Little League Baseball

The Taneytown Cards played their last scheduled game on Friday, losing to Woodsboro, 6-1, on the home diato Woodsboro, 6-1, on the home diamond. The loss dropped them into second place in the league, with a 16 win-4 loss record for the season.

On Tuesday night the play-off between first place New Windsor and third place Woodsboro, with New Windsor victorious, 11-7. At the same time, the second place Cards defeated the fourth place Union Bridge Braves at Union Bridge, 11-3 in a dramatic sixth inning finish.

The Cards scored one run in the

The Cards scored one run in the opening inning when Brett Fleagle singled and Pat Gartrell also singled to score Brett. The Braves tied it up in the third and then went ahead in the fourth, collecting two more runs. In the fifth inning, Buddy Nusbaum hit a home run to gain on the Braves, but the Cards still trailed 3-2. The sixth inning, however, was another story. Pat Gartrell led off the inning with a walk and Union Bridge brought in a new pitcher. Donnie Bollinger came to the plate and knocked one over the fence for a two run homer. David Shorb then singled and Bobby Howarth also hit one over for a two run homer. Terry McKinney came on to pinch hit, got a single and Buddy Nusbaum drove him home with his second home run of the game. Bill second home run of the game. Bill Shorb walked, Brett Fleagle singled, Donnie Bollinger doubled, David Shorb singled and three more runs were in 13 Cards came to bat and 9 runs were scored. Buddy Nusbaum pitched all the way with Pat Gartrell behind the plate. The final game of the season will be played on Friday evening at 6 p.m. on the Union Bridge diamond when New Windsor and the Taneytown Cards battle it out for the playoff championship.

TO THE WELFARE STATE!

In Cambridge, England, an unidentified Cambridge University Medical Society student wrote a parody on the 23rd Psalm. The American Pressman reprinted it in the July issue: the July issue:

"The Government is my shepherd, therefore I need not work. It alloweth me to lie down on a good job. It leadeth me beside still factories. It destroyeth my initiative. It leadeth me in the path of a parasite for politic's sake. Yea, though I walk through the valley of laziness and deficit-spending, I will fear no evil, for the government is with me. It prepareth an economic Utopia for me, by appropriating the earnings of my grandchildren. It filleth my head with false security. My inefficiency runneth over. Surely the Govern-ment should care for me all the days of my life. And I will dwell in a fool's paradise forever.

8,251 ICE CREAM STICKS COUNTED

Over 8000 ice cream sticks were counted in the Carroll County Tuberculosis Association office this week, to be used for the patients in T. B. hospitals. Three members of the Girl Scout Troop No. 494, Miss Malinda Carr, Judy Blessing and Sally Wampler completed the counting. Ice Cream sticks are coming into the office daily. The following persons have stopped into the office with their collections, they are: Kathie Hock and Martha Gill of Scout Troop No. 495, Lucille Bankard, Stella Kroft and Marie Arbaugh of Westminster; Teresa and Christene Cook of Owings Mills; Joe Kenney of the Cub Scout Pact No. 420; Sidney Miller, Rt. "SPICE 'N' EVERYTHING NICE"

With all my heart, I wish you every merning
A smile that shall last until the next day's dawning.
I wish you health—life's greatest wealth;
I wish you always near so that I may help to cheer
Each future day and in some way—help to bring you happiness!

It is always a break after the terrific hot spell if you notice and that is the real reason that none of us should be so upset. The Petunias of Reds and Pinks are thriving beautifully but the lone young tree on my front lawn appears to be sick. The scarlet Sage (the late flower of the year) looks beautiful around the house. Now, it will be "Back to School" in a few more days, Teen-agers and will you be able to describe your vacation to your teacher and of the benefits you derived? That is the question always we were asked when I went to school in fact we had to describe it on paper. When you are out for a drive, Folks and desire to have a once a week meal out, be sure and stop at the "Har-rison Inn" right above Randallstown It is a very old place and you will love the atmosphere. As to meals— they are bountiful and delicious— Ummmmmmm Good! That would be a grand treat for your guests from out of state.

Well, ladies at last square toes are in, yet there will be pointy toes shown in shoes as there are many women who will not change as they think the pointy shoes and extremely high heels give glamor to the leg. It seems so foolish to wear "Fall" clothes now—rushing the season in clothes now—rushing the season in other words, I saw a lady in town all decked out in a Fall fashion and although it was very beautiful, she appeared as though she would faint any minute! Ugh!

Sitting in the Pennsylvania station awaiting my sister from St. Petersburgh, Florida, a little old lady approached me and this was the conversation. "May I sit down beside you and talk with you?" Why of course, "I replied. I looked into her eyes and they were big dark blue ones and the most beautiful expression I have ever seen. "I came ones and the most beautiful expression I have ever seen. "I came from Virginia in 1910 with my family to Baltimore and all are dead now. I have just a room up on Guilford Avenue and I walk down to this station almost daily to see the people. It is very interesting!" "Do you have children?" I asked a little concerned "Oh no I am an old maid! I cerned. "Oh, no I am an old maid! I could have married a Doctor when I was a young girl and gone to New York City to live as that was where he was from and I often think that I made a big mistake by refusing. I used to dress in silks and taffetas!" "I know you must have been a beautiful girl" as I studied this stranger. "Oh, no I would not say that!" she quickly replied. "I am older than you think and I get what they call an old age pension but I do love coming here and meeting and talking with the people!" She was dressed in gray with a little black hat perched atop of her head and around her shoulders was draped a matching scarf. Anyone could have judged she had seen days of luxury. conversation was most interesting while it lasted. Suddenly the train's arrival was announced and I had to arrival was announced and I had to bid my-newly found friend, "Goodbye" and as I was walking away, she said, "I do hope I meet you some day again soon!" So you see, Folks what I mean about even strangers—and talking with lonely people.

Mrs. Housewife, if you want to serve a dinner so different, purchase a smoked tongue. Let it soak over a smoked tongue. Let it soak over night in cold water and then boil it the following day by changing the water three times. When it is tender let it cool and remove the skin -then slice it and have ready a frying pan to make a clear sauce from the last water. Add a whole green pepper cut into small pieces with celery and onions sliced and then let it simmer. That you can cook in the morning and just heat it up in time for your evening meal with a green vegetable and potatoes. Top it off with ice tea and a lemon meringue pie.

Don't forget when buying Gelatine deserts always ask for "Royal" or "Acme" as they have a more delightful aroma as fresh fruits; plus a sweeter taste and place more water to the recipe than what it calls for so as it will not be a stiff dessert. You will enjoy it all the more.
Until next week-end, D. V. When

I will be writing about "Virgo" people. Have a grand week-end. I am

BACK DOOR SPENDING

The federal budgets are coming perilously close to the $100 billion-ayear mark. One reason is what is known as "backdoor spending". This is a procedure by which a federal agency may obtain funds for a project without previous or later annual scrutiny by the appropriations committee of Congress.

A current example is found in the housing bills, which carry price-tabs of close to six billion. As the Citizens Public Expenditure Survey points out, this is a type of spending "over which Congress has little or no say-except to pay bills as they come due." And that amounts to an abandonment of one of the most important duties laid upon Congress by the Constitution.

If there ever was a time when every item of expenditure demanded the closest examination and control, this Cantaloupe — a la Mousse!

For a dessert to top off a tip-top meal, fill wedges of California cantaloupe with frozen lemon mousse to create "Cantaloupe

Cantaloupes grown in California's fertile San Joaquin Valley are noted for their relatively small seed cavity, which means more nutritious fruit per melon. Their beige rind features a high, well defined, close net and is clean at the stem end. The thick, apricot colored meat of California cantaloupes is firm yet tender with a vine-ripened flavor.

CANTALOUPE SAN JOAQUIN

2 cups whipping cream 1 cup sugar 2 teaspoons grated lemon rind

1/8 teaspoon salt Few drops yellow food coloring

2 California cantaloupes 1/4 cup fresh lemon juice Whip cream until it will hold soft peaks; gradually beat ir sugar. Fold in lemon rind, juice, salt and coloring. Turn into freezing trays or loaf pan. Freeze without stirring, until firm. Cut cantaloupes into quarters; scoop out seeds. Fill with frozen lemon mixture and serve at once. Makes 8 servings.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Adkins and daughters Mary Catherine and Joyce, spent Sunday afternoon in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Wantz and family of New Windsor. Words recorded by J. C. Crispien The tape recorder stood silent, quite unnoticed by the crowd that had gathered for a visit and soon were speaking loud. Quietly it recorded the things being talked about;

Its work was very accurate, of that you need have no doubt! Then someone noticed it running told the others—all chatter ceased; Knowing their words were recorded did not exactly bring Peace.

And yet in the books of heaven words are recorded each day; And unless we repent of the bad ones, until the judgment they'll stay. May our works be pure and simple, we speak as Christians should; so that the Angels in heaven can record them only as good!

A VOICE FROM CARROLL

When the Carroll County General Hospital is dedicated August 27, the citizens of Carroll should feel a deep sense of community pride well up in their breasts, and their hearts should beat a little faster by knowing that at last their dreams have materialized in the form of a hospital testifying to the humanity and vision of the people who make up Carroll County and the Reisterstown area. In the beginning there was only a handful of people with a dream and some tenacity to push their dream. Then after a struggle with pessimism, doubt and stubborness, this small group sold their idea to the men and women of realism and of generosity. Today, there stands a building as a monument to their belief that the health and life of a community must be the concern of all citizens. That each person must measure up to his responsibility to his neighbor. That community pride must be of such strength that it forces the people to a cottage on the camp grounds. Mrs. | health and in all phases of community living. The hospital has been built bert of Uniontown, Md. They now live, I believe; in Boonsboro, Md. I wished I would of had the privilege for some families to pledge money for the hospital. Something was sacrificed they felt the need for a hospital was understand the circumstance. The organizations and clubs were unsparing in their effort to raise money for the building and showed how necessary and vital these groups are in the life of a community. It must be remembered however, that with the dedication of the hospital, the responsibility of each person does not end.... loyalty to make of the hospital building an efficient and friendly place dreamed of a few years ago. If we are where people will want to go when to live in a physical neighborhood of they are sick. From all evidence it will be an efficient hospital, staffed by capable and conscientious men and women, doing their utmost for the patient. Let the citizen beware of unjust criticism on his part. There are always a few that like to beat down what others build up.

In a recent conversation about women, we heard a man say that he loved his wife's nagging. "Whenever she stops telling me to change my shirt, put on a different tie or go shine my shoes, then", he said, "I will know she is no longer interested in me." "So," he continued, "while I pretend to be annoyed, I really am you long, enough to see that you needed a clean shirt."

Our fellow men and women, every one, must be accepted as they are. You can neither change their noses or the color of their eyes. You can't make them witty if they are dull, nor make them bright if they are stupid. It is among these people that one's life is lived and it is abosutely a necessity that one learns tolerance, understanding and love. It is these kind of people, whose moment of goodness, should admire, for whom one should cherish hope and patience.
Dr. Clarence Long, executive chairman of the Democratic State Central Committee, speaking on the position of American women in politics before a meeting of women in the Emerson Hotel, noted that the role of women in many fields was not as high as it should be, due to the fact that women traditionally have been discriminated against not only in politics but in business and the professions. Not only Dr. Long but other prominent people have recently pointed out that America is wasting womens brains and ability by still that their main roles should be wife and mother. With the sky-rocketing birth rate it would help the world situation if the women for awhile were given some other role beside in cubators. If women were allowed to have more say in politics, not only in America, but all over the world wouldn't be long before the problem of disarmament would be solved. Women are satisfied with the necessary things of life and are more reasonable in dealing with others. Honor and false pride do not stand in their way when dealing with problems. They are more realistic and practical in solving life's headaches. Pearl Buck says that the two most serious obstacles to the achievement of democracy in our country are the national discrimination against Negroes and against wo-men. As long as this two-fold discrimination goes on we cannot call ourselves a democracy. Women must make an effort to break down the traditional roles set aside for her in the past and become the citizen of the world instead of hiding her talents among pots and pans and wet diapers. This mixed up world needs desperately the talents of women and if women shirk their duty in giving their opinions, and judgments on chaos and war, there is not much hope for anyone.

Any man that runs a power mower before noon on Sunday should be made to shave with it.

Friends of ours went to see Ben Hur last week at a drive-in movie hear Westminster. They said later that it was the longest they've been ogether since they got married.

More than 300 years ago, Ben Johnson said: "No glass renders a man's likeness so true as his speech." This s just as true today. The words a person uses in speaking gives many clues to his character, his background and to his ambitions. Our daughter spent two months in New England this summer. No sooner had she arrived and spoke a sentence then she was accused of being a rebel and a southerner. Her accent and the words "you all" gave her away. Recently we sat in a railway station waiting for a train which was one hour late. Two women were sitting close by and one was telling the other about her family troubles. She used the pronouns I, me and my over and over. It didn't take one long to realize that most of her troubles she caused herself. Any one using the word "I" all the time is sure to be a self-centered person, and expect the world to revolve about them. The type of work a person does or the amount of schooling a person has shows up in the type of words he uses in conversation. Also the section of the country he was reared in is revealed in his speech even though he may have lived else where as an adult. Our tongues reveal many things to our listeners, although t can be safely said that not too many bother to listen.

Mr. K recently promised the Russian people that in the near future families would be eating all their meals in restaurants. No more cooking at home and no more dishes to wash At one period of our life, we would have thought this an ideal set-up, but not now. Eating out can be a dreary business and no restaurant in our opinion can take the place of eating a well cooked meal in the family

We are advised that we should do at least two things each day that we don't like to do, to make life worth while and to build our character. We will go a step farther and suggest strength that it forces the people to that we do two things a day we really take care of its own in sickness, in like doing to make life worth living.

National Park know anything about the camels on the Sahara Desert, but it makes all the difference in the world whether the American people underthat the family needed to give money stand the hungry millions scattered to the hospital fund. Hundreds of in Asia and Africia. Our destiny, families gave money this way. But Asia's destiny, the worlds very survival depend upon may urgent and they responded as all understanding. There are many rearesponsible citizens do when they sons why we should seek to understand people whose ways are different from our own. The most obvious reason, of course, is that we find ourselves sharing the globe with the rest of mankind. To be sure, men everywhere have always shared the planet with the rest of its inhabitants, but only lately has all the world become a neighborhood. There is no escaping it is just the beginning. For it is our closeness to each other. Modern going to take continuous work and communications has brought each city and country nearer than any one ever to live in a physical neighborhood of different people, then common sense suggests that we try to understand them. It is not enough that we leave the knowledge and understanding to government officials in Washington and the diplomats who serve us abroad. In a democracy ignorance of the world on the part of ordinary people constitutes a public danger cause it is by the votes of such people that our leaders and representatives are chosen. The voters need not know all the details necessary for the formulation of policy but they do need to know enough about other people to recognize the necessary of choosing informed and responsible leaders capdelighted. Just imagine what it would be like if your wife never looked at Futhermore, it is true that enormous numbers of Americans come in direct contact with peoples of other cultures so that the understanding or the lack of it on the part of ordinary citizens may seriously affect our relationships with other nations. The thousands of men and women who serve abroad in our armed forces are matched or exceeded by the individuals and families who live abroad in various nonmilitary capacities. The thousands of American tourists who swarm abroad each year are, whether or not they choose to be, unofficial ambassadors for good or ill. Moreover, thousands of visitors from other countries come to our shores, and on every college campus in the United States are found youth from other lands who carry back home their own versions American life. These direct and indirect contacts with the peoples of the world add up to the strongest possible reason for adults to seek to inderstand these newly acquired our children neighbors and to teach about the rest of the world. Summer is always a time for accidents and with the current craze

The French have a quaint custom (that is from our point of view) of taking a vacation in August regardless of weather, the national debt or the latest antics of their enemies. The French have always been a wise people and maybe the answer to the present tangle of our problems would be to take a nice long vacation. Not that running away solves problems but it would give everyone a chance to forget them for a time and give time a chance to cool down our panics and frustrations. Maybe at the end of the vacation our minds would have some fresh thoughts and our muscles some new vigor which would permit us to do the things that must be done. If one can't take a vacation then the next best thing is to shut off the television set, throw out the radio and cancel all newspapers. Doing this will shut out all the political news, the accidents on the highways, and all the rest of the bad news which keeps our poor nerves in a constant state of alarm. Our brains and nerves deserve a rest to survive. We love to watch the miracle of a half inch of rain on a parched lawn or garden. Overnight the grass turns green and the plants wilted for lack of water stand with heads erect and foliage glistening. The petunias and zinnas put out new blossoms and the scarlet sage turns a deeper red. Not only the plants but also the birds rebound with new energy under the gentle influence of an August rain. Their songs are filled with happy notes, thanking Mother Nature for her precious raindrops. Of all the gifts of nature, rain is the most precious. The plant and animal kingdoms would soon disappear if rain failed to fall on the hills and meadows of the world. That is why the countryside takes on a new look after a shower or a storm, It receives its transfusion of water that keeps it alive with new bursts of activitity that is reflected in bud and

Highest Winds Can't Ruffle Gale-Resistant Asphalt Roof

Anna, Bessie, Carla, Debbie, Esther, Frances—not movie starlets, but names announced by the U.S. Weather Bureau for hurricanes anticipated in 1961.

The Weather Bureau list will have special meaning for those families in the "hurricane belt," but it should serve as a reminder to home owners throughout the country of the destruction high winds and heavy rains can cause. Actually, winds of hurri-cane force—75 miles per hour or higher—have been recorded of-

When a severe windstorm nears, a family hurries for shelter, but they can't hide their house. It should be built to take weather's worst blows.

The roof is particularly important. If it's badly damaged by high winds, it can open the way to extensive damage inside the house from heavy rain that usually accompanies wind sist winds.

Three principal methods are msed by roofing contractors to apply asphalt shingles to resist winds:

winds:

1. Self-sealing method. Shingles with a factory-applied hacking of adhesive are applied in the conventional manner. The self-sealing adhesive bonds each shingle tab firmly to the underlying shingle.

2. Interlocking method. Using asphalt shingles with a special spinalt shingles with a special spinalt shingles with a special spinalt shingles have passed severe wind-tunnel tests and, more important, have withstood for years the actual ravages of hurricanes and other storms.

Home owners who live in areas subject to high winds can protect their houses against wind storm damage with a roof of asphalt shingles applied to resist winds.

This obviously is an impractical method of keeping a roof from blowing away in a wind-storm. The practical way is a roof of wind-resistant asphalt shingles that defy even winds of hurricane force. This obviously is an imprac-

Seafood Never Tasted So. Good

Here's a casserole ideal for satisfying family appetites. This zesty seafood dish owes its exciting flavor to a new all purpose barbecue sauce. This tangy sauce—a blend of tomato paste, sugar, vinegar and spices—is an excellent seasoning ingredient for all sorts of plain or fancy dishes.

Savory Seafood Casserole

1½ cup fresh scallops
1½ cup fresh shrimp, deveined
and split lengthwise
1 pound flounder filled 2 tablespoons butter 1 medium onion, chopped ½ cup Open Pit Barbecue Sauce 1 can (4 ounces) sliced mushrooms, drained

1/4 cup water
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon lemon juice

Melt butter in a saucepan. Saute onion until tender and golden. Then add barbecue sauce, water, salt, and lemon juice and bring to a boil. Add scallops. Reduce heat and simmer about 5 minutes. Then add shrimp and continue to simmer an additional 5 minutes. Place flounder in a lightly greased baking dish. Pour sauce and mushrooms over fish. Cover and bake in moderate oven (350°F.) 15 to 20 minutes, or until fish flakes easily with a fork. Makes 3 or 4 servings.

Taste-Tinglers From South of the Border

From Argentina, hot-blooded land of the sensuous tango and From Argentina, hot-blooded land of the sensuous tango and the hard-riding gaucho, come these suggestions for a Latin dinner that will make any hard-pressed hostess an unqualified hit with her guests. Both dishes — one an appetizer, the other an entree — will be favorites at the Summit Hotel's famed Gaucho Room. Paltas Rebellenas are a particularly tasty avocado treat, guaranteed to get any important dinner off to a happy start. The Carbonada a la Criolla is a beef stew specialty that employs fresh fruit — at first blush an unlikely combination, but one that will leave the skeptical diner positively enthralled. Both are relatively easy to prepare: easy to prepare:

PALTAS REBELLANAS (stuffed, small round avocados)

6 small, round avocados, cut in halves and seeds removed 1 cup cooked chicken, turkey, shrimp or fish, chopped fine

½ cup mayonnaise ½ tsp. salt, optional 14 tsp. pepper, optional 1 hard-cooked egg, sliced

1/4 cup aspic, cut-in-cubes 2 cups lettuce, finely shredded

Instructions for cooking

Bolivian paltas are the small, round avocados. Mix chicken, turkey, shrimp or fish with lettuce, and mix with mayonnaise. If needed, add the salt and pepper. Mound the filling high in cavities of paltas and spread a little mayonnaise over the top. Garnish with hard-cooked egg or clear aspic. Serve 2 halves of paltra to each person. This is served as an appetizer. Serves 6.

CARBONADA A LA CRIOLLA (meat stew with peaches and pears)

1/4 cup onions, minced 1/4 cup butter 1 large tomato, seeded and

2 lbs. beef, chopped fine

1¼ tsp. salt ¼ tsp. pepper

14 cup meat stock 6 pears, peeled and cut in halves

6 peaches, peeled and cut in halves
4 potatoes, diced small
11/4 cup seeded raisins

Instructions for cocking

Saute onions in butter and before they begin to brown add tomato.

Add meat and allow to brown slowly. Add salt, pepper and stock.

Cover and allow to simmer gently and cook for one hour. Now add the pears, peaches and potatoes. Stir and cover until all is tender.

Add washed raisins. If "carbonada" is too juicy, uncover and allow juice to cook down. Sawe your hot with accled vice. juice to cook down. Serve very hot with cooked rice. Serves 6.

Business Highlights

Sale and Leaseback Provides Dollars for Expansion

Business establishments throughout the nation - perhaps those in your own community - are getting several billion dollars in new funds for expansion and modernization through a provocative business practice that transforms a company's land and buildings into cash on the barrelhead. At the same time it lets the company use the facilities as long as it likes.

The unusual element is the fact that the company has its cake and eats it too. The company sells the plant and facilities it owns, yet keeps using and living in them.

Known in the real estate field as "sale and leaseback," the first such transaction was re-corded shortly after the Civil War, when the country first started its business growth. Sale and leaseback was experimented with in the 1920's on a limited scale.

But, today it stands as a burgeoning field of activity for the busy real estate and business-

One of its pioneers, a veteran real estate professional for 36 years, Ira Kavanau, explains the operation of a typical transaction. Eminently qualified, he is chiefly responsible for perfecting the operation. As expected, the Kavanau Corporation, the publicly owned company he heads, specializes in sale and leasebacks. The Kavanau Corporation owns properties in various parts of the country.

In a typical transaction, a company owns some land and buildings, such as a store or factory. To effect a leaseback, the firm sells its property to investors, who according to agreement then lease it right hack to the former owner.

Thus, the old landlord becomes the new tenant for as long as the agreement provides.

Top blue chip companies such as Sears, F. W. Woolworth, Safeway Stores, to name a few, are taking part in sale and leasebacks along with their and leasebacks along with their smaller business counterparts. The monies gained are most often used for business expansion—the purchase of new equipment and production facilities, new branch outlets, stores, etc.

Their objective is to turn fixed assets into cash with which to enter new markets to

Business Woman Lesson for August 27, 1961

THE WOMAN known to history only as "Lydia" is unique among the women of the Bible. We hear nothing at all about her family. She was a business woman, engaged in selling the upper brackets; but also because she owned a home

Dr. Foreman of her own, no economy flat but a house big enough to entertain quite a party of missionaries. Even before she became a Christian she was a praying woman, and a leader of other women. Presumably she had brains and charm, an admirable woman

The Freedom of Women

What makes Lydia a stand-out is not that she became a Christian; the New Testament abounds in stories of people who became Christians. Nor yet that she was a woman, for many women were believers, from the very beginning. She stands out because of her independence of life. Women in Palestine always "belonged" to some one, as was true in most ancient cultures. But around the Aegean Sea women had more freedom. No one thought Lydia peculiar for her independent way

It may seem strange that it took so long for the world to discover what Lydia knew very well; that it is no disgrace for a woman to branch out for herself in a man's world. This writer is personally acquainted with the first woman ever to graduate from a school of medicine in a certain state. In a small country church yard in North Carolina there is a grave with the strange inscription on the tombstone: S.E.E Mount Holyok Graduate 1845. The lady whose body was laid there was more proud of being a college graduate in 1845 than she was of her own name. You see it has not been long since even in this "Christian" country a woman braved a good deal of ridicule and opposition when she branched out for herself. People should have read Lydia's story in Acts. The Wealth and Power of Women

It is a commonplace observation, even if somewhat exaggerated, that women are the wealthy sex. Besides all the money they control in their own right, they are the great spenders—and this is not intended in a mean way. A visit to the super-market or the department store will show who spends the family money. The men must believe that their women have good judgment, otherwise they would lock up the family check-book. Women are probably far more powerful, as a sex, than men. If we ever really have peace, it will not be until women stand up and demand it. If our churches ever really shoulder the responsibility for evangelizing the world, it will not be until the women really put their energies into missionary work.

A Long Line

There are some aspects of life in which most women outshine most men, and one of these is personalizing good works. A man will write you a check for your orphanage; but a woman wants to see the orphans. A man will recommend you to a good hotel, but a woman will invite you to her home. That was Lydia: she did not say to her distinguished visitor: Sir, I wish you and your companions a pleasant stay in Philippi. She did indeed wish that; but she did better, she went tosome trouble to see that they were well treated, she invited the whole party to her own home. Lydia was among the first in a long line of women who have given active personal encouragement to the church and its leaders. When you think of the hostesses, counsellors, administrators, persuaders, teachers and benefactors financially and otherwise, in the church today, who are women, we may well wonder what the church would have been, had women been

Let's Go Fishin BY BOB BREWSTER Outdoor Editor, Mercury Outboards

A sidewinder, in most of the country west of the Mississippi River, is the common name for a rattlesnake.

And a person who casts sidearm in a fishing boat is frequently called the same, for many of the identical reasons. His killing and/or maiming may not be as intentional but the end result is about the same as taking a non-conducted tour through the cage of an aroused Hookees claim there is noth ing that quite rivals the searing feeling that comes to one when he is tagged in the epidermis with the business end of a set of gang hooks.

It happened to a friend of mine once on a remote bass lake in the Sand Hill country of western Nebraska.

Three of us had been trolling around the lake with a 16-foot boat and our Merc 200, plenty of room for everybody to move about if they wished. But we quit trolling and began casting, and there is where trouble struck.

WOUND UP Both of the others stood up, wound up like big league pitchers and came around in sidearm casts, oblivious to the other man standing so close. Whap! One plug hit the waters of the lake. And whap!

The other plug buried itself in the scalp of the caster on the outside of the lineup. We tried to administer first aid but only managed to cut the line. He wouldn't let us close enough to cut off the hook. So we wound up the 22 horses of our Mercury and buzzed away to shore, trying to get him to a doctor as soon as possible. It was a two-hour trip, with our injured friend wearing the plug in his scalp like some baroque decoration. His only medication was liberal applications of Old Chill Chaser, and the doses to his scalp seemed to help less than those to the lining of his stomach.

Neither killed the pain, although it did smooth out the furrows in his tortured brow just a little. Carving the hooks from his head bone was a major openation of more than a half-hour's duration, but at long last the chore was done and he was free from the entangling plug.

LESSON It brought home with smashing force a lesson that we all knew beforehand, but that failed for lack of practice when fishing in a boat do your casting overhand.

Overhand casting is a little more difficult, perhaps, but much more accurate and one heck of a lot safer. With three or four in some of the larger boats it is impossible to cast sidearm without flipping a hook-laden lure right under a fellow fisherman's nose. Sidearm casting is also the mark of the beginner, and most of us would like to look like 2 champ even if we know we are not of that caliber. So cast from a boat in a siting position — Please! The next head you hook might be

CIRCUS COMING TO TANEYTOWN

One of the finest tented circuses touring the Eastern United States this season will make a one-day appearance Tuesday, September 5th, at Taneytown under Fire Department Auspices, it was announced by Charles Baker. Under a Mammoth Big Top, Beers-Barnes Circus will exhibit at Carnival Grounds with one hour and half performances at 3 and 8 P. M.

and 8 P. M.

The 1960 edition of the show, according to their Advance Agentwill bring a grand sparkling new program in mass entertainment. A gorgeous, colorful panorama of Spangleland is promised. There will be performing elephants, trained seals, beautiful horses, prancing ponies, talented canines, thrilling aerialists, artistic wirewalkers, ridiculous clowns, and pretty girls.

The Show's 30th season on the road is being highlighted with such outstanding circus acts as "The Arias", mid-air marvels of Madrid, Spain; Gayle DeRiskie of the Whirling Trapeze; TV's incomparable "Harold", the Prince of Waltzing Steel Wire Artists; Trick Mules and Clever Canines; Rajah and His Performing Elephants; Col. Walt Davis and His "Horses at Liberty"; and Capt. Willis with his Educated Seals, The Argentinas - Perch Act.

Noted as the "Aristocrat of Spangleland", the Beers-Barnes Circus is the oldest circus appearing under canvas and one of the few on the road which conduct no advance soliciting promotions of any kind to guarantee attendance. No "high pressure" telephone solicitors are used. The sponsors, however, will conduct their own localized advance sale of General Admission Tickets in order to earn a much higher percentage than that received at showgrounds, but this camhigher percentage than that received at showgrounds, but this campaign will be handled exclusively by members of the sponsoring organization, Mr. Baker said.

The Proceeds will be used in the purchase of a New Ambulance.
