VIEW FROM MY KITCHEN WINDOW

February is cold, gray and uncertain, and the state of the weather, always a topic of lively conversation, is on everyone's tongue. Fortunately, this second month of the year is short, and somewhere in the middle of it, along with St. Valentine Day, comes the February thaw. The sun shines, skies clear, and there is a faint, elusive odor of Spring in the air. As the rains fall and the snow melts and feeds into the stream, I hear a most welcome sound—the happy song of the running stream.

To be sure, Old Man Winter has no intention of meekly relinquishing his cruel grip, but even his most devastating blasts cannot reverse the trend to a kinder season. And so my thoughts turn eagerly, although somewhat prematurely, to robins, violets, gardening, baby chicks, and house-cleaning, in that order. The sight of last year's oriole nest, still clinging in tatters to a branch of the South Carolina Poplar, makes me feel even more optimistic. So do the sprigs of green grass, bravely growing in the fields, which have now completely thrown off their white blanket of snow.

For eons, the seasons have rolled along in unending order, according to the Creator's divine plan. How comforting to know that no matter how prolonged or bitter the Winter may be, Spring inevitably follows!

Letter To The Editor

Editor of the Carroll Record
Dear Sir:

On behalf of the Carroll County General Hospital, I wish to reply to a letter by Donald M. Smith, published in your issue of January 26, 1967, regarding the alleged gift of wire baskets valued at $1,000.00 by the Hospital to the Community Swimming Pool at Littlestown, Pa.

Our investigation reveals that a number of these small wire baskets had been offered to our Hospital through one of its employees approximately a year ago. The Hospital accepted a number of the baskets for which they found use, but the remainder of them were left at the Hospital by the employee. It developed that in the course of remodeling the service area of the Hospital, in connection with the construction of the new wing, these unused baskets of the employee came to light and the employee was asked to remove them from the Hospital. She gave them to another Hospital employee, Mrs. C. Donald Bower, a resident of Littlestown, who apparently turned them over to their local swimming group. It appears that Mrs. Bower must have made her gift in the name of the Carroll County General Hospital and attached a completely arbitrary value of $1,000.00 to these baskets. So far as the Hospital is concerned, this publicized gift was merely the result of its request to an employee to remove the baskets from the premises.

The officers of the Hospital are very conscious of their obligation to the community and are most interested in answering any question a Carroll County resident may have concerning the operation of the Hospital. We would hope, however, that these inquiries would be made directly of the officers of the Hospital.

Very truly yours,
Charles O. Fisher
President.

CARROLL COUNTY TB ASSN. SEVENTEEN YEARS OLD

On January 30, 1950 at 7:45 P. M. in the banquet room of the Charles Carroll Hotel, a group of 15 people met in the interest of forming a Tuberculosis Association in Carroll County. Mrs. Ruth K. Graham, Field organizer for the Maryland Tuberculosis Association presided. She explained the purpose of organization and told of some of the history of the and local associations throughout the State.

The following persons were appointed as members of the committee for writing a constitution and by-laws:

C. Albert Baldwin, chairman; Ralph Richetts, Union Bridge; Mrs. J. Edgar Myers, Westminster; Mr. Samuel M. Jenness, Westminster; Mrs. Robert Cairns, New Windsor; Mrs. Charlotte Kephart, Sykesville and Dr. Ross Cameron, Advisor.

The first officers of the Association were: G. Albert Baldwin, president; Wilbur S. Wimmer, vice-president; Mrs. Donna Sellman, secretary; and Edwin W. Shauck, treasurer.

Executive Committee: Raymond Wright; Mrs. J. Edgar Myers, Mrs. Gladys Wimer.

Board Members: Dr. Ross Cameron, Westminster; Ernest W. Dunbar, Taneytown; Rev. Charles A. Price, Silver Run; Mrs. Denny W. Kephart, Sykesville; Mrs. Robert Cairns, New Windsor; Mrs. Albert Houck, Westminster; Mrs. Charles S. Bowman, Union Bridge; Samuel M. Jenness, Westminster; Roy A. Knouse, Myers District, Preston Yingling, Pleasant Valley; Carroll Smith, Hampstead; Donald Six, Middleburg; and Father James Dwyer, Westminster.

After 17 years we are proud of our tradition; we are proud of our growth; we are grateful and ever thankful to the many volunteers and citizen leaders who have given their time and talent in order that we, with the Carroll County community could continue the fight against tuberculosis. Because this is not a generally known fact throughout the County and State, we are being presumptuous and beg your forgiveness by saying, "Happy Birthday" to ourselves.

ANNAPOLIS REPORTS

The Finance Committee of the Senate, of which your correspondent is a member, will begin considering the State Budget with hearings scheduled to begin on Tuesday.

The Senate has three major committees: Finance, Judicial Proceedings, and Economic Affairs. In order to avoid repetition, weekly discussions will be confined to local Senate, Finance Committee and selected Bills from the Committee of Economic Affairs.

Senate Bill 13 would require insurance companies upon cancellation or non-renewal of a policy of motor vehicle liability insurance to give the insured, upon written request, the actual reason for the cancellation or non-renewal of the policy.

Senate Bill 24 provides for the manner of distributing general State Scholarships and Scholarships in Education to the various political subdivisions and increases the amount of the award for scholarships in education.

Certain to generate a great deal of interest is Senate Bill 81 prohibiting any contests or games, whereby any gifts, prizes or gratuities are awarded and the persons receiving the gifts, prizes or gratuities are determined by chance. It should be pointed out that the provisions of this bill have no application to the issuance and redemption of Trading Stamps.

Senate Bill 42, "Retail Installment Sales and Revolving Credit," spells out maximum finance charges and other requirements in connection with some retail installment sale transactions, excluding sales of motor vehicles. In addition, it would regulate maximum service charges under some installment sales where no title or security interest is retained by the seller and would require certain information to be furnished in connection with such sales.

For the benefit of my constituents, please address correspondence to State House, Room S-111, Annapolis, Maryland, and telephone calls to 263-2321, Extension 117.

Charles H. Smelser
State Senator
Carroll-Frederick District

This past week saw the Changing of the Guard in the State House. On Wednesday, Spiro T. Agnew became the 55th Governor of Maryland. His inaugural speech was challenging, realistic and reasonable. Our Delegates to the General Assembly look forward to a close working relationship with our new Governor over the next four years.

Your Delegates introduced two bills pertaining to Carroll County this week. The present law pertaining to removing junked motor vehicles on private property could not be enforced. We have introduced a bill to enforce it. The second bill is to require a property owner in a residential area to cut weeds on an improved lot as well as an unimproved lot. There are several other bills that are being worked on by legislative reference that will be introduced in the near future. We are also waiting for some recommendations from the County Commissioners on laws that should be enacted.

Other bills of interest introduced this week pertain to Abolition of the Death Penalty, Funds for Vocational Schools, Community Colleges, and 50 million dollars to supplement funds for completion of school buildings in the state. There is also another attempt to repeal the Ober Law.

Both city papers carry a legislative outline of the bills introduced each day in both houses. If you would like a copy of any bill that is introduced either in the House or Senate, please contact either one of us and we will be very happy to send you a copy.

County Commissioners Report on Schools and Taxes

In a recent interview over the local radio station, a representative of the Board of Education reported that one of the County Commissioners had agreed to the opening of a Community College in Carroll County in 1967, and that the other two are still considering this important decision. It seems necessary that the two of us (Walsh and McKinney) should report our thinking to the people.

To say the least, we have money problems. The present real estate tax is $2.00 per $100 of assessed valuation and the budget for the current year lists the proposed expenditures as equivalent to about $2.31. The difference of 31 cents is made up by using the $632,428 surplus accumulating over the past several years. This is mentioned only to point out that the present budget is not based on a $2.00 tax rate but rather on a $2.31 tax rate and, if the present Board should be able to hold all expenditures over the next fiscal year at or near the current amount, the rate would have to move up to $2.31 unless some new source of revenue is found.

The School Board reports that they are thinking in terms of operating budget increase of $1,800,000 over that for the current year. The contributions to Carroll County schools by the State of Maryland has been shrinking (percentage-wise) over the past few years and we do not know how much will be forthcoming from the state during the next budget year. However, if we add 85 or 90 cents which is the rate needed to raise $1,800,000, we come to a rate of $3.16 or more. This is rough approximation but it points out what is disturbing your County Commissioners.

The $1,800,000 mentioned above is only the increase in operating expenses and no allowance is made for an increase in capital expenditures. You will recall that England's Report said that $1,693,000 is needed for "priority one" school building needs with cost of land to be added. This land cost is estimated to be between a half and one million dollars so one can see that capital expenditures may average around $3,500,000 per year over the next five years. It is to be noted that the establishment of a kindergarten and renovation of present buildings are not mentioned above.

We expect some help from tax reform in the present legislature but we have no idea at the present time of the kind or amount to be derived from the state. So one can see why two of your County Commissioners are reluctant to commit the county to added recurring operating costs at the moment. We are not going on record against salary increases for the teachers nor against the opening of a Community College but are of the opinion that something must give among the several proposals from the office of the Board of Education.

It is true that the county government could borrow $20,000,000 and build the projected buildings but this is being fiscally responsible? We have need for about 20 new classrooms per year with existing county growth. We must think of what would happen if we borrowed each year for such capital needs. In the future, we would be paying for these buildings along with those needed then which might even become 40 or 50 new classrooms per year.

This would become a snowballing of debt and we do not want to be a party to the leading of our county into a debt ridden county by obligating future taxpayers to pay for the yearly recurring needs of our people. This does not mean that we object to borrowing money for capital improvements which require a large outlay and will be used by our residents for years to come.

To summarize, we are repeating to you that we want our county to operate on a sound fiscal policy and without undue burdens to our taxpayers. You can expect us to put up a determined struggle against budget items which might lead to a $3.00 to $3.50 tax rate on our real estate.

Paul J. Walsh
Robert M. McKinney

ONE WOMAN'S OPINION

There is an old adage:
"The bee gains little from the flower,
A stone a day will raise a tower,
Yet the hive is filled, the tower is done."

If steadily the work goes on."

I believe the above lines might well apply to today's astronauts. As the country mourns for the families of the three astronauts who recently gave their lives, we might say is the program worthwhile! These men died doing something they believed in, so it must be worth any risk involved.

—Esther N. Speak.

"SPICE 'N' EVERYTHING NICE" (Your Chatty Column)

With all my heart, I wish you every morning
A smile that shall last until the next day's dawning.
I wish you health—life's greatest wealth;
I wish you always near so that I may help to cheer
Each future day and in some way—help to bring you happiness!

I thought I was a child once more as I looked with Stars in my Eyes at "Cinderella" with Lesley Ann Warren and the Prince, Stuart Damon on color TV. Not alone it being my favorite Fairy Tale as a child of ten but what girl does not dream of a Prince Charming. Eh? The color was simply magnificent and Rodgers and Hammerstein knew that beautiful love story (re-broadcast) would go over again as it did the first time! I saw it in black and white and then all this! The TV is the same make of my set which I had for 12 years, "MOTOROLA."

And thinking of TV "Hollywood Palace" was excellent with the grand old man, Ted Lewis with his old timer, "Me and My Shadow." I observed that he was a little more peppy than the last time I saw him. Also the Lawrence Welk show was excellent. Barbara and Bobby, the dancing team are surely a grand pair and I will be surprised when she marries another — one of those guys in the quartet! Ugh!

That grand Chiropractor—Dr. Calvin Hornstein is still T O P S in his profession! What I admire, too even all the more is his truthfulness as to every question. No foolin' around! His precious wife is his right hand to every detail! (And that is the way it should be). And that reminds me—in the "AWAKE", Jehovah Witness magazine, there is a splendid article by MD's all in favor of these wonderful treatments and explains it all in detail.

Don't forget Valentine Day is coming up and remember that best girl in your life! Plan a party for there is no party that has more fun and be sure and ask the guests to appear masked and that makes it all the more interesting and give a prize for the best costume. Do not go overboard with the cats as many think they are compelled to do but little sandwiches are always the favorite instead of sweets.

And thinking of eats, be sure you take your doll down to "The Chinese Restaurant" on Park Ave., called, "The China Doll." Ummmmmmmm good!

Last week I visited the Museum of Art with the paintings (about 200) by Robert Weyth and I never was so disappointed in my life! It gave me the "Willies" for it all was poverty stricken paintings from the way, no doubt that artist lived. It was so depressing — a chair in a barren field and that was entitled, "I'll Be Back." A lone scrub bucket with blue berries in it, a colored servant asleep in his bed and—oh—so much else! I observed the expression of the faces of the public, no doubt they were as disappointed as I. One painting was looking from the kitchen to the front door! I just do not understand, folks. I love beautiful art and scenery on which you gaze upon and just cannot move away! Heavenly!

Now, Ladies the other day, I was in the presence of a very well to do matron, in fact, sitting right next to her as she was knitting and I observed her legs and as I placed my hand on her knee and felt it was ice cold! She then told me that she never wears hose! No wonder so many women have inward trouble! That is one part which should always be kept warm from the hips down including your feet. She told me she used Elizabeth Arden for her legs!

Forgot to mention Ted Louis sings a new one (which was precious) called "I've Got A Million . . ." then he adds slowly, "A Million Wonderful Thoughts of Yesterday!" See what I mean, Folks?

Well, the "Farmer's Almanac" was right as to the few warm days" in January. Never misses!

Hope to be seeing you at the 13th Annual Chesapeake Boat Show at the 5th Regiment Armory from the 4th of February to the 12, D. V.

And in my next column hope to be writing of "Pisces" the sign that means so much from February 20 to March 20 inclusive.

Have a grand week-end. Be most careful when you drive. Until next week D. V.

I am,
Faithfully yours,
Irene deLeon Love.

ADVERTISING LEGERDEMAIN

This newspaper, like most, relies heavily on advertising revenue. We do reserve the right to refuse certain advertisements, as do most papers. But in general we think the businessman is entitled to tell the public of his services or products in his own language.

However, a piece of advertising legerdemain was managed last month which requires comment. We refer to that big, eye-catching two-page spread which appeared in the New York Times under the banner: "Foreign Trade—Two Way Traffic." It was purchased by the USSR. The date is important: January 16, 1967, pages 56 and 57.

On page 67 of that newspaper, one finds a three-column news story headed: "Soviet Ad Seeks Wider U.S. Trade." The lead paragraph reads: "A two-page Soviet advertisement in the New York Times today is viewed by observers as the most important positive response President Johnson has yet received in his effort to build a trade bridge to the Soviet Union."

Seven paragraphs further along we find this: "In his State of the Union message last week, President Johnson indicated that he would press again at this session of Congress for passage of the East-West trade bill. That measure would give the President authority to extend most-favored-nation treatment to Communist countries, to conclude bilateral trade and other economic agreements with them, and to extend some types of commercial credits to them..."

Having read this long story, we turned back to inspect that big USSR advertisement inviting Americans to advertise their products in the USSR. The advertisement even tells us that "direct mail advertising will be an effective channel through which to inform the Soviet market of foreign products." That invitation, from a country where a letter is about as private as a bulletin board by the time the censors finish.

Knowing something about newspapers and advertising, it dawned on us that it would have been a super-human task for this ad to have been written, laid-out, artwork done, type set, and copy submitted in a period of just six days between the President's State of the Union speech and the publication date. How then could it be a response?

We decided to find out. We did. For this special edition the New York Times rate card stipulated: "Closing Date: Tuesday, December 27, 1966. All material, copy and layouts must be in New York by this date." The price: $6,240 per full page, for the U. S. edition.

Since the Soviets couldn't have been responding to Mr. Johnson, do you think it possible that Mr. Johnson was...? I don't even want to say it.

AN OBJECT LESSON

Postal rates are probably destined to rise once again. This brings to mind the case of the 1907 light bill rendered to a customer of the Edison Light and Power Company in Wichita, Kansas. The bill was a $7 charge for only 14 kilowatt-hours of electricity. It was made out on a postal card and bore a one-cent stamp which paid for cross-town delivery. The record of the electric industry and the Post Office Department which carried that postal card across town for one cent, provides an interesting comparison of government enterprise and private enterprise.

As the Oxford, N.C., Public Ledger writes, "In the 59 years since 1907, there have been changes, in both public and private enterprise. Postage is up to four cents a card, an increase of 400 per cent of what it was then. On the other hand, the price of electricity has declined steadily from 50 cents per kilowatt to around two cents, a mere 4 per cent of what it was then.

"We are told that the average American home today, if fully electrified and air conditioned and electrically heated, would use around 24,000 kwh annually, costing considerably less than $500. The same power service at the 1907 rate would cost $12,000. If the cost curve for power service had followed the same pattern as the cost curve for postal service, the electric bill would be $48,000 annually. In that case, no one would be using electric appliances..."

As the Ledger concludes: "It would be prohibitively expensive to support the kind of government to which we are accustomed, the Post Office Department—and a publicly-owned power system." It would also be interesting to compute the billions of dollars of taxes that the electric industry as a private enterprise has paid since 1907.

FACTS AND OPINIONS

The need to fight against air and water pollution was emphasized by M. A. Wright, board chairman of Humble Oil and Refining Company, when he said, "Either we voluntarily implement effective pollution abatement programs at all levels of business and industry or in the near future our actions in this area will be spelled out by Congressional legislation. Today, we still have the freedom to make a reasoned and resolute response to the problem. Tomorrow our actions may be tightly controlled by government regulations."

The Edison Electric Institute, trade organization of the nation's investor-owned electric power companies, reports that to provide for America's electric energy needs by the year 2000, the electric utility industry plans to build the equivalent of seven additional power systems, each equal in electric energy size to that which is serving the American people today.

Writing in a recent issue of the FBI Law Enforcement Bulletin, Director J. Edgar Hoover reminds us, "The role of the policeman in our society goes far beyond the sworn duties of enforcing the law and arresting lawbreakers. Modern-day computers would be taxed to process the thousands of special services performed for the public by law enforcement officers every day."

Newsweek magazine recently stated: "Judging solely by his paycheck, the typical U.S. production worker with three dependents seemed to be better off financially last month than he was a year earlier. His wages had climbed from $98.04 a week last fall to $100.65. But if he was making more, he was enjoying it less, because his real earnings—or the after-tax purchasing power of his paycheck—had actually dwindled from $88.80 to $87.90."

In the United States, suicide has become the fourth leading cause of death among adolescents and young adults, reported Dr. Kurt Glaser of the University of Maryland in a recent issue of Today's Health.

U. S. Representative E. Y. Berry of South Dakota says, "Excessive government spending has placed the nation in a position where we see the cost of living up, the purchasing power of the dollar down, the deficit in the balance of international payments increasing, the flight of gold from Fort Knox serious, and our competitive position in the world market alarming."

The Internal Revenue Service reports that $239 million was returned to taxpayers who overpaid their income taxes in 1965. This overpaid tax total is more than one-third of all U. S. individual income taxes collected 30 years ago, reports Brevities, a publication of the Employers' Association of Greater Chicago.

Speaking of the "Great Society," John Maverick, writing in the Cherryvale, Kansas, Republican, says: "In our state the 'Great Society' means Great People. People who want to work for a living; people who give a day's work for a day's pay; people who believe in God; people who believe in each other; people who believe in free enterprise, and people who believe in America."

"To let oneself be bound by a duty from the moment you see it approaching is a part of the integrity that alone justifies responsibility."—Dag Hammarskjöld.

SOCK-CESSFUL GIFTS

In this year of knee sock popularity, one or more pair will be a welcome gift, particularly when they are disguised as adorable mascots, bearing still another pleasing item.

A "Cowardly Lion" is a pair of lion-colored knee socks of Creslan acrylic fiber which give him his cuddly look and feel. His body is a box of dusting powder; his head, a round compact, a jewelry box or even an extra pair of socks or mittens — all gifts to delight teens. Younger girls will be enchanted with Octavia the Octopus. He is a lavish gift, indeed, since he's made of four pairs of colorful knee socks, and his head is one of those warm, lightweight caps knitted of Creslan.

The third member of the trio is a pair of rich red socks made into a Santa Claus with the help of a can of hair spray.

WITH THE ARMED FORCES

WITH U. S. COMBAT AIR FORCES IN THE WESTERN PACIFIC — Airman Third Class Larry E. Calhoun, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stewart W. Calhoun of Millers, Md., is now on duty with the 4258th Strategic Wing at a forward base in the Western Pacific.

Airman Calhoun was assigned at Dow AFB, Maine before arriving in the Pacific to help provide direct support for U. S. Air Force operations in Southeast Asia.

The airman, a Strategic Air Command (SAC) refueling systems repairman, supports KC-135 Strato Tanker aircrews who daily provide aerial refueling to fighter-bomber and reconnaissance aircraft conducting the air war over Vietnam.

He is a 1965 graduate of North Carroll H.S., Greenmount, Md.

A woman was visiting the state employment bureau in an attempt to find employment. She explained that her husband had been in an automobile accident and suffered "conclusion of the brain."

"Don't you mean 'concussion'?" inquired the sympathetic official.

"No, sir," was the emphatic reply. "I mean 'conclusion,' He's dead."

THE WAY I SEE IT . . .

Observations on the World of Sports — John Breth

PHILADELPHIA is known as the City of Brotherly Love—but not in the National Basketball Association.

The less NBA clubs see of Philadelphia and the 76ers, the happier they are. The 76ers have treated the other nine teams in the league with almost complete disdain this season in compiling an incredible record. In Philadelphia, the 76ers have been undefeated streak at home to 36 games over two seasons. And the 76ers have been just as devastating against Western Division teams this season, beating them a total of 29 times without a loss.

At their unbelievable pace, the 76ers will have no trouble breaking league records for most victories in one season—62, set by Boston during the 1964-65 season—and highest winning percentage—.817, by the old Washington Capitols in the 1946-47 campaign. Philadelphia needs only 18 victories in its remaining 31 games to surpass Boston's record victory total. And the 76ers can afford to lose ten of those 31 games and still finish with a 66 and 14 record for an .825 percentage, better than any in the league's history.

The Philadelphia story is built on power—especially in the front court. At center, the 76ers have powerful, seven-foot-one-inch Wilt Chamberlain, the best scoring and rebounding pivotman in the league. Chamberlain also is the most accurate field goal shooter in the NBA and he had a streak of 34 straight shots from the floor without a miss.

At forward, Philadelphia probably has the strongest combination in the league. The 76ers can alternate Chet Walker, Billy Cunningham, Luke Jackson and Dave Gambee without losing any effectiveness.

In the backcourt, the 76ers have one of the best guards in the league in veteran Hal Greer. They also have one of the most improved players, Wally Jones; veteran Larry Costello, who was lured out of retirement for his experience and ballhandling, and two promising rookies, Bill Melchionni and Matt Guokas.

Coach Alex Hannum calls his personnel the greatest in the history of the NBA. He probably will get very few arguments about that statement.

The Cleveland Indians should not lack for skillful leadership this summer with JOE ADCOCK the new man in the pilot's seat.

Joe says, "I played for ten managers during my major league career and I learned something from all of them. I'd like to take what I consider their strongest points and use them to advantage with the Indians."

Looking ahead to the 1967 campaign, Adcock views things this way: "You start from strength. Our strength is pitching. In Sam McDowell, Gary Bell, Steven Hagan, Sonny Siebert and Luis Tiant we have five excellent pitchers. Our pitching could be the best in the league."

As a guy who often faced McDowell — Joe formerly played first base for the California Angels — Adcock thinks Sudden Sam has what it takes to be the best pitcher in both leagues this summer.

Says Joe: "I saw McDowell recently and told him that if he pitched to everybody as well as he did to me then he has nothing to worry about."

McDowell had some arm trouble last year and obviously did worry about it. But according to all reports he is in good shape now.

Here is what Adcock says: "McDowell has the necessary talent to be a great pitcher. With Sandy Koufax retired, Sam could be the greatest pitcher in baseball."

When asked to compare McDowell to Koufax, Adcock did it this way. He said: "Sam is faster than Koufax. His fast ball is more explosive. Of course, Koufax was a little smarter out there because of his experience. He'd pitch you high and tight or low and away. He knew how to move the ball around."

But Adcock gave the hitter's ultimate compliment to McDowell when he added: "But Sam is so fast that he can throw it right down the middle and get away with it."

Today's Sport Laugh — Defensive back Jim Norton of the Houston Oilers of the American Football League is called the "Blade" or "Toothpick" because of his slender build. One writer said:

"It isn't necessary to explain that the nicknames stem from the fact that Norton has legs that would look bad on an impoverished stork."

THE CIRCUS IS COMING!

"Two things the people want — bread and circuses," said the Roman satirist Juvenal 2000 years ago! And for the past 97 consecutive years the Ringling Bros., Barnum & Bailey Circus has been scouting the earth to acquire talent to augment its undisputed claim as "The Greatest Show on Earth."

The all-new 1967 edition opens in Baltimore's Civic Center on Thursday evening, March 2 for an 11-day engagement through Sunday, March 12. Performances thereafter will be twice daily with three shows on Saturdays.

This year's spangleland extravaganza boasts one of the largest and most impressive line-up of acts ever assembled by the Ringling organization in nearly a century of constant effort to "top" the previous year's presentation. Personally scouted and signed by circus president John Ringling North during a recent 10,000 mile world-wide journey are 25 new acts never before seen in America.

Highlighted among the newly acquired imports — and unequalled in their field — are the sensational Alexandrov, a death-defying high perch-pole act during which the individual artists climb the slender steel rod to terrifying heights supported solely on the shoulders of a single understander. Other outstanding troupes making their American debut are the Dobritschs, who are hurled from a high-flying swing to perform astounding mid-air somersaults before landing in a four-man high shroud stand; Bojilow, one of the world's few slack wire jugglers; the Atli trampoline troupe; who climax their act with a quadruple backward somersault; Van Donwens Seals; Julieva and her trained doves; Rhodin's chimpanzees; the Atanas, whirlwind acrobats; the Silagis and the Boitschanows on the aerial bars; and Erika Pinske, the world's greatest aerial contortionist on the vertical rope.

Charly Baumann and his ten roaring, snarling jungle-bred Siberian and Bengal tigers are spotlighted in the center ring's new $50,000 woven steel arena. And the incomparable Adolph Althoff presents a wild animal display unique in circuses — the pairing in one cage of two mortal enemies; a tiger and a horse. This widely acclaimed act is climaxed by the tiger riding wildly around the ring mounted on the galloping horse.

Three rings of teeterboard tumbler, the Silagis, the Varadys and the Boitschanows, climax the big show. There are also three rings of perch acts, the Petrows, the Alexandrov and the Julievs, and three rings of talented canines trained by the Naganas, the Stephensons, and the Mogyros.

There are four glittering new production numbers for the 1967 show. For the first time in almost 25 years, the circus will open with a parade, featuring an international array of beautiful circus girls to set the stage for the three-ring thrills to follow. Comedy is the key to "Chari Vari," a careening kaleidoscope of clowns, jugglers and acrobats. "Viva Mexico" features three rings of prancing Liberty Horses, whipcrackers, charros and Mexican folk dancing. The salute to our neighbors to the South comes to a glorious climax with the performance of Madame Ingeborg Gautier Rhodin, "Queen of Dressage," riding her Lipizzaner stallion in the most exacting display of horsemanship in the world.

The circus stands on its head for "Alice in Topsy Turvy Land," a mad mod circus version of Alice's crazy adventures. "Artists and Models," complete with can-can dancers, is the special aerial ballet. Jungle rhythms throb in the most gigantic act of all, three herds of performing elephants trained by Capt. Hugh Schmitt, and the entire cast romps through Topsy Turvy Land in the colorful Grand Finale.

Favorites from last year's show will again be performing under the Ringling lights. The 50 famous Ringling clowns have concocted new routines to tickle the funny bone, led by Lou Jacobs and the world's tiniest clown stars, Prince Paul and Frankie Saluto. Back for another season are Adela Smieja, "The Lady of the Lions"; Konots Chimps; the Perez Bears; Karmelo; the bicycling Picards and Koslowskis; the Two Riveros on the aerial bars; the Titos on the trampoline; pigeon girl Helena Rassy; bareback riders, the Stephensons, aided by the famous Bulgarian clown Kochmanski; the high-vaulting Meeners; the Flying Waynes and the Gaonas on the flying trapeze.

While John Ringling North keeps his eye on European circuses from his home in Zurich, Switzerland, the Greatest Show on Earth is under the supervision of Henry Ringling North, vice president of the circus, and Rudy Bundy, vice president and treasurer. The most famous and loudest tooter of them all, Merle Evans, is again leading the Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey symphony as he has for over 40 years, and the world's only singing ringmaster, Harold Ronk, will again be welcoming children of all ages to the Greatest Show on Earth.

Performance times in Baltimore will be 4:15 and 8:15 daily with three shows on Saturdays at 10:30 A. M., 2:30 and 8:15. Sunday performances will be at 2:30 and 6:30.

CROUSE FORD SALES, INC., WINS "GOLDEN SHOVEL AWARD"

Washington, D.C. — Thirty-three dealers in Ford Division's sales district have earned the division's "Golden Shovel Award" for completing expansion, modernization or new building programs in the past three years.

The award recipients were among 131 district dealers from the District dealers from the District of Columbia, Maryland, northern Virginia and parts of West Virginia and Pennsylvania meeting here January 18 for a series of business meetings.

The 33 spent approximately $5,000,000 on new and improved facilities during the 1964-66 period to upgrade service and sales capacity. Several other dealers will announce major expansion programs for 1967.

Nationally, 680 Ford Division dealers have moved into new facilities during the three-year period. An additional 1,200 have modernized or expanded facilities and 13.2 million square feet of floor space have been added at a cost of approximately $164,000,000.

In 1967, some 400 other dealers will build new facilities and more will modernize existing plants. By the end of the year, some 2,500 Ford dealers will be in facilities built new or modernized in a four-year period at a cost of more than $250,000,000.

Crouse Ford Sales, Inc., of Taneytown of the Washington district received the "Golden Shovel Award."

CODE HOME RULE

The voters of Maryland approved a new form of "home rule" for the counties in the 1966 November General Election.

This form of local self-government for the political subdivisions is the third significant phase in the history of "Home Rule" in Maryland.

In 1914 the first phase was adopted to provide charter government for Baltimore City and any of the 23 counties. The second phase was adopted in the middle 1950's to provide for general municipal self-rule.

Now, the Senate of Maryland has under consideration a bill recommended by the Legislative Council to establish the structure for "Code Home Rule" counties.

Under this pending legislation, the county governing body would give notice and hold hearings on any proposal to adopt "Code Home Rule" status. It would then be necessary to have the adopting resolution passed by a two-thirds majority of the Board of County Commissioners and subsequently submitted to a referendum of the voters of the county at the next General Election.

If "Code Home Rule" is adopted, the existing county government would be required to hold legislative sessions and provide for citizen participation in the passage of any proposed new laws.

It has been suggested that "Code Home Rule" is not sufficiently flexible to permit the adoption of a modern "manager-oriented" form of government.

However, it is possible that a new State Constitution, when adopted, will permit a broad range of local governmental choices without adherence to set formulas of the past.

In the meantime, the General Assembly will probably approve "Code Home Rule" legislation as a "stop-gap" measure to take care of those counties which require immediate attention.

The False Peak

Lesson For February 5, 1967

Background Scripture: Luke 11 and 12.
Devotional Reading: Psalm 73:1-3, 21-26.

"In the realm of morals," says A.C. Craig, "there is only one thing harder than climbing up: it is climbing down from a false peak." To Jesus, Pharisaism was such a "false peak."

Of course we immediately recognize the term "Pharisee." They were the villains of the New Testament, "the bad guys." Probably more than any other group, Jesus condemned these men and it is not at all difficult to understand why they hated him as they did.

Why did he judge them so harshly? These men, he said, were hypocrites. The Greek word hypocritis means "to play a part on the stage." They gave the appearance of being highly moral, God-fearing men, but they were merely playing pious roles, pretending to be something they were not. Jesus called them hypocrites; today we would say they were religious fakers or "phonies." They really were not what they appeared to be.

Deceived Themselves

Not only did they deceive others, but, worst of all, they deceived even themselves. They not only pretended to be pious, but allowed themselves to be deceived into believing their own pretensions. Diligent in obedience to even the most minute requirements of the law, they fell victim to pride in their achievements. They would not have put it this way, of course, but their attitude was very much like a man would say: "God's pretty lucky to have a nice fellow like me."

Thus, they reacted to Jesus in much the same way that the Duchess of Buckingham reacted to the preaching of the early Methodists:

Their doctrines are repulsive and strongly tinged with impertinence and disrespect toward their superiors, in perpetually endeavoring to level all ranks, and to do away with all distinctions. It is monstrous to be told that you have a heart as sinful as the common wretches that ravel on the earth.

It is monstrous to be told that, yet it is precisely what Jesus came saying to the religiously respectable people of his own day. He called them to give up their hypocritical piety, to come down from their false peaks of self-respect. There are none of us too righteous to pray: "Lord, be merciful to me, a sinner." Our salvation is dependent, not upon our righteousness, but upon his gracious mercy.

Side Effect Of Virtue

Why all this interest in Pharisees? Why concern ourselves with something which is of little more than historical interest? The answer is that although the Pharisees of old are dead, Pharisaism is not. Hypocrisy did not end when the party of the Pharisees went out of existence. It continues as one of the perpetual dangers within the church today.

The basic problem of the Pharisees was not that their cause was evil — it had some of that finest objectives — but that it got side-tracked and detoured from its goals. Like a powerful medical drug that has unfortunate "side effects," Pharisaism has often led men into arrogant hypocrisy. Because they were deeply concerned with living righteous lives, because they therefore searched the scriptures diligently, these men became very proud of their moral achievements. They failed to understand that the truly righteous man is the one who, in humility, realizes that he is not righteous, but a sinner in the sight of God.

Is this not still a danger in the twentieth century? Are we not in approximately the same position as the Pharisees of old: proud of our respectability? It is still easy to be dishonest about our lives, both with ourselves and others. There is still much play-acting among the religiously respectable today. Don't you ever need to climb down from such a false peak?

How Stands the Inflation?

If Daniel Webster were to return to the scene today, his question might very well be: "How stands the inflation, Mr. President?" It would be a good question and worthy of Mr. Webster.

The economy of the nation has been inflating at a modest rate for the past 25 years, but the rate of inflation has increased considerably since the final quarter of 1965.

In October, for example, the consumer Price Index was 3.7% higher than 12 months earlier, the largest year-to-year rise in 10 years. So it is readily apparent that inflation today is "no small potatoes."

I feel that a key factor in measuring the impact of inflation during 1967 will be labor costs; it would seem "prudent" to allow for a 5% increase in wages in constructing a preliminary model of next year's economy.

The recent surge of inflationary pressures is in marked contrast to the relative price stability which marked the first five years of the current business expansion. This was possible, it seems, to me, because the economy was operating at less than full employment.

Classically defined, full employment means an unemployment rate of not more than 4% and a manufacturing rate of 92% of total capacity, the level at which optimum operating conditions prevail. When either or both of these figures is exceeded, efficiency is sacrificed and costs soar. And this is just what I observe is now occurring.

Labor, recognizing that the cost of living has increased and feeling its wages and salaries have failed to keep pace, is determined to win substantial increases next year. I think this may represent one of the critical points on which the 1967 economy turns.

Today's Investor

By Thomas E. O'Hara
Chairman, Board of Trustees
National Association of Investment Clubs

Q. I have $10,000 to invest. Should I put $5,000 into stocks and $5,000 into mutual funds? I am interested in growth.

A. Since you didn't tell me just how deeply you want to get involved in the stock market, I'm going to give you two answers. I have one answer if you want to keep abreast of your investment — "do your homework" by studying the market in general and certain stocks in particular, learning to recognize trends and interpret them for your own profit. But I have another completely different answer if you simply want to invest your $10,000 and pay relatively little attention to it. Either method is pretty sure to provide you with some growth in the long run.

First, let's assume that you're intent on getting to know the market, even "master" some aspects of it and take charge of your money. If that's the case, I'd recommend that you eventually plan to put more than half of your $10,000 into growth common stocks. Why? Because you're likely to get a greater gain on your money in the long run. To do this successfully, however, you have got to expand the effort to get acquainted with the market. You can't expect to do it by operating on "hot tips," personal whim and a hopeful attitude. At the same time it isn't as difficult as some of the glamour surrounding the stock market might lead you to think. But until you've learned the fundamentals, you'll do well to keep your money in a savings account.

If you have never invested, I suggest that you get together with a group of friends and form an investment club. Thousands of people have made their first flight into the investment skies with an investment club — and then have gone on to apply the principles learned there to acquire substantial stock accounts. Investment clubs have their social aspects and can be fun, but a serious, well run club can be an excellent classroom for learning about stocks and for obtaining a continual flow of investment ideas for use in your personal investments. All the details on how to proceed are available from NAIC.

On the other hand, if you want to put your money somewhere and let someone else manage it, I suggest that you buy shares in a "growth slanted" mutual fund. With a mutual fund your $10,000 will probably have the advantage of competent management. The 8% or 9% purchase commission is expensive. But all the same, a well selected mutual fund can be expected to bring you a satisfactory profit if you stick with it through the years.

Q. I am a widow, 73, and have an estate of more than $50,000. I don't have a will and realize I should, but lawyers seem so expensive. How can I assure that half of my estate will go to my two daughters and the other half be divided equally among my eight grandchildren?

A. You are to be congratulated on the fine job you have done in accumulating an estate. I do think it's important, however, that you consult an attorney and let him make certain that your wishes are expressed properly in a will. He can also help by seeing to it that distribution is handled in such a way that the taxes are kept to a minimum. He quite possibly can save you more over the long run than his fees will be.

I think you will find that an attorney's charge will not really be exorbitant. And for this particular job there is no reason why he can't tell you what his fee will be before you give him the job. If you are not acquainted with a good one, you might ask the trust officer at your bank. He should be able to direct you to a lawyer you can rely on.

Q. On the advice of our attorney we recently paid $200 for 10 shares of a mutual fund stock. Should we receive a duplicate certificate from the attorney? All we have received so far is a letter from him saying he had bought the stock. We also received a check from him—$1.80 in dividends.

A. The fund you mention is one of the largest in the country and has a good record. For example, $10,000 invested in that fund at the end of 1954 would have grown to $19,172 by the end of 1964, and meanwhile would have paid $3,971 in dividends.

Your attorney should have a certificate from the company covering the 10 shares you bought and should be able to give it to you if you ask him for it. The $1.80 you received represents a dividend of nine cents a share for each of two quarters paid out of dividend income received by the fund.

WHO MUST FILE FEDERAL INCOME TAX RETURNS

Everyone under 65 years of age (whether single or married) who resided in the United States and had gross income of $600 or more during the year, must file a Federal income tax return.

If you are 65 or older on the last day of your tax year, you are not required to file a return unless you had gross income of $1,200 or more during the year.

Tips — even if you had less than $600 gross income ($1,200 if 65 or over) you may still be required to file a return if you had uncollected Social Security tax on tips.

Income under $600 — if your gross income for the tax year was less than $600 ($1,200 if you are 65 or older), you should nevertheless file a return and claim your own exemption to obtain the refund of any income tax which was withheld from your salaries or wages. You are entitled to this refund even though you are claimed as a dependent by another taxpayer.

Identifying number — your social security number, which is also your Taxpayer Identifying Number, must be shown on your individual income tax return Form 1040 or 1040A. A penalty of $5 must be assessed for each failure to include this number on a return, unless a reasonable cause can be shown for not including it. If this is your first income tax return, and you do not have a social security number, contact your Social Security Office.

If you file a joint return with your wife, her identifying number must also be known, if she received wages subject to withholding or interest and dividends of $10 or more.

Husbands and Wife — if each spouse is required to file, they may either file separate returns or combine their income and file a joint return. If one had income of less than $600 ($1,200 if 65 or older), he or she may file a separate return in order to obtain a refund of tax withheld, but only if they do not file a joint return. However, if you file a separate return, your spouse may not claim your exemptions on his return. A wife or a husband may not after filing a joint return, also file a separate return for that year to obtain a refund.

School Budget Study

Superintendent of Schools, George E. Thomas, has announced that the public is invited to a school budget study and discussion to be held at the Westminster Jr. H.S. at 7:30 P.M. on Monday, February 6. This will be the first time that such a study and discussion for the interested public has been held in Carroll County.

The Board of Education has studied on a number of different occasions a preliminary or work budget. It is this budget that will be discussed with the public. The Board has not, at this time, approved a budget to be sent to the County Commissioners.

Superintendent Thomas and Assistant Superintendent Ecker feel that there is value to be had from the study session with the public. Such a procedure it is expected will be followed and elaborated in future years.

SRRC Requested to Adopt New Policy

Senator Charles H. Smelser (Dem., Carroll-Frederick) is the sponsor of Senate Joint Resolution requesting the State Roads Commission to adopt a policy with respect to the improvement of secondary roads in this State.

The Resolution's main objective will be to benefit all motorists in the State of Maryland and the taxpayers will have a substantial saving.

The present policy of the State Roads Commission, in the majority of cases, is to replace an existing road with an entire new highway. The Commission to be eligible for Federal funds had to meet certain standards, which for all practical purposes, meant that normally when a secondary road was replaced, a new highway had to be constructed. Recently the Federal Government announced a reduction of "highway aid funds" to the states, which will result in a slow-down of reconstruction of the State's secondary roads.

The Smelser Resolution, calls upon the State Roads Commission to adopt a policy of improving secondary roads by widening the shoulders, blacktopping and straightening of curves, except where such renovations are not practical or feasible for engineering purposes. This type of improvement would benefit the motorists and the taxpayer as follows:

- (1) The initial improvement would be less expensive.
- (2) Less property would be taken.
- (3) Provide the motoring public with more immediate use of the improved roadway and
- (4) Less maintenance would be required, both in manpower and in money.

Under the present system, the Senate and Federal Government spend hundreds of thousands of dollars for condemnation of land, legal fees, relocation surveys and many other expenses necessary for a new highway, all of this preliminary to a shovel of earth being removed for actual construction of the new road. In addition, the State, upon construction and completion of a new highway must maintain the old highway.

For many years the State has justifiably centered its efforts mainly on primary roads, which Marylanders do not use to the extent they use secondary roads. After all, to reach a primary highway, one must travel over a secondary road. The Senator, to illustrate his point about the high cost of constructing a new highway, cites the example that for what it would cost to build one mile of a new highway the secondary road could for a distance of from 12 to 15 miles, be improved for a distance of from 12 to 15 miles, and the constructing of a new highway to replace a secondary road, without any bridges in the construction, costs the taxpayer approximately $150,000.00 per mile. The Smelser Resolution would also benefit the motorists in that the secondary roads could be improved within a relatively short time as compared to constructing a series of new highways.

Tarts For A Festive February Party

In the midst of winter, February's festive holidays bring a welcome excuse for entertaining. Attractive Cherry Treasure Tarts are appropriate for any of the February holidays. These dainty little pastries are so easy to make yet they have the look of real party fare. Your favorite pie crust mix and canned cherry pie filling simplify preparation as well as assure excellent results.

Dress the tarts for a party with confectioners' sugar icing and a sprinkling of chopped pecans. Actually, your family will enjoy Cherry Treasure Tarts any time of the year; they make swell lunch box treats, too.

CHERRY TREASURE TARTS

Makes 2 dozen tarts

One 10-oz. pkg. Flako Pie Crust Mix
4 tablespoons cold water
Cherry pie filling

Thin confectioners' sugar icing
2 tablespoons finely-chopped pecans

Heat oven to hot (425°F.). Empty contents of package into bowl. Sprinkle cold water by tablespoonfuls over mix. Stir lightly with fork until just dampened. (If necessary, add another one-half tablespoon water to make dough hold together.) Form into ball. Divide dough into two equal parts. With lightly floured rolling pin, roll one part out on lightly floured board or canvas to 1/8-inch thickness. If dough sticks, add a little more flour.

Cut with a floured 3/4-inch round cutter. (An empty can, 2 1/2 cup capacity, with top removed works nicely.) Repeat with other half of dough. Place circles on ungreased cookie sheet. Place scant teaspoonful of cherry pie filling in center of each pastry circle. Fold circle in half. Dampen bottom edge with water. Seal top and bottom edges together by pressing with tines of fork. Cut slits in top to allow steam to escape. Bake in preheated oven (425°F.) 15 to 20 minutes. While still warm, frost tarts with icing; sprinkle with a few chopped pecans.

NEW WORLD OF SCIENCE

Man Unlocks Ocean's Secrets

The secrets that have long lurked in the briny deep are beginning to yield to modern ocean-engineering techniques.

Spurred by the demands of the oil and mineral industries, ocean engineers have developed new ways of exploring that sea around us that occupies nearly three fourths of the earth's surface.

The design of small submarines offering chambers from which divers can operate is hailed as a significant breakthrough by officials of Ocean Systems, Inc., an affiliate of Union Carbide.

Already in use are pressurized diving chambers that transport the diver to and from his work. Commonplace are dives of 700 feet. But with each improvement, the depth increases. By spring, dives of 1000 feet should be possible.

Keeping abreast of these developments, designers are fashioning new tools and equipment to extend the diver's capabilities. One item on the drawing board is an underwater fork lift.

Important advances have also been made in the field of acoustic and television sensors designed to help man chart the world below. Time was when weighted lines were used to measure depths. Now acoustic devices have taken over.

New processes for offshore oil drilling offer further proof that the sea's the limit for today's ocean engineer.
