MARYLAND STILL AHEAD IN FREEDOM BOND DRIVE

Charles P. McCormick, State Savings Bonds Chairman, today announced that sales of Series E and H Savings Bonds in Maryland for the five months of 1962 totaled $29,787,413, or 86.3% of the Freedom Drive quota. For the five-month period, E sales were up 7.28%, and Hs up 24.93%, compared to the similar 1961 months.

May sales of Series E and H Bonds of $6,176,200 were up 5.84% over

May a year ago.

Talbot County and Prince Georges
Counties were in first and second place, respectively, exceeding their drive quotas, and Anne Arundel County was third with sales achievement of 95.7% of quota.

In commenting on the sales results, Mr. McCormick said "the fine co-operation of county and local civic and service organizations and other volunteers with the objective of the Freedom Bond drive-to ask every family to buy an EXTRA bond during the drive is greatly contributing to the Drive's success.

In addition, the special payroll savings campaigns being conducted by many Maryland firms and Federal Agencies during the drive months will result in further stimulating the regular bond-buying habits in every family throughout the State—another objective of the Freedom Drive.

The buyer of U. S. Savings Bonds, at this critical period in our history, makes two important contributions. He puts his dollars to work building economic strength for the nation, to sustain the heavy burden of cold war. And he puts himself into the fight for Freedom as an active partner of his government.

NO WONDER WE'RE BROKE!

The other day, on a television program, I heard two Presidential advisers say we mustn't pay any attention to deficits and the raising of the National Debt limit, and they cited European nations which they said were getting along wonderfully well, making great economic strides experiencing prosperity, — and all because they didn't worry about little ol' things like budget balancing, I did some checking and found that the American taxpayer had given or "loaned" (how much do you expect to see again!) hundreds of millions, even billions, of dollars to the nations cited by the two professors as prospering so well. Since the end of World War II, we have sent—

The full Moon, a delightful Summer night, the Patio, the outdoor Chaise and Prince Ballantyne of Tiverton, plus a home-made Lime drink in a tall ice tea glass with plenty of crushed ice! And your Observer! As to that tall, tall drink, be sure there is plenty of ice. Luse a wood home came with it and I think it was purchased in the five and dime years ago. That kind of a drink is much better than ice cream. Many less calories and immediately quenches the thirst. Try it when you have guests the next time. Be sure you purchase either the glass or plastic goose neck straws. Also serve the ice tea spoons as each guest can manage to stir the drink. And thinking age to stir the drink. And thinking about a tall drink. Again this Summer those grand "ZOMBIS" down at the Mondawin Shopping Center in the Restaurant, "The Rancher," and for the little price of late!

Mrs. Housewife, instead of making desserts in the hot weather be sure and pass the wonderful "PAGE and SHAW" Chocolates. Absolutely as fine as any "Whitman" boxed chocolates. That company has been in business since 1882 in Cambridge, Ummmmmmmmm Good! There is nothing fine mental than the state of the state o

The other night driving home I stopped by to see a friend and when I went to start the old '55 Chevy, there was not a sound. A great big new Cadillac stopped and out jumped the driver to sid real the driver the driver to aid me. He thought it was the battery but I told him that I thought it might be the "starter" being jammed! Another motorist stopped to help me and finally, the car was drifted down the hill to the nearest gas station. That machanism nearest gas station. That mechanic lifted the hood and lifted that big black basin and underneath was that black basin and underneath was that starter which was jammed! Ugh! I said, "how much?" he said, "the pleasure is all mine!" Whoops! Nice? All around, eh?

Now, folks if you have just moved into a new neighborhood and have a couple of children and desire to get acquainted with the neighbors—purchase one of those plastic swimming pools and be sure it is the largest pools and be sure it is the largest size! Nuff Sed! But purchase at the same time—a filter, for you will positively need that one! And don't forget to water the lawn in your bare feet. You and you will love it. Touching the Earth in this manner is Heavenly!

Don't forget, ladies if you have started that "Sego" reducer which is only 900 Calories a day, really means that you will have no desire to eat the big meals you did formerly. Banana flavor is tops although you may prefer either of the other two flavors of Orange and Checolets. Orange and Chocolate. Summer time is a grand time to start this diet and it is made by the "Pet Milk" Co. Se Leaves no powdery after taste if you know what I mean know what I mean. What a thrill to see the three to-mato plants thriving! They now have little green tomatoes about the size of a large grape! And then there is the Parsley, too!

Baltimore right in the shopping district is surely getting the look of the New York Stores for they all have huge potted Boxwood in front of the stores and there is a certain comph plus the Wistaria at Hochschild's and the colorful awnings at Stewart's. It used to be so dead looking down at those four corners. The interior of The Hecht-May Company surely is the most beautiful at any time of the year.

Now, after doing over the White House, Mrs. Kennedy may do over Camp David. Many object to that, but as long as she lives there or is the President's wife that should be her privelage as it was mine in any Parsonage. The only difference is that I would much rather be the wife of a Minister than the wife of any President of these United States!

Parking the car at a distance from the University hospital where I wanted to visit a patient, passed a very old home-made candy store. It has stood in that same place for many years. All the candy is made right there and that store belonged to the father of the old gentleman who is running it now. There is a large old fashioned framed photograph of the father in evidence upon entering the store. I think the name is Hendler.

As I walked passed the Westminster Presbyterian Church in which graveyard Edgar Allen Poe is buried, saw that the doors were open bidding the passerby "Welcome". As I walked in and sat down for a few minutes, I observed many of the ladies busy observed many of the ladies busy with preparations for an affair. Now, folks be careful over the 4th of July if you are going any distance as many celebrate in various ways. If you are in the country why not have guests and remain right there? Be sure you fly "OLD GLORY"!

Do not state as one lady wrote to a daily paper that since the storm windows have been installed, the work-man took down the iron or steel holder attached to the window sill. That is no excuse for a pipe the width of the round part at the bottom of your flag can be measured and placed right in that pipe on your front lawn. NEW LIFE FOR OLD TOWNS

What can a town do to overcome the economic troubles that follow the less of a major industry? Sometimes a great deal. Karl Detzer tells in the July Reader's Digest what two Washington communities, Chehalis and McCleary, accomplished under these circumstances with the help of experts from the University of Wash-

At Chehalis, a place of 5,000 population, the professors called for an inventory of resources and needs. Schools, churches, banks, garden clubs, P. T. A., Boy Scouts and business and professional men volunteered for assignments. Later a thousand people bought $50 shares in the new Industrial Commission.

With the money, 137 acres were bought for an industrial park and a new water system installed. Local residents extended railroad tracks by buying ties and laying the rails themselves, working nights and week-ends.

Inexpensive sites were offered to industry. Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co. put up a $1,200,000 plant. Several other manufacturers followed.

At McCleary, an old lumber town, residents had nothing to brag about but were able to draw up a list of 116 goals. One road block to community progress, it was discovered was the lack of a bank. So 250 McCleary residents organized the McCleary State Bank with $140,000 capital. It took in $150,000 more in deposits on the day it opened in 1960.

Other structures went up. The citizens raised cash to finish a hospital. Parks, playgrounds, a lighted ball park and athletic field were built by volunteers with donated materials. Now 90 of the 116 goals have been realized!

No two communities are exactly alike, but the happy stories of Chehalis and McCleary present a common pattern of study and action. Civic-minded citizens everywhere will want to read Detzer's thought-provoking article, however, if only to find out what it takes to get a whole town moving-and how, once it is on the march, it doesn't want to stop.

PALMER, ALAS., THE FRON-TIERSMAN: "It is not a pleasant subject to talk about continual erosion of the dollar, and to think that the great country we live in, abundant in raw materials and natural resources would find itself in the monetary mess that looms on the horizon. How long will the American public be fooled?"

CORONA DEL MAR, CALIF., ENSIGN: "One of the reasons we are losing ground in our fight to defend our constitutional Republic and its private enterprise system of economy is ignorance of the value of competition and free enterprise and the profit motive. In fact, 'profit' and capitalism' are getting to be smear words, whereas they are, in truth, essential to the preservation of individual liberty.'

Walter Lippmann writes: "In all of Western Europe.....there is a conviction which does not exist equally in this country, that the balance of nuclear power as against the Soviet Union is an accomplished fact. Quite generally, the Europeans believe that the East-West political stalemate which results from the nuclear deadlock is not going to be broken, and that therefore while there will be no nuclear war, and no small conventional wars about Berlin and Germany, nothing constructive and large can be negotiated either."

How Super Shell's 9 ingredients can give cars top performance

POWER INGREDIENT in Super Shell works for world champion driver Phil Hill (above, in Ferrari racer). Hill, first American to win the World Championship for Drivers, relies on Super Shell. One important reason: power. Today's Super Shell contains "cat-cracked" gasoline-a power ingredient made by cracking heavier petroleum molecules into lighter, livelier ones. It works to give you the power you need for top performance.

MILEAGE INGREDIENT in Super Shell is Platformate. Shell scientists test it in many cars, many places. In a recent test in San Francisco (above), exactly 250 cc. (about half a pint) of fuel without Platformate was fed into test car. Car ran until fuel was used up, then coasted to a stop (left). Distance: 6186 feet. Test was repeated, using same blend of fuel with Platformate added. Same amount of fuel. Same car. Same conditions. In this test, Super Shell with Platformate took car 6454 feet (right), gave a mileage bonus of 4.3 percent.

NOISE-FIGHTING INGREDIENTS in Super Shell work for a quiet engine at all speeds. Shell scientists even use a stethoscope (above) to check effect of Super Shell's anti-knock ingredients. One of these ingredients, an anti-knock mix, is so effective that a teaspoon per gallon can boost anti-knock rating five points. Alkylate, another Super Shell ingredient, is noted for controlling knock in hot engines at high speeds better than anything else yet available.

TCP* AND FOUR OTHER INGREDIENTS complete Super Shell's 9-ingredient blend. TCP additive can help restore power lost due to combustion deposits - can also extend spark plug life. Butane is for quick starts. Pentane mix helps engines run smoothly during "warm-up." The gum preventive ingredient is to help keep carburetors clean inside. And, when the weather calls for it, Super Shell contains an antiicer. That's nine ingredients in Super Shell-scientifically blended to give your car top performance.

What's more, it often rings true. And in today's increas-ingly competitive society, the women "behind the man" can play an important role in helping her husband up the ladder of success.

A personnel executive of the Shulton Company in New York, a leading producer of men's toilet articles, points to what can be one of the great danger points for wifely interlanger poin ference. She may see greener pastures where other women's husbands move up faster than her own. But she must realize that her husband chose the field he is in because of cer-tain traits within himself, and that immediate advancement elsewhere would not necessar-ily mean 'reaching the top' faster. In any event, "competition is difficult enough without meddling at home. To succeed a man needs his wife's confidence and understanding."

How can you help your husband's career? A healthy interest in your husband's office work is good, but take care. At home day-to-day, it's your chief responsibility to provide a serene background for your breadwinner. Plan for your breadwinner. Plan your household routine: don't put off laundry day until he puts on his last clean shirt. Combine errands. For example, follow your trip to the station with marketing.

Wherever possible, take over home duties which cut into your husband's limited spare time. Learn at least to use a hammer and screwdriver. Perhaps, become responsible

Of all the sports known, none but fishing can provide the opportunity of sitting half asleep on a grassy bank or in a boat with the water lapping at the sides and still be doing something. It can be hard work or lazy pleasure So lazy, in fact, that every so often you may have to reel in a fish. It's one of the hazards of the sport.

As most every fisherman knows, lake fishing offers a variety of fish dinner. There are bass, both large and small mouth, sometimes trout, pickerel where lilly pads are abundant, perch of varied types, crappies, and some bottom fish that look terrible but taste good — usually.

To boat fish with serene indifference to the others around you who aren't, you must know two things: where the fishing holes are and approximately how hot or cold it is. Ask any fisherman who has a fish and he'll gladly tell you where the

To bottom fish or still fish properly be sure you have some live worms, hellgrammites, or night crowlers 'andy. Shiny spoons and spinners work well too, but you have to jiggle the rod now and then if you use them.

Play out some line into the boat. If you are using light monomament consider attaching a slightly heavier leader. On a six pound test line use a length of 10 pound leader. To the line or leader, rig two or three dropper strands about a foot apart. Use an extension blood knot to do this. Tie the hooks to the dropper strands using an improved clincher. Fix the bait. To those who garden or hike in wooded areas, this is the month to keep an eye out for ticks, as these small insects can, with their bite. give people Rocky Mountain spotted fever. Already two cases have been reported in Carroll County. Spotted fever is a serious illness, sometimes fatal. The tick that can transmit this disease is very small and about the only way to kill it is by burning. We know from experience that just walking through weeds or in a field, the tiny insects will cling to one's clothes and the only way to find them is to earch for them before they bite.

The Supreme Court has triggered another storm of arguments among different segments of our society because of its six-to-one decision against prayers in the public schools. We were under the impression that the Constitution emphatically says that the church and public schools are separate, and therefore we are at a loss when people try to combine the two. The churches and schools have two separate functions. Each should stick to its own particular field of instruction. Religion should not be forced upon anyone as it is a very personal matter filled with personal experience.

This is the reason for so many religious denominations; for so many beliefs. How, then can a public school hope to satisfy the different representatives from many churches by one standard prayer. The writers of our Constitution were wise enough to forsee this and therefore separated the school and church. But some peo-ple are not satisfied with this wise decision, and want it changed. Public school is supposed to be a place of instilling knowledge and later tolerance of other's beliefs. It should not be a place to perpetuate religious controversy. A few years ago we bought an antique iron tea-kettle . . . the kind grandmother kept on her wood-burning kitchen range. We brought it home but never used it for anything until a couple weeks ago we hung it on the limb of a maple tree. We went to take it to another spot yesterday and found that a wren had already built a nest in it and deposited her eggs. There was nothing to do but let jenny wren keep the swinging tea-kettle and hope that the wind will not blow hard enough to disturb jenny on her nest. It is a rare garden that does not have a rose bush or two, but this has not always been true. During the middle ages roses were cultivated for certain medicines and only certain people were allowed to grow them. The petals of the rose were so highly prized that kings and queens te them as salads. It is still true that rose-hips are used for medicinal Interest in Cleopatra has been rekindled by the forth-coming motion picture and by the gay, private life of Elizabeth Taylor, who plays the title role. In the motion picture Cleopatra is a brunette, but was she? There is just as much evidence for supposing Cleopatra was a blond as there is for supposing that she was a brunette. According to popular belief, she was a decided brunette, with dark skin, dark eyes and dark hair, and she is frequently referred to as the "dark queen of Egypt." But historical sources supply us with no evidence as to her actual complexion. It should be remembered that Cleopatra was Greek by ancestry, and Egyptian only by birth. So far as is known she did not have one drop of Egyptian blood in her veins. name Cleopatra itself was from Greek mythology, that being the name of one of the two daughters of Boreas, god of the north wind. SOCIAL SECURITY BENEFITS FOR DISABLED PERSONS

"I'm sorry, you're too late." These are unhappy words to hear if they mean you won't be able to see the first inning of a ball game, or maybe that you have missed out on a trip that you have been looking forward

But there are some people in Carroll County who are going to find out that they are "just too late" to get social security disability insurance benefits if they don't act soon, Albert H. Barouh, Social Security Representative appropried today.

"The law established June 30, 1962, as the cut-off date for accepting so-cial security disability claims from people who have been disabled for a long time," Mr. Barouh said. This means that those workers who have been disabled for a number of years and have not applied for social security disability insurance benefits will lose monthly benefit payments for themselves and their dependents and may even lose their rights to any disability in the control of the control disability insurance benefit payments

Don't wait until the last minute. If you are disabled and have worked at least 5 years under social security, get in touch with the Social Security Office and file a claim to protect your rights under the disability insurance program. If you know of anybody who is disabled—any friend, relative, or neighbor — urge him to get in touch with the social security office.

In the small hospital this problem is much more acute, and the random replacement of blood is wasteful, inefficient, and therefore, expensive. Blood that is circulating in your body does not go "out of date." It is continuously being replenished. It is always ready to use. Thus, the community can serve as a "Walking Blood Bank," which means that blood can be supplied to the people who need it under the best possible conditions. This allows everyone to help his points and critzens for comment. Serving with the Planning Commission on this Agricultural Advisory Committee are John J. Bixler, Chairman; Jonathan Dorsey, Lloyd Wilhide, George M. Tracey, and Frank Bushey. When a member of the "Walking Blood Bank" is called to give blood, he knows that it is HIS blood that is NEEDED.

How will the scheme work? There will be two ways: 1. Pre-placement. Re-placement.

Pre - placement

When a patient is admitted to the hospital for certain types of operations, the amount of blood which may be needed for that patient can usually be estimated quite accurately. Knowing this fact, patients will be asked to bring with them at the time of admission, pledges given by family or friends to replace any blood actutally used by this patient. Your family physician will discuss this with your and will also give you the with you, and will also give you the necessary pledge to be signed.

IF BLOOD IS NOT USED by the patient, the pledged donors will not be asked to contribute. Their record cards will be placed in a special file, however, so that in time of emergency the Blood Bank has a list of people with known blood types who could be asked to help.

If a patient has to be admitted to the hospital quickly, in an emergency, and needs blood—this blood will be borrowed from the Blood Bank. Later, pledges from family or friends will be needed to replace the borrowed blood. The System for typing pledged donors will be the same as in the preplacement sceme.

Who can be a blood donor? Almost anyone between the ages of 21 and 60 years of age who is in good health can be a donor. Persons who have received a blood transfusion within the last six months, expectant mothers, persons with a history of jaundice or who have any form of active disease are excluded.

Each prospective donor will be evaluated individually at the time of blood typing, and again before they donate blood, to ensure that they are fit and able to give blood, and that their blood is of the highest quality to help the patient.

Relative to the recommendations set forth in the Planning Commission's Master Plan Report on "Agriculture" those dealing with effecting certain measures to strengthen Carroll County's agriculturel enter out it, all the skill of the physician and his drugs may not be enough. Unlike the usual type of drug, blood in a bottle cannot be left sitting on a shelf to be used when the occasion arises. Blood is a living tissue, and even under refrigeration will only keep for a few weeks; usually about 21 days.

Because people have different blood groups, a single bottle of blood can only be of help to a certain number of the discussion. Of particular interest was the matter of the creation of a special Agricultural Commission to insure adequate programs and activities in the future to aid the farmer. Likewise, the master plan report recommendation for a study of incentives favorable to agriculture was considered in the discussion.

A People In Peril Lesson for July 1, 1962

AMERICANS are conditioned not only by temperament, but by the movies and the TV programs we like to see,—conditioned to hair-breadth escapes. The hero must not have too easy a time of it. He must barely squeak through. But it must be an escape; the ending has to be a happy one, with the cavalry or Superman or Dick Tracy or Perry

Dr. Foreman Mason or somebody triumphing again.

In real life it doesn't always work like that. There are genuine tragedies, there are unhappy endings, what ought to come out on top doesn't always do this. The Bible stories we are going to have a chance to study during the next five weeks are stories of a people in peril. But the people either did not see their danger, or if they saw it they did not do what was necessary to save the situation; and so the people perished.

People who think of the Bible as a book of comfort only, must prepare for a shock when reading this part of the Old Testament. This is the tale, not of a narrow escape but of a narrow failure to escape

A young leader King Josiah was a young man on the throne and he wanted to do what was right. The prophets told him, and it was quite true, that unless the nation turned to God it would be destroyed. Josiah knew what that meant; it meant getting rid of the swarm of idols, false Gods, whose shrines were everywhere in the land. So he got rid of them. He took a courageous stand for the true God. But the nation went right on the downward slide, and the final crash turned out to be only a few years away.

Why was this? What did King Josiah do that was wrong? The truth seems to be that he did nothing particularly wrong; but he was acting alone. No one backed him up. He did not persuade any one else to his point of view. He destroyed the "high places," (pagan shrines and altars) and he compelled all citizens to worship at Jerusalem. But it was reform from the top down; there was nothing popular about it. We can see how this works in our own country. A president may urge much needed reforms, he may have a sensitive social conscience; but unless there is something contagious about his idealism or his conscience, he remains a lone voice crying in a wilderness.

When a man is sick, sometimes the best thing for him is a shot in the arm. But this is an emergency measure. It would be far better if the man had been living wisely, building up his health by wise habits of eating, exercise and so on. Josiah's reform, sincere as he was, amounted to no more than a sort of shot in the arm. The disease of Godlessness was deep-seated. It was not to be rooted out by a mere change in the place where God was to be worshipped. It was to be cured by a king telling the people to worship the one-true God, and to make sure they did this, destroying their idols. The revival, so called, of Josiah, would have been more effective if the people had thrown away their idols themselves. True goodness, true religion, never can be commanded. It must come from within.

Too little, too late Certain kinds of illness can be cured by diet. Apples, for example, are excellent helps in the cure of some conditions. But one slice of apple a day is not going to help a man who needs half a dozen; and furthermore, if the man's illness has progressed far enough, a whole bushel of apples won't help him. They are plenty, but they are too late. When tuberculosis strikes, complete rest is the road to cure, if cure is possible. But to rest five minutes after each meal is too little; while if the patient's condition is ignored until he is in "St. Peter's Ward" at death's very door, resting all day and night will do not a bit of good; it is now too late. So in the days of Josiah, so many a time since, a nation has gone down to ruin not for lack of good prescriptions but because the naion did what was right too little

-and too late. Who is most to blame for national catastrophes? False prophets? Well-meaning but feeble reformers? or the masses of everyday people?
