The Old Birch Switch That Hung On The Wall.

How dear to my heart are the schooldays of childhood,
When no care nor contrition my wild spirit knew;
The orchards I robbed, our larks in the wildwood,
The schoolhouse and grove where the birch switches grew;
The row of mud pies with toe marks imprinted; How they rush to my sight at fond memory's call;
The old cider mill with draughts never stinted, And the switch that hung high on the old schoolhouse wall.
How the youngsters assembled in terror oft trembled,
As that hide-cutting switch came down from the wall.

That knotty old switch in my mind is abiding,
For oft, when returned with some wild truant band,
I received with that switch a most merciless hiding,
The toughest and sorest boy-nature could stand, Unlike the old bucket no moss was adhering, No white pebbled bottom was touched when it fell,
No pure sense of coolness e'er marked its appearing,
But I marked each descent with a jump and a yell, Oh, I viewed it with loathing, for no under clothing Broke the force of those blows as so swiftly they fell.

I remember with trembling one grim little madam,
Who taught me the rudiments, pot hooks and all,
And who thought to expel all the sin left by Adam,
By thrashing it out with that switch on the wall;
I've been horsed o'er the knees of that maiden so human,
With my back to the foe and my face to the door,
And I thought how fools prate of the soft touch of woman,
For each touch drew a blister, each stroke woke a roar,
In that day of tough switches and very thin breaches,
When correction was pressed both behind and before.

HISTORICAL SKETCH OF EMMITSBURG, And its Vicinity.

Since the publication of last weeks paper, we have been favoured with an important addition to the list of the medical men, then given, who attended at Mt. St. Mary's College and St. Joseph's Institution. 1st, Dr. Wells, (his son and grandson are both wearing his professional); 2d, Drs. Robert and Daniel Moore; 3d, Dr. James A. Shorb; 4th, Dr.
William Patterson; 5th, Dr. John B. Brawner. Their assistants were Dr. Felix McMeal, Dr. John J. Grover, Dr. Timothy Sweeney, Dr. John B. Brawner. This is the list of physicians, in regular succession, from 1808 to the present time. The present incumbent, the well known and much esteemed Dr. Brawner, is a lineal descendent of the first settlers of this neighborhood. An English gentleman, named Arnold Livers, who had been an active and noted partisan of King James II, upon the collapse of that weak and unfortunate monarch's cause, was obliged to flee from his native land, and settling in Maryland, he became the proprietor of a large estate, called "Arnold's Delight, on the banks of Owings' creek. Tradition says, that in his flight, he carried with him across the ocean, his only child (orphaned by the death of her mother) then in her second year. This child was called Jacoba, in remembrance of James II. She grew up, and became the wife of the pioneer W. Elder, mentioned before in this sketch.
Dr. Brawner has his lineal descent from the united families.

One other physician ought also to be mentioned, as belonging to the neighborhood, Dr. J. G. Troxell, who though but recently settled among us, has already won the confidence and respect of quite a large circle, and whose residence is between the College and Clairvaux.

LOCAL EDUCATIONAL FACILITIES.

Emmitsburg and its vicinity has almost from its beginning, been distinguished for its educational facilities, (independent of Mt. St. Mary's College and St. Joseph's Academy).

There is no one now living, who can recall the days, spent under the guidance of a Cocklin or Mallady; few indeed, remember Master William Mullen and his "Mathematical Academy" on Church Street; Mr.
Isaac Burbank, whose daughter became the wife of the late distinguished Senator Morton, of Indiana; but many can call to mind the amiable and gentlemanly Robt. Crooks; also Mr. Oliver McClain and — Walters.

Emmitsburg, at present, has three schools, two free, and one parochial.
The directors of the primary school (white) lately erected a large school building at the "West End." The coloured school is taught in Lincoln Hall. St. Euphemia Academy, conducted by the Sisters of Charity, has passed through the second year creditably, giving great encouragement to the devoted teachers. This school has two yearly examinations, and monthly concerts, which improve the students, and which keep up the interest of, or rather kills the monotony of school days. At the end of the year, premiums are distributed and their exhibitions can now vie with older institutions. A large and commodious building is in contemplation, to be erected on St.
Vincent's Avenue, for the accommodation of this school. It may not be completed for a few years, the ground, however, is secured. Emmitsburg has, also, her six Sunday schools, all conducted by proficient teachers, enlivened by their annual pic nics, Christmas and Easter festivities, &c.

The first newspaper was edited by Mr. McClain, and published by Mr.
Riley, now of Annapolis, somewhere about 1840; it was called the Emmitsburg Banner. In 1844, Mr. C. Grate published the Emmitsburg Star, a very entertaining and useful paper, which he continued for a few years. The Mountain Echo, a small paper edited by the young Lagarde's, at Ingleside, near Mt. St. Mary's College, was published during the past year. The Emmitsburg CHRONICLE, edited and published by Samuel Motter, was first issued on the 14th of June, 1879.

TELEGRAPH AND RAIL ROAD.

The Telegraph was first introduced in the year 1866, and ever since the establishment of the office, the citizens have had the opportunity of satisfactory and uninterrupted communication with the outside world, through the efficient and skillful management of its wires, by the Misses Helman.

In the year 1875, a Rail Road, connecting with the W. Md., at Rocky Ridge, was completed, but not for several months after the death of the first president of the company, Joshua Motter, Esq., Mr.
James A. Dwin was then elected to fill the office, and in — short years, he too was called away from the scenes of worldly labour, when Rev. Fr. Goedry was chosen for the first position among the directors of the road, his official course was energetic and efficient, but his clerical duties prevented his continuance at the duties, Mr. J. Taylor Motter was chosen in his stead, and is still filling the office of president of the road.

Emmitsburg, though without gas-works, is well lighted, there being lamps on all the streets.

PUBLIC BUILDINGS.

There are four Public Halls, Annan's Hall, on the square, The Band Hall on Church St., St. Vincent's Hall, on St. Vincent's Avenue, and Lincoln Hall, on the back St.; one Foundry, two Tin and Stove Stores, three Furniture stores, three Undertakers, five Shoemakers, two Tailors, two Drug Stores, one Jewellery store, two Confectionaries, three Millinery, and seven stores of general merchandize, one gun smith, two carriage factories, one cigar manufactory, besides several grocery and provision stores, a photograph gallery, clothing store, two saddlers, marble yard, tannery, two hotels, two boarding houses, black-smiths, and in a word a complete organization of industrial occupations, adapted to the present requirements of trade, among which stands conspicuously, the warehouse at the Rail Road.

CONCLUSION.

And so for nearly a hundred years, this little village has been quietly nestling at the foot of the mountain, scarcely knowing any changes other than those of birth and death, altogether unable to grasp the modern idea of progress, whilst enterprise, science, wealth and luxury have been spreading over the farthest corners of the land. We hear the murmur and confusion of the noisy outside world, but feel quite secure from its encroachments. Seed time and harvest, summer and winter, always come to us, and find us still the same. Thus it strikes us who are resident, but visitors unite in the view, that the improvements within the last twenty years are quite marked, and this narrative has shown that nearly one third of the town has been rebuilt within that time.

SOME CORRECTIONS.

An oversight in our issue of last week made the time of the great fire in this place, June 15th, 1873, when it should have been 1863.— The first house burned was that of Mr. Lawrence Dwen, directly east of the stable whence it began, being the same property formerly owned and occupied by the well known and highly esteemed, Thomas Hays, Esq. The fire did not extend to the property of Simon Mentzer, but on the east side of the street stopped with the destruction of Mr. John Hopp's property, since rebuilt, (now occupied by Miss Offert). From there the flames crossed the street to Hugh Daley's house, and thence westward up town, expending its fury on the Hotel then on the square.

A GEORGIA clergyman was obliged to spend the night a few weeks ago in an obscure cabin in the wilderness. In the morning a junior member of the family, in response to an application for a washbowl, brought him an old tin pan, and after the face toilet was completed, hunted up about seven teeth of an old tucking comb for him to arrange his hair with. During the progress of this important ceremony the following conversation between the two took place: "Mister, do you wash every mornin'?" "I do."—"And comb your hair too?" "Yes."—"Well, don't it look to you sometimes like you is a heap of trouble to yourself?"

ACCORDING TO WEBSTER.—A few months ago an old gentleman was seen nailing a notice on a fence in Iowa. A friend, passing, said:
"Why don't you have the notice put in the paper, where people can read it?" "Waal," said the old gentleman, "if I took it to the newspaper office the newspaper fellers would get it spelled wrong, and then some body might think I didn't know how to spell." The notice read: "Howze fur rent inchoir on preymeyais."

INDIGESTION.—The main cause of nervousness is indigestion, and that is caused by weakness of the stomach.
No one can have sound nerves and good health without using Hop Bitters to strengthen the stomach, purify the blood, and to keep the liver and kidneys active, to carry off all the poisonous and waste matter of the system. See other column.

LOVE OR MONEY.

"No, I shall never marry a poor man, Grace. I have always said so, and you shall see that I keep my word. I have heard enough of misery resulting from lack of funds in the start of wedded life and do not mean to serve as another example."

"But suppose, Maggie, you should happen to love a poor man?"

"Oh, I can hardly imagine such a case, as I have never seen any one worth falling in love with yet.— And, then, I have a taste for the luxuries of life. I have control enough over my feelings to direct them toward one who can satisfy all my whims."

"Well, I trust you will become convinced of your error sometime, Maggie; for rich men are not always the best men, and then riches take to themselves wings and fly."

"Now, Grace, you know when I say rich I do not mean immensely wealthy, but comfortably situated.
Of course I would rather have a husband who knew how to make money than one who merely possessed it."

Maggie Temple and Grace Edgecombe were firm friends, were always seen together at school, and kept up the intimacy after they had entered society.

The above conversation took place as they were preparing for a walk. It was a glorious October day. The afternoon rays were shining brightly on the polished passes of the old hotel at Stony Point when they descended the broad piazza steps.

A great many of the guests had departed, and our friends loved to stay on the beach, watching the waves. They were not alone long, however, before Mr. Butler and Captain Ellis came up, saying that they had been looking everywhere for the young ladies. They wished their company boating. Maggie and Grace consented, and our party was soon seated in a pretty yacht.

Bright remarks passed, and later, when the moon came out, the quartet joined in some familiar songs.— Both Mr. Butler and Captain Ellis paid Maggie marked attention; but while she chatted gaily, there was something that perplexed her. She felt instinctively, not so much from the words of Captain Ellis, but from the low, well-modulated voice, and grave, earnest manner, that he took more than a friendly interest in her.

"What if he cared for her? No, she would not think of such a thing.
And she continued in gay reparatee until they all voted that it was time to return.

"Well, I must say we had a delightful time," said Grace, when the girls were in their own room.

"Isn't Captain Ellis a splendid conversationalist, and such a perfect gentleman; but do you know if think Mr. Butler admires you? You have no idea how he dwelt on your words when you were talking to Captain Ellis. But you will do well to encourage him, for they say he is wealthy, and you know you want a rich husband."

"Yes, I do; and, as you say, they are both perfect gentlemen; although I admire Captain Ellis' intellect and manly qualities most."

After Grace had gone to sleep, Maggie revolved it all over in her mind, and resolved she would not encourage and gain the affections of one whom she deemed so worthy in every other respect, but who she never could accept on account of his poverty.

The following day Grace's parents made up their minds to return to their city home, and Grace and Maggie were obliged to bid farewell to all their pleasant summer days.
"Do talk to me, Maggie; you have scarcely spoken a word since we started for home."

But no persuasion on the part of Grace could induce Maggie to rouse herself. The truth was, she was regretting the cold farewell to Captain Ellis, and now that he was separated from her, she was becoming dimly conscious that he not only cared for her, but that she loved him.

Mr. Butler and Captain Ellis soon left Stony Point, the former returning to his law studies in the city and the latter departing for the South.

In all the gay entertainments in which Margaret Temple and Grace Edgecombe figured on their return home, Maggie was the principal leader. In the midst of the glitter and glare of the throng, she would turn away, thinking how utterly heartless all the world was; for the image and voice of one ever haunted her.

By means of great determination and pride, she kept up her courage, however, and acted as gayly as the rest. But God only knew the inward conflicts she experienced when alone.

Mr. Butler was the only one whom she could tolerate, and, encouraged by the preference she showed for him, he came one evening an asked her to be his wife.

"You honor me, Arthur; but I cannot be your wife, for I do not love you."

"But you may learn to love me, Maggie. It is not every lady that is asked to share a fortune such as mine. And I would strive to make you happy. Even though you do not love me now, say yes."

"I am sorry, Arthur, to be obliged to refuse you. And you mistake my character if you think a sordid gain of wealth is the only consideration that would induce me to accept you. I trust we will be friends still."

"How could I act differently toward you, for I have always admired you above all women? And if at any time I can render you any assistance I will gladly do so.— Captain Ellis has returned from the South. It is because you care for him that you refuse me? But I will not question you further. Goodbye."

They shook hands and parted.
Maggie Temple was sitting at the piano, playing a prelude, when the door-bell rang, and she had scarcely risen from the stool before the girl ushered in Captain Ellis.

"I have just met Arthur Butler.
Was it because you loved me that you refused to become his wife, Maggie? Forgive me for staying away so long. I know you will when I tell you I have been away for our mutual benefit. I could not ask you to share my poverty, but will you be willing to accept a comfortable home. I am not rich, but I think I have enough for our comfort and happiness."

"Yes, John, I will be your wife if you can forgive my coldness to you.
I was prevented from showing my feelings toward you by a foolish idea that I would like to marry rich.— But I have long ago become convinced that I could be happy with you anywhere."

"That is like your own, sweet self, my darling, and I will prove to you that we can be happy anywhere." Grace took pity on Arthur Butler's lonely condition, and her pity turned to a warmer feeling, for she has promised to be Mrs. Butler; and Arthur is all in all to her—but to Margaret Temple he was not Captain Ellis.

THE trial of Luther C. Pickett, charged with the murder, by shooting, of his cousin, Milton Pickett, near Winfield, Carroll county, on the 12th of October last, terminate in his acquittal. The elder Pickett it will be remembered, in company with his daughter, who charged Luther with being the father of her illegitimate child, had gone into the field where the latter was at work, when the trouble which resulted in the shooting occurred.

EMMITSBURG, MD.:

SATURDAY, DEC. 18, 1880.

THE EDUCATION QUESTION.

There has been considerable discussion of late, in reference to the problem of education. It has grown out of some views enunciated by Mr. Richard Grant White. He says: "The census returns show that crime, immorality and insanity are greater in proportion to population in those communities which have long been under the influence of the public school system, than they are in those which have been without it." In the view of some, the difference in the amount of crime, as between the North and the South, is attributed to the denser population of the former, inducing a greater conflict for subsistence, and more enlarged opportunities for criminal practices.

There is, undoubtedly, an educated, as well as an ignorant villainy: the evidences of these two forms are daily exhibited in the records of the press.

Education apart from the influence of morality and religion, even tends to manifest itself in the development of new and ingenious forms of evil-doing. The Scriptural idea of training is—in the way the child should go, with the promise that, when he is old he will not depart therefrom.

We are a firm believer in the principle of educational religion—a complete union of moral and intellectual forces in education under all forms. The old practice of having the school house along side of the church, and the school directly under the supervision of the church's authority, will yet be required in practical operation before the confronting evils of the present course can be removed.

In the face of the acknowledged advancement of the North in refinement and wealth and benevolence, there is much indecision and uncertainty as regards its theological basis, and this instability necessarily will manifest its influence in whatever may come under the power of the reigning order of thought. There may be great intellectuality and small faith, as well as mighty works misdirected by reason of the absence of that divine gift; the tendency thence will be towards unbelief—infidelity—this, under one form or another will strive insidiously, to engraft itself into the moving elements of society.

The cry, "Great is Diana of Ephesus," will drown the feeble voice of a better and higher dispensation, and herein do we believe lies the mystery. The unfolding and the elaboration of these principles, are found within the domain of theological science.

A succession of destructive fires has occurred within the past week. Nine-tenths of the business part of Pensacola, Fla., was destroyed Friday night. There was a disastrous fire in Cincinnati, five persons were burned to death. A shoe house in Richmond, Va., was destroyed. There was a fire in Philadelphia on Saturday night, supposed to have originated from an old woman's smoking a pipe in bed; two persons perished in the flames. Mr. Jay Gould's conservatory, on the Hudson, was totally destroyed. A large dwelling on Charles street, Baltimore, was also destroyed, the occupants barely escaping with their lives.

OUR readers will perceive that the long-continued "Historical Sketch" of Emmitsburg, closes with this number of our paper. We hope its publication has not been without interest to them, and has helped to recall many a dimmed image of the past.

"Fleeting as were the dreams of old Remember'd like a tale that's told, We pass away."

It is now officially announced that Secretary Thompson, of the Navy Department, has tendered his resignation, to take effect as soon as his successor is appointed. This step is taken by the secretary to enable him to accept the chairmanship of the American branch of the Panama Inter-oceanic Canal Company.

WASHINGTON CORRESPONDENCE.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 14th. Secretary Thompson called on the President yesterday morning, and requested him to name his successor as the head of the Navy Department, in time, that he may take the office Monday next, and he wishes to leave the Department on that day.

There will be no new appointment in the Cabinet to fill the vacancy caused by Secretary Thompson's resignation, but Secretary Ramsey will have his hands full. The President to-day designated him to act as Secretary of the Navy in addition to his War duties, from Monday next to the fourth of March next. The President before making this designation, accepted the resignation of Secretary Thompson, to take effect next Monday.

The attention of Secretary Thompson was to-day called to a publication, purporting to give an account of an interview between him and General Grant, in New York, about the Panama canal, which was not at all a pleasant one. General Grant is stated to have left Secretary Thompson, with a flea in his ear. The Secretary said that the idea of inducing him to abandon the Presidency of the American branch of the Panama canal company, was preposterous. He met General Grant, in the corridor of the Fifth Avenue Hotel, and merely greeted him. This was all that passed between Walker the Secretary and General Grant. There was no conversation between them about the canal, either then or at any other time.

The census, is being completed with a rapidity greater than any previous one. Too much credit can not be given General Walker, for the able and efficient manner in which he has conducted this enumeration. But the General finds that to complete the work in the elegant style in which it has so far been carried on, it will be necessary for Congress to make an additional appropriation. The $3,000,000 originally appropriated is not all consumed but soon will be. The General has not decided how much more will be wanted.

In this census work, there is employed a very large force of male and female clerks, very many of whom, when discharged will be wholly without resources. A heavy discharge will be made in January, and more genuine suffering will be occasioned than from any discharge in this city for years.

General Grant arrived in this city last evening. He was taken in charge at the Depot by the "Boys in Blue," and other Republican organizations, who escorted him to the residence of General Beale, whose guest he is. This is the first public attention General Grant has received in this city since his last inauguration in 1873, and it was of a character and magnitude which could not but remind the General of the affection and esteem the citizens of Washington have for him.

All last week Congress, or rather the House, engaged in useless discussion upon the Electoral count resolution, which passed the Senate, late last session. It is much to be regretted, that at this time, when the business interests of the country need immediate attention, that our legislators should spend so much valuable time in useless, dangerous discussion. Yesterday was "bill day" in the House, consequently but little in the way of business was done. In the Senate, the Fitz John Porter case was taken up yesterday.

THE Congressional bill select committee on the Yorktown centennial celebration, to begin October 6th, 1881, composed of one Senator and one member of the House from each of the thirteen original States and the centennial commissioners appointed by the governors of all the States of the Union, held a joint conference in Washington, on the 10th inst. There is a desire to have Congress raise its appropriation in aid of the celebration from $20,000 to $100,000.

SENATOR BLAINE has in preparation a bill reducing the price of general postage from three to two cents per letter.

UNDER the constitution of Maryland, the Governor, after promulgation of a new census, issues his proclamation, showing the representation to which each county is entitled under the census. This shows an increase of seven members in the next House of Delegates. Five of the counties in which there is an increase are on the Eastern Shore and two are in southern Maryland. The western and central counties will have the same representation in Maryland legislature. The Senate, of course, consisting of one member from each county and legislative district of the city, will be constituted as heretofore.

THE Popular Demand.—So great has been the popular demand for the celebrated remedy Kidney-Wort, that it is having an immense sale from Maine to California. Some have found it inconvenient to prepare it from the dry compound. For such the proprietors now prepare it in liquid form. This can be procured at the drug-gists. It has precisely the same effect as the dry, but is very concentrated so that the dose is much smaller.—Lowell Mail.

THERE is no use in drugging yourself to death, and buying all the vile medicines for internal use when you can be cured of fever and ague, dumb ague, bilious disorders, jaundice, dyspepsia, as well as all disorders and ailments of the liver, blood and stomach, by wearing one of Prof. Guilmette's French Liver Pads, which is a sure cure every time. If your druggist does not keep the pad, send $1.50 in a letter to French Pad Co., Toledo, O., and it will be sent you by mail. It is the only pad that is guaranteed to cure. Beware of counterfeits.

"I AM ALL PLAYED OUT" is a common complaint. If you feel so, get a package of Kidney Wort and take it and you will at once feel its tonic power.—It renews the healthy action of the kidneys, bowels and liver, and thus restores the natural life and strength to the weary body. It can now be had in either dry or liquid form, and in either way is always prompt and efficient in action.—New Bedford Standard.

THE advertisement of the Baltimore Gazette, will be seen in another column. As a Democratic paper it takes the front rank in our State, and is noted for its frank, independent and fearless mode of dealing with the topics which claim attention, replete with full news accounts from all parts of the world. Its columns may at all times be satisfactorily consulted.

It is with extreme sadness that we announce the death, this week, of two very interesting children of Mr. Jas. C. West, the political editor of the Gazette, which took place last night, after an illness of but a few days from that dread disease, scarlet fever. They were unusually bright and affectionate children and the joy and hope of their fond and doting parents, and we deeply sympathize with them in this their hour of sad bereavement.—Keystone Gazette.

THE Military epidemic, which has given forth its preliminary symptoms for some time back, broke out in telling force in town on Monday night, resulting in a certain preliminary organization, which is not yet ready to be heralded abroad. But, we may be permitted to say, that, judging from the usual energy and determined spirit in which our people move in their undertakings, the Emmitsburg Invulnerables will ever be found at the post of duty, when their country calls.

NOTICE TO FARMERS AND OWNERS OF PRIVATE RESIDENCES.—The safest and best company in which Farmers and owners of Private Residences can insure their Property, is the Time-Tried and Fire-Tested Agricultural Insurance Company. It insures nothing but private Residences and Farm Property. In the last 27 years it has not had a loss of over $5,000, in one Fire, and it cannot be affected by sweeping conflagrations, as its risks are all detached. It insures against damage by Lightning, whether fire ensues or not, and insures Live Stock against being killed by Lightning anywhere on the farm. The Agricultural Insurance Co., is a stock company, and the strongest and largest company, doing an exclusive Dwelling Business in the United States, if not in the world, and is now issuing 50,000 Policies a year. For further particulars, apply to W. G. HONNEN, Agent, Emmitsburg, Md.

A NARROW ESCAPE.—On Tuesday, as Mr. Keilholtz's team was coming along with a load of ice near St. Vincent's Hall, Eddie Favorite, son of Mr. H. J. Favorite, being in company with another boy, was pushed by the latter in such wise that one of the wagon wheels passed over a portion of his foot, badly mashing two of his toes. He is said to be getting along favourably, but made a narrow escape from what might have been a horrible death; and yet they say, "boys will be boys."

THE notice of petition for a bridge over the fording at Mr. Stambaugh's mill, will indicate the character of a movement for a public convenience, which has been needed from the earliest days. That bridge is demanded by our people, and must come. Had the County Commissioners witnessed Mr. Caldwell's position in the stream last week, like an Arctic explorer, hemmed in on all sides by ice, and then cutting a retreat with the energy of despair, axe in hand, they would vote the bridge without dissent.

A LITTLE EXCITEMENT.—On last Friday evening, a young man from Keyville, drove through town and made a social visit among some friends. He hitched his horse to a post near by the Emmitt House, when he returned to the place, the horse and buggy were not there. There came enquiries, and demands were made for detective service. Soon the roads were scoured in all directions to learn the possible course of exit. In the meanwhile the horse and buggy were found standing in an alley by a stable in which the horse had formerly been housed occasionally. No tangible clue to the guilty party or parties in the case has been obtained. The lesson to be learned is: that it is not safe to hitch horses along the streets at night, the hotels and the livery stables are quite convenient.

OF the success of Scribner's in England, Mr. Jennings writes as follows to the New York World: "What I was going to tell you about was the wonderful way in which American magazines are getting on in London. Scribner's had a very large sale here for some few years past, and its circulation must now be, I think, fully as great as that of any English magazine, and it would surprise me to hear that it is greater.—Its illustrations have made its way easy for it. A very distinguished wood-engraver once told me that no work done in England in his line nowadays is worthy to be compared with what he saw every month in Scribner. If I mentioned his name, there is no one on either side the Atlantic who would dispute his fitness to pronounce an opinion on such a subject. The rapid advance of Scribner's is easily accounted for, and is thoroughly well deserved."

The price of Scribner's Monthly is $4.00 a year, and now subscribers who begin with the November number may secure, by the payment of $1.00 additional, nine back numbers, containing all of Part I. of Schuyler's now famous serial history of Peter the Great, of which Rev. Edward Eggleston recently wrote: "It is indeed a wonderful story, needing no aid of the imagination to make it one of the most curious in human history."

For $2.50 extra, the two richly bound volumes of last year may be had in connection with a year's subscription.—Book-sellers everywhere, or the publishers, Scribner & Co., 743 Broadway, New York, will supply the numbers and volumes.

FREDERICK, MD., Dec. 14.—Dr. Harrison Wagner, of Woodsboro', in this county, the irrepressible litigant, whose exploits during the past few years, in obtaining hundreds of judgments, amounting to over $400,000, default, through different magistrates, and against numerous persons for alleged wrongs, were fully detailed in the Sun a short time ago, has, it seems, again been on the rampage. Injunctions, it will be remembered, were granted by the court restraining him from the enforcement of these judgments, but notwithstanding this fact he placed in the hands of the sheriff within the past few days between six hundred and seven hundred writs of execution for sums ranging from $50 to $100 each, and aggregating between sixty and seventy thousand dollars. For this disobedience he was arrested to-day, and late this evening was brought before the court and found guilty of contempt. He was fined $20 and costs and committed to the custody of the sheriff until he produced the judgments, which he shortly afterwards did, and was thereupon discharged.—Sun

THE Baltimore American's Frederick correspondent of the 13th inst., says:—Mr. Fearhake, clerk of the court, received from the clerk of the Court of Appeals this morning a copy of the opinion filed by that court in the case of Felix Munshour vs. the state, convicted of murder in the first degree. It is thought that Munshour's counsel will get out a writ of error, to bring his case again before the Court of Appeals. The news of the decision of the court was not communicated to the prisoner until to-day, when his two sisters came to see him. Warden Danner informed him of the result, which seemed to impress him deeply.—Of late he has not shown that indifference which characterized him all through his trial and afterwards, and now he seems to realize the awfulness of the situation. Unless his counsel takes some such action as that indicated, he will be sentenced next week.

Foreign Literature, Science, and Art.

ENLARGED AND IMPROVED.

The ECLECTIC MAGAZINE reproduces from foreign periodicals all those articles which are valuable to American readers. Its field of selection embraces all the leading Foreign Reviews, Magazines, and Journals, and the tastes of all classes of readers are consulted in the articles presented. Its plan includes, Science, Essays, Reviews, Sketches, Travels, Poetry, Novels, Short Stories, &c., &c.

With the number for January, 1881, the ECLECTIC MAGAZINE will be enlarged to such an extent as will give about Two Hundred Pages of additional reading-matter during the year.

This increase of space will afford the opportunity not merely for an increased quantity but for a much greater variety of reading-matter; and the publisher confidently promises that the opportunity shall be so utilized that the ECLECTIC will be more valuable, more readable, and more satisfactory than ever before. The same pains will be taken as hitherto to exclude articles which are trivial in character, or of merely transient interest; but larger space will be assigned to articles of a popular and entertaining cast, and with ample materials of the best quality at command, the ECLECTIC will be made the ideal Family Magazine.

The following list of contributors to the periodicals from which the ECLECTIC is selected will give some idea of the value of its contents. Rt. Hon. W. E. Gladstone, Alfred Tennyson, Professor Huxley, Prof. Tyndall, Richard A. Proctor, E. A. J. Norman Lockyer, F.R.S., Dr. W. B. Carpenter, E. B. Tylor, Prof. Max Muller, Prof. Ower, Matthew Arnold, E. A. Freeman, D.C.L., James Anthony Froude, Thomas Hughes, Anthony Trollope, Wm. Black, Mrs. Oliphant, Turgeneff, Mrs. Thackeray, &c.

The English periodicals are the great storehouse from which are drawn many of the best and most popular books of the time. The ECLECTIC reprints this material fresh from the authors' hands, and at a price far lower than it costs in book-form.

TERMS.—Single copies, 45 cents; one copy, one year, $5; five copies, $20. Trial subscription for three months, $1. The ECLECTIC and any $4 magazine to one address, $8. Postage free to all subscribers.

THE

Baltimore Gazette!

DAILY AND WEEKLY.

The attention of the public is called to the Daily and Weekly issues of this widely circulated journal. The dissemination of sound doctrines should command the earnest support of every true friend of the Union and the Constitution. Anxious to furnish—not only to political friends, but also to the general reader of all classes and political complexions—a first-class journal, the Publisher now offers one not excelled in point of excellence by any other newspaper, and unhesitatingly challenges comparison with the best and most successful dailies published in the Union.

THE GAZETTE—Daily and Weekly—will be the firm and consistent advocate of Democratic principles; it will be independent in all things and neutral in nothing; it will continue to be the bold and fearless defender of the Union, the Constitution and the Laws; and it will make unceasing and unyielding warfare upon all forms of Wrong, Abuse, and Vandalism that show themselves among the people or in the administration of the General, State or Municipal Governments.

The Home and Family Circle will not be forgotten. As often as practicable interesting miscellaneous matter will be published. Nothing will be found in its columns that should be excluded from any reader's notice. It will be essentially a Home and Family Paper, as well as a political journal. In fact, every department will be so conducted as to give entire satisfaction and present the appearance of a live, wide awake, and go-ahead journal.

Particular attention is directed to the great improvements that have been made in THE WEEKLY GAZETTE. It is now one of the cheapest and most attractive publications in the world. Each number is filled with carefully selected poetry, stories, news, editorial criticisms, and all kinds of choice reading for all classes of readers.

TERMS OF THE DAILY.—One copy, one year, in advance, $6; six months, $3; three months, $1.50; for any less period, at the rate of 50 cents per month. Postage prepaid at this office.

TERMS OF THE WEEKLY.—One copy, one year, in advance, $1. Postage prepaid at this office. Special rates to clubs.

Agricultural.

Business Habits for Farmers.
There is probably not one farmer in ten thousand who keeps a set of accounts from which he can at any moment learn the cost of anything he may have produced, or even the cost of his real property. A very few farmers who have been brought up to business keep such accounts, and are able to tell how their affairs progress, what each crop, each kind of stock, or each animal has cost, and what each produces. Knowing these points a farmer can, to a very great extent, properly decide what crops he will grow, and what kind of stock he will keep. He will thus be able to apply his labor and money where it will do the most good. He can weed out his stock and retain only such animals as may be kept with profit. For the want of such knowledge, farmers continue, year after year, to feed cows that are unprofitable, and frequently sell for less than their value one that is the best of the herd, because she is not known to be any better than the rest. Feed is also wasted upon ill-bred stock, the keep of which costs three or four times that of well-bred animals, which, as has been proved by figures that cannot be mistaken, pay a large profit on their keeping. For want of knowing what they cost, poor crops are raised year by year at an actual loss, provided the farmer's labors, at the rates current for common labor, were charged against them. To learn that he has been paying his help twice as much, would open the eyes of many a farmer who has actually been doing this, and it would convince him that there is some value in figures and book accounts.—American Agriculturist.

ONE of the great advantages of draining the soil is to insure the free access of oxygen. A plant cannot any more live without oxygen than can an animal. Oxygen is one of the best fertilizers, for by its action in the soil it prepares the minerals for food for plants.

VALUABLE RECIPES.

BEEWAX and strong lye will clean and polish furniture.

To clean long hair beat up the yolk of an egg with a pint of soft water. Apply it warm, and afterward wash it out with warm water.

It is stated, on the authority of one who claims to have tried the experiment, that a handful of hay placed in a pail of water in a newly-painted room will entirely neutralize the odor of the paint.

To clean jewelry wash in soap-suds; rinse in diluted alcohol, and lay in a box of dry sawdust to dry. As simple as this seems, it is the very nicest way possible to clean gold chains or ornaments of any kind.

CURRENT CAKE.—The whites of six eggs, one cup of sugar, half a cup of butter, half a cup of sweet milk, one teaspoon of soda, one egg current. Rub the butter and sugar to a cream, add the milk, flour and beaten whites a little at a time till all are in.

MAKE the most of the little nutrient contained in potatoes. They ought to be steamed or baked. The latter is best, and soaking in cold water for half an hour before putting in the oven is an advantage. In neither case should the skin be removed before cooking.

To take the woody taste out of a wooden pail, fill the pail with boiling hot water; let it remain until cold, then empty it and dissolve some soda in lukewarm water, adding a little lime to it, and wash the inside well with the solution, after that scald with hot water and rinse well.

APPLE CUSTARD.—Two eggs, six tablespoonfuls sugar, one cup cream; beat the mixture thoroughly and flavor strongly with lemon, unless some other flavoring is preferred. Then take a teaspoonful of stewed apples, mash them, and add them to the other ingredients; make crust and bake same as egg custards.—They are delicious.

Humorous.

MEN are like pins. One with a little head may be just as smart as one with a big head.

A pair of boots can easily be converted into slippers by simply tacking a banana skin upon the soles.

A man may know more than his wife, but it is best for him to avoid suggesting such a possibility when she is present.

"You never saw my hands as ditty as that," said a petulant mother to her little girl. "No, but your ma did," was the reply.

"Will your mother ever marry again?" he inquired. "Not with my approval," she answered. "Such is my opinion thus far, and not a step father."

"Doctor, what is to be done? My daughter seems to be going blind, and she is just getting ready for her wedding!" Let her go right on, if anything will open her eyes, marriage will.

The following anecdote is told of an African preacher: He was praying and in his prayer he said: "I pray that the power of Satan may be curtailed." Just then an old darkey in the congregation cried out: "Yes, amen, bless me! Cut him's tail right smok smove off, close up."

A Scotch minister, who was about to marry a couple, seeing the bridegroom sitting at the fireside with a most rueful countenance, as if saying to himself, "I canna winna, mauna, buckle to," said to him, "What is the matter, James?" "Ah, sir," replied the doleful bridegroom, "this is a fearsome business. I have been in many a hubble, but this is the worst hubble ever I was in."

"Pa, will you get me a pair of skates if I prove that a dog has ten tails?"

"Yes, my son."

"Well, one dog has one more tail than no dog, hasn't he?"

"Yes."

"Well, no dog has nine tails, and if one dog has one more tail than no dog, then one dog must have ten tails! Hand over the skates, please."

Literary Revolution and Universal Knowledge:

An Encyclopedia in 20 Vols., over 16,000 pages; 10 per cent more matter than any Encyclopedia ever before published in this country, and sold, handsomely and well bound, in cloth for $10, in half morocco for $15, and printed on fine heavy paper, wide margins, bound in half Russia, gilt top, for $20—an enterprise so extraordinary that its success, beyond all precedent book publishing, may be fairly claimed to inaugurate a Literary Revolution.

THE LIBRARY OF UNIVERSAL KNOWLEDGE is a reprint entire of the last (1879) Edinburgh edition of "Chambers's Encyclopedia," with about 40 per cent of new matter added, upon topics of special interest to American readers, thus making it equal in character to any similar work, better than any other suited to the wants of the great majority of those who consult works of reference, and altogether the latest Encyclopedia in the field.

Specimen Volumes in either style will be sent for examination with privilege of return on receipt of proportionate price per volume.

Special Discounts to all early subscribers, and extra discounts to clubs. Full particulars with descriptive catalogue of many other standard works equally low in price, sent free.

V. Use good type, paper, etc., do careful printing, and strong, neat binding, but avoid all "padding" fat and heavily-loaded type, spongy paper and gaudy binding, which are so commonly resorted to to make books appear large and fine, and which greatly add to their cost, but do not add to their value.
