Secondly, all gifts to the museum qualify as charitable income tax deductions. Pfutz stated he would be glad to discuss this with anyone, if they will call him at 848-6776 during business hours.

MARCH IS THE MONTH TO:

Be on the look-out for the first robin. Find a crocus. Read Robert Louis Stevenson's poem, "The Wind."

Browse through seed catalogues. Dodge rain drops, snow flurries, and mud.

Try your hand at flying a kite. Listen to the chuckle of a running brook.

Fill your favorite pitcher with pussy willows.

Get the children some new marbles, jacks and a jumping rope.

Think about spring housecleaning.

Watch the promise of spring gradually unfold. —Zola Cantwell

If the first love letter you ever wrote had a 4-cent stamp, you're young; if it had a 3-cent stamp, you're middle aged; if it had a 2-cent stamp, brother, you're a grandpa! —Weekly Herald, Mellen, Wis.

LOCAL CHILDREN'S PICTURES TO BE TAKEN FREE FOR PUBLICATION IN THE CARROLL RECORD

Monday, March 7, is the big day for the picture taking of your youngsters. The Carroll Record is having pictures taken of all children who are brought by their parents or other guardian to the Fire Hall, Taneytown, between 2:30 P. M. and 8:00 P. M., absolutely free of charge.

The Carroll Record wants a picture of your child to print in its forthcoming feature, "Citizens of Tomorrow," a series of photographic studies of local children. Children who have been photographed for this feature in previous years are especially invited to return, so that we may see how they have changed. The more we see the better the feature will be, so the cooperation of the mothers and fathers is urged.

It often seems to parents that children are little one minute and are grown up the next, so fast does a child's growing stage pass. Here is a splendid opportunity to catch a likeness of your child or children at the present stage for the pleasure you will get out of it in future years and for the pleasure you will enjoy in seeing it in print. You will want to clip it from this, your home town newspaper, and preserve it for the youngster when he or she grows up.

There is absolutely no charge or obligation for taking the pictures. Parents don't even have to be a subscriber to The Carroll Record nor even a reader. You do not have to purchase pictures either, though you may obtain additional prints by arranging direct with the Studio representative if you want them. This is entirely up to you! No appointment is necessary. There is no age limit. If you wish to make an appointment, phone Mrs. Dolores Ruppert at PL 6-6339. You may come at any time during Studio hours. All children must be accompanied by a parent or guardian. Photography will be handled by the Dansville, New York office of Woltz Studios of Des Moines.

Efforts Being Made to Halt Killings Near Emmitsburg

John B. Funk, Chairman-Director of the State Roads Commission, has ordered nine safety measures to be installed on the hazardous Emmitsburg By-pass on U.S. Route 15, which has taken the lives of 21 persons in 14 months.

The order for additional precautions followed a meeting with town officials, State Police and Governor J. Millard Tawes. The Governor expressed concern over the situation and urged the State Roads Commission to take steps to halt it.

Mr. Funk said the State Roads Commission will accelerate efforts to correct the situation.

"We must do everything in our power to halt this carnage," he said. "While a number of additional precautionary signs and lights already have been placed at this hazardous intersection, we must continue to try to impress the careless motorists."

Among the nine steps ordered by Mr. Funk are the installation of flashing lights and overhead lighting at the intersections of U.S. 15 with Md. 806 and Md. 97 and the establishment of a 40-miles-per-hour speed limit in the area.

In addition, he ordered: 1. The painting of yellow no-passing lines for a minimum distance of 500 feet on both approaches to all intersections of the By-pass.

2. The installation of delineators to mark the outline of all intersections.

3. The painting of large directional arrows in approach lanes on Md. 97.

4. The painting of edge lines on U.S. 15.

5. The placement of rumble strips on intersecting roads to vibrate approaching vehicles and call their attention to the dangerous section.

"SPICE 'N' EVERYTHING NICE" (Your Chatty Column)

With all my heart, I wish you every morning a smile that shall last until the next day's dawning. I wish you health—life's greatest wealth; I wish you always near so that I may help to cheer. Each future day and in some way—help to bring you happiness!

Anticipating the visit to the Baltimore Museum of Art to gaze upon the real art of two men for the "Oval Room" from "WILLOW BROOK" to be moulded all over again—right there made my heart beat faster!

First of all there is a doorway which was salvaged in 1918 from the Severn Teackle Wallis House which formally stood near the intersection of St. Paul and Pleasant Streets and installed at the entrance to the hall and oval room from Willow Brook. Beauty is the word—every inch of that doorway! Then as I stepped upon the threshold of the "Oval Room" I actually held my breath as I looked upward to the ceiling and was glad that at that very time, I was alone and I found myself saying, "Thank God" for the talent He gave to those two plasterers, Mr. Richard Di Giuseppe and Ernest Gibson of Washington and another man, a Baltimorean, Mr. Joseph Patrick Whalen.

All this molding was removed piece by piece from a Baltimore Cant and the room now is on display in the Baltimore Museum of Art. Calling all School Teachers! What a wonderful way to spend the day right there with your pupils and then have them in turn write a composition about it all!

The room is truly most exciting, especially knowing the history of restoring this room as near to the original as possible and it truly was done by experts. Frankly, I was breathless and just stood there for at least 20 minutes with a lump in my throat, for that is the way it all affected me. The carved moldings, beadings and rosettes and so much else, all in place, is simply perfection and the ceiling medallion is most beautiful! I observed the chair rails which encircle the entire room, as it was many years ago in homes.

It was all in sections and after 165 years, I do not know how they kept it in place in large sections as those plasterers did. So you see, folks it was real talent and such a sacred work of art for these three men to accomplish.

The removal and transfer to the museum was by the Kraft-Murphy Co. from Arlington, Va. What a tedious job and the patience it all required! "Willow Brook" was built by Thorowgood Smith, a ship owner who later became Baltimore's second Mayor. A Mr. John Donnell bought it in 1800 and he had his family there until 1864. Then, the granddaughter of Charles Carroll (Signer of The Declaration of Independence) gave $18,500 to the Catholic Church in Baltimore for the purchase to make it into a home for delinquent girls which was called, "The House of The Good Shepherd."

"The Oval Room" is the largest of The Museum of Art's American rooms. It is furnished with a set of painted Baltimore furniture made by Hugh and John Findlay. There is an English mirror over the mantel in the Adam style. The chandelier is also of English design and origin and is contemporary with the building of "Willow Brook." In 1964, the property was purchased by the city of Baltimore for a public school site. During the next year the original building was demolished but not before the oval room (which was noted to be the only oval room in Baltimore) could be transported to the American Wing of The Baltimore Museum of Art.

Many times, one hears, "Never look back!" But all these wonderful old places keep coming back year after year. (And after all is said and done, we appreciate it all the more) Spend the day right in the Museum, it will be good for your soul and mind! Keeping visiting the Museum ever so often reminds me how beneficial it all is and of The Operas—that old saying, "Like Olives and when you acquire the taste—well—that's it!"

Your Observer visits time and time again and each time means I love it all the more and I observe more detail!

If you ever would want to donate to this wonderful building or remember it all in your will, it all goes to wonderful opportunities for the public. And don't forget, Folks the 29th Annual Maryland House and Garden Pilgrimage, Thurs., April 28 through Sunday, May 8 for the House Tours and the Water Cruises, Saturday, May 14 and Sunday, May 15. Plan for it all now and that is something that you will never forget!

Have a grand week-end. Folks and will be seeing you in New York D. V. I am.

Faithfully,
YOUR OBSERVER

GIRL SCOUT WEEK

Some of the innumerable "Days" and "Weeks" which we are supposed to celebrate each year in this country are without any notable significance and importance. Some are unconsciously silly. Some are highly specialized and are of interest only to the few. But, there are some which have earned and which deserve the recognition and support of us all.

That is true a dozen times over of Girl Scout Week, which is to be observed this year during the March 6-12 period.

The Week's stated purpose is: "To celebrate the birthday of Girl Scouting in the United States." That birthday took place on March 12, 1912, in Savannah, Georgia. In the intervening years, the movement has spread across the nation, bringing life-long benefits to legions of girls. They learn the arts and crafts and domestic virtues which are particularly suited to feminine temperament and inborn talent. They learn how to get along with each other, and to show respect and understanding and tolerance for the thoughts and aspirations and ambitions of others. They learn the disciplines and attitudes that are vital to a happy and useful life in society.

Above all—and this was never so vital as today—the Girl Scouts build character. They are the enemies of delinquency and the firm and dedicated friends of the moral standards which are the real strength of any nation and its citizens. Let all salute them during the forthcoming Week—and let all help their cause any way he can.

THE COST OF "FREE LUNCHES"

How much do we really know about economics?

John T. O'Connor, the Secretary of Commerce, recently offered the view that the sum of our knowledge can be stated in nine little words: "There is no such thing as a free lunch."

It would seem that a great many people should be learning the truth of that now. We have been given more and more alleged free lunches, in the form of all manner of welfare schemes and programs. But the bills are beginning to be presented to us, in various forms. For one thing, the Social Security tax on a worker earning $6,600 a year or more has just been raised by over $100 a year, and the employer must contribute a similar sum. For another, the President has asked Congress to repeal certain reductions in federal excise taxes, on universally used commodities and services, that went into effect very recently. For still another, there is a growing feeling that the Administration may be forced to request increases in income and corporation taxes. And for still another, price inflation, which in large part is the result of the government's deficit spending, continues to eat away the dollar's value.

"Free Lunches" turn out to be mighty expensive.

Mr. and Mrs. Loyd Wilhite of Keyville, Carroll Wilhite near Detour and Mrs. Charles Mimick of Union Bridge were among the many family members who visited in Baltimore last week with their mother, Mrs. Maurice Wilhite, and sister and family, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Fry and children. Understand her condition is about the same.

Her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Keifer Seibert of Clear Spring, were visitors with Mr. and Mrs. Richard Wilhite, Susan and Christine near Detour from Wednesday until Friday afternoon. Sympathy is extended to the families of James Scott of Union Bridge and Raymond Johnson of Middleburg upon their recent deaths. Both men were well-known in the area. No school last Friday after the snow on Thursday. Did you all have the opportunity to see some of the snow men and women that had been made? I even saw a snow dog near Walkersville. Really good!

Missed two more February birthdays and my belated greetings to both the gentlemen: Lester Dutow on the 27th and Raymond Albaugh, whose date I don't know. Hope they had happy "days." Happy Birthday coming up to Clyde Wilhite and Norman Baumgardner on the 5th, Loyd Wilhite and David Schaffer on the 7th. Also belated best wishes for their wedding anniversary to Mr. and Mrs. Loren Austin of Detour. Recent visitors with Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Albaugh near Detour have been Pastor Eugene Gardner of Mt. Their grandson, Karl Smith, Jr., was released from Washington County Hospital in Hagerstown on Feb. 19 after an emergency appendectomy operation. Karl, who is attending college in Hagerstown and will have to miss some time for recuperation, is coming along very well. Joann Denise spent a day with her grandparents while her mother visited with brother Karl in the hospital. Mr. and Mrs. Lester Dutow near Detour were also callers at the Albaugh home recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Stonesifer of Rockville were week-end visitors with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Stonesifer of Keyville. The anthem, "My Task," was beautifully sung by Mrs. Carroll Dougherty and Mrs. Charles Trout at Keyville Lutheran Church on Sunday. Lenten service on March 9 will be at Keyville and guest speaker will be Carl Jacobsen, a lawyer, who is Executive Secretary of the Lutheran Church Men of America. In reading over some material for my column that I thought would bring cheer to some who may be shut-ins or even in hospitals or at home in bed unable to get up and go—to those who are Christians I hope it will bring our heavenly father makes no mistakes and those who do not know Him will come to know Him. You will read in the last verse—and by—and it will be made plain to you; for God makes no mistakes. The title of the poem is: "He Maketh No Mistakes"

My Father's way may twist and turn, My heart may throb and ache, But in my soul I'm glad I know, He maketh no mistake. My cherished plans may go astray, My hopes may fade away, But still I'll trust my Lord to lead For he doth know the way. Tho' night be dark and it may seem That day will never break; I'll pin my faith, my all in him, He maketh no mistake. There's so much now I cannot see, My eyesight's far too dim; But come what may, I'll simply trust And leave it all to him. For by and by the mist will lift And plan it all he'll make. Through all the way, tho' dark to me, He made not one mistake.

—A. M. Overton. I received a letter last week from a loved one, who at one time was very active in the church and outside the church as well. The Lord has brought her activities to a halt. She is unable to do the things she loved to do; but she says she does not question what God has done—and I am sure she will agree with the poem, "He Makes No Mistakes," and I am sure all who ever sat under her teachings can say she taught us to wait and depend on God. I can not leave you in suspense any longer, her name is Mrs. Clarence Helwig of Smithville, Penna. Her husband, Rev. Clarence Helwig is Pastor there. Any one wishing to send her a card of cheer her address is: Route 1, New Providence, Pa. 17560. So let each one of us count our many blessings and see what God has done.

THE WAY I SEE IT . . .

Observations on the World of Sports
—John Breth

A pitcher is considered mature but hardly old at the age of 29. There have been many great hurlers who didn't reach their top form until they were well past 30. To name just a few: Dazy Vance, Sal Maglie and Whitlow Wyatt.

The newest member of the Detroit Tiger pitching staff, BILL MONBOUQUETTE, has come in for quite a bit of kidding around Tigertown since the Detroit club pried him away from the Red Sox in a trade announced during the World Series.

Monbouquette is 29 years old. But when he joined the Tigers for a little promotion work he was tagged with the nickname of "Pop" by another Detroit pitcher, Mickey Lolich. The reason for that is the age of the other Tiger starting pitchers. The 29-year-old Monbouquette may be the elder statesman of the Detroit starting quartet.

Lolich is 25. Sparna, the Yankee killer, is 24 and Denny McLain is only 21.

The Red Sox waited for years for Monbouquette to become one of the league's aces. And he never quite achieved that lofty status, although he did win 20 games in 1963. But he was unable to repeat and last year, 1965, Bill had a terrible season with a record of ten and 18.

Monbouquette uses the word "pathetic" to describe his 1965 season and in defense of his poor showing he says: "You just get tired of pitching for a losing team. In eight years in Boston we finished in the first division only once."

Monbouquette got the reputation of being a gopher ball artist last year. He was touched for 32 home runs. But he says that as a control pitcher he is usually around the plate a lot and the hitters dig in against him. He also says that he rarely is touched for a homer when there are men on base.

Bill already has received the ultimate in compliments from his new manager, Charlie Dressen, who says: "Monbouquette pitches with his head." Dressen puts great stock in pitchers who can think. Of course, at the top of a hint Charlie will do all the thinking for them.

MILT PAPPAS is only 26 years old and in a sense he is beginning a new career.

Milt will pitch for the Cincinnati Reds this year after eight seasons with the Baltimore Orioles. He was traded by the Orioles to the Reds in the deal that brought slugger Frank Robinson—and many people think, a pennant—to Baltimore.

Pappas believes in looking at it the other way, that he will help bring a pennant to Cincinnati, which has come close each of the last two years.

Milt is a hard-throwing right-hander who has been plagued by aches and pains all during his career. He was plagued again last year but didn't say anything about it. It developed recently that Milt suffered a shoulder ailment pitching in the 1965 All-Star game. It bothered him until just before the end of the season when the pain went away. He has been taking treatment for it this winter, however.

Pappas won a total of 110 games for the Orioles in eight seasons and 26 were shutouts, which is a testimonial to the kind of stuff he can put on the ball when his arm is okay.

Although the Cincinnati ball park is smaller than the spacious Baltimore park, Pappas is not worried about pitching in it. He says Cincinnati can't be too bad, the Reds had a pair of 20-game winners last year in Sammy Ellis and Jim Maloney.

Pappas says he has been told often enough that the National League is now a stronger circuit than the American. He is not willing to concede that but he does say, "There does seem to be more good hitters in the National."

Today's Sport Laugh—Umpire Ed Runge tells of how he stopped the manager of the California Angels, Bill Rigney, one day. Runge says Rigney came out to the plate to argue over a call and was waving his hands and screaming at him.

Finally, Runge got tired of the tirade and said to Rigney: "Do you carry on like that at home?"

Replied Rigney: "Gosh, no. My wife would throw me out of the house."

TANEYTOWN BASEBALL CLUB HOLDS MEETING

With the start of spring training less than one month away, the Taneytown Tigers of the South Penn League held their first meeting of the year at the Firemen's Building last Sunday.

Players were told of the sad state of finances of the club and many suggestions were made on how to raise the necessary money to run the club for the coming year and the seasons to come. These will be acted upon and reports will be made at the next meeting in March.

President John Breth announced that the South Penn League season will start on Sunday, April 24, and end on August 14. Taneytown will open at home on May 1 at 2 P. M.

Manager Bob Fogle informed the meeting that the first spring training session will be held on Saturday, March 26, at 1 P. M.; weather permitting, of course.

Season tickets will be available again this year at the usual price of five dollars for all the Tiger home tilts.

YOUTH BASKETBALL

The Bullets continued winning with a 19 to 15 decision over the 76'ers. Consistently fast breaking, the Bullets were able to pull out the closely contested ball game. Brian Etzler was top scorer with 8 points and George Greenya tucked in 8 rebounds to pace the Bullets' attack. John Zent was the big man on the 76'ers with 5 points and 4 rebounds.

Paul Reindollar turned in the best scoring performance of the season as he scored 12 points to lead the Globetrotters back on the winning trail. The Tigers never seriously threatened as the Trotters picked up an early lead and maintained it throughout the contest to notch an 18 to 11 victory.

THE COLD FACTS

An estimated 1,000,000,000 cases of the common cold and other respiratory illnesses occur in the US annually—most of them during the winter months. Sneezing and coughing germ-laden spray in crowded areas are the major culprits.

"Dry, itchy skin is another major winter discomfort. The skin secretes less oil and loses moisture. The lower humidity in winter; heavy, warm clothing; and overheated homes, all aggravate the problem."

Though medical science has been stymied by the common cold, it has developed a unique bath oil to alleviate dry, itchy skin. Called Alpha-Keri, and available without a prescription, it was recently cited in an important medical journal as the most effective bath oil additive for controlling dry skin.

Fresh Pear Salad Makes A Meal

A hearty Julienne Salad made refreshingly different with the addition of fresh pear wedges to the traditional ham, chicken and cheese strips. Arrange the pears and julienne strips invitingly over crisp salad greens, garnish with sliced stuffed olives and serve with an oil and vinegar dressing. All that's needed to complete the meal are warm buttered French rolls and beverage.

Any of the three popular varieties of winter pears will complement this salad. The yellow-green Anjou, juicy and tender, adds a special spiciness. The Bosc pear, distinctive with a russet skin and long tapered shape is equally delicious and adaptable. Or try the delicate textured juicy heart-shaped Comice pear.

You'll usually find fresh Western pears ripe and ready to eat at your favorite market. Ripe pears yield to gentle pressure regardless of color. You can always buy firm pears with confidence, they'll ripen at home in a few days at room temperature, becoming sweet and juicy, the way you like them.

Fresh Pear Julienne Salad

- 2 fresh Anjou, Bosc or Comice pears
- 1 cup narrow strips cooked ham
- 1 cup narrow strips cooked chicken
- 2 slices Swiss cheese, cut in strips
- 1 small head Romaine lettuce
- 2 tablespoons sliced stuffed green olives
- French or Italian dressing

Cut pears in wedges and core. Arrange pear wedges with ham, chicken and cheese on top of greens which have been torn into bite size pieces. Garnish with olive slices. Serve with oil and vinegar dressing. Italian or French style. Makes 4 servings.

Truly A Dutch Treat

Some children like Dutch chocolate hot, some like it cold. All are delighted, though, to go Dutch for a party.

Celebrate junior's next birthday, suggests the Borden Kitchen, with dairy-fresh Dutch chocolate, poured right from container to cup, then crowned with the coolness of whipped heavy cream or a big scoop of vanilla ice cream.

Cooks who'd like to customize can do so by heating one quart of the beverage. As the chocolate warms over low heat, stir in one of the following flavorings: one tablespoon of dark molasses; one tablespoon (dry form) of Borden's Instant Coffee; or one-half teaspoon of either peppermint or almond extract. Their appealing aroma complements that of the hot chocolate.

Pour into sturdy but pretty punch cups or mugs. Cap each cup with a mound of whipped instant nonfat dry milk or heavy cream.

But going Dutch means more than something to drink. Dairy-fresh Dutch chocolate is a dramatic stand-in for unflavored milk in a dozen dishes—cakes, puddings and frostings, as a custard-like filling in tarts, pies, eclairs and Napoleons, anywhere in fact that a delicate chocolate flavor's in favor.

The How-To Corner

NEW HOME TOOL. Originally used by the logging industry for the rapid felling of trees, the chain saw has become one of the most useful tools for home owners. Today, there are over 2 million chain saw users with 1/2 million more being added each year. Here are tips from the Remington Chain Saw people on some practical uses.

The most popular home uses for the light, 12 pound model are: dead tree removal, tree pruning, fence post cutting, fire place wood cutting and splitting. The most practical chain saw for these jobs is the electric model.

Some home installations and building additions are made easier and faster with the now versatile chain saws. It should be used to cut through wall boards when installing heating ducts and also for cutting perfectly matched planks for beams and studs.

When the work is done and ice fishing is in order, use the gas operated chain saw to easily cut through thick pond ice. If the fish aren't biting a new hole can be cut in one minute.

A THRONE MAY look like a chair, but it is no ordinary chair. In ancient times only one person could sit on a throne: a king. Even when the king carried his throne about with him like a camp chair, as one of the better Herods did, still it was a throne and the king alone had the right to sit there. In the Bible, which is full of pictures-words, as we were thinking last

Dr. Foreman week here, God is never said to be seated in a chair or on a couch, only on a throne. He is "seated" not because he is tired or lazy. To be seated was then the mark of authority (our Lord always taught sitting down), and the throne itself stood for the power and majesty of the one who sat upon it.

Honesty in prayer
The simple and easy word for coming before the throne of the Almighty, the Lord of the universe, is prayer. It is the most uplifting and at the same time the most humbling experience possible to man. The Christian life has been defined as life-in-God. Call it communion, call it fellowship, call it companionship, or simply the life in God,—there is nothing to compare with it. One thing we must always be sure of: we must leave all make-believes outside. There is no fooling God. Beneath the high-sounding religious language we often use, he hears what we really want. There is no use trying to flatter God, he cannot be flattered. Dishonesty ruins all friendship. Especially is it ruinous to any fellowship we may hope to have with God. We can often check the honesty of our prayers by asking, How much am I willing to do, or to give up, in order to bring my prayer to pass? "Thy Kingdom come" is a noble prayer; but when the offering plate is passed it may turn out that what we really meant was "Thy kingdom come, but not over a dollar's worth this week, please."

Habits for prayer
Good words are often spoken about habits of prayer; but there are some pre-prayer habits which we may call habits for prayer. One is the habit of thinking often about God, shutting one's eyes a moment to think how close he is, and what kind of God he is and what kind of life he wants us to live. True prayer—deep, joyous, free—comes only out of life that is in harmony with God. If prayer-time is the only time you give a thought to God, you soon may find it is difficult to think of him even then. Another habit of thought, fruitful for the sincere God seeker, is to become familiar with the life and words of our Savior. This cannot be done without long-continued study and meditation. Remember what he said, "If you abide in me and my words abide in you," (that is, if you have absorbed my spirit, and my teachings have become part of the fabric of your thinking.) "ask whatever you will and it shall be done for you." The most successful prayer arises out of Christ-centered, Christ-directed lives.

Fruit or bonfire
Fellowship with God can be looked at selfishly, like his other and lesser gifts. But the mystic vision, the inner light, is not to be enjoyed apart from service of the Master and his cause. Jesus put it plainly. The secret of the bright Christian experience is in the words, I in you . . . you in me . . . The sunshine is in the flower, the flower is in the sunshine—both equally true. The Christian is in Christ, Christ in the Christian. But for what purpose? To bear fruit, Jesus said,—fruit of joy, fruit of faith, of hope, of love.

Letter from Annapolis

As the deadline for the introduction of bills approached, the pressure was on the legislators in their sixth week in Annapolis to get in their local bills before March 1, while spending long hours in committee on State measures of vital importance to everyone.

One of the most heavily fought issues before the Senate Judicial Proceedings Committee, of which I am a member, is a bill to limit the charges for revolving credit accounts and installment buying.

A bill was passed in the House last year, but failed in the Senate after intensive lobbying. Last Tuesday, the committee gave a favorable report to a new bill which is seen as a compromise and is given a better chance of passage. The House, however, is expected to demand a stronger bill.

The Senate measure would allow merchants and credit agencies to charge 1.5 per cent a month on the first $500 of a customer's unpaid account balance after 30 days. The charge would be 1 per cent a month on amounts above $500. Efforts are being made by retailers to increase the limit to 2 per cent.

Amendments adopted after the two-hour hearing would exempt home improvement services from revolving credit charges and would prohibit charges on account balances paid in full within 30 days. The bill has been termed "fair and equitable" by a spokesman for the State's retail interests which have lobbied against past legislation of this type.

A ruling by Attorney General, Thomas P. Finan, has put a hitch in the plans of the Cooper-Hughes proponents who were hoping to strike while the iron is hot. The Attorney General ruled that the 58-page package bill must wait until after the budget hearings before it may receive an official vote in committee.

A straw vote tally in the House Ways and Means Committee taken last week showed an even split in feeling among those present for the program to revise the State's tax structure. If the bill is delayed until after the budget is approved, it may not get on the floor until the last two days of the session.

Sentiment in letters from Carroll County residents indicate strong opposition to the plan. The implied consent bill to require motorists to take a breathalyzer test when suspected of driving while under the influence of alcohol was ready to pass the Senate this week.

The Chesapeake Bay Bridge issue was warming up for another hot fight this year. Three bills calling for a parallel, northern and southern spans went before the Senate Finance Committee last Tuesday. The heavily attended hearing was loaded with charges in their surveys provided by two engineering firms. The administration is again fighting for the parallel span, indicating that the northern span would be feasible by 1971 if the parallel bridge is constructed first. But if the northern crossing—estimated at $143 million—from Baltimore to Tolchester, if built first, according to one expert, a parallel bridge could not be built until 1976 or 1977.

The argument brought against a second tunnel is that when the east-west expressway through Baltimore is completed in 1972, harbor tunnel traffic will drop.

In regard to the repeal of the 1949 Ober Law, a University of Maryland professor testified that before the House Judiciary Commonwealth that the Ober Law, requiring loyalty oaths of state employees, is keeping Maryland colleges from attracting some highly qualified academic talent who otherwise might come here.

Howard Laster, head of the Department of Physics and Astronomy, said he has lost potential professors for his department, including some who have worked on secret government projects, because of objections in principle to the act.

Opponents of a bill to repeal the law testified it is a valuable tool in keeping subversives out of the state. William C. Purnell, Baltimore attorney who helped draft the law, predicted its repeal would be "obvious invitation to Communist elements to come and do their business in Maryland."

—Thomas R. O'Farrell, Senator from Carroll County.

A Voice from the House

Liberty Dam has become unattractive for those entering Carroll County on the two major highways from Baltimore, Liberty Road (Route 26) and Westminster Road (Route 140), because of low water causing mud flats. Baltimore City has recently acquired an additional source of water supply from the Susquehanna River. Bernard L. Werner, Director of Public Works of Baltimore City, was contacted in behalf of Carroll County residents to determine whether it would not be possible to maintain Liberty Dam at a full level now that other water is available.

Advice was received that the water in Liberty Dam is less expensive to the city because it is of higher quality, needs less filtering, and can be distributed in the city on gravity. However, Mr. Werner gave his personal assurances that the city will use water from its other sources so that Liberty Dam can again be filled and maintained at a full or nearly full level.

The pace in Annapolis has quickened as the budget hearings are nearing an end, the time for introducing Bills expires, and the Legislators must come to grips with controversial measures. Sessions will commence on Mondays at 2:00 P. M. and again at 8:00 P. M. for the purpose of moving local legislation without interference with the Statewide Legislation.

The Cooper-Hughes Program is gaining increasing support. It cannot be voted upon until after the budget passes. However, with some amendments, it appears that the Cooper-Hughes program has a good chance of passing.

Considerable controversy has developed over several other Bills. One Bill would abolish the Real Estate Commission as currently established and establish a new Commission. Real estate brokers and salesmen from all over the State have appeared at hearing to present their views on the Legislation. A Bill has also been introduced to license real estate appraisers and set up a separate agency for them.

During the last two weeks, approximately 25 per cent of the Bills introduced had to deal with motor vehicles and highway safety. Many of the Bills introduced are over-lapping or alternatives. However, it does appear that a considerable change will occur in the motor vehicle laws of the State of Maryland as a result of this Session. Next year the Legislature will probably have to consider an entire revision of all of the motor vehicle laws of the State of Maryland. A uniform motor vehicle code is being sponsored by some which would make the laws the same or similar throughout the United States.

Copies of every Bill being introduced in the House or Senate are being delivered to the County Office Building each week so that anyone interested in a Bill may stop at the County Commissioners' Office to examine or review any matter of interest to him.

William B. Dulany, Member, House of Delegates.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

WHEN BANKRUPTCY WON'T HELP

Motorist A, held liable for an accident, was ordered to pay more than his insurance coverage, more than everything he owned. In desperation, he decided to go through bankruptcy. Although this left him poor, at least he was relieved of his overwhelming burden of debt.

Motorist B, in a similar predicament, also tried bankruptcy. But in his case, that didn't help. Even after going through bankruptcy, liability for the accidents still hung over him as heavily as before.

The difference in these two cases illustrates an important provision of the Bankruptcy Act. Bankruptcy does cancel most debts, but not all. One debt it does not cancel is liability for "wilful and malicious" injuries inflicted on others.

Motorist A had caused his accident by just driving a bit too fast. The court held this was not "wilful and malicious."

But motorist B had been driving at high speed during a storm, on the wrong side of the road, while under the influence of liquor. The court decided this was indeed "wilful and malicious" conduct—and not even bankruptcy could save him from responsibility for it.

Most often, such questions arise out of auto accidents. But any kind of wilful and malicious act may put the offender beyond the relief of bankruptcy. Consider these cases:

A cantankerous home owner, to scare away some boys, fired at them with an air gun, injuring one in the eye.

A disgruntled boy friend spread slanderous stories about a girl's reputation.

The owner of a dog known to be vicious let it run loose on the streets, where it attacked a passing pedestrian.

In each case, after a judgment for damages, the offender went into bankruptcy in hopes of "getting out from under." But in each case, even after bankruptcy, he was held liable for the wilful and malicious harm he had done.

A keynote of the Bankruptcy Act is sympathy for the hapless debtor. But, in the wilful-and-malicious cases, the law's sympathy is dampened by behavior that is not just foolish but wrongful.

Besides, the law owes consideration not only to the debtor but also to the person who has been run down, shot, slandered, or bitten.

DIVERSION PROGRAMS HAVE "BUILT-IN INSURANCE" FEATURE

Farmers taking part in the 1966 wheat and feed grain diversion programs have built-in insurance against disaster, according to Gary R. Brauning, Chairman, Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation County Committee, 33 Court Street.

The chairman explained that last year, when flood, drought, and other such natural disasters prevented farmers from carrying out their signed-up program intentions, special legislation was enacted to enable participants to qualify for the program payments and thus meet the emergency situation. Because of this experience, similar provisions were included in the omnibus Food and Agricultural Act of 1965, enacted last November.

Therefore, farmers who sign up to take part in the 1966 wheat or feed grain programs may still qualify for feed grain price-support payments and wheat marketing certificates if the farmer files a special application at the ASCS county office and it can be determined that disaster conditions prevented the planting of part or all of the acreage intended for production under the adjustment programs. However, the acreage would not qualify for the disaster benefits if it was subsequently devoted to any income-producing crop for harvest in 1966.

The price support payments and certificates available under this program provision would be figured on the projected yield of the unplanted acres. Ordinarily, the payments and certificates are computed on the projected yield of the "acreage planted for harvest."

This insurance feature of the program assures the program participant that he will have some income from the acreage he intends using for production even though he may be overtaken by natural disaster.
