HIGH SCHOOL HIGHLIGHTS

Business Education Week, April 5-11

Gov. Tawes has officially declared the week of April 5 to 11, 1964, as "Business Education Week" in the State of Maryland. After two years of diligent work by the executive committee of the Maryland State Chapter, the Future Business Leaders of America are very proud to achieve this honor.

In recognizing this honor, the local chapter of FBLA is planning many activities for the week. Plans include bulletin board displays, posters, special announcements in the school bulletin and features in the school and local newspapers. FBLA members will dress in a business-like manner everyday of the week, and each member will wear an identifying name tag.

As a climax to this week, approximately thirty members of the club will attend the Maryland State FBLA Convention to be held at College Park on April 10 and 11. All indications are that this convention will be the biggest in history. Taneytown is planning to enter several contests. Eileen and Irene Haycraft and Vickie Cutsall will participate in the spelling contest; Bonnie Wood, in public speaking; Frances Flohr in the Miss FBLA contest and Richard Glass in the Mr. FBLA contest.

WORLD HEALTH DAY TO BE OBSERVED HERE BY LOCAL TUBERCULOSIS ASSOCIATION

Tuesday, April 7, will be World Health Day under the auspices of the World Health Organization, an agency of the United Nations, it was announced by Dr. Phillip W. Mercer, case finding chairman of the Carroll County TB Association.

Dr. Mercer said the theme of the 1964 World Health Day will be "No Truce for Tuberculosis" and that in the cooperation with the WHO, the Carroll County TB Association will stage a number of events spotlighting the world-wide tuberculosis problem as well as the existing situation in this area. Special emphasis will be placed on the role played by TB associations in their respective communities.

"Tuberculosis has been responsible for enormous suffering down through the ages Dr. Mercer said. 'It has been an economic burden by reducing working capacity and bringing on premature death. Globally, there are between 3,000,000 and 5,000,000 deaths annually. Dr. James E. Perkins, managing director of the National Tuberculosis Association, expressed it succinctly when he said: 'As tuberculosis knows no geographic or racial boundaries, it is everyone's problem and will continue to be until the disease is eliminated. . . the battle is far from won and, until it is, there can be no truce with tuberculosis.' Robert Lee Miller is president of the Carroll County TB Association.

MEETING OF TANEYTOWN JAYCEES

The regular monthly meeting of the Taneytown Jaycees was opened with Jo Ann Dougherty, program chairman introducing Dr. Paul Koxin, local dentist who had a very interesting talk on the aspects of dental hygiene.

Following the program the meeting was called to order by president, Mary Alice Myers, with 11 members present. The secretary and treasurer's reports were read and approved.

Thelma Nussbaum reported, she and Virginia Freub had passed out tooth brushes and paste to those needing it at St. Joseph's and Charles Carroll Schools.

Chairman of the fashion show, Audrey Fair, reported the show will be held Tuesday, May 12, at 8:00 P. M. in the Taneytown H. S. Auditorium, with the theme of "Previews of Summer Fashions." Fashions for men and women both will be shown by the Town and Weikerts of Hanover. All committees were announced for this project and will appear in paper later on.

Due to the Jaycees play, Arsenic and Old Lace," on April 24 and 25 the Jaycees decided to have the next meeting one week later April 29, at which time the program will be several Jaycees telling about their profession.

Carleen Skiles and Jo Ann Dougherty were appointed co-chairmen of the project to try to form a Senior Citizens Club in Taneytown for the older women.

The meeting was adjourned and refreshments served.

CARROLL COUNTY'S MASTER PLAN VIEWED BY PUBLIC

Mr. E. Miller Richardson announced that Carroll County's proposed Master Plan presentation was viewed by over 500 persons between Monday and Saturday of last week. This, he indicated, was most gratifying to the Commission and is indicative of the interest of Carroll County citizens in obtaining the best possible development plan to cope with the County's future growth.

Mr. Richardson also stated that the series of displays were being retained intact pending viewing by several college classes early this week. After this week the Master Plan map itself will be available in the Planning Commission office for any person desirous of studying it.

It was noted that the next regular meeting of the Planning Commission on April 14 would be set aside from 2:00 to 4:00 P. M. at which time the Commission will hear any person who has comments pertaining to the Master Plan as presented.

RESERVED SEAT TICKETS GO ON SALE FOR PLAY

The Taneytown Jaycees announce that advance-sale reserved seat tickets for the play, "Arsenic and Old Lace," will go on sale Friday. The play, a three-act comedy, will be presented Friday and Saturday, April 24 and 25, in the Taneytown High School auditorium. The reserved seat chart is in the charge of Mr. A. R. Kaufman at the First National Bank, Taneytown. Tickets may be obtained there.

Since only a limited number of reserved seats will be sold, the public is advised to purchase early to get the choicest seats. Many will remember that the Minstrel last year was a complete sell-out prior to production. Phone and mail orders will be accepted through April 21.

Wayne Baumgardner, chairman and director, announces that a very fine cast has been rehearsing for more than three weeks already and he is quite enthusiastic about the production.

Proceeds of the show will be used for community-betterment projects. A fine, new Little League diamond is presently being constructed by the Jaycees with costs estimated to exceed $1,300.

The true meaning of "plenty," Within many a modern home, Is to have a little more Than what the neighbors own.

A FIGHT TO THE FINISH

Each year at this time a cruel, scowling Old Man and a pleasant, smiling Youth engage in a terrific struggle. It is a fight to the finish, and naturally the Youth is always the victor. But his victory does not come easily, for his ancient adversary is amazingly strong, and very stubborn.

Much of the Old Man's "punch" is gone, of course, but he is still capable of dealing some nasty blows, and the Youth is quick to discover. Moreover, the Old Man has gotten pretty used to having things his own way. For a long time he has held complete control, and he is reluctant to let anyone else take over. So he fights with great determination. He is crafty, too. He will pretend, very convincingly, as the fight progresses, that he is pretty well beaten, and is ready to call it quits. The Youth will then be deceived into thinking that victory is his. But his joy, very often, is of short duration. The Old Man will muster up strength and bluster from somewhere, and come back fighting again. Indeed, the Youth finds it so difficult to stand before such a fierce assailant that he is knocked down more than once. It sometimes seems as if the Old Man must win after all.

But the Youth has too much on his side. After all, he is just coming into manhood, and has hardly begun to draw on his power and strength, whereas the Old Man has exhausted his in many a bygone battle. And so it happens every year in this fight to the finish—Old Man Winter goes down for the final count, and Youthful Spring is declared the winner.

—Zola Cantwell.

"SPICE 'N' EVERYTHING NICE" (Your Chatty Column)

With all my heart, I wish you every morning a smile that shall last until the next day's dawning.
I wish you health—life's greatest wealth; I wish you always near so that I may help to cheer.
Each future day and in some way—help to bring you happiness!

A Bunch of Violets! You walk along on Howard Street and you see the Flower Man standing there with the lovely display of roses, carnations, snapdragons and a few other varieties; and at the very corner there is a little bunch of Violets looking up into your face. You lean down and the aroma is delightful and such a fresh air smell! You say to yourself, "How odd—and this day—March the 19th is her birthday!" You ask the man to wrap them and then you continue your walk down the street holding the Violets close to your heart! Your thoughts go back to all the years previous—of this favorite sister and of the many beautiful hours together and the Violets were the flowers she always loved. She was older than you by five years and she always made you think that she was your Governess. This sister—with the beautiful name of Edna. Evadne (pronounced E-vad-ne) deLeon DuBois. The name Evadne was taken from a favorite story which your Mother had read before Edna was born. Thus the name! You keep on walking and somehow you do not care to stop—in fact, you forget all about the shopping and start for home remembering all the wonderful and beautiful hours! She taught you the piano, told you the life stories of each composer which linger in your memory. She always asked you to go along to all the fine musicals that were held in Philadelphia. She would permit you in the Drawing room in your home in Philadelphia for the long hours as she practised—sometimes four hours at a time. The rolling doors were closed behind us and no one else was permitted in that room. You both shared the same bedroom and each night, she always read a chapter of the Bible to you before you would say your prayers. Then, she would explain in detail about the chapter she read.

Those days seem like yesterday to you. Somehow you recall her lovely hands gliding over the keyboard so perfectly with their posture which was always so correct as she played the beautiful Classical numbers which were your favorites! You recall the lovely parties in your home which she gave and the manner in which she taught you to aid in entertaining her friends. You remember just now that she did not like to wash the dishes after the evening meal for the big family and she offered always to dry them instead as she put it that she wanted to save her hands so as they would always appear properly groomed. She selected the books you were to read or in other words the proper subjects. You remember—oh—so many other things!

You recall another big night at midnight once yearly when all Philadelphia was in the merrymaking for New Year's Evening and at the stroke of 12, she would awaken you and place a big blanket and quilt around you, then open the window and hold you tightly while you both leaned out the window to see all the merry making down below with the shooting off of revolvers, people screaming, "Happy New Year" and the bonfires in the streets for the big celebration plus the noise of the banging of the pots and pans! And the bells!

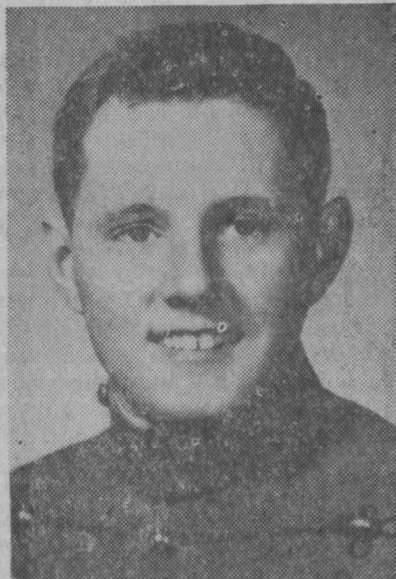

The violets, although now, are 4 days old, the aroma is still delightful and appear still fresh due to the fact that you have changed the water daily and placed the sprinkling of water upon them.

It is now just three years since she has passed on down in St. Petersburg, Florida, where her body lays in the soil which was discovered by your Ancestor—Juan Florian Ponce de Leon! Somehow you know that all her teachings were not in vain and as you close this Column you say, "Thank you God, for such a sister!"

Have a grand week-end, Folks. Love one another! Until next week D. V.

I am,
Faithfully,
YOUR OBSERVER.

"FACTS AND OPINIONS"

GARNER, IOWA, LEADER: "Civil Rights Bill: The bill that is currently being considered by our federal legislators needs a great deal of study and corrective amendment. It would be really drastic if it is passed in its present form. There is no question that the measure would grant sweeping new powers to the President and his Attorney General. This editor is of the opinion that if the bill is passed in its present form; then the people of this nation are in for some real regimentation. The bill is built around the word, 'discrimination.' The bill does not define this word, but it does define the word, 'desegregation,' at length — and, the majority of the lay people feel this is the only subject the bill deals with — but, study it over and find out just how far reaching it really is."

MARYSVILLE, CALIF., APPEAL-DEMOCRAT: "... generalizations are the stock in trade of the federal government. Treating all citizens alike sounds fine, but the same treatment is not what all citizens need... there is an assumption that anyone over 65 needs help in paying his hospital bills. Some do, some don't. But generalization is used as the basis for demanding Medicare, which would tax working people no matter how poor to pay hospital bills for the retired, no matter how rich."

WASECA, MINN., JOURNAL: "This is your year, Mr. Taxpayer. You are the forgotten man in the United States except for one year in four... Never in history have you been given a tax reduction except in election years. That has been true whether the party in power was Republican or Democratic. That is one thing in which the two parties agree — the best way to buy votes is with public money. From a party standpoint it is the cheapest way, too."

ALBANY, ORE., DEMOCRAT-HERALD: "Awarding of a license to the Pacific Northwest Power Co. to build the $257 million High Mountain Sheep dam on the Snake lower river by the Federal Power Commission is a manifestation of an attitude by the FPC that neither the federal government nor publicly-owned utilities should have monopolies on dam sites as long as taxpaying private enterprise is able and willing to develop them... Whenever a power generating project is economically feasible per se, private enterprise should be given preference in the awarding of licenses."

Foreign investment in the U. S. Chemical industry now totals more than $900 million and is increasing steadily, according to Chemical and Engineering News. The total capital investment by foreign companies in all U. S. industry at the end of 1962 was about $7.6 billion. Foreign holdings in U. S. stocks and bonds amounted to $12.6 billion, making a combined total of $20.2 billion in long term investment.

There has been a decline in union membership, according to figures from the Bureau of Labor Statistics. The survey is made every two years. Total membership in 1962 was 17,630,000, which represented a net drop of 487,000 in two years.

According to the American Medical Association, diphtheria, once one of the great killers of children, is no longer a major threat in the United States. Widespread, routine immunization has greatly reduced a highly contagious epidemic disease that once killed thousands of children each winter. However, it isn't entirely gone. There still are a few hundred cases and some deaths each year, largely in the winter. These cases almost invariably occur among those who aren't properly immunized.

Representative Bruce Alger of Texas remarks: "In a sentence I would like to say: Yes, spending can be cut if Congress will assume its constitutional responsibility to control the spending of the peoples' money instead of allowing the social planners... to take over powers not authorized in the Constitution."

THE HIGH ROAD

L.W. PRENTISS

Free Enterprise in Road Building

Although highways are public property, administered by governmental highway departments, they constitute an outstanding example of the American free enterprise system in action.

Practically all of our publicly-owned highways are built by private contractors. The results speak for themselves. Our country has the finest highways in the world and we are making them better and safer than ever.

Simply stated, construction by contract means that the lowest responsible bidder enters into an agreement with a highway department to perform specified work, under bond, in a given period of time at unit prices fixed by the contract. The contractor brings materials, equipment, labor and "know-how" to the job site and performs the work under the supervision of engineers and inspectors employed by the highway department.

Because the contractor who consistently bids low gets the most work, there is a strong incentive for contractors to constantly seek new ways to keep costs at a minimum. Competition, plus high speed, highly productive modern equipment have been major factors in keeping contractors' bid prices quite stable for the past ten years, despite general price increases throughout other sectors of the national economy.

The work of the contractor is intertwined with the activities of other highly competitive businessmen. In the highway market, materials producers must work hard to keep prices down and quality up in order to remain in business. The manufacture of equipment is another business in which success requires ingenuity, as each manufacturer attempts to turn out machines that are superior to competitive makes.

In the field of highway engineering, too, the free enterprise system plays an important role. Highway departments frequently call on private engineering organizations to design highway projects. The private engineer may be a specialist in an area in which the highway department needs special skilled assistance, or he may be called upon to "lend a hand" at times when the highway department's own engineers have a heavier workload than they can handle efficiently. Private engineers bring fresh ideas to augment those developed within the highway departments.

Literally thousands of private business organizations are active in various phases of highway construction in the United States. Although some of these businesses are quite large, most are small. In the contracting field especially, many are family businesses, operated by brothers or father-son combinations.

The brightest aspect of the picture is the fact that this free enterprise road-building system is producing quality highways at bargain prices for the highway user.

Roofs Snub High Winds

Many families on wind-swept Long Island who are accustomed to battenning down the hatches have learned that it pays to batten down the roof, too.

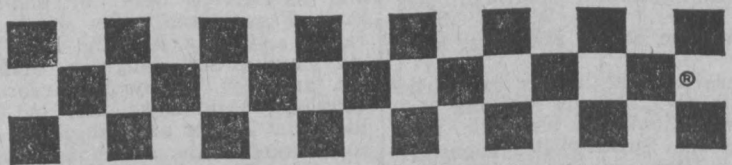

Federal Housing Administration commitments issued on new home construction during the past two years have required Long Islanders to use wind-resistant roofing. During this time, in spite of rough Nor'easters and a hurricane, the local FHA office reports, "There has been no evidence of failure of wind-resistant shingles."

By far the most popular wind-resistant roofing material used on homes in all price categories is UL-approved asphalt shingles—either self-sealing or interlocking. To conform to the FHA requirement, builders who use asphalt shingles must use only those bearing the Underwriters' Laboratories wind-resistant label.

The self-sealing variety, which has become increasingly popular in recent years, has been proved effective in severe wind-tunnel tests as well as in actual use in various parts of the country where hurricanes hit the hardest and most frequently.

Self-sealing shingles are similar to ordinary shingles except that a special adhesive is applied to them under strict factory control. Once these shingles are nailed in place, heat from the sun acts on the adhesive, bonding each layer of shingles to the one beneath.

KEYSVILLE-DETOUR

Greetings to you:

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Storey of Sykesville upon the birth of a second daughter, Sharon Elizabeth, on the 19th. Mother is the former Joan Kiser.

I understand Mrs. John Cosden, whose home is the former Naylor's Mill near Detour, has returned from her winter stay in Florida. It will be good to see her around again.

What fine turnout at Keysville Lutheran Church on Sunday. We received Communion and to witness the Confirmation of three new members: Shirley Keiholtz, Joanne Glass and Linda Schaffer, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Laverne Keiholtz, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Glass and Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Schaffer, respectively, all near Keysville.

Quote from Sunday's bulletin: "On this day of great Christian happiness, let us remember these our fellow members who are confined by illness: Mrs. Hazel Clutz, Mrs. Upton Austin, Mr. Earl Roop, Mrs. William Anders and Mrs. Maurice Wilhide."

It certainly was good to greet old friends of the congregation, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Trout and son Bob of New Windsor, after the Church Service. Other visitors were Mr. and Mrs. William Kimmel and daughter who attended with Mrs. Eugene Glass and her family of the Keysville Road.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Stonieser of Rockville were week-end visitors with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Stonieser of Keysville.

There's a nice new garage behind the home of Mr. and Mrs. "Jimmy" Groshun in Keysville.

Speaking of building, there are two new homes "dug out" in New Midway just across from the school. The well drilling rig was there last week.

Happy Birthday on Monday, the 6th of April, to Glenn Kiser of Naylor's Mill Road near Detour and my daughter, Diane, who will be all of 4 years old.

Mrs. Carroll Wilhide near Detour visited at the home of her sister and family, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Gill of White Hall, last Tuesday. She brought her mother, Mrs. Emory Yoder, who resides with the Gills, along home with her for an extended visit. Mrs. Noah Gill (mother of Walter), who lives near Reisterstown, had an operation that same day.

Betty Dean, who makes her home with the Edward Coshun family near Detour, was a week-end visitor in Annapolis, where she was maid of honor in her sister Teena's wedding.

Next — and last — Landscaping Class will be April 10 on "Shrubs." This is at the Ag Center from 1 to 3 P. M.

The Misses Jane and Beth Wilhide near Detour were luncheon guests on Saturday with Mrs. Terry Poist and family near Keysville.

Mrs. Charles (Hazel) Clutz of Keysville is still a patient at Western Maryland Hospital in Hagerstown. Though progress is quite slow, there is definite improvement, I understand. Mr. and Mrs. Gregg Kiser of Keysville Road accompanied Mr. Clutz on Monday for a visit with her.

Mrs. Warner is doing very well now and spends some time each day in her wheel chair. Isn't that remarkable?

They also visited with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Seibert and family. Brother Jim was home for Easter vacation from Frostburg College, also.

Miss Elizabeth Yoder of White Hall arrived at the Carroll Wilhide home on Saturday to visit several days. On Saturday, Mrs. Walter Gill with Linda, Joan, David and Tommy of White Hall were supper guests and wished grandmother, Mrs. Emory Yoder, a Happy Birthday for Monday the 30th. Afternoon visitors, who also came with birthday wishes, were Mrs. Clyde Wilhide, Audrey and Danny, of Keysville-Taneytown Road.

Happy Birthday supper for Mrs. Emory Yoder at the Carroll Wilhide home near Detour on Monday evening. Others present were Beth, Miss Elizabeth Yoder, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Wilhide and Susan, and Mr. and Mrs. Myron Wilhide, Denise and Renee.

Don't forget: Monday, April 13, at 8 P. M. is the P-TA meeting at Elmer A. Wolfe School and Mr. Jacob Yingling will be the speaker of the evening. There will also be nominations for officers for the coming year. Plan to attend.

Word has been received that Mrs. Harold Norcott (former Miss Margaret Wilhide of Detour) is a recent surgical patient. Her address for cards would be 206 Shady Lane, Olathe, Calif. We extend our best wishes for a rapid recovery. Mrs. Norcott's son, Steven, was recently a member of a debating competition between his school, Nordhoff High School, and several others. His school won and he was one of two who rated Superior. Can't you just imagine how proud of him his family must be?

Leaders for the evening will be Mrs. Vallie Baumgardner and Mrs. Anna Hatfield; Specials will be Mrs. Mildred Stine and Mrs. Florence Blanchfield and hostesses will be Mrs. Ruth Wilhide and Mrs. Mable Keeney and Mrs. Thelma Schaffer. The calendar says, Spring is here, but it surely don't feel like it, nor look like it with snow flakes flying around and more snow to come.

When Richest Friendships Come I've noticed this, when things go wrong, and troubles comes a-visitng it always brings a friend along.

It trouble never came to us, if grief and sorrow passed us by, if every day the sun came out, and clouds were nowhere in the sky, we'd still have neighbors I suppose, each one pursuing selfish ends, but only neighbors they would be, we'd never know them as our friends.

Out of the troubles I have had, have come my richest friendships here; kind hands have helped to bear my grief, kind words have fallen on my ear, and so I say when trouble comes, I know before the storm shall end, that I shall find my bit of care has also brought to me a friend.

(Remember)

That what you possess in the world will be found at the day of your death to belong to someone else; but what you are will be yours forever.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Dear Editor,

What about Saturday Night in your town?

Does it now fall on Friday night? Or are the pre-five-day-week Saturday Night functions divided over two nights—Friday night to howl and Saturday to shop, or vice versa?

Out Iowa-way, according to Editor Al Schaffer of the Hardin County Index, of Eldora, the merchants of Iowa Falls (largest town in Hardin County, pop. 5,565) are "taking a second look at Saturday night shopping hours" and threaten to follow the lead of smaller towns in the county—Eldora, Hampton and Webster City—and move Saturday Night forward to Friday, obviously in the hope of recapturing some of the old-time end-of-the-week excitement.

But, at the same time, down East in Colebrook, N.H., Publisher Frederick J. Harrigan of The News and Sentinel asks: "Saturday Night? Returning?" And he says: "... there apparently is a movement of consid-

THE WAY I SEE IT . . .

Observations on the World of Sports

Dick Groat, in effect, plants base hits in the Spring and they bloom in the Summer. The shortstop of the St. Louis Cardinals is a poor Spring hitter and it doesn't worry him a bit. He concentrates on getting in shape and figures base hits will come along when the regular season begins. They usually do. Last year, for instance, Groat batted .230 in Spring training, which is enough to get a rookie a one-way ticket to a way stop. But not a veteran like Groat. Once the shooting began in earnest he clubbed the ball at a .319 clip. In support of Groat's theory about his Spring training hitting, only once has he had a good Spring at the plate. That was in 1961. And he had a mediocre season, batting only .275. Dick is rated one of the very best men in the majors at playing hit-and-run. He is something close to a genius at advancing a man from first to third with a well-placed hit into right field. Groat says he makes no conscious effort to do it. He says that it is normal way of hitting. Most players try to get their hands ahead of the ball, which is in effect means to pull. Groat is not interested in that. Groat has wondered from time to time if he plays hit and run too much. But he has concluded that if he swung a bat in free-wheeling style he might hit into too many double plays. As he ruefully adds: "I don't run too well."

You might say that nobody on the New York Mets is doubting Thomas this year but they still don't know what to make of him, or at least where to play him. Manager Casey Stengel is not sure whether the husky slugger will be at third base, somewhere in the outfield or possibly at first base when the starting bell rings next month.

Frank Thomas, the sixth-ranking man among active players in home runs, will be in the Met lineup somewhere. He is far and away the top long-ball threat on a weak hitting club. Thomas, at third base, is pretty much of an exponent of the school which says field it with your chest, pounce on the ball and throw him out. That's fine if you pounce on it fast enough and the runner is slow enough. But there is a smoother way of playing the bag. Somewhere along the line Thomas forgot to learn that smoother way to field the position. He says that in his previous seasons in the majors—13 to be exact —nobody bothered about showing him how the good ones do it at third. But with the Mets this year Frank is getting instructions from two former big league stars, and he thinks he will be a better fielder, as a result.

Getting back to those home runs, Thomas has a career total of 272. That makes him sixth among active players.

The National league's home run hitters may have cheered when they heard Jim Bunning was traded from the Tigers to the Phillies this year. But Bunning is out to make their cheers turn to tears. Pitching for Detroit last year, Bunning was the gopher king of the American League. No fewer than 38 of his pitches left the premises in fair territory. Robin Roberts of the Orioles gave him a battle for awhile in the home run pitching derby but Bunning pulled away in the stretch. Jim knows what he has to do to keep the hitters from hitting the long ball on him. It's quite simple — just keep the ball low. But sometimes those low pitches get away from him and come in letter high. That's when a home run is likely to be the result. Bunning would like to pitch his way on to the National League All-Star team. He was on 6 American League All-Star squads and three of the games. Over one stretch he had eight straight no-hits innings against the National League. Jim realizes that he has a lot to learn about National League hitters but he also knows they have to learn about him. The players insist that the American League umpires are generous with strike calls on high pitches and the National League men in blue favor the low pitches. That's all right with Bunning. He is most effective when his fast ball is humming across the batter's knees.

REMEMBER WHEN DEPT.—First Little-Leaguer to make the big leagues was the pitcher for the Cincinnati Reds, Joey Jay.

TODAY'S SPORT LAUGH — Los Angeles pitcher, Bo Belinsky, is continuing his campaign to turn over a new leaf, no more partying, no more staying out late. Belinsky says he has figured out why he couldn't devote all his time to baseball. Bo explains: "I know too many people."

erable vigor on to restore Colebrook's old-time Saturday night store opening. Way we heard it, the stores in the outlying towns around us are cleaning up Saturday night, and some public action may be forthcoming before too long. Might take the form of some kind of poll at town meeting, if moderator permits."

Saturday Nights vs. Friday Night is distinctly a matter of local option, and it shouldn't be difficult to find out—via either house-to-house polling or New England town meeting—what the people want. But, whichever night wins where, another question still remains:

Can any community, in Iowa or New Hampshire or any other state, recreate in these days of ubiquitous home entertainment such as that supplied by TV, radio and the record-player, the carnival atmosphere of bygone Saturday Nights?

It would be nice. And while it would take some doing—with the outcome far from certain—it might be worth a real try . . . whether Friday or Saturday.

Sincerely,

Bob Taylor.

Good Roads Save Lives

Two jungle villages were separated by a deep ravine. Since the villagers were on friendly terms, they spanned the ravine by felling a tall tree that stood conveniently on the brink of the chasm. Since the tree was the only convenient connection between the villages, foot traffic on the tree soon flourished.

Unfortunately, it now and then happened that a villager would fall from this primitive bridge. The elders of the two villages met and discussed the tragic situation. Several life-saving precautions were adopted.

An ordinance was adopted prohibiting running across the bridge. Large signs were erected, warning travelers that the bridge was slippery when wet and narrow all the time. Because careful studies showed that many tumbles resulted from the ignorance or carelessness of the victims, the villages instituted educational programs to teach pedestrians the best ways of balancing on a log. Crossing the bridge while drunk was strictly prohibited.

All of these measures seemed to help, but people kept falling off the bridge, then one day, a clever fellow figured out a way of widening the bridge. Immediately, bridge accidents became a rarity.

The highway safety problem in this country is vastly more complicated but basically the same. We have been working very hard to improve driver performance on hazardous roads. We are just beginning to realize what dramatic reductions in accident rates are possible through the removal of the hazards.

A report of a study in progress recently published by the Bureau of Public Roads compares the accident fatality rate on 1,130 miles of Interstate System highways with the rate on parallel roads. There were 2.8 deaths per 100 million vehicle miles on the Interstate highways, 9.7 on the parallel roads. On the basis of these, and other figures, government experts predict that the completion of the 41,000-mile Interstate System will result in a saving of at least 8,000 lives per year.

This includes 6,000 lives saved each year on the Interstate System itself and 2,000 lives saved as a result of the reduction of congestion on older highways.

Of course, some accidents caused by driver error or mechanical defects in the vehicle will occur no matter how well the highway is safety-engineered. But some experts say that at least half of all traffic accidents could be avoided if we took full advantage of the proven methods of highway safety engineering.

POWDERPUFFS.

So double there's no room for another petal, so soft and fluffy they're named Powderpuffs, are the double blooms on these hollyhocks. They grow only 4 to 5 feet high; are bushy.

The hollyhocks in Grandmother's garden were tall plants which had to be staked to prevent the wind from blowing them over and breaking the stems. Most of them had single flowers widely spaced along the top portion of the stem. Even so, hollyhocks were an extremely popular garden flower.

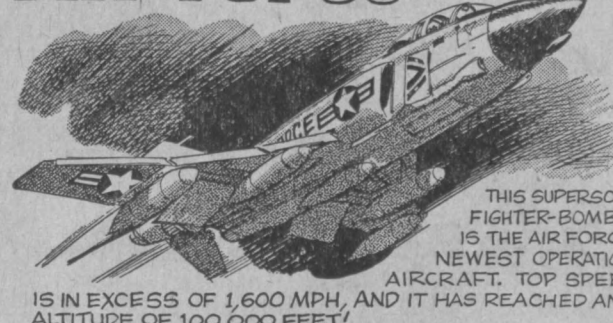

Then, somehow, hollyhocks went out of style, as flowers do. Now, however, they're having a revival of popularity. Just see, in the picture above, what the new hollyhocks have to offer your garden.

These are not tall gawky plants. They grow at most four to five feet high and are stocky or bushy in form. Their fully double, many petaled blooms measure 4 inches across and are so fluffy, so dainty, that the strain has been named Powderpuffs.

The flowers cover the top two feet of each stem and there isn't space enough between them for leaves to grow, they're that solidly packed. Their colors are enough to make a hollyhock lover drool for, although offered only in mixture, the seeds are blended from separate colors: rose, pink, lavender, scarlet, yellow and white.

Think of these beauties for a splash of color against a fence, a background for lower growing annuals, or to substitute for a shrub against a new house. They'll do any of these jobs and many more.

Star-spangled way to sweeten up your future

The old American proverb says, "Money isn't everything, but it sure helps."

And that goes double for the money you put in U.S. Savings Bonds. Because this money helps two ways.

First, it helps your future. Putting youngsters through college. Building homes and summer cottages. Buying cruises for you and the spouse. You dream it, Bonds can deliver it.

Second, it helps your country now, by making Uncle Sam a stronger influence in an unsettled world.

Your fellow Americans have tucked over 47 billion dollars into U.S. Savings Bonds. Why not join them? There's no safer investment anywhere in the world.

Quick facts about Series E Savings Bonds

- You get 3½% more money when they mature (7 years, 9 months)
- You pay no state or local tax and can defer the federal tax until the Bonds are cashed
- You can get your money when you need it
- Your Bonds are replaced free if lost, destroyed or stolen

Keep freedom in your future with U.S. SAVINGS BONDS

God's Universe

Lesson for April 5, 1964

Background Scripture: Job 38:1-11; Isaiah 40:12-26; 42:1-12.
Devotional Reading: Psalm 104:1-9.

THERE IS a distinctively Christian way of life, and of looking at life. The very world in which the Christian lives, though it may look on the surface like the world of the non-Christian, seen in depth turns out to be quite different.

First of all, the Christian faces the world about him with opened eyes. He sees literally more than meets the eye. Much of what he sees and knows is not peculiar to Dr. Foreman the Christian view, but he shares it with Jews also, just as we share with them our Bible. If it had not been for the Jews, most of the Bible would not have been written, but that's another story. The study for this week is taken from the Old Testament because there we find some of the most striking expressions of the truth: The universe around us does not own itself, it is not ours; it is God's.

God's world is planned

What does it involve to say, God is Creator? That is more than a title, though title it is. We mean more than that God is creative, we mean that God created all that exists, known to us or unknown. No space traveler ever will discover some region in unimaginable remoteness from this earth, so far away that God is not there. God is not only now everywhere in his universe, God is not only infinitely more than his universe, but there never would have been a spark of life, of existence, of anything whatever, visible or not, knowable or not, if God had not thought of it, intended it and planned it. The universe is not an accident, the universe has not existed through all eternities. It is here because God said, Let it be. How did God create the universe? When did he create it? Did it look as it now does when it was new? Did he have any help? What was his reason for making it? How is it all going to end? To only one of those questions is there any clear answer; the reader is invited to think which question it is. Perhaps true answers to such questions could not be understood because they could not be answered in human language. One thing stands clear: God is not surprised by the universe he has made, he is not frightened by it, and he will not be beaten down by it. It is his universe; it is marked, so to speak, by his fingerprints.

It is incomplete

A great American Christian thinker, Dr. Cosby Bell, once pointed out that although we can read the handwriting of the Almighty on the universe, and while it shows God's infinitely wise planning, it does not yet appear in its fullness as he plans that it shall. This earth at all events is an unfinished earth. This alone is not, however, the whole story. The universe, or the corner of it in which we live, the part of it we can do something about—this we are invited by God to help him bring toward completeness. Think, if you will, of the innumerable products—dyes, paints, foods, fabrics—made from coal tar. The Creator left it to man to bring these into existence.

God's mirror

From the way the Bible writers present God as Creator, we can know something about God from the things he has made. Consider how the prophet Isaiah speaks to the discouraged exiles. He bids them remember the Creator. They thought God had forgotten them; but no, God the Creator does not create only to forget. A child making mud pies might do that; but certainly not God. The people thought that God was unable to help them. Isaiah the prophet reminds them that nothing is too great for God's power to achieve. The people thought that blind and cruel fate, or chance had torn them from their homes and thrown them out into the cruelties of Babylon. The prophet assures them that the Creator is not one who works without plans. God who planned this universe has a place in that plan for every man—for you.

"I don't know," the driver replied. "But I must be late. Everyone else seems to be coming back."

While in the Mediterranean, the squadron's crewmembers had an opportunity to visit ports in France, Spain, Lebanon, Italy and Greece.

$27.51 FOR EACH POVERTY-STRIKEN PERSON!

The Administration has stated that the number of poverty-stricken people in the United States is 35 million. The President requested 963 million dollars to cover the cost of his "war on poverty" for the first year. That figures out to be an average of $27.51 for each poverty-stricken person. Even if the budget for the "war on poverty" were raised to the gigantic figure of $9,630,000,000 (just under 10 billion, or 10 times the amount requested), that would mean an average of only $275.10 a year for each poverty-stricken person — certainly not enough to end anyone's poverty status. The "war on poverty" is not going to be won by Government handouts. The war on poverty can be won as it has been won in the past, by the organizing genius of the free enterprise system. Under this system, our economy expands and thrives, for we use arts and science, the skills of technology, and the energies and ambitions of individual workers, to make things better for us all.

Senator Beall Reports

Wheat for Russian Munitions! — I fear the wheat-for-Russia deal will come back to haunt us—just as did the foolhardy U.S. sale of scrap iron to Japan before we were hit at Pearl Harbor—for from American wheat the Russians can produce a chemical needed in great quantities for munitions. Wheat is a weapon of war, and, thanks to our wheat deal, we are helping to arm Russia, as we helped to arm Japan. In the Farm Bill debate on the Senate floor, Senator John Tower of Texas referred to a matter which had been troubling me—the possible industrial use of the wheat which the Administration insists on sending to Russia. Senator Tower was speaking in favor of his amendment which would prohibit any agency of the U.S. Government from guaranteeing the credit of a Communist country in the purchase of American products. I voted for the Tower Amendment, and that made the eighth vote in which I opposed the wheat-for-Russia deal. The seven previous ones occurred just before Christmas when we were debating the Administration's original proposal to sell wheat to Russia. On each roll call, we were defeated by a few votes, but only because of pressure from the White House. Thanks to this pressure, after some 17 years of restrictive trade with the Communists, we find ourselves encouraging it by extending an open-end American credit card to Red Russia for the purchase of what she needs, charging her bad debts to the U.S. taxpayer.

In defense of the wheat-for-Russia deal, the Administration talks of humanitarianism and feeding the hungry. But this is just talk; the figures show something quite different. Using the Soviets' own statistics, the total grain requirements for food for the Soviet Union will be approximately 32.9 million tons for this year, which is considerably below the approximately 35.8 million tons which the Soviets say they will harvest this year from their own collective farms. In addition, the Soviets have 8 million tons of wheat in stockpile. They do not need our wheat for food purposes. Yet, Russia is buying many millions of tons of wheat. Why? Under a new process, the Soviets use eight tons of wheat to produce one ton of industrial ethyl alcohol. Munitions require ethyl alcohol in huge quantities—for TNT, propellant fuels, liquid hydrogen for rocket propulsion, mercury fulminate for the priming compound for the explosion of nitroglycerine, PETN, a detonating ingredient in fuses and hand grenades, poison gases, and—most important—atomic bombs. Thus, American wheat can be—and very likely will be—used directly for the manufacture of chemical products of major military importance.

I cannot justify the selling of wheat to Communist Russia on the grounds that our allies have done so—or will do so. If I should own a store and should have a competitor across the street who was selling switchblade knives to juveniles, I would not be justified in saying that I might as well sell switchblade knives to juveniles, for if I didn't my competitor would. Certainly, we cannot use moral suasion on our allies and tell them they should not trade with Communist countries in strategic goods if we will not refrain from doing the same thing.

I cannot conceive of anything more shortsighted as a piece of national policy than this particular type of transaction. The wheat-for-Russia deal could turn out to be one of the greatest mistakes any Administration ever made. We may have to pay a heavy price for this mistake.

Is Foreign Aid paying off anywhere?—Hatred of the United States seems to have increased everywhere in the world during the last three years—particularly in the countries we have aided most generously. Libya, with no official warning, announced last month that it would not renew treaties under which the United States maintains the biggest American air base outside the United States. Since 1951, the United States has given Libya $200,000,000 in foreign aid. Last year, three Strategic Air Command bases and one navy base were closed by the Moroccan Government, to whom we have given hundreds of millions of dollars.

That White House light bill!—If President Johnson is as far off in his estimates of the U.S. economy as he is in estimating the saving he is making on the White House light bill, the country is in for a pretty rough time. The President claims that his campaign to douse unnecessary lights in the White House cut the mansion's light bill by $2,500. As I figure it, based on the current power rate per kilowatt hour, the President would have to turn off about 2,083,333 100-watt bulbs for at least an hour to save $2,500. A "dim" view of the whole thing is that the White House is in the dark, yes—and so is the public!

TB STUDY IN CARROLL COUNTY DRAWS TO A CLOSE

The study in Carroll County of tuberculosis detection and treatment began in February of 1963 will draw to a close this May. This study was financed by a grant of $1800 from the Carroll County & Maryland State Tuberculosis Associations and carried out by the Sociology department of Western Maryland College.

The first phase of the study which consisted of interviewing all tuberculosis patients of Carroll County within a five-year span 1958-1962, led to many interesting and important results. One of these results was that relationships were found to exist among tuberculosis patients within communities in Carroll County. This fact is important to the detection of tuberculosis.

The second phase of the study will be concerned with the knowledge of tuberculosis in its various institutions of Carroll County. A community wide survey which will entail the interviewing of many people throughout Carroll County will begin April 1 and extend to April 10. Students of Western Maryland College will be doing the interviewing and will be identified by the Carroll County Tuberculosis Association Arm Bands they will be wearing.

Through such a study as this, it is hoped that the detection of tuberculosis will be improved in an effort to wipe out tuberculosis not only in our County but in Counties all over the Country.

PAPA AND THE P-T.A.

This P-TA stuff is a terrible bore. The things they do sure make me sore. It's a meeting for this and a meeting for that—

Through many long-winded speeches I've painfully sat.

It's a study group here and workshop there—

My wife's P-TA mileage leaves our tires threadbare.

Each project they have gets worse than the last

My patience and my hair are going fast!

And the schools aren't what they used to be—

They don't know how to teach, it seems to me!

The food they dish out isn't fit to eat And the teacher threatened to warm my Johnny's seat.

He's always wrong, they're always right,

Just 'cause he's normal and likes to fight!

He's really not so bad, it's plain to see, But that principal is a regular Simon Legree!

Aw, shucks! I may as well confess— The P-TA and the school got in such a mess,

They need some help, so I felt in a way It was my duty to become president of their P-TA!
