VIEW FROM MY KITCHEN WINDOW

January is, in many ways, a nasty, disagreeable month, on which, weather-wise at least, we would sometimes like to strike from the calendar. And yet despite the wicked weather, various colds and viruses, and other assorted discomforts, it marks the end of one year of our lives and the beginning of another. It is a time for reflecting and looking back, and also for looking ahead. As I sit here by the fireside on this

It started out with several deaths in my immediate family, and then proceeded on to the worst blizzard in anyone's memory in this area. John Bacon has passed his Tender-foot test and been admitted to membership in the Panthers; while several other candidates are in the off-ing, Leon Utz has passed the test and is waiting for his 11th birthday to become another member of this patrol, which at present leads in the new patrol contest. With the loss of a large number who reached the Explorer age and some others who fell by the wayside, the troop is eager to recruit additional members so as to bring up to full strength all four patrols and perhaps eventually reinstate the fifth.

1967, we are faced with serious illness in our family, the outcome of which is still uncertain. But then, life is at best a very uncertain proposition. One day may bring joy and happiness while the very next one brings disaster and trouble. It is at that very time that we need most to believe that if God be for us, who can be against us? After all, it is relatively easy to have faith when the way is smooth and things go well. The real test comes when nothing at all seems to be working out. And so in this particular year I shall ask for a greater measure of faith and strength for whatever lies ahead. This, it seems to me, is the only answer to the whole matter. controlling." The material from the law estab-lishing the Regional Planning Coun-cil indicates, in my opinion, that the Regional Planning Council has authority to veto. This law also indicates the possibility of the usurping of county rights and powers by the Re-gional Planning Council. The law is so indefinite that it would be dangerous to the sovereignity of our county. Article 78D creates many ramifications.

I quote from publication number 6 by the Regional Planning Council, en-titled "Plans and Progress": "Both State and, more particularly, Federal Law, make the Regional Planning Council the official and frequently, the only channel through which funds for a wide range of programs are approved for use by local agencies."

This puts pressure on the counties to remain in the grasp of the Region-al Planning Council, since Federal and State funds are used for many local projects. It should be known that the State appropriates one-third and the politi-cal subdivisions contribute two-thirds to the Regional Planning Council an-nual budget. Each political subdi-vision's share is prorated on the basis of its assessed polymetrics of the basis of its assessed valuation of real propof its assessed valuation of real prop-erty. Budgets have a habit of growing. In my opinion, the law is so far-reaching that it gives the Regional Planning Council, which is a quasijudicial body, the potential power of control over the individual citizen and his property. This is in conflict with our coveted heritage in Carroll County.

Time passed, and Cordell Hull became Secretary of State.

The basic exemption on the income tax was trimmed 80 percent.

The basic tax was increased more than 20 times.

The value of the dollar depreciated some 55 percent.

As this is written, union plumbers in New York announce acceptance of a new contract calling for $8.59 an hour.

In Washington, however, the talk is of a 5 percent surtax on personal and corporate income in 1967.

Businessmen continue to put increasing amounts of money into the pay envelope.

But we continue to send men to Washington who take it away even faster.

GRASSROOTS OPINIONS

CARTHAGE, TENN., COURIER: "The courts have been greatly concerned with justice for criminals of late, and as long as this does not extend into the ridiculous most citizens will agree such considerations are appropriate. But in the minds of many law officials and editors the process has been carried to the absurd. Too many instances are occurring when confessed murderers are set free (often to commit another crime) because of technicalities."

AZTEC, N. M., INDEPENDENT-REVIEW: "With the government taking care of everybody why is it necessary to have so many fund drives for charities? Surely the government isn't over-looking a chance to give something away?"

OCALA, FLA., STAR-BANNER: "Margaret Mead, the anthropologist, has made an intriguing point on why some young folks behave the way they do. . . . Calling on her years of experience, Miss Mead says it is ridiculous to think that dances and dress styles of today's young people indicate a change in the morals of youth alone. 'The notion that college students do things without the active collusion of adults is nonsense,' she reached more than 4 trillion to the dollar and the savings of the wellto-do and middle class had been wiped out."

Have A Party In A Shake

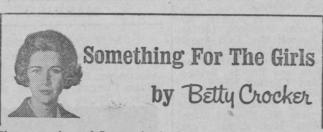

Instant entertaining's easy with just punch-and-pour beverages-Borden's canned milk shakes are one quick "for instance." With a choice of six flavors-vanilla, cherry-vanilla, strawberry, chocolate, mocha, or coffee-everyone, family and friends, is sure to get his favorite.

With simple preparation, the hostess can take advantage of those minutes saved to earn compliments—by dressing up the drinks. Give a hint of the good flavor to come, suggests the Borden Kitchen. Perch a plump ripe strawberry on the strawberry flavor, or a chunk of chocolate on the rim of the glass. For the more robust eaters, cap with whipped cream, or float a scoop of ice cream or milk sherbet in the shake. float a scoop of ice cream or ilk sherbet in the shake. THE FAMILY LAWYER LOUDER THAN WORDS

Suppose you walk into a coffee shop, point to the doughnut tray, and hold up two fingers. And suppose, after being served, you decide that you aren't hungry after all — and refuse the doughnuts. Could the proprietor make you pay anyhow? Theoretically, he could indeed. Even though you haven't uttered a word, you have entered into a binding legal contract.

As a rule, contracts are created by right, just a nod of the head may mean anything from "I do" to "I bid $100 for that oriental rug."

The analyting from "1 do" to "1 bid $100 for that oriental rug." You can not only enter into a con-tract but even commit an assault, merely by gesture. The law will weigh the surrounding circumstances to decide how much menace the ges-ture conveyed. For example: what to expect are coming in from expert and no-so-expert observers. Astrologers and computers also are getting into the act. Bernie Parrish is neither a star gazer nor an electronic brain, but he does have an opinion. And, because of his background, it is an opinion worth listening to Parrish placed for waking at a considerable distance from his car. But it was held an assault for a landlord to brandish a stick ominously over the head of his tenant. And it was held an assault for a man, known to be trigger-happy, to reach sud-denly for his hip pocket. Can defamation of character too

Can defamation of character, too, be committed by acts instead of by be committed by acts instead of by words? It is possible, wrote Jonathan Swift, to Swift, to

"Convey a libel in a frown, And wink a reputation down."

In one case, a man charged that his character had been besmirched wordlessly — by two clumsy, detec-tives. It seems they had followed him they were doing.

The detectives denied that this amounted to defamation. But the court agreed with the plaintiff, because the detectives had shadowed him so openly. The judge said their actions, proclaiming to one and all that this man needed watching spoke more insultingly than words.

The New Year always brings to mind that income tax time is just around the corner—February 15 is the filing deadline for most farmers. As with any efficient business, good records are essential not only for tax purposes, but for analyzing the farm business as well. During the prolonged snow period, it's a good idea to spend extra time on records. Checking total amounts spent for feed, labor, repairs, lime and fertilizer, medicines, etc., will help you compare with last year's totals as well as use them for tax reporting. Chicken is one of the best buys in meat. Certainly there is no more popular dish than fried chicken. Why not give it a different twist and try frying it the Oriental way? It is ever so light and delicate. Use corn starch for coating the chicken pieces, after a quick dip in a mixture of egg and water. Fry in corn oil for the most delicate browning and flavor.

The distinctive marks of the Christian were to be, not so much a matter of personal appearance. and showy public conduct, but of values: what they held to be important and desirable. Although these values were not intended to draw attention to themselves, they could not help but seem revolutionary. They seemed to be directly contrary to the thinking of the majority. Nowon-der they said Jesus and his followers were turning everything upside-down!

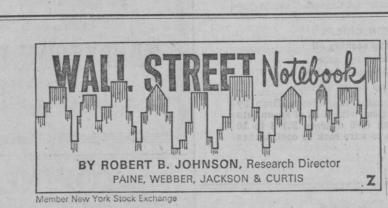

Happiness, most people thought, consisted in prosperity, public favor, and freedom from adversity. Not so, said Jesus, for happy (blessed) are those who are poor, that hunger, that sorrow, and are in want. His message was a special reassurance to these people that they held a special place in God's heart. The greatest happinness was promised to those whom most men regarded as failures.

Furthermore, he proclaimed this same happiness to those who would be made to suffer because of their Christian discipleship. Following Christ is no guarantee against adversity. If anything, it is more likely to be a guarantee of some hardship, for whenever someone tries to sincerely follow Christ, there is bound to be, sooner or later, a crucifixion of some kind

The values of Jesus are no less revolutionary today than they were in the first century A. D. Whenever a person seeks to follow him today and live by this radically-distinctive, upside-down way of life, he cannot help but be marked as different - disturbingly, wonderfully different.

Let's be honest: does your Christianity show?

Decision Making: Politics Vs. Economics

Happiness has been described in many ways by many people. Probably because I'm a Wall Streeter, my definition is somewhat financial. I think that happiness is a fully employed

More wage contracts are due for negotiation in the first half of 1967 than in all of 1966. This makes a renewed wage-price spiral a distinct possibility next year. Because of the tremen-dous demand for skilled work-ers, labor is unquestionably in the driver aret today.

the driver's seat today. The outcome of the pending labor negotiations, I believe, is one of the most important con-siderations in attempting to project economic probability over the next 12-month period. Taking note of the tremendous increases in corporate profits in the past few years, labor believes that it has not shared in the gains. However, I think unions will press even harder than usual for large wage in-creases to make up for the in-

THE JAIL PROJECT

There has been much discussion concerning the merits of building a new county jail and there has been a suggestion that we build a regional jail in cooperation with a neighbor-ing county. The latter has no strong supporters and is not being seriously considered. Previous Boards of County Com-missioners have struggled with the problem and definite plans were drawn by the Board that went out of office a month ago.

Drawings were prepared by Locke and Jackson, architects, but the final decision was left to the present Board. These plans entail a two-story building with a basement designed to pro-vide quarters for the Civilian De-fense Agency. The plans were studied and approved by state agen-cies and our delegation to Annapolis was able to get a grant of $130,000 from the state based on our archi-tect's plan and further we are to get 50% of the required cost of the space for the Civilian Defense Agen-cy. This basement room would be taken over by the Director of Civilian Defense if and when atomic radiation became a problem here. Under nor-mal conditions the space would be occupied by the central fire alarm system which is supported by the county and is now housed in the Westminster Firemen's Building. The remainder of the basement space could be used for normal county activities except during national emer-

There have been statements in the press to the effect that the state jail inspection officer has said that the ing. This is not his position. He did state that administration of a jail is best when the turnkey has only one floor to patrol. This means that the prisoner cells are all on one floor out it is immaterial as to which floor. The state officials have given their approval to the Locke and Jackson plans where the prisoners are being confined on the second while the first floor is to be used as offices such as for the sheriff, the trial magistrate, floor is to be used as offices such as for the sheriff, the trial magistrate, board of election supervisors, storage of voting machines, etc. This will relieve conditions in the present county office building and postpone the day when an addition must be built to give more room for the Board of Education, as well as room for the Sanitary Commission when it gets to be providing residents with water and sewerage services. We should keep in mind that office space will be needed for those activ-ities. While we do not wish to ex-pand the county government pay-roll, this becomes necessary when ex-panded services are provided to our titizens. The number of county office employees has been growing rapidly in the past and I want to state in de-fense of past county commissioners that it would be unfair to them to label them as spendthrifts because as sanitary districts, building inspec-tion, policing of zoning regulations and the like. Many of us would like to keep our county rural in nature but we are unable to halt the urban-ization that is coming our way.

Modern jail buildings, in accordance with state requirements are expensive as all plumbing including the piping are to be imbedded in masonry, a patrol corridor adjacent the outside wall is to be provided and different types of prisoners are to be segregated. by Locke and Jackson requires a con-crete basement floor, plus two con-crete floor slabs and a concrete ceil-ing slab. If we were to build a one-story jail plus a below ground ci-vilian defense shelter, we would have two concrete floors plus two concrete ceiling slabs to install. I consider myself an amateur in such matters but it is readily seen that there are arguments for and against the single arguments for and against the single floor building. However, there is much to be said in favor of having several county functions in one building such as the two-story building with basement.

As to the future of the present jail building, I want to state that, contrary to what has been reported n the press, I have not expressed a definite opinion. We will have a year or two to make a decision on the old jail if a new jail building is started in 1967. I can only state that it seems wise to consider using the present sheriff's quarters and office as office space for the county while preserving the obsolete section for sightseeing by those who like to look gencies. We hope this means that it will be in use as normal county office space 100% of the time. would not entail museum operating expenses and yet it might satisfy those who are museum minded. To keep pancakes hot, place them between folds of towel in warm oven. Or place pancakes separately on rack in very low oven with door open. Don't stack!
