Taneytown was swarmed with sightseers last evening anticipating the Firemen's Parade, despite the threatening overcast sky above. The parade started with the participants showing their usual enthusiasm, but only a few minutes passed until a steady downpour of rain very abruptly ended the parade. It was most disappointing to everyone concerned as the prospects for an extremely good display of equipment and marchers was evident. Nevertheless, we have great expectations that with the weatherman's indulgence and the patronage of the Firemen by the citizens of the community the remaining three nights of the carnival will be more success-

A Councilman's Observation

Quite a bit of interest was shown in the recent town election — enough to prove to me that our citizens are ertainly concerned about their town, Taneytown. It was the time when citizens had a chance to vote their opinions and have a say in their town government. Citizens who voted in this election and who previously haven't voted regularly are to be commended upon their integration. commended upon their interest which was shown by the unusually heavy voting. At such time they elect men whom they want to run the affairs of their town. These men should serve the people they represent at all times. The people want men who will protect the interests of all — after the citizens make up the town without you, the people, we would not have a town.

At the same time the town councilmen need the support of you and you and you — not just a few, but everyone. The council needs your ideas and suggestions for improvements, after all, they are serving you. They need your criticism, but let's make it constructive instead of destructive. Anyone can criticize but it takes a real man to pay someone a compliment. Before you criticize make sure you have the real facts first. Ask your councilman for the facts — he

FACTS AND OPINIONS

In discussing the proposal to provide government medical services to persons drawing social security benefits, the Toledo (Ohio) Times observes: "This is far different kind of thing than a pension. If workers are to be taxed regardless for health Insurance, why can't they be taxed for housing insurance? Certainly the guarantee of a place to live is just as important as paying the doctor. How about another quarter of one per cent to guarantee 'grocery care'? Some oldsters get involved in litigation. Who's going to pay the lawyer?

"The point is that freedom of choice about personal matters is basic to our democracy. Heaven knows that freedom is being eroded enough by unavoidable circumstances; there is no reason to erode it unnecessarily."

In an effort to spur interest in safer automobile design an Insurance company is displaying a conventional sedan equipped with 24 built-in safety features. These include two high-backed bucket seats, lap and harness belts, roll bars, head rests, a flexible steering shaft and a rectangular steering wheel.

David Lawrence writes, in U. S. News & World Report: "Since the interests of the Citizens of the United States have been endangered, it would seem desirable for the Gov ernment in Washington to send word to the Havana authorities promptly that, unless protection is given to American lives and properties, this country will take all steps necessary to achieve that result. It will be argued that such a course could antagonize the other governments in Latin America. The answer is that the United States cannot afford to forfeit its rights under international law on the mistaken theory that some sectors of public opinion in this hemisphere might be alienated."

An officer of the Central Louisiana Electric Company says that all the current comments about this nation's "New Frontier" have a spectacular parallel in the field of electricity. The "electrical frontier" forecasts such developments as outboard motors, lawn mowers, automobiles, refrigerators and other portable and mobile equipment that can be operated with their own electric power plants.

Railroads haul nearly half of the nation's freight in normal times, and much more in war-time-for example, 71 per cent in 1943. They directly employ some 800,000 people, and provide indirect employment for additional thousands through the $2-1/2 billion they spend for materials and supplies annually. Their taxes come to nearly $1 billion a year.

The Exchange magazine points out that, at a consumption rate of a quarter trillion gallons a day, this country has water worries aplenty. These cares seem to be leading to a new water desalting and purifying industry. At least 25 major companies are engaged in the search for ways to make ocean or brackish water palatable or to re-use available fresh water. A government expert estimates that by 1970 more than 1,000 American cities will be forced to purify salt or brackish water for drinking purposes.

According to the president of the Air Transport Association, if removal of the 10 per cent passenger transportation tax were to permit common carriers to attract as little as one per cent of private automobile travel, their traffic would be increased by almost 9 per cent. These are the savings reported to us by Mrs. Rothenhoefer, of Frederick, after she had kept a two-week record of her telephone calls-estimating the time, travel and money each call saved.

The totals are impressive-and a surprise to Mrs. Rothenhoefer. She says, "I'm amazed to see just. how much running around town our phone saves. I'm afraid I had no idea what an important part the telephone plays in our family's daily life, until now."

A VOICE FROM CARROLL

While the United States thinks about a 5-cent stamp for our letters, our Canadian friends have been trying it out. The result has been a postal department that operates in the black. There has been no postal deficits in Canada since 1954, when the hike to 5 cents was made. First class mail has paid its own way and has covered deficits run up in handling other mail. Second class mail runs a consistent deficit. Parcel-post rates have been raised in an effort to make this class pay its own way. Chances are that when you put a 5-cent stamp on a etter in Canada, it will travel by air. About 90 percent of all first class mail goes by planes, which are used whenever possible. We have opposed the raise in first class mail here in the United States for the very reason that Canada experienced. Namely, that second-class mail is what causes the deficit in our postal department. We think first class mail should not be penalized for second class mail which is made up primarily of advertise ments and circulars that just clutter up everyone's waste cans. Every week we burn a basket of second class mail which we don't even bother to open and read. We often remark we would just like to have the postage that it osts to send this useless mail.

The issue of Federal aid to church schools have touched off some sharp debates all over the United States but the majority agrees with President Kennedy that Federal aid should go to public schools only. The Supreme Court has ruled that the First Amendment to our Constitution forbids the use of public funds to "support religious institutions" or finance "religious groups". Decisions of the Subelieve that the President is correct in saying "no Federal aid for private schools."

We picked up a book the other day which we had read while still in school. It was Chapman's translation of the Odyssey. Looking through it we came across the page where Odysseus escape from Cyclops was described. Once Odysseus had blinded Cyclops and had led his men from the cave, he did not go back for his cape and sword. Once out of danger stay out of danger. Don't look back don't go back. MISS F. STELLA KOONS

Miss F. Stella Koons, 90, died at ner home in Keymar very suddenly Saturday morning June 10, 1961. She was the daughter of the late George W. and Sarah Bostian Koons and was a member of the Grace United Church of Christ, Taneytown. Surviving are two sisters, Miss Blanche and Miss Mattie M. Koons, both of Keymar. Funeral services were held from the Fuss Funeral Home. Tuesday at visit my friend, Saretta and it was a hot day in July. I was starting to walk the distance and walked out in the yard to go out the back way and suddenly I heard, "Irene, Irene looked up to see you at the Bay window of the second floor sittingroom and you held up a dime to me and said, "Hold your dress!" I caught think of the time, I was taught to cook at the cooking class and I made the very first baking powder biscuits at home and you told every one you The program w met they were the best you ever tasted! And-oh, Papa, I recall the aroma of those cigars you used to smoke I remember, when you purchased a birthday gift for me—a little yellow gold ring in the shape of a "Forget-me-not" with five tiny pearls encircled around a small Emerald—my hirthstone and as you bigged me and birthstone and as you kissed me and wished me a "Happy Birthday" that morning you said, "This is for your morning you said, "This is for your first teen, my Pet!" It seems like yesterday-my thirtee th birthday! I member, too when you walked all the way home that day and used the last cent you had with you to purchase a doll to add to my famous collection—all those dolls to which you gave a name! And there were 21 in number!

I remember the very first evening date I had. I was just eighteen and as I walked into the sitting room to show you my gown, as you raised your head, you dropped the book which you were reading and said so sweetly, "Oh, my Pet you look just like your dear Mother when she was your age".

I never will forget, Papa the way you aided me in my studies and especially History and you could recall the slightest skirmish in any battle in any war. I was always so proud of you, my wonderful Dad! When I was worried about school lessons or an exam coming up, your advise always was to rise early in the morning before school time and go over it all as you stated "my mind would be clear then!" It seemed always to work out just that way. I recall always on the 4th of July as the family and neighbors sat on the steps to gaze upon the fire-works, you permitted me to shoot off the revolver holding it skyward! What a thrill that was for me! You always seemed to have such confidence in me as I think back.

I can still hear you say to your girls, "My four lovely Graces!" as

You grabbed me to your breast and I cried the awful sobs and you cried as you kept saying, "Thank, God. Thank God!" over and over again! And then I saw something else as you continued to hold me in your arms and I said, "Oh, Papa—your hair—it is so white and it used to be black! What is it,

JUNE BRINGS SADNESS TO HEART OF FORMER HIGH SCHOOL GRADUATE

June, the magnificent month of enchantment when mother nature burst forth in all her glory and splendor and hearts dance happily with thoughts of graduation, vacations and marriage, brings sadness to the heart of one of our former graduates, Miss Edith V. Zentz, whose marriage plans for this month ended so very abruptly when her fiance, Colonel Robert R. (Bob) Davis, United States Marine Corps, died suddenly of a cerebral hemorrhage on February 19. Col. Davis called Miss Zentz at her office on Friday, February 17, saying he was leaving on an Inspection trip to Dallas, Texas, and would call her when he returned Sunday night, February 19, to confirm their plans for Washington's Birthday, a holiday they planned to spend together. Miss Zentz waited for his call, which never came; instead, she received a call from Marine Corps Headquarters giving her the sad news of his death. Col. Davis, Inspector for the Marine Air Reserve Training Command, Headquarters at Glenview, Illinois, complained of a headache shortly after taking off from the Naval Air Station at Dallas, Texas, where he ease of Scarlet Fever and I went had inspected Marine Corps Air Resuddenly blind! Burning Tongue

Lesson for June 18, 1961

THE first date he had with the girl, he enjoyed so much he asked for a second. The next time he went to her house, instead of his talking most of the time (as she intended he should), she carried the conversational ball, so to smooth and easy talker, but when the young man got home and had time to think it over one point struck him. That girl did not actually have a good word to say about

Dr. Foreman anybody but herself and her one close girl friend. Everybody else she mentionedand she seemed to know everybody-she tore down; wittily, cleverly, in a very interesting fashion. The young man could not help thinking: When I am gone, what does she say about me? He never went back to find out.

"The Tongue Is An Unrighteous World"

The world of the tongue is a wide one. It is as wide as human language. Even today, with all our printing presses, microfilms, and recording machines, the spoken word is much more common than the written or recorded word. The world of the tongue, however, is wider than what reaches the ear. It is advertising, novels, books of poetry and science, it is fact and fiction, it is useful and useless, it is ugly and beautiful, it is true and it is false. The dictionary can be used just as easily to tell lies as to tell the truth. The tongue can be used to build people up or to tear them down.

Now the Bible warns over and er against the sins of the tongue. Some people think that the only real sins are acts that are done, not words that are spoken. What is a word but a sound, a noise? Stabbing a man with an ice-pick is murde, and it's real and it's bad; but how can talk hurt anybody? That is bad logic. Most sins begin with thought, then they break out into words, words that bring forth all the sins there are. In the Bible story of the first sin, why did Eve disobey God? She was talked into it. Why did Adam sin? Eve talked him into it. That's the way it goes. We aren't usually pushed or prodded into sin by a gun in our ribs; somebody talks

The Tongue Is a Fire

When James (Jesus' half brother) says, "The tongue is a fire." he did not mean anything good. In the same passage he calls the tongue a restless evil, full of deadly poison. It is like a diseased organ, staining the whole body, like a diseased liver causing jaundice, or like certain fatal poisons which turn the victims' faces blue. In short, he is reminding us of what every sensible person knows; that the tongue can be destructive, like fire, like poison, like a cancer. Fire, when it destroys, does not

Is Fire Bad?

So it is with the tongue. A litting lie told in secret is repeated and repeated, and it loses no fat in the telling. A careless mean remark can spread till it ruins some one's reputation. Would you rather be stabbed in the back with that icepick and have it over quickly, or do you want to be stabbed in the back with a slander, see your world melt away from you, and suffer a lingering living death from the fire of suspicion and hate which that slander has kindled? The fire of the tongue lasts longer and goes farther and can do more harm than any flames that kill off the wild game or turn great mansions to ashes. Nevertheless, fire is not always bad. Without fire man could never have become civilized. But the only way to make fire good is to control it. Fire untended, unwatched, is almost always bad. It is the guarded, controlled fire, in the furnace or the stove or the motor car or mine, or the laboratory, that is a friend to man. So the tongue unguarded. clattering wild, can do damage no insurance can replace. Can you control your tongue? Best way to stop a fire is before it starts.

HOME ON THE RANGE may mean a western song to many people, but to the little woman in the kitchen it conjures up that all too regular chore of cleaning the stove. Here are some timely hints to make the job easier.

KEEP SURFACES CLEAN as you work. Have a piece of foil on the range to hold stirring spoons between uses. But when food dries on the range top, let the plastic mesh ball, Tuffy-which never scratches -come to your rescue.

FOLLOW MANUFACTUR-ER'S directions when taking range apart for cleaning. Most of the parts are cleaned easily by washing in sudsy water. Take off stubborn spots with S.O.S. blue soap pads.

SPECIAL BROILER HINT: Never leave the pan in the hot broiler during a meal. Remove it with the food and pour off fat. When cool, soak in sudsy water, then remove charred on food or grease with blue oval soap pads.

DREAMING OF DECORATING a mied by lack of funds? Here's a management tip to help solve your problem: Set up a home furnishings record chart for the room. listing all the items you need. Fill in with a list of items you own now, items that have to be bought or repaired, and an estimate of the costs involved. Then see your neighborhood banker about financing the project. He'll gladly help you reach your goal by setting up a special purpose savings account for you. Or if you're anxious to start the project right away, there are personal bank loans available for home improvements.

High-speed driving increases gasoline consumption. Next, try not to jam on your brakes at red lights and intersections. Coast to a halt, then gently apply the brakes. Brake pressure eats up fuel. Also, never gun the car's motor. It's safer and more economical to start it up easily. Finally, make sure your car has a clean air filter to keep the engine from clogging and wasting fuel. Filters should

The muskellunge is a fish that grows to near 70 pounds and is longer than most men are tall. It is ugly as a mud fence, with a vicious and per-manent smile that shows a mouthful of sharp teeth and is well known for a nature that matches its looks. As a tribute to its vicious-ness one luremaker has fashioned a highly popular plug in the shape of a small

Yet without a doubt Yet without a doubt this freshwater tiger is one of the most highly-prized fishes that swims, according to authorities at the Mercury outboard company, whose home base at Fond du Lac, Wis, is in the heart of good musky country.

And there is a valid reason for the popularity of musky fishing — the muskellunge is probably the most difficult fish fishing — the muskellunge is probably the most difficult fish to hook and land in all waters, either salt or sweet.

It is a moody fish, sometimes biting readily and other times sulking in the deeps, refusing all offerings.

In typical waters muskel-lunge lurk near the drop-offs from rock or sand bars in the middle of lakes, along weed beds, in small weed-covered bays and in shady waters close to shores that are fringed with overhanging trees.

HARD LOSERS

Once hooked a musky will do everything but climb into the boat trying to escape, and there are authenticated cases of hooked muskellunge ramming a boat. They will rush, jump and lie still during the battle for freedom with the angler. The favorite tackle for mus-kies includes a bait casting rod that possesses good backbone (like a pool cue), a substantial level-wind reel, a 20 to 35-lb. test line, a variety of artificial lures and a stout heart.

Stop -

Some fishermen cast or troll live bait, the Mercury people advise, usually suckers nearly a foot long. The baits are cast over likely areas and worked rapidly, because muskellunge usually strike a bait that has considerable action. .

And when they are brought near the boat at the end of the long struggle (it is never short) they are usually stunned with a billy club or rendered hors de combat with a huge gaff. ?

No fisherman who has ever looked down the tooth-lined maw of a mature musky would ever dream of bringing one of them into a boat while there was still life in the critter.

BIGGEST OF ALL

The world record musky was taken from the St. Lawrence River, the border between Canada and the United States. It lacked one ounce of an exact 70 pounds, topping a monster of 69 pounds, 12 ounces that had been taken earlier from the Chippewa Flowage in Wis-consin.

The outboard motor has brought musky fishing within the reach of nearly everyone. A light 6-horse twin that will go smoothly through weed beds and over underwater obstructions is ideal for musky fishermen, and the Mercury people answered this need with their Fishin' Merc 60.

The little gem gets up and runs with plenty of power for two fishermen in a 14-foot boat, getting them to where they want to go in a hurry.

From then on it's up to them.
