I wish you health—life's greatest wealth; I wish you always near so that I may help to cheer

Each future day and in some way—help to bring you happiness!

Overdue letters . . . Dear Observer: I am engaged to a wonderful girl and we are to be married shortly, and one night recently as I was talking to her father and called him "Dad" (feeling that I should get used to addressing him that way) he immediately said, "Don't 'Dad' me, call me John!" I did not know what to make of this as there are three daughters and no sons and are three daughters and no sons and I like him very much. How would you have taken that? Thank you very much! B.H.S. Dear B.H.S.: That was so unkind as I feel he will be gaining a son! But do as he says and call him by his first name. Your letter read so very nice. Your O. Dear Observer: I hope you will tell me candidly about the following just me candidly about the following just as it would strike you. I am a widow with three adult children and I am engaged to a Catholic gentleman (my first husband was Catholic, too). To my surprise this gentleman told me that he went to his priest to ask him if he ghould marry me and I falt if he should marry me, and I felt very hurt about that. Don't you think any lady would have resented that? Please answer soon. I never miss your Column. Thank you! Mrs. M.E.K.. Dear Mrs. M.E.K.: Candidly that

Dear Mrs. M.E.K.: Candidly that would have hurt me, too, regardless of the religion and just such a little thing would make me hesitate to marry him. There, however, may be something deeper. I do not know. I would ask him and tell him just how you felt about it. It is best to have an understanding before the big date.

Dear Observer: I am a widow and sold my home and bought another in Florida and I am just as lonely here as I was up North where I was born and reared. I am in a quandry as to what to do if I should sell down and return North where I have so many friends. I did not purchase a big place down here and I know I could easily sell it for just what I have in it. Do you think I should take this step? Anxiously awaiting a reply.

Mrs. M.L.: You did not state if you are financially able to keep up that home and live up here in the summer time when it is hot down there. Why not try it that way if you can afford it — return here for a few months of the hottest time there, say even for four months — June. say even for four months — June, July, August and September — and then go down again to try it out. If you still are not satisfied you will have a better opportunity to dispose of the Florida home as the big season comes on. I do not understand why widows are so very lonely instead of realizing that they must adjust themselves for there is so much activity today. Your O.

Dear Observer: Every time we go to visit several friends of ours regardless of the day or evening, they keep on the TV set and want to lis-ten and look at the story. I think this is very rude as I with also my husband turn the set off even before we answer the door. What do you do in cases like this? Mr. and Mrs. L.C. Dear Mr. and Mrs.: Want to know what I would really do? Never go to visit these people again, and when what I would really do? Never go to visit those people again and when they miss your calling, be frank and state that you did not want to interfere with their programs on TV. Nothing more! If they are fine people they will realize what they have done lost good friends instead of a story which is continued every day and if they miss one day that would not be so awful. I am afraid that friendship does not mean much to these type of people and if I were you, these type of people and if I were you, I would forget them. Your O.

Dear Observer: A long time ago,

you stated you believed in young marriages. Do you still feel that way? Engaged. Dear Engaged: Yes, I did state that

Dear Observer: We are a very elderly couple and my husband always likes to retire at 8 and arise at 8 and I would like to look at TV. He always insists that I retire at the same time, too, putting it this way, "Well, you will be sitting here alone." So then I retire, too. Won't you please tell me how I can get him out of that habit? Our two children are married and live in other nities but there is so much in other cities but there is so much some evenings on TV that I would like to see. Mother.

Dear Little Mother: You and you alone have spoilt your husband and I can hardly think that you can change those habits. Why not just say, "I want to see this program coming on and when it is finished, I'll be seeting you." I do hope that works, Mother. Your letter was so sweet, I wish that I could have written it all right here. Best wishes and be sure you stick to your guns!

Your O. See what I mean, folks, when I write now, and then about the little things in life that could make others happy? Life is so short and we should consider those we love and admire before anything else! Many times people are selfish and they do not realize it for it just grows and grows on them until it is too late!
Will be seeing you at the Flower
Mart on Wednesday, May 11, D.V. Have a grand week-end and now the Merry Month of May is here — the most beautiful month of the year!

Until next week, D.V. Faithfully, YOUR OBSERVER.

FACTS AND OPINIONS

Irving Rubin, writing in Rx Health, says: "One pharmaceutical company employs 35 scientists in a special twostory building. A vitamin manufacturer conducts over 150 control tests. Are these tests really important? They certainly are, because they guarantee perfection — within the limits of human capabilities. Quality control adds to the cost of drugs, but it's insurance I wouldn't want my family to do without."

Is it worth the time and effort to buckle seat belts for a short trip to the neighborhood grocery? That's like asking, according to the Portland, Oregon, Traffic Safety Commission, if it's worth holding your breath for a short dive under water. The Commission points out that most fatal accidents occur on short trips fairly close to home.

David Lawrence writes in U. S. News & World Report: "It would appear that, when diplomacy fails and wars are in progress, we can only seek divine guidance. We must mobilize the spiritual forces of mankind. These include not only the far-reaching influence of the Pope but the cooperation of the leaders of all religions in Asia as well as on other continents, so that the points of agreement and disagreement may be candidly discussed with each other. Both sides must be persuaded that more can be accomplished by good faith and clearly expressed restraints than by temporary agreements, ambiguous declarations or secret programs designed to infiltrate and conquer other peoples."

will spend more than $5.5 billion in the next three years to extend natural gas service to more people in more communities throughout the United States. The gas industry now spends six times more for construction than in 1945.

From the New York Herald Tribune: ". . . any large-scale strike today is much more than a matter between employer and employees. Strikes increasingly are directed against the public. Thousands of people and often hundreds of businesses are affected indirectly, but damagingly. This is a principal reason why the whole structure of our labor law needs review."

In the view of the Citizens Foreign Aid Committee: "In the beginning inflation is a wondrous elixir. But gradually it speeds up like the frightening rapids above Niagara; then suddenly nothing can stop its plunge. Inflation, born of profligate government spending, has started here. Since U.S. foreign aid began in 1946, our purchasing media - currency and For the Finest in Memorialization checking accounts-have grown from $106 billion to $170 billion, while our gold reserve has fallen from $24.7 billion in 1949 to $13.7 billion on February 16, 1966. Meantime, U.S. foreign aid agencies have paid many billions of dollars for domestically produced commodities sent as gifts to foreign recipients. Since this takes goods out of our economy without a corresponding reduction in purchasing power, it is inflationary.'

It would take more than $75 billion to build the present U.S. railroad system, according to the publication, Competitive Transportation, published by the Public Relations Office of the Western Railways.

Americans will have to work 2 hours and 19 minutes of every 8-hour day this year to meet federal, state and local tax bills. how to save money at income tax time

some helpful hints from your pharmacy

Few people realize that many of the items purchased in pharmacies, in addition to prescriptions, are deductible from Federal Income Tax if you itemize your return. Any of the following typical pharmacy items which are used in the cure, mitigation, treatment or prevention of disease or which are obtained upon the advice of a physician are normally considered deductible medicines or drugs.

Examples of Deductible Items

Medicines and Drugs Used Internally

Antinauseants Antacids Antidiarrheals Alkalizers Cold preparations

Diuretics Laxatives

Medicinal teas Salt tablets

Analgesics Medicines and Drugs Used Externally

Abrasives

Fungicides Keratolytics Pediculicides Powdered mustard

Medical Supplies (This includes items not classified as drugs but used in administering drugs or for a therapeutic purpose.) Ear syringes Elastic stockings Atomizers Back supports

First-Aid supplies Insulin syringes and needles

Nebulizers Suspensories Trusses Surgical collars

Vitamins and Tonics (Only when prescribed by a physician.)

Prescriptions (All drugs prescribed by a duly licensed medical practitioner in the course of his professional practice.)

Non-Deductible Items

Many items which are not deductible are sometimes claimed as medicines and drugs on Federal Income Tax returns. For example, one may not consider toothpaste, toiletries, or cosmetics in this category.

Where any doubt exists concerning the deductible or non-deductible nature of any pharmacy item, you should obtain the advice of the local Internal Revenue Service Office.

KEYSVILLE-DETOUR

Greetings to you:

Don't you wish we could do something about these county roads that are so badly in need of replacement? Notice I said replacement, not repair! Just how bad they are really becomes apparent after the "spring thaws" set in. All this recent rain has been good for the farmers and the grass but the roads that had the sides graded have surely become seas of mud in many places. What happened to the stones or paving that was to be done? Just where does one complain, or to whom, to do any good?

The rain has made the yards look like green velvet and the flowering trees are opening in all their glory. Joyce Kilmer's poem "Trees" is especially appropriate in the Spring. Don't you agree? Our bluebirds have returned to the bindhood of the control of the structure of the bindhood of the structure of the str returned to the birdhouse again. It is such a pleasure to watch them go busily about their nest-building and is there another bird whistle more cheering than that of the meadow-lark? They are so "dressed up" with their yellow vests and black ties.

Why are part-time jobs or at-home work so difficult for women to find? Read an editorial last week about mothers being a potential resource for the labor market but I'm sure there are many like myself that are hampered by the school bus schedule. Where does one find a job that fits into the bus leaving at 8:20 A. M. and getting home by 4:30 P. M.? I know for a fact that there are mothers who would welcome the oversite. ers who would welcome the extra income if they could work at home or hours between school bus stops. Perhaps I should add, work other than sewing for I know a number of women who do this type of at-home work already. Anyone care to comment? - Dharlys Fleharty

How God Makes A Mother (Mable Law Atkinson)

God took the sunshine from the skies And passed it in a mother's eyes; Transposed the lilting song of birds Into a mothers gentle words. He took the beauty of a rose— Upon a mother's facce it glows. He planned the evening's restful charms Within a mother's soothing arms. Enshrined love's understanding art Within a mother's tender heart; Then used the heavenly joy above, And from it fashioned mother love.

God's Ideal Mother (Cora M. Pinkham)

The mother who owns Christ as Lord and Saviour in her life; the mother who has peace with God, who has no inner strife; the mother who knows how to trust the Father for all things; the mother who is right and just, as punishment she brings.

The mother who knows how to pray for every daily need; the mother who can point the way where God would have her lead; the mother who knows how to guide a precious child to God; the mother who walks by his side, who walks the way he trod.

The mother who knows how to teach her child the Holy Word; the mother who knows how to reach a child who has not heard; the mother who knows how to show a loving, tender face; the mother who can help him grow in wisdom and in grace. The mother who can make a home in any place on earth; the mother, who, though children roam, has love that knows no dearth; the mother who is all of this, to whom her God is real; the mother who is not remiss, she is her God's ideal.

I wish all the mothers, both elderly

WILL TIGERS EVER BEGIN SEASON?

Taneytown Hopefully Will Play Two Games On Week-End

THE WAY I SEE IT . . .

Observations on the World of Sports -John Breth

The feeling around the American League is that FRANK ROBINSON is the best thing to happen to Baltimore since somebody invented crab cakes. The former National League star has taken to American League pitching like most visitors to Baltimore take to that sea food specialty.

In case you hadn't noticed, the Orioles are red-hot. They have won 11 straight games, and have lost only one of their 13 starts this year.

Robinson has played a large part in that success. He is hitting at a .471 clip—16 hits in 34 at-bats. Also, he has hit 5 home runs, scored 18 runs and is largely responsible for the fact.

that his teammate, Brooks Robinson, home. The Tigers hope to make-up leads the league in runs-batted-in, the Brushtown contest on Saturday at the Pennsylvania town, order. and is largely responsible for the fact Brooks follows Frank in the batting order.

The way he has started, Frank Robinson may be off to one of his best years in the majors. Just for the record, the best year was 1962 when he batted .342, drove in 136 runs and hit 39 home runs. If he even comes close to that performance this year, the Orioles may find themselves in a World Series.

The unusual aspect to Robinson's at the Pennsylvania town.

Memorial Park was just unplayable this past Sunday, even though the rain did halt in early morning. The local nine hope to reschedule opening day festivities on Sunday, May 15, when the opposition will be the Littletown Littonians. All the activities that were to go last week will be put off until that time.

Jimmy Brown of the Cleveland Browns is the all-time leader with 126 with Baltimore's Lenny Mayer your good at 106 and the Market Star second baseman but it was expected momentarily.

It is sincerely hoped that the Taneytown Tigers can finally begin this year's contests, if it ever gets warm and it finally stops raining.

long-retired Don Hutson is third at 105. Jim Taylor of Green Bay is closest to the fabled 100 mark among the other active players with 85 touchdowns. Tommy McDonald of Los Angeles has 78 while Bobby Mitchell of Washington is next with 74

Moore now second at 106 and the Cleveland Browns, Dick Modzelewski needs nine more games to set a record for consecutive appearances in National League Action. In his 13-year career "Mo" has played in 166 games without a miss. The all-time champion for consecutive game action is Leo Nomellini, retired San Francisco tackle, who played in 174 straight games from 1950 through 1963.

Modzelewski is embarked on a campaign to fatten up his "little brother," Gene, a rookie with the Browns this summer. Little Gene only weighed 225 pounds while playing for New Mexico State last year but Dick says he'll have him over the 240pound mark by the time the training season begins. The Detroit Lions kept tackle Jerry Rush in reserve last season behind their two tremendous defensive forwards, Alex Karras and Roger Brown This year the Lions intend to try Rush on offense at a tackle spot Roller Rink 3, Baumgardner's Bakery | Coach Harry Gilmer says Rush is too good to sit on the bench. Rush is looking forward to playing on offense and says he will take off some weight. He is 270 pounds now and he intends to get below 265, which will still leave him with enough weight to hold off charging defenders.

The unusual aspect to Robinson's fast start is that it goes against the form he has shown for most of his big league career. He always has been a slow starter, taking time to get rolling. Once he did get rolling, of course, the pitchers knew he was around.

Robinson says he can't explain his quick start, except that it might be the different way he has been holding his bat. He holds the stick straight up, now. He insists that's the only thing he has been doing differently.

There is a theory that Robinson is doing so well so early because he is trying to prove something. That explanation is offered by Bill DeWitt, general manager of the Cincinnati Reds, who traded Robinson to Baltimore. DeWitt has been needled a great deal since the season began, getting another jab every time Robinson gets a hit. DeWitt apparently doesn't think Robinson is going to continue to be quite the sensation he is now. Ernie Combs, last year's leader in hitting for the Tigers, who earlier had announced his retirement, now seemingly has had a change of heart and has given his intention of returning to the fold as a regular. Skipper Fogle announced that he had not re-

Serving God Lesson for May 8, 1966

Background Scripture: Il Chronices 17 through 20. Devotional Reading: Psalm 85.

Every man, woman and child is important in the sight of God, but some persons are more important than others. That is, it makes no great deal of difference what old John Doe, sitting on a fence and talking out of pure igthe country ought to be doing. It does make a tremendous difference what Richard Roe thinks, not just because he has the brains that John Doe

Dr. Foreman never had, but because people who listen to Mr. Roe and take him seriously will find that their choices are in many ways affected by Mr. Roe's ideas, be they what they may. The important people in any generation, then, are those whose decisions affect the decisions of others, perhaps millions of others.

EVERY SPHERE IS GOD'S

The most important people of all (though they may not realize it themselves) are those whose own personal decisions are oriented to GOD always, and who influence others for God. One thing should be made clear to begin with: A person can serve God equally well in church or state. An officer in the church may be a man of God, but so may an official in the state. David was not even a priest, but he was a man of God. Who shall deny the title "God's man" to the Emperor Constantine, or the scientist Louis Pasteur, or the poet Browning, or Doctor Grenfell, missionary on the Labrador coast, or to Lord Salisbury who did so much to make life livable for working men in England, or to William of Orange and Gusatavus Adolphus, military heroes of the Reformation, or the unknown artists in stone, who conceived and produced the great cathedrals of Europe, or great musicians like J.S. Bach, or a many-sided genius such as Albert Schweitzer? These were "secular" men, that is to say for the most part unordained, but with stronger influence for God than most ministers, rabbis or the picture of the good king Jehoshaphat. He deserves the adjective good, and showed how good he was by using wisely the greatest opportunity for truly important people, namely the power of appointment to important posts men of character and influence. We give a thought today to judges in particular. This king was specially careful about getting able judges for the country.

What the Bible tells us about judges is as wise today as the day it was written. Let us run down a list of qualifications or duties as we find them in II Chronicles 19. (1) The good judge will know that beyond all human responsibility he is first and always responsible to GOD. (2) A good judge is available. To put that another way, a too-crowded docket, or too few judges for the population, slows down and defeats the purpose of the courts. (3) The purpose of the law (this should go without saying) is Justice. Not to make the judge rich, not to make the courts feared, not to use up the tax-payers' money, but to see that all parties get a square deal. Justice has various forms. Cynics will tell you that laws and courts exist to entrench the rich and powerful and keep the "little man" in his place. On the contrary, justice, real justice, means protecting the weak from the strong. One acid test of courtroom justice is: Can a poor man get justice here?

COURAGE IN COURTS

It takes courage to be a judge. Some times he needs physical courage, and always moral courage. He needs courage to stand by a ruling he knows to be right. He needs courage to make what he knows will be an unpopular decision. He needs courage to change his mind, too, if he comes to be convinced that he was wrong. It takes courage to admit

The glory of incorruptible men - this is the great reward of those who appointed them.

JAYCETTES—SENIOR CITIZENS

(Continued from Page 1) more appropriate name might be the Pace Setters! For in one short year these folks have set the pace for service and fellowship in Taneytown for vice and fellowship in Taneytown for all of us.

This is your life, Senior Citizens of Taneytown. We are proud to recognize you and your deeds!!!

It all began in March 1964 at the Harney Fire Hall. The occasion was the Annual Taneytown Jaycees Ladies Night; the program featured the Carroll County YMCA, with guest speaker, Mrs. Gold Townsend, relating the activities of the Westminster Senior Citizens Club, a project of the YMCA. Citizens Club, a project of the YMCA.

Jaycettes who were present were inspired with the thought of having an organization for Senior Citizens in Taneytown, and, at their next meeting, voted to co-sponsor with the YMCA, the formation of such a group, appointing Carleen Skiles and JoAnn Dougherty co-chairmen of the community service project.

After talking to some potential members, actual plans for an initial meeting were held off until fall of

Then — the birth of the Taneytown Senior Citizens took place on September 21, 1964, at Trinity Lutheran ber 21, 1964, at Trinity Lutheran Church, with a turnout of 23 interested persons! Mrs. Townsend reviewed her Westminster groups' programs and activities. Mr. Richard Kelly, director of the Y, urged Taneytownians to organize, and the Jaycettes acted like prospective parents, and the Jaycettes acted like prospective parents, and the Jaycettes acted like prospective parents. anxious to have their project succeed.

The infant club grew quickly, thanks to delicious refreshments and strong programs for exercise. Interesting things to do gave the young club the experiences that foster self-confidence and the fun and fellowship to hold members' interest and attract new members.

Just as the child grows to become a man, ready to take on his own responsibility, the Taneytown Senior Citizens Club also stretched its wings to enfold more members and take on more responsibilities.

The Jaycettes, especially Carleen and JoAnn, watched proudly as the Senior Citizens became an organization in its own right. No longer dependent upon the sponsoring Jaycettes, the Senior Citizens "graduated" by electing their own officers on April 19, 1965, with ten charter members: Mr. and Mrs. Paul Warehime, Mrs. Charles Gosnell, Mrs. Ethel hime, Mrs. Charles Gosnell, Mrs. Ethel Baumgardner, Mrs. Elsie Reindollar, Wallace Reindollar, Raymond David-son, Mrs. Ruth Zollickoffer, Mrs. Hil-da Kiser and Mrs. Margaret Alex-

The first officers were: Mrs. Paul Warehime, chairman; Mrs. Charles Gosnell, vice chairman; Mrs. Margaret Alexander, secretary; and Mr. Wallace Reindollar, treasurer.

There was no hesitation by the Sen-ior Citizens to proceed "full speed ahead" once they were "on their own." Monthly meetings attracted new members. They more than tripled their charter membership in one year with such interesting programs as: films, trips down memory lane, hobby night, games, an excursion to Painters Mill Music Tent, and a get-together with the Westminster Senior

Social activity provided more and more opportunity for "outings" full of gaiety and fellowship. They are in the midst now, of thinking of an interesting place to take a trip.

Through their many community projects, the Senior Citizens found a means of serving Taneytown and the area. In caring for others, the club filled vital community needs. They made favors for Westminster Hospital trays and toothpick Christmas trees for Middleburg Nursing Home, and a large basket of groceries to the Hortan Western Home this last Christmas. ton Welfare Home this last Christmas. Thus, the three-pronged purpose of the group's organization was fulfilled—and the Senior Citizens of Taneytown earned the respect and admiration of all!

You of the Senior Citizens have discovered:

A way to serve as useful citizens. A way to serve as useful citizens.

A way to keep growing personally.

A way "to enjoy life more fully through fun and fellowship."

This discovery is precious — we know you will share your discovery with others, so that your future will be bright and active. We wish you continued success; "This Is Your Life" and we're proud to honor you all on
