Referring to women in politics, saying, "behind every success there is a woman. You can depend upon them as the keystone and cornerstone. Men are wonderful but women far surpass in all kinds of work in this troubled world, as the men don't have time to read, don't have time for politics, etc., so we need you."

"In Maryland we Republicans are in minority, but we have more Republican women representatives in politics, and more Republican women in the U. S. than Republican men. The average voter is 65 years old, and a woman. By being a minority a reason must be found, the best must be elected to serve you."

JOHN C. SMITH HONORED ON HIS 85TH BIRTHDAY

The 85th birthday anniversary of a Sorum community (Buffalo, South Dakota) pioneer, John C. (Shorty) Smith, was the occasion Sunday, Jan. 12, for a gathering of a large number of his friends and neighbors who came to enjoy the day with him and to reminisce and chat of early days.

Hosting the event were: Mr. and Mrs. Truels Madsen, who live at the Smith place, and their daughters, Mrs. Clair Sabo and Mrs. Leroy Sabo of Lead. A feature of the bountiful array of delicious refreshments served was a unique three-tiered birthday cake made and decorated by Mrs. Clair Sabo, details of which called attention to Mr. Smith's lifetime activities as a carpenter, railroadman, and raiser of Black Angus cattle.

Mr. Smith filed on a homestead in May, 1910, a half-mile west of the Jack Thompson ranch north of Sorum. An excellent carpenter, Mr. Smith helped build the early village of Old Daviston that first summer. In August he worked in Sorum, building the first restaurant, which was operated by Widow Hunter and later supervised a large group of homesteaders who volunteered their services to build the Sorum Hall. He and a neighbor, Claude Fink, whose homestead joined his, formed a partnership, and Mr. Fink looked after their ranches while Mr. Smith continued his carpentering, building much of the town of Camp Crook in 1911 and 1912.

Mr. Smith's spacious home, which he has modernized and remodeled extensively, and landscaped with shrubs and trees, was a gracious setting for the birthday party. (—From the Bison Courier, South Dakota.)

"SPICE 'N' EVERYTHING NICE" (Your Chatty Column)

With all my heart, I wish you every morning
A smile that shall last until the next day's
I wish you health—life's greatest wealth;
I wish you always near so that I may help to cheer
Each future day and in some way—help to bring you happiness!

For the love of a Dog! That is really what it all meant down at the Armory on Saturday and Sunday. Every breed was exhibited and the judging was most interesting as I sat before one of the four rings. Next year it is to be held just for one day and I do think that is best all around, not alone for the owners but for the poor dog! Upon my arrival home I gave Bobby an extra hug telling him there was no other dog like him in the Show!

The 9th Annual Orchid Show at Hochschild's on the 27th and 28th was as beautiful as ever! The little picture windows with a solid background of color was most effective with the arrangements of all types of Orchids and colors. There was a crowd and our Mayor was right there, too. Hope you and you did not miss the Bob Hope Christmas Show. What a grand bunch of men as to those nephews of Uncle Sam! Eh?

What a nice and musical name, Dharlys Fleharty! And I do love the Irish!

Such a grand surprise when blood pressure drops 36 points after just one treatment by that nice Dr. Calvin Hornstein. His office either in Randallstown or in Baltimore. One visit convinces the patient and you step out from his office feeling you just had inherited a million!

Now—here is to both parties — don't be surprised if a nice man by the name of Nixon is drafted to run for the Presidency. He truly is a real leader, if you ever met one. He knows all the answers! Capricorn men always excel in any business! And he truly would be tops for our President!

How awful as to those women smoking cigars! Disgusting is the word!

It surely must have been quite a surprise when our President went to the church service in Thurmont.

Don't miss "The Cardinal" which carries you off to Foreign lands and never have I seen more beautiful teaching in color! The story is interesting, too, and you will learn lots and cause you and you to become more broad minded as to any religion.

How much thinner Ernie Borganine did appear on the show the other night. Looks like a different person. He is engaged to that screaming, Ethel Merman!

How silly can one be — Elizabeth Taylor states she is getting a divorce due to Eddie Fisher abandoning her! Ugh!

A lovely note arrived this morning from Baroness Stackebler. Viewing the Love story down at the Town entitled, "Love With A Proper Stranger" was quite a surprise to me but it seemed to make a big hit with the rest of the audience and throughout it all, never have I sat in any audience where such quietness prevailed! The anxiety of Steve McQueen in the story was just about the best acting that I have ever seen. He is a new comer, and surely will be going places! As to Natalie Wood, she surely is a gal for looks! There are some amusing episodes and although it is a true story these days, it just happens it all turns out for the best. (Which many of these stories do not and it may teach a girl a lesson!)

Hope to be seeing you at the last show of "Ford's" "It Happened On The Way To The Forum!" Plus the Boat Show!

Have a grand week-end. Be careful when you drive. Go to church — any denomination and thank God for Until next week-end, I am,

Faithfully,
your many blessings!

FACTS AND OPINIONS

The head of Johnson & Johnson, a leading drug manufacturing concern, says: "What the pharmaceutical industry has spent defeding itself in Washington and other parts of the world the last four years, in terms of manpower and money, is staggering. What started out as differences of opinion between our industry and some government investigating committees has now become the source of distorted international propaganda—not so much anti-drug industry as it is anti-American."

According to Chain Store Age, retailers across the nation are taking a new look at store lighting in an effort to brighten their sales. The over-all result is to put the spotlight on the merchandise instead of the total store. One of the problems that has been overcome with new methods of lighting is that of excessive light-source brightness, which tends to pull attention to the ceiling instead of the merchandise.

Donald Robinson, writing in This Week magazine, says: "This the American people should know. The U.S. Army and the U.S. Air Force are secretly fighting one of the most bitter wars in Washington history, and the ricochets are reaching all the way to the jungles of South Vietnam. The issue is a simple one, but crucial to the nation's defenses. The Army wants to build a huge air force of its own, and the Air Force is battling to stop it. Never in the 19 years that I've been reporting on military affairs have I seen such rancor between the Services."

From a cost standpoint, barge transportation on artificial inland waterways is a drag on the nation's economy. That's the view of the President of the Association of Western Railways. Inland waterway interests, he goes on, fail to include the cost of providing, operating and maintaining the facilities that the barges use—all paid by the taxpayers of the country. So: "The total real cost of barge transportation is considerably more than shippers pay the railroads for a far superior, faster and year-around service."

According to an item in Parade magazine, Japanese manufacturers are moving into the U.S. home appliance market. They are preparing to offer numerous items here, running the gamut from toasters to automatic defrosting refrigerators.

Ralph T. Moore writes in the Oregon Voter: "Historians are bound to be puzzled by our persistent refusal to practice what we preach and to use the freedom of enterprise we so loudly proclaim. In fact there are few among us contemporaries who can give logical answer to this question. Probably, the main reason for our almost stupid intransigence along this line is our infatuation with big government . . ."

In an analysis of Congressional actions on appropriations, the Council of State Chambers of Commerce lauded Congress for making the biggest cuts in a decade in an administration budget. Noting that the appropriation cut was $6.3 billion, the Council commented to this effect: It could have been much larger if there had been a broad vocal public demand for budget reduction, and it would have been less if tax reduction had not been the top priority legislation of the last Congressional session.

J. Edgar Hoover, director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, is deeply concerned with "the increasing abuse and ridicule" aimed at the nation's law enforcement officers. He says: "Unless we witness a radical change in the behavior patterns of our more than 180 million population, 1964 will bring another sharp rise in crime."

KEYSVILLE-DETOUR

Greetings to you: Our sympathy is extended to the relatives and friends of Mrs. John DeBerry upon her death on the 27th. Mrs. DeBerry, 75, who was formerly of Ladysburg, had been making her home with a daughter, Mrs. Carmen Holtz, in Chambersburg, Pa. Another daughter is Mrs. Ethel Berkmeier of Taneytown.

We also extend sympathy to the relatives and friends of Mr. Earle Filmore Keefer, 62, who was killed in a tractor accident last Friday at his home near Keymar.

Mr. Upton Austin of Taneytown, who has been ill for some time, was recently admitted to the University Hospital in Baltimore.

World Day of Prayer Service will be held Feb. 14, 7:45 P. M., at the Keysville Lutheran Church. The ladies of the Lutheran and United Church of Christ Churches present this program and a film will be featured this year.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Cingari of Thurmont were Sunday visitors with Mr. and Mrs. William Weishaar and Randy of Forest and Stream Club Road. Wednesday evening callers were his sister and family, Mr. and Mrs. Monroe Rinehart, Kenny, Dennis and Fred, of Taneytown.

Good to see Larry Dougherty around again. Larry, now in the USAF and stationed in Amarillo, Texas, is home on leave—and staying with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Dougherty of Detour—until Feb. 28 when he will leave for England.

Another visitor with the Doughertys is Miss Becky Dryden of Pocomoke. Among the friends Becky and Larry have been visiting are the Carroll Wilhite family near Detour.

The altar flowers at Keysville Lutheran Church on Sunday were given in honor of the wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. John Young, Sr., of Keysville. We'd like to add our sincere best wishes to the many others they have already received.

Dr. William G. Miller, who teaches psychology at Western Maryland College, will be the featured speaker at the meeting of the Elmer A. Wolfe P-TA on Monday the 10th. Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Wilhite, Jane and Beth, near Detour visited in Clear Spring on Sunday with cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Haugh, and aunt, Mrs. Nannie Haugh. Mrs. Nannie Haugh, formerly a Cover, is a sister-in-law to Detour's own Mrs. Coral Cover. The Wilhites also called on the Daniel Seibert family, parents of daughter-in-law Cassie.

February is full of birthdays, it seems. Best wishes for a happy birthday are extended to Mrs. Anna Morelock of Keysville on the 4th; Kurt Kronsteiner, son of Mrs. Frederick Lynes near Keysville, on the 5th; Miss Miriam Dible of Keysville on the 9th, and also on the 9th, Mrs. Kenneth Dougherty (formerly Vivian Haines) of Frizellburg; Myron Wilhite on the 11th, and Mrs. Vernon (Thelma) Schaffer near Keysville on the 13th.

A note received from Gregg and Ellen Kiser, who are now in Rockledge, Fla. (Box 31—zip code 32955), tells us they are doing "as well as usual" and that Gregg is going to a therapist for treatment for his hand, which is showing improvement. They send greetings to all their friends through the column since it is impossible for them to actually write to each and everyone of them as they would like to do.

In a recent letter to her mother, Mrs. John Young, Sr., of Keysville, Betty Hood (Mrs. Robert) told of a recent trip she and a girl friend took from Guantanamo Bay, Cuba, to Jamaica. She reported it was only an hour's flight, that it was truly a beautiful place and the prices were most reasonable. (What grand way to learn geography!)

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Minnick of Union Bridge were Sunday visitors in Baltimore with her sister and family, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Fry and children, and mother, Mrs. Maurice Wilhite. Mrs. Wilhite returned home with them for a visit in Union Bridge. It is known that she would enjoy having visitors.

The highlight of the meeting of the Keysville Lutheran Church Women on Monday evening was a Surprise Baby Shower for new member Mrs. Terry Poist, sponsored by the Executive Committee. The following, "Figures Don't Lie" was taken from a letter I received from U. S. Senator J. Glenn Beall this morning. Near the close of President Eisenhower's term in the White House, it was claimed in political campaign speeches that 5,000,000 Americans were in poverty. In President Johnson's Economic Report to Congress the other day, he declared that 35,000,000 Americans were in poverty today. Could this possibly mean that since President Eisenhower left office three short years ago the number of Americans in poverty has jumped from 5 million to 35 million? Thirty-five million Americans are in poverty while the United States has spent to date $168 million to try putting some one on the moon. What a waste of money, and we wonder why we must pay tax on everything. Maybe I am wrong, but I believe that no one will live on the moon. What do you think?

In Genesis 1-14:18 we read that God said, "Let there be lights in the firmament of the Heaven to divide the day from the night; and let them be for lights in the firmament of the Heaven to give light upon the earth; and it was so. And God made two great lights; the greater light to rule the day, and the lesser light to rule the night; he made the stars also, and God set them in the firmament of the Heaven to give light upon the earth, and to rule over the day and over the night, and to divide the light from the darkness; and God saw that it was good."

If it gets bad, we will have to take it, like it or not.

At the Sign of the Smile

We're weary a-walking the highway of life, we're fretted and flurried with worry and strife, let us drop by the woady and heavy old load, and rest at the inn at the turn of the road, let us tarry a while at "the sign of the smile."

Let us tarry a while at "the sign of the smile"—forget all our griefs in the joys that beguile; let us pleasure the moon till it changes to night, then up with our loads and we'll find they are light; let us tarry a while at "the sign of the smile."

Happiness Is Many Things —by D. C. Stroud

Happiness is many things; Faith that never fails, Loyalty and trustfulness, Peace in strongest gales, Hope so constant and so sure, Truth unflinching, And the love for God and man That keeps our souls living!

THIS AND THAT

February arrived today, shrouded in fog and powdered with snow. The country-side looking gray, somber and rather depressing. However, despite the adverse weather conditions, my out-look is not altogether gloomy. It is considerably brightened by the wee feathered creatures who have gathered on my kitchen window sill this morning. The big attraction is a tray filled with tempting sunflower seed, a delicacy which certain birds just cannot resist. Even as I invite, a pert Titmouse is peering curiously in at me, his black eyes big with wonder. Pity nuthatches and Chickadees flit endlessly back and forth, with much rustling of wings and scratching of feet. Occasionally, they will cautiously peek in my kitchen window. I am very careful not to make any sudden movement and to remain partially concealed behind the curtain, for my little friends are very shy, and are easily frightened away.

Up until this time, we have referred to our place as simply "home," or "the farm," although I have always cherished a secret, yes, to give it a suitable name. A recent conversation started me thinking along this line. Some one mentioned the fact that the Scotch word for brook is "burn." As most of my readers know, I frequently mention the delightful brook which meanders through the fields and on down into the woods. Therefore, I reasoned, what nicer name than, "Wood Burn?" It is not too common-a-place, and is, I feel, most appropriate.

Last Fall, we completely re-decorated what was formerly a "catch-all-room." We removed every vestige of old wall paper, used quite a bit of patching plaster, and then painted the walls a warm Dogwood pink. The cafe' curtains are white, and I have used cheerful touches of red—a rocking chair, scatter rugs and a pencil can—which make a nice contrast. The over-all result is very gratifying, for what was once an eyesore is now a cozy reading and sewing room which the whole family enjoys.

Contact paper is the most amazing stuff! It can be applied successfully to walls as well as furniture. We covered the top of an old desk, did a waste can to match and also put a piece on the kitchen wall over the electric stove. Contact paper is easy to put on, is durable and comes in the most attractive patterns. Although it is rather expensive, it is worth every penny.

Yesterday, I wrapped and marked meat for the freezer—luscious pink pork chops, savory sausage, spare ribs and roasts. Today we started to cure the hams, shoulders and bacon. We use Morton's sugar cure, a complete ready-to-use meat cure, which gives a wonderful wood-smoke flavor. I get the feeling, now that December and January are behind us, that Spring is not too far away. I certainly hope this proves correct!

—Zola Cantwell.

THE WAY I SEE IT . . .

Observations on the World of Sports

All-American tackle Scott Appleton of Texas has struck a mighty blow for football linemen all over the country. With one stroke of the pen, Appleton has won for all linemen new respect and admiration.

If there was any lingering doubt that the musclemen of football were nothing but overworked mules with none of the glamor or fame of the backfield stars, Appleton had dispelled that notion, maybe for all time.

Appleton took his pen in hand over the past week-end and when he set it down, linemen in football had new status. Appleton also was on his way toward starting his own fortune. Appleton signed a contract with the Houston Oilers of the American Football League for $105,000, and an untold amount of fringe benefits. Under terms of the deal Appleton reportedly picked up $20,000 just for signing—a bonus for agreeing to accept $21,000 for each of the next four years. Also, the Oilers threw in a franchise for a filling station, a dealership in a new chemical fodder process, and some cattle for the Appleton ranch.

In recent years, linemen in professional football have won more and more recognition for their efforts on the gridiron. For collective mayhem, there was the big four of the Giants—Dick Modestewski, Roosevelt Grier, Andy Robustelli and Jim Kataevage. Then, there was the one-man gang, the late "Big Daddy" Lipscomb, who won fame with the Baltimore Colts. And Leo Nomellini, who used to rip up opponents for the San Francisco 49'ers. And, for terror-filled red dogging, Doug Atkins of the Chicago Bears. All have done their share to boost the status of the once-neglected linemen. And now, Appleton joins the linemen improvement society without playing even one game. In fact, he may have done more with a pen than the others have done with their muscle.

Fathers all over the country with good conscience now can show Junior how linemen take their stance, because it now pays to raise your son to be a linemen.

Nobody is making a future book on whether Paul Hornung and Alex Karras will be reinstated by the National Football League this year. But if there was a fortune in it, we imagine both men would be favored to get back into action. The decision will be made by Commissioner Pete Rozelle of the National Football League. He is the man who suspended the two stars. That was last spring. Rozelle gave Hornung a Karras an indefinite ride on the bench and threw heavy fines at certain other players. He announced at that time he would re-examine the Hornung and Karras cases in one year. That year is rapidly spinning to a close. At the NFL meetings in Miami, Rozelle announced that he would begin his reappraisal of Hornung and Karras late in February. The decision may not be forthcoming until April. The players and their respective teams, Green Bay for Hornung and Detroit for Karras, will simply have to squirm on the anxious seat until Rozelle makes up his mind. On the evidence which has been made public, Hornung and Karras would seem to be in good shape. Hornung has been a model of deportment since the suspension. Karras managed to get his foot up to his mouth a couple of times, which is what got him into trouble originally. But of late he has been discreet. Apparently he also has sold his interest in a Detroit tavern which was supposed to be a pivotal factor. There have been rumors that Hornung will be traded by the Packers if he is reinstated. Coach Vince Lombardi has issued an angry denial of those rumors. Denials have gone by the boards before. But Lombardi is still burning over the loss to the Chicago Bears of the division title last fall. And with Hornung back he would have a better chance of dethroning the Chicago team.

The Lions missed Karras also, although it is unlikely that they missed him as much as the Packers did Hornung. Alex was on the defensive team and one of the best tackles in the game and is young enough to regain top form if Rozelle reinstates him. There is no guarantee that Rozelle will. For one thing there may be factors that have developed since the suspension which were not made public. And there is always the chance that either Hornung or Karras will do something silly between now and the day of decision. But there is no question that both men want to play football this fall. And they are unlikely to do anything to hurt their cases. Therefore, that puts it up to Commissioner Rozelle, which is where we came in.

Remember When Dept. — Who was the all-time leading batter for the Baltimore Orioles in spring training? It was Don Lehhardt in 1954 with an average of .462.

Today's Sport Laugh — After the first of the year, Boston Red Soxer Dick Stuart was stopped by a traffic cop and asked why he still had 1963 license plates on his car. Stuart said, "Well, I had such a good year, I didn't want to forget it."

Acres of Diamonds

In a famous lecture, Dr. Russell H. Conwell tells of the farmer who developed such an obsession for diamonds that he finally sold his farm and went off to become a diamond hunter. A few months later the farm's new owner happened to notice a glint of something in the brook. Investigation revealed that it was a diamond. Further investigation revealed that almost every spadeful of earth on the farm contained diamonds. . . in fact this farm proved to be the site of the Golconda diamond mines, scene of the most fabulous diamond strike in history.

DALE CARNEGIE

The farmer who had gone off to look for diamonds had literally been walking on acres of diamonds all his life. Is there any connection between this true story and you? There might be. Psychologists say that the average person does not use more than ten per cent of his actual, inherited ability. The other ninety per cent is not used, and is thus wasted. Take your own case, for example. What miracles might happen in your life if you were to begin using more of your unused abilities? If you were to develop such success skills and attitudes as greater poise and self-confidence . . . more persuasive powers of speech . . . deeper insight into the problems of dealing more understandingly with others . . . stronger leadership skills . . . a trained and more dependable memory? With these new skills, might you perhaps feel that you too had been walking on acres of diamonds without realizing it? Is there a way to discover and use more of these unused abilities that can change your life? There certainly is. One man spent a lifetime pioneering simple, practical ways to help people do this very thing. His name was Dale Carnegie, and more than a million men and women are grateful to him for showing them the secrets of more successful living. In cooperation with the Westminster Junior Chamber of Commerce, we've arranged an interesting evening so that we can demonstrate and talk about Dale Carnegie's methods for the benefit of those who would like to know more. We'll also tell you about the new Westminster Dale Carnegie Class and when it starts. We'd like you to come. Bring your wife or an interested friend. There is no charge, and you won't obligate yourself in any way. And as a token of our appreciation for your attendance, you will receive a free copy of one of Dale Carnegie's famous books.

Homemakers Want To Know...

"BEAUTY CORNER" SOLVES TEEN SPACE PROBLEM

By CECE ALLISON, Scott Home Service Center

Dear Cece: Where can a girl keep frequently used grooming items like comb, brush, lipstick and powder? I share a dresser with my younger sister and there's no space for a dressing table in our room. Laura.

Dear Laura: Congratulations! In thinking about ways to organize your room you're taking a giant step forward in growing up. Since you haven't space for a dressing table why not plan a pretty "Beauty Corner" for your personal grooming. This corner can be built to fit nearly any wall space large enough for a chair. Measure the wall space available and then ask Dad if he will order a section of 3/4 inch plywood to size for you. He'll probably also be glad to help you fasten the shelf securely to the wall with shelf brackets. The Scott Home Service Center suggests covering your shelf with adhesive backed paper in marble, or if there's wall paper left over from the last time your room was decorated, match your shelf to your wall. To complete your "Beauty Corner," paper towels can be mounted in a pretty pastel colored towel holder on the side of your shelf, handy for manicures, shoe shines and other grooming uses.

Dear Cece: My daughter is 10 and I know I should talk to her about growing up. I keep putting it off because I'm afraid of becoming embarrassed and doing more harm than good. Several other mothers I know share this feeling. We'd appreciate your suggestions on how to handle this delicate situation. Mrs. J. L.

Dear Mrs. J. L.: Many mothers find it difficult to discuss personal hygiene with their daughters.

Questions and comments should be addressed to Scott Home Service Center, Room 1440, 420 Lexington Ave., New York 17, N. Y.

That's why the makers of Confidets have prepared a booklet especially for young girls and their mothers called "World of a Girl." This attractively designed pamphlet gives modern, scientific facts about menstruation in a way that is readily understandable, and at the same time interesting and helpful. I'll be happy to send you a copy. You will be interested, too, in the brand new color film, "World of a Girl." It's available free of charge to organizations for group showings. Why not check with your local PTA about presenting this film to girls in 5th through 8th grade classes.

Dear Cece: I'm so worried about my complexion. Up until this year it was close to perfect, and now it's an oily mess. I'm 14. Joan.

Dear Joan: First of all I doubt that your skin is really "a mess." A few blemishes are a temporary thing and a part of growing up. Take heart. Many of the attractive older girls you see about you had the same worries at your age. For now, you can do a lot about keeping your skin problems to a minimum. Try to keep your hands away from bumps and blemishes. Sacrifice sweet, sticky carbonated beverages, chocolate bars and potato chips in favor of three well-balanced meals. Because your skin is oily wash it several times a day with soap and warm water. Do have your own wash cloths and towels and change them frequently. Powder puffs deserve attention, too. Be sure to replace them often. If you really follow this simple program and your complexion doesn't improve, ask your mother about consulting a dermatologist.

ODDLY ENOUGH by Waldman SNOW PROBLEMS

Every heavy snowfall is accompanied by... heart attacks! Reason, say health officials, is that men not accustomed to strenuous work try removing hundreds of pounds of snow and ice from their driveways—with disastrous results. An inventor wondered, "Why shovel or plow snow when you can melt it?" Result: Snow melting systems consisting of heavy-duty butt-welded steel pipe, through which a warmed solution is kept circulating beneath driveways and even at some tollway interchanges. Snow melts before it has a chance to build up or turn to ice.

New York's bustling Port Authority Bus Terminal has steep ramps engineered for absolute winter safety. Heavy buses roll up ramps without danger of icy skids thanks to butt-welded steel pipe snow melting systems under ramp surfaces. K

Acorn squash and sausage are delightfully compatible, and this recipe for sausage-stuffed squash provides a particularly delicious way of bringing the two together. The sausage-squash stuffing is blended with double-rich evaporated milk for creaminess in the baking. It boosts the food value, too.

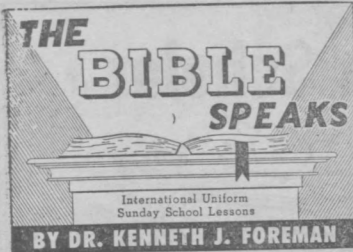

Sausage-stuffed Squash 4 medium size acorn squash 1 1/2 pounds sausage meat 1/2 cup evaporated milk 1 teaspoon salt 6 tablespoons brown sugar Wash squash and cut in half crosswise. If squash halves do not sit level, trim stem and blossom ends carefully. Place halves cut side down in a shallow baking pan. Pour in boiling water to depth of about 1/2 inch. Bake in preheated hot oven (400° F.) until tender, about 30 minutes. Remove squash from pan and set aside to cool. Meanwhile, cook sausage in a skillet until lightly browned, breaking meat into small pieces with a fork. Remove from skillet and drain on paper toweling. Pour fat from skillet. When squash is cool enough to handle, scoop pulp out of shells into skillet, saving six shells to stuff. Mash squash, then blend in evaporated milk and salt. Stir in the drained sausage. Spoon squash mixture back into the six shells. Sprinkle mixture in each squash half with 1 tablespoon brown sugar. Return to hot oven (400° F.) and bake until sugar is melted, about 15 minutes. Makes 6 servings.

Inner Circle Lesson for February 9, 1964

Background Scripture: Matthew 4:18-22; 17:1-13; Mark 3:16-17; 14:32-42; Luke 8:49-56; Acts 4:13; 12:1-3. Devotional Reading: John 21:15-22.

JESUS never played favorites in the sense of treating one or two persons more generously than he treated others. On the other hand he did not treat his men as if they were all alike, so many sticks in a row. If Jesus differed in his dealings with men it was because the men were different. As everybody knows, not all the crowds that followed him from place to place were his followers, really.

Dr. Foreman Out of those crowds there were some, perhaps many, who were real "followers," eager to learn all he taught. Out of those followers, called disciples, there was a small group, an even dozen men, who were not only disciples but apostles,— this last name being (in our Greek New Testament) the word for envoy or ambassador. Jesus not only taught these twelve men, he taught through them.

Friends all different But not even this was the inner circle. There were three men who were more intimate with Jesus, by his own choice, than any others. They were with him, by his special invitation, at the time of his transfiguration, and also in Gethsemane. They did not understand what was going on, on either occasion; but it is clear that Jesus craved their company, even if they did what we think we could never do—go to sleep. Fancy any one sleeping on the Mount of Transfiguration, or on that night when he was betrayed! Yet these men, stupid as they must have seemed to themselves when they thought about it afterwards, were the only inner circle of friends that Jesus had. No two were alike. If you had had to give those men a written examination, you might have thought Simon Peter the dullest of the lot. But wherever there was action, Peter was there. He was the kind of man who is a natural leader, the kind of man you would depend on in a fight. James is obscure, not so well known as his brother John. We do know that Jesus' nickname for James and John was Boanerges, "the thunder boys." They were the two who once wanted to burn with "fire from heaven" a whole village just because no one offered them beds.

Friends all alike In spite of the many differences between the three close friends of Jesus, they were, or came to be, strongly alike. This was undoubtedly due to their common loyalty to, and close acquaintance with, Jesus, their Master and Teacher. Jesus did not try to make them all over into one single mold. If you read, for example, the writings of Peter and of John in the New Testament, you will find that even in mature years and with long Christian lives behind them, John was still John and Simon Peter still Peter. Yet they had a common likeness to Christ. We tend to become like those we most admire.

The heart's need Peter, James and John show how it has been with Christians ever since. No two are alike; some of us are so different that we find it hard to live with the others, and they with us. Yet among true Christians everywhere there is some family likeness. A Christian always feels at home with other Christians wherever they may be. Further, now as then, some Christians are closer to Christ than others are. Shall we say that some Christians are more sympathetic with God, they have a keener feeling for what God is doing, they are more aware of his presence. Now the number of persons Jesus of Nazareth could treat as intimate friends was limited; but the Risen Christ, the "Friend Unseen," has no such limitations. Can we doubt that Christ is now still in search of friends? He needs friends—indeed in the New Testament his friends are sometimes called his "body." Without a body Christ would be a kind of unremembered ghost in this world. Why should we be content with being mere distant acquaintances of our Lord when we are invited to become his friends?

DANNY THOMAS's decision to quit his CBS show after this season is based on several big production deals he and Sheldon Leonard, his producer-partner, are lining up with NBC. One is a series of six 90-minute color specials, subjects still undetermined . . . Producer-director Barry Shear (The Lively Ones) has been negotiating with Orson Welles for Hooray for Hollywood, comedy series about a 1920's movie tycoon . . . Entire cast and crew of The Lieutenant have gone on location aboard the aircraft carrier USS Princeton to film "Green Water, Green Flag," an episode about Marine helicopter pilots . . . Lou Jacoby, Don Rickles and Pert Kelton have been signed for the leads in the Kibbee Hates Fitch comedy pilot . . . Clu Gulager, who used to be Billy the Kid in The Tall Man, plays a private eye in an upcoming Kraft Suspense Theatre episode, "The Deep End."

Danny Thomas . . . prepares specials for NBC

JESSICA TANDY makes a rare TV appearance in an upcoming Breaking Point . . . NBC Opera will present "The Secret of Suzanne" by Wolf-Ferrari on Feb. 23. The opera is described as a "three-character comic interlude." Suzanne's secret? She loves to smoke . . . An animated cartoon series based on the Marx Brothers is being prepared for syndication . . . Jacqueline Beer and Roger Smith, who were dropped from 77 Sunset Strip this year, are touring Japan to publicize the series. It's in reruns there, and they're still in the cast . . . Robert Webber and Pippa Scott (The Virginian) co-star in a fugitive episode, "The Garden House" . . . The opening Alumni Fun Show on CBS will pit the University of Wisconsin (David Susskind, Elroy Hirsch and W. Beverly Murphy) against University of the Pacific (Janet Leigh, Wayne Hardin and Richard H. Peterson) . . .

Lucille Ball . . . "Mrs." in upcoming special

THE BOB HOPE-LUCILLE BALL special, scheduled for February on CBS, will be adaptation of a play by Sherwood Schwartz titled "Mr. and Mrs." . . . Among the new series being developed by 20th Century-Fox are Valentine's Day, a comedy starring Anthony Franciosa as a young bachelor, and Three on an Island, with Julie Newmar, Pamela Tiffin and Monica Moran (Monica is Thelma Ritter's daughter) as a trio of bachelor girls . . . Another 20th pilot, Captain Ahab, will be about two old maids and a parrot, with all three roles so far not filled . . . Lee Marvin, Angie Dickinson and John Cassavetes are the stars of "Johnny North," the first two-hour telefilm being produced by Revue for NBC. It is expected that the two-hour films will be eased into one of the time spots now being filled by NBC's dwindling supply of recent movies.

Lincoln was a Scholar

The Lincoln Memorial in Washington D. C. is patterned after an ancient Greek temple. It is a fitting tribute to a great scholar because although Lincoln had little formal schooling he educated himself through constant reading. We pause today to honor this president whose great creed in life was "never stop learning." (This bank will be closed February 12th in observance of Lincoln's Birthday)
