C&P TELEPHONE REPORTS

More than 86,700 telephones are now in use in the Westminster district, which includes Carroll, Cecil, Frederick and Harford counties, according to George Pohlman, Jr., district commercial manager for the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company of Maryland. This is an increase of over 5,400 during the year 1962 and nearly 22,000 during the past five years.

C. R. Grafton, district traffic manager of the C&P, said telephone users in the company's Westminster district made more calls during 1962 than ever before. The new peak was 98,000,000 as compared with 61,000,000 for the year 1955. He attributed this rise to the continued service and equipment improvement program directed toward making calling easier and faster; higher quality voice transmission and the extension of dialing privileges.

New dial centers were constructed and placed in service at Braddock Heights and Sykesville and a major service improvement project was completed at Meyersville. In addition, W. N. Keller, district plant manager, said that for improving the outside cable and wire network in the district, the company spent nearly $2,290,000 in 1962 and that for specific projects now in the planning stage more than $2,625,000 has been allocated for 1963.

For the state as a whole, Mr. Pohlman said telephones in service reached an all time peak of 1,452,000 at the end of 1962 and that while the population was increasing about one-third over the past ten years, telephones more than doubled in number.

He also pointed out that sizable contribution to the economy last year was represented in the more than $196,000,000 spent by the company for construction, purchases, payroll and operating taxes. This amount also included the cost of capital invested in the business.

During the next five years the company expects that construction costs alone will average between one and one and a half million dollars weekly to further improve and expand Maryland's telephone system.

MEETING OF THE BOARD OF EDUCATION

Many Items of Important Business Transacted

The regular meeting of the Board of Education of Carroll County was held on January 15 in the Board Offices at 9:30 with President Hering presiding and all members present.

The Board approved the minutes of the December meeting and the current financial transactions directing that they be made a part of the record.

The Board approved the employment and contracts for teachers to fill existing vacancies and for induction into the service in September, 1963, including Bonnie LeGore, Judith Arnold, William Atwater, Louise P. White, Eugene Willis, Josephine Greenfield and Constance Danner.

The Board accepted resignations from Marvin L. Goodman, Barbara L. Allen, Othel W. Stewart, Mary V. Roop and Dossie Stanberry, effective on various dates in the month of January. Action was taken on miscellaneous matters in connection with teachers' classifications and certification.

The Board heard a report by the Superintendent and considered a letter of transmittal from the County Commissioners in connection with the budget for 1963 and for a portion of the school year 1963-64. In this connection it was noted by the Board that the budget approval did not permit any adjustment in teachers' salaries for 1963-64 and that adjustments made in the budget would have to be given consideration in planning for the administrative structure and the activities of the current year as well as for the school year beginning September, 1963. It was noted that approval had been given for additional personnel in the field of speech therapy and that requests for immediate support for the building of a gymnasium at Westminster High School had been disapproved. The Superintendent was directed to proceed with the planning of school activities and for the necessary administrative procedures in line with financial support.

Action was taken to approve the recommended staff for the central office clerical services and for the maintenance personnel suggested.

The Board heard presentations from a delegation representing the Mt. Airy Citizens Council and related to proposed plans for the consolidation of high schools in the southern part of the county. No action was taken in this matter pending further investigation and planning.

The Board was provided with copies of recent news releases and with communications addressed to contractors and business men related to current activities. The Board noted an invitation from the Carroll County Council of Parents and Teachers to be present for the next meeting on March 19.

Copies of the December issue of School Board News, which had been prepared for this quarter by Carroll County, were distributed to the Board members. They were advised that state-wide distribution of the publication had been completed.

The Board plans to hold its next regular meeting on February 12, 1963, at 9:30 and bid on the Sandymount School addition will be opened on this date at 11:00 A. M.

The Board also noted an invitation to attend Open House at Bowling Brook, Middleburg, the invitation being extended by Mr. Robert H. DePew, superintendent of the institution. Open House is to be held on January 27 from 12 noon to 5 P. M.

The Board received and considered a report prepared by the Superintendent in connection with school activities in Carroll County, gleaned from the most recent publication of the State Department of Education—the State Report for the period ending June 30, 1961. The Board felt this study to be very informative and directed that copies be made available to the newspapers and to interested citizens.

Adjournment was at 1 P. M.

CIVIL WAR RE-ENACTED

Some more living American history of our Civil War was commemorated at Fredericksburg, Virginia, the week of December 10 thru 15, 1962, commemorating the event of Gen. Burnside's attempt to make a knockout blow on Gen. Lee at Fredericksburg and drive on to Richmond in December, 1862, only to meet with total defeat, and later to be relieved by Gen. Joseph H. Hooker of which we will hear more about later.

Two Frederick Co., Md., men took part in the commemorative representing the Blue and the Gray, the North and the South. They were Col. J. F. Fox, Creagerstown, acting Gen. Robert E. Lee, 1961-65, and Major M. L. Fox, Walkersville, of Co. D 6th Md. reactivated Inf. Reg., the old line company that was made up of personnel of the northern part of Frederick County during the Civil War of which these men's grandfathers was a member. Pvt. Daniel L. Wilhide.

On December 12 these men stood for two wreath placing ceremonies. They also attended the Railroad Display and the Currier-Ives exhibit at the Martha Washington College. The participation on Saturday, Dec. 15, included a tour of the battlefields of Fredericksburg and Chancellorsville; visiting the points of interest such as the old Catharine furnace which made munitions and supplies for the Confederacy during the war; also visited the sites of Lee's and Jackson's later meeting place and the spot where Jackson was wounded and the house where he died; also many other points of interest.

This commemoration paid tribute to some of the most gallant and brave men that America has ever known. Why did they fight? They fought and died for what they thought was right; meeting the enemy with courage, determination, defiance, fighting with great valor that burnt into the pages of historic time only to meet with defeat due to poor leadership on the part of the Union.

The next commemoration and dedication will be held at Chancellorsville, Va., May 4-5, 1963, which opened the way for Gen. Lee to carry the War into the North resulting in the Battle at Gettysburg, Pa.

EATING IN THE AUTOMAT

On a recent trip to New York City, our group decided to eat lunch in one of the many automats there. Believe me, for the novice this is an unquie and rather bewildering experience and one which I do not recommend if you are (a) really starved, (b) slow to make up your mind, (c) unsteady on your feet.

To begin with, when we arrived after a brisk walk from Radio City, we were all quite famished. So, apparently were the crowds of other people who had already gathered there ahead of us. The place was filled almost to capacity with hungry, economy-minded individuals.

Secondly, a good supply of change—especially nickles—is essential equipment for automat dining. So our first step was to shoulder our way over to the cashier's booth and exchange our greenbacks for nickles, dimes and quarters.

Now began the real battle. Clutching our money in our perspiring hands we gathered up our trays and silverware. I never realized that one empty tray could be so heavy—or maybe I was just weak from hunger. Then we started on the perilous trek around to get our food. We were positively amazed at the bewildering array of good things to eat which confronted us!

It soon became very clear to me, at least, that eating in this fashion requires both speed and agility. One who eats in the automat is expected to make snappy decisions—no fooling around trying to choose what to eat! He is supposed to be able to pop the correct amount of change into the slot, turn the handle, take out the food and deposit it on the tray—all of this with one hand. The other is needed to balance the tray, which gets heavier and heavier as each item is put on it.

Since I have never been able to make up my mind in a hurry, this was rather an uncomfortable experience. Furthermore, I was holding up the line of people in back of me, most of whom were old veterans at this sort of thing. I could sense their growing impatience. Finally my desperate eye lighted on a dish of macaroni and cheese. With no little difficulty, I succeeded in removing it from its little nook and getting it deposited on the tray. To this, I added Parker House rolls, appeasance cake and coffee—a horribly unbalanced meal, but after all it only cost me 50¢.

I could see that others in my group were having similar problems so I didn't feel too badly.

The thing then was to find a seat in that sea of people. This wasn't easy, what with juggling a loaded tray and trying to keep from being bowled over by busy women clearing away dirty dishes. I finally got seated, though, and must say the food was very good; but I am still wondering if it was worth such a struggle.

"SPICE 'N' EVERYTHING NICE"

With all my heart, I wish you every morning a smile that shall last until the next day's dawning. I wish you health—life's greatest wealth; I wish you always near so that I may help to cheer.

Each future day and in some way—help to bring you happiness!

Wonder how many in these United States forgot to place the extra stamp on those letters?

What a wonderful surprise as guests walked into my living room, handing me a package and as I opened it there fell out the most beautiful old and heavy and beautifully worked black Spanish Shawl with fringe just as handsome as the shawl. As they handed it to me they said, "We thought of you when we looked at it!" That I will prize all my life! No doubt, I will drape it over the TV set on sides and back. The one I had years ago, I used on the top of the Baby Grand piano.

Standing at the Max Factor Counter in the Hecht-May Co. the other day awaiting my chance to speak to that nice sales lady, Mrs. Speight, I observed many going for a big square box. I picked one up and read, "A CUP OF YOUTH!" Well due to my Ancestor, we all have heard the story of "The Fountain of Youth." This is in a milk-glass, egg-like cup and is truly filled with a different type of cream which is delightful. One try will convince you so if you cannot make it down town do go to your nearest drug store or one that handles such items and especially, "Max Factor!" I predict that this line will be the top one in cosmetics as it is climbing very fast. The nice part is the price to fit your pocketbook.

Now—here is another true one, Folks and you and you can try it. The only resolution that I made on New Year's was that I would not dare to eat any sweets. I entered a store and there they were bringing forward trays of the most wonderful looking Coffee-buns as they make in Philly. I looked hungrily at them and was tempted to buy and I quickly lowered my head and said, "Oh, help me, Dear God with this weak will power of mine." It was as if God's Hand was placed on my shoulder leading me out that very door! Just try God in everything in your life and see if you don't come out on top to every detail!

Bobby's tail is wagging due to the fact that I am remaining home with him today. In the mornings, he knows the difference of my house dress and the clothes I wear going out. As soon as he sees a house dress, he jumps around with happiness! So you see, Folks that you must learn all about your dog and he will cherish you. The Dog Show at the Armory in Baltimore is to be held the end of this month.

Don't forget, Folks that famous painting of "MONA LISA" is in Washington, D. C., now and this will be your only chance to see it. From Washington it goes to New York City and then back to Paris. It would be wonderful if the teachers would form groups for school children. There is no charge. Your Observer hopes to go over the end of the week and will be writing about it in the next Column.

What a cute Calendar handed to me by the Commodore of The Boy Scouts of America. So very different from any other calendar—The Emblem which reads — "A GOOD SIGN ALL OVER THE WORLD!"

A letter in "The Voice of The People" objecting to the newspaper using the initials of our President; that's strange for no one objected when F. D. R. was used all the time! Always someone to gripe about something in this life!

Now, the following is mainly for widows. Never, never sign a paper without consulting a lawyer. In selling a house today they demand half of the ground-rent, two points which means you pay the interest for the person to purchase your home or in other words 2%, plus the 6% commission, plus whatever you have spent money on to improve your home! So watch your step, Folks! How wonderful those Shaffer bus drivers are! Hope that company reads this Column. It really does not pay to drive to Baltimore and then it is nice upon entering, the smiles that are passed around! And the pleasant, "Good Morning!"

So long, Folks until next week-end — D. V. Hope to be seeing you soon. And here's to the question as to writing this Column from several ladies in Carroll County. Yes, I will write this Column if I would go as far as C H I N A!

I am,
Faithfully yours,
YOUR OBSERVER.

THE POSTAGE HIKE AND YOU

January 7, 1963, may go down in history as Stamp ACT Day in commemoration of Another Consumer Tax—a one cent hike on every letter or postcard you mail. In addition, you may even pay more for mail you receive if your newspapers and magazines are forced to raise subscription rates to cover postage increases.

The increases were intended to produce new revenues of $603 million to balance the postal budget. But Congress came right back with another deficit by tacking on a wage raise of 368 million for postal employees which you, the taxpayer, will eventually have to pay. We don't quarrel with the wage boost for postal workers because we assume Congress checked that out carefully. Our quarrel is with significant lack of increased productivity per postal employee.

It was not until 1920 that the Post Office got its first mechanization—the postage meter, which Congress authorized private industry to use to cut down on some Post Office operations. It has done little else in the way of mechanization to eliminate many manual chores.

That same year, 1920, the telephone company started installing dial telephones, to the consternation of many who felt that great numbers of the then 292,000 telephone employees would be thrown out of jobs. Now the automatic telephone is almost universal, the service is greatly improved, the cost of a coast-to-coast call is only $2.25 as compared with $16.50 in the '20s and, most important, the company employs 730,000 persons—two-and-a-half times the 1920 number. Without the dial system, perhaps every single woman in the nation between ages of 18 and 30 would have to be employed today to handle the 90 billion calls made annually.

In the same period, the Post Office has retained its long outmoded hand operations, even though it has examples aplenty that mechanization increases, rather than decreases, jobs, while cutting costs to consumers. At the rate it is moving, the Post Office soon will be a shrine of antiquated industrial Americana—if it isn't already.

The word ACT in Stamp Act can be meaningful if you will act now to let your Congressman know that you insist on a postal system as modern as America itself.

CUBAN SITUATION FAR FROM SETTLED

For many months, through the medium of my weekly, "Senate Cloakroom," I warned of the danger of the Soviet military build-up in Cuba. I gave facts and figures about the unloading at Cuban docks of Soviet war-making material. I, along with other United States Senators, called for firm action to stop this growing threat to our people. The Administration denied that there was any Soviet military build-up in Cuba and said that the Senators who were calling for action didn't know what they were talking about. But, on October 22, 1962, in a television appearance before the American people the President virtually admitted that everything we had been saying was true; he even said that the size of the Soviet war-making machine in Cuba made it clear that it had been building up "for some months." He admitted that Soviet warhead rockets in Cuba could strike almost any city in the United States. He then proclaimed a naval quarantine of Cuba to prevent more bombers and missiles being landed there. Five days later he promised that we would not invade Cuba if Khrushchev would remove certain bombers and missiles. Khrushchev agreed to remove the offensive weapons, and the blockade was lifted. What some people thought was an immediate threat of war passed—and everybody was glad.

We regret that in the negotiations there was nothing about redress for the Castro kidnappings and murders of American citizens, nothing about the Americans imprisoned in Cuba on political grounds, nothing about restitution for the tens of millions of dollars' worth of American property seized by Castro.

We don't know for a positive fact that all the offensive missiles and bombers have been removed. We assume they have, but we cannot know because we have not had the on-the-spot inspection the President demanded.

The Cuban settlement was no settlement at all; it was a major defeat for us. What with our making Castro more secure than before (with our promise not to invade), Khrushchev now has a virtually guaranteed Western Hemisphere base for his subversive activities in Latin America. More than 15,000 Russian troops are still in Cuba, and the Russians, since the U.S. blockade was lifted, have been pouring arms into Cuba quite openly. Castro seems happy about the whole thing. He is loudly boasting that the $53,000,000 American ransom for the Cuban revolutionaries captured at the time of the abortive Bay of Pigs invasion is in fact American indemnity for our bungling part in that fiasco. Castro is a continuing, and possibly growing, problem.—U.S. Senator J. Glenn Beall.

FACTS AND OPINIONS

From National Review: "It's been almost a year since a Presidential committee, having studied the glacial rules of railway labor, suggested that coal shovellers are no longer needed on oil-burning locomotives. To court the unions went, and in court they have been knocked down: On November 23 the U. S. Court of Appeals for the Seventh Circuit (Chicago) reaffirmed the right of the railroads to dismiss men for whom they have no jobs. It's heartening to see a wedge of sanity being driven into the monolithic wall of reactionary laborism, and if the Supreme Court should uphold the Court of Appeals some day, President Kennedy won't have to lift a finger to get this country moving. All it needs is for labor and government to release the brakes."

According to Chain Store Age, housewives spend 10.45 per cent of their food dollars on butter, eggs, and milk. This works out to an annual total of $2,769 billion in the nation's 30,632 food chain stores.

Cosmetic manufacturers are urged to provide physicians with scientific information about newly marketed beauty products in order to head off possible side effects from these products. The plea was made by Dr. Rudolph L. Baer, professor of dermatology at New York University Schools of Medicine during an American Medical Association sponsored symposium. In his words, "While the lay public is constantly being exposed to intensive and persistent advertising campaigns, pertinent information about new cosmetic preparations is rarely, if ever, sent to dermatologists."

The Chamber of Commerce of the United States says that possible consequences of cutting the workweek from 40 to 35 hours (a current AFL-CIO goal) would include more inflation; a curb on economic growth; a slow-up in the rate of productivity increases, and a sharing of unemployment rather than employment, because the shorter week would hurt the long-range ability of American firms to compete with foreign firms.

From the New York Times: "The airlines, like the railroads, have been suffering from rising costs and declining earnings. They spent a great deal to equip themselves for the jet age, which has brought a vast increase in capacity. But the growth in passengers has slowed down, so that planes are flying half empty. Competition has been excessive. The air lines have not been able to maintain adequate earnings under such conditions."

According to Newsweek, "Competition for the short supply of space-age engineers and technicians is so stiff that personnel managers of U. S. corporations are being forced to fall back on an old Civil War recruiting device—the bounty." It quotes a notice by one corporation which offers an award of $100 to any employee who introduces a technical-professional applicant who is subsequently hired.

Robert G. Dunlop, President Sun Oil Company says, "Investment in the U. S. economy has failed for the past ten years to keep up with the expansion of population."

Three Roads to Paradise Three roads there are to Paradise That hidden lie from human eyes. The road of faith that runs afar From failing vision's guiding star; The road of hope, so broad and fair, That any one may journey there; The road of love, whatever befall, The surest throughfare of all. These roads are never far apart, And each is in the human heart.

Not Prepared Many years ago the King's clever jester had by his humor and fun, entertained his master so well that the King presented the clown with a staff and said: "Take this staff, and when thou shalt find a man who is a greater fool than thyself, give it to him."

Some time later the King fell ill and it was thought that soon he would die. The King then conversed with his court jester. "I am going on a long journey from which I never shall return," said the bedridden ruler. "Have you been that way before?" asked the jester.

"Why, no!" replied the King. "No man has twice traveled the road which I must now take."

"Have you made the necessary preparations for the journey?" persisted the jester. "I have not given thought to any preparation for my journey from this life," admitted the King.

Upon hearing this the jester held out to the King the staff which had been presented to him. "I must give this to you," he said, "for I have not been so foolish as to neglect my preparation for Heaven. Thou art a greater fool than I."

A VOICE FROM CARROLL

Not only has the cold weather upset transportation schedules but has also upset the family budget for the consumption of fuel nearly doubles when the temperatures are in the teens. One game that is very popular this season is how to keep warm without spending extra money. The best way is to put on more clothing. Wear sweaters instead of blouses; ski pants in place of skirts and wool socks instead of bare legs. It has been pointed out by experts that 80 percent of the heating systems in homes are inefficient. This is either due to faulty construction in the houses and heating systems or in the use of the heating systems. Whatever the reason, cold weather is the real test of not only houses and heating systems but people as well. The real class distinction is visible then. You are either a cream-puff or a red-blooded viking. I am the cream-puff variety. A man on a tractor in bitter weather, with only a jacket and cap to shield him from the windy blasts wins my deep admiration for his contemptuous attitude toward frozen feet and chilled backbone. Also the men who keep the roads open, the men who keep the telephone lines singing and the service men who deliver bread, milk, newspapers, the mail and all the other things that make life easier and safer for cream-puffs like myself. These men are the vikings that toss weather aside like a challenge to their manhood, and like George went forth to slay the dragon and win the princess, the modern man goes out to conquer King Winter. The difference is that there is no princess as a prize. Only a half-warm house to come home to with a cream-puff woman inside. The new year begins with an optimistic note for all Marylanders. The economy is healthy, the job picture brighter and business in a happy frame of mind. The farming industry is the only dull spot in the bright picture but even that isn't too dull. All this of course is not our own appraisal of the situation. It just proves that we have been reading the papers and are just passing on what we read. But we do believe most of it, for Marylanders are fortunate in living in a State that has no pressing problems or great financial crisis. But there are always little things to keep one awake and conscious that life is going on around us. If there is nothing else to worry about there are still slot machines to think about and Saturday night bingo or is it Friday-night? Then there is Blue Cross that never seems to catch up with the Hospitals bookkeeping. Then there is the problem of preventing our few rivers and streams from becoming huge bubble-baths from too many detergents. Incidentally fish don't care for bubble-baths or human sewerage. Yes, it is true that Maryland has every reason to begin the new year with a glad heart, but it would be nice if all of us would make an effort to solve some of our little problems by the end of 1963.

When a new store opened in the local shopping center the manager gave candy to all the children who visited the store. "What do you say to the nice man?" one mother prompted her five-year-old son as he received his candy. "Charge it," replied the overly bright boy.

For at least a hundred years or longer, parents have urged and pleaded with their teen-age daughters to take it easy with make-up and dress and not try to look like questionable women before they were out of school. But every generation of girls seem to want to look older and more ridiculous with more eagerness. The too short skirts, the 1850 hair styles with the chorus girl make-up makes a young girl look not older but just freckish; not attractive just shocking; not feminine, just disgusting. Why can't girls believe that just being young is enough for the time being. Enjoy that while it is a privilege to do so. Too soon youth is over and another period takes its place. The wise and smart girl enjoys each period in her life with grace and common sense knowing that each one has its own compensation. What sensible girl wants to look like a tired old woman when she can look like a fresh, young, rose bud out of a story book?

The Second Annual Ministers Retreat of the Capital Area Association of Christian Churches will open a three-day meeting at New Windsor this week at the Brethren Service Center. Dr. Virgil Sly, executive chairman of the Division of World Missions of the United Christian Missionary Society in Indianapolis, Ind., will be the guest speaker. Expected to attend are ministers representing 67 churches of the Baltimore, Western and Washington districts of the association.

The Womens Democratic Club of Carroll County will hold a meeting in the Historical House, Westminster, Saturday, January 19 at 1:30 P. M. The recently elected officers will be installed. Wm. B. Dulaney, member of the House of Delegates will be the speaker. A dessert will be served prior to the business meeting.

According to the diets in papers and magazines all Americans are trying to lose weight and none are trying to gain. Certainly there are a few women other than myself who would like to put on at least ten lbs. Evidently the number must be such a minority that the experts refuse to waste time making up a diet for them. Any of the readers have a good fattening diet? If so, please pass it along and if it's a balanced diet we promise to try it.

It is easy to have genius at 20 but much harder to have talent at 40.

Auto Fatalities

Eight persons were killed on Maryland highways last week according to the weekly survey published by the Maryland State Police. Three of those killed were drivers; two were passengers; and three were pedestrians.

Alcohol was a contributing factor in four of the deaths; speed in two; and "driver error" was present in five.

Of the 331 persons who have died on Maryland highways during the past twenty-seven weeks, 95 of them have been pedestrians.

In pointing to this high pedestrian toll, Major George E. Davidson, Field Commander of the State Police, emphasized "the need for both driver and pedestrian to recognize their responsibilities in this matter."

"A highway," he said, "is no place for a pedestrian who is under the influence of alcohol; and, especially at night, no pedestrian should be on the highway without displaying something white that can be easily detected by the driver in the lights of his vehicle."

THE 400TH ANNIVERSARY OF THE HEIDELBERG CATECHISM

In connection with the annual Convocation at the Lancaster Theological Seminary, Lancaster, Pa., the 400th Anniversary of the Heidelberg Catechism of the Reformation will be observed with special lectures on this great document of Christendom during this week of January 14th. Another celebration commemorating the Heidelberg Catechism will be held in Heidelberg, Germany, from which city the Catechism received its name, on January 19, 1563. Zacharias Ursinus and Olevianus, to whom we are indebted, put forth their genius in the writing and composing of the Catechism. Elector Frederick III wrote the preface to it, which is a beautiful testimony to his high sense of responsibility for the religious welfare of his people and of his desire to publish an accredited form of doctrine which might work peace and harmony in the Church of his realm.

A 400th Anniversary Edition of the Heidelberg Catechism, a translation in English from the original German and Latin texts, is now available from the United Church Press. A Commentary, a translation from "Le Catechisme de Heidelberg" by Andre Pery in French, a publication in 1959, will soon be off the press, being written by Dr. Allen O. Miller and his Committee. The Rev. William F. Wiley, pastor of Grace United Church of Christ, Taneytown, will attend several of the lectures to be delivered at the Lancaster Theological Seminary. He is teaching a course on the Heidelberg Catechism at the School of Religion at St. Paul's United Church of Christ, Westminster, on the Sundays of January 20th and 27th and on February 3rd, 10th, and 17th, from 7 to 9:15 P. M. Here is offered a great opportunity to study the basic doctrines of the Christian faith.

NEW WOODS COMBINE SOARS 60 FEET TO BEAT THE HIGH COST OF LIMBING

Latest development in the race of newsprint producers to counteract soaring costs of papermaking is a machine that grips a tree, trims the limb, lops the top, severs the trunk and deposits the log on a pile in a matter of seconds.

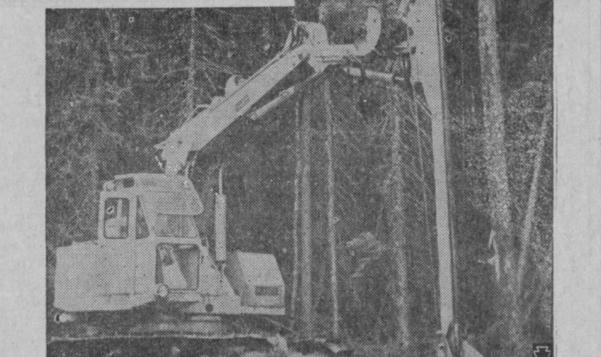

According to the Newsprint Information Committee, composed of a group of Canadian paper manufacturers, the machine is now being used experimentally. After sustained use, forestry experts will decide whether the expensive device is more economical than conventional methods of supplying pulpwood to the mill.

Other types of log harvesters are also being tested under the economic pressure to offset rising costs.

Operated hydraulically, the new Hiabob timber harvester is driven by a 135 h.p. engine and is mounted on a tractor nine feet wide. An articulated crane — it has "elbow" and "kneecap" joints — manipulates a vertical boom 60 feet high which can telescope to 33 feet. The boom is placed in close parallel to the tree trunk.

From the boom extends a self-adjusting, spring-loaded chain carrying chisels in an arrangement like cleats on a tractor. This chain travels up the boom — and the tree — cutting off the limbs and then the top. Hydraulic shears at the base then sever the trunk which is swung away in the grip of the boom to the pile.

Foresters expressed interest in the new machine as "most promising." In order to be economic, equipment in this price range must be capable of sustained operation with a minimum of maintenance in varied terrain and weather conditions. If it must stand idle for long periods for whatever reason, it cannot pay for itself.

TOWERING BOOM bears devices to limb, top, fell and pile pulpwood trees and is 60 ft. high. Machine is one of several combines being developed.

The Sportsman's Corner

by Dr. Joe Linduska, Remington Wild Life Expert

BAGGING RABBITS It's safe to say more lead is squirted at rabbits than any other game in America. In heavy woods and thickets, the shotgun is the favorite bunny-stopper... in more wide-open spaces, it's the .22.

When chased by frisky beagles, cottontails usually run in wide circles, returning, if possible to their holes. Jack rabbits, will run, if jumped by a dog too, but will often stop and freeze in one spot, offering a still but small target at longer ranges.

Veteran shotguns prefer a high velocity 12-gauge load with a No. 6 shot, such as Remington's temperature and water proof plastic shells. The .22 long-rifle hollow point is the best rabbit-getter for the rifleman.

They Reached The Top

GORDON PATTERSON, PRESIDENT OF YALE & TOWNE

Steel Millhand

Born in China of American missionary parents, Gordon Patterson began his climb to the top of the industrial world as a second helper at an open hearth furnace in a Youngstown, O., steel mill.

Night School Putting great value in education and self development, he attended night classes at the University of Pittsburgh while holding down a full-time job at a bank... Earned his degree, magna cum laude, in 1929.

President

Unusual imagination and administrative talents assured Patterson's steady rise. In 1960, he was named president of Yale & Towne, manufacturer of locks since 1868 and materials handling equipment since 1875.

Recently, Pitt awarded Patterson the honorary degree of Doctor of Commercial Science.

LEAVES IN HISTORY

In the mid-1800's, trumpet calls summoned buyers to tobacco auctions, which were much slower paced in those days.

Today the auctioneer must work fast. He tries to sell 400 baskets of leaf an hour. His sing-song chant saves his voice, gets buyers walking and bidding in rhythm. They bid with winks, nods and hand signals.

For the tobacco farmer and his family, the auction is the payoff for a year's hard work. Growing tobacco requires about 370 man-hours per acre, far more than any other field crop.

It's A Family Affair

Better than cake from a cookbook, this butterscotch-topped burnt sugar cake is quickly made from a newly improved mix. Sprinkled with crunchy popcorn, it has special appeal to children, if Dad doesn't beat them to it!

POPCORN CAKE

- 1 package Duncan Hines deluxe burnt sugar layer cake mix
- Burnt sugar syrup from package plus water to measure 1 cup
- 2 eggs
- 2 6-ounce packages butterscotch pieces
- 4 tablespoons undiluted evaporated milk
- Unsalted popcorn

Combine cake mix, the 1 cup liquid, and eggs in mixing bowl. Prepare and bake cake according to package directions for 2 8-inch layers. Cool 10 minutes, then turn out on cooling racks to cool thoroughly. Melt butterscotch pieces with milk, stirring until smooth. Cool slightly. Spread between cake layers and over top of cake. Sprinkle generously with popcorn. Serves 8.

Somehow, nothing seems to turn an ordinary meal into an occasion more easily than a freshly-baked cake. And, when the cake combines the favorite old-fashioned flavors of butterscotch and burnt sugar, it's apt to become a frequently served specialty-of-the-house. The cake begins with a package of Duncan Hines deluxe burnt sugar layer cake mix. The new, easy package directions call for only 2 minutes of one-speed beating. Once baked, melted butterscotch is spread between the layers and over the top for a quick-as-a-wink filling and frosting. Crisp popcorn adds a finishing touch. Try one of the new mixes today. There are six special flavors, cherry supreme, coconut surprise, chocolate mint, fudge marble, lemon supreme and burnt sugar, in addition to the four perennial family favorites, white, yellow, spice, and devil's food.

WINTER WOES by Pinson

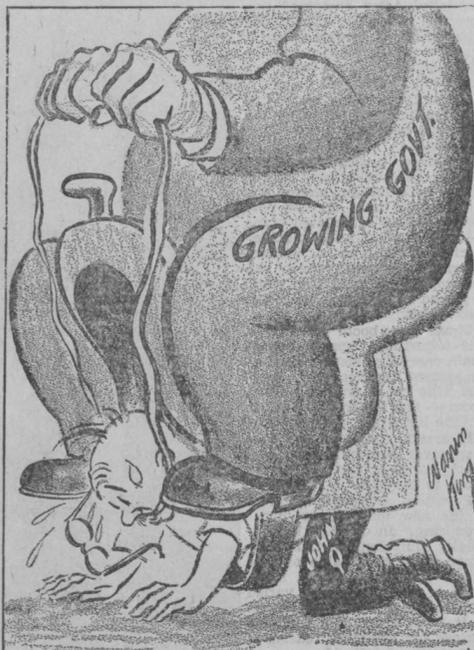

A citizen, Worthington Barr, Went to work without chains on his car, He slid on the snow, Which cost him some dough, Much more than the chains would, by far!

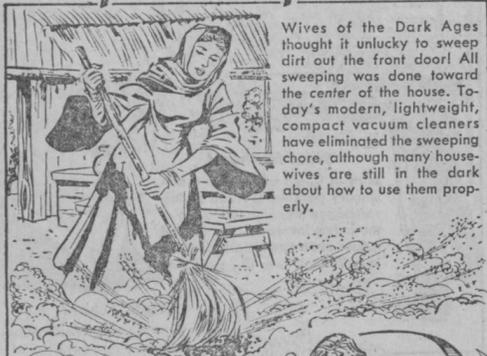

PREVENT THOSE WINTER DRIVING WOES

The National Safety Council says: "Always carry a pair of reinforced tire chains. In deep snow and on ice they help you go and stop more safely." Winter tires aid in mild-to-medium snow, but do not replace need for tire chains in severe snow or ice conditions. Don't be a traffic blocker.

FAT IN THE SADDLE

Tips on Carpet Care

Wives of the Dark Ages thought it unlucky to sweep dirt out the front door! All sweeping was done toward the center of the house. Today's modern, lightweight, compact vacuum cleaners have eliminated the sweeping chore, although many housewives are still in the dark about how to use them properly.

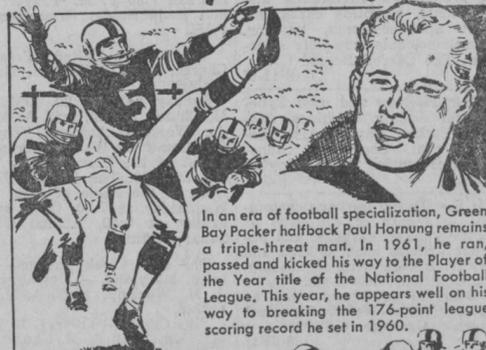

How often should you vacuum your carpets?

About once every week or 10 days with an upright cleaner or canister power beater, according to the Home Care Institute of Eureka Vacuum Cleaner Co. In addition, heavy traffic areas such as hallways and room entrances, every other day with a rug or floor attachment. Food crumbs should be vacuumed up immediately.

What's the best way to vacuum?

Eureka says Slowly!... back and forth several times, making the last stroke against the lay of the carpet pile to rise the nap. Shedding "fluff" from new rugs should be vacuumed up every day.

Green Bay's Scoring Ace

In an era of football specialization, Green Bay Packer halfback Paul Hornung remains a triple-threat mart. In 1961, he ran, passed and kicked his way to the Player of the Year title of the National Football League. This year, he appears well on his way to breaking the 176-point league scoring record he set in 1960.

Records are nothing new to this 6-foot 2-inch, 218-pound back from Louisville, Ky. At Notre Dame in 1957, he led in passing, rushing, scoring, kickoff and punt returns. He was an All-American choice in his junior year, repeated the honors as a senior—and was awarded the Heisman Trophy.

Hornung's picture and vital statistics can now be found—along with those of 200 other National Football League standouts—on the backs of all Post Cereal boxes. Kids will enjoy trading these player cards. In addition, Hornung's 16-page booklet, "Fundamentals of Football", is available free at food stores.

Making Enemies

Lesson for January 20, 1963

HOW can goodness be hated? How can God make enemies? God is perfect goodness, God is Love, and still He has enemies. It is not as if God were shut off in some inaccessible heaven, so that we could not see his goodness. If God came to this small earth in a form we could understand, He would still make enemies. Why that is we do not know. But God did come to this earth in a form we can understand. He came as one of ourselves. It is true, God is everywhere and has always been everywhere. Indeed you might well say that God created Everywhere. But Jesus of Nazareth for the first time showed what God-as-man is like . . . and still made enemies.

Reading Minds
It is not quite precisely the truth to say that Jesus "made" enemies. That sounds as if He deliberately stirred men against Him. That was not the story. He made enemies in the sense that on account of things He said or did, some people were mightily angry with Him, so much so that in time they reached the murder-point. It is worth our time to look into this. How was it that the Son of God, the one human being who perfectly mirrored the Eternal Love—how was it that, of all people, He made enemies?

Mark's Gospel tells a group of short stories all on the same theme, at this point. One incident after another brings out the fact that Jesus was up against a dead wall of resistance—and we can see why. First among the reasons was that He dared to say what only God would have a right to say. He was bold enough to tell a young man, lying paralyzed on a mattress: "Your sins are forgiven." To be able to say that to any one implies two other things. The one who says this, if it is true, must be able to read another man's mind . . . and he must be able to read the mind of God. He must know the man wants to be forgiven. He must know that God is ready to forgive, and does forgive. Now you might think that everybody around would rejoice that a man's sins had been forgiven. But instead, the people who heard Jesus say this were convinced that Jesus was a blasphemer. He was "playing God." You see they assumed to begin with that He was lying. But what if He told the truth? That they refused to believe.

Jesus knew what God meant
Many times Jesus made enemies by what He did on the Sabbath, the seventh day of their week, the day sacred to God. The Pharisees had it all figured out that on that Holy Day it was hardly right to do anything at all but go to the synagogue and back. But Jesus' disciples were on a walk and hungry one Sabbath day, and did what any one might have done, picked a few heads of wheat and chewed them up. (They must have been really hungry to do that.) The watching Pharisees, who seem to have been always around, like gnats, pounced on this harmless act. They blamed Jesus for breaking the Sabbath. It never occurred to them that if it is not wrong to give food to the hungry, it is not wrong for the hungry to do whatever it takes to satisfy their hunger.

How Jesus Met His Enemies
So it went. Jesus' enemies were always belittling. They always put out the worst possible explanation of all He did. They assumed in advance that He was a bad man. They were not prepared to believe anything good of him. Such men with such an attitude make mean enemies. There is hardly any hope of winning them over. The better Jesus was, the worse they became. The kinder He was, the more bitter they were. These stories suggest to us some simple plain truths about enemies. One is: There is no escaping them. If Jesus the Son of God made enemies, his followers may expect the same . . . if, of course, they are as active in doing good as He was. The people who are "good, but good for nothing," have no enemies—and no friends either. You can neither love nor hate a vegetable. But if you go about doing good, strange to say you won't have every one with you. But you can do with your enemies what Jesus did with His—go right on doing good as long as you live.

Hub Caps Marked To Foil Thieves

A new method for permanently identifying hub caps is foiling thieves whose activities cost American motorists over $5 million a year.
Because of their value and the ease with which they can be removed, hub cap theft is a tempting crime. Since only in rare instances do hub caps bear identifying marks that would permit positive identification by theft victims, the thief is nearly immune to successful prosecution unless caught in the act.
In addition to staggering loss in dollars, a civic problem is also involved. Hub cap stealing has become the standard "first crime" of juveniles, often starting them on the road to more serious crimes.
Now a simple method has been devised for quickly and permanently engraving hub caps with owner's name, initials, auto serial number, or other identifying marks. As demonstrated by Nancy Watts above, a small electric instrument called a Vibro-Graver is used, and an entire set of hub caps can be marked in several minutes.
Thieves quickly learn to steer clear of marked hub caps, and receivers of stolen goods won't touch them. Police, chambers of commerce, and other groups are actively sponsoring the hub cap marking movement. Churches, service stations, or youth groups often do the marking as a fund-raising device, or as a public service.
A printed "plan of action" has been prepared for local officials or groups who want to activate the program in their communities. Copies are available from Director, Vehicle Marking Program, BVI, Grayslake, Ill.

Stock Woodwork Versatile Owners Add Personality To Look-Alike Homes

It's still possible in these days of standardization to achieve individuality in a home without facing the high cost of custom carpentry. The imaginative use of stock wood windows is one way to do it.
Casement—operated by hand cranks, these windows are hinged on the side to swing vertically in or out—preferably out.
Awning—hinged near the top, awning units swing up and out to let in air while giving protection from rain. They may be used in stacks, one above the other, or with fixed windows in bay or picture window arrangements.
Hopper—similar to awning windows, but swinging down and in, hopper windows generally are used as the bottom

GALLONS OF PRIZES

When the Richard E. Campbell family drove in to the Cities Service station at Yardville, N. J., near Trenton, they expected to get some gasoline . . . but not so much. They became the buyers of the 200 millionth gallon sold by the oil giant on the New Jersey Turnpike. Result: Prizes, including 1,000 gallons of gas, a gift from the Turnpike Authority and the above ceremony. That's no less than F. M. Simpson, president of Cities Service, handling the "pump" and Joseph Morecraft, Jr., chairman of the N. J. Turnpike Authority. In between are Mr. and Mrs. Campbell and five daughters, (from left) Beth, Jo-Ann, Diane, Cathy and Eileen.

TEENAGER-PARENT DIALOGUE
"How's about advancing me two dollars for Friday night?"
"What happened to this week's allowance? How come you need an advance on next week's allowance?"
"Well . . . a few things came up, and I'm running a little short for this weekend."
Familiar dialogue? All too familiar. Of course you don't want to deny your own offspring anything—but you're not made of money, and these teenagers DO have to learn to handle their finances properly!

That's why an effort is now being made to help train high school students in the art of money management and the prudent use of consumer credit. After all, these young "almost adults" will soon be heading families of their own.
And NOW is the time for them to learn budgeting and financial management. They shouldn't be forced to learn these things by "trial and error" later on. Such trials can be emotionally and economically disastrous to a struggling young family!

Thus, many high schools are now using a Teacher's Kit developed and distributed to teachers as a public service by the Educational Services Division of the National Consumer Finance Association. This educational aid is a one-week teaching unit which contains everything from quiz questions and study guides—to a brief and simplified text entitled "Basic Principles in Family Money and Credit Management."
Youngsters exposed daily to the professional showmanship of television can no longer be reached by dull teaching methods. So the Teacher's Kit provides for several audio-visual teaching aids: a set of graphic wall charts; a lively, animated cartoon educational film, and scripts for a radio panel presentation. The panel scripts are used by the students to tape record their own "scholarly discussion" of money and credit management principles. And the young actors learn while producing the program.
Many of these panel discussions have been taped for later broadcast over local radio stations—and, in some cases, even produced "live" on local TV stations.
"A One-Man Act?"
YOU, however, can hardly be expected to put on a one-father or one-mother "act" at home, in the attempt to get financial training across to your own offspring. So the Teacher's Kit also includes one lesson designed to encourage application AT HOME of basic budgeting principles studied in the classroom.
However, if the high school in your community is not yet using these materials, don't give up hope. YOU might try playing teacher—with a teaching aid to give you some help. Write to CREDITORIAL COMMENTS, Suite 701, 1000 Sixteenth Street, N. W., Washington 6, D. C. Ask for a free copy of NCFCA's "Divided Responsibility Family Budget Plan"—and specifically request a Student Instruction Sheet.
Maybe you can make a few changes in that old "Teenager-Parent Dialogue," and prepare your offspring for the financial realities ahead.— Good luck!

Sheets with a Two-Way Stretch

Now why hasn't someone thought of this before! Fitted sheets with a 'two-way stretch' are the newest invention in the industry and will be in stores for the first time during August White Sales.

Women who wouldn't make a bed without fitted sheets are going to be even more delighted with the new ease in bedmaking that these Stretch-Fits provide.

The sheets have a stretchable edging at top and bottom and around all four corners. They just snap into place.

Of course, one of the reasons fitted sheets are so popular is that they require little or no ironing. Now they fit more smoothly than ever. And they stay that way, no matter how much the sleeper may toss and turn. They promise to save the homemaker a great deal of time and trouble in daily bedmaking.

At first the new Stretch-Fits will come in white only, to be paired with a favorite print in pillowcases. Later on, all the lovely printed sheets will have a Stretch-Fit style, too.

Luckily, these new sheets will be sale priced in August, a fine American custom which budget minded women honor every year.

ANNAPOLIS REPORT

STATE SENATOR
E. O. WEANT, JR.

While some very controversial Bills are expected in this Session of the General Assembly, few have been introduced up to this time. There have been many Bills started on the "trip" through the legislative machinery, a few of which we are mentioning herein.

Senate Bill No. 1 attempts a complete rewriting of the Insurance Law (Article 48A) to provide the conditions under which persons, firms, corporations and associations shall engage in an insurance or security business. It would recreate the State Insurance Department under the control and supervision of the Insurance Commissioner and sets forth the powers, duties and responsibilities of the Department. The purpose of the bill is to review and recodify many duplicated, ambiguous or obsolete provisions of the insurance laws. This piece of legislation is quite cumbersome and will take a great deal of study by the Banking and Insurance Committee before a recommendation can be made.

Another Bill, Senate Bill 8, provides for a complete revision of Article 33A relating to the condemnation of private property for public use. For many years it has been apparent to lawyers, as well as economists and political scientists, that the existing law applicable to the exercise of the power of eminent domain was sadly in need of revision. This Bill is expected to relieve many of the hardships and inequities thought to exist under the present Condemnation Laws, particularly in the urban areas.

Creation of a Board of Trustees of State Colleges has been suggested by Senate Bill 9 which shall direct and control the public colleges of the State, to wit, Morgan State, Bowie, Coppin, Frostburg, Salisburg and Towson. The Board would be given powers of supervision, including election of the President for each college. It would also create the position of Assistant State Superintendent of Schools who shall have responsibility for supervision of a division of higher education in the Department of Education.

Another Bill is about to be introduced by Senator Clark of Howard County which would make the State of Maryland a self insurer. This would provide that the State pay insurance premiums to itself and to set up a reserve fund to pay for losses. If successful, it would further provide that the local Counties could participate in this arrangement.

The County Commissioners of Carroll County have discussed with the Carroll County Delegation to the General Assembly certain topics relative to possible legislative needs for the County. Among these is the formation of an Economic Development Commission; authority to the County Commissioners for the regulation of speed, signs and bridge weights, trailer licenses in lieu of assessments; enabling legislation for building, housing, plumbing and electrical codes; preparation and publication of a local code for Carroll County; immunity from liability claims for road; authority for expenditures for an airport; change in the Treasurer salary; and an expense account for the County Commissioners. These items that reach the formative stage for specific legislation will be considered later in these columns.

State Senator
for Carroll County.
