THE BATTLE OF LIFE.

Go forth in the Battle of Life, my boy,
Go while it is called to day,
For the years go out, and the years come in.

Regard less of those who may lose or win,
Of those who may work or play.
And the troops march steadily on, my boy,
To the rmy gone before;
You may hear the sound of falling feet Going down to the river where the two worlds meet—
They go to return no more.

There is room for you in the ranks, my boy,
And duty, too, assigned,
Step in to the front with cheerful grace—Be quick, or another may take your place,
And you may be left behind.

Temptations will wait by the way, my boy, Temptations without and within;
And spirits of evil, in robes as fair
As the holiest angels in heaven wear,
Will lure you to deadly sin.

Then put on the Armour of God, my boy,
In the beautiful days of youth;
Put on the helmet, breast-plate and shield,
And the sword that the feeble arm may wield
In the cause of Right and Truth.

And go to the Battle of Life, my boy,
With the peace of the Gospel shod,
And before High Heaven do the best you can
For the great reward, for the good of man,
For the Kingdom and crown of God!

KATHIE'S WEDDING DOWRY.

"Only one silk, and that not new!
Dear me, dear me, it is dreadful," and Mrs. Grayson caught up the pretty bodice of the garment in question, and gave it a shake. Kathie, hemming ruffles by the window, laughed.

"What can't be cured must be endured; there's no help for it, auntie," she said.

"Yes, there was help for it," cried the lady, tossing the garment from her, "if you had taken my advice;
but you must go and act like a simpleton!
The idea of a girl of your age giving away her hard earnings, and then getting married without even a decent change of clothing! I declare it is too absurd! And you are making a good match, too—Charley Montague comes of one of the best families in the country, and he'll be rich one of these days."

"At which time, let us hope, my scanty wardrobe will be replenished," said Kathie, merrily.

Her aunt frowned contemptuously.
"But what are you to do now?"
she went on. "What do you think Mrs. Montague, of Oaklands, will think of you when she sees you in your shabby garments?"

"Shabby garments!" said Kathie, opening her bright brown eyes.—
"My garments are not shabby auntie. I'm quite sure I never looked shabby in my whole life."

Mrs. Grayson glanced at the trim, graceful figure. The close fitting blue merino was faultless; the linen cuffs and collars were as spotless as snow. Kathie was right; she never did look shabby.

Mrs. Grayson's well-to-do aunt, with daughters of her own, who trailed their silks in the dust,
and tumbled their plums and laces, and looked dowdy all the while, regarded the trim little figure at the window with a half-admiring, half-sneering smile.

"Such a simpleton as you have been," said her aunt, "after toiling and teaching for your money, to turn round and give it away! I declare it puts me out of temper to think of it."

"What else could I do?" the girl burst out passionately. "Could I see poor George's cottage sold over his head and he and his wife and children turned into the street?"

"Assuredly," answered the lady, coolly, "he could have rented a house easily enough, in your place, I should have kept my money in my pocket: but you wouldn't listen to my advice. You are sorry for it now, no doubt."

"I am not sorry. I would do the same thing again to-morrow. I am glad I had the money to pay poor George's debt, and I don't care if I do look shabby."

"Very well, I shall not try to care either, I shan't help you, I told you in the beginning. I can't afford it; and even if I could, I should not feel it my duty. You would be headstrong and senseless; you must bear the consequence. I'll give you some lace for your neck and sleeves, and you may wear that garnet set of Josephine's."

"I don't want any lace—I've some that belonged to my mamma; and I wouldn't wear Josephine's garnets for anything."

"Oh, very well! don't snap my head off, I beg; you needn't wear them. Much thanks one gets for trying to assist you! You won't wear my hat either, I suppose? How about that?"

"I have plenty of trimmings; I shall trim that light felt I wore last winter."

"And your jacket where's that to come from, pray?"

Kathie's tears were gone; her brown eyes flashed like stars.

"I intend to make myself a jacket of grandpa's old overcoat," she replied.

Kathie then threw aside her ruffles,
and going to the cloth-press,
brought out the old coat.

"The material is very fine," she said "and this rich, old-fashioned fur will cut into nice strips for trimming; I can make a handsome jacket out of it, and I think," she added softly, "grandpa would like me to have it if he knew."

"Grandpa, indeed!" echoed Mrs. Grayson. "I should think you'd have but little respect for his memory after the manner he treated you; never leaving you a penny, after you nursed him and slaved for him as you did."

"I think he intended to leave me something," said Kathie. "I know he did; but he died so suddenly, and there was some mistake."

"Oh, nonsense, I wouldn't give a fig for good intentions! He had lots of money—everybody knows that.— It has all gone to that scapegrace Dugald, and you haven't a shilling for your wedding dowry."

"Charlie won't mind that," said Kathie, her cheeks blooming like a rose.

She took the old coat and crossing to the window, began to rip the closely stitched seams, her pretty, fresh face looked sad and downcast.
Aunt Grayson's worldly wise talk had put her out of heart.

All her life she had been such a brave, sweet little soul. Left an orphan early, she had lived with grandfather; and made his last days bright.

"You're a dear little child, Kathie; by and by, when you think of being a bride, I will give you a wedding dowry."

He had said so a dozen times, yet, after his sudden death, one midwinter night, there was no mention of Kathie in his will, and everything went to Dugald, the son of a second marriage.

Kathie did not complain; but it cut her to the heart to think grand-papa had forgotten her. She tried not to believe it; there was some mistake.

And when Dugald sold out the old homestead and went off, she gathered up all the old souvenirs and took care of them. The old fur trimmed overcoat was one.

Then lodging at her aunt's she taught the village children, and saved up her earnings for her wedding day; for Charles Montague loved and asked her to be his wife.

The wedding day was appointed, and she was beginning with fluttering heart to think about making her purchasing, when her brother Geo.

fell ill; and worse, fell into trouble.
He was rather a shiftless man and had been unfortunate; his little home was mortgaged, and unless the debt could be repaid, the house would be sold over his head. Kathie heard and did not hesitate an instant. Her hoarded earnings went to pay the debt.

It was so hard to be cramped for a little money, and one's wedding day so near. Her wardrobe was limited. She needed a nice sealskin cashmere dreadfully, and a light silk or two for evening wear.
Aunt Grayson told the truth—she would look shabby in the grand rooms at Oaklands, in the very midst of Charley's stately sisters.

The tears came faster, and presently the little pearl handled knife, with which she was ripping the seams, fell suddenly, and out a great gash across the breast of the coat.

Kathie gave a little shriek of dismay.

"There, now! I've spoiled the best of the cloth; I can't get my jacket out. What shall I do?"

Down went the bright young head, and with her face buried in grandpa's old coat, Kathie cried as if her heart would break.

Something rustled under her hands.

"Why, what's this? Some of poor grandpa's papers!"

She tore the lining loose, and there beneath the wadding, was a package done up in parchment, and tied with red tape.

Kathie drew it forth. On one side was written: "This package belongs to my grand daughter Kathie."

"Why, what can it be?" cried the young girl, her fingers fluttering, as she tugged at the tape.

At last the knot yielded, and she unfolded the package. Folded coupon bonds—a good dozen at least—and a thick layer of crisp bank notes. On the top, a little note, she read it.

"My dear little grand-daughter, here is your marriage dowry—$10,- 000. One day some fine fellow will claim you for his wife. You are a treasure in yourself, but take this from old grandpa."

"Oh, Grandpa, you did not forget me!" sobbed Kathie.

A ring at the door startled her.— She immediately looked out and saw her lover, and gathering her treasure into the lap of her apron, she rushed out to meet him.

"Oh, Charlie, come quick! I've such wonderful news to tell you."

The young man followed her to the drawing-room, wondering what had happened.

She told him all.

"My darling," he said, his voice thrilling with tenderness, "I am so glad of all this, because you are glad.
For my own part, I would rather have taken those darling little hands without a shilling in them. You need no dowry Kathie; you are crowned with beauty, and purity, and goodness. In my eyes you are always fresh and fair and lovely, no matter what you wear. I love you for your own sweet self, my darling."

Kathie let the folded coupons and bank notes slip from her apron and fall to the floor in a rushing shower.
"Oh, Charlie!" she whispered, leaning her head against his shoulder,
"I am so glad!"

"Glad of what, Kathie? Grand-papa's dowry?"

"No; glad you love me for myself."

He clasped her closely, and at their feet grandpa's marriage dowry lay unheeded.

THE difference between a barber and a sculptor is very slight. One curls up and dyes, and the other makes faces and busts.

The Sancy Diamond.

The "Sancy" diamond was a fine stone of 53½ carats. It was picked up on the field of Nancy by a Swiss soldier who sold it for a florin to a priest; it was unsuspectingly redisposed of by him for a scarcely larger sum, and transported by the currents of chance or trade to Portugal, where it figured in 1489 among the crown jewels of the unlucky Dom Antonio. This monarch, in difficulties, first pledged and then sold it for 100,000 livers to Harlay de Sancy, a French nobleman, whose descendant, Nicolas de Sancy, was induced to place the gem in pawn for the relief of a pressing exigency of the crown in the time of, Henri III. For this purpose it was intrusted to a servant to be carried to a jeweller at Metz; but neither servant nor jewel reached their destination, and the conclusion seemed inevitable that the temptation had proved too strong for the man's fidelity. De Sancy along never wavered in his reliance on the devotion of his life would he have separated from the precious charge committed to him. And, in fact, after some further search had been made, the murdered body of the messenger was found by the roadside. It was opened, and the diamond was discovered in the stomach!

Kneading Bread.

Here is a little incident which not only has the merit of being true, but the additional one of containing a lesson much needed by girls:

A lady in one of our large cities was interested in finding employment for the numbers of needy idle women during the years of great depression in trade. One day a young woman came to her who had tried in turn to fill a place as shop-girl, seamstress, chambermaid, cook, hair-dresser and patent medicine ven-dler, and had been discharged from all as incompetent.

"You have never learned any trade or handicraft?" asked the lady.

"Well, no, nothing particular. I was handy in a general way."

"Is there nothing you can do thoroughly well?"

The woman reflected, then her face lighted.

"I could knead bread. I always did that better than any one else on the farm."

The lady's brother, an eminent physician, who happened to be present, suddenly took part in the conversation.

"Let me look at your fingers," he said.

They were long, strong, of great nervous force.

"I will give you work." He had charge of a hospital in which the patients were subjected to a cure called massage, a process of kneading, by which artificial exercise is given to the body. Skillful manipulators were difficult to find. After a few lessons our country girl earned her thirty dollars per week.

With every year the number of young men and women pressing into the market to find employment increases. There is absolutely no chance for the loosely trained workmen whose brain or body is only "handy in a general way." Learn to do one thing, and to do it thoroughly, and you will never be in danger of going without a meal for the lack of honest work.

REMEDY FOR HARD TIMES.—Stop spending so much on fine clothes, rich food and style. Buy good, healthful food cheaper and better clothing; get more real and substantial things of life every way, and especially stop the foolish habit of running after expensive and quack doctors or using so much of the vile humbug medicine that does you only harm, and makes the proprietors rich, but put your trust in the greatest of all simple, pure remedies, Hop Bitters, that cures always at a trifling cost, and you will see better times and good health. Try it once.
Read of it in another column.

Badly Confused.

A southern paper tells the following: Soon after the battle of Prairie Grove, three Confederate officers of rank came into the Union army to negotiate for exchange of prisoners.
Three Union officers were detailed to negotiate with them. One day, while the commission was in session, an old gray-headed, gray-bearded Arkansas farmer walked in and asked:

"E's this the provo's offis?"
Some one attempted to explain, but the old fellow, being quite deaf,
did not understand, and said:

"Yes, I'm a good loyal citizen; I've got my protection papers; I've been and got paid for my forage.— It's all right."

"Look here," said Colonel W—of the Union army, "you had better be careful about what you say about your loyalty; don't you see those gentleman over there?" pointing across the table to where the Confederate officers sat in their gray uniforms.

The old man took out a pair of dilapidated spectacles, and fitting them on his nose, closely examined the gray uniforms with their velvet collars and brass stars. His hands trembled violently, and he seemed quite frightened, but collected himself and said to the Confederates:

"Well, gentleman, I meant no offense. I didn't know—fact is, I've allus been a Southern man. I've jeet got one son, and he's with Mar-maduke. The only other man grown in my family that's fit for sarris is my darter Sallie's husband, and he's with Rector, and—"

"Hold on, old fellow!" cried Colonel W—, "what about your being a loyal citizen?"

He looked at the other side of the table. Then he readjusted his spectacles, scanned the blue coats, took off his handkerchief from about his neck, blew his nose, leaned both hands on the table, and said:

"Well, gentlemen, this is a little mixed, but you jist go on and fight it out among yourselves. I can live under any government."

A Little Too Modest.

A lady on the northside wishing to test the merits of Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup thought it would never do to ask the druggist in the name of "Bull." Why dear me, she couldn't say Bull to save her life, and called at last on a neighbor woman for suggestions on the matter. Dr. Cow's, Dr. Calf's, Dr. Buffalo's and Dr.
Oxen's Syrup were all mentioned.
The latter suited. "Yes, that will do—Dr. Oxen—the very thing, the druggist will understand that. A walk of two squares found her at the counter of Dr. H—'s store, where the following dialogue occurred:

"I wish a bottle of Dr. Oxen's Cough Syrup."
"Dr. Oxen, Oxen, why, mam, I don't believe I keep that. You mean Cox's Hive Syrup, don't you?"
"Oh, no, I mean, mean Dr. Oxen," and then she seemed wrapped in solemn thought for a moment, when a bright idea seemed to beam forth.
"Hasn't Dr. Oxen got a relation or—"

"Oh, yes, you mean Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup, yes, yes." The lady sat down a moment and all was over.—Indianapolis Ex.

THE most sensible remedy, and the only safe, sure and permanent cure for all diseases of the liver, blood and stomach, including bilious fevers, fever and ague, dumb ague jaundice, dyspepsia, &c., is Prof. Guilmeite's French Liver Pads, which cures by absorption. Ask your druggist for this noted cure, and take no other, and if he has not got it or will not get it for you, send

ROAD-MAKING AGAIN.

It is scarcely possible to exhaust the subject of road-making. It is one which so directly affects all the interests of every member of society, that no one can be indifferent to it.

It has been irrefutably shown, again and again, that the general state of the roads in any country, unerringly indicates the degree of civilization to which the people may have attained.

We aver that whatever money may be necessary to put our roads in good and proper condition will be repaid in the future in the diminution of the taxes therefor, whilst in the meanwhile the profits of industry will have all the time been increasing.

This subject invites the earnest and active consideration of our County Commissioners. As the guardians of the public interests, it most naturally falls within the province of their duties, to institute such proceedings as may develop the theory, and the most practical modes of procedure.

We surely have the home talent, the administrative ability, if properly set to work, to bring our county in the line of the most favoured districts of the land. To be the author of some well devised system of road-making for Frederick county, should excite the ambition of our people.

We should like to see these questions taken hold of in an enterprising manner. We should keep them before the people, stir up their interest in them, get them together in consultation in District and County meetings.

We respectfully ask you therefore gentlemen of the Board of County Commissioners, to look into this matter, fairly, earnestly, squarely, and set the wheels of progress in motion.

DR. WITHERSPOON, the eloquent delegate from Petersburg, Virginia, occupied the attention of the Presbyterian Council yesterday with a spirited defence of the doctrine of eternal punishment. He declared that the doctrine was strictly Scriptural, according to the most reliable translations from the original tongue; and it is worthy of note that in his denunciation of Canon Farrar's interpretation as erroneous, he quoted as his authority "one of the best Greek scholars on this continent, the professor of Greek at the Johns Hopkins University."

THE TARRYTOWN CENTENNIAL.—Arnold and Andre.—Yesterday the good people of Tarrytown, N. Y., which is Washington Irving's Sleepy Hollow, the scene of the adventures of "Ichabod Crane," celebrated the centennial anniversary of the capture of Maj. Andre and the exposure of Benedict Arnold's treason. Andre, the go-between of Arnold and Clinton, and the latter's adjutant, was captured September 23, 1780, by three American irregulars, named Paulding, Van West and Williams, who were out doing a little picket and scouting business on their own hook.

PLEASURE and pain have come to Mr. Spurgeon paired; his fifteen hundredth sermon has been translated into Japanese, and his old malady, rheumatism, has settled in his knee.

BISHOP SIMPSON, who was suddenly taken ill in the pulpit at San Francisco on Sunday, is slowly recovering, and is expected to return to his home in Philadelphia in October.

THE Pope has named Dr. Michael Corrigan, now Bishop of Newark, to be coadjutor of the Archbishop of New York, with right of succession and with the title of archbishop in partibus infidelium.

It is believed that the largest yield of wheat on record is one hundred and two bushels to the acre, raised by one James L. Ray, of Lewis and Clarke county, in the Territory of Montana.

GEN. GRANT denies the story that a $10,000 set of diamonds, presented him by a Japanese prince, was stolen from him by a private secretary and sold to a Washington pawnbroker for $5,000. He never had any such presents and never met with such a loss.

A HANDSOME GIFT TO PRINCETON COLLEGE.—The New York Tribune of yesterday says: "Princeton College has just been the recipient of the princely gift of $100,000 from Mr. Robert L. Stuart, one of New York's best known and most public-spirited citizens. This is not the first time that Princeton College has been indebted to Mr. Stuart for liberal benefactions; but this gift at the present time, owing to the reduction in the rate of interest on all investments proper for institutions of learning, must be, and doubtless is, more than ordinarily acceptable. It is given in trust for the support of such professorships as are not now endowed, or only partially so, which shows the exercise of good judgment and wise discrimination on the part of the donor. We understand that the Theological Seminary at Princeton also receives $100,000 from Mr. Stuart for the endowment of a new professorship, which the Rev. Francis L. Patton, of Chicago, has recently been invited to fill."

WASHINGTON CORRESPONDENCE.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sep., 28th. The great sensation here in Department circles is the discovering that quite an amount of money, bonds, and other valuables have been taken from the safe in the Second Auditor's Office, by its late Chief Clerk, C.F. Herring. The story is as follows:—During the war, when men enlisted and were entitled to bounty money, some of their valuables were held back at the recruiting stations to be forwarded to them when they were reported at the front. This was done to prevent bounty jumping. In some cases men deserted, and of course did not claim the valuables taken from them, which were then sent to the Second Auditor's Office, and placed in a large safe, of which Mr. Herring had the entire charge and control. It is these valuables taken from soldiers that Mr. Herring stole. The entire amount lost, is $4,187.81. Mr. Herring was not an extravagant, and the money he took did not go to his family. It is impossible to tell where it went, but it is suspected he was in the hands of blackmailers, whose demands compelled him to commit the crime.

The Democratic Congressional Campaign Committee, are slacking up in the work of sending out documents. They still have a pretty large force engaged, but the October States have been supplied, and the work now is being devoted to States that are considered doubtful in the November election.

There is being received at the Treasury Department quite an amount of old 7-30 notes, which were redeemed in 1868. These notes were convertible into 5-20 bonds before the date of redemption, and it was so printed on their backs. With the notes being received now comes a request from the holders that they be converted into 5-20 bonds. This cannot, of course be done. They are paid in money, with the accrued interest up to 1868. The holders evidently thought that they could call any time before doomsday for 5 20 bonds for their notes.

It is somewhat incompatible with the present order of things that the military committee of the House of Representatives, at the last session of Congress, removed General Butler as one of the managers of volunteer soldier's homes. Butler was conceded to be a good officer, and his removal was solely for the reason that he was not a Democrat.

President Hayes will reach Fremont, Ohio, his home, in time to vote for Garfield and Arthur. General Grant will be at Galena to vote for the same ticket. It is in the nature of a variety, for Presidents and Ex-Presidents to be voting for their successors. This for the reason that but few of them live long enough after the expiration of their terms to vote in a presidential year.

Your readers generally will regret the complete failure of Captain Howgate's expedition. The Guinara, the little steamer sent out to plant an exploring party at Lady Franklin's Bay. The colony to make its explorations from that point, and to be advanced to the north from time to time as was possible, has been compelled to return. Captain Howgate says the vessel will be sent next year.

MADRID, September 25.—King Alfonso, by a royal order, has commanded that the 25th of September (to-day), the fete day of Santa Mercedes, be kept as an official holiday and gala day in the palace in honor of the Infanta Mari Mercedes Isabella. This year, in consequence of the Queen's health, there will be no reception or banquet in the palace. The King and Queen yesterday gave an audience to the Papal nuncio, who presented, in a splendid marble and ebony casket, the gift of the Pope to the Infanta Mercedes. It is a very rich satin robe, covered with lace, and displaying the es-cutechons of Spain and the Pope on the skirt. The robe was made and embroidered by ladies of the Roman nobility at the request of the Pope.

ARCHBISHOP WOOD has received a letter in Latin from the Papal Secretary, Cardinal Nina, setting forth the straitened pecuniary circumstances of the Holy See, and making an appeal for aid. ONE of the most curious facts about the census in Columbus, Ohio, is a colored enumerator who, being run over by the cars several years ago, came out of the doctor's care with both arms amputated at the shoulder. He learned to write legibly by holding his pencil between his teeth, and as an enumerator recorded on an average 200 names a day.

TO THE MEMBERS OF THE AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY OF THE PEOPLE OF FREDERICK COUNTY!

At a special meeting of the Board of Managers of the Frederick County Agricultural Society held September 27th, 1880, the action of the Board of the Saturday previous was unanimously reversed by the substitution of the following:

Resolved, That the Annual Exhibition of this Society as advertised to commence on Tuesday, October 12th, be postponed to Tuesday, October 26th, and terminating on Friday, October 29th, 1880, subject to the same rules and regulations as prescribed in the regular premium list.

With the announcement of the above, the undersigned Committee was unanimously instructed by the Board to present succinctly and briefly the reasons which induced their actions.

With a just appreciation of their responsibilities as the custodians of the welfare and prosperity of the Society the Board felt assured that the Exhibition, as previously announced; in view of the obstacles opposed, would prove a lamentable failure.

To summarize briefly: The overshadowing influence of the grand Sesqui-Centennial (Baltimore's one hundred and fiftieth anniversary) progressing the week as our proposed Fair, whilst attracting thousands of our citizens and farmers, the main stay and support of our institution, at the same time would draw from our country, many, very many, of the fair wives and daughters whose encouraging smiles and presence redound so largely to our success, and whose skillful handiwork has rendered our Household Department the centre of attraction and an object of admiration and pride. The Board deem it unnecessary to enlarge on the subject as its influence extends to every family, and is patent to all. Besides the development and prosperity of Baltimore should elicit the pride of every Marylander, and we should rejoice in the opportunity which presents to evince our interest in the great commercial city with which we are connected by all the ties natural to man.

Also, the "Great Fair" at Washington under national auspices, with its $25,000 in premiums and but an hour or two distant by rail, in progress at the same time, would further tend to deplete our population and leave, we sincerely believe, a meagre representation for us.

Also, by this action of the Board our Society avoids conflicting with her Sister Societies, Washington county, Gettysburg, and Winchester, all commencing October 19th, and those persons whose feelings point to "Pimlico," can indulge the bent of their inclinations without expatriating themselves from their own Society.

The Railroad fares so low, the attractions so many, the opportunities so great, what could we then present to stem the onward torrent. While a few tried and faithful friends would remain true to their first love, by far the largest number who seek excitement and pleasure and at little, if any additional expense, would be conspicuously absent.

Actuated by a sincere desire for the permanent success of our institution, the Board express the hope that their action will receive the approbation of every member and friend of the Society.

[Signed on behalf of the Board.] JAMES H. GAMBRIEL, C. K. THOMAS, GEO. WM. SMITH, J. WM. BAUGHMAN, FAIRFAX SCHLEY, FREDERICK, Sept. 27, 1880. Committee. oct 2-4t.

GLANDING'S Patent Trunk, Patented September 30, 1879, by Thomas Glanding, Baltimore, Md.

This Trunk is presented to the public, and the special attention of buyers is called to its advantages. The body and lid of the trunk are made in the usual manner. The trays, which are a special feature, are divided into two sections, the smaller tray or parson case being attached to the lid, is raised out of the body when the lid is raised.

The larger or main tray is attached to the ends of the body by means of parallel arms, so that the tray may be raised and carried back into the lid in its original horizontal position, and is supported on the arms, thus giving access to the body of the trunk. The arms are pivoted to plates of suitable metal, on which are knobs or projections to stop their motion and prevent the tray from falling back against the lid.

We ask the ladies when in town to call and examine the Trunk at GEO. A. GILBERT'S Hat, Boot & Shoe Store, NO 16 N. MARKET ST., Frederick City, Maryland. Ask for Glanding's Patent Trunk. Use no other. mar1 1880

OUR farmers are now gathering their apple crop, and the opinion seems to be that the fruit will not keep well. WHY do pork and sweet potatoes generally go together? THE flagging of the alley footwalks has begun. Hereafter we can go just "straight on," no walking around the sharp pointed stones as heretofore. THE Agricultural society of Washington county have received and accepted an invitation to participate in the Sesquicentennial in Baltimore next month.

THEY are threatened with a water-famine at Frederick. But we dont think they will dry up down there, in a while. They can take to milk as elsewhere. THE postponement of the Frederick Agricultural Fair, with the reasons therefor, and the address by the managers, which we print in another column, will be read with interest.

THE directors of our Frederick county Agricultural Fair, have changed the time of its opening, from October 12th to October 26th. There will thus be no interruption for our people with the Baltimore celebration, and the Hagerstown Fair.

THE Citizens of Emmitsburg and its vicinity favourable to forming a stock company, for a public cemetery, are hereby requested to meet at the office of the President of the Emmitsburg Railroad, in the "Mottor building" on Thurs day next (Oct. 7), at 3 o'clock, P. M.

THE UNION DRUM CORPS of Emmitsburg, by special invitation, attended the Carroll County Agricultural Fair on Thursday, they were accompanied by a number of our Citizens. We are pleased to learn, they met a hospitable reception and were all highly gratified by the excursion.

THE Baltimore Weekly Sun of last week contained the first installment of Madame Bossboom-Toussaint's Dutch novel, "Major Frank," translated by Edward Spencer, for the Sun's special use. The work is accorded the highest commendation from all quarters. It will be regularly continued in the Sun.

A GOOD ACCOUNT.—To sum it up, six long years of bed-ridden sickness and suffering, costing $200 per year, total, $1,200—all of which was stopped by three bottles of Hop Bitters, taken by my wife, who has done her own housework for a year since without the loss of a day, and I want everybody to know it for their benefit." "John Weeks, Butler, N. Y."

BE merciful to the poor flies which come forth, the dear knows whence, in your stove-warmed rooms. Whilst you are wondering at their presence, they are evidently as much surprised as you are. They feel the warmth, but seem to recognize its abnormal quality, and hence their stupid ways, and their dogged persistence to lodge on the brightest, and upon the most prominent points of your countenance.

AT a meeting of the bar, held on Monday morning in the court-room at Hagerstown, a number of addresses eulogistic of the late Judge Weisel were made and a number of appropriate resolutions adopted. The funeral services were held this afternoon at Trinity Lutheran Church, of which Judge Weisel was a member, and were very largely attended. After the services the remains were interred in Rose Hill Cemetery.—American.

WE have been requested to announce that the "Presbytery of Baltimore," will hold its 192nd stated meeting in Emmitsburg, Md., October 5th inst. The order of exercises will be: Tuesday, 2 p. m., opening sermon and organization. Special orders: Tuesday, 8 p. m., public discussions. Subjects: 1st, "The conditions of Prevailing Prayer," 2nd, "The Indocination of the Young;" each subject to be opened with a prepared address of twenty minutes, followed by brief spontaneous addresses. Wednesday, 7 p. m., a sermon.

THROUGH BY DAY-LIGHT.—Last Saturday evening Mr. W. R. Kerrigan in passing through his back yard, stepped on his cistern floor which gave way, he descended rapidly to the bottom, through about three feet of water; By dint of sundry plunges, long reachings and tall steepings, he again stood on solid ground, in wonderment—and ready to sing "whose been here, &c." Whilst mathematically a strait line is the shortest distance between two points, it is often well to proceed on a curve toward home.

UNDER the heading of "A City's Jubilee," the Baltimore Sun says: A VETERAN EDITOR AND PRINTER.—Samuel Sands, editor of the American Farmer, in accepting an invitation, says "I have been connected with the press of this city since 1811, and of course had an active participation in its affairs, and after the attack on this city in 1814, had the honor of putting in type the national song, 'The Star-Spangled Banner,' from the original manuscript, of which I have, my friends think, some cause of gratification, and it perhaps identifies me closer with 'The Art Preservative of all Arts' than any other department which will take part in the celebration."

HOTEL ARRIVALS.—The arrivals for the week ending Thursday, were as follows: Western Maryland Hotel—Jno M Walker and wife, Mr Beechey, Saml J Keller, Baltimore; Mrs S Fennelly, Wm Fennelly, Emma Fennelly, Mrs S H James, Miss Ella James, Mr Lawrence James, N Y city; Geo Codori, Jacob Leutz, Mr Powers, W Binder, Smith Crowell, Philadelphia, Pa; Saml Manahan, Emmitsburg; Isaac Allison, Chambersburg, Pa; Hezekiah D Mehring, Carroll Co; C A Castle, Frederick city; S E Young, Boonsboro; Thos M Keel and wife, Eversfield F Keel, Maryland; Frank W Shriver, Westminster.

Emmit House—F A Brown, Benj F Collins, N L Ireland, W C Danner, T H A Hardester, J Geo Baetzer, J M Ritter, W E Jones, M Robertson, Baltimore; A Wake, Jacob Mickley, Gettysburg, Pa; Jacob Newcomer, Emmitsburg, H L Rich, Trumbul, Ohio; G S DeGrange, Frederick city; P S Bentz, Wellsville.

A PLEASANT MEDICINE.—Croft's SENNA FIGS, supply the long desired substitute for the nauseous, oils, boluses, pills, &c., of the past, for cases of "Constipation," and bilious complaints. Put up in neat boxes of one dozen doses to the box, they are in a very convenient form to take; are to be eaten as figs, and are as pleasant to the taste as the fruit itself.—Are sold for 35 cents a box, to be had of all Druggists, or direct from the proprietor, S. F. Croft, opposite the Court House, Hagerstown, Md.

BILL our ever faithful horse died last Sunday morning. According to the records given us, he was 14 years, 4 months and 2 days old, having served us with unflinching fidelity, 6 years, 4 months and 2 days. We record his taking off with saddened feelings, for it is rare indeed that the characteristics of strength, docility, and the sagacity to discern what is just the right thing to do, under all circumstances, regardless of provocations to the contrary, not even excepting the whip, are combined in an equine as they were in him. Whoever drove (man, woman or child) Bill ever seemed to realize that all responsibility rested upon him, and he instinctively undertook and executed his work, apparently on that principle. He never before was sick in our possession, never limped, never seemed weary, and missed but the one meal which preceded his death. We have thus written to give expression to our sense of gratitude in remembrance of faithful services, which we can scarcely hope may ever again be rendered to us in like manner.

THE programme of Baltimore City's 150th Anniversary, has been laid before the public in circulars, and in the City daily and weekly papers in full detail, presenting an array of attractive scenes of the most inviting character. The celebration is intended to be observed through the week, beginning October 11th, and will include the illumination and decoration of all the houses, street parades and spectacles, historical and allegorical representations, a grand mass-meeting, torchlight procession and illumination at night, &c. In order to afford every facility to visitors, the various railroad and steamboat lines centering in Baltimore have reduced their fares to Centennial (1876) rates, and for their accommodation on arriving a committee on public comfort, with headquarters at the City Hall, has been formed to provide boarding-houses and private accommodation when the hotels are full. We advise all persons who can possibly avail themselves of the opportunity, to do so.

THE October number of St. Nicholas completes the seventh volume of that most excellent study. The frontispiece, a very interesting drawing by M. J. Larionoff, is entitled "The Lantern Fly," by G. B. Holder; "Ludovick's Rocks," by Paul Fort; "Jack and Jill," concluded by Louisa M. Alcott; "Naugally Kitten," "It is the Cat," drawn by F. W. Sooy; "Day Dreams;" "The Navigator's Day of My Life," is concluded; Ernest Ingersoll presents some reading of thrilling interest for children in "Some Man-eaters," scenes of peril in hunting lions, tigers, sharks, &c. Besides there are several other articles presenting an agreeable variety of reading in Poetry, &c. "The Fairpoint Nine," is concluded. "Jack in the Pulpit," "Letter Box," "The Riddle Box," all have their features of usual interest. Altogether the number fully maintains the interest which always attaches to this "Girls and Boys" Monthly, and also contains much to interest grown up folks. To be had of all booksellers and postmasters, at 25 cents a number or $3 a year.

WE clip the following from the Evening Star: ACCEPTED.—Rev. W. H. McMeen, the recently appointed pastor of the Presbyterian church, of this city, has accepted the call extended to him by the members of that church and will enter upon the discharge of his duties immediately. The Directors of the Central National Bank of Frederick, on the 23d inst., declared a semi-annual dividend of four per cent, payable on and after Monday, October 4th. United States and State taxes paid by the Bank. Frederick corporation taxes deducted from the dividend on such stock as may be liable to the tax. This Bank is under good management.

REMODELING THE OLD REFORMED CHURCH.—At a meeting of the Consistory of the Reformed Church on Monday morning last it was unanimously determined with a view of securing more ample and comfortable accommodations for a large and growing Sunday School, to remodel and utilize the Old Reformed Church, adjoining The Examiner buildings, as a chapel and Sunday School room and for whatever other purposes it may be found necessary. This move has been in contemplation for some time past and now that the idea is to be made tangible, the very great advantages and conveniences to be derived will doubtless be immensely appreciated by those who have been obliged to sit several hours each Sunday and occasionally during the week within the confines of a rather dingy and contracted basement. The work of remodeling and renovating will be commenced, we understand, very shortly and when completed the building will be one of the finest adapted to its purposes in the city.

A CEMETERY FOR EMMITSBURG.—The good people of Emmitsburg are discussing the propriety of purchasing a lot and laying off a cemetery. As an investment, nothing will pay better and besides, the desire to provide a suitable place for the remains of the dead will be gratified.—Union.

Messrs. Eyster completed the new pavement in front of their premises, having widened it over a foot, under the skillful workmanship of John Jackson, it is now one of the best footwalks in town. In front of the footwalk has been since put down a fine cobble Stone gutter, which sets off the whole thing completely. These energetic young men don't do things by halves.

LIST OF LETTERS.—The following letters remain in the Post Office, Emmitsburg, Md., Sep. 27th, 1880. Persons calling will please say "advertised," otherwise they may not receive them: Adlesperger, John H; Buckley, Miss Kate V; Bumgardner, Jacob; Burket, Miss Clara; Eiker, Mr. J. PERSONALS.—Mr. Walter W. White returned on Thursday from an extended trip into West Virginia, he brought with him a fine lot of cattle and several horses. Miss Louisa Motter returned home last Saturday, from a visit of several weeks, in Franklin county, Pa. Mr. A. B. Wingerd and family visited Mrs. H. Motter. Mrs. L. M. Motter and her daughter, Miss Carrie, are visiting in Taneytown. Messrs. Albert S. Rowe and David C. Myers left on Monday for St. Joseph, Mo. where they expect to engage in business, they will be greatly missed here, and we wish them the success which commonly attends good talents and probity of conduct. Mrs. J. T. Motter is visiting in Baltimore.

[COMMUNICATED.] IN MEMORIAM.—We deeply regret to learn the death of Miss Susanna McCaffrey, the last sister of the Rev. Dr. McCaffrey, ex President of Mt. St. Mary's College. Miss Susan was born in Emmitsburg, on the 9th day of August, 1814, of truly christian parents, and died in Philadelphia, on Monday, Sep. 27th ult. Miss McCaffrey possessed intellectual acquirements rarely to be met with. Having received a thorough education at St. Joseph's Vale, she was capable of adorning and enlivening every circle in which she moved. Blessed with talents of a superior order, her mind was a treasure-house of beautiful conceptions, her imagination was truly poetic, which she cultivated in moments of retirement. Some of the choicest Catholic Hymns are the productions of her pen, and had she allowed her poetical effusions to be published they would have been equally appreciated, with Miss Eleanor C. Donnelly and other females who write solely for the honor and glory of God; In this her numerous admirers have been disappointed, but hope some kind friend will trace them then up and give them to the world.

In 1855, when on a short sojourn in her native village, Miss McCaffrey formed the first sodality in honor of Our Blessed Virgin, Mother of God, in St. Joseph's Church, under the auspices of Father Hennessy. She also formed at the same time, a youthful choir at St. Joseph's Church, mingling her own voice, full of melody with theirs, a voice which once heard, can never be forgotten. Miss McCaffrey had a great zeal for the adorning of God's holy altar, where she spent many hours, her taste was of a refined order, elastic and pure. "Oh! be Love's clean oblation—rite, Her memory's fitting shrine, When altar wreaths of lilies white, In fragrant beauty twine." Such being the tenor of her pure and holy life, her character can be summed up in a few words. She was an intelligent lady, an affectionate sister, a tender and loving aunt, a model friend, and a conscientious Christian. Her heart was a pulse of charity, which beat responsive to others woes, and having followed the example of a devoted mother, we hope she is now resting with that dear mother in the communion of Saints. We truly sympathize with her afflicted brother left here awhile in this "Vale of Tears," and also with her nephews and nieces; to the latter we would say, there is One above watches over His children. Whose benign and all-powerful influence can conduct them through the vicissitudes of this life to that blessed land where we confidently hope their good aunt is now enjoying the reward promised to the sincere christian.

This slight tribute to Miss McCaffrey's memory comes, from one who enjoyed her friendship in earlier and happier days, and to whom now, since she has passed from earth, it affords her friend a melancholy pleasure here, to record that few have been better prepared to meet death. Miss McCaffrey resided in Philadelphia, the most of her life. V.

Agricultural.

SPRING AND FALL PIGS.—Pigs littered in the fall or early winter, owing to the cold weather, lack of green food, etc., seldom make a good start, and in many cases are eaten so soon as dropped by their voracious dams. Pigs for the greatest profit should come about the opening of spring, with its fresh grass and warm sunshine; they can then be ready for the market by fall, and very few risks will be run. For this end sows should be bred in December or January. At one time large hogs were highly prized in the market, but now smaller ones are in demand, and such pork can be produced at less expense per pound than that of large hogs. Young hogs are the most profitable, born in spring and marketed in the fall.

A PRINCIPLE IN FEEDING.—All food beyond such amount that is properly digested and assimilated by the animal is a source of loss to the owner, and that in two ways: First, the food is lost; and second, the animal is not kept in the best condition for getting the most out of its feed—its stomach is overloaded and its digestive apparatus more or less disarranged. Just inside the limits of assimilation is the point to have in view in feeding; in this way the animal will have a good appetite and other things being equal, is sure to give the best returns for food consumed. There is a golden mean in feeding farm stock, which the farmer should find.

COMPOSTING is the art of mixing organic matter, such as straw, muck, dead animals, etc., that must undergo decomposition before they become available as plant food, with inorganic matter that will absorb and retain the valuable gases that the organic matter would otherwise let pass into the air and thus be lost.—Such a mixture must be kept moist, but not exposed to rains that would wash away the valuable soluble salts. Stable manure and muck make an excellent basis for a compost heap, with which ashes, leached and fresh lime, weeds (not in seed), waste matters, etc., can be mixed.

SUBSOILING.—The advocates of deep plowing are not either so numerous or so strong in their views as they were a number of years ago.—It is safe to say that one of the best methods of loosening up the subsoil—and this is the chief end to be accomplished in using a subsoil plow—is by deep-running clover roots. With an occasional crop of clover that will send its roots below the depth to which the subsoil plow goes, the soil in most cases will be made deep and mellow, and at the same time enriched for the crop to follow.

VALUABLE RECIPES.

MILK-YEAST BREAD.—Take one cupful of milk, add hot water to warm the milk; mix sifted flour to make a thin sponge; let stand over night in a warm place; in the morning add one half cupful of butter, and flour to sufficiently stiffen for bread, kneading thoroughly; fill pans half full, and in a warm place allow the loaves to rise to the top of the pans; bake in a steady oven, not too hot, one hour.

GERMAN FLUMMERY.—Half pint of milk, two ounces corn starch, two of sugar; boil until moderately thick. Flavor with lemon or vanilla; beat the whites of four eggs to a snow, stir in lightly, turn the whole into a jelly mould (any dish will answer) that has not been wet with milk; let it get cool and firm; serve with any fruit syrup, boiled mustard or whipped cream.

A NICE AND SIMPLE DESSERT.—Take half a pint of rice, which must be put into a little cold water and boiled until nearly soft; now pour into it a pint of rich milk and boil again, stirring it all the time; sweeten with half a pound of sugar, and season with a little rose-water to your taste. Dip blanc-mange moulds in cold water, and fill with the rice, which should be cooked to the consistency of stiff mush. It will harden in a short while, and turn out prettily upon a flat dish. Eat with preserves and cream, sugar, and nutmeg, or syllabub; custard even may be used for variety's sake.

Humorous.

THE Chicago Times is confident that the complaint of shop girls is one of long standing.

SAYS Jones: "I hate a fool."—"Yes," replied Smith, "like hates like." They meet as strangers now.

THE following is the advertisement of a Western tailor: "Wanted—two or three steady girls, to put on pants."

WHILE a Leadville lawyer was cross examining a woman who was on the witness stand, last week, she exclaimed: "I'm a lady, and by thunder, don't you forget it."

It seems paradoxical to say that a thing can be bigger inside than out, but if you eat a pint of dried apples and drink a pint of water you'll find that such a thing can be.

"Och," said a love-sick Hibernian, "what a recreation it is to be dying of love! It sets the heart aching so delicately there's no taking a wink of slape for the pleasure of the pain."

WHEN the old gentleman comes home and finds his daughters have got to slippers and the easy chair and the evening paper ready for him, he realizes that it is the season for a fall opening of his pocketbook.

A BASHFUL young man was escorting a bashful young lady, when she said, entreatingly, "Jabez, don't tell anybody you beamed me home." "Don't be afraid," replied he, "I am as much ashamed of it as you are."

HE was informed that a lady had called to see him in his absence.—"A lady," he mused aloud, "a lady." Upon an accurate description, he suddenly brightened up and added, "Oh, dot vas no lady; dot vas my wife."

"WHY don't you come in out of the rain?" said a good-natured dominie to a ragged Irishman. "Shure, it's av no consequence, yer riy'ence," returned Pat. "Me clothes is so full of holes they won't howld water."

A LANCASTER merchant sent a dunning letter to a man, who replied by return mail as follows:—"You say you are holding my note yet. That is right—perfectly right. Just keep holding on to it, and if you find your hands slipping, spit on them and try again."

"Do you know what you are eating?" whispered one of the boarders, as he watched his neighbor wrestling with a slice of leathery pie. "Alas," sighed the martyr, "I know only too well. 'Tis but a little faded flour." And he passed his plate for another slice.

"WILL you please pass the milk, Miss Brown?" asked a young man of a fidgety old maid at the supper table. "Do you take me for a waiter, sir?" she answered; "Well," he added, "as no one has taken you thus far, and you've waited so very long, I should think you were one."

JOHNNY's father is a professional jurymen, and talks about his business to Sunday school. Last Sunday the teacher asked him what Cain did when God accused him of being his brother's murderer. "He didn't do nuffin but fix it with the jury," was the startling reply which struck the teacher's ears.

A LITTLE boy in a Sunday School put a poser to his teacher. The lady was telling her class how God punished the Egyptians by causing the first-born of each household to be slain. The little boy listened attentively. At the proper interval he mildly remarked, "What would God have done if there had been twins?"

HE opened the door cautiously, and poking his head in, in a suggestive sort of way, as if there was more to follow, inquired: "Is this the editorial rinktum?" "The what, my friend?"

"Is this the ranktum—Sinktum—sanctum, or some such place where the editors live?" "This is the editorial room, yes, sir; come in!"

"No, I guess I won't come in; I wanted to see what a ranktum was like, that's all. Looks like our garter, only was—Good day."

Literary Revolution and Universal Knowledge.

An Encyclopaedia in 20 Vols., over 16,000 pages; 10 per cent more matter than any Encyclopaedia ever before published in this country, and sold, handsomely and well bound, in cloth for $10, in half morocco for $15, and printed on fine heavy paper, wide margins, bound in half Russia, gilt top, for $20—an enterprise so extraordinary that its success, beyond all precedent book publishing, may be fairly claimed to inaugurate a Literary Revolution.

THE LIBRARY OF UNIVERSAL KNOWLEDGE is a reprint entire of the last (1879) Edinburgh edition of "Chambers's Encyclopaedia," with about 40 per cent of new matter added, upon topics of special interest to American readers, thus making it equal in character to any similar work, better than any other suited to the wants of the great majority of those who consult works of reference, and altogether the latest Encyclopaedia in the field.

Specimen Volumes in either style will be sent for examination with privilege of return on receipt of proportionate price per volume.

Special Discounts to all early subscribers, and extra discounts to clubs. Full particulars with descriptive catalogue of many other standard works equally low in price, sent free.

Leading principles of the American Book Exchange:
I. Publish only books of real value.
II. Work upon the basis of present cost of making books, about one half what it was a few years ago.
III. Sell to buyers direct, and save them the 50 to 60 per cent. commission commonly allowed to dealers.
IV. The cost of books when made 10,000 at a time is but a fraction of the cost when made 500 at a time—adopt the low price and sell the large quantity.
V. Use good type, paper, etc., do careful printing, and strong, neat binding, but avoid all "padding" of fat and heavily-leaded type, spongy paper and gaudy binding, which are so commonly resorted to to make books appear large and fine, and which greatly add to their cost, but do not add to their value.
VI. To make $1 and a friend is better than to make $5 and an enemy.

Standard Books.
