SMALL CITIES ABANDONING PARKING METERS, AAA NOTES

BALTIMORE - Competition from all-purpose shopping centers with free and unlimited parking is lead-ing a number of smaller towns to abandon parking meters, Executive Vice-President Harry E. Uhler of the AAA Automobile Club of Maryland

He cited a survey by the American Municipal Association which showed 49 cities in 20 states removing more than 19,000 meters since 1959. About three-fourths of them were taken from on-street positions in business districts, 15 per cent from off-street municipal lots and the rest from onstreet spots out of the business dis-

The survey cited the "increased competition between older downtown business districts and the outlying shopping center." It also noted that mass transit's decline in smaller cities has taken away some steady downtown customers who now drive. It also noted: "Older downtown business districts, particularly in smaller communities, should face up to the advantages of their new com-

BLOOD TYPING PROGRAM

Recently a committee of interested citizens of Silver Run-Union Mills conducted a Walking Blood Bank Program at the Charles Carroll Elementary School. This program was to supply the Gettysburg and Carroll County General Hospitals with a list of walking blood donors. The program was highly successful. As a result, both hospitals have an additional list of 80 donors. In the case of Carroll County General Hospital, this is the first list of its kind that they have been able to get. Three contact people have been designated in the

It has been very gratifying to date to know that donors have been supplied to the Carroll County General Hospital in americancy cases. In one Hospital in emergency cases. ### VIEW FROM MY KITCHEN WINDOW

It is a cool, cloudy, July day, and while the automatic washer hums merrily along and with my cat, Puff, beside me, I am enjoying a "kitchen window view." Actually, it seems almost strange not to see the sun shining brightly. For weeks, Carroll County has baked and parched under alcolders while streams dried. cloudless skies, while streams dried up and crops suffered severely. Then, just as this section was declared a drought disaster area, the blessed rain finally came. Water, even more than food, is the most vital necessity for man-kind. Perhaps our great need for it goes far back into the mists of time when scientists tell us, human life sprang from the sea. Just imagine what a barren, sterile place this earth would be if no rain ever fell!

All of the growing things have re-ceived a real shot-in-the-arm, and the country-side looks revived and fresh-ened. Weeks ago, I planted Zinnias, Aster, and Marigold seeds in a round flower bed, right outside the kitchen window. Most of them came up, but for awhile the plants looked so wilted and stunted that I despaired of them ever amounting to anything. This morning, however, they look healthy and green and appear to have grown inches over night. The sere brown pastures, too, are touched with new green grass—short, but nevertheless, green.

Even the birds and animals seem refreshed by the showers. A barn swallow swoops gracefully over the field, in a never-ending quest for in-sects, and down on the fence, a Kingbird is engaged in the same occupation. A Blue Jay and a Blue Bird both perch briefly on a branch of the South Carolina Poplar and then dart away, the Blue Jay sevening scientific and the sevening scienti Carolina Poplar and then dart away, the Blue Jay screaming noisily. A little brown rabbit leisurely nibbles at some grass and then, mindful of the many dangers lurking all around, hops swiftly down towards the woods and the safety of his bramble thicket. And so goes the view from my kitchen winday. It is always interkitchen window. It is always interesting, always stimulating and never fails to brighten my day.

INTERIM ZONING ORDINANCE

On Friday of last week the County Commissioners of Carroll County announced that the Interim Zoning Ordinance will be extended for an additional year. This, according to Board President Horace S. Brauning, is being done upon recommendation of the County's Planning Commission which is currently studying the provisions of a more comprehensive mea-sure including zoning maps. The expiration of the existing ordinance will

The County Planning Commission indicated in its recommendation for extension of the Interim Ordinance that any haste to effect a comprehensive zoning ordinance just to meet the deadline of expiration of the interim measure would not be in the best in-terests of Carroll County. It was sug-gested that an additional year was considered adequate for the remain-ing study and mapping necessary on comprehensive measure.

The Planning Program has made tremendous studies since its start, according to Mr. Brauning. A County Master Plan for roads, water and sewerage, and land use has been adopted. Regulations for subdivision of land have, in the first year, saved considerable money to the county from the standpoint of street requirements alone, and at the same time there has been some added protection to prop-erty owners from the interim zoning measure during the past three years.
Copies of the proposed interim zoning ordinance may be secured from the County Commissioners Office along with two minor amendments being made in the existing ordinance on side lines and abandonment of certain uses. A hearing has been scheduled on August 17th at 1:30 P. M. at which time any comments on the proposed extension will be heard by the County Commissioners.

facilities and is one of the most southern of the nation's ski resorts. Oldest traces of man in the New World were found in a cave on the side of this mountain. "Sandia Man" was judged to be 25,000 years old.

"SPICE 'N' EVERYTHING NICE" (Your Chatty Column)

With all my heart, I wish you every morning A smile that shall last until the next day's dawning.

I wish you health—life's greatest wealth;
I wish you always near so that I may help to cheer
Each future day and in some way—help to bring you nappiness!

Whatever you do—don't miss "The Chalk Garden" at the Mayfair which was based on the same title as the stage play. The acting is superb of Deborah Kerr (pronounced Car), Haley Mills and John Mills. The story is of a young girl named Laurel who lives with her grandmother, an English lady in the confines of her garden walls in a lovely home in the South of England, close by the chalk cliffs of Dover (of which we have read so much about). To put it bluntly that grandaughter is spoilt rotten by that grandaughter is spoilt rotten—there is no other word for it and to top it off she seems to detest every human being in close touch with her! human being in close touch with her! Each Governess who is engaged does not remain in the household very long of Mrs. St. Maugham until the last Governess, Miss Madrigal (Miss Kerr) comes along in answer to the ad. This Governess has a way with her perhaps through so little love in her own previous life that she seems to understand Laurel and realizes she is suffering from lack of love. I will leave the story rest right there, as a few surprises await you, but never have I seen any finer acting for it brought back the days of Ethel Barhave I seen any finer acting for it brought back the days of Ethel Barrymore. Again, I write, don't miss it! As for Jack Lemmon in "Good Neighbor, Sam"—well that crowded audience was truly in stitches for it is a different type of Comedy than you and you have ever seen before. It is at the New Theatre on Lexington St., and the air-conditioning was on in full, due to the hot day. So many took advantage of that as the many took advantage of that) as the day in the Mayfair. Both pictures are techni-colored and beautiful.

The story of this Sam is just different as I stated in the above paragraph. Jack Lemmon and Dorothy Provine are a young and very happily married couple living in the suburbs. He realizes after six years he should have a raise in salary as he is a good worker and a good family man with excellent business ideas. Then comes the news that he has a chance to hanthe news that he has a chance to handle the advertising account of Edward G. Robinson, big dairyman. Then the close friend of his wife who is just divorced and lives next door finds that she is to be left $15,000,000 from her grandfather but to get it she must be married! The lawyers of the estate will be arriving that afof the estate will be arriving that af-ternoon and this divorcee who is a swell looker and quite shapely asks her best friend to loan Jack to her just for the appearances for one night only! Sam surely did prove to be the "Good Neighbor" in such a crissis and the audience really screams with delight and you can imagine the with delight and you can imagine the rest with that comedian, Jack Lem-mon. Nuff sed!

Thinking of a man named, Sam. There is one down at the Lexington Market Garage. Don't ever think that another cannot matter how good you are, for the next. person might be like that saying, "Just a little bit better!" And he is it! He makes an excellent Manager and the most alert person I have ever seen! Must have eyes in the back of his head for he does not miss a thing No other garage can compare to it for kindness and thoughtfulness that each guest or driver gets when they enter until the time they check out! Try it once and you will never park any other place.

Your Observer always had the desire to see a show at the "Painter's Mill," right off the Reisterstown Rd., but somehow up to this date, I had not gone and when I did, even pur-chasing the ticket previously for "TOVARICH" with Jean Pierre Aumont and Eva Gabor, walked right into the tent although the sign said, "No Admittance." I saw right there much charm and felt so at home and knew that I would love it all. The atmosphere is one as though your were going to be quite at home in those seats and as though you knew the players and it was just that. The plot is of a Russian Prince and a Grand Duchess and the title is some sweet endearing terms as an American husband would call his wife, "Dearest or Sweetie" or something like that. A trap is laid for the couple as they are Royal personages. The Prince is really hungry (impoverished in other words) and he and his Grand Duchess are most clever. The couple become servants to a rich The couple become servant.— he, a American family in Paris — he, a Parlam and she a maid. The son of this American family teaches the Duchess the "Charleston" and the daughter of the family is infatuated with the Butler and then the funstarts. This couple were in the show that the beautiful the beautiful that the beautifu in New York. It is too bad that only remains one week.

Ladies, dresses are truly above the knees and much Summer black is being shown.

I hope you did not miss the brides: in Stewart's windows for they were glamorous! There is an excellent Window Dresser engaged by that store and he truly knows his business.

Don't forget the grand meal Monday nights which they call "Champayne Dinner Night," from 4 o'clock to 7:30 and it is BUFFET. Take your house guest there for a treat in the Courtyard at the Sacht-May Co., which she or he will love, and as to those eats - Ummmmmm

Hope to see you in "Philly" next week. D. V. until then. Have a grand week-end!

Faithfully, YOUR OBSERVER.

LBJ FADES NORMAN THOMAS

President Johnson, in an address of greeting to leaders of various organizations of so-called "senior citizens" who met in the White House last January 15, said:

"We are going to try to take all of the money we think is unnecessarily being spent and take it from the 'haves' and give it to the 'have nots' that need it so much."

This statement, at the time, was written off in many quarters as just another aphorism to reassure the medicare proponents that the Administration would go all-out for health insurance tied in with social securityso that the "haves" (who didn't need or want regimented medical and hospital services) would be paying for the "have nots."

But anyone who has given any thought to the President's pending "war on poverty" bill is sadder and wiser today-and ready to accept an earlier LBJ statement quoted by Robert Spivack in the N.Y. Herald Tribune of last December 1: "You say I am not a liberal. Let me tell you I am more liberal than Eleanor Roosevelt, and I will prove it to you. Franklin D. Roosevelt was my hero + he gave me my start."

Among those who are puzzled over this $3,000 figure is South Carolina's Democratic Senator Strom Thurmond who points out that: "More than a million members of the US armed services make less than this amount." and that if $3,000 a year is poverty, "it seems contradictory that in 1963 the Government collected $3.54 billion in personal income taxes from the 4.1 million Americans having incomes of less than $1,500."

Crazy Costume Party

For laughs and fun, there really isn't anything to equal an old-fashioned Crazy Costume Party. Any season of the year is appropriate.

For this kind of affair, the guests you invite have to ransack their brains and their attics. And the results—well, you never have to break the ice at a Crazy Costume

Party!

Dancing is a "natural" at such a party, where two incongrnously matched people can look even funnier than one. Theatricals are also good — cast your characters wearing totally outlandish costumes for the parts they are to play. Then, have them enact well-known episodes in history or fiction, such as the balcony scene from Romeo and Juliet, the landing of the Pilgrims, etc.

To get the party started, present each newly arrived guest with a cup of Gala Lime Punch. Decorate the punch table with colored streamers, confetti and an assortment of toy noisemakers. When a refill of punch is needed, each guest must sound his noisemaker!

Gala Lime Punch

- 9 bottles (7 ounces each) chilled 7-Up 1 package (3 ounces) lime-flavored
- 2 cups hot pineapple juice 1 can (6 ounces) frozen lemonade concentrate

Pour 2 bottles 7-Up into ice cube tray. Freeze. Dissolve geiatin in hot pineapple juice. Stir in lemonade concentrate. Cool. Just before serving, pour into punch bowl. Add remaining 7-Up and 7-Up ice cubes. Makes 20 (4 ounce) servings. Garnish the bowl with lemon and lime slices.

SOUTH PENN LEAGUE

Taneytown defeated a stubborn Brushtown team Sunday with the nelp of two unearned runs and the fine pitching of Walt Donahue, who collected his second shutout.

Walt, who complained of a sore arm during most of the game, was great when he had to be with 13 strikeouts, allowing only one walk and scattering five hits. The Bull-dogs threatened time and time again but Donahue was equal to the task. The Terrors, meanwhile, collected nine hits off the rotund Bulldog starter and loser.

Taneytown thus maintains its hold on second place in the league, one full game behind the front running Arendtsville Athletics.

THE WAY I SEE IT ...

Observations on the World of Sports

JIM ROLAND, young Minnesota Twin southpaw, has been throwing a slider for less than a month but already he appears to have mastered it; and it may have marked the start of a long winning career for the boyish lefty.

Roland was taught the slider in a quick lesson by the Minnesota pitching coach, Gordon Maltzberger, on May 14th. Maltzberger says: 'I never saw a pitcher pick up a pitch and use it effectively any faster. He throws a real good one. The slider is a natural for Jim."

A mere five days after first trying the slider, Roland pitched against the Yankees and won an overtime de cision. He pitched 12 innings and left the game for a pinch-hitter in the 13th as the Twins scored 5 runs to win the game, 7-2.

Roland pitched another dandy game in his next start and lost to Baltimore, 2-0, and then he fired a 2-hitter at the Boston Red Sox for his second victory of the season.

Jim came up to the Twins in 1963 all the way from the Carolina League and won 4 games before injuring his arm early in June. In July he landed on the disabled list and there he stayed for the rest of the season.

During the Fall and Winter, Roland took special exercises to build up the arm and while doing that put on a lot of weight. When he reported to the Minnesota training camp he weighed in at 211 pounds, about 25 pounds over his pitching weight. Manager Sam Mele prescribed are Manager Sam Mele prescribed a reducing program and Jim shed most of the surplus poundage.

RICE SALAD SIMPLIFIES THE SUMMER MENU

When lighter meals are the order of the hot day, it's smart menuplanning to let one dish do the work of two. For example, instead of serving vegetables and a salad, let one vegetable be the salad. Not only will the meal be lighter yet still delicious; you'll reduce cooking and dishwashing time accordingly.

Rice, fine substantial vegetable that it is, makes superbly satisfying salads, such as Bleu Cheese Rice Salad. Make it well ahead of time and and then the kitchen can be kept cool by using quick-cooking foods for the main course, such as broiled chops and broiled tomatoes.

As shown, the salad is garnished with broiled tomato halves. Other garnish choices might be avocado slivers, watercress, radishes, green or ripe olives, carrot curls, gherkins. The salad may be served with or without salad greens as preferred. It is sufficiently moist so that no extra dressing need accompany it. Mixing while the rice is hot makes for full blending of the many flavors, and the bland rice absorbs these so that the salad is truly a taste delight.

Bleu Cheese and Rice Salad, broiled chops and tomatoes as menetioned above, make a summery main course. End the meal on an equally refreshing note with sugared fresh berries or peach pie and fragrant coffee.

BLEU CHEESE RICE SALAD

3 cups hot cooked rice
1 cup chopped celery
1/4 cup chopped pimiento
1 tablespoon grated onion
3 hard cooked eggs, chopped

1 teaspoon salt 1/4 teaspoon pepper

1 cup sour cream
1/4 cup crumbled bleu cheese
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1/2 teaspoon seasoning salt, optional 1/4 cup chopped pecans Combine rice, vegetables, eggs, nuts, salt, and pepper and toss lightly. Blend sour cream with cheese, juice, and seasoning salt. Fold into rice mixture. Turn into mold and chill thoroughly.

Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Leaders Need Help Lesson for July 26, 1964

Bible Material: Exodus 15:22 through 18:27.
Devotional Reading: Psalm 20:1-9.

PRIMA DONNAS are hard to get along with. It's hard to be in the same house with one, hard to be on a committee or a team with one. A real original prima donna is a singer (the name means First Lady) who does soprano parts at the opera. They are notoriously temperamental. They make it rather hard for the other members of the cast. They don't like to share a scene,

Dr. Foreman they want to domnate it. Now prima donnas in ordinary life are like that. They have plenty of talent, perhaps even genius. But they do not work well on a team. They are star per-formers and they know it. But there is a difference between a superior performer and a per-former who can't forget that he

Leaders Need help

There is a difference between prima donnas and leaders. The p.d. is admired, but that's the end of it. The boys in the school yard may admire a boy who can stand on one hand. But if they don't all try to do the same, he's not a leader. A leader is fol-lowed. Now some of the greatest mistakes in history have occurred when leaders have tried to be prima donnas, or vice versa. Hitler was a first-class prima donna; but he called himself a Leader. He seldom would listen to advice. God's leaders

You might think that God's leaders would not need help, but they do. Don't they have the help of God and isn't that enough? No; God's providence calls on other men to rally behind leaders. Not even God's chosen leaders can lead without help of any kind. This is true of your local minister:

where is the church that can get on without a committee or board or council or session or vestry or some group of leaders from the congregation to help the minister? It was true of Moses too. There was a man of God if ever there was one: immortal in human memory as one of the greatest leaders in all history even he was tempted to play prima donna. Because he could do anything better than most others, he tried to do everything. Because he was a good judge, none better, he made the attempt to judge everything. Now every man has his limitations. No man, for example, can do more than he has time to work in. Even if his powers were unlimited, which they are not, he cannot do in ten hours what calls for twenty hours to do it right. Ministers have been known to suffer nervous breakdowns because they thought they did not need help; and Moses was headed for the same kind of trouble, till old Jethro gave him the advice which saved the situation.

The humility of a leader

Moses was one of the best educated men of his time, and immensely superior to the other Israelites. Jethro, his old fatherin-law, was on the other hand, one of the most ignorant of men. He had never lived, so far as we know, outside that rocky wilderness. When he ventured to give Moses advice on how to handle the crowds that came before him from dawn to dark, demanding his decision on innumerable problems large and small, Moses did not brush him off. Moses listened; one of the humblest acts recorded of any leader in history. It was a humble thing old Jethro advised him to do, too. Appointing subordinate judges to help solve the people's problems would be, in a way, governing by committee, and we can imagine Moses had no great liking for that. But the mere admission of others (none in his class, either) to the administration of national affairs would be admitting he could not do it all. Well, even the greatest have to admit it: they are not superhuman, and though they are God's men, there are no more hours in a day for them than for any one else. The great man may accept help grudgingly, but God's leaders accept gratefully. They take helpers as God's gift and not as insult.

"An ignorant adult is more danger-ous than an ignorant child because the ignorance level of the adult rises as his knowledge gap grows wider and wider."—Wilber V. Bell, Michigan Educational Journal.

Restlessness is discontent and discontent is the first necessity of progress. Show me a thoroughly satisfied man—and I will show you a failure.—Thomas Edison.

A New Look In Sweet Peas

Take a second look if you wish, for sweet peas in a window box are something new in gardening. These are bush-form sweet peas called Bijou and available in separate colors for 1964.

The Bijou sweet peas, shown above, are the latest development in a long series of improvements to the original sweet pea. This, according to a 1669 description, bore only one or two flowers to a stem and they were purple and maroon, hardly an inspiring combination. Their redeeming feature, passed on to most of their descendents, was their delightful scent.

The Bijous bear four or five flowers to each 6-inch-long stem; grow only 12 inches tall so may be used as a novel filling for a window box as they are in the accompanying picture. As you see, they are bushy little plants which require no staking.

Last year Bijou sweet peas were available only in mixed colors; this year you can color scheme window boxes or patio planters to your heart's content — there are five separate colors from which to Catalina is the name of a variety which has light amethyst and white flowers. Pinkette, noted for its fragrance, is a salmon-pink on Rosette has ruffled flowers of deep rose color, Scarlette equally ruffled blooms of scarlet-cerise and the color of those of White

Pearl is told in its name. Of course it still is possible to buy the Bijous in a mixture should you so desire. And, if you wish to get a head start on picking their lovely flowers, you can sow one seed to a 3-inch flower pot and start. the plants indoors.

Fellow citizens, please remember that everytime you enter a hospital for care that could just as well be given by an experienced physician in his office, you help create the need for a larger hospital. Hospitals are necessary and we need them for accident victims and sick people.
