Kiwanis Activity

Kiwanis International has just established its first club outside the United States and Canada, Leonard Reifsnider, president of the Kiwanis Club of Taneytown, Md., announced today. Reifsnider said the Kiwanis Club of Tijuana, Baja California, Mexico, established on April 17, was the first club organized outside of English and French speaking North America in the 47 year history of the international service organization.

News of the historic event came from I. R. Witthuhn, Milwaukee, Wisconsin, President of Kiwanis International. The service organization's headquarters are in Chicago at the Kiwanis International Building, 101 East Erie Street.

In accordance with Kiwanis policy, the new club of Tijuana was sponsored by, and assisted in its organization by, neighboring Kiwanis clubs: The Kiwanis Club of San Diego and the Kiwanis Club of Chula Vista, California.

Seventy-one charter members made up this first Kiwanis club in Mexico. Senor Benjamin Garcia Montiel, an official of Agua Caliente Race Course, is the president of the club.

MEETING: The 23rd Anniversary night brought a fine gathering of Kiwanians and Ki-Wives to celebrate this milestone in Kiwanis activity and fellowship Wednesday evening, May 23, 1962.

After a delicious dinner followed by singing a number of the songs, so popular in days gone by, President Reifsnider expressed his appreciation for the fine attendance and introduced Mr. Travis Dutterer of the Key Club and Miss Hannah Lippincott, the sweetheart of the Key Club and lately elected President of the Student Council of Taneytown High School.

The Program was then turned over to the "Grand Mogul" of "Delicious Dinners" and "Wholehearted Hospitality," Mr. Tom Albaugh who introduced Mr. Ray Kyle and Miss Joyce Meyer of the World Service Center located at New Windsor, Maryland.

Mr. Kyle gave a heart-warming and inspiring resume of the activities of this group, who by their service and policies are pioneers in the new age which is characterized by a free-will offering of all the benefits of civilization to the homeless, the hungry, the downtrodden victims of mans inhumanity to man.

The pages of history tell the long and sad story throughout the centuries of man destroying, enslaving or conquering his neighbor that material wealth and power might lift him to fame and worldly glory, while in his footsteps followed famine, disease, and death.

America whose founders sought God instead of gold have reaped a harvest of benefits hitherto unknown in the world. The lessons of the lowly Galilean as portrayed by the combined efforts of 35 denominations who freely give the benefits of their civilization to 50 countries who have made the "World their Parish" has in recent years revealed to man that the primary, the Christian task, is to make our blessings available to all humankind, everywhere.

In modern methods where primitive practices prevail; in medical skill where superstition and witchcraft linger; in the hut where sanitation and homemaking is unknown; in the school where truth and enlightenment are buried in primitive darkness, it is here and face to face with such conditions that World Service extends the helping hand to help, to lift, to revive and to inspire; likewise to feed, to clothe and to cure the downtrodden millions of men for whom the Son of God died.

Colored slides were shown and a complete and comprehensive story was thereby told that all might know of the work of this praiseworthy project. Many objects or pieces of handicraft were exhibited, all of course, handmade and revealed the ability of native and under-privileged peoples and told the story of what they could accomplish were opportunity given. Many of these objects of skill and patience were purchased by Club Members.

May we extend our sincere thanks to Tom for his program and especially to Mr. Kyle and Miss Meyer. It was intensely interesting and instructive.

AUCTION: Howell Royer's auction was a "whammer." It was fun, laughter, competitive bidding and very enjoyable as packages were opened and the bidder, who bid $2.00 on a hunch that the package contained a fountain pen found he had bought a tooth brush. Well done Howell, when can we have another?

Mother-Daughter Banquet Held

The United Lutheran Church Men of Trinity Lutheran Church served a delicious baked ham dinner to the Mothers and Daughters of the congregation on Wednesday evening, May 23 at 6:30 P. M.

The men with their white aprons serving and waiting on tables along with those brave souls who stayed in the kitchen washing dishes was a sight to behold.

The following gifts were awarded: Oldest mother, Mrs. Herbert Winters; youngest mother, Mrs. Vesta Reifsnider; oldest mother with most daughters present, Mrs. Marcus Baker; mother with oldest daughter present, Mrs. Herbert Winter; mother with youngest daughter, Mrs. Maurice Bollinger.

The mothers and daughters congratulated the men on a fine meal served and hoped that it might become an annual affair.

"SPICE 'N' EVERYTHING NICE"

With all my heart, I wish you every morning a smile that shall last until the next dawn's dawning.
I wish you health—life's greatest wealth; I wish you always near so that I may help to cheer.
Each future day and in some way—help to bring you happiness!

Thinking about any type of advertising as to getting under your skin. As I stated before those ads always make me purchase for it means it must be good with continued advertising, so I bought a loaf of that "BATTER WHIPPED" bread and sure enough just like you see on TV — you can do just as it stated, pull a slice in half without it breaking elsewhere on the slice and as to taste — Ummmmmmmm good!

These days smart people are purchasing "TIMEX" watches — they truly are fabulous looking and in the higher brackets, those companies are worried sick!

Ladies, as to skirts regardless of the width, they are truly—way above the knee B U T don't do that unless you have what it takes and I think you know just what I mean and even then, there is not a bit of grace about it!

Thinking of TV music is being played which detracts from the story for it means that music would be much better omitted at times. Take for instance in last night's story on the General Electric where Mickey Rooney was hit by a couple of rough guys and knocked down by a garbage pan and the music played on!

The other day on Lexington Street in Baltimore, I stopped by Woolworth's for one of those slices of Pizza Pie which is the only place I know that omits the strong and much amount of high seasoning. And as I stood there, I observed a little woman whom I judged to be the grandmother of two little children who also were enjoying this Italian dish. This little young grandmother opened her heart to me telling me that she takes care of these two grandchildren while her daughter works, as the father of these children just picked up and walked off and now the daughter, the mother of these children must be employed out of the home! "Then," she added, "I have nothing now. I had $8,000, when my husband died and I kept giving it to my children, in fact, I gave each one a $1,000, and now I have nothing, so my daughter lets me live in her house because I mind the children and she gives me a little spending money, but I spend it on these children!" That dear little woman! I stood there with lowered head and cried!

Through my Column so many have had that nice Chiropodist treat their feet and all mention where they read about him! Don't forget, Dr. Grooms — 222, N. Liberty. As I stated a few times previously, you will think it is the best flight of stairs you ever walked, as he is on the second floor. You will have—"Happy Feet!"

Now, here's to those who are thinking about a new siding for their homes. Folks, by all means get in touch with a good and reliable company. One I know of real well and of which I have the evidence from a neighbor is the U. S. Aluminum Corp., 2400 Frederick Ave. — Phone: C E 3-3010. That siding has full insulation in every piece of siding and when completed it just means every comfort of living. Warmer in winter, cooler in summer, plus no painting for years and years as it is baked on material as to the paint and it appears glamorous when finished, besides a low fuel bill. You and you will be pleased!

Now, here's one from actual experience. Had my old Chevy '55 painted from the green to "OFF" white and it is so beautiful that the neighbors thought I was driving a new car! The name of the place is Earl Scheib and that paint job which is called "Majestic White," costs just $29.95. And that for any make car regardless of the size! I asked the Manager to show me through the plant before and until the finishing line and your car is baked which means a three year guarantee! Of course, if there are dents and places where there will be repair bills, they do all that first but with an extra charge. It is a coast to coast business and they do as many as 50,000 cars yearly and they give it to you in WRITING against fading, peeling or crinkling within the three years!

What more could you ask or desire? I think it is best to have the same color as your car. The finish is called, "Diamond Gloss with Special Silicone Formula!" It is located at a five blocks below the Mondawmin shopping center on Reisterstown Road. You do not have to make any appointment, just drive right in and see for yourself. Then it is finished in exactly 24 hrs., in other words you get it the following day.

Walking down Charles Street the other day, I saw a big truck with boxes of strawberries—the berries as big as a quarter for 50¢! Well, I was gullible and bought a box carrying them all around town with me before going home. When I turned that box upside down to stem them and sugar them down, there were little berries all underneath! Never again! Unless I say to the man, "you want to sell me a box? Well, if you want it upside down and they are the same size as on the top, I'll buy a box!" Then if he refuses, folks that is it and I think you know just what I mean; eh? Tomorrow I'll write of the flight.

Now, at this very moment, it is 7:30 A. M., awaiting the flight of Astronaut Carpenter and the suspense is just as great as watching the first flight of Glenn. Now the lift off and then the voice "Roger, Roger, all is good!" Such is life! It seems awful, and no doubt, He should not continue to look down. He is just approaching over Africa and is supposed to be reporting back every now

MECHANIZATION VS POSTAL HIKES

It is a sad commentary on American ingenuity when the Postal System of the world's most highly mechanized country admits that it "is trying to keep up with foreign nations" in mechanization and "hopes to do better in the near future".

Instead of time and money saving mechanization, the Post Office Department's answer to its so-called deficit seems to be higher and higher rates - rates so high they could force many businesses to the wall.

Newspapers, particularly small dailies and weeklies, magazines and business mail users would find profits near or at the vanishing point should the confiscatory rate bill passed by the House (HR 7927) become law.

Congressman Tom Steed of Oklahoma recognized this fact when he elicited from Edward E. Harriman, Director, Office of Research and Engineering of the Postal Department, the fact that this country lagged behind other nations in mechanization.

Rep. Steed recently told a large banquet of business mail users in New York how Great Britain, Belgium, France and Holland are "way ahead of us in the mechanization field". He cited the Dutch in particular for their adaptation "of electronics to the highest degree" as a worthwhile goal for the US Postal System.

The Congressman not only recognizes the need for mechanization, but knows what continuation of our costly manual operation can do to American business. As he has asserted, "the mail can be mechanized. It is the answer to what we know is ahead in the volume (of mail) that will flood this country."

He is right, too but only if mechanization is immediate. The volume he speaks about can be on the minus side if rates turn upward, especially as drastically as proposed by the House and endorsed by the Post Office.

Newspapers and magazines, for instance, the life blood of business's communication with consumers are important mail users. These media along with business mail users, must be kept alive and vigorous if the nation's economy is to continue to move upward, as the President apparently desires. Onerous postal rates won't keep them strong.

Mechanization - and now - is the answer, not the Postal Department's higher rate philosophy.

Zone Air Conditioning

Room Units Offer Comfort
When, Where It's Needed

Selective zone cooling is one of the most important advantages of air conditioning a house with room units, many home owners find.

They like the convenience and comfort individual units provide by supplying cooled, filtered and dehumidified air where and when it's needed most. At the same time, zone control helps keep operating costs low.

For example, at bed time, room air conditioners can be turned on to help provide maximum sleeping comfort—at an early hour for the children, and later when their parents retire. These rooms will be comfortably cool and refreshingly free of high humidity that often makes sleeping difficult.

Since windows are kept closed in an air-conditioned room, disturbing outdoor noises are blocked out. Children fall asleep more quickly, and sleep more restfully.

While the family sleeps, room air conditioners in other parts of the house can be turned to a lower setting or shut off completely.

Room air conditioners in living or family rooms can be regulated to provide cool comfort during summer parties. When guests are present, quality air conditioners can be adjusted to take care of the higher load, while cooling at normal levels is maintained by units in other rooms.

"C'mon in, the weather's fine," says this young housewife as she adjusts room air conditioner controls. Her home is kept comfortable by room units throughout the house. Each "zone" can be kept at a temperature most enjoyable to those using it.

Where high humidity is a particular problem, such as basement recreation rooms, a room air conditioner is especially appreciated for its ability to remove moisture from the air.

Daylight Saving Time

The Summer Time Act, passed as a war economy during WW I brought Daylight Saving Time to England—and confusion to the trenches in France. All nations, including Germany, were forced to change their clocks and thus, re-synchronize the war.

In 1918, President Wilson signed a bill introducing D.S.T. to the United States. It has always been opposed by farmers who were forced to change their livestock's schedules in order to reach the market before closing.

Now used in 27 states (and 10 foreign countries) D.S.T. affects interstate phoning or traveling. Confused about which way to turn the clock on April 29? Makers of the Westclox Baby Ben offer this tip: "You Spring forward and you Fall back!"

Hearth and History

In the 1840's, a New York merchant invested $850 in a lot at what is now 5th Avenue and 42nd Street. His family thought him insane and forced him to sell the land. Today, it is among the most valuable real estate in the world.

Plans for the City of Cincinnati were drawn in 1790, and one choice acre cost 67¢. The same land today is worth $10 million! People wanting a home or other good real estate investment are wise to use the professional services of a REALTOR. FISHING LINES

By DICK WOLFF

It's good to feel the slight tremor of a light, willowy rod in hand again.

The opening of the trout season, the longer days, and the slight nip to the spring air all make any anxious angler feel young and ready to go. Watching the kids in blue-jeans strolling with rod in hand toward the local fishing hole brings back memories of fishing days—carefree days.

Good, big trout are deep in the swollen lakes. When you hook one, he's ready and spilling for a fight. The rig to catch 'em, and for any deep trout or bass work early in the season, is a barrel sinker arrangement on six pound monofilament. The best bait is live shiners.

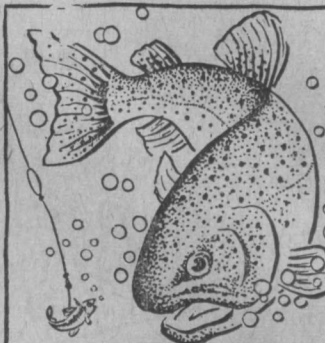

The barrel sinker is just what it sounds like, an oblong lead sinker with a hole down the middle which lets the line slide through without alerting the trout before he's hooked. A split shot about eight inches above the hook stops the sinker from sliding onto the hook. The arrangement is simplicity itself and can be worked with any casting or spinning gear. If you're using a bait casting reel, a six foot rod can handle the weight of the rig best.

Hooking live minnows is relatively easy. Just be sure not to hook them too deeply under the dorsal fin. They should be able to wiggle temptingly. Later in the season, saligrammites will do as well.

The streams are still swollen with rain and late melting snow. Big shiny lures, or streamers, and big bucktails with plenty of color work best in the muddy waters. Also, spinners and wobbling type spoons of 1/4-ounce do very well for bank fishing before wading is practical in fast water.

Spinning tackle— a Mitchell 300 reel with its interchangeable spools holding different weight line and a six and a half foot hollow fiber glass rod— are a boon to early season anglers. Spinning gear works perfectly with either heavy bait rigs or light spoons and spinners. Ease of casting is especially important when you need to "reach out" with tackle to cross rough water.

So hang out the "Gone Fishin'" sign and get the feel of a rod in your hand—it's a good healthy feeling.

"SPICE 'N' EVERYTHING NICE"

(Continued from first page) and then they are awaiting his view with much anxiety to hear, "Everything is in working order."

"Now, Carpenter reports back of the darkness and the S T A R S! And now the voice again, "Roger 1652-142-86 Altitude-Orbit 3 1 Zero-Zero. Roger, very good! Thank you!"

It is mid-night now in Australia. The temperature is running high in the Astronaut's suit. Now the space suit is normal again as to temperature. Thank God! Now 70 degrees and he was advised to keep it at that point.

I am wondering why he has to have a snack for it is only one hour and twenty-five minutes and a few seconds since the take off. Now, Carpenter is approaching Bermuda on his first Orbit. Now it is 10:40 and Carpenter reported trouble with fuel and heat, it has been decided "Around the Earth again for the THIRD ORBIT!" SUSPENSE IS THE WORD!

What suspense! Mercury control states, "We should be hearing from Carpenter but not a word. This is the most dangerous part of the trip. There is nothing to do but wait!" Still no word from Carpenter. On the TV screen, there is one lone woman with her hands clasped as though she is praying. Such sad faces in the crowd! Still no communication from the Capsule! The World Waits! And still nothing to report! Announcement that Carpenter should have been down just 29 minutes ago! Mercury Control - "Carpenter has been sighted and is safe! "That from a Navy plane that he is on a raft before the Capsule! THANK GOD! I feel at this very moment ten years older after viewing it all for EIGHT HOURS! I'll never look in on any flight again, for it really has done something to me. I feel as though my stomach is angry! I could not eat a meal all day.

So long, folks. All I can think now is, "What good is it going to bring?" Have a grand week-end and when you go to church, be sure in God's House to remember to keep Thanking HIM! Until next week D. V.

I am, Faithfully, YOUR OBSERVER.

HOUSEHOLD HINT XCHANGE

If you're one of the thousands of Americans about to start the great annual exodus to the out-of-doors, you'll welcome this hint exchange because it focuses on tips designed to make outdoor living more pleasant for you this season.

Here are some of the things you'll want to remember as you work around backyard, porch and patio:

For working in the garden, sew a large patch pocket on each knee of your slacks or jeans. Then slip a large, flat sponge into each pocket so you'll be able to kneel in comfort.

Adjustable metal garden furniture can be lubricated with Vaseline petroleum jelly to make the movable parts work easily.

Keep gardening equipment in the basement, garage or tool shed in a convenient spot nearest the outside door. Attach clip-type holders to the wall to hold rakes, hoes and other garden tools so they'll be safely out of the way when not in use, and easy-to-find when they are needed.

Barbecue accidents: Treat burns by holding the burned hand or finger under cold water until the pain stops. Then make liberal applications of Vaseline petroleum jelly and add a small bandage covering.

To keep the rain from splashing the dirt from your window boxes onto your windows, cover the dirt with a layer of fine gravel.

Tubs and barrels make attractive and durable planters for decorating your backyard or porch. Cut or drill holes in the bottom for drainage. Paint the container so the color mixes or matches with your decorating scheme and paint the inside with a wood preservative. Then line the bottom with broken pottery or gravel, fill with soil and plant your favorite flowers or shrubs.

'Thru-Wall' Installation Ideal For Room Air Conditioners

If room air conditioners figure in your plan for summer comfort, be sure to consider models that are installed permanently through the walls of a house.

Through-the-wall room air conditioners are similar to the familiar window units, but are designed to be mounted in special "sleeves" installed in outside walls.

This type of unit offers a wide choice of location since through-the-wall room air conditioners can be placed in any outside wall at virtually any height. Often they are placed high on a wall for the most efficient distribution of conditioned air.

This flexibility of location makes it easier to decorate a room and arrange furniture. Modern through-the-wall units fit flush, or nearly flush, with both interior and exterior walls. Interior air conditioner panels have been designed to blend with a room's decor and some can be painted or papered to match the walls. Operation is quiet, controls are convenient.

When separate room air conditioners are used throughout a house, units in areas not in use can be turned off to save operating costs. Those in crowded rooms can be regulated to provide maximum relief from heat and humidity.

Although through-the-wall room air conditioners may be installed at any time, they are particularly popular with families who add on a room or build a new house. During construction, metal sleeves are inserted in the walls of the house. Once installed, these sleeves make it easy to add room air conditioners one at a time, as the budget permits, until the entire house is air conditioned.

To get maximum comfort at the lowest cost, many families have their new homes insulated at the same time the air conditioner sleeves are installed. A house that is properly insulated will be warmer in winter, cooler in summer. In addition to comfort, insulation will help reduce operating costs of both heating and cooling, and often reduces initial cost of equipment by making possible the use of smaller units.

The Fruit of the Vine

When the Vikings first visited North America, luxuriant grape vines were growing in such abundance that Leif Ericson named the country "Vinland" or "Wineiland"—a name which still appears in Norse literature.

The lush fruit of the vine still flourishes on our continent—especially in California where the sweet, full-bodied dessert wine, Tokay, is produced.

California Tokay (not to be confused with Hungarian Tokay) is amber-colored and has a slightly "nutty" flavor. Served with desserts or as an afternoon refreshment, Tokay is a delicious blend of other dessert wines. K

Leading Lady in the Fashion Parade

Dirndl skirts are back again and how wonderful they look on girls from six to—well—sixty. So fresh. So perky. Cottons, linen-like rayons and many synthetics have all taken to this young new look this spring.

But will they stay fresh and new looking after laundering? Even those fabrics with special crisp finishes tend to get limp and tired after a few trips to the washer; they need a little extra attention in the form of starching. Not old-fashioned boardy starch that takes measuring, mixing and cooking, but a modern cold water starch you pour directly from the box into the final rinse according to directions.

Washer starching takes only a few minutes but, oh, the difference in the result! The makers of the starch, Niagara, suggest using a small boxful for the contents of a whole washer load (even less for a partial load) to get a lovely crisp finish that not only restores the new look but also keeps dirt from penetrating and makes subsequent washings easier.

Let Them Eat Cake

If you are watching the kinds of fat you eat rather than the fat calories, you will like this cake made with the new balanced-oil margarine or corn oil margarine. The recipe favored by the staff members of Best Foods Test Kitchen is called Apricot Torte.

Apricot Torte

- 2 cups sifted flour
- 1 teaspoon baking powder
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1 cup corn oil or balanced-oil margarine
- 1 cup sugar
- 3 eggs, separated
- Grated peel and juice of 1 lemon
- 1 6-oz. can almonds, blanched and finely chopped
- 2/3 cup strawberry preserves
- 1/3 cup apricot preserves
- Fluffy Frosting
- Apricot halves and almonds to garnish, if desired

Sift together flour, baking powder and salt. Cream corn oil margarine, add sugar and beat until light. Add egg yolks and mix well. Stir in almonds, lemon juice and peel. Add sifted dry ingredients and mix until well blended. Fold in egg whites which have been beaten stiff. Turn into a greased jelly roll pan (15 1/2 x 10 1/2 x 1 inches). Bake in a 350° F. (moderate) oven 25 to 30 minutes.

When cake is cool cut into 4 pieces approximately 7 1/4 x 5 1/4 inches each. Stack cake using preserves as filling with apricot as center filling. Frost with fluffy frosting and garnish.

Outdoor Living

Ancient Greeks, lovers of the outdoors, were the first civilized society to originate the outdoor barbecue. From noblemen to merchants, they believed food cooked out of doors was flavored by the gods and imbued the eater with strength and health.

Holding court in the out of doors, France's King Louis XIV turned his palace grounds into a playground for grownups. Cabinet ministers and diplomats gambled on see-saws and swings, played such games as "Drop the Handkerchief," and "Who's Got the Thimble."

Modern equipment makers, catering to the outdoor trend in America have developed new lawn and leisure furnishings for outdoor living. Newest of these is a Lawn and Garden Port, an all-steel "beach-side cabana" for the backyard! Made by Arrow Metal Products Corp., N.Y., it has a weatherproof Pressurecoated plastic finish inside and out, is assembled at home in an hour, making a novel companion-piece to the outdoor barbecue. Push potatoes to side of pan. Arrange meat patties in pan and cook about 4 to 5 minutes per side (or to desired degree of doneness); turn once. ### Love is of God

Lesson for June 3, 1962

The Apostle John, they call him; and John describes the name. Not that love was spoken for by him alone. Paul speaks of love many a time, and indeed the most famous chapter on love is from Paul's writings, not John's.

Dr. Foreman, in two commandments: Love thy God, love thy neighbor.

However, though others had spoken of love, and given it as a kind of Eleventh Commandment, or summary of all the Law, it was left to John to say something which no one else, not even Jesus, had said: God is love. This is at the same time profound and difficult, and also simple and clear. This is not a proposition which can be turned end-for-end and still be true. God is love; but love is not God. Love, John says, is "of God" or "from God" as the New English Bible translate it. That is, God is the source of all the love there is, here or in the farthest galaxies. Love is not something which human beings first discovered or invented, and then "thought-into" God. We do not ascribe love to God; we find it there, in him. Now you might expect, somewhere in the Bible, to find similar statements, for instance that God is power, or justice, or joy. But no Bible writer ever said it. We can only thrust our thought in the direction in which that short sentence points, "God is love;" we cannot fathom or fully say what it finally means. But we may judge that love is a better word to express what God is, than those other words Power or Justice or Joy or anything else. We may also dare to believe that love is God's basic quality; his justice, his glory, his power, are such as infinite and perfect love brings forth.

God is not sentimental

Perhaps it is wise to put in something here which has often been said, but which seems to have escaped the notice of too many people. The word "love" as John uses it (not to mention Paul and Jesus) is not sentimental. It has nothing to do with heart-throbs or spells of emotion. When the Emperor Titus one day at a public appearance granted a request made by a Roman Petitioner, a member of the court said to him afterwards, "How could your majesty promise the man what you did? It is not possible to keep that promise, is it?" "No," the Emperor replied; "I know it is not possible; but I did not want the man to go away disappointed." That is kindness; but it is not love. To take an opposite example, the family of a certain victim of polio went to some trouble not to help the boy. They just made him learn to help himself in spite of his handicap.

Love, in short, is unselfish, working concern for others. It is a constant and consistent attitude rather than occasional outbursts of emotion. It is this that John means when he talks of "abiding" in love—living in it permanently, maintaining this attitude in spite of all discouragements.

No room for fear

You would expect John to contrast love and hate. They are a real contrast, but that is not what John brings out. There is no fear in love, he says. If fear and love seem to live together in the heart, John would say, that is a sign that the love is not perfect; if it were, the fear would vanish. This is not to say that love casts out fear in God—that would be an absurd remark, for a frightened God would be no God at all. John is thinking of ourselves. He might even be thinking of our situation in 1962. People are afraid, fear stalks around the globe. But people are afraid because they do not trust God; and they do not trust because they do not love. If someone asks, "But how can I love God?" He does not need my help, he does not need any looking-after. John would say this is asking the wrong question first. It is our fellow-man who does need help and sympathy. If it seems too high a thing to love the God who is love, let us begin by loving those around us who are not love!

Prepared by American Foundation for Animal Health

A dairy cow is a highly complex piece of machinery, unfortunately, it breaks down occasionally. Many of the problems causing cows to break down can be traced to the constant efforts to boost production. Among the most important problems of these valuable, high-producing animals are milk fever, ketosis and mastitis.

Cows stricken by milk fever can be saved if treated promptly enough.

Milk fever, which often occurs 12 to 72 hours after calving, causes the heaviest death losses. First symptoms of milk fever include staggering and weaving. Later, the cow becomes prostrate with head and neck drawn sharply to one side. If a veterinarian can get to the stricken cow promptly, he can often save her. But time is an important element and the veterinarian should be called immediately if signs of milk fever are noticed.

Ketosis results when there is not a proper nutritive intake or utilization. When this occurs, the cow's body begins to tear itself down by converting fat into sugar and leaving "ketones" free to circulate in the cow's system.

Symptoms of this disease include loss of appetite, decrease in milk production, excitement, staggering, swaying, biting or drooling. Ketosis also can be treated, and the animal often saved if the veterinarian is called in soon enough.

Mastitis is the most costly of all diseases of dairy cows. It can be caused by several different types of infective organisms which get into the delicate udder. To treat the disease successfully one must know which type of organism is causing the problem, and the source and measures for invasion. That takes careful diagnosis and then specialized treatment, plus close follow-up.

Mastitis is no disease to be "tinkered" with, and the farmer should be on guard against sure-shot, easy treatments. It takes long, careful, thorough work to clean mastitis out of a herd. But the rewards in profits can be large, once the disease has been whipped.

Heart Patient Can Create Own Climate

Here's the ideal year-round weather forecast for heart patients and others who've got to watch their weather: "Sunny, warm, minimum of abrupt temperature changes, no prolonged hot or cold spells, moderate relative humidity."

So say Louis A. Kapp, M.D., and Dr. James K. McGuire, U.S. Weather Bureau climatologist, in an article for G.P., a professional medical journal.

Although they agree that a warmer climate is beneficial to sufferers of various types of heart diseases, they warn that excessive summer heat and wide temperature extremes place too great a strain on the heart.

Does this seemingly utopian climate exist in the United States? Not exactly, according to the Florida, southeastern California and southern Arizona. But even in these areas there are weather changes detrimental to some patients. During hot weather, the authors emphasize, an efficient cooling system is essential and heart patients are advised to remain indoors at least part of the time.

One permanent and convenient solution to the problem of heat waves and high humidity is proper air conditioning. The installation of room air conditioners in a house could make year-round residence suitable in a hot and humid climate. Not only will a room air conditioner make inside temperatures comfortable, but it will also rid rooms of excess humidity.

Doctors Kapp and McGuire have this advice for the aged as well as for patients with heart conditions: "Those who spend only the winters in a warm climate should not return to a cold environment too early (generally not before mid-April); they should do it gradually, with a short stop-over in a moderate climate if possible."

"Every business concern needs some promising young men—in order to attract good secretaries."—Marjorie Johnson.

"Modern paintings are like women. You'll never enjoy them if you try to understand them."—Harold Coffin.

This station, Commanded by Capt. V. A. He joined the Navy in 1958. Hood is one of an average of 6,000 Navy men who pass through the Receiving Station each month.

It's Always Fair Weather . . .

Room Air Conditioners Give More Than Mere Cooling

Flowers won't wilt and neither will you, your family, or your guests in a house kept comfortable with room air conditioners. New models, such as the 1962 unit above, fit flush with windows, are compact yet more powerful than ever, and can be mounted quickly and easily. They control both temperature and humidity.

It's always fair weather inside a house that's equipped with modern room air conditioners. Strategically placed throughout a house, today's room-size air conditioners offer a practical solution to the home comfort problem.

- Here are a few of the benefits that provide room air conditioners quality:
1. Cool air. New models provide more cooling power in smaller packages than ever before. Improved design in cooling fins and more efficient compressors make possible smaller, slimmer units that look attractive in any home.
  2. Dehumidified air. Today's room air conditioners add to summer comfort by removing excess moisture from the air.
  3. Filtered air. Modern filters trap quantities of dust, soot, pollen and other impurities often found in so-called "fresh air." The house and its furnishings stay cleaner, allergy sufferers feel better.
  4. Air movement. Adjustable grilles or deflectors and improved fan design distribute cool dry air more evenly. Moving air helps the body lose heat more rapidly.

5. Quiet operation. With improved insulation, modern electric room air conditioners operate more quietly than ever. In addition, because windows are closed, disturbing outside noises are blocked out.

6. Exhaust cycle. Even on cool days, room air conditioners can be used to remove stale, smoky air from a room and bring in filtered air from outside. Modern room air conditioners are built to last. Since tough materials and special finishes protect certain units from the harshest weather for years, families should select their room air conditioners carefully.

Appliance dealers can determine how much cooling power is needed in terms of Btu's. Once this is established, families can choose the models with the special features that best suit their particular needs.

Models are available for installation through a wall, or in virtually any type of window. Some can be carried or rolled from window to window, so wherever they are needed most
