TANEYTOWN HIGH GETS ONE YEAR REPRIEVE

The consolidation of Taneytown Senior High with Francis Scott Key has been delayed until September 1963, by the County Board of Educa-

Mr. Samuel Jenness, Carroll County Superintendent of Schools, explained the reasons for the change to Mr. Neal Powell in a telephone conversa-tion on Wednesday, May 9th. Mr. Jenness stated the action was taken at the regular meeting of the The Ladies Auxiliary of Taneytown Volunteer Fire Company will hold their regular meeting this evening (Thurs.), at 7:30 P. M. in the Firemen's Building.

Carroll County Board of Education on Tuesday May 8th. He noted that no decision has been forthcoming from the State Board of Education, therefore, due to the fact that sufficient fore, due to the fact that sufficient time must be allowed for the hiring and placement of teachers as well as other planning, he and the County Board felt it requisite that the effec-tive date be changed from September

'62 to September '63
Mr. Jenness also noted that cognizance had been taken of the fact that, even if the State Board had sustained the County Boards action, another time consuming delay would be brought about by the Taneytown groups avowed intention to attempt to secure a court injunction against the County Board.

Mr. Jenness emphasized that this action does not represent a "backing down" by the County Board. Any additional developments will be reported as they occur.

LUTHERAN WORLD ACTION SUNDAY

Lutherans in Taneytown and across the nation will concentrate their efforts on May 13 to gather $4,287,000 for a global program of assistance to the world's hungry, homeless and

The day has been designated "Lutheran World Action Sunday"—an an-nual fund campaign supported by churches participating in the National Lutheran Council

The 1962 LWA goal represents nearly one-third of the total goal sought this year in the United Appeal of Protestant Churches in America for overseas aid projects.

The interdenominational appeal was opened on April 1, which was set aside as "One Great Hour of Sharing Sun-day." The goal of this fourteenth annual campaign is $15,250,811, an increase of nearly $500,000 over 1961. The Rev. Howard W. Miller, pastor of Trinity Lutheran Church in Taneytown, said congregations of the de-nomination held special overseas-aid observances in connection with the united Protestant appeal and also will emphasize world-wide needs on "Lutheran World Action Sunday." He said the goal established for the Lutheran congregation in Taneytown is $973.00. The need for continuing programs to bring direct aid to the world's hungry, ill-clothed and homelessbuild self-respect by helping the needy help themselves—is being stressed by leaders of many denominating the month of May and will include the following:

ations and relief operations.
Dr. Paul C. Empie, Director of Lutheran World Action, said recently in announcing the drive:

"Anyone informed about the world situation today knows that the postwar needs of war sufferers, at that time, pitiful and compelling as they were, cannot even be compared with the importance of powerful, direct Christian witness on a global scale in our own times." Funds contributed by America's Protestants promote services of material aid among the poverty-stricken and underprivileged, programs of education and self-help assistance and ministries of resettlement and rehabilitation among the refugee millions of the world.

Lutheran World Relief, the denomination's large material aid agency, annually gathers more than five million pounds of clothing for distribution overseas. LWA funds help pay the costs of processing this clothing as well as the tons of medicine, food and other relief supplies, shipped each year by LWR.

Both LWR and Church World Service, the relief agency of the National Council of Churches, support "Share Our Surplus" programs through which foods from U. S. surplus stocks —such as dried milk, wheat, flour, corn, cornmeal, oils and shortening—are distributed free to hungry peo-

Assistance to orphanages and hospitals, tuberculosis sanitaria and other health facilities, schools and specialized training centers, are vital parts of the world-wide ministry. Lutherans in the nation, who in nine of the last ten years have at-tained the goal of their LWA campaign, will in 1962 contribute to aid programs in 85 countries. Since the LWA appeal began in 1939 cash contributions have exceeded $65 million. Over half of the LWA budget is pledged to projects of the Lutheran World Federation. These embrace a widespread mission effort, a new high power radio station in Africa, aid to refugees and minority churches from Europe to Latin America, support of self-help and vocational training institutions, maintenance of a theoogical program and support of the Lutheran Immigration Service. The Lutheran campaign also supports a special ministry to men and women in the armed forces of the United States, an accelerated effort in view of the present military build-

Sums also are budgeted for cooperative projects with such other agencies as the World Council of Churches, Church World Service and the World Student Christian Federation.

It was decided to incorporate 24 hour parking in this area and to sell at public auction those vehicles which are not moved after a period

Questions came up as to who is responsible for the maintaining of the baseball field, the fence surrounding the field and the grandstand in Taneytown Memorial Park. Authority was given to check into existing agreements drawn up at the time the Taneytown Memorial Park was in-

The Street Committee wishes to point out that the ultimate goal for Taneytown is to have all existing streets resurfaced, alleys tarred and chipped and streets built in our new developments. We are proceeding as fast as possible on this program with budgeted funds available and it is hoped that before very many years, our streets will be as good as any other town of our size.

Taneytown Scouts to Collect Paper Saturday, May 12

Boy Scouts of Troop 348, Taneytown, sponsored by Hesson-Snider Post 120 of the American Legion, will conduct their usual bimonthly scrap drive on Saturday, May, 12, for rags, magazines, and newspapers. Besides Taneytown itself, the roads leading to Mayberry, Copperville, and Crouses's Mill, and the Baptist road will also be covered. Bundles securely tied are greatly appreciated, although Scouts will gladly fetch from cellar or garret if their attention is directed to this need while the drive is in progress. Should early and continuing rain force postponment, a new date will be publicly announced.

Program Activities

Knot tying relays, sketching maps by the use of mapping symbols, compass dash, trail sign relay, and fire by flint and steel were the subjects of contests among the four patrols during March, introduced respectively by Patrol leader Ralph Hoffman, the scoutmaster, Assistant patrol leader Philip Martin, and Junior assistant scoutmasters Stuart Dom and Robert Shaffer. Games during this period included Guardian patrol leader, Crows and cranes, Wary wolf, and Capture the flag (in Memorial park.)

With April and the advent of balm With April and the advent of balmier weather, a number of outdoor games were tried besides Capture the flag, namely "Jack, Jack, shine your light" and Border scouting, and last meeting a round of scrub softball was enjoyed. Themes and contests for April started out with a blending of April started out with a blending of map symbols and compass directions, continued with combined dramatic and first aid demonstrations, and the preparation of menus and food lists for the camping trip at Natural Dam April 27-29 on the site of Troop 84, Littlestown. Miraculously there was not one drop of rain on this outing, the woods were in deliciously aromatic blossom, and the water even proved popular for swimming. It also is plan-ned to hold some scout meetings in the Natural Dam area in the near

The patrol contest shows the Flaming arrows under Patrol leader Thomas West to be decidedly in the lead, West having been appointed to that office in March, as well as Charles Mason to head the Raccoons, by vote of the green-bar leaders' council. Gary Wantz was a new recruit for the Panthers, who at present stand second in the overall contest.

Last season's contest winners who for their prize trip saw the Hershey Bears play Providence at ice hockey were the Foxes now led by Hoffman, but last year captained by Dom. James Frock and Philip Martin also represented the winning contingent, while (paying half their own expen-ses) the second-place Panther lead-ers Samuel Bower and Ricky Clingan attended along with the senior greenbar council members.

Scout advancement records reveal the following merit badges to have been earned in the past month: Frock, reading: Philip Martin, home repairs. pets, and reading; and West, electricity and leatherwork. Another encouraging sign of increased activity has been a series of patrol hikes taken by the Flaming arrows and also jointly by the Foxes and Raccoons. Flaming arrows have added considerably to their contest scores by such projects as light fix-ture shields, bird feeder, games pla-que, and wall lamp. The patrols will also have an opportunity to plan a special program for the week which includes Thursday, May 31, when the regular scout meeting will be omitted. New colors have been ordered for Memorial day and the parade season thereabouts, the expense of which will be borne jointly by the sponsor and

(Mother's Day)
I REMEMBER MAMA!

To My Beloved Mother.
Dear Mama: Again it is Mother's Day and I recall the joy it was to all of us and how glad we were when all of us and how glad we were when Miss Anna Jarvis who lived only two blocks from us in Phila. thought of such a wonderful time in honor and in memory of all Mothers. Although, I was your seventh child, your fourth daughter of eight children, you always told me that you thought that an American family meant four children and I used to tease you and say you had two Amermeant four children and I used to tease you and say you had two American families! I remember—oh—so many things, dear Mama, the closeness of it all from the time I can recall so vividly hearing you rush down the steps to the dining room when I screamed, "Oh, now I can see!"

I can see you now with howed head when I screamed, "Oh, now I can see!" I can see you now with bowed head as dear Papa prayed words of gratitude and thanks after my three month's of blindness from that awful Scarlet Fever. Your big soft brown eyes are always in a picture before me as I think of that big day! You could not speak and your white skin seemed to be a shade or two whiter as you bent over me. It was whiter as you bent over me. It was truly, "Silence is Golden!" There were so many things you taught me and do you know, Mama I still say the very prayers that you taught me at your knee? I was with you constantly and you called me "Your knee." stantly and you called me, "Your Shadow!" How I loved the hour with you daily after school as you rested on that big settee which was always between the hours of four and five and there were so many intimate little stories which you related to me and which I will always cherish. Somehow I have named that one hour, "My Mothew's Hour!"

Never have I known anyone quite so humble as you, dear Mama and in fact of anyone who spoke only such few words. Somehow, I never wanted to be humble for I always thought that it made you appear so pensive especially the expression in your beautiful eyes.

Those long winter evenings, I will never forget in the Library—that huge room on the second floor rear with the big bay window. Dear Papa used to say as he glanced in your direction reading a book as you turned the pages of the evening "Bulletin" that he thought you read every word! Then, I used to steal around the back of you and take the paper from your hands and insist that I love you first and I can hear you say, "Just look, George this child won't let beautiful eyes.

"Just look, George this child won't let me read!" And Papa would laugh in his deep, deep rich voice and give me a wink saying, "Jenny, she loves you best of all!"

I loved the responsibility of which you gave me in so many things, the faith you had in me and the wonderful confidence! You seemed to be so pleased when the different neighbors wanted to take me with them to spend the day at a special outing. I recall the rabbits we had in our

..... APPLESAUCE FOR THE GANDER

Now that the President has had his way with the steel companies, numerous fellow citizens could wish he might turn his fury on the prospect of increasing postal rates by over $35 a ton (not a mere $6). At least, he might explain why this would not "constitute a wholly unjustifiable and irresponsible defiance of the public interest".

In this serious hour in our nation's history, (if we may borrow some of his words) when we are devoting our energies to economic recovery and stability and asking union members to hold down their wage requests at a time when restraint and sacrifice are being asked of every citizen, the American people will find it hard to accept a situation in which a tiny handful of Government bureaucrats can show such utter contempt for the interests of 185 million Amer-

If it was so wicked of US Steel to hike its price 31/2 percent in the face of a 6 percent increase in costs, how come it is so noble of our Government to ask newspapers and magazines to pay 50 percent more in second class postage rates, and third class mail users 40 percent more?

Have the present keepers of the Federal Establishment forgotten that it was the basic function of the post office to maintain communications and to encourage the dissemination of information-over our continent-wide nation? And are those custodians of our freedoms who should be concerned with that traditional responsibility unaware of the number of publications that would be done to death by such increases? Or are they insensible to the damage to both the national morale and the economy?

These questions become especially compelling when we realize that the same Administration that expresses fear of an inflationary spiral and appears to deplore wage hikes in industry plans raises to postal and other Government workers that will cost far more than the rate increases will produce.

Perhaps the Administration thinks the public would be more tractable if it knew less of what is going on - and reporters, writers, editors, antists, engravers, typographers and pressmen would be happier raking leaves? At least, there's no better way of hastening the managed state.

MONEY-SAVERS

Answers to 8 questions on car care that Shell dealers often hear

Shell dealers answer thousands of questions every year. Here are 8 that crop up all the time. The answers have helped many motorists save money. They may do the same for you.

anything from a sticking valve lifter to a loose wheel lug. Ask your Shell dealer to help you track down any unusual noise. You may save yourself a big repair bill later on.

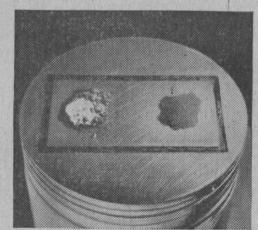

Mow can I get more mileage from my tires? Rotate all tires, including the spare, every 6,000 miles. Drive at moderate speeds. Tires can wear twice as fast at 70 miles per hour as at 45. Avoid fast cornering, "jackrabbit" starts, sudden stops. Try not to bang tires against curbs. And check your tire pressure frequently.

9 Do I really need a lube job every thousand miles? Yes - unless you have one of the newer models that doesn't require it. But with any car, remember that frequent lubrication offers your serviceman a chance to spot trouble before it costs you a lot of money. That's why Shell dealers give you a bumper-to-bumper inspection with every Shellubrication.

Can knock hurt my engine? Usu-4 ally it's more annoying than harmful. But persistent knocking hampers perform-

What's that funny noise I hear? All ance and can lead to engine damage. L cars make some noise. But be particu- That's why Shell scientists are such larly alert for any squeals, squeaks, clicks, sticklers about knock. They even listen or rattles that crop up suddenly. Could be for it with stethoscopes and insist that Super Shell contain no fewer than three knock-fighting ingredients.

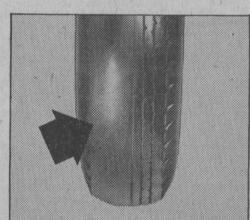

> How can I make my battery last longer? Here are four suggestions: 1. Let your Shell dealer check your car's electrical system. Worn wires and loose connections can drain power. 2. Always maintain battery water to the proper level. 3. Avoid prolonged idling with radio turned on. 4. Go driving! Long drives help charge your battery.

What does TCP do? Shell's unique TCP* is a combustion control additive. The hot piston device above shows one way TCP works. The glowing deposit on the left has not been neutralized with TCP. In your engine, glowing deposits can ignite fuel too soon, wasting fuel and power. Deposit on right has been "fireproofed" by TCP. No glow - no power loss.

How often should I change oil? The American Petroleum Institute recommends an oil change every 30 days in winter, every 60 days during summer.

Note: New Shell X-100® Premium is the first premium motor oil that leaves no additive ash deposits. It fights four other internal troubles that can shorten engine life.

8 Why do my tires wear out on just one side? Most likely cause: wheels out of alignment. Result: your tires drag against the road and wear unevenly. Unbalanced wheels can also cause uneven wear and make your car shake or shimmy. That's why it's a good idea to keep tires balanced and have wheel alignment checked twice a year.

Now a question for you

Is your car giving you top performance? If there's any doubt in your mind, try a tankful of today's Super Shell. It contains 9 ingredients including a gum preventive, three knock-fighters, "cat-cracked" gasoline, a mileage booster, an anti-icer, quickstarting Butane, and Pentane mix for fast warm-ups.

*Trademark for Shell's unique gasoline additive. Gasoline containing TCP is covered by U.S. Patent 2889212.

Mestminster the boy sat, he laid his hands gently on his shoulder, the boy shuddered and shrank from him. "What is the matter, Henry?" said the teacher. "I thought you were going to strike me," replied Henry. "Why should I strike you?" said the teacher, "Because I am such a bad boy." Father says, I am bad and mother says so, and every one says so."

"But you are not a bad boy; at least I do not think so, and you can be as good as any boy if you will. Ask God to help you to be good and he will do it and you will surely succeed." The poor boy's eyes filled with tears, he was not used to such kind words, and when his teacher left him he thought, "can I be a good boy when everyone says I am bad? But

"NOW I LAY ME."

Softly ebbs the gentle twilight Silver stars gleam one by one; Peace and rest come stealing o'er us Now the busy day is done.

Kneeling by the snowy bedside,
While tired eyelids droop and peep; Children's voices lisp the story; "Now I lay me down to sleep," Simple words of faith, most holy, Blessings asked for days to come; Thanks to God for mercies given, For their parents, and their home, Graven in my memory deep Are the little drowsy murmers; "Now I lay me down to sleep," Back through years that seem like ages, Memory haunts me like a wraith; And my hearts forever yearning For my childhood's simple faith. Oh, when life is near its' closing, When the shadows round me creep; May I use the same old story, "Now I lay me down to sleep."

On Sunday evening my husband and I went for a little drive, we went over a road that led us to the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Staub. I have known Mr. and Mrs. Staub since I was a little girl and it seemed I never had the privilege of visiting in their home. We enjoyed every min-ute of it. We talked of old times and some/ of the churches we had attended years ago, especially those where Rev. John Gonso was the Pastor and the wonderful Revival Meetings he Also of the horse and buggy days. What a pleasure to sit and talk to two wonderful people and good Christians, to; which means a lot in these days.

The Power of Kindness

A rough looking man brought his boy into a school room and said to the teacher, "I have brought my boy here and would like to see if you can do anything with him." A few days later as the teacher was walking by where the boy sat, he laid his hands gently on his shoulder, the boy shuddered and shrank from him. "What he did not say I was bad; he said I would be a good boy. I will be a good boy." From that time on there was a marked change in Henry. took a great interest in his studies and made rapid progress. His school master soon learned to love him. He grew up to be a great and good man and became the governor of the state in which he lived.

A VOICE FROM CARROLL

What is more lovely than a spring in Carroll, especially this one? The beauty of the countryside makes one forget at least momentarily the ugly problems of man. The dogwood trees in their dainty dress gives no hint to the "fallout" terror nor do the colorful azaleas on the green lawns indicate there is such a thing as a primary election in Maryland. Its wise to enjoy what nature so abundantly of-fers and it is right to refresh one's mind and body with beauty but wise men know that there is a time to pay attention to the practical side of living. One of the more important duties is voting, but one which many adults put aside as unimportant. This year its more important than ever because so much depends upon the outcome It is unfortunate that the average voter in Carroll is unaware of the impact that the recent Supreme Court decision on reapportionment will have on the political structure of our state and county. Because our county s small in population it will have less representation in the Legislature. Small counties like Carroll may eventually be dominated by urban voters, which means that rural dwellers will have little say in important decisions like taxation. It is well known that the present Governor of Maryland the Annie Warner Hospital and since has been sympathetic to the problems my return home. of the rural counties of our state. This s one reason why the "bosses" of the city of Baltimore are so opposed to him. We cannot think of a greater calamity that could befall our lovely Carroll then to be dominated by a city boss". Today we have a fiscally sound State with a healthy educational system; the needs of the mentally ill are receiving more and more consideration and help; employment is high and our al tributes, expressions of sympathy State Highway system is among the and services of all pallbearers. State Highway system is among the most efficient in the nation. The Governor has been especially conscious of the tax-burden in the counties and has returned sums to each county from the amount collected by the State. Carroll County's share from these funds were $247,408. If this money had to be raised by the people of Carroll, it would have meant an increase of 15 cents on the local property rate. These are the facts that every intelligent voter should remember when he or she goes to the polls next Tuesday. If your county means as much to you as it should, vote in the Primary

The President has proclaimed Sunday, May 13, as Mother's Day and has directed that the American flag be displayed on all public buildings on that day and he has also asked that all private homes display the flag as an expression of the "rever-ent esteem" for mothers. We think that the American flag should be displayed more often on homes, but not just for being a "mother", for a mother is just a natural product of nature and a priviledge all its own. The em-blem of our nation should be flown because of deep pride in our nation as a whole, not for just a segment of the population. It is true that mothers are an important part, but so are fathers, sons and daughters. Mothers really don't want special treatment on a special day. What they really want is a faithful husband, and children that do honor to them day in and day out, in good times and bad times Let the flag wave for Presidents and heroes, but not for mothers. Let them bask in the reflected light from the happy faces of their offspring and in the knowledge of a job well done.

Three pairs of wrens are putting on a duel for two wren houses and one pair of woodpeckers are endeavoring to put a hole in the side of our house They tried it last year but we finally convinced them that we wanted the house for ourselves. This year they are trying it all over again and I am sure the female woodpecker said to her mate: "Thats where I want my nest and if you can't get it for me, I'll go home to mother." He is really trying. He starts his riveter's staccao each morning about five and wakes everyone up. When his down-beat gets too nerve shattering someone taps on the window pane and he flies away until everyone settles for a second nap, then he comes back and begins his drilling again. As yet he hasn't given

On Thursday, Mrs. William Segafoose of Uniontown gave a "Coffee" for Dr. Clarence Long of Baltimore at her home. Dr. Long is a candidate for Congress in the primary election. He is a professor at the Johns Hopkins University and the arthor of several books on unemployment and busness fluctuations. He served in World War II and served under two Presidents as an economic advisor. Mrs. Segafoose is serving as Dr. Long's campaign manager in Carroll County. The Pacific Ocean is so large that the entire land mass of all continents could be dumped into it with room to spare.

We are convinced that the sooner the world has a common language the happier for everyone. With the invention of television the average person is introduced to every language in the world, but he is frustrated because he can't understand what is being said. Translators are unsatisfactory, no matter how fluent they are. Sunday night was a good example of this when Glenn and Titov ample of this when Glenn and Titov were talking about their orbital lights. Christ.

Consider it in this way-Christ no longer walks the earth. He no longer reaches out his hand and feeds people ... or heals people. He no longer gathers a group of people together and preaches to them.

Yet, all of these are still being done-through Christians.

These Christians are banded together in the church . . . and the church reaches out and feeds and heals and preaches.

The church is the body of Christ on earth in our day.

But it was just like being Cinderella on those beautiful evenings as I was permitted only to remain and eighteen and was invited to so as I was permitted only to remain until the stroke of midnight and then after changing my slippers in the powder room and placed in the satin bag (which I still possess along with my fan), my escort and I hurried out to the street to hail a cab for home. - KILLS ODOR AND BACTERIA IN AIR

The device being held by this attractive girl will make all of our lives more enjoyable in the near future. It is a Yorkairc Purifier, which destroys both odor and bacteria in the air. Made up of hundreds of pellets of buffered potassium permanganate, the unit will someday replace the conventional filter in most types of air conditioning.

A new development in air purification which will not only kill all known odors almost instantaneously but will also destroy most classified species of bacteria in the air, has been developed jointly by the York Division and the Roy C. Ingersoll Research Center of the Borg-Warner Corporation.

The new development, which eventually is expected to replace the filter systems in all forms of air conditioners, promises persons living or working in air conditioned homes and offices the cleanest, most odor-free air scientists have ever been able to process.

York President, Joseph B. Elliott revealed that the York-aire purifier will be available aire purifier will be available in some commercial air conditioning units produced by the company by the end of the year. It will be optional equipment for year-round residential air conditioning and heating units next year and will be marketed for many other applications not related to refrigerated air conditioning.

"Developments such as this are in the finest traditions of American science," he said, "in that they not only produce more pleasant everyday living conditions for great masses of people but also contributa toward a healthier population."

The new air purifier consists of a multiple layer of many hundreds of small pellets impregnated with a buffered solution of potassium permanganate. Encased in a finely woven mesh of fiberglass, the pellets are activated to have a tremendous number of tiny pores. The buffered permanganate solution is available on the surface and as air comes in contact with it, the various materials that prothe various materials that produce odors are oxidized out of the air and captured.

Ten per cent of all airborne bacteria are killed during each pass of air through the purious different with about six passes every and with about six passes every hour, practically all bacteria in the room will be removed from the air. The purifier also inhibits mold growth on its own

Most commercial products in use in homes today mask odors, but do not destroy them. An exception is activated carbon which has no effect on bacteria but which does absorb odors. However, the carbon's ability to do this depends on temp-erature — and an unexpected temperature rise will cause it to give off odors it previously absorbed. The new purifier, with its permanganate pellets, does not do this.

New Flavor and Texture in Pineapple Juice

From our 50th state, Hawaii, comes a delightfully different product, Dole's new "Flavor-Spun" Pineapple Juice. The difference you can readily see and taste.

"Flavor-Spun" Pineapple Juice is light and smooth textured. You will notice immediately improved clarity and more fresh fruit flavor—the result of extensive research and a new million dollar method at the Dole cannery in Hawaii.

The new pineapple juice gets its name, "Flavor-Spun", from the spinning centrifuges used in the process which provides precise control over fruit solids and removes coarse fibers.

The new method also excludes air which has long been an enemy of flavor. And the new "cold-fill" retains more volatile flavor esters than the old hot-fill method. The juice is sent immediately canning and sealing lines, resulting in peak flavor retention.

H. C. Cornuelle, President of Dole, says, "It's the finest juice "'ve ever sent to the Mainland, the result of the most modern methods we can achieve, both on plantations and in the cannery. We are convinced that acceptance will be quick and enthusiastic." "Flavor-Spun" Pineapple Juice by Dole is delicious for breakfast or as a refresher—just chill and serve. Now available at your grocer's in several sizes to fit your needs, 12, 18, and 46-oz. cans.

Converted Attic Can Cure Family's Growing Pains

An expandable attic often is the ideal spot to find more space for growing families, but attic space can have its drawbacks. Discomfort is one. Unfinished attics can be notoriously hot in summer, cold in winter.

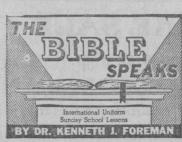

But any attic can be made comfortable all year 'round with proper insulation and a room air conditioner. Mineral wool insulation, installed to meet the Quality Home Requirements of the National Mineral Wool Insulation Association, blocks the escape of heat in winter, helps keep it out in summer. Attic installation of mineral wool can be a money saving do-it-your-self project.

> Take Your Stand Lesson for May 13, 1962

S IMON PETER had been in jail himself, so he knew what he was talking about when he wrote to people who were going to jail. He was no well-sheltered man urging others to be brave. If he had been, we may would have treasured his letter and saved it. At the time 1 Peter was written, something new and frighten-to disturb the Dr. Foreman Christians of Asia Minor. Outbreaks of persecution had already occurred and more was to come. The new feature of this was that Christians were being jailed, their property confiscated and themselves sometimes executed as criminals, because of their religion alone

Is suffering inevitable? Something like a panic was starting. Was God going to let his people suffer? Would God's cause be lost in the end? Should persecuted Christians strike back? Those Christians were as confused and alarmed as we would be if suddenly our government started raiding our churches and arresting us on no charges except that of being Christians. So Simon Peter writes this letter, the main theme of which is the suffering of Christians. He does not indulge in the platitude of saying that suffering is inevitable. It isn't and it wasn't and he knew it, and so did they. They could save themselves a world of distress, even torture and death, simply by giving up being Christians any more. But Simon Peter does not suggest that way out. We know (from sources outside the Bible) that some early Christians did actually renounce their faith; but mighty few.

Criminal or Christian? The upshot of what Peter writes is that it is inevitable that there should be some suffering, but on the other hand some ought to be avoided. Suffering is not a good thing in itself, it is not bad in itself. There is suffering of which one may be ashamed, and suffering for which one must thank God. Christians, of all people, who have to be punished for any kind of wrong-doing, ought to be heartily ashamed,-not ashamed of getting caught, nor suffering the penalty; they should be ashamed of the wrong-doing. But those who suffer because they are Christians have no cause for embarrassment, much less shame.

On the other hand it is not right to covet being a martyr. In the early church there was a good deal of trouble with over-enthusiastic, we might say fanatic, people, who did everything they could to get themselves arrested and even executed. The church had to hold a steady hand on these eagerbeaver martyrs. And yet when it came to the pinch, the very bishops who had discouraged rash martyrdoms, went bravely to their deaths rather than renounce their faith. All sounds very modern

First Peter is one of the most up-to-date books in the whole Bible. We are living in a time when, in more than one part of the world, it is literally as much as your life is worth, to be known Christian. When the communists took over North Korea, where the Christian church was strong, one of the first things the government did was to organize the ministers into a sort of pro-government propaganda association. Some ministers yielded; but some resisted and were "liquidated" by firing squads. Some of these ministers had cons, who in turn were in danger of their lives, merely because they were sons of minis-ters. What should these boys do? If they had been like those ancient Christians who went out of their way to get killed, they would have just given themselves up and been shot. What they did was to escape, at great risk, and eventually come to America, where now they are preparing to go back and help what is left of Korea. But even in America they have had to take a stan', as Peter put it. They have been ridiculed for "sticking their necks out" again; their faith has been attacked (in medical school and otherwise) by skeptics; the paganism of America, subtle and glittering, tempts them on every side. They could be rich and comfortable here; but they are going back, to serve the needy, in Christ's name.

BLAIR LEE was elected "Legislator of the Year" by the Annapolis newsmen who cited his "courage in placing the public welfare over personal and special interests."

BLAIR LEE wrote and secured passage of the law that stabilized farm land assessments at fair agricultural value rather than at inflated subdivision values. Ed Wise, secretary-treasurer of the Maryland Farm Bureau, Inc., wrote to him: "All farmers in Maryland are deeply indebted to you for the fine work you did in initiating this legislation and guiding it to passage. Thanks for your fine help for the Maryland farmers."

BLAIR LEE is known for his fairness and independence. He is widely acknowledged as an expert on state fiscal problems and has been a champion of the public school system as chairman of the House Education Committee.

"Those who have followed the tortuous history of the new regulatory bill will recall that Big Jack in 1960 opposed the enactment of the so-called Tydings bill, which Governor Tawes later vetoed as inadequate. Last spring, after a revised and perfected version was passed and signed by the Governor, Big Jack led a petition movement to set aside the law until a Statewide referendum could be held. When Mr. Tawes, as a result, convened a special session of the General Assembly in June to reenact the law as 'emergency' legislation, Big Jack again was present in the halls of the State House to combat the move. And when this effort failed, he filed a suit in the Baltimore Circuit Court last August, seeking to set the new law aside."

. . "The Mahoney ticket is making every effort to create the illusion that everyone in the State of Maryland is unhappy and mad at Governor Millard Tawes. With the help of some highly paid TV people out f New York City, our Governor is being cast as 'villain', and Mr. Mahoney as the 'good man' who can cure all ills. The Mahoney ticket is trying a massive 'brain-wash' campaign. . . . We don't think this will work." . .

Tawes For Governor

... "Baltimore City and the state's political subdivisions have been aided by allocation of new state funds. He exhibited leadership in the vast programs of education and of mental health. Roads construction has been accelerated. The point system, to. remove reckless motorists from the highways, has been put into effect. His seafood program is the first one in decades to show results. His program of accomplishments as Governor is long although he has had, as have had most chief executives, some reverses at the hands of the legislators.

"We feel Gov. Tawes merits renomination and re-election on an excellent record. And when we think of the deals, the rantings and the antics his opponents are engaging in, we are convinced that Maryland is fortunate that he is a candidate and his victory would be in the best interests of the state.".... THE SALISBURY TIMES Friday, April 20, 1962 ... "One of the odd features of the Mahoney type campaign is the fact that he can completely distort an issue.".... CECIL WHIG
