MEETING OF CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

Progress Report Given on Consolidation of High Schools

Taney Inn was the scene Monday evening, March 19th, of the regular monthly dinner meeting of the Taneytown Chamber of Commerce.

A brief business meeting was held before hearing the school report and the speaker of the evening.

Of interest to postal patrons is the progress on the Mail Drop Box. Mr. Harold Mehring reported that Mr. George Fream Pastmaster, anticipates receipt of the box soon. Upon receipt, a decision will be made as to the exact location for the box on the square.

Mr. Neal W. Powell next reported on the hearing before the State Board of Education on Thursday, March 15th, concerning the proposed consolidation of Taneytown Senior High School with Francis Scott Key.

He eliminated a repetition of the testimony that has already appeared in newspapers that receive local circulation.

Mr. Powell particularly praised the State Board and Dr. Pullen for the gracious manner in which our delegation was received. They were alert, intensely interested in every minute detail of the case and were quick to recognize and correct misrepresentations and erroneous statements by the County Board.

Much was made of the fact, by the State Board, that such an important decision as moving a High School from the second largest incorporated town in a county was made in the space of less than one hour, with a member of the board, who happened to be from the affected area, having absent himself from the afternoon portion of the meeting after first having been assured that nothing pertaining to Taneytown was to be discussed. By way of defense, the County Board contended that this matter had been discussed many times in the past. Mr. Jerome Frampton, President of the State Board of Education, interjected that, if this were true, these discussions would be recorded in various minutes of the County Board meetings. The Attorney for the County Board seemed very uncertain of this, stating that many things are discussed in meetings that do not appear in the minutes. Mr. Frampton advised that the State Board would have to confine itself to documented evidence. To that end he requested Mr. Jennings, County Superintendent of Schools, to submit to the State Board promptly, extracts from the minutes of the Board meetings from April '61 through September '61, of all items pertaining to Taneytown.

April was selected as the breaking off point because it was in April '61, that the County Board issued the five year policy statement which declared that Taneytown would only be consolidated subject to the sentiments of the parents and subjects involved. (Note: The minutes for the period involved do not reveal any discussion of the consolidation move.) The State Board seemed to have some difficulty understanding how a policy could be reversed in the space of 5 short months.

Mr. Allen Resnick, attorney for the Taneytown group, who incidentally, did an outstanding job, also pointed out emphatically that in the Hampstead-Manchester area and the Union Bridge-New Windsor area, public meetings were held and the people concerned were appraised of the plan to consolidate and accepted it. We were granted no such courtesy in Taneytown.

In attempting to justify the size of the Francis Scott Key building, the County explained that the policy for the past several years has been to build school buildings larger than presently needed to allow for future growth. Mr. Resnick found no fault with this policy, but wondered why the converse was true in Taneytown. He cited the Elementary School as an example.

Mr. Powell suggested that there may be justification for a guarded optimism concerning the outcome. He noted that Mr. Frampton announced a decision is expected to be reached in two to three weeks. According to Mr. Powell, there seems little doubt that we will be afforded fair treatment by the State Board.

Rev. William Hendricks, Pastor of the United Presbyterian Church of Taneytown was the speaker of the evening. He reported on the highlights of a Church Seminar which he recently attended in Washington.

His interesting and enlightening report covered the following points: (1) Who is the church? The members are the Church and the Church is where you are. (2) What is a successful church? (3) What is a successful pastor? (4) What is the ministry of the Church? (5) What is the work of the Minister? Is he a teacher, preacher, counselor, administrator, etc., etc.? Laymen most generally regard him a teacher whereas the Minister most generally regards himself a Preacher. The roll of the Minister used to be that of a moral and spiritual example, whereas today, he becomes many other things, such as an administrator, in addition. Conversely, everyone who is a Christian, should be a moral image or example. Moral attitudes should not be restricted to the ministry.

Rev. Hendricks concluded with the observation that the spiritual role is the most difficult for the Pastor. The next Chamber meeting will be a dinner meeting at Taney Inn Monday, April 16th at 6:30 p.m.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

March 18

To Editor of the Carroll Record:

A lot of people have been wondering how we fared during the March 6th-7th storm. We were lucky compared to many people here. Our house is built on a concrete slab about four inches above ground level. Needless to say—we had water in our house about 12 inches deep. When I say, "in the house", I mean every crack and corner!

We went to bed early Tuesday night because we couldn't do much else with 8 inches of water everywhere. The next morning most of it had drained out, but before we finished breakfast it started coming back inside. It looked like a lake outside everywhere — water.

About 10:00 o'clock Wed. morning the water was almost 11 inches deep — boots weren't much good. I decided to find a dry neighbor. I gave the children each a dry bundle of clothes and they waded almost hip deep in icy water to the neighbors house. Soon they were dry and wrapped in blankets.

At low tide, which still was high above normal, a neighbor took us with them to Salisbury to the Sklar grandparents. The children stayed there until Sunday. Two came home on Thursday.

What a sight greeted me! An "oozy" layer of marsh mud everywhere. The heater was full of water instead of oil. The motors of the refrigerator and freezer were not running. I suppose if anyone else had been with me, I would have had a grand howl, but since I had no audience, I just dug in the mud and started scraping. I carried out four buckets of slime. Then I washed all the floors twice—it still isn't quite clean, but I'll take a break, then go after it again.

The car stood out in the water all the time, but they are trying to get her back in running condition again. I do hope our Taneytown friends who come to Ocean City this Summer, will take time to find us on Golf Course Road. They are pushing the sand back on the beach and by June the new boardwalk will be ready for strollers. So come along and have fun!

MEETING OF ZONING BOARD OF APPEALS

The Carroll County Zoning Board of Appeals heard six cases at its meeting on March 9, 1962.

The trailer locations of Lawrence Baker on Stone Road, Norman J. Broseme, Jr. on Bartholow Road; Jack Sullivan east of Finksburg; and Gene Hare on Millers Station Road were approved. A request for a variance to the building setback requirement was granted to Norman Dixon for an apartment unit on Trayer Avenue in Finksburg.

The application of David S. Hoff, Jr. for a trailer location in Freedom, west of Eldersburg was denied. Testimony presented at the hearing expressed a belief that a trailer at such location requested would adversely affect the property values of the existing residential properties as well as the proposed properties planned for development. In addition, there presently exists a residential sub-division of 75 lots which adjoins the applicant's lot which is restricted as to minimum price residence which may be erected and also as to the exclusion of trailers or dwellings of a temporary nature.

The Board noted the need of young people for trailer housing but expressed a feeling that a trailer permitted at this location would not be in the best interests of existing property owners or the community as a whole, nor could it be considered the most appropriate use of the land in this immediate area.

Testimonial Dinner In Honor of J. Fife Symington, Jr.

A testimonial dinner was given in honor of J. Fife Symington, Jr., Republican Candidate for Congress, (Baltimore, Carroll and Harford Counties), tendered by a Committee of Fifty, at Rolling Inn, Catonsville, Monday, March 19. Chief Booster, Honorable James Fulton, Republican Congressman from Pennsylvania, who flew here from New York where he was serving on a committee on Space, to make the main address.

Several hundred persons attended the affair with Mr. Sydney S. Captain, chairman. Distinguished boosters, Senator and Mrs. John M. Butler, who recommended Mr. Symington highly, Gen. James P. Devereux, Rev. W. N. Menicon, Mr. and Mrs. John M. Nelson III, Gen. and Mrs. William C. Purnell, Miss Arabella Symington, Mrs. J. Fife Symington, Jr. and J. Fife Symington III. Chief County boosters, Mr. and Mrs. Osborne P. Beall, Baltimore; Stanford Hoff, Carroll; Hall MacLean, Harford. Due to absence of Mr. Hoff, Mr. Charles Angell was recognized for Carroll County.

This being Mr. and Mrs. Fife Symington's 23rd Wedding Anniversary, they were extremely humiliated and Mr. Symington gave a most inspiring talk on "Stove Soup" as we get today. The committee presented a token check toward their campaign.

Those attending from the vicinity were, Mr. and Mrs. Roy B. Kiser, Taneytown; Mr. Charles Angell, Union Bridge; Mr. Walter Haschert, Mr. Olive Spencer, Jr., Mrs. Gladys Wimer, Mr. and Mrs. J. Robert Bixler, Mrs. Rosemary Lynn, Mr. Frank Getty and Mr. Jack Hahn, Westminster.

GIRL SCOUTS WILL BEGIN SELLING COOKIES

The 1962 Girl Scout Cookie Sale will begin March 23 in the Baltimore Area. More than 25,000 Girl Scouts and adult volunteers will be selling five varieties of cookies in Baltimore City and Baltimore, Carroll, Harford and Howard Counties until April 7. Miss Liza Carpenter, of Taneytown, is cookie sales manager for Carroll County.

The Baltimore Area Girl Scout Council is a Community Chest Agency. Although the Council's operating expenses are provided by the annual Community Chest-Red Cross United Appeal, additional funds are needed for acquiring and expanding camping facilities.

Funds raised from the cookie sale will be used for development of area Girl Scout camps. The Girl Scouts of the Baltimore Area have acquired more than 600 acres toward a proposed 1,000-acre consolidated site in Cecil County to be known as the Conowingo Girl Scout Camps. Plans call for four or more camps to be located on the site. This summer two camps will be operated there—Camp Shad-dowbrook for established camping and a new troop camp.

Cookie sale income helps to keep camp fees at a minimum so that the camping program will be available to all girls in the Baltimore Area. It also provides camperships for girls who need financial assistance to go to camp.

WITH THE ARMED FORCES

SCHOFIELD BARRACKS, HAWAII (AHTNC) Army Pvt. Joseph H. Rang, Jr., whose parents live on Route 1, Littlestown, Penna., is participating with other members of the 25th Division's 1st Battle Group, 35th Infantry, in three weeks of annual Army Training Tests at the Pohakuloa Training Area on the Island of Hawaii. The training is scheduled to end March 25.

Rang and other 35th Infantry personnel are maneuvering over the rugged lava-covered terrain between the famous mountains Mauna Loa and Mauna Kea. Combined arms exercises utilizing live ammunition are being conducted along with the standard company-size training tests. The Pohakuloa training is an extension of the mountain and jungle warfare and anti-guerrilla operations conducted near the 25th Division's home station of Schofield Barracks on Oahu.

An ammunition bearer in the infantry's Combat Support Co., Rang, entered the Army in September 1961, completed basic training at Fort Dix, N. J., and was stationed at Fort Chaffee, Ark., before arriving in February of this year.

The 19-year-old soldier is a 1960 graduate of Delone Catholic High School in McSherrystown. Before entering the Army, he was employed by Super Thrift Markets, Inc., Littlestown.

"SPICE 'N' EVERYTHING NICE"

With all my heart, I wish you every morning a smile that shall last until the next day's dawning. I wish you health—life's greatest wealth; I wish you always near so that I may help to cheer. Each future day and in some way—help to bring you happiness!

Just one little lonesome sparrow comes to the Patio door each morning to be fed! And as the days come and go, he seems to be getting more friendly. And the children are enjoying Mr. Snowman which is most evident! Now, the Governor of New York is stepping out with Joan Crawford! And Princess Grace is bowling to get thinner which is a new game in that part of the country.

A large Pictorial Map of "Forest Lawn" California was sent to me with an arrow in pencil where a relative was recently buried! As for that MAP describing in detail every bit of ground following the Cathedral Drive—"The Last Supper Window," "The Court of Freedom and Freedom Mausoleum," "Court of David," "The Great Mausoleum," "Wee Kirk O' Heather," "The Little Church of the Flowers," "Church of the Reformation" and much else. This cemetery is where many of the movie stars have been buried. And on the outside of that picture Map was in writing by the wife, "This is where I've placed my darling to wait for me!" It is really unbearably painful to the departed. Nothing can be done about it and one should look forward—never back!

What a shock as to the end of the romance of Liz Taylor and Eddie Fisher! Yet in a recent interview with reporters he denied it! Don't grumble folks, if the weather is really wet as the "Farmer's Almanac" stated "RAIN AND MORE RAIN" and that for the month of March. Just thank God how fortunate we have been so far and not in any disaster as Ocean City, Md. The Show this week ends at Ford's in Baltimore as it is to be torn down for a parking lot! The interior is beyond describing as to it's awful condition. Just think, there will be no theatre in the entire city only the moving picture houses yet Mr. Mechanic stated there will be shows there for years to come! Met a young man who served his time in the Army for Uncle Sam and he is now one of the most refined, patient, kind, gentle of any young man I have known. He was very chubby before going into the Service and now his appearance is to compare with an Intern in any hospital!

Recently in the newspaper, a big article stated that it was disgraceful the frightful prices as to any Hearing Aid and hope something can be done to remedy that one. I recall the wonderful phone call to just such a poor individual from Mr. Fortune to the sum of $500.00 and when he asked the lady what she was going to do with all that money she quickly replied, "Buy a Hearing Aid which I never thought I would be able to do!" Nice?

A letter as to food; did you eat? Dear Observer: I get so tired of thinking what I should have for the one big meal a day. Could you kindly tell me what you do which I will appreciate very much. I seem to get disgusted and getting to hate to even think about a meal as to cooking it.

signed, Lonely Widow.

Answer: Dear Widow:

There are many women who like yourself even those with a husband who dislike to cook as I have talked with dozens. Frankly I love to cook and I plan for two days as to the big meal so as I do not have to cook the second day only to heat it up and that way you can save yourself as to your worry. For instance, I have always eaten a balanced meal and here is the very one I cooked today and which is a cinch to heat over again tomorrow. I baked meat loaf and at the same time in a casserole, I had Au gratin Potatoes, stewed tomatoes and spinach. Also plain boiled carrots. If you desire sweets after your dinner at the same time the oven is hot, you could bake a small apple pie. (Your Observer is not eating any sweets for a month!) You can even have a salad with the above dinner which I usually do and although it reads like a lot of work and preparation, it really isn't but that may mean because I love to cook. If you send me a stamped addressed envelope, I'll mail to you a few more balanced planned meals.

Your Observer.

Dear Observer: They say that Baltimore County is very strict as to dogs running at large and I just moved here a little more than a year ago. I like my neighbors and I dislike to complain about them so what shall I do? Thanking you.

Signed, "Just Moved In".

Dear Neighbor: I know just what you mean exactly! First of all do call on the owners of the dogs and state facts to them. If it continues call the Court House in Towson and they will do the rest. That is really a Law which must be observed with no further trouble. Don't worry about it—just act at once before the dogs do too much damage. One of The Commandments God Gave to Man is "Love Thy Neighbor!" and I do not call that love by permitting their dogs to do anything that is a detriment to the Community. Good Luck!

Your Observer

Have a grand week end, folks. Be sure to love one another not for just a day but for three hundred and sixty five days of the year! Until next week-end D.V.

I am,

Faithfully,

YOUR OBSERVER.

MORE ON POSTAL RATES

More voices are protesting the inadequacy and inequity of HR 7927, the postage rate bill passed by the House of Representatives. As written, it is evident that it will do serious harm to newspapers and magazines without giving real help to the Post Office. John Gunther, the author, voiced the miss givings of many in a letter to The New York Times.

If passed also by the Senate, says Gunther, the bill "will almost certainly destroy serious periodical literature in the United States" by "fantastically and excessively steep increases in the second and third class postage rates". He points out this would leave untouched "the grisly mulligatawny of sex, crime, joke books and comic books" sold on newsstands while penalizing the serious magazines largely delivered to subscribers by mail.

"This is too high a price to pay for the relatively insignificant portion of postal revenue involved," says The New York Times in an editorial urging that the Senate Post Office and Civil Service Committee appraise the consequences of the proposed increases.

In an article which should be required reading for all who do read and titled, "Second-Class Mail Rates Can Ruin First-Class Magazines", the April Reader's Digest points out some of these. The proposed increase, for example, would add $91,000 to the annual postage bill of the Atlantic Monthly, which dates from 1857. This additional burden is more than seven times the before-tax profit the magazine earned in 1961.

Most farm publications are delivered by mail. The Farm Journal, which has not made a profit in either of the last two years, is faced with an increased postage bill of at least half a million dollars a year.

When The New York Times observes that the present provisions of the bill "will cut off outlets for creative literature and public enlightenment", it is indulging its penchant for understatement. More simply put, if it is the desire of the US Senate to the press of the nation, it need only rubber-stamp the House bill.

It should be no news to the Senators that the fate of the press, and especially the newspapers, is the fate of Freedom.

Shell dealers suggest 7 things to try if your car won't start

ANY TIME you have trouble getting your engine going, the first thing to do is check the obvious.

For example, the fuel gauge. It's astonishing how often an empty fuel tank is all that keeps the engine from starting.

According to American Automobile Association figures, motorists run out of fuel more than 5,000 times per day.

If you have an automatic transmission, make sure your selector is in the correct position for starting.

Next step is to run through these seven tips from Shell dealers. Any one of them could help you get started.

1 Use the starter in short bursts. A long, steady grinding runs your battery down drastically. In fact, if the car won't start in the first few attempts, it's a good idea to wait several minutes before trying again. This lets the battery recover some of its life.

2 If you have a manual shift, keep the clutch pressed all the way down when you're starting. This helps to take some of the strain off the battery, particularly in cold weather.

NOTE: An engine in good mechanical condition should usually start in 3 or 4 seconds. Today's Super Shell gasoline can help. During coldest months, it contains an extra dose of Butane, a special quick-start ingredient.

3 Keep the battery connectors tight. If battery terminal connectors are loose, you may not get full battery voltage, when you try to start. With reduced voltage, the engine is harder to start. Sometimes the starter won't even turn the engine. It's easy to keep connectors tight.

All you need is a suitable wrench. Even a pair of pliers will do.

If you have repeated starting troubles, your battery may be weak. Your Shell dealer can recharge it—or install a new one if needed.

4 Get maximum value from your choke. If you have an automatic choke, give the accelerator pedal a tap before you start. This sets the choke in the correct position—the way it should be for easy starting. NOTE: A small choke adjustment can often cure cold weather starting troubles. Your Shell dealer can do it for you.

If you have a manual choke, remember to use it! When you pull the choke out, you increase the proportion of fuel in the air-fuel mixture. Could be all your engine needs for a start, especially on a cold morning. After you've started and warmed up, be sure to push the choke all the way back in.

5 Wipe moisture off the distributor, ignition leads and spark plugs. Condensed moisture—which can be a problem in cars left out overnight—could keep you from getting started. It's easy to find the distributor. Just follow the ignition leads—the wires that come from the spark plugs. They lead right to the distributor. Before you wipe the moisture away, make sure the ignition is turned off and nobody works the starter.

6 Turn off the lights, radio, heater, heater fan. This way there are no extra demands on the battery. It can devote its full power to starting the engine. NOTE: Don't forget to turn lights on again when you start up.

7 Never pump the accelerator if you suspect flooding. It only makes the flooding worse. Instead, try this: Wait 2 or 3 minutes. Then press the accelerator to the floor once and hold it there while the starter cranks the engine. When the engine does start, gradually let the accelerator return to idle position.

Here are the 9 ingredients in Super Shell—and what they do to give your car top performance

- #1 is Butane for quick starts. Butane is so eager to get going it could even boil on ice.
- #2 is Pentane mix for fast warm-ups.
- #3 is anti-knock mix to resist all kinds of knocks.
- #4 is gum preventive to help keep carburetors clean inside.
- #5 is TCP* for power, mileage, and longer plug life.
- #6 is "cat-cracked" gasoline for power.
- #7 is an "anti-icer" added in cold weather to help check carburetor icing stalls.
- #8 is Alkylate to help control "high-speed knock."
- #9 is Platformate for extra mileage.

*Trademark for Shell's unique gasoline additive. Gasoline containing TCP is covered by U. S. Patent 2889212.

CURRENT EVENTS FIFTY YEARS AGO

All record for eating raw eggs went to smash when Franklin Thomas ate 49 in succession and Reuben Butler ran him a close second with 48 in about the same length of time, less than 15 minutes. The contest took place at the Lippy's store, New London, Frederick county, Saturday night, when a crowd in the room got into a discussion about the number of eggs a person could eat. Thomas and Butler of that village, contended that they could each put away four dozen. The time was taken and the basket of eggs were placed before the men. One by one they swallowed the raw eggs, which were broken in a glass. Thomas ate 49 in 13 minutes; Butler consumed 48 in 12 minutes.

The Record published thirty-five sales, at length, and twenty more, either briefly, or at least in our sales register.

New Kitchen Aid—Non-stick Ware

SOAKING AND SCOURING OF POTS AND PANS may soon fade into a memory of bygone days. This centuries-old kitchen chore is being banned by modern homemakers who have discovered cooking utensils coated with "Teflon" TFE-fluorocarbon finishes. Virtually no food sticks to such cookware—not even oatmeal and scalded milk.

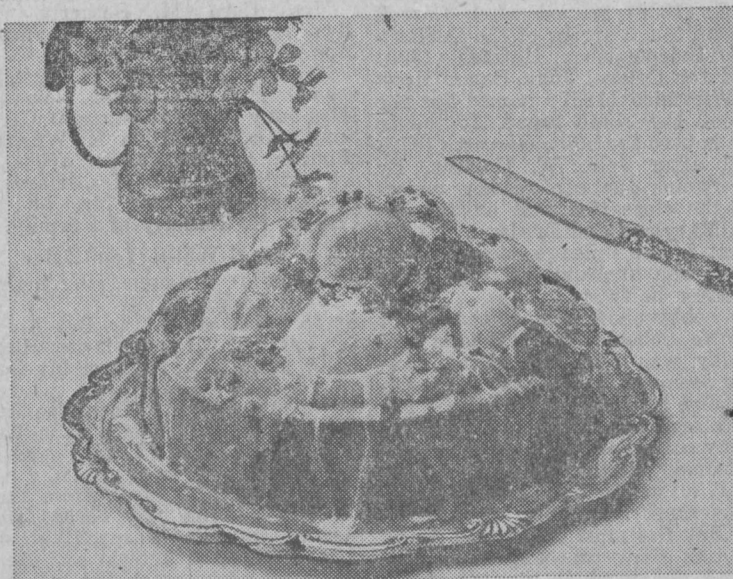

For years, industry has used "Teflon" enamel on giant cookie rolls, candy machines, and other food processing equipment. Now this Du Pont development moves into the kitchen. All kinds of utensils with the ultra-slick coating are available—cookie sheets, casseroles, muffin tins, pie plates, and roasters, to mention a few. Photos above show how running water, a little soap, and a soft sponge swiftly remove melted cheese residue.

Greaseless cooking is another benefit of the new cookware, offering variety in fat-free diets. Cooked over moderate heat in a dry pan, a meal slips freely from pan to plate with the slightest nudge of a wooden spatula.

Utensils coated with "Teflon," made by several manufacturers, range in price according to the quality of the ware itself. "Teflon" should not be confused with other materials offered for the same purpose.

Burnt Sugar Special

ICE CREAM TAKES THE CAKE in this scrumptious dessert which improvises on the "Sundae" theme. A ring of burnt sugar cake, made from a deluxe mix, is piled high with scoops of ice cream, sauced with burnt sugar sauce, and sprinkled with nuts. Delicious!

Whether you're 8, 18, or 80 you'll agree that this luscious ice cream dessert really takes the cake! And the cake is that wonderful old-fashioned burnt sugar flavor, one of the ten newly improved deluxe layer cake mixes on your grocer's shelf. A special ingredient has been added, a flavor-building ingredient not found in any cookbook recipe, which enhances the moistness and flavor-appeal of the baked cakes. Only 2-minutes of beating at one-speed make an extra creamy-rich batter ready for the oven. You'll want to try this Sundae special, so perfect for family desserts, sensational for easy entertaining.

Burnt Sugar Sundae Ring
1 package deluxe burnt sugar cake mix
1 quart vanilla ice cream
Burnt sugar sauce
1/4 cup chopped walnut

Burnt Sugar Sauce

1/4 cup burnt sugar liquid
2 cups brown sugar
1/2 cup undiluted evaporated milk

1/4 cup butter or margarine
1/4 cup light corn syrup

Combine all ingredients. Cook over low heat, stirring, until sugar is melted. Bring to a boil and simmer for 3 minutes.

Dainty Foods And Coffee Make A Party

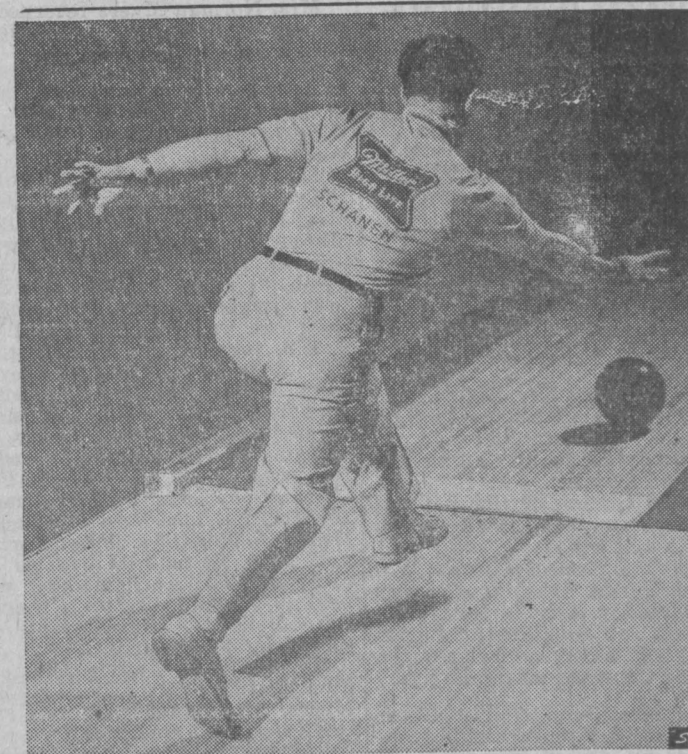

Appetizing "finger foods" and extra good coffee make any gathering a party. Use your favorite chicken, turkey, crabmeat or lobster salad as a spread for dainty sandwiches. Vary the shapes and make some of them open-faced. Try thin slivers of ham or chicken on buttered bread, tucking in a bit of watercress or parsley. Soften cream cheese; then add finely chopped clams and seasonings. Offer fresh shrimp and a dip. Serve the coffee fresh and hot, making it, of course, from a premium-blended coffee, such as Yuban, and present it in your prettiest cups. As a change, you might like to offer "Hot Mocha" made this way:

Hot Mocha Drink

1/3 to 1/2 cup instant chocolate flavor mix
2 cups hot milk
2 cups hot freshly-brewed premium-blended coffee
2 cups hot milk
1/2 cup whipped cream
Cinnamon

C. Combine chocolate flavor mix, coffee, and milk, stirring to blend. Serve hot, topping each serving with a little whipped cream and a dash of cinnamon. Makes 6 servings, about 2/3 cup each.

Bowling Tips...

TOWEL AT FOUL LINE MAKES GOOD PRACTICE FOR FOLLOW-THROUGH

Proper follow-through is vital for maximum "strikepower"—that just-right combination of speed, spin and aim. Dropping the ball too soon is just as harmful to this strikepower as lofting the ball. Ray Schanen of Milwaukee, one of the nation's top professional bowlers and Miller High Life bowling adviser, suggests placing a towel at the foul line during a practice session. If your ball hits the towel, you're letting go too soon. A brief practice session with the towel will show you the proper point at which to release the ball for a smooth delivery.

Spring's Here — So's New Kite

Just as surely as one season follows another, spring's here—and that's kite-flying time in any language, in any land.

This year, adding luster to an ancient sport in an exciting reversal of time-honored kite design, engineers have applied fine principles of aerodynamics in developing a wholly new, unique kite.

Tested and studied in a wind tunnel by a University of Minnesota aeronautical engineering professor, the inflatable plastic Aero Kite was developed by Lakeside Toys of Minneapolis, Minn. It has proven its ability to fly in wind as low as 3 miles per hour!

Greater altitude, more stability, quicker ascent and less drag are among the benefits derived from this ultra-modern, missile-shaped kite.

Just the opposite of aviation pioneers, who toyed with kite-flying to learn new tricks, these designers have used a number of principles well known in airplane design for their kites. Curved lifting surface like a delta-wing plane and rocket-like fuselage add to the aerodynamic features of this newest of the new.

FAIRVIEW

Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Frock of Mechanicsburg, Pa., called on Mr. and Mrs. Levi Frock, Sunday afternoon.

We were sorry to learn of the death of Mrs. Grace Senecy. We used to live neighbors together at McKinstry's Mill, when I was a little girl. The family has our deepest sympathy.

In the past three weeks it seems we have all had quite a lot to go through with. First the snow, then more snow putting the telephones and electric lights out of order, but things are gradually getting back to normal again.

What a pleasure to see the happy faces of those who have lost a pet that they loved so much. A dog came to the house next door and stayed there from Saturday until Sunday, and thinking it belonged to the people that moved from there, we fed the dog and took care of him, but found out later it was not their dog. We did some calling on the telephone and found the dog belonged to a Mrs. Foster. She came for him at once, it was quite a reunion; but then too, we were sorry to see the disappointment on the face of a Mr. Beard whose dog has been gone for some time. We surely do hope he finds him soon.

A VOICE FROM CARROLL

Since more people are becoming more conscious of history and geography these days it might be a good idea to learn something about our own state. Maryland has twenty-three counties but few people can even name them. The origin of their names is very interesting and they give a clue to the historical significance of Maryland. Beginning with St. Mary's, the earliest county (1634) named in honor of the Blessed Virgin Mary; Anne Arundel (1650) named after Lady Anne Arundel, wife of the second named after the English county of that name by settlers from England; Calvert (1654) named after the family name of the proprietor; Charles (1658) named for Charles Lord Baltimore; Baltimore (1659) named for the Proprietary's Irish barony; Talbot (1660) named after Lord Talbot, uncle of Lady Baltimore; Dorchester (1666) named for the Earl Dorset, a family friend of the Calverts; Somerset (1666) named for Edward Somerset, husband of Marie Calvert, daughter of Lord Baltimore; Cecil (1673) named after the forename of the 2nd Lord Baltimore; Prince George's (1695) named for Prince George of Denmark; Queen Anne's (1706) named after Queen Anne of Great Britain; Worcester (1742) named in commemoration of the Stuart proclivities of the Palatine's family; Frederick (1742) named after Frederick, Prince of Wales; Caroline (1773) named after Caroline, Hartford, a niece of the Proprietary; Hartford (1773) named after Henry Hartford, a nephew of the Palatine, the Governor of the Province; Montgomery (1776) named after General Montgomery, killed at Quebec; Washington (1776) named for General Washington; Allegany (1789) named after the great Indian tribe of the Allegheny. Translated it means the old settlers. Carroll (1836) named after Carroll of Carrollton, a signer of the Declaration of Independence; Howard (1850) named for Colonel John Eager Howard; Wicomico (1867) named for the river of the same name. It means where houses are built. Garrett (1872) named after John W. Garrett. By these names one can readily understand the close ties that existed between Maryland and England.

Great is the mileage racked up in a day, when husband and wife meet each other halfway.

The hobby show held at the Elmer A. Wolfe School Union Bridge last Saturday was very interesting. Collecting seems to be one way of spending leisure time and making one's life more informative. The show indicated that any collection can be colorful and educational. Historical displays attracted a great deal of attention from visitors, as did the gun collections. But the most surprising thing about this show was the amount of planning and work it took to put it over. The chairman and fellow workers are to be congratulated upon such a superb job. Also to the hobbyists a word of appreciation for sharing with others their interest and knowledge.

Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman tells about a Swedish-born farmer in his state of Minnesota who applied for citizenship. "Does the government in this country satisfy you?" the judge asked. "No, exactly," said the farmer. "I'd like to have more rain."

Its income tax time again and for many people a painful ordeal involving figures and money. But if one thinks logically the truth of the matter is we get a lot for our tax dollar. Federal and State taxes give us roads, schools, police protection, mail service, recreation through parks, rivers and mountains, library service, the armed services which protect our country, the three branches of our government which makes and controls our country and our personal lives and countless other hidden services. Suppose we had none of these services but would have to pay for them one out of our income. Try building a driveway into your house and you will soon learn how much it takes to build a road. Send just one child to private school and you soon learn how much education you can afford. Hire a private detective to guard your property and person and you quickly learn what that would cost too. We fuss about taxes without realizing how much we get in return. Think about it when you mail in your income tax and you will have a different feeling about paying your share for all the services you and everyone gets for so little.

The Polar Eskimos call "wood" sea-fruit and prize it like we do gold. For the only wood they ever see is what is tossed out on the beach by the sea. They heard of wood and never dream of burning it. Trees are unknown. They use the bones of animals they capture in place of wood in making almost all the things they need in their primitive living. In the old-fashioned novel, the hero didn't kiss the girl until the very last page. Now, he kisses her on the cover of the book before you turn the first page. The urge of spring was so great this week that we took the wren boxes down and gave them a house-cleaning. Whether the wrens are going to appreciate this or not, we do not know but the boxes were so full of debris that no self-respecting wren would have moved in. Once again the question of having schools remain open the year round has been raised by responsible people. They have valid reasons for this idea, but regardless of the reasons we are opposed to it. We believe that a growing child needs to learn about all phases of life. He needs some time to learn about nature, people and himself. Everything that is important cannot be learned from books. Learning to understand himself can only be learned by observing the workings of nature. Instead of school twelve months of the year, we suggest a mountain camp or a tour of duty on a farm for three months. Here girls and boys would learn how to use their hands and to appreciate the wonders of their native land. Every man needs a wife because so many things go wrong that cannot be blamed on the government.

Sing While You Drive

At 45 miles per hour, sing highways are happy ways.

At 55 miles, sing, "I'm But A Stranger here, Heaven is my Home."

At 65 miles sing, "Nearer My God To Thee";

At 75 miles, sing "When The Roll Is Called Up Yonder I'll Be There,"

At 85 miles, sing "Lord I'm Coming Home."

Let us take a lesson from the advice—fast living may be as fatal as fast driving. The unrepentant sinner is a stranger to heaven and He that will meet these when the roll is called up yonder. Make Christ's way your way, today.

Annual Report of Carroll County Planning and Zoning

The Parks Advisory Committee to this County Planning Commission met on Monday evening of this week to review and develop the objectives for future park areas in Carroll County. While acting as one of five advisory committees to the planning agency, its report, findings and recommendations will be forwarded to the Planning Commission for consideration as the county's master plan is being developed.

One of the initial recommendations coming from the Monday night meeting was that additional community ponds be developed much like the one presently located on U. S. 140 at Westminster. The Committee asked that service clubs and communities work with the County and State in trying to develop such additional sites for community recreation and enjoyment.

Planning Director, George A. Grier reviewed the areas which could be considered logical for study for large park areas and possible inclusion in a long range master plan. These areas were portions of the watersheds of the Gunpowder, Big Pipe Creek, North Branch of Patapsco, Morgan Run, and South Branch of Patapsco. The Committee recommended that study be confined initially to these areas and be considered by the Committee at subsequent meetings.

The Parks Advisory Committee is headed by James M. Shriver and includes also James P. Earp, Thomas R. O'Farrell, W. LeRoy Stegman, and Read C. Hoodinott.

A Silver Wedding Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Merle D. Eckard celebrated their Silver Wedding Anniversary on Sunday, March 18, 1962. A surprise celebration was held in their honor at their home near Taneytown, by Mr. and Mrs. Merle C. Eckard.

The couple were married March 25, 1937 at the Methodist Parsonage, Thurmont, by the Rev. W. E. Nelson. They have been residents at the present address for the past 25 years. The table was set attractively with a three-tier cake and candles. Mrs. Eckard wore a white cymbidium corsage. They received many lovely and useful gifts. They also received best wishes for the oncoming years.

Lutheran Faith

Christian love is a giveaway!

...in the real sense of give-away—it doesn't expect anything in return. Christian love loves just for the sake of the one needing the love.

Christian love doesn't expect those on the receiving end to know certain answers, or make certain responses, or think a certain way.

So, Lutherans engage in social action and services of all kinds. They love now. Love cannot be postponed to the hereafter.

The basis for it all is Christ—"We love because He first loved us."

Law of Love

Lesson for March 25, 1962

IN the sight of God, what is my most important duty? What can I do that will yield the best returns in life? It is a happy discovery to learn that the answer to both questions is the same. We know this is true because Jesus himself was asked both questions, and gave the same answer each time. The strangeness of his answer is that he did not directly say to either questioner: DO—anything whatever. The highest duty and the most rewarding effort is not action but attitude. For Jesus' reply to these questions was: Love God; Love your fellowman. Jesus was not the first to sum up the Law and the Prophets—in short, the entire Old Testament—in these two commands, love to God and to neighbor; but he gave his approval to this way of summing it all up.

Love to God

We have called love an "attitude." This is not quite fair, for love which is only an attitude, never resulting in action, is not what Christ and Christians after him mean by the word. Nevertheless, love is an attitude before it is an act. You might say, love should be the atmosphere, the light, in which you see, or think about, God and your neighbor. Now it is clear that love to God can't be precisely the same as love to men, even the best of men. From all that is said of "love" in the New Testament—for instance in 1 Corinthians 13, or John 13 through 17, it is plain that love, as God approves it among men, involves helping them when in need. But God is never in need. Also, love is at its high point when it is expended on the unloving and the unlovable; but God is never unloving nor unlovable. Perhaps we can put together love to God and love to man this way: Love means sharing their concerns. Jesus the boy was sharing the concern of his Father in heaven when he said, "I must be about my Father's business." As a man, he was sharing his Father's concern when he said: "I always do what is pleasing to him." (John 8:29.)

Love to man

Not all that concerns God concerns us. He has a wide universe to control, and he has not invited us to help operate heaven, hell or the stars in the sky. But (strange as it may seem) God does have concerns with men; and it is these which we can share—and will share gladly if the love of God is in us. But the concerns of men are different. They arise out of man's weakness and sin, just as God's concerns arise from his holiness and power. Much of the concern of every man can be summed up in one question: How can I get out of the jam I'm in? Not every one is in the same kind of "jam." The troubles of an intellectual mind wrestling with sore doubts are not the troubles of a mother without enough food for her children, and neither of these kinds of trouble is the same as those of (say) President Kennedy. But all the same, love to our fellow man involves being sympathetic with all those in trouble, of every sort, a concern and sympathy which will pull us into sharing the load, helping where and as we can.

On reading the Bible

We must add a little but important postscript. When this question came to Jesus, on one occasion he gave the answer himself; on another, he got the answer out of his questioner. The point is that the answer came from the Bible; but not (so to speak) from right on top of the Bible. How often do you, for example, read the book of Deuteronomy or Leviticus? That chapter 6 in Deuteronomy has quite a bit in it which does not fit us; but verses 4 and 5 do intensely concern us. In that 19th chapter of Leviticus (perhaps no one's favorite chapter of the Bible!) there are some very peculiar laws, which passed away when the nation of Israel ceased to be. Today people plant two kinds of seed in a field, or wear clothes made of more than one material, and never think of it; modern people are not tempted to tattoo themselves as a sign of mourning. There is much here that no longer has force with Christians. But "Love your neighbor as yourself" does have force, it did not pass away when Jerusalem fell.

OTEL AUTOMATION REACHES NEW HIGH

Automation, as supplied to hotel operations, will reach a new high when the world's tallest hotel, the 50-story Americana of New York, is unveiled in September. Time-saving and corner-cutting devices will not, however, replace the personal services and relations so necessary to the successful conduct of "the world's largest inn."

The twelve high-speed automatic Westinghouse elevators which will service the towering structure will have a voice — and a well-modulated one, at that. The phantom voice will announce the floors, remind passengers to step to the rear of the car, announce "Full Car!" when the maximum load is reached and, during intervals, laud the merits of the Americana's several specialty restaurants.

The checking of coats and hats will be automatic, with the garment hangers traveling on an endless track. If, for example, you're holding check No. 212, the attendant will press button No. 212 and, in the wink of an eye, your Burberry will be delivered to the checking counter.

Ballmen, housekeepers, engineers, even executives, will be equipped with two-way pocket radios, only slightly larger than the Dick Tracy version. This plan will provide instant communication between staff and supervisors, not an easy thing to achieve in a 2,000-room operation.

Dial - it - yourself telephones will enable guests to dial local calls directly, and communicate with any hotel department — valet, room service, garage, etc. — by dialing only one digit. A small, flashing red light will indicate a call waiting at the Message Center.

The Imperial Grand Ballroom of the Americana of New York will represent one of the most complex wiring tasks ever attempted. A simultaneous-translation system, patterned after that in use at the United Nations council chambers, will provide instant translations into several languages. Television cameras, projection machines, spotlights, and other theatrical equipment will be located on a huge platform which will be automatically lowered from the ceiling when required. A four-level, hydraulic stage, will be complemented by the newest type of theatrical switchboard, dimmers and sound and lighting controls. It will be sufficiently large to accommodate a full-scale Broadway musical comedy.

All accounting, accounts payable, city ledger and payroll items will be automatically processed through an elaborate IBM system.

Summer and winter air-conditioning will operate through the same system and will be thermostatically-controlled, with manual adjustments possible to suit individual tastes.

Giant mangles in the Americana's laundry will iron, fold and collate all linen items — sheets, towels, tablecloths, napkins — without them being touched by human hands.

Individual electric refrigerators in each guest room will do everything but put the ice into the highball glasses. This function, of necessity, must be a manual one.

Even the "Do Not Disturb" indicators will be controlled from within each room.

There is little doubt that the shades of Thomas Alva Edison, Alexander Graham Bell and their inventive colleagues will find automation at The Americana a lively subject for conversation!

FISHING LINES

By DICK WOLFF

It's no secret that fresh water fishing isn't what it used to be. There are just too many fishermen and not enough fish.

More than 25 million anglers fished regularly last year. That's approximately five million more fishermen on the waterways than five years ago. And, it keeps growing like that every year. Conservation programs just can't keep up with the fishermen. But for one hopeful sign, we might as well cast around our backyard.

The one hopeful sign is that salt water fishing is on the increase. It's growing by half a million fishermen a year. As the popularity of salt water sport fishing grows, it's been proven that the pressure lessens on our lakes and streams.

Another hopeful sign is that in recent years, nearly 70 per cent of the nation's population has located in the big cities such as New York or Los Angeles. This is happy news because it puts a big proportion of the world-be and future anglers right on top of salt water. But while there's plenty of water, there aren't any major fishing facilities, and slowly, but surely, some of the best salt water fishing spots are being destroyed.

A major effort is afoot to improve salt water angling and sports fishing along the 11,500 mile U.S. coastline. For if we don't, believe it or not, the oceans can be fished out, as far as coastal sportfishing is concerned. Last year, six million salt water sportsmen caught over a million gamefish. Experts say that in less than twenty years, more than twice as many anglers may be taking more than twice as many fish out annually. And, that's no fish story.

A start has been made by the Department of Interior. Its purpose is to study marine fish with an eye on how to expand fishing grounds along the coastline, open new spawning grounds for popular species, and save spawning grounds now being destroyed by pollution. Its work will benefit fresh and salt water enthusiasts alike from Maine to Florida, Michigan to Louisiana, and Alaska to Southern California.

It's in just about everybody's interest to see that full scale marine research program gets underway soon.

Frankly, I can hardly wait.

X-RAYS AND YOU—!

Walt Disney Techniques (Plus Time Lapse Movies) Help Medicine

Nearly everybody has seen the slow motion or "time lapse" movie films that show the beauty of the plant kingdom in its growth. Flowers open before our eyes and plants twist and turn in their growth toward the sun.

How is it done? Very simple. Photographs are taken at periodic intervals and then are run together on film. This compresses time and allows the human eye to perceive change and growth otherwise invisible.

This movie technique has been known for some time. But to Dr. Howard J. Barnhard, radiologist, University of Arkansas Medical School, this posed an interesting question. Why couldn't this same time lapse technique be applied in his medical specialty, radiology? Dr. Barnhard, in his profession, studied x-ray films of bones and other structures of the body in diagnosing disease. In addition, why not use x-ray film in the same manner that, say, Walt Disney does in animating his nature films? Three years ago Dr. Barnhard began to study this project which combines animation with time lapse photography.

In a recent report on his results, Dr. Barnhard said the findings have shed new light on bone growth and the healing of fractures. Besides this, he said the new technique is proving very useful in research and teaching.

Describing the project, Dr. Barnhard said the procedure involved making x-ray films of a fracture in an experimental animal's foreleg at intervals during a period of observation lasting weeks or months. The interval x-ray films were then put together like the separate frames of a motion picture, which would create the impression of movement. Since the eye more readily perceives motion than still images, the process of change is actually intensified to the observer. Thus, the doctor shows bones clearly growing together right before your eyes.

This is the first in a series of reports on recent advances in the diagnostic and therapeutic use of medical x-rays. Today's report discusses a new way to study bone growth. Subsequent articles will deal with heart disease and cancer.

According to Dr. Barnhard, this method of time lapse study can be applied to many bone processes, such as normal bone growth and development, normal fracture repair, and healing across a bone defect and bone diseases. New uses could be found as well. They would include a wide field of medical research such as studies of the effect of stapling the growth areas of the bones during the growing period, the response of various parts of growing bone or mature bone to irradiation, the reaction of joints to foreign matter, and the study of bone tumor growth and its response to treatment.

Thus, a simple idea acquired while watching a movie proved to be an exciting and successful medical project.

SAVE YOUR VISION WEEK

"Vision is a Family Affair" is the slogan for national Save Your Vision Week, March 4-10, 1962. For study, writing, or workshop tasks, place lamps overhead to the rear of the work area. Avoid tabletop glare. Several sources of light are better than one...they save your eyes the effort of adapting to contrast between bright and dark areas.

Can you answer "yes" to these questions prepared by the American Optometric Association regarding television? In tuning, do you seek a comfortable balance between steadiness and brilliance of image? Do you maintain soft, indirect lighting in the same room? Are dark glasses removed before viewing? Do you occasionally rest your eyes by closing them, or by pausing to look at near and far objects?

When sports or handling small children threaten the life of your eyeglasses, invest in safety lenses and sturdy frames—almost unbreakable! Wearing protective goggles when necessary saves the sight of thousands of workmen each year. If you use sunglasses, treat yourself to properly-ground prescription lenses...if you normally wear corrective eyeglasses.

FOREIGN NATIONALIST LEARN FARMING

Two Carroll County families have made a contribution to international relations and at the same time helped the University of Maryland Extension Service to tell the story of Maryland extension.

Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Null of Taneytown and Mr. George A. Nicholson of Detour were among 19 Maryland families who were hosts to 18 foreign nationals who are in this country to learn how Maryland operates its extension program through the State Board of Agriculture and the University of Maryland College of Agriculture.

All of the visitors are extension officials in their respective countries, which include the Philippine Islands, Republic of China, Thailand, Vietnam, Bolivia, Indonesia, Iraq and Korea.

Under the sponsorship of the United States' American International Development Program, the participants also have attended classes at College Park, and have observed first-hand how Maryland county agents conduct extension affairs throughout the State.

"The morning after I arrived in Parsonville (Md.), I awoke at 6 a.m.," one visitor reported.

"I dressed and went downstairs to wait for my hosts to get out of bed to begin the day's work and activities. After waiting a long time without seeing them, the thought crossed my mind that Americans were lazy people."

"My impression was soon changed. They had been out of bed since 4:30 and work had been underway for several hours," he declared.

This incident was related by Mr. Do Quang Cio, assistant director of agricultural extension in Saigon, Vietnam, who was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. William Reddish, of Wicomico County.

The experience was typical of those told by other foreign visitors who are in the program. They are impressed with how hard American rural families work, how all members of the family work together, and the contribution that the women in the family make to homemaking.

Soepandjono Djodjoredjo, chief of the Agriculture Service in East Java, Indonesia, noted that Mr. Roger Day worked very hard on his 75 acre dairy farm in Damascus, Maryland.

"It was very difficult for me to understand how one man could operate such a large area with just one helper," Djodjoredjo said.

"In my country, there would have been 10 helpers," he concluded.

Most of the course participants, all of whom speak English, were immediately at home with the Maryland families. Their activities were varied and included everything from chores, such as dish washing and feeding stock, to attending church and playing with the children.

Through the experience, Mr. and Mrs. Winfred Widdowson, of Princess Anne, Maryland, have begun correspondence with the family of their guest, Aurelio R. Salas, provincial agriculturist from Binan, Legune, Philippines.

Salas and other foreign visitors visited high schools and attended group meetings within the area of their temporary homes and discussed the culture and life in their native lands.

Many letters have been received by the University of Maryland Extension Service which have indicated how various host families felt about their experience.

"...it was agreed that this was not only a rich experience for us to have been associated with Mr. Koeswarno Prodjodjardono, of Indonesia, but that this is an excellent way that we here in America may do much in the long run to create a much more wholesome international understanding of free men everywhere," a typical letter states.

According to William R. Gordon, AID's technical director for the extension program here, the University of Maryland Extension Service program was chosen as an example for the visitors because it is one of the oldest in the nation. Maryland's extension work, begun in 1856, was the forerunner of the present university.

agricultural and extension education department, is in charge of the short course program's content.

The course participants have heard, as part of their study, a series of lectures from Dr. Thomas B. Symons, an internationally-known expert on extension service work and director of the University of Maryland Extension Service from 1914 until 1950. Dr. Symons is presently dean emeritus of Agriculture and a member of the State Board of Agriculture, which also serves as the Board of Regents.

While course emphasis is being given to extension supervision, participants are being taught how information gained through research conducted by the College of Agriculture is communicated through the county agent to the farm operator, according to Professor Arthur B. Hamilton, who is in charge of arrangements for the group.

"We felt that the best way to accomplish this goal was to supplement course work on the campus with a first-hand contact with farm families and giving them an opportunity to work with county and home demonstration agents. Our objective is to give them an understanding of the functions of the College of Agriculture, home economics, the experiment station and resident teaching."
