'SPICE 'N' EVERYTHING NICE' (Your Chatty Column)

With all my heart, I wish you every morning a smile that shall last until the next day's dawning. I wish you health—life's greatest wealth; I wish you always near so that I may help to cheer. Each future day and in some way—help to bring you happiness!

A special invitation was sent to Your Observer for the nice party down at Sears at North Avenue and Harford, last Tuesday evening. It was the opening of the new "Sears" and it all appeared glamorous. Never have I seen every department in any store in such immaculate order. The best punch I ever tasted was served down in the basement with other little treats and I met the Executives. Orchids were handed to all the ladies and also a big chain which was most colorful as they wear in Hawaii for the gentlemen. I talked with a Mrs. Duckett in a new department as I observed the beautiful wig she was wearing. And now Sears has a department for the fabulous W I G S. The prices range from: $69.95 to $159.95. All is positively human hair and there are 55 colors plus five styles from which to choose. You may know when coming from Sears it is bound to be right, and betcha they will top all stores as for wigs!

Hope you did not miss the grand information as to the story of The Johns Hopkins Hospital on TV. It really makes you wish that you had money to give to that wonderful world renown Institution!

Did you read in "Life" magazine as to the interview with the teen-ager in the White House—Luci Banes? She surely was most frank and now you and you can appreciate your Dad!

Now, as to the World's Fair—a neighbor spent just three days there and returned with so much enthusiasm stating she surely was going to go back again. Fall would be the ideal time as many of the buildings are not even finished. She went by chartered bus which paid for two breakfasts and the hotel room with two in a room, plus transportation for sight seeing but everything else, as to dinners or shows, the sight-seers had to foot the bill. I imagine such a trip all told would be about $60.00. The bus charges were $35.00 and I understand that it was a church group who filled the bus.

Did you know that Temperamental oysters make pearls and pearls make money for man? So man cultivates oysters! But oysters refuse to be exploited and unless man keeps their living conditions near-perfect, they retaliate, either by producing inferior stones or by dying! (Almost a human thought) Eh? Japanese pearl farmers, whose oysters produce most of the world's cultured pearls have become experts at oyster-pampering. (I know that this is due to their untold patience.) But sometimes the pampering is not enough. Masavasu Kato, United States representative for Japan's cultured pearl industry, reports that some sizes of cultured pearls will be in short supply this year after four years of unfavorable weather which lowered production. Everything possible is done to insure peace and quiet for the oyster while he works. The oyster creates a pearl by depositing nacre around a piece of polished shell placed in his flesh by the farmer! While the pearl grows—a process that takes years—the oyster is kept happy, healthy, clean and in quiet water of the proper temperature and salinity! Vitamins, complex pipe systems which keep underwater beds clean and supply food, and hospitals where the implant operation is performed are standard equipment in modern oyster farms. Despite the care oysters receive, only about 5% of the pearls harvested in typical year are good enough to be called gems. And in bad years, the crop falls off sharply as the oysters refuse to produce! Wonderful! I'll always be thinking about Mr. Oyster or Mrs. Oyster when I eat them! Poor little dears with all that feeling! And very few of us know.

Now, Mrs. Housewife — on the subject of sea-food—here is a grand help. The next time you have Shrimp in your house, don't discard the shells but place them in a saucepan and cover them with water adding a cut up onion then strain and when cool place in a jar and add to your crab soup the next time you make it. You will enjoy that one, I am sure.

Have a grand week-end and be sure to attend "Open House" on Tyson Street, Saturday, June 6, from 10:00 A. M. to 5:00 P. M. There will also be a sale of flowers right there too, and all the money will go to Cerebral Palsy Association. Hand-made dolls will be sold, too. Hope to be seeing you right there D. V.

I am,
Faithfully,

MEMORIAL DAY

Memorial Day is squarely in the American tradition. More than that, it is a reflection of the American character.

We are a sentimental people. And that, most certainly, is nothing to be ashamed of. It is a source of kindness, of consideration for others, of the compassion that distinguishes us from the lower animals.

And Memorial Day represents a special and wholly admirable form of sentiment. When we place our flowers on graves, in sadness and in pride, there is an uplifting of the spirit. We are expressing love. And we are paying tribute to the virtues and dear-ness of those who passed on before us. And, even if we do not visit a cemetery, we remember, and in that way the dead take on a form of new life.

One cannot conceive of a year in which there would be no Memorial Day. For it is the privilege of the living to honor those who are gone.

GRASS ROOTS OPINIONS

DELMAR, DEL., BI-STATE WEEKLY: "The nation has a right to ponder the fate of the leader of its largest labor union, recently convicted by a jury of trying to tamper with another jury. . . . It is difficult to believe that a majority of the million and a half members of the union can conclude that the jury which convicted Hoffa was fixed or unfair. If Hoffa has to serve his sentence, we suspect that in time the majority of Americans who make up the membership of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters will realize that they have been misled on the emotional question of loyalty and brotherhood, substituting this emotionalism for sober judgment and the good of the country and the democratic system we all enjoy."

YORK, NEBR., NEWS-TIMES: "The continuing cry for an all out war to wipe out poverty is beginning to sound more and more like a political campaign slogan. . . . The arbitrary poverty line has been drawn at $3,000 for a family of four or more. There are no doubt countless thousands doing very well on $3,000 or less, but it is obvious that the federal government is determined that these people must be informed of their 'poverty.' After all if the federal government did not wage this educational campaign to tell people how poor they are, they might go for years, earning their own way, improving their own lot in life under our free system. But now that they know how miserable they are, they can just sit back and wait for the federal government to take care of all their worldly needs."

BROWNSVILLE, PENNA., TELEGRAPH: "A midwestern man plans to ride his Hereford bull across the United States, from Fort Frances, Ont., to Galveston, Texas. He has picked a crowded year for his stunt. Many a politician is trying to do the same thing."

E. DUBUQUE, ILL., REGISTER: "The world is full of pitfalls for the man with good intentions, and many an innocent-looking trap is sprung on the unsuspecting victim. For instance recently President Johnson made the observation that he would like to see more women in government positions and he suggested that women's organizations send in the names of capable women for government jobs. Now—wouldn't you know it—the first name to arrive was that of Margaret Chase Smith—for President."

NORWALK, CONN., HOUR: "Last year the United States and most other Western countries chalked up increases in highway traffic fatalities. . . . Denmark finished 1963 with the lowest number of traffic injuries in a decade. Nor was the record achieved by reduced travel. The number of passenger vehicles has quadrupled in the same period. Denmark has become a nation on wheels. Why, then, the improved safety record? Apparently because the Danes are safety conscious. The press plays up the seriousness of accidents by splashing them across the front pages. The courts deal harshly with traffic violators, and pay particular attention to those convicted of drunken driving."

CORSICA, S. D., GLOBE: "Once upon a time there was an ant who worked hard all day in the fields. It was Summer and the ant was busy cutting grass and dragging it home. The ant had a grasshopper as a neighbor. The grasshopper lived on welfare and sat in his doorway singing all day. When Winter came the ant had a whole bale of grass. But the ant had violated the Federal Farm Law for overharvesting grass. He was fined $162.50 and the surplus was seized. The grasshopper received the surplus in exchange for his food stamps."

WEST POINT, MISS., TIMES LEADER: "Not too many years ago, we actually had integrated audiences in Mississippi — and thought nothing of it. At many white athletic events, special sections were reserved for Negro spectators. . . . and at many Negro events, special sections were reserved for white friends. We can personally recall local Negro groups presenting programs in our local Churches, and this writer has personally conducted worship services in several local Negro Churches. But today these things are not done. And we humbly suggest that Negro citizens should ask themselves, 'Why?'"

SPRING VALLEY, WISC., SUN: "Napoleon said, 'Three hostile newspapers are more to be feared than 1,000 bayonets.'"

get big litters of HUSKY PIGS

A sow is a pig factory. She has the big job of producing and nursing two litters of pigs every year. Like any other factory, she has to have raw ingredients to produce the product (pigs) and maintain the factory (her own body).

If she doesn't get proper nutrition she may actually resorb some pigs into her system, causing you to lose pigs you'll never even see; or she may farrow weak, unthrifty litters.

Purina Sow Chow has what it takes to help the sow keep up her own body, farrow big litters and have plenty of milk to start 'em right. Available as a supplement to your grain or as a complete sow ration. Ask for Purina Sow Chow at our store.

MEMORIZE!

By DICK MANSFIELD

Memorial Day promises a long holiday weekend for many and will entice extra thousands of motorists to the highways. Week-enders will be dashing off for three days of fun before they return to the old grind. Others will be taking short drives to enjoy the beautiful spring weather. Too many, warns the Maryland Traffic Safety Commission, will throw caution to the winds when it comes to traffic safety. Thinking only of the holiday, they will cut loose on already crowded highways, endangering not only their own lives but the lives of others. They will be dangerous demonstrators of the truth that "Speed Kills." Motorists adhering to the Do's and Don'ts of good safety practices can help make possible a safe and enjoyable holiday. So, Do drive within the posted speed limits—Don't follow too closely—Do obey all traffic signs—Don't drink and drive—Do display courtesy at all times—Don't drive when overly tired—Do limit number of miles you try to cover—Do give the pedestrian the right-of-way.

Let's cheat death out of this holiday and follow the above rules of the road. It will enhance your chances and prove that highway safety makes driving fun.

CURRENT EVENTS
FIFTY YEARS AGO

The corporation statement appears in another column. The public affairs of the town appear to be in excellent condition, financially.

Mrs. H. M. Clabaugh, Mr. and Mrs. Bloomer and Mrs. Lambertson and children arrived at "Antrim" last Saturday for the Summer.

Albert Ray Hahn and Grace Hahn, children of Mr. and Mrs. Newton Hahn, have the very unusual distinction of not having missed a day at school during the past two years. They are pupils of Hobson Grove school.

Edward E. Reindollar broke ground for the foundation of a new dwelling on Monday adjoining the Lutheran church. When completed it will be occupied by Dr. Charles E. Roop and family.

Remember that the speed allowed motor vehicles in towns is 12 miles an hour; on the roads adjoining towns 18 miles; and on thinly settled open roads 25 miles an hour.

About 8700 voters in Carroll County will be required to register, this year if they want to vote at the election this Fall, when a U. S. Senator and a Congressman will be chosen. There has been no state wide registration since 1896 and the registration this year is provided for by a law passed in 1910.

Memorial Day in Taneytown—Taneytown will honor the memory of the 39 soldiers who are buried in its cemeteries on Saturday evening by the usual custom of decorating the graves and by brief memorial exercises immediately after the decoration.

Keyville. . . Misses Olive Pennel, Edith and Nellie Hess; Messrs. Carroll Hess and Verl Snyder of Taneytown, were entertained on Sunday evening, at Peter Baumgardner's. . . WOOD

STRONGER THAN

STEEL?

ABSOLUTELY! A six-inch Koppers post can take a 3,000-pound blow and come back for more. Yet a 63-pound nudge will bend and ruin a standard steel post. Koppers pressure-treated posts won't rust or corrode, either. But they will resist termites, decay and acidic soil for two generations and more. Make live-stock protection a sure-thing. Saturday, May 30, this year will mark the 98th anniversary of Memorial Day. Some historians believe the idea began with three Civil War veterans who met at a Christian church in Illinois in April 1866. Gen. Logan issued an order that May 30 be set aside as Memorial Day "for the purpose of strewing with flowers the graves of comrades who died in defense of their country." So it has become an annual occasion to place flowers on loved ones graves for the past 98 years. In Carroll County May 30 also marks the time of beginning of a week, in each town in the county, and when the Carnivals are over Fall will be at our door.

KEYSVILLE-DETOUR

Greetings to you:

The two new houses being built in New Midway directly across from the school are both roof-shingled now and look very nice. They are ranch-type houses with attached garages. This little town is again dressed up for spring with so many flowers and the gardens looking so neat. Flowers everywhere now with the bold orange poppies and the dark red peonies looking their best. The white peonies are opening now also. Iris must be about at their peak judging from the garden of Mrs. William Weishaar on Forest and Stream Club Road. Truly beautiful! and such variety — (Mrs. Weishaar sells roots, in case anyone is interested).

On Monday Mrs. Carrol Wilhide took her mother-in-law, Mrs. Maurice Wilhide, home to Mr. and Mrs. Francis Fry and family in Baltimore. Mrs. Wilhide had been staying with Mr. and Mrs. Charles Minnick of Union Bridge. (Address now 3028 East Ave., Balto. 34, MD. 21234.)

Sunday visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Thomas of Hollow Rock Farm near Detour were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Weller and daughter Carolyn of New Windsor.

Happy anniversary wishes to Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Thomas of Taneytown on the 31st and Happy Birthday Wishes to Richard Bowers of the Keysville-Taneytown Rd. on the same day.

Beth Wilhide, "Libby" Coshun and "Doug" Engel were Friday evening visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Wilhide and Susan of Forest and Stream Club Road.

The Lutheran Church Men of the Union Bridge Parish held their bi-monthly meeting on Wednesday evening (the 20th) at the Union Bridge Church. Pastor Brake had the topic for the evening and showed the motion picture "The Gift." Three portions of Scripture were dramatized in this film produced by the Lutheran Layman's Movement. Donation of $20 was sent to the Lutheran Men's Association in New York. The three members who attended the State Convention in Funkstown as delegates gave their report. They were Floyd Wetzel, Charles Troxel and Charles Conover. Next meeting will be in August and be Family Night.

The Flower Committee for Keysville Lutheran Church in June will be Mrs. Cassie Wilhide, Chairman; Mrs. Frances Ridinger, Mrs. Betty Scheller, Mrs. Thelma Nusbaum and Mrs. Emma DeWitt.

Not to be outdone by younger brother Bruce, our Ellen was a victim of the three-day measles this past week-end. Just wondering when Wayne and Diane will have them also.

Mrs. Ralph Fleharty near Detour left Wednesday by bus for a visit with her other son, Ralph, and his family near Front Royal, Va.

Sunday luncheon guests with Mr. and Mrs. Richard Wilhide and Susan near Detour were her grandparents and her brother and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Keifer Seibert, Mariann and Timmy Seibert, of Clear Spring.

Mrs. William Fleharty near Detour spent a three-day week-end visiting in Washington with her sister, Carol Wolfgang, while grandmother, Mrs. Ralph Fleharty, kept house for the family. On Saturday evening they were "treated" to supper at "Gusti's" (an Italian restaurant) by William Burr and on Sunday evening they were guests of his mother, Mrs. William N. Burr of The Chesapeake Apartments for supper. Very fine week-end indeed, which also included some shopping at the Wheaton Shopping Center. (It is amazing how the area has changed in the six years since we Fleharty's moved to Detour.)

Sunday visitors at the William Weishaar home near Detour were Mr. and Mrs. Paul Wildisan and Kevin of Westminster, Mr. and Mrs. Larry Weishaar near Taneytown and Mr. and Mrs. James Weishaar and Bobby of Detour. Supper guests were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Rinehart and Mrs. Helen Wayson of Reisterstown. Mr. Rinehart is Mrs. Weishaar's uncle.

Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Wilhide, Jane and Beth near Detour visited on Sunday afternoon with his sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Durbow of Gettysburg. Certainly glad to hear that Mr. Durbow is coming along very well after his recent hospital siege.

Keysville Lutheran Church Women will meet on Monday, June 1, at 8 P. M. with Mrs. Kathryn Coshun and Mrs. Mae Baumgardner as leaders. Specials will be Mrs. Ruth Wilhide and Mrs. Marian Coshun and the hostesses for the evening will be Mrs. Helen Dougherty, Mrs. Florence Blanchfield and Mrs. Anna Haifleigh.

Memorial Day week-end will be up on us when you receive this paper so I'd like to wish each of you a safe and happy holiday. If you travel during the week-end, do take extra special care for long vacation week-ends always seem to end with a large number of deaths due to traffic accidents.

Drove through New Midway this morning (Tuesday) and in one of the yards were the most gorgeous deep red poppies. Do believe I've heard of red ones before, but this is the first I remember seeing them. They were really lovely and the shade of red was so vibrant. Have you noticed how beautiful the hybrid rhododendrons is this spring?

—Dharlys Fleharty.

KEYSVILLE-DETOUR Homemakers Club

There were twenty-three members and seven guests present at the May meeting of the Keysville-DeTour Homemakers Club, the 20th, at the home of Mrs. Merle Eckard near Taneytown.

Clothing Leaders Mrs. Mark Sanders and Mrs. Louis Keepers presented two demonstrations because one had been postponed previously due to illness. "Selecting Stylish and Becoming Clothes" told that "beauty is in the eye of the beholder." When a group of women get together, what is noticed is the difference in size and shape of their figures. One should study oneself in a mirror and decide on ones good points and then learn to "highlight" them by selecting clothes with lines and colors and made of fabrics that will flatter the individual figure. Various figure types and styles that would be most flattering to them were then given. A good point to remember is that posture does improve appearance.

"Foundation Garments and You" was the second demonstration. Again the type of figure determines what is correct to wear. Important to remember is: 1, correct fit most important, regardless of size 2, they should never feel constricting; if necessary to "tug and pull" garment is not correct size, 3, foundation garments are not supposed to take off the figure, and 4, none of them can perform miracles. Tips on care of foundation garments are to put on gently, alternate wearing, never use pins, launder often being sure to follow label instructions and always hang girdle by the supporters.

President Mary Ausherman conducted the business meeting with discussion on giving to charitable organizations. This is not to be given from the club treasury as Homemakers clubs are educational groups, not money-making organizations. If a club wishes to make a donation, it must be a free-will offering taken from each member. A motion was made and seconded to send $1.00 for the Special Garden Fund being set up by the Carroll County Council of Homemakers for the garden at the Ag Center. Request was again made for help and donations to the County 4-H Fair to be held in July with Homemakers giving on Tuesday, July 14. A list was prepared and will be sent. The June meeting was moved ahead one week so that Mrs. David Watkins, who won the free scholarship to Short Course, will have returned and can give a report. Date will be June 24 at the home of Mrs. Maynard Ausherman.

This poem was sent to me by a very dear lady from the Methodist Home in Baltimore: Mrs. Grace V. Smith, a cousin. I liked it so much I thought it worth-while passing on.

(Help Wanted)

While looking through the paper, just the other day, I turned to the Want-Ad section to see what it would say.

My! but there was a list as long as it could be, surely, there's a job for me — I'll just look and see.

I found the section, "Men Wanted!" At least that's what it said, and so I started reading — from top to bottom I read. There were auto mechanics wanted, and carpenters needed, too and men to sell, gas tanks to fill, and electrical jobs to do.

A plumber to fix pipes and a gardener to pull up weeds, but not a job was there for me — even among such needs.

I read each ad with care—the ones I thought I'd try, but at the end it always said, "experienced only need apply."

My heart was so discouraged as I laid the paper down, for in a list as long as this, not a thing for me I'd found.

There was a large variety of jobs, both old and new, but none that would take me as I was, and teach me what to do.

I picked up my Bible then to see what it would say; and see if there was comfort in its words for me today. The words I read were, "Follow Me," and a fisherman be, it said, everything to be supplied, even the daily bread.

Watchmen, too, were listed and builders were in demand — none to be rejected; all could lend a hand! My eyes began to open and I knew right then and there, that now, concerned with what I'd learned that I would fit somewhere.

For some were needed for breaking ground, and some to sow the seed, while some were needed to water, and there was a harvest mentioned, and the laborers were too few. So I stopped and said to my Lord, "what will you have me to do?"

Not knowing where I'd fit the best, or how I'd qualify, it seemed the only important thing was saying, "there am I." His answer came, "start moving and follow me day by day. Your teacher, the Holy Spirit, will lead you in the way.

Obedience is the requirement for every job, you see, and what I need is laborers," for that he could use even me — John 3:16.

SOCIAL SECURITY BENEFITS

In order to receive social security payments as soon as possible after retirement, you should get in touch with your social security office well ahead of the time you retire to find out what proofs, if any, you will have to supply before a benefit can be paid.

According to R. W. Hughes, social security district manager in Baltimore, this knowledge is especially important for the person planning to retire since social security payments may represent the largest portion of his retirement income.

Ordinarily, he said, it's a matter of bringing in your social security card; proof of your age, such as a birth or baptismal certificate or some other government or business document showing your date of birth or age; and a copy of your last Form W-2 (Withholding Tax Statement) is sufficient. If you are self-employed, a copy of your self-employment tax return for last year and your cancelled check or receipt to show that the tax return was made is also needed.

Proof of age is also required for your wife if she is age 62 or over, for your children under 18, and for any disabled child who was continuously disabled since before reaching age 18.

Mr. Hughes emphasized that no one should delay applying for benefits because he does not have the proofs readily available. If you have difficulty in locating any needed proof, your social security office will suggest the sources available for obtaining other acceptable proofs.

THE WAY I SEE IT . . .

Observations on the World of Sports

A key man in the pennant hopes of the Cincinnati Reds this year is right-handed pitcher, Jim Maloney, a 23-year old from Fresno, California. Around the National League, they call him the right-handed Sam Koutfax. That's quite a compliment, but there is good reason for the comparison. Maloney came close to matching Koutfax's won and lost record last year. He fell only two games shy in the won column, winding up with 23 victories and seven losses. Also Maloney came closer than anyone else in the league to catching the Dodger lefty in the strikeout department. Koufax led the league with 306, and Maloney was second with 265. That figure, incidentally, was the highest ever accomplished by any Cincinnati pitcher. Maloney has started off very well this season. He claims the strikeouts are not as important to him as the victories. He says he is beginning to realize there are easier ways to get men out than by striking them out. He believes pitchers who let the fielders do some of the work, have a tendency to stray from one particular game. One of the high points in Maloney's career took place last year when he struck out 16 batters in one game against the Milwaukee Braves. In fact, he tied a National League record in the game by striking out 23 straight batters. However, he threw so many pitches getting those 16 strikeouts, he tired himself to the point where he could not finish the game. To many a pitcher, strikeouts are butter for the bread, the way home runs are for hitters. It gives them something concrete to point to when it's time to negotiate for a new contract. But an exceptionally good won and lost record is even better. That's why Maloney says he would like to better Koufax's figure of last year. Not the strike out record, but the total of 25 victories.

When Ed Lopat earned his living as a pitcher in the American League he was known by the nickname of "Steady Eddie." He was as cool as a cucumber on the mound. Now, that Lopat is managing in the Big leagues, he is no different. He's as calm and steady as ever. This, despite the fact that he is managing the sometimes exasperating Kansas City Athletics, which would give him a ready made excuse to fly into orbit now and then. It's very apparent that Lopat knows the value of the easy does it approach to life. If he succeeds in his attempt to pass on the philosophy to one of his young pitchers, he may wind up with a pretty solid major league hurler. The pitcher in question is John O'Donoghue, a six-ft. three left-hander who was born and raised in Kansas City. The youngster was up for a brief trial with the Athletics last year. And, even though he lost his only start, he impressed the Kansas City brass enough to warrant another crack at the big time this season. Lopat decided to try him as a starter. But, there was trouble. O'Donoghue was plagued by nervousness. Big league jitters are to be expected from newcomers, but, Lopat saw that the young southpaw was so troubled by the thought of starting in the big time, he was losing his effectiveness. All of Lopat's soothing philosophy didn't help. Then, Lopat decided to try something he has seen work before. He sent O'Donoghue to the bullpen, and made a reliever out of him. Little by little, Lopat noted an easing in O'Donoghue's jitters. Then, in a recent game, O'Donoghue was pitching in relief against the Minnesota Twins. He had to face Jimmie Hall with two men on base. And, sure enough, Hall belted the ball out of sight. Lopat looked at the young pitcher, and saw that he was taking the home run in stride. There was no falling apart. O'Donoghue kept his composure and pitched 3 innings of shutout ball. That clinched it. Four days later, Lopat gave O'Donoghue a starting chance, and the youngster came through with his first victory. The big lefty never may be as cool a customer as Lopat, but the easy does it manager may have helped him so he'll never be as shaky again.

There is a line in the history books which says, "I'd rather be right than president." Willie Mays is likely to rewrite that this year to something like this: "I'd rather be right than a .400 hitter." Quite obviously Willie would have a better chance of reaching the shining .400 goal if he were a left-handed hitter. Also quite obviously there is no chance of Willie becoming a left-handed hitter overnight. He is a right-handed batter and that he will remain. Any close observer of baseball could give you two reasons for very quickly why a left-handed hitter has a better chance of reaching .400 for a full season than a right-handed batter. Number one, he is closer to first base by a full stride and over the course of the season will get a certain number of leg hits. And, number two, there are more right-handed pitchers than southpaws and a left hander therefore should have a better break than a right-handed batter. It is significant that the last two men in the majors to hit .400 were left-handed batters. Ted Williams of the Red Sox was the last to do so, reaching a .406 average in 1941. And before that it was Bill Terry of the New York Giants, who posted a .401 mark in 1930. Ty Cobb batted .400 or better three times and also was a left-handed batter.

Getting back to Mays, the tremendous start he has made will give him some kind of a chance of reaching .400. For one thing, a base hit in May counts as much in the averages as one in September. And for another thing, Mays now has impetus. If he doesn't plunge headlong into a slump, he is going to have a big psychological edge on the National League pitchers. The San Francisco ace may have to clear one other hazard. In recent years he has been a sufferer on a couple of occasions from late-season fatigue. The 162 game schedule may be responsible for that and so may pennant pressure. If Willie is to have a crack at the fabled .400 mark he may need a rest now and then, especially in the last two months of the campaign.

Remember When Dept. — last week we asked you to watch both leagues carefully, because we are going to ask you to vote for the All-Star lineup and the starting pitchers. The voting will start in June. Time announced later.

Today's Sport Laugh — Stan Musial was speaking to a group of rookies and was explaining his wiggling, hip swinging batting stance. Musial explained: "I'm really the one who invented the twist, but Chubby Checker got all the money for it."

MEETING OF GARDEN CLUB

The May meeting of the Silver Fancy Garden Club was held at the home of Mrs. Robert Clingan, Taneytown, Md., last Thursday with 14 members present. Mrs. Andrew Eyster, President, conducted the business meeting. Various committee chairmen presented their reports. Mrs. Vernon Keilholtz brought a very lovely arrangement of blue iris for comments by the club members. Tea was served by the hostesses. The next meeting will be held June 18th at the home of Mrs. Thomas J. Frailey, Emmitsburg, Md., with Miss Liza Carpenter and Mrs. Elwood Baumgardner as co-hostesses.

A Pen Stroke Made the Difference

Symbolic of barriers between nations is the wall across Berlin, part of the iron curtain that stretches for 2,000 barbed wire miles between East and West (from the Baltic Sea on the north to the Black Sea on the south).

Canada-United States Goodwill Week, April 26-May 2, marks the 147th anniversary of the Rush-Bagot Agreement—a simple guarantee of peaceful commerce between two nations, cancellable by either one on thirty days written notice.

In dramatic contrast: the Canada-U.S. border. Of it, President Lyndon Johnson said, "On that border we have no soldiers. We have no weapons. We have only long and enduring friends." Thirty-three Kiwanis Peace Markers stand along this border—the only sentinels for 3,000 miles. Truly, a pen stroke made the difference.

BIRD WATCHING AT OCEAN CITY

For quite some time now, I have enjoyed bird watching, but sort of "on my own," and in a rather amateur kind of way. However, now that I have officially become a member of the Maryland Ornithological Society, birding has taken on new dimensions. The M. O. S. has chapters in every county in Maryland, with the exception of Carroll. Ours is the Soldier's Delight Chapter, of Baltimore County, which each May takes the bird-count here, in the vicinity of Karp Mill Road.

When I received a cordial invitation to attend the Society's 17th annual convention from May 8 to 10, at Ocean City, I eagerly accepted. So often I had heard glowing accounts of this affair from other bird watchers. Now, finally, I could experience it for myself.

The trip down was a leisurely affair, for occasionally we stopped to take in some way-side watching. Along the Ritchie Highway, we saw an unforgettable sight — hundreds of Cliff Swallows swooping around a high cliff, which was dotted with their hole-like nests. Cliff Swallows do not have the noticeably forked tail of the familiar Barn Swallow, nor do they have the same coloring and markings. At another pleasant spot, where we stopped for refreshments, we spied a Summer Tanager and his mate. This bird is red all over lacking the black wings and tail of the Scarlet Tanagers. The female is a lovely shade of yellow. Here, too, we glimpsed a Brown Creeper and also a Rose-breasted Grosbeak.

Truly, the state of Maryland is "America in Miniature." It embodies every type of geographical condition, from the rugged mountains of the far Western Counties to the flat, sandy country of the Eastern Shore. Everywhere tractors were out in full force, as farmers raced to get the field work done. Judging from the clouds of dust blowing from some plowed fields, some rain was needed in this section. The tide-water counties go in for truck farming on a large scale and huge quantities of watermelons, cantaloupes, spinach, cucumbers, beans, tomatoes and corn are raised. Tobacco is another big crop in this area, and we passed quite a few tobacco barns. Incidentally, the Free State is one of the leading producers of this controversial crop. We saw few dairy farms, but passed one large chicken farm after another. Many of the trees were lovely, but we noticed that some of the Pines were stunted and dwarfed. Holly trees are everywhere.

The Bay Bridge, a graceful structure, seems to climb right into the sky. It spans the sparkling Chesapeake Bay, on which we saw several boats. The bridge is very convenient and is a far cry from the old ferry boat system. However it is rather narrow, and at times the traffic becomes quite congested.

It was late on Friday afternoon when we pulled up at Mrs. Wyatt's establishment, on the outskirts of Ocean City. Here we had engaged a cozy little cottage, with cooking privileges and a home-like atmosphere. After storing our gear, we proceeded to the Hotel Hastings-Miramar, on the boardwalk. Here we registered and signed up for field trips.

Ocean City and the outlying areas is a real paradise for birds of all descriptions. Here there is everything to attract them — salt water, inlets, marshes, sand dunes, beachy swamps, forests, creeks and coastal thickets. The whole place teems with bird-life. We saw and identified Herring Gulls, Laughing Gulls, Common Terns, Willets, Black Skimmers, Cormorants, Plovers, Yellow-legs, Egrets and Ruddy Turnstones. All of these were a real novelty to me. The rest of our party had been here before.

At 7:15 A. M. on Saturday morning, we drove out to the Assawoman Recreation Area, in near-by Delaware. This place abounds in tall pine trees, and in numerous bogs and swamps. Here we saw the Blackburnian Warbler, the Red-start, the Pine Warbler, several yellow-throats, the Magnolia Warbler, a Green Heron, and many, many more, too numerous to mention here.

After lunch, we visited the Pocomoke State Forest, where we saw a Prothonotary Warbler as well as a Cape May Warbler. For the novice, these tiny, butterfly-like birds are very difficult to pick out, as they fly high up in the tall trees. Too many people, they are the most exciting of all birds. They migrate in May, in great waves, enroute to Canada.

On Saturday night, we attended the business meeting at the Hotel. Each chapter gave a summary of the years activities. These were both interesting and humorous. After a night stroll along the boardwalk, we turned in. Bright and early on Sunday morning, we enjoyed some more birding, after which we watched the bird banding. Nets are put up, and as the birds are caught, they are measured, banded and then turned loose. We saw a Parula Warbler and a Black Throated Green, both truly lovely little things. After a pleasant interlude at Rehoboth Beach, in Delaware, we proceeded on home.

I learned a great deal about birds on this trip, and hope to be able to enjoy it again next year.

Nationalism

Lesson for May 31, 1964

Background Scripture: Isaiah 10:5-11, 20; 31:1; Amos 1 and 2; Acts 17:22-31.
Devotional Reading: Acts 17:22-31.

AS OF October 25, 1962, there were 110 nations in the United Nations Organization. (How many can you name?) Nations are there which did not exist when World War II ended. Nations are there whose very territory was marked on maps UN- KNOWN or UN- EXPLORED just a few generations ago, when the writer's father was a boy. People all over the world who never gave much thought to

Dr. Foreman it before, now want to belong to a nation, able to take its place, perhaps a small place but a real one all the same, among the nations of the world. Great nations that used to take themselves more or less for granted, now are keenly aware of their role in the world of nations.

The good in nationalism

Nationalism is a state of mind. It is no more visible than the "Spirit of Old Siwash" on the college campus; yet as with the college, so with the nation; the kind of spirit it is, the kind of national outlook and inlook that prevails, determines what Siwash College or the nation itself shall be. Like all states of mind, nationalism is not just one thing but a combination of things. At base it is patriotism, the love of one's own country, a wish to work for its welfare; it is pride in the achievements of the pioneers, a sense of the living reality of the history of the nation; it can be a sense of national ideals, an "image" of what one's country wants to be; an awareness of her resources, a sympathy with one's fellow-citizens, a proud and happy sense of belonging.

The bad in nationalism

Like all good things, nationalism can be spoiled. It is like family feeling in some respects. It is good to be pleased with one's family, even to be proud of it and to uphold its standards; but the very words "family pride" have a bad sound, because in practice it means, too often, nothing but snobbishness, family conceit. So nationalism can degenerate. It can take the form of bragging. American tourists are in many places unpopular. They go to poorer countries and keep complaining all the time about the food and the language and the people; they never see anything abroad without telling you how much better they do or make things back in good old Siwash, U.S.A. They are like rich people going on a trip through the slums and making loud unfunny remarks about the way the people in the slums live. But when a slum clearance program comes up, these same people don't want any part of it. They are willing to tour around and make fun of the way those who are miserable have to live; but they aren't on hand to help when something is being done to make the slum more livable. Likewise nationalism can easily become simple conceit, unwillingness to co-operate in progress.

"Man's other religion"

Nationalism has been called "man's other religion." This is the greatest danger in it; no imaginary danger, as history plainly shows. Nationalism becomes a religion when the citizens think of their nation as beyond criticism; when devotion to it becomes fanaticism; when many forms of anti-social behavior are tolerated in society sooner than brave and intelligent criticism of elements in national life that call for criticism. It becomes a religion when its commands are taken to be the highest authority on earth.

The prophets of the Old Testament had a good deal to say about nationalism. They were not heeded. It might be truly said that the Hebrew nation perished of repeated attacks of nationalism. One thing, however, the prophets made perfectly clear: God has no pet nations. Some nations acknowledge him, some pretend to honor him, some perhaps really do. But every nation is "under God." What will be his verdict on us?

MORE EXAMPLES OF WASTE

The Administration has authorized the expenditure of $61,985 to study colonies of baboons, $21,000 to probe into the mating calls of the Central American toad, and $29,500 to investigate the flora and fauna of Guatemala. And during the time the Government was selling 316 30-kilowatt generators, in "good or excellent" condition, at $150 each, it was buying the same number of 45-kilowatt generators at $4,879 each, according to a report of the General Accounting Office.

INSULT TO PROUD AMERICANS

The whirlwind trip ended, the dust settled and the enterprising Americans of 10 great States began to realize that they had been insulted. The 2-day Appalachia "inspection" trip of the Chief Executive, covering 10 "poverty-ridden" States with 10 prepared speeches and precious little inspection, gave to the world a picture of degradation and poverty. — and the proud people of those 10 States resent the insult. The citizens of these great commonwealths, numbering among them some of the original 13 States of the Union, do not want to be put in a class with seekers after handouts. These States have their problems, to be sure. But then, what State in the Union is without special problems? The 10 Appalachia States are self-reliant States. The people of these States and the communities within them that have economic problems are much more eager to get new private investment than they are to be recipients of handouts; they know that the economic strength of our great people has come from private enterprise and individual initiative, not from handouts.

To picture the people of these 10 great States as poverty-ridden and crying for outside aid is ridiculous. As a matter of fact, some of them are the richest, most prosperous States in this rich and prosperous Nation. Four — Maryland, Penna., Ohio and Virginia — are among the 19 more prosperous States which are paying more than their share of the cost of the Federal Government. To picture any of these four States — or any of the others, for that matter — as a State with an upturned, extended palm is to libel that State. Every one of the 10 States has excellent prospects for the future. With open space, abundant water supply, reasonable electric power rates, a willing and energetic population, these States stand to obtain a big measure of prosperity in the years ahead. There are problems, yes, but these problems can be solved in a variety of ways related to American private initiative. For a starter, how about the movement of people to centers of industrial employment, the promotion of the valuable tourist industry in scenic regions, the development of the winter sports business in the mountains, and numerous other private-initiative activities? American people have imagination, ingenuity and capability. They stand ready to solve their problems without taking handouts.

The Federal Government's role should be that of coordinator — and this is what I sought when I first took the Appalachia problem to President Kennedy.

U. S. Senator J. Glenn Beall

She is capable of launching both jet and propeller driven aircraft off her four acre flight deck, and operating independent of supply support for extended periods.

While in the Mediterranean, her crewmembers are scheduled to visit ports in Turkey, Italy and France.
