1 cup sweetened whipped cream
- 1/2 cup granulated sugar
- Hydrox cookies
- 1/4 teaspoon salt

In mixing bowl, sprinkle gelatin over cold water to soften. Add sugar, salt and hot coffee. Stir until gelatin dissolves. Pour into heart-shaped mold. Refrigerate until set; unmold. Frost with whipped cream; decorate with cookies. Makes 4 servings.

Household Hints

—by

*Joan March Woidon

Remember all those things you've told yourself you're going to do "this week" or "next week" to make your housekeeping easier and more efficient? The trouble with most resolutions about housekeeping is that they're so hard on the housewife that she throws in the sponge before she even uses it, so to speak. Here are five easy-to-keep New Year's resolutions about housekeeping:

1. I will stage a sit-down strike: (There are some things I will not stand for, such as ironing which can be done sitting down with the aid of an adjustable board) and chopping up cups of things like celery, nuts and potatoes for salad (which can be chopped just as well from a sitting position on a counter-high stool)

2. I will stop being a conveyor-belt: I will make up two sets of cleaning equipment for bathroom and kitchen, thus keeping one in each room and saving stairs and/or steps. In this set will be only the three basics: a scouring powder, a pine cleaner and a sponge with one surface for mopping up and one for scrubbing.

3. I will bring back spring and fall: I will stop tearing my house apart twice a year for spring and fall "housecleaning" and go back to enjoying these two most glorious seasons of the year. I will clean one room a month — thoroughly — and thus never blast my house apart at the seams but always keep it in good shape the easy way.

4. I will change the color of Monday: No more blue Mondays, if there are no more washdays. Instead, I will wash two loads of wash two or three times a week, tucked in between other chores. By adding a pine cleaner to each load of wash, I can get clothes cleaner without scrubbing so that I don't have to do so much sorting of individual collars and cuffs and the like. I will also make use of two of the plastic sprinkle bags — one for white and so that the colored clothes — so that the clothes can be sorted as I take them from line or dryer.

5. I will make use of the 25th hour: The 25th hour in the day is the time (more or less than an hour) a woman has to herself. I'll take it when the children are napping or at school or, if possible, just before dinner. I'll take a hot bath, a short rest or read something to keep my mind as active as my muscles have been. One hour to myself for such a small indulgence will help me remember that it is no longer true that a woman's work is never done — if she stops before she's done in.

March of Dimes Research Grants Awarded Only to Top Scientists

By THOMAS M. RIVERS Vice President-Medical Affairs The National Foundation

If there is any one point that we scientists must get across to the "average man" (if there is any such person), it is that conducting a first-rate research program is much more than just giving money indiscriminately to various laboratories. The key to right giving is selecting the right people to whom to give. This is a most difficult task but it is a job at which The National Foundation has proven itself exceptionally competent. Research may be said to be a journey into the unknown to push forward the frontiers of knowledge. Inevitably, its nature is such that no man can foretell exactly where it will lead. But this "average man" to whom we just referred, and who is perhaps dissatisfied with the uncertainties over where research will lead, might be reminded that The National Foundation has shown in the past what it can do—as, for example, initiating the research that developed the Salk and Sabin polio vaccines. This and other major accomplishments constitute the credentials of the world's largest voluntary health organization for going ahead. A great deal of basic research, of this journey into the unknown, was needed to create the bases which made possible the development of the polio vaccines. This again will be necessary as The National Foundation moves forward in its expanded program which includes birth defects and arthritis in addition to continued work in polio. Perhaps you have heard the comment that a camel is a horse put together by a committee. This illuminates what I think is one of the principles of research. Great research is done by great men, not by committees. It is The National Foundation's job, among others, and to see that they have adequate equipment with which to work.

Dr. Albert B. Sabin at his University of Cincinnati laboratory examines samples of his live-virus anti-polio vaccine, developed by him with $1,500,000 in March of Dimes public contributions. Sabin vaccine, to be taken orally instead of by needle, has been approved for eventual use in the U. S.

It is natural for the public to want immediate results. For the parents of a child afflicted with arthritis, for instance, to want quick cures is understandable. But we are trustees of public funds save for spend those funds have some promise of success, conducted by people who have shown what they can do.

If our aims in research could be aimed in research that The National Foundation operates like a rapier, not a bludgeon. We are selective. We put March of Dimes funds in the exact spot and under the specific man who will make the most of it. We do not dump millions into hundreds of projects with a vague hope that by the law of averages some may produce. In short, we try to be as careful in the selection of research projects as an extremely fussy woman is in selection of a spring hat.

The research future is bright. With laboratory methods that have been developed, many we can move farther and faster than in years past. Indeed, I often think of the polio struggle as a time when we tooled up for what is to come. The methods that were so successful in that polio challenge are now being applied to the greater challenges that lie ahead.

To accomplish what The National Foundation desires requires great men. We shall have them in the future and, with public contributions to the March of Dimes, those men will accomplish much for the good of mankind.

Tips on Touring

By Carol Lane
Women's Travel Authority

Safe Driving in Winter

Women who drive their husbands to work or the railroad station and the children to school must drive regardless of weather. They can use these tips on winter driving:

Be sure the car has chains for snow-packed or icy roads. On packed snow, it takes 69 feet to stop without chains; with chains, 28 feet. On glare ice, the figures are 169 and 63. The difference could be vital.

To start on a slippery surface, use second gear and start slowly. This gives the car more traction and it will be less likely to slide sideways.

When making a curve on an icy road, turn the wheel slowly. If you go into a skid when braking the car, turn the steering wheel in the direction the rear wheels slide. Pump the brakes gently. This is especially important if you have power brakes.

With power brakes and power steering, you'll need a most careful touch. It's easy to lock the brakes and over-steer. Never start, stop or change directions suddenly. And keep a good distance behind the car in front.

But before you even start the motor—be smart. Have the radiator checked and good anti-freeze put in. Don't let the weather stop you cold.

Up Staged by a Fishing Reel!

In their upcoming comedy about a marital mix-up, Bob Hope and Lucille Ball discover the "Facts of Life" when a marlin takes the bait at the other end of their Garcia-Mitchell reel and rod. Bob and Lucy find they've not only caught the fish but themselves in a tangle as you'll see in the film scheduled to open locally this month.

It's in the cards

Some of this year's Valentine "studio" cards are real "ego busters!"

Imagine receiving this message on Valentine's Day: "Can I be your Valentine . . . without being obligated?"

Or this one from the same publisher, Rust Craft: "I love you because you're so sweet and simple . . . minded!"

For those who like a little Shakespearean flavor in their Valentine greetings, there is: "Ah, Valentine, thou makest my poor heart . . . burn!" These off-beat Valentines closely resemble the "Vinegar Valentines" or "Penny Horribles," as some were later called, of a century ago.

For the young lady who cared little for an acquaintance, for example, there was a Valentine in the 1860's with a drawing of an efficient-looking penknife. Underneath the title, "A Smart Blade," appeared this rhyme:

If the truth must be told
You cut it all too fine.
You're a smart-looking blade
But no favorite of mine.

MID-WEEK MEDITATION

Time, the most important and the best known of any system of measurement or any employment of terms which designate limited portions thereof, cannot be defined.

No one, in any language has ever been able to contrive a definition that will tell you anything different from what you already know. A definition must begin with "it is", who then can tell what it is? And why undertake it, since all men conceive what is meant in speaking of time without any further definition.

Some say that it is the movement of a created thing, others, the measure of a movement, but such attempts only show the nature of things that are known to all and thereby create a proposition but do not define.

We know it is a mysterious ever-flowing river that keeps on working always for good or evil. Lost, it can never be recovered. It is good or bad as we use or waste it. It goes back from days, hours, centuries and aeons before things were and moves forward minutes, hours, days, years, centuries and aeons to infinity.

Time is free to all! You may use it or abuse it. It is the measure of your life, mayhap the arbiter of destiny, ever-present, everywhere, vital and invisible.

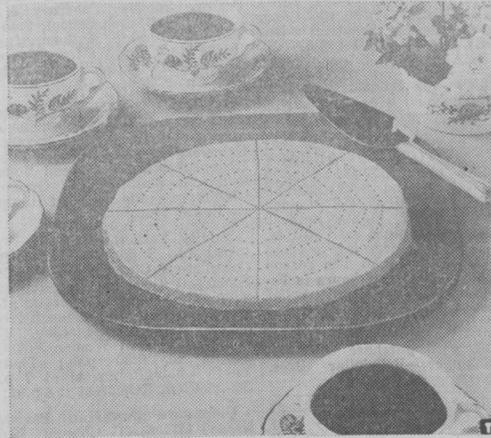

Time has built the tombs of many a great nation, great battles and great events in the history of the world have been lost or changed by the medium of a few moments of time.

Pericles termed it the "Wiseest Counsellor". Those who use it well and conserve it are Philosophers.

Those who waste it and use it carelessly are "Phoolosophers" who understand it? Yet we must use it.

"KEYHOLE KRITIK".

SHORTBREAD—FUN TO MAKE, TO EAT

Shortbread is an old-time delicacy from Scotland. Not really a bread at all, it is a crisp, rich cookie that traditionally is baked in a flat, fork-pricked round about eight inches in diameter. Served whole, it is ideal for informal occasions when each person breaks off a portion sized to meet his or her appetite. For more festive occasions, it can be cut before baking into squares, diamonds, circles, stars or whatever shape is desired. Unlike most cookies, shortbread does not brown during baking—nor does it change its shape. Richness and delicacy of flavor is assured when made with Blue Bonnet Margarine as this recipe suggests:

SCOTCH SHORTBREAD

- 1 cup (2 sticks) Blue Bonnet Margarine
- 1 cup sugar
- 3 cups sifted flour

Thoroughly cream margarine and sugar. Add 2 1/2 cups flour and mix thoroughly. Turn out on board floured with remaining 1/2 cup flour. Knead in flour until dough cracks on surface and does not stick to board. Divide dough in half. Form each half into ball. Place on ungreased baking sheet. Press with floured palm of hand to 8-inch circle; prick surface with fork and mark into wedge-shaped pieces with a dull-bladed knife. Bake in slow oven (275° F.) 45 to 50 minutes.

Makes two 8-inch circles with 16 wedge-shaped portions or about 2 1/2 dozen small cookies.

New March of Dimes Funds Help Eric, Birth Defects Victim, Reach Age of 2

Eric Brantner is a frail and appealing little boy who achieved the age of two years the other day in his crossroads home at Palouse, Wash.

Held in his mother's arms on that great day, blue-eyed Eric could recognize his birthday well-wishers, among them his dancing hound-dog, Jupiter. But not so long ago, Eric wasn't given much time by most doctors to enjoy Jupiter or other members of the household. He was born three months prematurely and also developed an enlarged head (hydrocephalus) due to excess fluid on the brain. His despairing parents, Gail and Vonda Brantner, did not believe that a second birthday was in the cards for Eric.

Then, as the head grew alarmingly larger on the insubstantial body, members of the Whitman County Chapter of The National Foundation came forward with an offer of March of Dimes funds if they were needed for patient aid.

They were urgently needed.

Eric was rushed to Sacred Heart Hospital in Spokane, 65 miles away. There, at the age of 10 months, he underwent surgery for nearly four hours. The surplus fluid was drained away, relieving the pressure on the brain caused by blockage, and a plastic tube was inserted to keep the accumulating fluid flowing from the head to the blood stream near the heart.

Although Eric's appearance today belies his two years—the little boy looks scarcely more than six months old—the doctors' view is that he now has a good chance of survival. He cannot sit up by himself and he is only just learning to toddle uncertainly in a baby walker. But he engages in lively play with his mother and father, who is a section hand for the Great Northern Railway, with his doting brother Mark, three years, and of course with his frisky but gentle four-footed companion, Jupiter.

Eric enjoys the dubious distinction of being one of the first victims of a significant

On second birthday, which his parents never expected Eric to celebrate, his mother Vonda Brantner holds him aloft.

birth defect to be given patient aid in continental United States under The National Foundation's expanded program, which includes arthritis in addition to continued work in polio. (The first instance of patient aid under this new program occurred last year in Honolulu where the local chapter expended March of Dimes contributions to care for a Hawaiian infant born with the birth defect of an open spine; the baby today is well along the road to a normal life.)

Otherwise, Eric's plight is not singular. Each year in this country, 250,000 infants are born with significant defects and 34,000 of them are stillborn or die within four weeks. The National Foundation, which helped develop both the Salk and the Sabin polio preventives with March of Dimes funds, moved into the area of birth defects because these congenital malformations comprise the largest unmet childhood medical problem in the nation today.

With generous support of the New March of Dimes in January, hopefully the number of Eric's will in time be many thousands fewer.

Life's Hunger

Lesson for February 5, 1961

IF CHRIST could turn stones into bread, if he could somehow start with a boy's lunch and build it into a meal for five thousand men with their wives and children, why did he not keep on doing it? No doubt he could have turned stones into bread; but he never tried to do it. Nobody who was out there in the wilderness the day Jesus fed the five thousand had the least doubt that Jesus' powers were unlimited.

No wonder that (as John tells us) they tried to make him king by force. . . . But Jesus steadily refused to repeat the miracle. Jesus loved people, but he was not one to do everything he was asked to do. He was not even going to do all the kind things he was asked to do. For surely it would have been a kindness to make life easier for the poverty-stricken people of Galilee? Surely there must have been really hungry people there. You know there were, because we hear of no one crying for cake, or bread with butter (they would have said, olive oil) on it. Just bread, again, please, again! But there was no encore. Was Jesus heartless? Had his power failed him?

Dr. Foreman

Hunger For Bread

Now hunger for bread is one of the elemental things in life. Quite civilized people, once they become really hungry, act like savages, act like wild dogs. One would think Jesus would not have rebuked the people for wanting what human beings, living creatures, cannot help wanting. We were not there, so we cannot interview any one and find out for certain just why Jesus spoke as he did; but from various hints, we can guess. For one thing, he knew that all the people in Galilee who were sharers in the great "miracle of the loaves and fishes" had managed somehow to keep alive and going, all their years up to that day. Some of them were lazier than average, of course, but even a lazy man, if hungry enough, will work. So Jesus knew that what they wanted him to do was not simply to feed them.

The Starved Soul

Jesus, moreover, took this opportunity to impress an idea on the people of Capernaum, an idea which was true but which they were not quite able to swallow. Not only are endless free meals sure to make a man worthless; but even bought-and-paid-for, meals, well balanced diets, can be a drag on the spirit. Life has other hungers. Physical hungers are loud and crude. But there are other hungers whose voice is quiet, hungers dormant, in some lives never making themselves felt at all. These are the higher hungers, if we may call them so, these are the unmet appetites of mind and spirit. When we refer to a man or woman as having lived a "full life" we do not mean that steak was served them for dinner every night. There are appetites that can be cultivated, but if they are not, they may die away. The hunger of the mind for understanding, for sympathy, for peace; the hunger of the soul for God. These can actually be smothered by an abundance of bread.

The Bread of God

Jesus called himself the bread of life, the bread of God. If he could use such a figure of speech, we may make bold to say that desiring the Bread of Life is an acquired taste. Just as an appreciation of beauty, and of the higher forms of love, are acquired tastes for most people, so the taste for the Bread of God has to be awakened. Few persons are born with it. Countless men and women live not only without Christ but not wanting him at all, not feeling lost (as they are) without him. They do not know what they are missing. What will awaken them? An Old Testament poet had it—"O taste and see that the Lord is good!" If those who know Christ and love him will share him, many who now live starved lives without realizing it, will waken to know that their true inner hunger, the hunger of the soul, can be satisfied only by him.

A RECAPITULATION

This book tells the story about our Great God Who made the earth, and, on it once trod; He came as a Babe to show us the way We all must be in the endless Day.

It would take many such books to tell all God has done, for us, on the great ball; The books only tell how we all must be; For, with Him, we shall live in Eternity.

Jesus said to all people: "I am the way"; So, follow Him daily the Scriptures say; He came to show how we all must be; For, through us, God shall reign in Eternity.

There are many things we all must do To make our body like the Real you; But Jesus did it and (so must we), Else we could not live through eternity.

When Pilate asked Jesus: "Art thou a King?" The answer He gave shall forever ring: My flag, said Jesus, shall be unfurled Not over this, but a different world.

The real you, a Christ, is said to be— That is the language of both you and me! You were made in God's image, (don't you see); So, like Him, we all must grow up to be.

Not one who lives shall ever be lost, Though, by the wind of adversity, he may be It is all a part of God's great plan To make of him a perfect man.

St Paul is an example of what I say; He presented Christians day after day; But, when he learned to know God the records say The Gentiles followed him in that early day.

God did it to show how He wants us to be On the journey from Time to Eternity, We all come here as lights to be For those, among us, who seek Eternity.

There are many things we all can do To help God make this old earth new; So, follow Jesus; and, keep with God's plans To make it the paradise home of man.

The poems all tell how God wants us to do (How we can help Him to make things new; So, follow Jesus; and, study God's plan To make a perfect earth, woman and man.

The essay, too, in the back of this book Tells how God works; so, stop and look, It, too, tells how we all must do To make our body like the Real you.

Many of the things I would like to say About the body which goes to decay; God puts us in it to learn how to do It is not yet the Real you.

Many moons shall come and go before that is true; We have a body at present to learn to be true; But, when it is perfect, like Jesus you shall be And, through you, God shall reign in Eternity.

Many of the poems tell about God and His plan To make a perfect earth, woman and man, So, listen to the Real you—(like Jesus try to live), For, through you, God shall reign in Eternity.

Jesus did not credit His body with renown— Said He: "I have power to take it up and lay it down"; And, He proved it to all when He went away And returned again on the 3rd day.

And just so, we must do; they say; "We all must learn to do this His way; Jesus make His body like the Real you, And, that is something we must do.

When your body is perfect you shall be Like the Boy God sent to Galilee; He rode the clouds, His chariot, and walked on the sea, And, the same shall be said of you and me.

Mortal man still have many things to learn Before the fires of hell cease to burn; But, when he learns like Jesus to do, The body he built shall be the Real you.

So, put in practice, daily, what I say; (To reach perfection there is no other way); Jesus made His physical body of clay To be like Himself, the Scriptures say.

Jesus, too, said to the people: "I am the way"; So, follow Him daily (do as I say); When you are like Him and learn how to do; The body you build shall be the Real you.

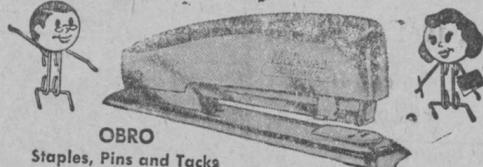

What I say, you all shall some day know (We all come here to learn how to go!); We all come here in bodies of clay To learn to know how to do things God's way.

The book tells of things God wants you to know; So, read it with care, to learn how to go; Many of the pages in it, tell of God's plan To make a perfect earth, woman and man.

When Time shall end, and, no longer be The earth shall be the Fairyland house of you and me; The Boy born at Bethlehem shall be our King; And the Bells of Peace—shall forever ring.

"Subtle Seasonings Flavor Frozen Peas"

The subtle flavor of curry lends a true gourmet touch to this pleasing casserole of fresh frozen peas, carrots and potatoes. High in nutritional value, easy on the budget and short time needed for preparation make this a most enticing dish.

Frozen Peas in Vegetable Curry

- 1 10 ounce package frozen green peas
- 1 cup cooked, diced potatoes (or small potato balls)
- 3/4 cup cooked, diced carrots
- Curry Sauce, made of:
 - 2 tablespoons butter
 - 1 tablespoon flour
 - 1/2 teaspoon salt
 - 1/2 teaspoon sugar
 - 1/8 to 1/4 teaspoon pepper
 - 3/4 teaspoon curry powder
 - 1-1/2 cups milk
 - 1 teaspoon grated onion, including juice

Make curry sauce first. Melt butter, add flour, salt, sugar, pepper and curry powder and blend well. Stir in milk gradually until smooth and slightly thickened. Add grated onion, cover and cook over low heat 8 to 10 minutes, stirring constantly. Cook peas by "flavor-saver" method. Add to curry sauce along with potatoes and carrots. Let stand over low heat until all vegetables are hot.

If desired, vegetables and curry sauce may be arranged in layers in a buttered casserole, topped with buttered crumbs or potato skins, and baked until crumbs are browned (15 minutes at 375°F.)

You And Your Taxes

Uncle Sam is not the only one spending your tax dollars by the billions.

A study of the Historical Summary of Governmental Finances in the U. S., published by the Bureau of the Census, shows that local government expenditures have been increasing at the average rate of 9.4 per cent each year—up, up, up until they have reached an estimated $37.8 billion in 1960. And the upward trend is still with us.

This focus on local spending is brought forth in view of a new program being sponsored in many cities throughout the nation. It is called Home Owner Tax and is designed to arouse the interest of citizens in local government affairs and communicate their views to local officials. It seems particularly timely and worthwhile in view of what's been going on across the country.

That figure of $37.8 billion for local government spending in 1960 was only $16.1 billion in 1950, astounding as that may seem! If it continues its upward trend at the rate of nearly 10 per cent every year, where will the taxpayer be? What will he have left?

Even more distressing, the local governments are spending the money faster than they're taking it in! While the average rate of increase in expenditures was 9.4 per cent, the average rate of increase in revenues was 8.4 per cent for every year since 1950. Estimated revenues for 1960 were $37.8 billion, compared with $17 billion in 1950.

From another source, the National Research Bureau, Inc., comes word that the total state and local debt has also been steadily rising, from $22.7 billion in 1950 to $54.6 billion in 1958, the last year for which figures are available.

Here's what the National Research Bureau pamphlet adds:

"Many state and local governments find themselves faced with tremendous pressures of extended spending. This spending may be in the form of a new school, new road, or relief program. The only way that these programs can be financed is through increased revenue. This revenue may come in the form of higher taxes, or in the form of a rise in tax assessments, which amounts to the same thing. The cost will still be borne by the people. This fact makes it absolutely essential that every citizen carefully examine each new spending measure that is introduced into state and local government."

That is basically the same message Home Owner Tax is trying to get across. H.O.T. attempts to induce the taxpayer to make known to his local officials what he does, or does not, want to buy and pay for in local government. When taxpayers are heard, they generally ask for less government spending, reduced taxes and the honest attention of public officials to their problems. H.O.T. was founded on the theory that many local government functions and services can either be eliminated or performed just as well or better by private individuals.

There is certainly a need for a voice on the side of individual initiative vs. expansion of government services.
