Drilling for Oil Near Keymar

The exploratory oil well that is being dug at the edge of Keymar by the Donelson Co., owned by R. H. Sheppard, Hanover, Penna., has reached the depth of 4330 ft. last (Wed.) evening. The 139 ft. tower-rig is located on the farm of Forrest Roser, Jr. farm.

The crew, composed of thirteen men are working in 3 shifts, around the clock, 7 days a week. The foreman, known in this type of work as a "tool pusher," is Mr. Eckardt and the balance of the crew are known as "rough necks."

The principle of the operation is a rotary crushing action, not boring. One item of expense is the bit, costing about $1500.00 gives a life service of for hours to for days, depending upon the stratum encountered while drilling.

Mr. Sheppard declined to report the different types of rock, etc. encountered while drilling, but he is enthused with the operation.

A steady stream of people is always on hand at the spot viewing the unusual operation.

After posting an 11-1 season record, the boys eliminated New Windsor from the semi-finals by winning two games in a row. The scores were 3-2, at home, and 11-7 played at New Windsor.

Eddie Koons again pitched a very good game by going the distance in the 3-2 game. Junior Koons and Jim May led the hitting. The winning run was scored in the sixth inning when Jim May and Mick Tracy teamed up on a beautiful double-steal.

Mick Tracy won the game at New Windsor in relief of Eddie Koons. The batting support was supplied by the entire team as they collected 17 hits, with each starting player getting at least one safety.

The boys are now looking forward to the finals against Walkersville, before playing the league "ALL-STAR" at the Memorial Park on Saturday, August 11, at 2:00. SEE YOU AT THE BALL PARK.

MEETING OF SOIL CONSERVATION SUPERVISORS

Delegates to the summer meeting of the Maryland Association of Soil Conservation District Supervisors were Horace S. Brauning Sr., Finksburg; Randall Spoerlein, New Windsor; Sterling J. Leister, Hampstead; also attending were Mr. and Mrs. Grover C. Zimmerman, Mr. and Mrs. J. Harry Koller, Mrs. Horace Brauning, Mrs. Randall Spoerlein and Mrs. Sterling J. Leister.

During a discussion of the Potomac River Basin, the Carroll supervisors made it plain that while the basin needs to be recognized, they are of the opinion that the small watersheds coming under the 566 watershed law should have first priority. These small dams, built under this authority, on the head waters of the Potomac tributaries. The delegates claimed that this would intercept the water where it falls, retire less farm land, make more recreational areas for the public and would reduce the necessity of building some of the large dams that are now being discussed.

BETTER AT TALKING THAN AT "DOING"

Apropos of President Kennedy's campaign "pledge" to "Get this country moving" it has been pointed out that the country is indeed "moving!"

More people are moving into the unemployment lines every day, some 744,000 more in June than in the preceding month. The steel industry already has moved downward to less than half of its productive capacity.

Businesses are moving abroad, away from intolerable Government attacks on free enterprise and old-fashioned economics. Farmers are moving off the farms at a record rate as foreclosures mount. Small businesses are moving in court they are declared bankrupt. New private housing construction is moving down at the rate of 11% a month, even after allowing for seasonal trends. The outlook for our national economy is moving downward toward "recession and stagnation," according to no less an authority than Professor Paul A. Samuelson, White House adviser, in an article written for a British publication. By the same authority, the United States is moving toward record-breaking annual deficits of $12,000,000,000 or more. The Communists have already moved into Laos, with our Administration's blessing! And Castro the Communist has moved into a stronger position in Cuba, at our very doorstep, thanks to foolish high-level planning by the U.S. Government!

CIVIL WAR ECHOES

HAGERSTOWN, MD., Oct. 3 — Considerable damage was inflicted to three buildings on North Potomac St. in this city last night by a group of soldiers of the First Maryland Regiment, now stationed at Williamsport.

The hotel owned by J. W. Wright, John Wagoner's barber shop, and J. H. Cretin's grocery store were entered. The barroom door of the hotel was broken down, a stone thrown through one of the window shutters, and the glass lamp in front was broken. Wagoner's barber shop was entered next, where a glass was broken and other damage inflicted. The men next entered Cretin's grocery store where an estimated $100 damage was done.

It is reported that several "citizens of this place instigated the soldiers to these deeds of violence." The soldiers had spent the evening in town in the hotel barroom. While getting into their wagon in the public square preparing to return to their camp, they were assaulted by a group of boys who began throwing stones at them.

The soldiers pursued their assailants but failed to overtake them. In a state of anger, they commenced their attack on the buildings. When they were finished at Williamsport, they got in their wagon and returned to camp.

RETARDED CHILDREN

Throughout Carroll County, as well as in other areas of Maryland, the campaign to raise funds for the aid of retarded children will soon be under way.

Mr. Joseph H. Hahn, Jr., President of Hahn's of Westminster, Meat Packers, is the current Chairman for the Retarded Children's Fund-Raising Drive for Carroll County. Mr. Hahn has proclaimed September 10 through September 28 to be the effective dates for this drive.

This campaign MUST succeed! It is the responsibility of every individual throughout the county, as a whole, to assure success for the most worthy drive.

These children, for unknown reasons, were born afflicted or through some illness or disease have lost their capacity to live normal lives; therefore, we, as responsible citizens, have a definite obligation to do our utmost to see that these children are given the proper aid, in order to assure that they may live the most normal lives possible.

Think about it for a moment! Suppose you, or one of your close friends or relatives, had a mentally retarded child? Perhaps your circumstances are such that you could give that child the loving care and technical assistance that he needs — perhaps not! In fact, the chances are that you would need all the help and support you could get.

That is the purpose of this drive—to give help to those who are in desperate need of the right kind of help! The gift that you may give to this drive, whether it be small or large, will help the retarded children of our county and will lift a portion of the burden which is borne by their families—YOUR NEIGHBORS!

As Chairman of the fund-raising drive for Carroll County, Mr. Hahn urgently calls upon all the people of the county for their heart-felt contributions and support for this most worthy cause. He asks that the churches, church-goers, civic leaders and organizations, businessmen and their associates humbly realize the very definite need of these defenseless children and give as though you were giving to the well-being of your own child.

"SPICE 'N' EVERYTHING NICE"

With all my heart, I wish you every morning dawning.
I wish you health last until the next day's dawn.
A smile that shall lift the greatest weight; I wish you always near so that I may help you cheer.
Each future day and in some way—help to bring you happiness!

The much needed rain is coming down in buckets and now there is HAIL—banging against the windows and the front door! How glad I am that I brought in the last of the gladiolas before the storm. One would think this very minute that someone was knocking at the front door. The excitement is too much for Bobby and I had to open the door to let him see that no one was there! If you have a dog, folks, never, never let it run at large to destroy other's property. That truly is wicked and I get so many letters to mention it in my column. Always remember, "Do Unto Others As You Would Have Them Do Unto You!"

It is just awful these days to read about the Police being shot and killed by a victim that is being arrested. Frankly, I do not think our grand Police have enough authority! It just doesn't seem right in anyway you look at it. Eh?

Letters—Dear Observer: I have a next door neighbor who comes over to my house ever so often and tells me of the most intimate stories and bickering with her husband also stating how very jealous she is. It is driving me bugs and I just do not know how to put a stop to it. Any ideas? Thanking you! Signed, Dear Friendly Neighbor.

Just try not being so friendly and when she does make the call to your house as you open the door explain to her that you have a lot to accomplish today or that you are hurrying out that you have an errand. If you do this about a half dozen times, she will catch on. Your Obs. Dear Observer:

My husband has such a dreadful temper that he really frightens me at times for his face turns white and it is always before our only child, a three-year-old boy. I have tried everything and getting very nervous. Please answer as soon as possible. Gratefully yours, Mrs. M.G. Dear Mrs. M.G.:

If you have tried everything—have you consulted your doctor? They can do wonders just by a plain talk! Best wishes! Your Obs.

I am a widow and am employed in an office. I often wonder how these other women meet the opposite sex for I do not have any luck at all it seems to me. In fact my sister who was a widow met a widower and before the year was out they were married. Not my luck, I guess. Can you give me any tips? Lonely. Dear Lonely:

Many couples have met at social affairs and, especially in church activities or by friends introductions. There are so many different ways. Perhaps you may be too choicy as I knew one girl who felt that the man she married must be a duplicate of the perfect husband she lost by death. Good luck! Your Obs. Dear Observer:

I am heart broken and I wish you would place my letter in your Column so as other girls may learn. I married a fellow who just will not work for if he gets a job (and he has had 25 since four years have passed) he just gets fired. He acts as though the world owes him a living! I have even been without food many times. I cannot describe my awful condition of existence and I am at my wit's end as there are children. Please, please help me. Signed, Ashamed.

Dear Ashamed: I am writing you, a personal letter and here is your letter so young girls can see when they do not take heed. My heart aches for you as I could not place all right here but it is truly a tragic affair. Keep your chin up! You will hear from me in a day or two. Your Obs.

I am to be married in Sept. and I have a nice position but we disagree as to my keeping on with my position after our honeymoon is over and there is always an argument about it. I do not have to work as my future is rosy as far as a home (which was bought already in the building process) and I do not have to worry about money. My fiancé said that you would agree with me as you always side in with the ladies. So now I say, "It all depends on you!" Signed, Sally.

No, I do not always side in with the ladies only when it is fair and square and you know just what I mean. This is plain to you. Do not attempt to go back or continue your work after marriage. And here's hoping that you will be holding a very soft bundle in your arms after the very first year! Your Obs. So there you have it—each a problem and all can be solved. Have a grand week-end, folks. Be most careful when you drive on the Beltways and remain wide awake! Be seeing you next week I hope I will be browsing around the town. D.V. I am, Faithfully, Your Observer.

THAT POST OFFICE DEFICIT

Writing in the Chicago publication, Commerce, Alan Sturdy has something worthwhile to say about the problem of the Post Office deficit, which now runs to some $850 million a year.

A pending bill would increase revenues to the extent of $600 million by raising first, second and third class mail rates. And the burden, Mr. Sturdy observes, "would fall heaviest on the smaller publications which can afford it least." Under the terms of the bill, the additional cost of mailing a small country newspaper a few miles would be the same as for carrying a huge New York daily to the other side of the continent.

As for magazines, that industry has had tough sledding. Many famous publications have gone out of business; others, large and small, are in serious financial trouble. A member of Congress has stated, "the estimated increase in revenue of $53 million on second-class mail exceeds the gross annual profits of the entire magazine industry."

Mr. Sturdy points out that obsolete mail handling methods, hardly changed in a century, are a basic cause of the problem. If replaced by modern automated systems, as has been done in many countries, hundreds of millions could be pared from the deficit. Authoritative estimates say nearly half the deficit represents charges that should be borne by the taxpayers at large, in that they provide for public services of a non-postal nature.

Another thought can be added to Mr. Sturdy's excellent summary. Postal services of a purely commercial nature, which do not contribute to public education, information, and enlightenment, should, at the least, pay their own way in every particular. Parcel post—that chronic contributor to the deficits—is the prime example here.

FACTS AND OPINIONS

David Lawrence writes, in U. S. News & World Report: "Our tax system is today a hodgepodge of political chicanery. It defies the basic principles of fairness. Above all, it undermines individual initiative. Those citizens who risk their funds and give their energies to enterprises that create jobs are discouraged by tax rates that result in virtual confiscation of their earnings. The demagogic cry is raised that the lower-income groups should pay less and less. This is not enlightened self-interest even for the Treasury. For it means killing the goose that lays the golden eggs. The overhauling of our whole tax structure is long overdue. The citizens are willing to pay their just share of the Government's expenses. But they cannot long tolerate unequal and discriminatory rules and rates of taxation. For this is taxation without justice."

According to an American Retail Federation bulletin, experts say that the Administration's farm bill could cost the taxpayers nearly $2 billion a year more on the feed-grain program alone. Some 162 million acres would be added to the present 74 million acres for trafficking in allotments. And, it adds, food costs can be expected to increase if the measure is passed, for food scarcity would be created.

To help meet the demands growing enrollments will make on institutions of higher learning during the next five years, three foundations financed by Standard Oil of Indiana will increase their educational grants through 1966 to a total of more than $4 million. This program, says the company's president, adds "substantial unrestricted grants to leading universities noted for their general excellence, their contributions to national life, their significance in training students from nations of the Free World, and the quality of their graduate education."

Playing detective to a sneak atomic explosion is not the simple task it might seem, reports the American Petroleum Institute. It is causing deep concern to the U. S. government and has launched the most concerted scientific investigation of earthquakes and the structure of the earth in history. The objective is to find a reliable means of detecting and identifying secret underground nuclear tests of a foreign power from great distances.

From the Portland, Oregon, Journal: "The longer the debate continues over a federal withholding tax on income from dividends and interest, the clearer it becomes that it would be an unfair burden on low-income taxpayers, and that collecting it would be a giant pain in the national neck."

State government revenues from all sources totaled $34.6 billion in fiscal 1961, according to a Department of Commerce publication. This was an increase of more than 100 per cent since 1952. The major expenditure item was $9.8 billion for education, followed by $7.5 billion for highways and $3.9 billion for public welfare.

CURRENT EVENTS
FIFTY YEARS AGO

The center of Baltimore St. from the square to the railroad, has been given a coating of crushed limestone. What this piece of street actually needs is a solid and well graded bed from curb to curb.

Robert R. Fair and wife of Baltimore are spending their vacation with Daniel H. Fair and wife.

Miss Roberta Roelkey gave a dance in the Opera House on Monday night to a large party of guests. At the same time Mrs. Joseph Roelkey entertained her friends with cards.

S. White Plank sold his Baltimore St. meat market property last week to Walker A. Bower, who in turn sold it to Judson Hill. It is rumored that Mr. Hill may eventually use the location for a steam bakery.

L. R. Valentine has purchased the agricultural implement business of E. and J. H. Harner and will conduct it at the old stand.

The Annual County Statement. The annual statement of the receipts and expenditures of Carroll County, appears in this issue and as usual it will be examined with interest — or ought to be — by the taxpayers of the county.

Mayberry — O. E. Dodrer is erecting a summer house. Don't forget the Sunday School picnic in Mr. Driver's grove on Saturday. Mrs. Ada Harner and son are visiting her parents, John Hesson and wife.

Mrs. Harvey Flickinger and daughter of Frizzellburg, visited her parents, Dr. E. D. Stuller and wife on Sunday.

William T. Crouse, a brother of Milton Crouse, of Taneytown, died at his home in York, Pa., last Saturday. He was familiarly known here as "Turk" Crouse, and was for many years an employee of T. H. Eckenrode.

An advertisement for proposals for a new bridge over Piney Creek, appears in another column. This bridge is very much needed and will be a great convenience to a large number of taxpayers who have occasion to use this present bad fording.

A band of genuine Gypsies passed through town on Tuesday and as usual offered to "tell fortunes" and paid their usual visits to the various public places.

Dividend Printing

There is one kind of printing that you want—printing that pays a dividend on the investment. A letterhead with right sort of type properly balanced is a real business asset. It wins the approval of the person receiving your letter, and while he is in this frame of mind your letter is read. The same reasoning applies to any other job of printing. Neatness, the right weight and kind of paper, the color of the ink, the selection of the type, all play an important part in the production of dividend printing.

We are equipped to give you that kind of printing. Let us prove it to you.

FAIRVIEW

The Selby and Rowe reunion was held at the Memorial Park at Taneytown on Sunday, July 29. With an exceptionally good crowd and a fairly good day for which we were all so thankful, but regret so much that the park will not be available to us another year. I think each and every one enjoyed being together. I think a reunion is a wonderful thing, as that is one way of seeing relatives without it being a sad occasion.

It looks like we will get some showers today (Tuesday), which we sure do need. The farmers are getting ready to set some of their fields in alfalfa, which will need a lot of rain.

We talk about this country being a free country, but really how much freedom do we really have? Of course we are thankful for the privileges we do have, but a home owner has no say of what he wants to do. A farmer has to have permits to do this and do that. A farmer who has sold milk under one condition for a number of years finds out when it changes hands they can no longer sell their milk as the well or wells they have used are no longer any good, and yet had been good enough for so many years in the past. Also a man who would like to build a home or build something to their own home which they have had for a number of years, finds they have to have a permit to do so. This is what they call freedom.

It seems this magazine business is getting almost out of hand. Men going from home to home during the day while the husbands are working and making a living for their families and hard work, too. I might add. These men are high-pressureing those whom they can into buying these papers and causing those who can really stand up for their own, say and do things they would not ordinarily do. And this makes it so hard for a man who is unable to do a hard day's work, to make an honest living by selling some items from door to door, as the housewife does not know whom to trust. A couple of years ago a man was going around selling Bibles. He used God's word to cover up his lies, but those who bought did get their Bibles.

(By W. R. Fitch) I shall not pass again this way. The bread that bringeth strength I want to give, the water pure that bids the thirsty live; I want to help the fainting day by day; I'm sure I shall not pass again this way.

I want to give the oil of joy for tears, the faith to conquer crowding doubts and fears. Beauty for ashes may I give always; I'm sure I shall not pass again this way.

I want to give good measure, running o'er. And into angry hearts I want to pour the answer soft that turneth wrath away; I'm sure I shall not pass again this way.

I want to give to others hope and faith; I want to do all the Master saith; I want to live aright from day to day; I'm sure I shall not pass again this way.

The county school head said his decision in reference to the complaints would be made known at a meeting of the Carroll County Board of Education. The next meeting of the board is scheduled for August 21. Mr. Jenness indicated he will touch upon the complaints against the principal at that session.

In the course of Monday night's meeting, according to some who attended, some of the pupils of Key High School and their parents voiced criticism of the principal. It was also disclosed that some of the other parents, and likewise members of the teaching profession, defended him.

Complaints Not Detailed

Mr. Jenness said last night he would issue no statement at this time in reference to the case. Details of the complaints have not been made public. Members of the county school board attended Monday night's meeting at the school. Also present were attorneys representing the various interests. Samuel W. Barrick of Frederick, was among the latter to represent some of the parents.

Carroll County sources estimated that "a couple of hundred people" were at the gathering. —The Frederick Post.

LONG-PLAYING TOYS

Children no longer need to leave home to get the fun and exercise previously provided only at public or school playgrounds. Backyard playground equipment, such as this climbing tower, are long-playing toys that maintain children's interest for many years. Built with safety in mind, the strong, lightweight tubular steel units are designed to withstand the abuse of hard-playing children. The investment involved in playground equipment is small when compared to expenditures for many shorter term toys that might be purchased ever within a one-year period.

How To Build a New Lawn

To build a lawn as beautiful as the golf course turf you've always admired, start in the Fall, prepare the soil carefully, and choose a grass which will give you a sturdy, permanent turf. The following step-by-step instructions from the Merion Bluegrass Association will help you schedule your work.

Diagrammatic instructions for building a lawn: 1. First, prepare the soil, having it plowed or dug to a depth of six to eight inches. 2. Step number two, thorough raking, will allow you to develop a good seed bed. 3. You're now ready to apply generous amounts of fertilizer, preferably a high-nitrogen type. Add lime if necessary. 4. Seed according to package instructions. A seeder or spreader helps you save seed. Permanent lawn seed such as Merion, is recommended by professionals for a lasting lawn. Merion's deep roots crowd out crabgrass, help produce a thicker turf. 5. Set your spreader for the correct application rate. Seeds of permanent grasses are smaller, so a little goes a long way. Rake the seed into the soil and keep moist until it has germinated. 6. Mow, water and fertilize regularly during the year. The resulting lawn will compare in luxuriant appearance with the most well-tended golf turf.

DENIM MEN OF AMERICA

CLAY AND POTTERY WORKERS

Squeeze two tiny ceramic engine parts, the size of cigarette filters, and they'll generate 15,000 volts of electricity...to start the engine!

Introduced this year, this revolutionary ignition system is the newest step in the centuries-old art of ceramics. In Space Age electronics, ceramic parts are vital in sonar equipment, missile-tracking and medical research. Clay and pottery items are made by 106,000 denim-clad workers—who mix the clays in huge machines, and bake them in kilns at temperatures up to 1,458°F! Every year ceramic workers in denim make $20 million worth of dinnerware... as well as ornaments, lamp bases, plumbing fixtures, bricks, tiles and structural products such as sewer pipes. Newly-discovered "electric" ceramics are used in hi-fi cartridges, and TV remote-control units!

"Let's Have A Picnic!"

To the young in heart, sandwich and picnic are synonymous. Little folks will settle for sandwiches in the backyard or on the porch and never mind the frills. They'll munch sandwiches with gusto in sunshine or under a dripping awning.

When the "let's have a picnic" cry echoes through the house, the mother who has baby foods on the shelf is ready for quick action. Gerber Junior Meats, for instance, blend smoothly with peanut butter and a spoonful or so of baby fruit. Creamy Cottage Cheese with Pineapple becomes a surprise spread when combined with jelly. And remember a dab of bright jelly for topping open-faced sandwiches. Of course fancy cut-outs make any picnic a real party.

Tempting spreads include a smooth blending of strained or junior fruit and peanut butter or a quick filling like this:

Combine 1 container (3½ oz.)

Junior Pork, 1 tablespoon Strained Plums with Tapioca (or other fruit) and 1 tablespoon creamy peanut butter. Blend well. (Try this basic recipe with other junior meats and strained fruit.)

Refreshing and wholesome beverage for the outdoor party can be assorted strained fruit juices that have been stored in the refrigerator for a "rainy day" or picnic. Punch a hole in each cooled fruit juice can, add a bright straw, and put juice at each place on a sandwich tray for each little guest. (Simple to do, and it makes a child feel so important.) Serve some of the Gerber Animal-shaped Cookies — and behold, a short-order picnic that's easy for all.

Soft Drinks, Soft Drinks — Everywhere!

Ginger ale, root beer, orange, lemon-lime, cola — every flavor of canned soft drink. A boy's paradise.

Statistics show that the average boy (like 13-year-old Jay Smith above) and girl, too, each consume the equivalent of 140 twelve-ounce cans of soft drink each year.

Children and teenagers are the biggest users of soft drinks in cans. And mothers are turning more and more toward canned soft drinks for their children — no mess, no bother.

Chances are more than good that this picture couldn't have been taken seven years ago. Prior to that time there was hardly a single soft drink packaged in that boon and constant companion to the housewife — the tin can.

Today there are 212 different flavors of soft drinks offered in cans, featuring 59 different brand names. Over a billion cans of carbonated beverages were sold last year, according to American Can Company.

Why this sudden demand? Again, it's nothing more than the modern American housewife's continual search for convenience. Canned soft drinks are easier to carry and cool, there's no problem of returning empties; there's no breakage; twice as many cans of soft drinks can be stored in the refrigerator. And the kids like them!

First machine developed by man to speed mathematical calculation was the abacus which came from Egypt before the birth of Christ. The abacus was later improved by Chinese monks to handle figures with the speed of modern adding machines!

Remembering the long hours spent by his customs officer father in compiling records at the end of the day, Blaise Pascal, the great French mathematician, invented the adding machine in 1642. Many of its features are retained in present day calculators.

The Crash

Lesson for August 5, 1962

THEY cried when Queen Ne-hushta left town. For the queen-mother did not leave of her own accord; she was a captive. And as we know, the only people left behind to weep were the "poorest of the Land." No one capable of dreaming-up a revolution was left behind, Nebuchadnezzar thought. For along with the queen-mother went her puppet son Jehoiachin (or Jeconiah as he was sometimes called). It would really have been a service to the country if Nebuchadnezzar had stopped right there; for neither she (a local girl of no brains, apparently) nor her son (a mere boy whose father had set him a poor example of how to be a king) was any credit to the country. But with all the young men of the army gone into exile too, and all the skilled workers, and all the governing class and all the people with any property... there was enough to cry about.

Worse to Come

It was hard to see how things could be worse. But there was worse to come. King Jehoiachin's successor was appointed by the King of Babylon, and incidentally his name was changed too—perhaps to demonstrate that he was the last, weakest, and most stupid of Josiah's sons. He did not know on which side, so to speak, his bread was buttered. He paid too little attention to Jeremiah's warnings. He somehow persuaded himself that (with the help of Egypt?) he could break away from Babylon. This time Nebuchadnezzar made a complete shambles of the city. All previous invaders had spared the temple, though they had robbed its treasures. Zedekiah may have thought that since the temple of God was still in the city, God would not let it be destroyed. If he thought so, he was terribly mistaken; for the temple was burned to the ground, the great and beautiful temple which had stood there for about 300 years. With it were burned not only the royal palaces but all the "great houses" of the city.

Could It Happen Here?

When a nation goes to war it usually thinks of itself as winning. Spain thought of course she could crush England with the famous Armada; instead, the loss of the Armada marked the long down-hill road of once proud Spain. England fully expected to win the war of the American "rebellion." The Confederate States of America were confident that they could force the United States to recognize their independence. The Kaiser, and after that Hitler, thought "Deutschland uber Alles"—Germany Above All—could be arranged by a snappy Blitzkrieg. It is a sad experience to stand in a modern city that once was as bustling and proud as our New York, and see the war-shattered wrecks of the tall beautiful buildings laid brutally open to the sky. It is a bit of a shock to hear in a great Japanese city that fires started by American bombings laid waste more than 90% of the city that used to be. Now we live in a time when the two most powerful nations on earth possess weapons beside which the bomb that fell on Hiroshima was hardly more than a large fire-cracker. We live in a time when all it takes to demolish one city is one shot. Our cities, and Russian cities, are not even as hard to destroy as Zedekiah's Jerusalem was. It took the best army in the world two years to smash Jerusalem; but the next "war" can be over in two hours. There are no victors in an atomic war, only victims.

What Israel Learned

There was one precious thing not destroyed or deported in the crash of Jerusalem: it was a lesson. They learned, the hard way, that God plays no favorites. He is merciful and long-suffering and very patient; but if people do not really love the ways of peace, eventually they pay, in bloody death, for their folly. This is just as true for great nations as for little ones. It is just as true for church-going nations as for nations without churches. If the great nations of the world would put as much money and genius into keeping peace as they make into making war, men could breathe again.

THE LIGHT THAT BURGLARS FEAR

Like other night-prowlers in the Animal Kingdom, burglars fear light, for it reveals their whereabouts and throws a spotlight on their activities. Burglars like to work in the dark, in homes that have been temporarily deserted. You can't hire a policeman to stand in front of your home every night, but you can leave your lights on, indicating that someone's home. Better yet, you can have them turned on and off automatically, at pre-determined intervals—proof-positive to skulking house-breakers that your house's one to steer clear of.

How can you have your lights turned on and off automatically, so that your home looks "lived in" when you're away for the evening, or on vacation? By means of an alarm clock-size automatic timer called the Time-All. The Time-All can be attached to several lamps. It works silently and efficiently, and, once set, requires no further attention on your part. No special wiring is needed. The wise homeowner worries about his home when he's away. He need worry no more, for such automatic timers are available at most department stores, hardware stores, and appliance dealers.

MMM—Strawberries In A Pie

Lightly stir plump red strawberries into a cool, smooth blend of pineapple, marshmallows and sour cream. Then pile the filling high in a flaky, tender pie crust made simply by adding water to a pie crust mix. A scrumptious dessert!

Pineapple-Strawberry Pie

Makes one 9-inch pie

- One-half 10-oz. pkg. (1 cup) Flako Pie Crust Mix
- 2 tablespoons cold water
- 1-1/2 cups miniature marshmallows
- 1 cup dairy sour cream
- 1 pint fresh strawberries, washed and hulled
- 1/2 cup sifted confectioners' sugar

Heat oven to hot (425°F.). For pie crust, empty 1 cup pie crust mix into bowl. Sprinkle cold water by tablespoons over mix; stir lightly with fork until just dampened. (If necessary to make dough hold together, add another one-half, tablespoon cold water.) Form into ball. Roll out on lightly floured board or canvas to form a 13-inch circle. Fit loosely into 9-inch pie plate. Trim; flute edges. Bake in preheated oven (425°F.) 12 to 15 minutes or until golden brown. Cool.

For filling, combine pineapple, marshmallows and sour cream. Chill several hours or overnight.

Special Closing Notice

My station will be CLOSED on Sundays, due to the unfair prices of the American Oil Company. They, having three outlets in Taneytown selling the same product and we all try to sell gasoline at the same price. Our station pays one cent more per gallon tank wagon price than our competitors which is unfair when we buy our gasoline in transport loads of 7000 gallons at a time which cuts the profit to the bone, when on a Sunday we depend on gas only.

CIVIL WAR ECHOES

WILLIAMSPORT, Md., Dec. 21—A Confederate force led by Maj. Gen. Thomas J. Jackson has succeeded in making a breach in Dam No. 5 of the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal near Clear Spring, Md., however, the damage is not severe enough to hamper transportation on this canal.

The Chesapeake and Ohio Canal is one of the main arteries of communication between Washington and the West, by which coal, hay and forage reach the Union capital. Jackson, who is commander of the Valley District of the Confederate Army of Northern Virginia with headquarters at Winchester, Va., planned to cut off western supplies by breaking Dam No. 5.

On Dec. 7, a force of Confederate cavalrymen, commanded by Lieut. Col. Turner Ashby, appeared at Dam No. 5 on the Virginia side of the Potomac River. The only Union force at that point to oppose them was a company of the 13th Massachusetts Regiment commanded by Col. Samuel H. Leonard, on picket duty and an unarmed Illinois Regiment. The Confederates commenced throwing shells and shot at the dam and houses on the Maryland shore and continued the fire until dusk. The Federal troops were armed with smooth bore muskets and their fire was not effective at long distance.

During the night, Leonard dispatched a canal boat from Williamsport with another company of his regiment, armed with Enfield rifles. These men were concealed as skirmishers along the Maryland shore. Early on Dec. 8, when the Confederates resumed the fire with artillery and small arms, the Federal troops exposed themselves at the brink of the river. The Federal riflemen opened fire from their concealed positions and in a short time forced the Confederates to abandon their battery and retire. Because of the lack of sufficient infantry force and a battery to protect their movements, Leonard reported that he was compelled to let the Confederate guns remain in position. That night, the rebels returned and took them off the field.

After this affair, Jackson reported the following to Gen. Joseph E. Johnston, commander of the Confederate Army of Northern Virginia: "I have made two attempts to prevent navigation on the canal, but have not thus far succeeded. . . . In consequence of the importance of economizing ammunition and keeping the batteries and other troops that would be required for supports at drill, I do not think that it would be advisable to attempt with artillery anything more than the protection of our working parties engaged in turning the water around one of the dams, or making a break in the canal. I have had some small boats made for the purpose of crossing a party to the Maryland side if necessary. I hope in this way to stop the navigation for a while, but my desire is to complete the work commenced on the dam, and for this purpose have made arrangements for marching with Garnett's brigade at 6 a.m. on Monday (Dec. 16)."

The work on the destruction of Dam 5 commenced on the night of Dec. 17. Capt. R. T. Colston of Company E of the Second Regiment of Virginia Volunteers, volunteered to take charge of the Confederate working party to accomplish the destruction of the dam. Colston's home, "Honeywood," is the estate adjoining the dam on the Virginia side. He was seconded by Capt. Holliday of the 33rd Virginia Volunteers of the "Stonewall Brigade," who, with his company of mountaineers had volunteered as soon as he learned that the exposure and labor in the icy water had determined Jackson to call for volunteers to do the work.

The river was closely picketed on the Maryland side by the Federal troops. The Federal companies of Maryland Volunteers commanded by Capt. G. P. Robinson and Capt. W. B. Kennedy participated in this affair. The Confederates commenced their work under the protection of heavy fire. Standing waist deep in the cold water, the men were under the constant fire of the Federals.

On Dec. 19, a volunteer party from Capt. W. B. Kennedy's company crossed the river in skiffs and set fire to the mill owned by Colston, which had afforded good shelter to the Rebel riflemen. Yesterday, Colston's residence, situated 100 yards from the mill, was set on fire. A party of the First Virginia Regiment observing the flames, crossed the river and extinguished the fire. They then proceeded to ransack the out-buildings and carried off a large amount of plunder.

Jackson covered the operation of the destruction of Dam 5 by a feint movement of a portion of his troops toward this city and Falling Waters. The demonstrations were made by Confederate General James H. Carson. The remainder of the Confederate force took positions so as to protect the working party at the dam. At noon yesterday, a regiment of Confederate cavalry and infantry appeared near the ford at Four Locks, two miles above Dam 5, opposite the position of the First Maryland Regiment commanded by Col. John R. Kenly, but withdrew without making a demonstration.

The fighting gradually subsided and when the partial breach in the dam was completed this morning, Jackson withdrew the main body of his force to Winchester. No offensive demonstrations were made by the Federal troops. Ashby's command returned to their winter quarters established in the vacant houses connected with the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad at Martinsburg.

In his report of the operation, Jackson said: "There is reason to believe that the recent break in Dam No. 5 will destroy any vestiges of hope that might have been entertained of supplying Washington with Cumberland coal by the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal, and consequently their only prospect of procuring that coal must be the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, and for this purpose near 25 miles of track west of Harpers Ferry must first be relaid, and this can be done under a much smaller protecting force stationed at Winchester than would be required if distributed along the railroad, and consequently I must anticipate an attempted occupation of this place by the enemy. My present force of 7,500 volunteers, 2,234 militia and 666 (McDonalds) cavalry is insufficient for defending my position."

The destruction of the dam, however, was not complete and was repaired shortly after the Confederates retired. Leonard reported to Maj. Gen. N. P. Banks today: "Canal boats running today both ways. Two guns were brought to Little Georgetown and some infantry appeared this morning. A few shots have been exchanged. The 29th Pennsylvania has moved to Dam 4. I hear no rebels have been there yet. From Falling Waters the Rebels have moved up towards Dam 5, but a few pickets left there (Falling Waters)."

CANDIDATE "WHEELS AROUND" CARROLL COUNTY CARNIVALS

Newton Steens, candidate for Congressman at Large in Maryland, has found that the ferris wheels at the Carroll County Fairs and Carnivals provide excellent vehicles from which to toss his campaign first aid kits. Fairgoers find that a shower of these cardboard kits labeled "First Aid for Maryland Voters" can be expected at most any time when candidate Steens is in the vicinity.

EVOLUTION ON THE FARM

There once was a time when cows were milked, the milk separated, bottled, peddled by hand. Bargaining over price was the custom, regulation was unknown.

Today "progress" has modernized the farm. The Department of Agriculture is mobilized; the stable is sterilized; the cows are immunized; the milk is homogenized; the butter is subsidized; the dairymen are organized; the milkmen are unionized; the voters are anesthetized; and the public is victimized.
