A booklet "Bobcat Baseball—1967" from Frostburg (Md.) State College received in our office this week, contained a write-up on one of our local boys who is a student in that college, Roger Eyer. Eyer, who bats and throws right, is in his junior year; he is 21, 5 ft. 10 in. tall and weighs 185 lbs. The write-up states, in part: Eyer, a pitcher, has been away from baseball for several years. He is lacking the good fast ball, and will have to rely on his good curve and pitching to spots. He has shown good control in his latest workouts.

The Easter season is approaching—even with the snow falling this (Thurs.) morning. Everyone is looking forward to Good Friday and Easter morning. The ladies will be "showing off" their new clothes—the men going along, seemingly non-chalant but deep down they, too, are proud of the display. The children, too, are looking forward to Sunday. One of the highlights for them is the Egg Hunt to be held at Taneytown Memorial Park at 2:00 P. M. Hesson-Snyder Post is sponsoring this event. The churches are planning services to commemorate the resurrection of Christ.

CORRECTION

In last week's issue, in the article "Observation of Narcotic Problems," it stated "Raw opium, valued at $35.00 has increased its value to $225,000.00 by the time it has reached the user." It should read "Raw opium, valued at $35.00 has increased its value to $225,000.00 by the time it has reached the user." We regret the error.

Getting up in the morning is largely a matter of mind over mattress.

EASTER TIME

Easter Sunday is regarded by untold millions around the earth as the world's most important religious holiday. One of the most joyous days of the year, it symbolizes the reawakening of life that is universally associated with springtime.

The present-day parades that mark the day had their beginning in the original Easter walk of Europe, when devout men and women congregated and walked in an orderly manner through town and into the open country, stopping along the way to recite prayers and sing Easter hymns.

Today in many American communities, elaborate Easter parades find women and children in their new finery—the husbands and fathers going along for the walk. And one of the most charming of all customs is the Easter egg hunt for the children—renewing the custom far older than Christianity.

Easter combines a rich mixture of laughter and solemnity. Both are good—both are needed by the soul of man.

Yes, Easter Sunday is one of the great days of the year, a day of joy for you and your family.

HOUSE RESOLUTION

Due to a recent controversy over the interpretation of the conditions under which the County Commissioners can conduct the business of the County, I feel it necessary to clear the air in the best interests of the people of the County.

I plan to do this by a resolution which I feel not only explains the situation in the past, but sets forth procedure for the future based on facts and precedent.

A bill will be prepared to carry out the intent of the resolution. I have made this decision after discussion with the Attorney General's Office and feel his suggestion should be carried out.

The purpose of this action is not to enhance or delete the authority of any one or all Commissioners but to set forth in the law the conditions under which the Commissioners have transacted the business by the County long before the present Commissioners were elected.

I have discussed this with all three of the Commissioners. Two were in agreement and one felt there was no reason for such action, but I feel the legal opinion of the Attorney General's Office takes precedent over an individual's opinion not versed in the law.

Sincerely,
Jacob M. Yingling

House Resolution

House Resolution urging an amendment of the local laws of Carroll County with respect to the quorum of the County Commissioners necessary for the transaction of County business.

WHEREAS, There has been no change for many years in the basic law which sets forth the conditions under which the County Commissioners of Carroll County can transact the business of the County, except to provide that the County Commissioners may sit for an additional day and to provide for an increase in their salaries, justified by the increased demands of the office; and

WHEREAS, The County Commissioners of Carroll County have transacted the business of the county over these many years under such law; and

WHEREAS, Because of emergencies, illness, or death, it was necessary on occasions to transact such business with only a majority of the Commissioners in attendance; and

WHEREAS, It has been assumed over these many years by County officials that a majority of the Commissioners could transact business for the County in case of emergencies, illness or death and for other justifiable reasons; and

WHEREAS, Some of the occasions when this occurred are: the illness and death of Commissioner Carr; the vacancy caused by the resignation of Commissioner Denner until the appointment of Commissioner McKinney, and the illness of Commissioner Crawford; and

WHEREAS, Obviously any county governing body can be in the situation when one of the Commissioners, at least by virtue of sickness, will be unable to work any given number of days in any week, notwithstanding that a statute does not authorize his absence for illness and even were he absent for illness, the statute does not permit a pro-rated reduction in his compensation; and

WHEREAS, Such a situation can be promptly rectified by legislation embodying an emergency clause allowing it to become effective from the date of its passage; now, therefore, be it

RESOLVED BY THE HOUSE OF DELEGATES OF MARYLAND, That an amendment of the local laws of Carroll County with respect to the quorum of the County Commissioners necessary for the transaction of County business is hereby urged in order to conform the law to its longstanding interpretation by County officials; and be it further

RESOLVED, That copies of this Resolution be sent to the County Commissioners of Carroll County, and to the Attorney to the County Commissioners, and to all newspapers published in the County.

Americans used over 100 billion pounds of paper in the U.S. in 1966—or about 530 pounds per person—reports the American Paper Institute. And, by 1970, per capita consumption of paper in the U.S. is expected to hit 580 pounds.

REMARKS OF CONGRESSMAN CHARLES McC. MATHIAS, JR., AT HIS MARYLAND DAY RECEPTION, TUESDAY, MARCH 14

This month marks the 333rd anniversary of the founding of Maryland, on March 25, 1634. In celebrating Maryland Day, we are paying tribute to the men and women of the Free State who, over more than three centuries, have built a remarkable record of achievement in every field of endeavor and in every sphere of local, state and national activity.

Today we are especially emphasizing Maryland's role as a great maritime state and a consistent national leader on the seas, in commerce, and in American naval history. A fitting symbol of this leadership is the U.S. Frigate Constellation, the first warship of the Navy to reach the seas, and now the oldest ship in the world which has been continuously afloat.

Maryland-built, Maryland-manned, and now Maryland-berthed, the Constellation has played a prominent role in every chapter of our naval history since her launching on September 7, 1797. In time of war, on diplomatic missions, and in humanitarian service, her work has exemplified the best in our Navy and in our entire maritime tradition. It is our task now to be true to that tradition, by restoring the Constellation to full grandeur and guaranteeing that she will endure as a symbol of the early and continuing strength of Maryland and the nation on the seas.

One of the first three American ships to be constructed, the Constellation in 1799 scored the first important American naval victory when, under Captain Thomas Truxton, she captured the French frigate L'Insurgente in the Caribbean. A year later, she scored a second triumph by defeating the French man-of-war La Vengeance in the West Indies. After seeing action against the Barbary pirates and during the War of 1812, she was stationed off South America, in the Mediterranean, and again in the West Indies until the 1840's, when she became the flagship of Commodore Lawrence Kearny and began a long voyage around the world. In 1842 she became the first American ship of war to enter the inland waters of China.

After active service in the Mediterranean and on the Gulf Coast during the Civil War, the Constellation became a training ship at the Naval Academy in 1871. During the latter part of the 19th century, her most renowned achievement was transporting food to Ireland during the famine of 1880. After 1894, the ship was berthed at Newport, R.I., and remained there, except for a few brief cruises, until 1945.

In 1940, in a dramatic invocation of naval history, President Roosevelt ordered the Constellation recommissioned at Newport as the flagship of the U.S. Atlantic fleet and a symbol of American naval strength.

Since World War II, however, the Constellation has been preserved primarily by private energies. In 1953 title to the ship was transferred from the Navy to the Star-Spangled Banner Flag House Association of Baltimore, and in 1955 she was returned to Baltimore, where she is now berthed at Pier 4, Pratt Street. Since 1955, the Constellation Restoration Committee has maintained the ship, conducted tours, and raised funds for her complete restoration. In 1964 she was declared a National Historic Landmark.

A bill which I have introduced (H.R. 854) with Congressman Edward Garmatz would establish a permanent berth for the Constellation next to Fort McHenry, and would guarantee Federal support to supplement the efforts of the dedicated citizens who have preserved her and begun the great task of restoration of this historic ship.

Mr. and Mrs. James Baumgardner of Taneytown were in attendance at this celebration.

Goff, Crusade Chairman, said that Mrs. Bixler, Mrs. Yingling and Mrs. Young, along with their volunteers, accepted the assignments because of their deep concern with the urgency of the cancer problem. "SPICE 'N' EVERYTHING NICE" (Your Chatty Column)

With all my heart, I wish you every morning
A smile that shall last until the next day's dawning.
I wish you health—life's greatest wealth;
I wish you always near so that I may help to cheer
Each future day and in some way—help to bring you happiness!

Here is the story of "The Wanamaker Eagle" where a Philadelphiaian says, which is a familiar phrase, "Meet me at the Eagle!" The great bronze eagle in the grand court of the Philadelphia Wanamaker Store was originally made in Frankfurt, Germany, for the Louisiana Purchase Exposition (St. Louis, 1904), and was purchased by the Wanamaker store at the close of the exposition. It is a magnificent example of modern metal art! All the parts—the heavy plates that form the inner structure, as well as the feathers and other surface parts—were made separately and wrought by hand with chisel, file and hammer. Every individual feather on the head and body was modeled and fitted in place by hand. Such painstaking work resulted in a much more natural and life-like effect than can be gained by embossed or cast work. But it involved more than five months of labor by a large number of highly skilled craftsmen. There are 1600 feathers on the head alone and 5000 on the whole eagle. The length from head to tip is 9 feet 10 inches, height 6 feet 6 inches, width 3 feet 3 inches. The weight, Paestral, 4,500 pounds! It is on the huge pedestal that can seat about four individuals while keeping an appointment but many just stand around and wait. When next you visit Wanamaker's be sure and see "THE EAGLE."

Now this, I learned the other day which very few knew. Nelson Eddy confided in a reporter that he had proposed to Jeannette MacDonald EIGHT TIMES! And that he only told just before his death!

Did you read about the young policeman of the Western Dist. who handled three "bulls" all by himself as they were beating him up? Only 24 years of age and he was off duty, but carrying his revolver. Today, all police are not given the authority that they should have. Eh?

And this I did not know about Rosa Ponselle until recently that she sang in the opera "La Forza" with the great Caruso on Nov. 15, 1918, at the Met in N.Y. when she made her debut! She recently celebrated her 70th birthday. I'll always remember when my Minister and I visited her in her lovely "open house" affair during the Christmas holidays. She has about eight or ten Poodles and they do have the run of the house! It was truly a Christmas to remember! And to think, now another opera star has passed on—"Geraldine Farrar" whom I have heard many times in the Opera House in Philadelphia when I was a young girl.

And thinking about entertainers. No one is as refined and genteel as that nice Lawrence Welk and he has been most obliging as to my suggestion placing the beautiful and humble celloist from the orchestra as to solos. She is a beauty!

Many times I have placed over the years the sure cure for the bald head of that Cuti-care ointment and soap and here is one and that from experience! A mole appeared in the last few years on the upper part of my cheek (where actresses place them for a beauty mark). Every one teased me asking if I had placed it there and then I asked my Dr. to remove it with a needle which he refused to do stating, "It looks like a beauty mark, just leave it alone." I then purchased the ointment and soap and followed directions and after four weeks' treatment it is almost gone! Wonderful!

The "Farmer's Almanac" truly has stated facts so far as to the month of March. Most accurate I have ever read! To the very day!

Have a grand week-end, folks. Be careful when you drive, especially at corners even if you have the green light! Until next week, D.V.

I am,
Faithfully yours,
Irene deLeon Love.

And a P.S.—That cute ad of "Clark's Chewing Gum" with a few dance steps!

THOUGHTS OF INSPIRATION, COURAGE AND HOPE FOR THE LENTEN SEASON 1967

This really is an invitation to accept the greatest gift ever offered to the world. Here is the gift: "God so loved the world (not necessarily only the church) that He gave His only Son, that whosoever believeth on Him should not perish, but have eternal life." John 3:16.

Have you ever noticed how carefully this gift is given? "For God sent the Son into the world not to condemn the world, but that the world might be saved through Him." John 3:17. We are also promised by Jesus, "I came that you might have life and have it more abundantly."

May you have a wonderful Easter in 1967.
