SANITATION AND ZONING FOR CARROLL

Mayors of Incorporated Towns Given Briefing

At a meeting on Friday, Feb. 10 in the Carroll County Office Building, the mayors of six incorporated towns of Carroll County received a briefing on the County's plan for future studies in the field of sanitation, planning and roads. The meeting was called primarily to give the officials of the incorporated areas first hand information on the County proposal and was coordinated by George A. Grier, Technical Assistant to the County Commissioners.

In the field of sanitation it was revealed that the County is presently preparing to engage in a County-wide water and sewerage facility study and that it is expected to be completed in approximately one year. Initial emphasis in this study, according to Mr. Grier, would be in the Freedom District area. The plan when completed would take into account the County's general needs to the year 2000 for public water and sewerage facilities and would indicate stage construction recommendations of such facilities along with methods of financing.

A discussion of the County's Planning and Zoning Program was held including the zoning proposal now being considered by the Planning Commission. The mayors were acquainted with the facts that the proposed County zoning regulations were not effective within the towns. It was pointed out that studies in population, economy, highways, and land use had been underway for several months and that the overall planning program was set for completion in three years.

The proposed Major Road Plan was discussed during the meeting and it was indicated that adjustments may be necessary prior to its official presentation to the Planning Commission for its consideration. Town officials were asked to provide a meeting time for detailed discussion of the plan within the next few weeks. Expressive considerations for the future in Carroll County were shown as being U. S. Route 140, the East-West, Md. 97 south of Westminster, and U. S. Route 40 at Mt. Airy.

As a matter of further explaining the County-town position in such studies, it was related that no attempt or desire was intended by the County to enter into the responsibility of the local governments. An expression of cooperation was noted by the County and town officials to develop future programs which would be beneficial to the County as a whole as well as the various communities in Carroll County.

Attending the meeting were Raymond J. Perry, and Neal W. Powell, Taneytown; William L. Wheeler, Mayor of Hampstead; Roy L. Robertson, Mayor and Earl Yingling, Manchester; Randall Spoerlein, Mayor, George E. Hoover, and Walter W. Harman, New Windsor; Leroy S. Keeney, Mayor of Sykesville; Edward William Mayor of Union Bridge; Francis J. Crawford, representing the County Commissioners; Frank Dorsey, representing the Sanitary Advisory Committee; and George A. Grier, Technical Assistant to the County Commissioners.

Notes expressing inability to be present because of other commitments were read from Mayor Joseph L. Mathias of Westminster and Mayor Frank Horpel or Mt. Airy.

Taneytown Lions Daughters on Imaginary Safari

The daughters of Taneytown Lions were their fathers' honored guests at Taney Inn last Tuesday evening and, in a program prepared by C. David Hiltbrick, witnessed three reels of motion pictures presented by Bear Archery Company secured by Lewis R. Baer and shown through the kindness of Merle S. Ohler.

The meeting was opened by President Glenn O. Reeve, with Rev. Edmund P. Welker pronouncing the invocation, and before sitting down to a sumptuous turkey dinner, everyone joined in a songfest led by Lion tamer Donald R. Lawyer; to Harry I. Reindollar's piano accompaniment. The president warmly welcomed the daughter guests, who were introduced by their dads, and Lion Baer presented as his guest Robert Ellis of the Maryland State Police, while Lion Hiltbrick introduced Keith M. Brown.

At the president's request the district governor's cabinet secretary, Homer Y. Myers, outlined the procedure to be followed by those desiring special Lions automobile license plates bearing the initial letters "AL". A letter of thanks was read from the Retarded Children's Association, and announcement was made of the club's executive board decision to donate one dollar per capita towards district expense at the international convention, a freewill offering to be taken to help defray its cost. Monarch ten-year certificates were awarded Lions E. Gregg Kiser, Myers, Reindollar, W. Wilson Utz, and Carroll Waltz. The secretary, Kenneth C. Shorb, requested blood donors to notify him of their contributions to any individual or blood bank. Singleton E. Remsburg called attention to the zone social night March 22 to be held in conjunction with the New Windsor club's charter night. Reservations should be made with him before next meeting, that of February 28.

Lion Hiltbrick, the evening's program chairman, then brought out his moving pictures, the first of which, entitled "The Bowyer's Craft", showed the making of hunting bows and arrows in the Bear company's plant at Grayling, Michigan, including much automation via specially stages of the art, before the craftsmen take over the hand-tooled operations. The remaining two reels were exciting indeed, to sportswomen as well as men, for "Bwana Bowman" took them across Kenya and Uganda into the upper reaches of the Aruwi river where, at the foot of Mt. Ruwenzori, the hunter stalked a magnificent elephant with but his bow. In "Bow Hunter Safari" the quarry was small Her game of the antelope type in the now dissension-torn Congo. Both films were rich in shots of animals and birds native to the regions, with an occasional stopover in some remote village where naught but love of the chase or of the dance enabled visitor and host to intercommunicate, usually in a universal sign language.

The next meeting of Taneytown Lions will take place on Tuesday, February 28, also in Taney Inn, when Ralph W. Stonesifer will be in charge of Farmer's night. On March 14 the annual public Oyster Feed will be held in St. Joseph's Social Hall in Taneytown. Lions Hiltbrick, Ohler, and J. Alfred Heltebride have been appointed by President Reeve to the Raffle committee for this affair, tickets for which were distributed to members on Tuesday.

REPORT FROM SEN. WEANT

Bills Being Considered are Outlined

One of the interesting bills considered by the Judicial Proceedings Committee this past week was Senate Bill No. 76. This bill would set up a new section of the Criminal Court to prohibit shoplifting. It would define just what shoplifting is, establish the burden of proof necessary for conviction and provide for penalties for first and second offenses. It would also provide for arrest by peace officers on reasonable cause and without warrant. It would give the shopkeeper the defense of "reasonable cause" to civil or criminal action brought for false arrest, imprisonment or wrong detention. This bill was introduced by Senators Buffington and Sanford and provides for penalties up to $10,000. Apparently an alarming increase in shoplifting has caused the introduction of this legislation.

Because previous laws which have been passed in an effort to curb obscene literature have been declared unconstitutional, a new effort is being made through Senate Bill No. 99, introduced by Senator Mach of the Second District of Baltimore City, to prohibit persons willfully or knowingly to sell, lend, give away, show, advertise for sale or distribute commercially obscene literature to any person under 18 years of age. It would also prohibit possession with intent to do so or otherwise to offer for sale any books, magazines, pamphlets or articles or instruments of use which for a person below 18 years is obscene. It would make these acts a misdemeanor and provide for a fine up to $200, or up to one year's imprisonment, or both, in the discretion of the Court. Again, some question was raised as to the constitutionality of this legislation.

Another bill which was considered by the Senate Judicial Proceedings Committee was Senate Bill No. 170 which proposes to exempt from liability for malpractice a duly qualified physician who in good faith renders medical care and assistance at the scene of an accident or in an emergency. Such exemption is made an absolute defense against negligence or malpractice action brought against him because of such acts, and omissions in rendering such aid and assistance.

The various committees have now set up a full schedule of hearings and we are taking this opportunity to advise our readers that hearings for the week of February 19 will be as follows: Senate Judicial Proceedings Committee, February 21, Senate Bill No. 207 on comparative negligence; Labor Committee, February 21, House Bill No. 218 on prevailing wages; 23 on reapportionment legislation and proposed constitutional convention bill; Senate Finance Committee, February 21, budget hearing on Department of Public Welfare, February 22, budget hearing on Board of Natural Resources, Department of Research Fisheries, Department of Research and Education and Water Pollution Control Commission, February 23, budget hearing on Department of Game and Inland Fish, Forests and Parks, and Geology, Mines and Water Resources.

"SPICE 'N' EVERYTHING NICE"

With all my heart, I wish you every morning
A smile that shall last until the next day's dawning.
I wish you health—life's greatest wealth;
I wish you always near so that I may help to cheer
Each future day and in some way—help to bring you happiness!

Life can be cheapened by any individual in fact can be even shortened if one does not use good sense. That is exactly what the "King" (as he was called) Clark Gable did with his life in playing the role of a young Cowboy at his age (which would have been just 60 this month) in the movie called "Misfits"! The place is Reno and the show opens with the divorce of a girl Roslyn Tabor (Marilyn Monroe) who by the way is more beautiful than ever and some how more natural as to this Observer's eyes and just about the best role she has ever starred! Co-starring are Clark Gable (his final role), Montgomery Clift, Thelma Ritter and Eli Wallach. Arthur Miller who was formally the husband of Marilyn Monroe wrote the play for his wife in which to appear and she certainly has done a perfect job! The acting of all is tops and the three men are what one would define as rough but refined men in their way of living and especially in this most pronounced when they think of those words, "There's Nothing Like a Dame!" Roslyn is a tender-hearted woman especially when anything or anyone is hurt! She does not seem to be reconciled to her divorce in the Movie and does not seem to know what it is all about. The two men are single and one is a Widower (continued on page four)

DO - IT - YOURSELF FLUORIDATION

If you are wondering whether your children are going to have any teeth (of their own, that is) when they grow up on account of:

- (a) they don't drink water,
- (b) they drink well, spring, branch or rainwater,
- (c) the municipal water supply is not fluoridated, or
- (d) even if it is, maybe there isn't enough fluorine in it:

you can now relax - just as soon as you've been to the grocery store and bought some Maine sardines!

We have news for parents from one of the world's most famous hives of learning and scientific investigation. While this institution has no sordid interest in fluorine or the fish business or anything else except its own reputation, it has announced without equivocation that each can of Maine sardines (drained and weighing 100 grams) contains 4.5 milligrams of fluorine.

The statement goes on to mention that "some of the literature" on the subject suggests that youngsters of eight to 16 need two to two-and-a-half milligrams of fluorine a day as protection against tooth decay.

"Thus," report these impeccable scholars, "a can of sardines will supply about twice the amount of fluorine thought to be necessary for proper development of teeth for growing children." It should be noted, however, that this investigation dealt with sardines from the coast of Maine - not with the various species of small fishes imported under the name of "sardines." Nor should we forget that Maine is where the Indians caught their sardines - and they had good teeth, didn't they!

We are just waiting for those Maine fishermen to hear about this, when we shall offer them a slogan in return for an all-expense jet circumnavigation of the globe (for two). It will read: "Half a can of sardines a day will keep the dentist away."

We never counted them to see how many of these fishes they put in a can in Maine, but we hope it is an even number.

UNCLE SAM, M. D.

Uncle Sam is going into the health business in a big way if President Kennedy can sell Congress on his six-point proposal for Federal intervention in the fields of medical and nursing services and education, hospitalization, medical research, vocational rehabilitation and "Youth Fitness".

The most controversial item is a revival (with some revision) of the medical care for the aged program that was rejected by Congress last year. Under the new specifications, the estimated cost of $1.5 billion to be met by a hike in Social Security taxes.

The five other programs to be paid for with increased outlays of tax money are loosely figured to cost something over $56 million for the first year and $170 million the second year and include construction of nursing homes and medical and dental schools, Federal medical and dental scholarships.

The health plan for the aged, if passed this year, would be available on July 1, 1962 to 14.2 million Americans over 65 and provide up to 90 days of hospitalization ($10 deductible the first nine days), up to 180 days of nursing home care and up to 240 days of visiting nurse service.

The President insisted in his message that: "This is not a program of socialized medicine." It "guaranteed," he said, freedom of choice of doctor and hospital and is "in accordance with the traditional American system of placing responsibility on the employe and the employer rather than on the general taxpayer, to help finance retirement and health costs".

We had somehow felt the "traditional American system" involved looking out for oneself and one's kith and kin. Nor is there any "freedom of choice" regarding payment of the increased Social Security taxes - even among those who are providing their own health insurance. Nor can we conceive of the Government barging into the healing business in any large way without regimenting the medical profession and entailing the customary extravagance, inefficiency and bureaucratic arrogance.

HEART WITH A "SILVER LINING"

LURAY, VA.—Over a half million coins—pennies, nickels, dimes, quarters, halves and silver dollars—weighing nearly two tons, went into making this unique twenty-two foot heart. The coins were salvaged from the "Wishing Well" at Luray Caverns, Virginia, where they were tossed by over a million visitors during the past three years. Holding a check for their total value, $14,218.86, donated by Luray Caverns to the American Heart Association, Debbie and Donna Horst of Philadelphia, stand in the center of the heart. These 7-year-old twins are the 1961 Valentine Girls for the Heart Fund Drive in February.

Comment from the Capital

WHAT'S POLITICS?

by Van Neff

Two men were talking. One said, "I can't understand how the new administration can possibly keep all the promises it made during the election campaign."

"Don't worry, it won't," the other man said. "Those promises were just politics."

"One of the promises made was to give organized labor a lot of new privileges and benefits in exchange for its all-out support on election day," the first man said. "How can any party make such a promise? Keeping it would be against the interests of the whole nation because the vast majority of Americans don't belong to any union organization and don't want to..."

His companion's answer: "Those promises were made in the heat of the campaign. Nobody can make some of the big concessions promised to labor and still maintain a sound economy for the nation. We have already priced ourselves out of world markets on many commodities. Give 'big' labor all it wants and we'll be in danger of commercially isolating ourselves from the world on many scores. Of course, wages are a major factor in the pricing of goods. I think the new administration made those promises to labor for political reasons, without giving enough thought to how it could keep them."

Promises of big concessions faces in the dedicated, devoted, plotted and planned destruction promised by the Communists. They have never deviated from this purpose. The Communists view any agreement as a temporary measure during which they can consolidate their gains and make further advancement on other fronts. Witness the fact that the Russians have violated 50 of the 52 agreements which they very solemnly signed. The recent Russian move to re-evaluate the ruble is just another tactic in the Cold War — this time on the economic front.

Because he had only a short time left in office, it took guts on the part of President Eisenhower to declare that the expense of maintaining families of armed Americans abroad must be reduced, and that purchase by American military outfits must be American goods. This is a brave attempt to keep our economy sound but, as one observer remarked, "it's not political at this time."

Let's face it: a lot of the actions of men in political life are good for the country and are not "political"; they are motivated by the desire to keep our country strong and not by the desire to gain an immediate advantage.

President Eisenhower acted statesmanly in trying to check the flow of American gold into foreign countries. Let's hope that the new administration follows this example of statesmanship when it comes into power, by forgetting "political" opportunism and putting the best interests of the country first. That means tempering some of those pie-in-the-sky promises made during the presidential campaign. We must serve the interests of the whole country — not repay political favors of a special interest group.

CURRENT EVENTS

Work will be commenced on the opening of the new street which intersects Baltimore St. between Franklin Baumgardner's and William H. Rinaman's properties as soon as Spring weather opens.

Rhoda, the 12-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry G. Lambert who has been ill with diphtheria is able to be up and around in her room. The family was carefully quarantined during her illness.

A brood of White Orpington chicks which occupies one of the show windows of Reindollar Bros., hardware store attracts considerable attention. The little chaps seem to fully enjoy their quarters, and are entitled to be a little "stuck up" over it.

Harney—The entertainment held at St. Paul's Lutheran church on last Sunday in honor of the birth of Lincoln was largely attended and was pronounced by all the best that has ever been held in this place. The music and recitations were unusually good and well rendered. The church was profusely decorated with flags, bunting and potted flowers. The object of the entertainment was to have the members of the Sunday School sign the Lincoln pledge to abstain from the use of intoxicating beverage, while the contribution was for the purpose of purchasing a large printing press to be established at Oberlin, Ohio, for the purpose of publishing temperance literature.

Abraham Hess, is suffering from a slight attack of pneumonia. His son, J. W. Hess of Gettysburg is here helping to take care of him.—J. D. Hesson of Baltimore has purchased a new Hercules stump puller for the purpose of cleaning up a piece of new ground on his farm now tenanted by Milton Reaver.

Frizzellburg—Edward Hively who bought the Cover property in this place intends fitting it up with all modern conveniences. The plumbers are already at work putting in a hot water plant. He will occupy it this spring or as soon as it is finished.—The price of eggs is coming down but there is no kick heard from our male housekeepers. It means a quick meal at a small cost.—Benton Flickinger and Walter Wantz went to Baltimore on Friday to spend a few days.

Frederick family discovers telephone saves $9.55—gives 11 hours extra time—in two-week period

Linda Barrick enjoys her turn to talk with Dad, who's out-of-town on business.

Mrs. Samuel Barrick, at our request, recently completed a two-week "diary" of all her family's telephone calls. Where appropriate, she also estimated the amounts of time, traveling and money saved, by being able to phone.

At the end of two weeks, the Barricks' savings totaled $9.55, 11 hours and 214 miles of traveling!

Mrs. Barrick goes on to say that, in addition to these savings, "Some things just couldn't have been done if we didn't have a telephone... we'd certainly be lost without it."

Perhaps you'd like to see what your telephone does for you. Chances are you'll find, like Mrs. Barrick, that your telephone service gives much more than it costs.

John Lambert, whose residence is located along the Detour-New Midway Rd., ran into a freight train at the crossing at the Western Md. Dairy on the Keysville-Detour Rd. about 11 p.m. on Sunday evening. The road was icy and he was unable to stop his car. The train caused the car to roll over in the big ditch on the right side of the road on top of John. He was removed by ambulance to the Frederick City Hospital and he was sent on from there to the Johns Hopkins Hospital, Baltimore. A radio report said that his leg was amputated that is untrue—the Dr. at Hopkins was able to save the leg which had an artery cut. Cards sent to Johns Hopkins Hospital, Baltimore, will probably reach John all right. John is the fiancé of Miss Jean Stonesifer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Stonesifer of Keysville, P. S.—The road has now been cinched.

Good news! No snow has fallen for several days. The warm weather has been making the snow melt gradually thus decreasing the great danger of floods.

Daniel Ridinger, husband of the former Frances Clabaugh, Keysville-Taneytown Rd. and Richard Wilhide, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Wilhide, Keysville-Detour Rd. will report at Highfield, Md. on Saturday afternoon to start their six months of Service in the Army. They will go to Ft. Knox, Kentucky.

Larry Weishaar, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Weishaar, Forest and Stream Club Rd., near Detour, called his parents from a Baltimore bus station on last Wed. the 8th at 1:30 a.m. The Weishaars had their newly discharged from the Army son home by 5:30. Larry just returned from Germany. The driving from Baltimore was very difficult through the wet snow which was falling very rapidly. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Dennis and family of Washington, D. C. visited on Saturday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Steve Dennis of Mumma's Ford Rd. near Detour.

Visitors with Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Wilhide on Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. Myron Wilhide and Denise, Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Wilhide, Richard, Jane and Beth.

Work is going along well at the Keysville Lutheran Church's new building. One concrete floor has been poured—doors are being cut into the main building. It is said that moving date may be around the end of March.

Wayne Fleharty, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Fleharty, Forest and Stream Club Rd. started back to school on Monday. He had missed around a month of school. The Fleharty family visited in Washington, D. C. with Mrs. Fleharty's sister Carol Wolfgang on Thursday. Another sister Fay, whose birthday was celebrated at this time, and son Shawn and the Fleharts were supper guests of Carol. The trip was made to Washington in order to have Wayne have a check-up by his Dr.

I understand that Mrs. Verna DeBerry, of Hunter St., Hampstead was to have returned to her home on Saturday after having spent two weeks at the hospital again.

The Terra Lubra Girls 4-H Club was cancelled last week due to the weather. The Elmer A. Wolfe PTA meeting was cancelled on Monday Feb. 13th due to the weather and the poor parking facilities at the school. The Poster Contest will be carried over to the April meeting.

Andrea Priest, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Priest, Forest and Stream Club Rd., is back at school this week, after having been very much on the sick list last week.

Jno. Cosden, Naylor's Mill Rd. (Wiley's Mill Property) came home from the Gettysburg Hospital last week. Mr. Cosden is making progress although he is confined to one floor of his home. The Cosden's Grandson, William Cosden and Mrs. Cosden and family of Baltimore, visited on Sunday with their grandparents and uncles Ralph and Thurman.

Larry Dougherty, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Dougherty, Detour, reports a 45 degree temperature and hardly any snow at Missoula, Montana. Mrs. Robert Hood, Jacksonville Florida, reports to her mother, Mrs. John Young, Keysville 72 degree weather there.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Lambert, who live on a farm between New Midway and Woodsboro, are receiving congratulations upon the birth of a son, Steve Allen on Feb. 8th—their 4th Wedding Anniversary. Mrs. Lambert is the former Glenna Green, daughter of Mrs. Elwood Hobbs, Keysville. Mrs. Hobbs is a sister to Mrs. John Young, Keysville.

Mrs. Hobbs' son Fred Green and wife and their year-old son (in March) visited Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Hobbs recently. The son's name is Fred Allen Green, Jr. This is the first time that Mr. and Mrs. Hobbs have seen this grandchild. Fred is at the Scott Air Force Base in Ill. Mrs. Francis R. Yoder of Mattawana, Pa., cousin of the late Mrs. Emory Warner, Detour, was buried on Feb. 5 in Hertzler Cemetery, Mrs.

Yoder and her sons Myron and Everett have visited the Warners and Wilhides in this area a number of times. Mrs. James Coshun of Detour has had quite a number of callers. Although she has been suffering from a cold, she is getting along nicely since her return from the Gettysburg Hospital.

Earl Myerly, near Mumma's Ford Rd. and Clarence Stonesifer of Keysville had to hike from around Rocky Ridge to their homes a week or so ago. They had, I understand, been to a sale at Carlisle, Pa. and got stuck in the snow on the way home.

A VOICE FROM CARROLL

St. Valentine's Day is probably the most popular day that is celebrated among the many because it is so frivolous and its meaning so endearing. Saint Valentine is said to have been a bishop who suffered martyrdom under the Roman emperor, Claudius. Like many other semi-Christian customs the day was set apart to the memory of Saint Valentine in the Christian calendar is an old pagan festival, upon which our ancestors believed that the birds chose their mates for the coming year. This, at least, is the common interpretation of our modern custom of "choosing a valentine" on the 14th of February, and of sending a fancy valentine to the favored person of one's choice. In old Rome on Valentine's Day it was customary among other ceremonies to put the names of young women into a box, from which they were drawn by men as chance directed for the purpose of matching couples as lovers. The Christian clergy, finding it difficult or impossible to end the pagan practice, gave it a religious meaning by substituting the names of particular saints for those of the women. The saints whose names were drawn were proposed for imitation to the persons who had drawn their name. But the substitution of saints for the names of lovers could not please the young people for long. Although the clergy forbid the custom of Valentines, the old pagan custom could not be abolished. The boys and girls triumphed over the Saints, and in the end the girls triumphed over the boys, wresting from them their exclusive privilege of choosing mates.

All who walk on St. Valentine's Day should wear a yellow crocus. It is the Saint's special flower and will ward off all unhappiness in love.

If a girl walks through the woods in the morning on St. Valentine's Day, she may decide her future husband's position by the aid of birds. If she first sees a blackbird she will marry a clergyman; a robin, a sailor; a goldfinch, a millionaire; a yellow bird; a rich man; a sparrow, love in a cottage; a blue bird, poverty; a flock of doves, a life filled with happiness.

It takes years of wholehearted living to fill an attic, but once filled, nothing can give a family the same kind of security and emotional wealth. We have found in our attic, at one time or another a piece of furniture for a family who lost all they possessed in a fire; a baby's bassinet to loan to friend; play things from the past to amuse visiting children; an old lamp for a wedding present; old costumes for the "dress up" period in all little girls lives and all kinds of odds and ends that were given away where they were most needed. But no matter what is taken away from the attic it remains filled and cluttered with things discarded. No longer do we worry about its disorganized arrangement for not too long ago a very young friend came for a visit and asked permission to go see our attic. At first we were tempted to refuse, but seeing our hesitation she hurriedly said: "Please, I just love attics. Its just like being Alice in Wonderland only nicer for I play Alice in the Attic and find more interesting things than a rabbit that talks or a Queen that always mad".

Last week the Boy Scouts of America celebrated their 51st anniversary. The Scout movement has done more for boys than any other youth organization in the United States. With its emphasis on self-reliance it teaches a boy to appreciate his own abilities. The long hikes through the countryside and the overnight stops in camps teaches a boy to appreciate his country and to learn the joy of being close to nature. The high standards of conduct instilled in each member of the Scouts will go with him through manhood, making him a citizen of his own community and the world of which both can be proud. The men who work with the Scouts as leaders and guides should be recognized too for the great part they play in the Scout movement. It is only through their unselfish devotion to boys and their unique leadership that the Boy Scouts of America has reached to such high esteem in the eyes of the public. Here in Carroll County especially have the Boy Scouts and their leaders exerted such a good influence on the public by their achievements.

Ever since Adam man's thought himself boss But ever since Eve, that's been applesauce!

Nancy Roelke, a member of the junior class at Western Maryland College was elected vice-president of her class last week. Nancy is majoring in Political Science and is treasurer of the International Society. She is a member of the college choir and of the college Octet, a group which performs for college programs and for various organizations in Westminster. She takes an active part in the Phi Alpha Mu Sorority to which she belongs. Nancy is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Millard Roelke, of Uniontown.

The kind of person who we wish would hibernate with our groundhog is the one who says when we complain about this weather that we know nothing. That we should have lived when he was a boy when it was so cold that even the stove-pipes froze. Any way we can forget the cold today for the sun is shining warm and the snow is melting and maybe before the day is over we will hear a spring bird chirping.

The best advice we have ever received on how to live through these days of crisis and trouble is to take just ten minutes out of each day to have a little fun. It may just be ten minutes to brew a cup of tea and listen to your favorite record, but do it. Time is rushing by and we are rushing by and we are rushing with it and getting no where. Take time to be quiet and enjoy ten minutes of each day. We all deserve that much. Ruth Roelke.

Today Tuesday is Valentine Day. Leona Meals reports that before the advent of the Post Office, ladies waited impatiently for a carrier pigeon to bring them a special message from a special person on St. Valentine's Day. Today they just wait anxiously for the arrival of the postman who is off schedule due to his heavy load of greeting cards.

According to modern statistics, around three million cards are sent each year on St. Valentine's Day. Probably the postman wishes they were still delivered by carried pigeons.

and of course they are all most interested in this beautiful girl who at times according to the Widow appears as he states "Dumb!"

Never, never will I forget the hunt of the wild horses by plane and to bring them in so to speak to a certain spot where Gable acts too strenuously (which I am positive ended his life) to tie up the horses and sell them for 'horse meat!' He realizes he is an aging Cowboy and his weather beaten face appears every bit of 65 years of age! There is much drinking (even if it is camouflaged with tea) that is not really necessary. One does not get the drift about the whys and wherefores of this Roslyn and leaves one in a mist so to speak. That round-up of the wild mustang is most exciting and the large audience was really thrilled! The rest of the story, I leave to you!

I met a lady on the bus the other day and she was telling me about the teenagers and their behavior and she ended up with this before getting off the bus. "The young boy across the street is in his first year of college and was at home for vacation of the first snow. He lay in bed while his father went out and shoveled off the front pavement!" Ugh!

Since all the snow these days, I have been really learning to walk again and some days walk as many as 42 blocks. One can see and learn so much more when walking about people than you can along the way. I walk in the street as many of the city pavements are not cleaned off. This would not happen in Philly as a householder is called upon by a policeman with the warning to clean off his pavement and is given a certain length of time or else he is fined! That is the way it should be in every city.

LETTERS

Dear Observer:

I never miss your columns and wish you could give me some advise. I lost my husband two years ago and since then as I awaken each morning I say to myself, "What's the use of living? Just another day to live through and what for? "How do you snap out of it anyway? I just cannot seem to get myself together. Did I understand that you were going to start to introduce widows and widowers? It would be a wonderful thing for I know there are hundreds just like myself. Thank you and awaiting an early reply". Signed—Mrs. E. C. G.

Dear Mrs. E. C. G.

Your letter sounded as if read twice as though you were feeling sorry for yourself and thinking only of yourself. By all means get out and do things for others. Join organizations in the community and especially your church activities. The Red Cross is crying for Volunteers and that is not far from where you reside. Yes, I did state in a recent Column through all the lonely individuals from whom I get letters, I feel as though I want to introduce them to each other and I am seriously thinking of doing such a thing as some of the letters I get, I do not even place right here as they are really tragic. Do not be bored with your own company. Get out and do things and mingle with your friends. Don't hide yourself in a shell. Start right now and don't look back. Just Thank God you have your health and your husband's wealth of which he left you. I hope you will write me again in about a month and tell me that you are not lonely anymore or have such morbid thoughts. Best wishes! Your Obs.

Dear Observer:

I am a young married woman and we have a darling 7 month's old baby. My husband has a position at night from late afternoon until 3 a.m. and lately he will phone me at that hour stating he is going to remain a little longer with the men and play cards! This has worried me terribly and we have had words about it in fact I had the words as he never answers me or does any fussing. Now, what do I do? Signed—Young Wife

Dear Young Wife

Do not have words but sit down and have a nice talk with your husband the following morning after breakfast! It is nice to think he does not do any fussing as many men do. Put your cards on the table as you have written me! Good Luck and don't nag! Your Obs.

So long, Folks. Until next week end. D. V.

I am, Faithfully,

YOUR OBSERVER

A JOB WELL DONE

There comes a time in the life of most communities when the people should look back with pride for their accomplishments. NOW is that time for the rural and urban people of Carroll to do just that. On Saturday evening, March 19th, there will be a large gathering of those people who have worked so diligently to build for the county a meeting place, The Carroll County Agricultural Center, Inc.

On Saturday evening, March 18, a dinner will be served at 7 o'clock sharp. After the dinner, a short but interesting program has been arranged which will be important and timely. The mortgage will be burned at this time with appropriate ceremonies.

All those people who have been interested are sure to be there to join in the activities and really celebrate in a big way. Tickets will be at a premium for this festive occasion, so it will be imperative to purchase your $1.50 dinner ticket early.

A brief history going back to the very inception of the idea to create a meeting place for all Carroll County folks, both young and old, will be presented as well as some ideas for the future development of the Center in the years ahead.

This is a call to all people throughout the county to come and rejoice in the accomplishments to date.

It is the experience of most people that only those who are able to create something can be truly happy. You have created lasting facilities for many to enjoy today as well as those of future generations.

Letter to the Editor

To the Editor: Since the students of Carroll County now attending and others planning to attend the State Teachers College at Frostburg could be affected by the proposed merger with the University of Maryland, the following statement will be of interest.

We should like to call your attention, and to that of the general public, several highly important items which are of vital concern to the residents of Carroll County.

First, the State Board of Education has already (last May) approved the four-year liberal arts A. B. degree including pre-professional courses. The first students with the liberal arts A. B. degree will graduate next academic year.

Your governing board has already (last May) approved the preparation of senior high school teachers. Your governing board goes beyond the University of Maryland Report in projecting majors also in art, music and physical education at a later date.

Your governing board has been administering a curriculum for nurses and will consider expansion of this program. To date, there has been no mention of a program of nursing in the proposed branch.

Second, the cost will be greatly increased for every student who will attend college under the proposed merger plan. Here are the facts: Yearly rates being paid by students at Frostburg State Teachers College today are as follows:

317 students in teacher education living at home and paying $45 in fees. 400 teacher education students in dormitories paying $311 in room, board, and fees. 168 teacher education students renting rooms in town and paying $224 in board and fees to the College plus room rent in town.

75 liberal arts students living at home and paying $195 in tuition and fees. 27 liberal arts students renting rooms in town and paying $374 in board, tuition and fees to the College plus room rent in town.

10 out-of-state students living at home and paying $445 in tuition and fees. 15 out-of-state students renting rooms in town and paying $624 in tuition, board, and fees to the College plus room rent in town.

45 nurses living at Memorial Hospital and paying $75 in tuition. The Kuhn Report (University of Maryland Report) indicates a cost of approximately $600 annually for room and board alone. In addition, the liberal arts tuition here would pay for the same tuition and fees as are now paid at the University of Maryland.

There are numerous fees which are required at the University of Maryland, and in our opinion they would in time be required at the branch.

Mr. Edwin Warfield, III, chairman of the Warfield Commission, in his presentation to the County Council of PTA in Cumberland said that he saw no reason why a student in this area should pay less for his education than one would pay at the University of Maryland. Your governing board has consistently argued for low costs for your students.

Mr. Edwin Warfield, III, also stated publicly that he saw no reason why a student should not drive 25 miles one way to obtain an education at the branch at Frostburg. Your governing board has always been opposed to such a policy in this mountainous area where the severe winters make driving very hazardous.

Third, the faculty and administration also have concerns about the future independence of the proposed branch. One of these specific concerns relates to the number of instructors to be employed in each one of the ten departments of the College. As one reviews the Kuhn Report, it appears that decisions will be made at College Park. The point is that the number of instructors employed is dependent upon the demands of students for certain subjects and this varies from college to college in our nation. The total number of instructors for a given department cannot be determined by remote control. Only when a college has local independence over such decisions as well as over other decisions can it really progress and offer high-quality instruction and programs designed to meet the specific needs and requests of the students of Western Maryland.

Fourth, the University of Maryland requested $8,409,900 for buildings in the Governor's budget for this Legislature. This request was cut 50% before it reached Legislature. Assuming that the University of Maryland is successful in obtaining only 50% of its future budget requests for buildings, we have great concern as to what portion of the 50% would be earmarked for College Park, the Princess Anne campus and the Baltimore campus and what portion of the 50% would come to Frostburg.

In the fifth place, we note that the University of Maryland (in print) includes $4,050,919 for Frostburg in buildings and improvements, whereas your present governing board, Maryland State Board of Education, includes (in print) $5,553,100 for Frostburg in buildings and improvements.

Your governing board has one of these buildings under construction now. In view of the fact that it takes the Department of Public Improvements at least one year to draw the plans and advertise for bids for a project at either the University of Maryland or at Frostburg State Teachers College, construction projects move forward at a slow rate.

With a great deal of effort we have doubled the enrollment in a very short span of time, knowing that an enrollment of 1,000 to 1,500 was important, not only for our current broadened educational program which includes four years of liberal arts and four years of teacher education, but also realizing that more students meant more income for Frostburg and Cumberland. We are aware of your extensive program for economic development.

We plead that you do not make the cost of education so high that in the future the student from the average income family will be deprived of a college education. It has been our experience that many of your well-trained high school graduates are reluctant to obligate themselves by borrowing funds for college attendance. What may seem to you a slight increase in cost can make the difference in a student from Western Maryland going to college or not going to college.

In closing we should like to point out that professionally and ethically we support our governing board, the State Board of Education, in opposing the unification of any teachers college with the University of Maryland.

We feel quite certain that Judge William C. Walsh, as a member of the governing board of the University of Maryland, would expect the same consideration from his faculty and administration were the University about to be removed from the jurisdiction of the governing board.

We are cognizant of the fact that we are public servants, and the decision for merging Frostburg with the University of Maryland rests with the people who are urged to voice their opinions on the matter to the delegates and senators in Annapolis during the next several weeks. We appreciate, however, the opportunity of pointing out some pitfalls which could possibly be avoided by a careful study, during the year ahead, of Morgan State College, the University of Maryland, and the five state teachers colleges.

Very sincerely yours, Faculty and Administration of Frostburg State Teachers College

Soil Conservationists Met in Memphis

Local conservationists attending the Convention of the National Association of Soil Conservation Districts held recently in Memphis, Tenn.; were Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Brauning Sr., Finksburg; Mr. and Mrs. D. Leonard Reifsnider; Keymar; and Mr. and Mrs. Grover C. Zimmerman, Westminster.

Water, its use and misuse, was the principle theme of the Convention. The discussion was attended by more than 2,000 conservationists from all 50 States. It was emphasized that sewage, industrial wastes and sedimentation were the big problems on most major rivers, streams and dams. It was agreed that prompt action is necessary to correct this condition.

The Department of Agriculture, just prior to the meeting, released figures indicating what modern Farming means to the economy of the Nation. Some of this data is as follows:

Employment figures, show that 7.4 million workers are on farms. That 4 out of every 10 jobs in private employment are related to Agriculture. 16 million people are employed in storing, transporting, processing and merchandizing agriculture products. One farm worker produces food for himself and 24 others.

Investment for farmers total more than $203 billions. This amounts to an investment of $21,300 for each farm worker. Industry invests only $15,900 for each employee. Taxes on this investment in real estate and personal property, $2 billion, Income taxes $1.25 billions.

Farmers spend each year, $26 billions for goods and services to produce farm products. $15 billions each year for clothing, drugs, furniture, appliances and many other products of industry $3 billions a year for farm tractors and automotive equipment, $3.5 billions for fuel, oil and maintenance of farm equipment. $1.5 billions for lime and fertilizers. Farmers use 9% of all rubber or enough to place tires on more than 6 million automobiles. Farmers use 24 billion K.W. hours of electricity, or more than is used in the cities of Baltimore, Chicago, Boston, Detroit and Houston, Texas combined.

For the farmers investment in real estate and personal property, his expenditures for goods and services off the farm, his share of the food dollar is only .38 cents. He receives 2.4 cents for the corn used in a 26 cent box of corn flakes, 2.3 cents for the wheat used in a 20 cent loaf of bread, 11 cents for a 26 cent quart of milk, 29 cents for the cotton in a $4.00 shirt.

The per capita income of a farmer is $965.00 or a net return of 1.29 per hour for his labor, while factory wages are on an average of $2.22 per hour.

If the family farm is to continue to be the backbone of our economy, then ways and means must be found to give farmers a greater share of the food dollars in the market place.

Social Security

Workers who are reaching retirement age in 1961 may now receive benefits and earnings even though they exceed the $1200 limitation, according to an announcement today by L. J. Gillespie, Field Representative of the Baltimore (North) Social Security District Office.

This is so, Mr. Gillespie explained, because the method of charging excess earnings over the $1200 limitation has been changed by recent amendments to the Social Security Act. The new method provides that $1.00 in benefits will be withheld for each $2.00 earned between $1200 and $1500; and for every $1.00 earned over the $1500, $1.00 more will now be withheld from total family benefits payable.

This important change, Mr. Gillespie pointed out, will now make many more workers eligible for some social security benefits in 1961 and future years than under the old law which disqualified a worker for any payments if he was working in all months of the year and his earnings exceeded $2080.

Here are just two examples of how the new retirement test works: (1) A man and his wife receiving monthly social security payments of $180, the highest amount payable to a retired couple, may receive some benefits during the year if the husband earns less than $3510. Under the old law, he and his wife would have been disqualified if he had worked in all months of the year at this level of earnings.

(2) A worker receiving $120 a month in social security benefits could earn up to $2790 in 1961 or a future year, and still receive some of his benefits.

The provision still applies that all monthly benefits may be paid if earnings do not exceed $1200 in the year.

The provision also remains that a benefit is payable in any month in which the beneficiary does not earn more than $100 in wages or render substantial services in self-employment regardless of his total earnings during the year. Benefits may also be paid for months in which a worker is age 72 or over. Mr. Gillespie urges all workers who are nearing retirement age and have deferred filing a claim for benefits because they were earning over $1200 a year, to call at the Social Security District Office, 1107 Greenmount Avenue, Baltimore 18, Maryland, for further information.

A free pamphlet entitled "If You Work While You Get Social Security Payments" (OASI-23), which explains the new retirement test in detail, may be obtained upon request.

NATIONAL CONFERENCE ON ELECTRIC HOME HEATING

More than forty national organizations will participate in a national conference on electric home heating to be sponsored by the National Coal Policy Conference, Inc., in Washington, D. C., on Friday, February 17.

Many segments of the building, building materials and electrical and allied industries, as well as both banking and government will be represented. Both management and labor will participate in the one-day session.

Joseph E. Moody, president of the sponsoring organization, said the meeting was being held to bring the story of electric heating to many building trade and other groups which have not previously had reason to be particularly interested with it, as well as to offer a forum for those active in its promotion to exchange views.

The growth of electric heating is very important to the bituminous coal industry, Mr. Moody pointed out. With electric utilities now doubling their power output every 10 years, they have become the largest single customer for coal and will continue to be in the future, he said.

"SUCH A LOVELY BITE"

St. Clair Adams says:
When Springtime comes, and days are warm
Then I began to squirm
To hie me out with spade and hoe
And dig a little worm
Then to the river bank I haste
And sit beneath the oaks
While slowly through by trouser's seat
The sticky dampness soaks.

But what dreams of big ones hooked fill our minds until it seems the fish are too dainty for our blandishments, hours pass, the sun sinks behind the trees, hints of evening brood over us, the blue dies out of the water, greenness vanishes from the hills everything becomes silent, gloomy, grey and cold, coat collars go up and thoughts of "Lets go home" permeate our minds, but, wait a second "I just had such a lovely bite!"

The thrill of a bite when patience is flagging and endurance ebbing out. The cynic laughs and guffaws, "what good is a bite?" A bite is of no use for dinner, supper or breakfast. You can neither fry nor broil it. I wonder does the cynic know that a fish never looks quite as well on the bank as it appears to the excited imagination when the big jerk comes on the line.

How many fish did you catch? Oh a dozen or so, but I had such a lovely bite. We forget the fish but remember the bites. We attribute superlative qualities to the unrealized, it is a courtesy we extend to the unknown, a sort of a philippic chivalry.

In life we search for joys are contentment, the search requires patience and perseverance that we may escape the hollow laughter of self-derision, suddenly there is a tug on the line, someone has befriended us, someone understands. Oh such a lovely bite! disappointment vanishes, flagging enthusiasm is revived, so when the hours of life become long and tedious when the waiting is weary and he nibblings vexatious, bites disappointing can we not live on the wealthy memories of that someone who tugged on the line with such a lovely bite.

When you are tempted to wind up the line and give up in despair, remember the lovely bites you have had and the old glow will steal back, leaden moments will fly and this human angling will become a thrilling story.

U. N. Secretariat Develops New Binding Method

The U. N. Publishing Division has developed a simple and inexpensive method of bookbinding used for reference volumes. The method which has attracted the attention of libraries in various parts of the world requires only an ordinary paint brush, cold padding glue and an improvised rack for stacking the volumes. Shown demonstrating a step in the technique he helped develop is U. N. staff member William L. Watson who is in charge of the binding service.

Family FINANCIAL PROTECTION

Policyholder Questions Answered by the Institute of Life Insurance

Q. Having just received a raise, I want more life insurance, to give the family better protection. Which would be the best policy to buy, straight life, 20 year endowment or term insurance? I'm 35 and have 3 children.

A. Your question could not even be considered without more information about yourself, your family and your plans. Life insurance is something that should be bought to fit each family's own individual needs. There is no "best policy." Each type of policy is best for the particular circumstances for which it was designed. Consult your life insurance agent and give him all of the facts as to what you have, what you want to do and what you can afford to put into it.

Q. What is mortgage life insurance? I understand it can be bought by a home buyer to insure paying off the mortgage in full in case of death. What does it cost? Who sells it?

A. Mortgage life insurance is a life insurance policy written specifically to cover the home mortgage, providing the funds to pay off the mortgage balance in case of the death of the home owner. Any life insurance company will write this protection. Its cost depends on the age of the home owner and the particular kind of policy used, as it may be written on many plans. The annual cost on the plans most commonly used runs from less than 1% to 2% of the mortgage principal. Some plans provide insurance in an amount approximating the reducing unpaid balance, year by year; others provide a stated amount of insurance, equal to the principal and thus allowing increasing family protection as the mortgage balance reduces. Any agent could give you the details of a plan that best suits your particular needs.

Annual Winterizing Is Vital Phase Of Economical Home Maintenance

Careful Checkup In Fall May Save Big Repair Bills

Getting a house ready for winter doesn't end merely with hanging storm windows and having the heating plant inspected.

Equally important is an inspection of the entire house and grounds to discover weak points that might break down under the onslaught of winter winds, snow, ice, and sleet.

Roof Important

These include loose shutters and siding, dead tree limbs that might be blown down to cause damage, a tottering TV antenna, crumbling mortar in chimneys and foundation, and such things as loose screening in attic vents that might entice squirrels or other rodents to take up residence.

Perhaps most important of all to a home's winter welfare is the condition of the roof. This is where winter's hardest blows land: scraping ice, melting snow, severe temperature changes, harsh winds.

Leaks Are Threat

Most any home owner can get a fair idea of whether his roof will protect the house through the long winter by merely looking at it. If it looks shabby, it probably is worn out and will have to be replaced. A closer inspection can be made in the attic during a rainstorm. Darkened areas along deck boards and rafters indicate leaks. This means the entire roof is weak, since roofing material wears out uniformly.

When a roofing contractor confirms the home owner's analysis, chances are he'll recommend a new roof of asphalt shingles at a price that generally is a pleasant surprise. This is because asphalt shingles go in place quickly over old roofing material, keeping the labor cost of applying them at a low level.

House 'Detective' Can Find, Arrest Budget Robbers

Proper home maintenance is one of the most important aspects in the economics of home owning today.

Heating fuel is too costly to be wasted. Labor costs for major repair jobs—often the result of neglect—are high. Even a leaky water faucet can waste dollars worth of water if it is ignored for long.

Waste Avoided

Waste and damage through neglect can be avoided by semi-annual inspections by the home owner. He can caulk heat-wasting cracks at the foundation and around window and door frames, and install weatherstripping.

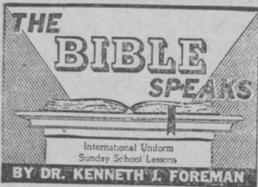

New washers eliminate water waste, and a fresh coat of paint can protect exposed surfaces against severe winter weathering.

Among the major causes of excess heat loss are insufficient insulation and the lack of storm sash and doors. Accessible areas such as attic floors, floors above crawl spaces, and the ceiling and wall of an attached, unheated garage can be insulated easily by the home owner with batts or blankets of mineral wool. Other wall and ceiling areas can be filled with mineral wool by a contractor with equipment that blows insulation into enclosed spaces.

Storm Sash Vital

Combination storm and screen doors and windows of ponderosa pine can be purchased from building material dealers in sizes to fit all requirements. These wood combination units are preferred because wood is a natural insulating material and can be painted to harmonize with exterior color schemes.

A properly insulated house with storm sash and doors can be heated for as much as 50 per cent less per year than a house insulated to minimum FHA requirements without storm sash and doors.

Lord of Life
Lesson for February 19, 1961

MANY MORE people died in Palestine than Jesus brought back to life. He did not spend all his life, or anywhere near the most of it, in breaking up the most of his, or anywhere near the most of his, or anywhere near the most of his...

Dr. Foreman

No Tears for Lazarus
Why then did the Master weep when Lazarus died? Some think he wept for himself; but this would be most unlike him. Self-pity would be the last sin you could think of in connection with Jesus. Others think he wept for Lazarus. This could scarcely be true; for he knew he was going to restore the man to his family. Some would agree to this—Jesus did not mourn for a man death could not hold. But could he have been weeping for the opposite reason—that Lazarus had to come back to this world of pain and sin? It is more likely that Jesus' tears were not for Lazarus at all, but for the grieving sisters Mary and Martha. If he wept for Lazarus, it would be the one and only funeral that brought him to tears. It is more natural to think of Jesus as sharing the sorrow of the two sisters, as he shared the woes of the world always. He was indeed "acquainted with grief."

Man's Worst Enemy
Many people, perhaps most, think of death as the worst enemy of man. Death is called once by St. Paul the "last enemy," but neither

Paul nor any other writer in the Bible (except Ecclesiastes) looks at death as man's worst enemy. That place is reserved for sin. The damage that sin can do is worse than any damage death can do. This is not to say that prevention of death, or rather postponement of death, which is all that medical science can accomplish, is not worth while. If "Thou shalt not kill" is a divine command, there is another command wrapped up, as it were, in that one: Thou shalt do all things possible to preserve and prolong life—thine own and the lives of others. Nevertheless, though the healing professions owe much to Christianity and have contributed much, the fact remains that no death can be anything but postponed, while sin can actually be prevented. So our Lord spent most of his time not in breaking up funerals but in breaking the power of evil. It is less important, after all, to keep men from dying than it is to keep them from sinning.

Two Kinds of Life
Let us turn this thought around and look at it another way. It is important enough to be looked at for a long time. Here is a question: What is the most important thing in the world, to you? Many persons would come up with what seems like the simple answer: My life. That is a true answer—perhaps. It depends on what kind of life you mean; for there are two kinds. One is the life that ends at the moment of death, the life that is tied to your heart and lungs. The other is the life called in the Apostles' Creed the Life Everlasting, but better called in the New Testament the Life Eternal. There at Bethany Jesus did not prescribe for Lazarus a pill or potion guaranteed to keep him from dying again. Lazarus would die again, and Jesus knew it. So did his sisters. Jesus did not offer them life everlasting; they had it. God has made us human beings so that death is not the end. But the pressing, even the terrible, question is: What sort of person are you going to be, forever and ever? Without the life eternal, the life everlasting can be an eternity of frustration at best, torture at worst. Without the life eternal, life everlasting means only existence shut away from the Lord of Life. Eternal life is that kind of life that makes everlasting life worth the hope of man and the promises of Christ.

"THE FATHER AND I ARE ONE"

The Christ in Jesus was God, the Scriptures say: And we too, become like Him, when we go God's way; Jesus, too, said: "The Father and I are one—"

The Scripture keep telling us, day after day, That, to learn to know God we must go His way; So, always do what Christ the real you, tells you to do And He will make a perfect man of you.

"In the beginning was the Word"; the Word was with us, And the Word was God just as things are today; Jesus knew well that, what I say is true: The Christ is your body, became the real you.

God sent Jesus to earth to tell of His plan To make a perfect earth, woman and man; His whole life was an object lesson for us to see How, like Jesus, we must grow up to be.

Many wonderful things in the Bible I see; But, that is the lineage of both you and me; God sends us all here to learn of His plan To make of you a perfect woman or man.

So, to become a Son of God, like Jesus we must be (That is why God sent Jesus to Galilee?) God sent Him as a baby to show me and you How, like Jesus we must be and do.

The Bible is replete with situation where men, they say Seemed beyond material help in every way; But, through faith and prayer they triumphed they say; So to build a perfect body, try their way.

Affirmation of health, even in this late day, Result in marvelous restorations, they say; Jesus, too, said: Whosoever learns to go God's way Shall build a body that is free from decay.

Mighty vibrations are stirred up, they say, When we speak of Jesus Christ, and go God's way; If ye shall ask anything in my name that will I do, Is a promise Jesus gave to me and you.

When Jesus was a boy He made birds out of clay; And when He said: "Fly, they flew away; God always helped Him do, what He wanted too do; Because He sent Him here to teach me and you.

Our God is real—(just like the real you!); So follow Jesus and, learn how He wants you to do; God sent Jesus here to tell of His plan, To make a perfect earth, woman and man.

In every age they tell us, Jesus has come this way, (God sends Him here to teach us, they say); As Malakizedek and Moses He was once said to be; And, just so, God works through you and me.

Everything on this earth which you see The physical body of God is said to be; Without Him nothing that is would you see— Not even the earth, a flower or a tree.

The chemist can make a grain of wheat Which looks like the ones we daily eat; But if you plant it, it will not grow; For, God is not in it, to make it do so.

God is the seed in everything which you see— (We see Him in the Apple and peach on the tree) I am telling you this, because I want you to know That, "God is all in all", down here below

God is not external; but, within us, they say— That is where He is known to stay! And, that is where His Kingdom is said to be; For, He rules all the earth, through you and me.

In these physical bodies in which we dwell We learn the secret of heaven and hell; The man who create them are you and me, Since the devil, the 5 senses are said to be.

It took 1600 years to write the Bible, they say; For, it tells about God, and, how to go His way; But, we listen to men, and, do as men say— (That is why things are as we see them to-day.

The God I worship is everywhere found, Both up in the air, and, on the ground; Without Him, no Fairyland would ever be, To serve as the future home of you and me.

The Bible tells us that we are God's hands— (Through us, He carries out all of His plans); We, too, are Spirit Beings, the Scriptures say, But, God gave us bodies to teach us His way.

When mortal man is made perfect he shall be Like Jesus who once lived in Galilee; God sent Him here to tell of His plan, To make the whole earth a heaven for man.

Take God out of my body, and, what do you have? (Physiology says: "A very little me?"); Nine-tenths of it is blood, water and bone; So God would be standing there alone.

At so-called Death man does not go to final rest— (Death is only a part of Eternity's test!); So when you go your God goes, too, For, He it is said is the Life of you.

As I understand, Death is only a part of God's plan To make of you a perfect woman or man; So reincarnation they tell us is the only way By which to make perfect these bodies of clay.

Perfection is man's goal; so, perfect he must be; From modern teaching, he must flee, Like Pilate he must wash his hands When forced to do what earth demands.

Ore Rush Moves Onto Indian Reservation

NEW YORK — The Wild West where prospectors once made fortunes in furs, gold and land is now the scene of a new "rush" — iron ore.

Steelways, official publication of American Iron and Steel Institute, said that "rush" was instigated by the nation's steel industry in its never-ending search for iron resources essential to fuel the giant blast furnaces.

The magazine disclosed that ore prospectors of one company are now concentrated in Cibecue, Ariz., deep in the White Mountain Apache Indian Reservation where the Bureau of Mines estimated the existence of at least 10 million tons of ore.

What the steel geologists seek to determine is whether the quality of the ore justifies commercial extraction. Steelways said that though the ore is needed, the deposits not only must be large enough but also good enough to defray a cost of many millions of dollars to get it out of the wilderness and into the company blast furnaces.

Steelways said the Apache Indians stand to strongly better their economic lot if the ore "rush" develops. The Apaches were paid a $42,100 bonus for the right to prospect a 118-square-mile section of the 2601-square-mile reservation. The agreement also stipulates that if the land is leased for mining, the tribe will get a dollar an acre per year for rental plus a royalty of between fifteen and twenty cents a ton of ore shipped from the mine.

The publication said the search for further iron ore resources in the American west involves a substantial segment of the domestic steel industry and virtually amounts to a reassessment of the west's mineral resources. Two major factors have led to the "re-prospecting" there — the steel industry's need for new domestic ore reserves and the industry's growing ability to beneficiate (improve) uneconomical ores.

The steel industry has spent more than a billion dollars in the last decade developing overseas sources of iron ore to meet immediate and foreseeable needs. By 1959 overseas and Canadian ores accounted for about one-third of the iron ore used in domestic steel production, up from approximately one-tenth from 1950.

Simultaneously, the industry has invested millions in the development of ore beneficiation processes. These, though expensive — its estimated that beneficiation plants expenditures for the ten year period between 1953-63 will be more than $1 billion — make possible the use of lower grade ores remaining on the American continent after years of depletion of the higher grade ores. This, in effect, adds potentially enormous quantities of ore to our domestic supply.

Your Future's Favorite Cake!

Destined to be a favorite dessert for special occasions—birthdays, parties, church fairs—is this wonderful coconut "torte". The traditional "torte", of German origin, was a rich cake made of nuts, fruits, eggs, and sometimes bread crumbs, but with little or no flour. In this version, graham cracker crumbs are called for. This old-world torte is delicious, too! Serve it with any rich, fluffy sauce, with whipped cream or with softened ice cream.

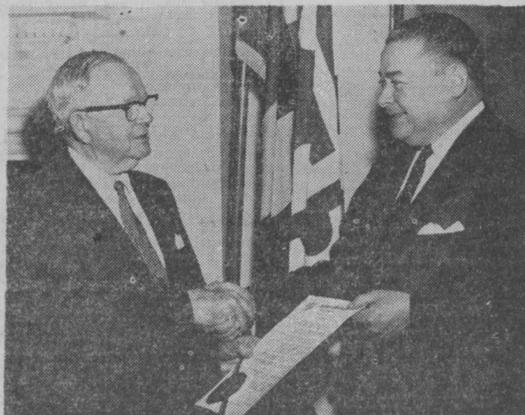

Marokkaner Torte

- 6 egg yolks
- 1 cup sifted confectioners' powdered sugar
- 1 cup finely ground blanched California almonds
- 1/2 cup Baker's Fine-Grated Coconut
- 2 tablespoons finely cut citron
- 2 tablespoons finely cut candied orange peel
- 1/4 cup finely cut California dates (7 or 8 dates)
- 1 teaspoon vanilla extract
- 2 tablespoons lemon juice
- 1/2 cup finely sifted graham cracker crumbs
- 6 egg whites
- Favorite topping (about 2 cups)

Beat egg yolks at high speed of electric mixer, adding 3/4 cup of the sugar gradually, until mixture becomes thick and light colored. Add almonds, coconut, citron, orange peel, dates, vanilla, lemon juice, and graham cracker crumbs. Blend well.

Beat egg whites until stiff enough to hold up in soft peaks, but still moist and glossy. Add remaining 1/4 cup sugar gradually, 2 tablespoons at a time, and continue beating until sugar is blended. Gradually fold egg whites into egg yolk mixture.

Pour into two round 8-inch layer pans, which have been lined with paper. Bake in moderate oven (350°F.) 35 to 40 minutes, or until top springs back when pressed lightly. Cool thoroughly and remove from pans. Spread favorite topping between layers and over top. Chill until ready to serve. Makes 10 to 12 servings.

The month of February will be observed throughout Maryland as "Heart Month" according to proclamation by Governor J. Millard Tawes. In presentation ceremonies at his Annapolis office, the Governor delivered the formal proclamation to Nelson T. Offutt, General Chairman of the 1961 Maryland Heart Fund campaign. Mr. Offutt received the document on behalf of the Heart Association of Maryland and its nine chapters in the state. Governor Tawes, in his proclamation, noted that diseases of the heart and blood vessels constitute the Number One health enemy in Maryland as in the nation. The document points out that heart diseases cause widespread suffering in Maryland, and often create serious economic hardship in Maryland homes and businesses. Stressing that only through scientific research will we eventually find new knowledge for the control of the heart and blood vessel diseases, the proclamation continues: "The Heart Fund is the Number One defense against these diseases, supporting research to develop improved methods of diagnosing, treating and controlling heart and blood vessel disorders, and making possible an effective program of education and community service to bring the benefits of new knowledge to all citizens." The Governor urged the support of all citizens, businesses and organizations for the Heart Drive.

Herbert Hoover Building Portrait Presented To Boys' Clubs Chairman

Former president Herbert Hoover accepts oil painting of new Boys' Clubs of America headquarters, named in his honor and presented by P. C. Spencer (left), board chairman of Sinclair Oil Corporation. Mr. Hoover, who has served as active chairman of the national youth-guidance organization for 25 years, recently was host at semi-annual meeting of Boys' Clubs national board, where he announced the record new total of 575 Clubs and more than 600,000 members. The painting, which originally appeared in Sinclair's Conservation of Natural Resources series, will hang in Mr. Hoover's New York offices, where the 86-year-old former president keeps a full staff of secretaries busy.

WEIGHTY EVIDENCE of need for "economic freedom in transportation," says David I. Mackie, chairman of the Eastern Railroad Presidents Conference, is contained in these 300 pounds of government reports. In Pittsburgh speech, Mr. Mackie urged "the nation's youngest President" to free the railroads, "the nation's oldest regulated industry," from "74 years of economic slavery." He announced that the railroads have established a four-point "emancipation" program for 1961.
