TANEYTOWN CARDS WIN PLAYOFF CHAMPIONSHIP IN FREDERICK-CARROLL LEAGUE

The Little League Baseball Season officially ended on Friday, August 25th with the two top teams, the New Windsor Cubs and the Taneytown Cards, engaged in the final playoff championship game. The game was played on the Union Bridge diamond, with a good crowd on hand.

The Cards led off with singles by Bill Shorb, Buddy Nusbauer and Pat Gartrell, which resulted in one run scoring. In the second inning, things looked much brighter as 5 runs crossed the plate. David Shorb, Henry Alexander, Bill Shorb, Bobby Howarth and Buddy Nusbauer all singled and Pat Gartrell belted a grand slam home run.

In the third, two more runs were walked in, as the pitcher issued five free passes to first base. The fourth inning saw Donnie Bollinger, David Shorb, Ronnie Brown and Henry Alexander single and 3 more runs scored. New Windsor was held to 3 hits and no runs over the first three innings, but in the fourth they began to explode, and with the help of Wayne Hill's three-run homer plus singles by Scheu, Murphy and Vosburg, they scored 4 runs. The Cards went scoreless in the fifth and sixth innings, but New Windsor picked up 2 more in both the fifth and sixth.

Bobby Howarth came on in the fifth to relieve the starting pitcher, Ronnie Brown. With two men on, Buddy Nusbauer was brought on in the 6th inning, and after getting Wayne Curfman on a pop-up, and giving up 2 singles and 1 base on balls, he struck out the last two batters to save the win for Ronnie Brown. The final score was Taneytown Cards 11, New Windsor 8.

The team greatly appreciates the fine management they have had all year. Mr. Glenn Bollinger assumed the position of manager and Mr. Robert Waddell and Mr. Henry Alexander worked as coaches. The final figures for the season were 18 wins and 4 losses.

WEEKLY NEWSLETTER FROM GOV'S OFFICE

Outlines of Accomplishments Noted

Governor J. Millard Tawes told county officials of Maryland that the 42.06 per cent increase in State aid for schools "is evidence of the determination of (his) Administration not to fall behind in the onward march of Maryland as a pioneer in its treatment and support of public education."

The Governor spoke at the annual banquet of the Maryland State Association of County Commissioners, held in Ocean City, Md., Saturday, August 26.

State assistance to the counties and Baltimore City for education has risen from $58,225,023 to $82,712,349 since Mr. Tawes became Governor.

He also noted these measures taken by the State to improve education during his term:

1. Authorization this year of an increase in the minimum salary scale for teachers—from $3,200 - $5,000 to $3,600 - $5,700.
2. An increase in aid per pupil from $20 to $40.
3. An increase in the per capita allowance in the incentive fund from $20 to $22, with an additional allowance of $70 per pupil of increased enrollment over the previous year, the latter provision designated to help rapidly growing counties with enrollment problems.
4. Authorization of a State debt of $20,000,000 to supplement the financing of school construction.
5. Authorization of the establishment of community colleges, with the State paying up to one-third of the operating cost, or a maximum of $175 per student, to be increased to $225 per student next year.
6. The creation of a State debt of $5,000,000 to supplement the financing of construction of junior colleges.

"These are among the reasons why Maryland finds itself in a top-ranking position among the Southern states, and in a high-ranking position among the 50 states of the Union, in its support of the public school system," the Governor said.

"Maryland's $5,680 average salary for school teachers in 1960-61," he said, "was highest among the 15 Southern states and $465 higher than the national average."

"The $415 it spends per pupil in public education ranks it first among the Southern states and $25 higher than the national average."

The Governor cited as other examples of State aid to local governments the assistance of the Department of Economic Development to local organizations in obtaining new industry, revisions and expansions of the programs of health and welfare, assistance by the Department of Planning and the decentralization of the State Roads Commission to bring secondary road building to "the grass roots."

In Ocean City over the week-end, too, Governor Tawes addressed the annual rally of the United Democratic Women's Club of Maryland.

He told the group he was "confident that victory awaits us (the Democrats) in the election next year."

"The Democratic candidates will win next year," he said, "because they deserve to win. They deserve to win because our party has done a good job."

Governor Tawes gave a long list of accomplishments of his Administration, and concluded by saying:

"I believe... that the record, which I have cited in part here today, entitles every candidate of our Party to election next year. And I believe to the people of this State will respond by giving Democrats another resounding victory at the polls in November of 1962."

Governor Tawes has asked the State Roads Commission to speed up its studies regarding a second bridge crossing of the Chesapeake Bay.

In a letter to John B. Funk, Chairman-Director of the State Roads Commission, dated August 23, 1961, the Governor said he was sure that the studies will "disclose that eventually such a structure will become a necessity."

He said the present bridge serves adequately 355 days of the year and is under heavy strain "only on ten summer Sundays and holidays each year."

But he said the "spectacular expressway and primary highway construction now nearing completion and scheduled for completion by 1965" probably will make it necessary to erect another crossing.

The highways he referred to were the Baltimore Beltway, the Capitol Beltway, the John Hanson Highway, radials in the Washington area, U. S. 301 on the Eastern Shore and in Southern Maryland, the dualization of U. S. 50 west, all of which will make "travel to and from the Bay region swifter, safer and more desirable."

"... Now is the time," he said, "to take proper and speedy steps toward the improvement of trans-Bay communication."

MANCHESTER IS TOPIC AT MEETING

Carroll County Historical Society Holds Picnic Supper

The Historical Society of Carroll County held a picnic supper and meeting on Thursday August 24 at the Trinity United Church of Christ, Manchester, with the history and folklore of Manchester featured on the program.

James M. Shriver, president of the Historical Society, presided and conducted a short business meeting. Mrs. Edgar G. Barnes, chairman of the program committee introduced Chas. O. Fisher, Westminster, chairman of the Civil War observance committee for the Society. Mr. Fisher assisted by Paul Smith, of Radio Station WTRR is conducting, as part of the Civil War observance, the project of interviewing the elderly citizens for posterity. Mr. Smith and Mr. Fisher presented the first of these recordings at the Thursday meeting. The subject was Miss Cecilia Shower, member of a prominent Manchester family, and now a resident at the Long View Nursing Home in Manchester. Miss Shower was born January 25, 1865 and she articulately described many events which had been told to her concerning incidents related to the Civil War in Manchester. Miss Shower's mother lived near the battlefield at Gettysburg during the War and actually saw General Robert E. Lee and his Staff. Miss Shower described how the geographical location of Manchester created divisions among the citizenry over their sympathies with either the North or South. She told of clandestine sewing circle meetings for the purpose of making undergarments for the Confederate soldiers and these circle meetings being interrupted when Union officers inspected the house. Miss Shower began teaching school in Carroll County in 1885 at Union Mills and continued to teach for forty-three years, most of the time in Manchester. She was educated at the State Normal School and did further work at Johns Hopkins and Columbia Universities. Her memory is excellent but she refrained from describing events which she described as being too "hazy" to recount. Mr. Smith and Mr. Fisher described the delightful experience in making the recording and stated that they had a list of about fifteen additional persons who may be interviewed. Mr. Fisher would be interested in knowing of any elderly citizens who may be able to add to Carroll County's annals, particularly as they add to the Civil War history of the county.

Mrs. Barnes then introduced the pastor of the host church, the Rev. Harvey G. Schlichter, who has recently published a 350-page book entitled Two Centuries of Grace and Growth in Manchester. The Rev. Mr. Schlichter has made an intensive study of the Manchester area and he told of the establishment of a church there in 1760. Manchester history shows that the church preceded the town for it was built in a wilderness. Manchester, by Pennsylvania Dutch, although the pastor said, was settled primarily there were English and French Huguenots there in 1750-60. He described some of the very strong characters found in former pastors of the Manchester Reformed Church, now the Church of Christ. A church affiliated with the Reformed Church in Manchester as early as 1813 and continued until the Civil War when it was broken up because of dissension among the Board of Directors. The Rev. Mr. Schlichter's book is for sale and may be obtained from the Historical Society, Westminster.

"SPICE 'N' EVERYTHING NICE"

With all my heart, I wish you every morning
A smile that shall last until the next dawn
I wish you health—life's greatest wealth;
I wish you always near so that I may help to cheer
Each future day and in some way—help to bring you happiness!

There really is no finer and more beautiful scenery in any state than Carroll County—them thar rolling HILLS!

"My sister sitting beside me said, 'I never knew MARYLAND was so beautiful!' She sat there as though she was bewitched by it all!

Arriving first in that quaint town of Westminster, I wanted my guest to see all the lovely antiquities in the Historical House. I parked the car right opposite and a knock at the door brought that precious and charming little lady who seems to belong right there. I do not know of anyone who could really take her place. So much has been added—the "Powder Room" on the first floor. The finished rooms in the basement—one will be filled with relics of the Civil War Days which room is directly under the formal room. The floor is made entirely of bricks and somehow I greatly admire any walk that is bricked (perhaps that is the reason I love Annapolis!) Why not make up parties in groups to visit that home? It becomes more interesting by the year. School children should visit and spend hours right there. I am determined to spend a day right soon so as I can take my time and just look and read.

The carpet in the formal room which is a flowered affair, I do hope will be presented as a gift from the party who placed it there. The huge flowers are still in brilliant colors but there are many worn places and would in no time be worn out with so many entering the room. If the donor would present it and then someone else place a heavy and thick mat the size of the carpet underneath, that would help to prolong it as it is laying right next to the wide-floored boards. How, I would enjoy being present at a meeting and remaining over night at the hotel. That would be a real TREAT! I have several things of which I would like to present. One in particular—which is over a hundred years old. It was brought from England by an English Bride and her Groom. Even after school starts—Miss or Mrs. School Teacher by all means take your pupils right there.

We then drove up to Taneytown and visited the Carroll Record Office only to learn of the sad news of the President of this paper, Mr. Bernard Arnold.

We then visited around the town and of course went in to see Doc and his drug store. Never have I seen any drug store with so much stock and just about everything and that is how it should be. Saw the little boy

YOU CAN PASS A LAW — BUT!

A very short time from now—on September 3—the new and expanded federal Wage-Hour Law goes into effect. Many millions of workers, mainly in retailing, who were not previously covered will then be included.

Without going into the pros and cons of the advisability of this, the new law provides and demonstrates the costly, time-consuming and confusing complications which arise when the hand of government goes deeper and deeper into the people's affairs.

For instance, spokesmen for retail industry have been urging in testimony before a Labor Department hearing examiner that pay rates under the $1 an hour minimum be established for students and learners. This would keep the labor market open for them. But labor representatives have been objecting, and keeping the problem up in the air.

Another problem lies in definitions. The law's provisions vary for "executives", "administrators", and "professional employees". But there are a great many borderline cases and no one yet knows precisely who falls or doesn't fall into these classifications.

It is comparatively easy to pass a law giving the government more authority over the affairs of enterprise and individuals. But, more often than not in these cases, trying to pin down just what the law demands is a far more difficult matter.

The new Wage-Hour Law is a spectacular addition to the jungle of regulatory red tape that is slowly choking progress in every field from railroads to rockets.

"SPICE 'N' EVERYTHING NICE"

(continued from first page) Cherub across the way—now it is four QUEENS and a KING! He won't be a Jack either! And I think you know just what I mean!

If you want to take a week end trip to New York, do you know that the fare is now just one third of the regular price?

Whatever you do, so many say do not miss "The Flower Drum Song" which is coming to Ford's in Baltimore on September 11.

Keep on looking for your S.S. number in the daily and Sunday papers of the Baltimore News-Post and Sunday American. It could be you, you know! "Mary" is a grand old name and one of my favorites so have named the newly arrival just that—a Cocker Puppy.

One of the late Stars in the Godfrey show was Carmel Quinn, an Irish lass from Ireland direct. She was on the Jack Parr show this past week telling jokes about the Irish and laughter—A lady knocked at the door of an Irish home in that country and quite alarmingly she expressed her sympathy, "Oh, Mrs. Flanerty, I am so sorry to learn about your husband. How did it happen?" "Well, I sent him into the garden patch for a head of cabbage and he dropped dead". "Oh, my dear Mrs. Flanerty; whatever did you do?" "Well, I just opened a can of peas instead!" came the quick reply.

Now, here is to the Virgo individual—those born from August 20 to September the 20. These people and that both men and women are marked by several very distinct characteristics. Perhaps, the most prominent of these are their orderly natures and they are neat, accurate. They are witty and have ingenious minds. They are fond of music, poetry and mathematics and take great delight in the study of chemistry. They are graceful and charming and have usually well proportioned bodies. They have very sensitive skin and should always be most careful as to cosmetics in fact the kind of soap they use. They have a very sympathetic, benevolent, loyal and jovial disposition and they possess a most graceful manner at all times. Sometimes they have a big secret in their lives and they keep it to themselves all down through the years. They are very independent and resent anyone asking them where they have been and what did they do. They do not go to the extremes in anything. They are most exclusive and pick their friends. When these people are not educated, they are the most selfish of all the signs. At times these people are on the 'outs' with members of the family. Astrology points out the bad as well as the good and they must learn never to be cunning. There is no finer person that the elevated "Virgo" when once he or she have learned of their faults.

So long, folks, Have a grand week end and if you have a dog around your house be sure that he has fresh water a number of times a day. Never allow food or water to stand for any time. Be seeing you next week D. V. Until then.

Before Remodeling

Her Kitchen Was Roomy, But Her Job Was Gloomy

A big kitchen with lots of storage space sounds like a housewife's dream, but, as the song says, "ain't necessarily so." Take Mrs. Harold Greenfield of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., for example. Her kitchen had plenty of floor area and ample storage space, but it was far from a dream kitchen.

"It was a crying shame to have all that space and no place for an automatic dishwasher and a freezer," she recalls. She also remembers walking what seemed like miles every day across the generous floor space.

Working with local kitchen designer Richard Arnold of John Cavo, Inc., the Greenfields recently installed a modern all-electric kitchen with work centers logically located to save steps. Floor area was cut by six square feet, and a large broom closet was merged with the kitchen to add space for a breakfast bar.

Pride and joy of the Greenfield's new kitchen is their electric dishwasher. Built in under a counter adjacent to the new sink, it's a time and labor saver. Instead of rinsing, washing, and drying dishes by hand, Mrs. Greenfield now merely scrapes them and lets the dishwasher do the rest. A pre-rinse cycle eliminates hand rinsing, and breakfast and lunch dishes remain out of sight in the automatic dishwasher until after dinner. Unless there are guests, all the day's dishes can be done in one load.

The old refrigerator was replaced with a new electric refrigerator-freezer combination that is roomier, yet occupies no more space, than the old one. New, top-loading electric dishwasher that rolls out at a touch is one of the delights of this newly-remodeled, all-electric kitchen. Other conveniences are automatic electric range, double electric wall ovens, and new, big-capacity electric refrigerator-freezer.

Mrs. Greenfield has been able to cut her shopping trips from two or three a week to one, thereby saving nearly four hours a week. Completing the all-electric kitchen are built-in surface cooking units and double wall ovens, plenty of counter and storage space for electric housewares, and numerous strategically located electric outlets.

A POLICE OFFICER IS YOUR FRIEND

Schools will open in Taneytown on Tuesday, Sept. 5, 1961. Together with thousands of other communities across the nation, Taneytown will observe National Child Safety Week, September 6 - 13, inaugurating an educational campaign for both school children and the general public aimed at making Taneytown a no-accident community.

"Opening of the schools always poses new problems for parents, school authorities and teachers, public safety officials and the drivers of automobiles," Chief Emory Hahn commented in reporting the program being sponsored by the Department of Police.

"To kindergartners and to many first-graders it is their initial experience in going to the school and returning to their homes. They must be taught to stay on the sidewalks, to cross streets only at the proper crosswalks, to obey signals of officers or traffic lights and they must be especially warned of the dangers of careless disregard of such precautions," Chief Hahn continued. "In this important task, mothers and teachers carry the greater portion of the load but every citizen must be alert to do his or her share."

Older children also must be reminded that they are back in school and that, with great numbers of pupils on the streets at certain times each day, careful observance of the good travel rules of the Junior Safety Patrol must replace the independence and freedom of the summer days.

"National Child Safety Week focuses the attention of parents, teachers, P. T. A. groups and all motorists on the need for cooperation in making our highways safe for young and old. "It is not enough to teach a child the proper way to use our streets, only to have the youngster mowed down by some impatient and careless motorist," Chief Hahn concluded. "We would have no problem if each and every driver of a car or truck would be courteous and considerate of pedestrians, especially at crosswalks, in school zones or where children are at play. I hope all our citizens will take this very seriously, not only through National Child Safety Week but throughout the entire year, and cooperate with our police department to make this a no-accident year in our community."

This program is under the direct sponsorship of the Taneytown Police Department with the cooperation of a group of public-spirited citizens.

Quick Cleaning Jobs Made Easy

A lightweight and very maneuverable vacuum cleaner that will be extremely convenient for dozens of quick "tidy up" jobs around the home is the latest completely new appliance.

The "Lark," the first cleaner of its type ever made by Hoover, weighs only seven pounds in comparison to the standard vacuum cleaner's 15 to 20 pounds.

It can be hung, completely assembled, in any convenient closet and put into use in seconds.

Intended primarily for quick daily pickups of the litter that accumulates in the average home, it will be a wonderful help to any housewife. It's especially useful for "digging" dirt out of corners or from under furniture, for cleaning closets, stairways or in the basement. And it's ideal for cleaning up after meals in the kitchen or dining room, or when friends are expected.

Equipped with an efficient floor and rug nozzle that combines a "floating" brush, flexible plastic litter-pickers and high suction, it can be used equally well on all types of hard floors as well as on rugs and carpets.

The nozzle swivels so that it can be used handily under low furniture and around table and other furniture legs. For removing stubborn caked dirt on a bare floor, the brush can be locked into place by stepping down on a foot lever.

The Lark has a dual filter system, combining a closely woven cloth bag with a disposable inner filter paper bag. It can be used with throw-away paper bags or with the cloth bag alone, as the user desires. The bags can be removed simply by unsnapping two latches which hold the cover.

Can She Bake A Cherry Pie, Billy Boy?

She can bake our cherry pie even if she is a young thing and cannot leave her mother. And if she is a bride, her new husband will stand up and shout "Hallelujah" when he tastes this rich, sour red cherry pie and creamy-white, blue veined tangy Danish Blue Cheese. For an added "Hallelujah", serve strong black coffee laced with cream.

An experienced cook will do all the food preparation a day in advance. Then the day of the party "she can bake the cherry pie quick as you can wink an eye."

*Just in case you have forgotten, this great poem goes as follows:

"Can she bake a cherry pie, Billy Boy, Billy Boy?
Can she bake a cherry pie, charming Billy?"
"She can bake a cherry pie quick as you can wink an eye.
She's a young thing and cannot leave her mother."

Treat your family or guests to this truly delectable dessert:
RED CHERRY TART AND DANISH BLUE CHEESE WEDGES

- 1/2 cup sugar
- 3 teaspoons cornstarch
- Pinch of salt
- 1 tablespoon butter
- 2 teaspoons lemon juice
- 1/2 teaspoon red food coloring
- Unbaked tart shell**

Serve with generous wedges of zesty, tangy, butter-smooth Danish blue cheese.

Drain cherries, set aside liquid. Combine sugar, cornstarch, salt, mix and add liquid. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, bring to boil, cook for 1/2 minute. Remove from heat, add butter, lemon juice and coloring. Turn into shell, bake in moderately hot oven (400°) for 30 minutes. Cool.

**TART SHELL

- 1 1/4 cups all-purpose flour
- 2 tablespoons sugar
- 3/4 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 cup butter, softened at room temperature
- 1 egg, slightly beaten

Sift together, flour, sugar, salt. Cut in butter with two knives or pastry blender until mixture is finely crumbled. Stir in egg, mix well. Spread on bottom and sides of ungreased 8" spring-form pan. Serves 6-8.

You will find this one of the most delicious tart shells. There's more to it in texture, flavor and body than a pie crust shell.

Guarding Truth

Lesson for September 3, 1961

EVERY once in a while you hear some one talking about "guarding the truth"—generally a "sacred" truth, that is to say truth which the speaker regards with a kind of reverence. In writing to a younger friend and as-

Dr. Foreman, a minister, is the main thing that has been entrusted to him: namely, the Truth. This he is to pass on to others when he dies (and before), men who can in turn pass it to future generations. Truth is a treasure; but when truth vanishes, there is no treasure to pass on.

The Weakness of Truth

There is an old story about a king who wanted to find the wisest man in his kingdom. So at a banquet he asked this question: What one thing is strongest in the world? One wise man said "Wine." Another said "The King." The third said, "Women—but truth is stronger still." And when each had given the reasons for his choice, all the people shouted for the third man: "Great is truth, and mighty above all things." To this day people speak of the power of truth. Thomas Jefferson's line is famous: "Truth's like a torch, the more it's shook it shines."

Yet there are other proverbs pointing to the weakness of truth. It has been said that truth walks on leaden feet, while every lie has wings. Considering the many successful lies now abroad in the world, people may be pardoned for thinking that truth is weak. It is often necessary to fight for truth, while lies get on all too well by themselves. One weakness of any truth is that it can be imitated and rivaled by half-truths which sound very much like it. Truth can be distorted and twisted till it has all the effect of a lie. Hence, guarding truth means to keep it free from distortion, un-mixed and unconfused with half-truths and untruths that turn it to poison.

The Danger of Truth

Truth is not dangerous to anything that is good. But it does appear as a danger to those who profit by lies. It often challenges people's prejudices, and cuts down the power of tyrants. Before the American Civil War, a man in the South wrote a book on the economics of slavery. The book was not a masterpiece of literature, but it did show one thing very clearly: Slavery was not profitable, in the long run. Was the book welcomed? Was the author hailed as an advanced thinker? Not at all. In more than one state that book was forbidden to be sold or read. People might argue a long time whether slavery was sinful or not. But the facts and figures in that book showed a simpler thing: slavery actually did not pay. There was no way to answer the argument, so the man was simply shut up. In our times a prominent American magazine published a long article on socialized medicine in England and Scotland. It showed beyond a doubt that the British system of medicine costs a lot of money. But there were two facts that were kept out of that article: one, the British people seem to like that system; and two, they are healthier than they used to be without it. Those two facts are challenging; but to some people they seem to be dangerous, so they were not mentioned.

How to Guard Truth

You might think that Christian truth, surely, needs no guardians. Yet Christian truth also can be distorted, and needs to be protected against half-truths that sound like Christianity but are not. Christian truth also challenges all the forces of evil. Ministers and other Christians who stand for truth need not be surprised to be called starry-eyed idealists at best, or communists at worst. Yet there is need for modern Timothys who will guard what truth they have learned. Know the truth! Stand up for it! Teach it! are the three best ways of guarding truth—now as always.

SHORT STORY

Ragged Beggar, Sunning

By Ronald Keeler

JANE OLSON couldn't get those lines from Whittier's poem, "In School Days," out of her mind as she sat near the front window of her two-room city apartment: "Still sits the schoolhouse by the road."

A ragged beggar, sunning— Suddenly the old country school where she had attended was very real, as though she actually were there sitting beside her seatmate, Laura Mather. Laura was happily married now, and the mother of three fine children.

Across the room, so real to her now, sat George, George Edwards. It had been a few weeks since she had heard from him. Still unmarried so far as she knew. She had always liked George. He was always so down to earth, good-natured, and practical. It always made her feel good to be around him.

The school room was so real to Jane today, and yet it had been years since she had last seen inside those locked doors, now that the children had been attending the consolidated school in town for the last ten years.

The building looked about the same from the outside.

Jane wondered if the inside of that school had changed any, if anything had been disturbed. Somehow she hoped that it had been left the same way it had been when she last was a student there, with Laura Mather, and George.

It was early in the day yet, and Saturday. Jane could catch the bus back to Benton. And she could borrow her father's car and drive out to see the old schoolhouse again. Perhaps if she found out who had the key she could take a good look inside again—

It wasn't far from the bus stop to where Jane's folks lived. It wouldn't be in such a small village.

"Why, Jane, is something wrong?" Jane's mother wanted to know when Jane stepped inside the front door.

"I just decided I wanted to spend the week end at home," Jane said.

Then she and her mother had a nice long visit, catching up on town talk and neighborhood news.

Then Jane said, "You know, Mother, I'd like to drive out to the country yet this afternoon and take a look at the Welliver School. Do you suppose Dad would let me use his car?"

"You don't expect your father to leave his game of horseshoes on a Saturday afternoon long enough to miss his car, do you?" Jane's mother said. "Your father hasn't changed a bit since you've gone away to work."

It felt good to be back at Benton, even though this was just a small village, Jane thought.

"Who do you suppose has the key to the school?" Jane wondered.

"I think it's Robert Edwards. You went to school with his son George, I believe."

Jane felt a sudden warmth through her body. "Is-is George still around? I haven't heard from him now for some time."

"So far as I know, I haven't seen him either."

It was good to be driving through the country again. There was something very relaxing about the country roads, especially those that led to the Welliver School.

Jane stopped at the Edwards farm to get the key. The school was a mile farther down the dirt road.

Soon she was seated where she and Laura used to sit. She looked across the room. It seemed that George should be sitting there now, too.

Then she went to the seat she remembered so well. And sure enough, it was still there: "George loves Jane." Carved deeply.

"It's still there!" Jane said aloud.

"What's still there?" a voice came from the door way.

"George!"

"Mother said you got the key. It's my place now. I bought it."

"Then you know what's there." George grinned. "What are you doing tonight?"

Let's Go Fishin'

BY BOB BREWSTER
Outdoor Editor, Mercury Outboards

Luckily, for those of us who think it's fun to waste a good part of our lives seeking fish, big water does not necessarily mean big fish.

The item that has proved this to many wielders of the limber rod is a relatively modern invention known as the farm pond. Farm ponds (called tanks in the West) have sprouted everywhere a low spot could be found in many parts of the country, providing fishing fun and other water recreation for millions.

Some are as large as four or five acres, others are smaller, but most all of them have been stocked with largemouth bass and bluegills when the water source is good enough to support them.

On the "big" ponds an aluminum boat of 10 or 12 feet is ideal. Then hook a light weight outboard like the little Merc 60 on the transom and settle back for an afternoon of finny fun.

ASK PERMISSION

Ninety-nine out of 100 farm ponds are on private land, so permission must be garnered before fishing them, but most landowners are willing to return courtesy for courtesy and when asked will give permission. If time permits many will join in the fish quest, so it doesn't hurt to have along an extra rod, just in case.

I learned an unforgettable lesson about farm ponds a couple of years ago while visiting a newspaperman from Macon, Mo., one F. M. Sagaser. He had a pond that couldn't have been more than 50 yards in length and no more than 30 feet wide. It was tiny, even by small pond standards—not much more than a swimming pool for a midget.

"Rig up your flyrod," he said, "and drop a popper bug right over that fence that runs through the center of the pond."

PROOF ENOUGH

I rigged, I dropped, and a bass half as long as my arm came chugging up out of the lily pads to gulp that popper into his maw. Five minutes later I had a four-pound bass stretched in the grass. It was proof enough for me.

The trick is to have a storehouse of available farm ponds, with permission to fish already secured, so if one is not productive you can move right on to another. With a light boat that can be handled easily by one man, and a little Merc 60 that tips the scales at less than 50 pounds, a farm pond fisherman is all set to go. It's worth a try.

Ten Minutes To Survival

Would a typical American family have a chance to survive if given only 10 minutes warning of a nuclear attack? To answer that question, Popular Mechanics magazine devised a realistic test involving an Austin, Texas, couple and their four-year-old son.

Russell and Marjorie Tinsley, their son Reed (shown here) and Abigail, the family basset hound, spent two weeks in the rugged hill country of central Texas. They lived only on what they had been able to pack at home in 10 minutes and what they could find in nature.

The test, planned in utmost secrecy, began one quiet evening when a representative of the magazine appeared at the Tinsley home and asked Russell Tinsley, a newspaper reporter, to do "a camping story." Tinsley agreed.

"All right," the visitor said, "the story begins right now! You have exactly ten minutes to pack what you can and get started out of town. You are to go to a location as far removed from any other human life as possible. You are to stay there indefinitely until we decide to end the test."

How would they find shelter? Would they have enough to eat? Could they survive for long without many everyday necessities?

The complete story of this unusual survival test will be reported in the August and September issues of Popular Mechanics. It is a story that gives civil defense a sharper, more personal meaning to all Americans in these tension-filled days.

Helping Hands on the Job

Electric Housewares Make Breakfast-time Less Hectic

This young housewife enjoys her coffee in a few moments of relaxation while her electric "helping hands"—coffee brewer, toaster, and electric skillet—prepare breakfast automatically.

If breakfast is hectic at your house, try letting electric housewares cook it automatically for you. While the electric "helping hands" are at work, you can rush off to find a missing shoe, change the baby, prepare the grapefruit, and set the table without keeping a worried eye on the cooking.

Set the dial of the electric skillet at a low temperature and the bacon fries without watching and won't burn. While it's cooking, the eggs boil to the desired doneness in the electric egg cooker, and the coffee in the electric coffee brewer makes coffee to individual taste.

When the coffee's done, the heat is automatically lowered to keep it at drinking temperature. The toast can be made at the table in the electric toaster—preferably one that toasts four slices at a time, if the family is large.

There are many other electric housewares that help the harried housewife prepare every meal with consistently good results and less work and worry. Among them are automatic pressure cookers, saucepans, casseroles, roasters, broilers, rotisseries, Dutch ovens, waffle irons, sandwich grills, electric can openers, and griddles.

With a carefully chosen selection of these housewares, a woman can cook almost a complete meal automatically. Here's a sample: chicken barbecued in the rotisserie; par-boiled potatoes cooked in the rotisserie dripping pan, where they catch the juices; carrots and peas simmered in a minimum of water in the electric saucepan to retain flavor, texture, and vitamins, and a plum pudding cooked in the automatic pressure cooker. Add coffee brewed in the electric coffeemaker, and all that's left to do at the last minute is toss a salad and set the table.

Save the Flavor

New Refrigerator-Freezers Keep Meat Fresher Longer

Meat takes one of the biggest bites out of the family food budget. To preserve its quality, top-notch storage conditions such as those provided by new electric refrigerator-freezers are necessary.

Many of the new combination electric units have meat compartments placed at the coldest point in the refrigerator section. Designed to hold humidity, they keep steaks, roasts, and chops fresh, moist, and flavorful for days.

Fresh meat should be wrapped loosely and refrigerated as soon as possible after purchase. To take advantage of meat sales, buy the butcher's bargains in quantity and store in the zero-zone freezer section for later use. If properly wrapped, frozen fresh meat will hold its quality for months.

Special design and proper placement of meat compartment in a new electric refrigerator-freezer such as this 1961 model keep contents fresh for days.

TIMONIUM, MD.—Jean Shepard, recording star and featured personality of "Grand Ol' Opry," will headline the free grandstand show at Timonium Fair beginning September 3rd. In addition to vocal numbers, Jean plays drums, string bass and guitar. Appearing with her at Timonium will be other famous personalities of "Grand Ol' Opry," including Hawkshaw Hawkins, "Little" Jimmy Dickens, Port Wagoner and his band, and The Country Music Makers with Bobt. Brown. The shows, which begin at 8 p.m. will run through September 9th.

All That Glitters

Legends of Gold

The "golden touch" of legendary King Midas changed everything to gold! He begged the gods to remove this power when food turned to metal in his mouth—and his daughter became a golden statue at his kiss!

Tales of El Dorado, the City of Gold, lured Spanish "conquistadores" up the Amazon and into South-American jungles. Sir Walter Raleigh renewed the search in 1595—but no explorer ever saw the fabulous city!

For centuries Alchemists searched for a mythical formula to turn base metal into gold. Of course, they never found it. But modern science has developed the Karatclad Heavy Gold Electroplating process which adds the striking beauty and luxury of gold to many fashion accessories and better high-style jewelry.

WITH OUR ARMED FORCES

SANDHOFEN, GERMANY (AHT-NC)—Thomas W. Humm, 19, whose wife, Nancy lives on Route 2, Westminster, Md., recently was promoted to specialist four in Germany, where he is a member of the 533d Ordnance Company.

Specialist Humm, an automotive fuel and electrical system repairman in the company in Sandhofen, entered the Army in September 1959, completed basic training at Fort Jackson, S. C., and arrived overseas the following March.

INCREASE IN MONTHLY SOCIAL SECURITY CHECK

Over two million people will get an increase in their monthly social security check beginning in September. This announcement was made today by L. J. Gillespie, Field Representative of the Baltimore (North) social security office. He said that as a result of these increases, the Social Security Administration will pay out an additional $170 million each year.

This increase will go to a retired or disabled worker or a sole survivor who has been getting less than $40 a month. All those due an increase will get it automatically. Mr. Gillespie urged everyone to wait for his automatic increase, and not to get in touch with the local social security office. The first payment at the new rate will be in the checks received in September.

There were two Chinese laundries in Glen Burnie, near each other. One was owned by D. Wong and the other by Sam Lee.

One day a man left some shorts in the Sam Lee laundry, and when he called for them, he went by mistake to the other.

The proprietor solemnly examined his claim ticket and said: "Solly. You are in D. Wong Laundry."

Teacher: "What tense is, I am beautiful?"
Little boy: "Past."
