THE CONFLICT OF THE AGE.

Some moralists are sometimes disposed to look hopelessly upon the spirit of the age, characterizing it as being given over to irreverence and unbelief. We think this comes of viewing things superficially.

The developments of art and science have given to every department of life tremendous impulses of progression. Rail roads, telegraphs, and the entire order of activity, which steam has brought about, in the transactions of commerce, the spread of knowledge, the reduction of manual labour, and the changes in the orders of every day life, which have been necessary to meet the altered condition of things generally, have not seldom seemed to outstep the preparation for their introduction, for active and enterprising as we may be, we are yet slow to lay hold of, and appropriate that which comes upon us, as it were, unheralded.

But a close inspection must reveal the fact, that whilst material prosperity has seemed to overrule and absorb other interests, morality and benevolence, have not failed to make use of the progressive facilities which the on-rush of things has brought about, and the press everywhere, as well as the material expansion of wealth, has added its powerful assistance, in the advancement of every good cause. Wherever commerce enlarges the sphere of civilization, there at once appears the ready working forces of benevolence and religion, and the statistics of all the varied operations present an array of conquests for good, such as the world has never before contemplated.

It is always to be borne in mind, that the spirit of the age is on the whole an intelligent one, which admits of no half-done work. If unbelief for a time seems to prevail, it is because its agencies appear armed with the choicest weapons of warfare, the highest scholarly ability, adorned with the graces of rhetoric and the acute deductions of science. Coming thus attractively and vigorously before the world they not only command attention, but require more or less preparation in the way of refutation to expose their fallacies. The worldly spirit pursues the course of worldly wisdom, and in this respect is wiser than that which is set over against it.

Thus far the foundations of religious Faith remain undisturbed, because they are too deeply grounded to be reached by the weapons of assault brought against them. But life in all its forms is a constant conflict, and conflict must characterize every condition of thought and action to which we can be called, and the final victory must needs await the final restitution of all things.

TWO-CENT LETTER POSTAGE.

According to the Report of the Assistant Post-Master General, the postal revenues of the country are greatly and steadily on the increase; and now, for the first time since 1865, the revenues of the department exceed its expenditures.

The number of postage stamps, cards, and stamped envelopes issued for the nine months ending March 31, 1882, was 1,299,982,627, valued at $30,697,114. This is an increase over the corresponding period of the previous year, of 165,825,278 pieces, and of value, $4,666,915. At the same rate, for the entire year, the aggregate would be 1,624,978,153 pieces, and the value no less than $38,371,392. With this immense increase of revenue to the Post-Office Department, it is high time that Congress should at once reduce the postage on letters to two cents each.

This is demanded by the business interests of the country, and for the thousands of families and friends scattered all over the land, whose correspondence, for important social and moral reasons, should be encouraged and promoted by fixing postage at the lowest possible rates. We trust that our Members of Congress from this State, and from every part of our land, will attend to this matter at once. Give us, at once, two cent letter postage. —Hagerstown Mail.

There is a great deal of talk in the rural papers about the best way to start manufactures. In our Preston items to day the correct way is pointed out, and it is the way of the Messrs. Wright. It is to start them. —The Day.

YOUTHFUL TRAINING.

When all the world is active in the conflict which marks the present course of things, it cannot be expected, that youth, with its imitative faculties in full exercise, should fail to assert its general interest in the race.

Hence the rapid development that is seen on all sides. Those romping girls, that ape the gait and the manners of their elders. Those "little men cut down," who walk the streets with such consequential airs, how well they bear their parts in the drama the world is acting around them! Should they alone be unconscious of the possibilities of life? Is not the consciousness of growing towards manhood or womanhood ever before them? or whence those amusing efforts which indicate such lofty aspirations, the games and sports, regulated by their own laws, with their frequent points of dispute, to be settled by references, or the wagers of battle, are they not all miniature representations of the full grown theatre of the world?

But in this readiness to rush onward, without the guiding hand of experience, and the curbing reins of authority is where the peril lies, and which, if it be not promptly met, must mar, if it does not ruin the future character of the full grown man. The great responsibility of those who have charge of the training of the young cannot be overestimated, neither can it be inculcated in generalities of advice simply.

The boy who runs unrestrained upon the streets, free to indulge in disturbing pranks, smoking and chewing tobacco, and addicted to profane and vulgar language, or exposed to the contagion of its utterance, is he likely to grow up a good and exemplary citizen?

The want of deference and respect for older persons is too often characteristic of youth in these days—a fault which cannot fail to produce its bitter fruit in time. It has been written by the hand of Inspiration, "Thou shalt rise up before the hoary head, and honour the face of the old man," an injunction that should be deeply implanted in the youthful mind.

The problem to be solved is, how to impose a just restraint upon the lively spirits of children, which, whilst its influences shall incline them happily in virtuous paths, shall yet not run into the opposite extreme of producing character of a negative, shrinking, unduly subdued order. Nothing can be truer than that, he who has not learned to obey can never be able to command.

WHEN the sun-shine forth again yesterday after a week's concealment behind rain clouds, we found that great changes had been going on in the condition of its surface. Three conspicuous groups of spots were visible, one of which can be detected with the unassisted eye. This group is fully half as large as the huge spot that was seen in April. Great masses of faculae heaped up about another group near the eastern edge showed how powerfully the photosphere is agitated at that place. It would not be surprising if another magnetic storm, accompanied, perhaps, like that of a month ago, by a display of the aurora borealis, should be experienced as a result of these solar disturbances. —N. Y. Sun, 12th inst.

BRIZZOLANO, the Italian who murdered his wife about two months ago, leaped from the fifth tier, a distance of 95 feet, in the Baltimore jail on Sunday. He struck upon his feet on the stone floor, and then fell over on his back, breaking the spinal column, and died in about an hour and a half.

PROGRESS.—They are building a whipping post for wife-beaters at the city jail in Baltimore. There is much in being ready for emergency.

THE case of Guiteau is about to be decided by the court. The exceptions of his counsel will be overruled, and on the 30th of June he will be hung.

THEY are yet hunting for the murderers of Lord Cavendish in Ireland with no clue as yet that promises their discovery.

THE President has signed the Tariff Commission bill.

A disastrous fire swept through the town of Manta, Ecuador, on April 21. The business portion of the town was completely destroyed, but the warehouses along the beach, where large quantities of goods from abroad and of home products awaiting shipment were stored, were saved. The losses are estimated at about $120,000.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

[From our Regular Correspondent.]

WASHINGTON, D.C., May 18th '82.

The folly and impracticability of night sessions of Congress has been pretty well illustrated once or twice lately, especially in the House. The other night at the hour of meeting the pro tem Speaker grasped the gavel and called to order a House composed of two Members, five reporters, and a dozen or more pages who, lounging in the seats of Members, dreamt of future Congressional honors. Then arose one of these two Members and with great impressiveness proceeded to deliver a written and carefully prepared speech in favor of the bill under consideration. A story is told of "Fritz" when in a Western town he saw the curtain rise and an audience of one crowding the rear of the auditorium. Recovering from his consternation and resisting the appeals of his company to refund to the audience his entrance fee, "Fritz" advanced to the footlights and inviting the solitary auditor to take a front seat acted with more than his ordinary vim. The story getting out there was no lack of spectators during the remainder of "Fritz's" stay, and his first night's audience always had a choice seat. But everybody is not a "Fritz," and an audience of one is something of a damper upon the eloquence of a Member of Congress. This is a specimen of night sessions, except those held as a continuation of some exciting political squabble. There were present during the entire evening not more than a dozen Members, most of whom delivered written speeches to empty benches. It is hard to divine the utility of this farcical proceeding. It is not for the purpose of influencing votes, for there are no votes to influence; not for the purpose of receiving applause, for there is no one to applaud; not for the purpose of becoming well known throughout the country, for the reporter's gallery is eloquently vacant; not for the purpose of unbecomingly for that can be accomplished under the general leave to print in the Record. It is, indeed, a dreary scene—except in the eyes of stock holders in the gas company—that is presented by the vast hall of the House on a night assigned for debate only.

The pressure to secure appointment on the tariff commission is being applied with vigor to those who are supposed to have influence with the President. The pay is good, the work need not be severe, and the commission may not prolong its existence for several years if it chooses. In fact, some predict that we will have the commission as long as we have a tariff. The impression seems to be that there will be two Democrats placed on the commission—one from the North and one from the South. The protectionists were very much alarmed recently over the report that the President thought of appointing Mr. David A. Wells as a representative of the free-trade element. It is understood that the President will have the list of persons to be nominated completed within a few days. He has said that they are the most difficult appointments which he has been called upon to make. The majority of the commission will be protectionists, probably of a moderate order. There are reasons for expecting that the chairman will be ex-Secretary Kirkwood, of Iowa, who is regarded as a protectionist of a mild type, with some leaning towards a tariff for revenue only. It is thought that his reputation for fairness and his relation to agricultural interests, with other qualifications, make him a desirable man for the place. It has been practically decided that Edward Atkinson, of Boston, the well known specialist and authority on textile fabrics and materials, will be a member, although there may be a change in the selection for New England before the nominations are sent in. It is believed that the South, the Northwest, the Middle States, and possibly the Southwest, will be represented, but the Pacific coast will have no member.

The impression which has gone abroad that there is some prospect of a new trial for the assassin, Guiteau, is beyond doubt erroneous. If any reader of this has been troubled with fears that the miserable wretch Guiteau, would escape his just deserts in this world, let him possess his soul in patience. The murderer of President Garfield will be hanged in Washington on the 30th of June, and those who are struggling to save his worthless life may be thankful that his days have been prolonged so far as that. —DOM PEDRO.

THE GARFIELD MONUMENT AT WASHINGTON.

Prominent among the undertakings to honor and perpetuate the memory of the late President Garfield, the Society of the Army of the Cumberland, of which General Garfield was a prominent member, has far advanced plans for the erection of a magnificent monument or statue at the National Capital, that is rapidly becoming a popular national movement. The Society are merely directing the raising of the necessary funds, and the erection of the monument, which, when completed, will be turned over to the President of the United States, as the property of the Nation. While nothing definite as to the character of the structure has been determined upon, the plans of the Society contemplate the raising of the largest amount possible, when a commission will be organized of the most eminent sculptors and architects, to whom will be entrusted the duty of creating a structure that, in point of design and artistic excellence, shall equal, if not excel, any similar work in America; that it may thus exemplify the exceptional regard that is held for our late Chief Magistrate in the hearts of his countrymen.

The committee consists of the following gentlemen who were appointed by Gen. P. H. Sheridan, the President of the Society, as possessing peculiar fitness for the duty intrusted to them. Gen. James Barnst, Merchant, of Cleveland, Ohio, Chairman; Gen. Henry M. Cist, Attorney at Law, of Cincinnati, Ohio, Recording Secretary; Gen. W. A. Robinson, Banker, Pittsburgh, Pa.; Gen. A. B. Underwood, U. S. Surveyor, Custom house, Boston, Mass.; Gen. Anson G. McCook, M. C., of New York City; Gen. J. C. Smith, Chicago, Ill.; Gen. J. G. Parkhurst, of Coldwater, Mich.; Lieut. John Richm., of Nashville, Tenn.; and Col. H. C. Gorbin, Asst. Adj. Gen. U. S. Army, the latter of whom is Corresponding Secretary and Treasurer.

In the desire to make this movement one in which the whole people may be represented, by even the smallest contribution, the Postmasters of every town in the country have been appointed agents for the collection of subscriptions, and are especially charged with the fact that no subscription, however small, will be refused. It seems eminently fitting that such a monument should be erected at the National Capital, where the deeds of many of our most distinguished countrymen are honored in enduring bronze and marble, and that it should be the gift of the whole people, in recognition of the fact that from among the humblest one of our number arose to be the highest in the land. We cordially commend the undertaking to our people, and trust that our town will be liberally represented in the coming memorial. Our postmaster is duly authorized, and will be pleased to receive the smallest contributions. A handsome engraved receipt will be sent to every subscriber of one dollar and upwards, that may be preserved as an elegant souvenir of the fact.

It is suggested that societies, musical, literary, or otherwise, throughout the State, give benefits in aid of this project. These, in connection with the benevolent and patriotic ladies and gentlemen in our midst, should render the Committee having this great work in charge most valuable assistance.

Let the good work be done. Particular attention is invited to the fact that there is a thoroughly National project, and has no connection with the Cleveland Monument, or any other purely local enterprise.

THE many friends of the lily of the valley will be sorry to learn that a practical Scotch professor, writing in the Edinburgh Medical Journal, calls their favorite flower a "drug," and has even gone so far as to destroy millions of them to make an extract with which to experiment on frogs. From all accounts the little favorite will hold a disingenuous place in the material medica.

An Interesting Fact.

In France, all patent medicines must be endorsed by an official board of physicians before they can be sold. In lieu of such a law in America, the people have resolved themselves into a National committee which has endorsed Swayne's Ointment for allaying the itching accompanying the Piles, as the only reliable remedy in the market. Its a poor rule that won't work both ways.

The house in London in which Milton wrote the greater part of "Paradise Lost," 19 York street, Westminster, has been almost wholly pulled down; but the front door and its adjacent parts are still left to serve the purpose of a boarding.

THE CELEBRATED ADRIANCE MOWER.

This mower is now entering upon its Twenty-seventh year and old age improves it. It is manufactured at Poughkeepsie, N. Y., by Adriance, Platt & Co., who also build the world renowned Grass Binder, Reapers and Mowers, combined and single. The manufacturers have not been compelled (as some of its competitors) to change its principles from year to year and as an expected result give the farmer an experienced, "grubbing" machine, which talks well but works poorly, but in its place we give you a mower with the old reliable gear, using long shafts, procuring our first or slow motion from the bevel pinion, and the second or fast motion from the straight spur pinion, equalizing the wear and strengthening its cutting capacity—exactly the reverse from all other mowers. Also perfect Tilling Lever, with astonishing simplicity for raising and lowering points of guards, and when folded the bar lays flat across the frame, which every one will admit is the only safe way. Front end which allows the operator to watch both machine and horses, and no danger of being thrown in front of the knife.

AT BENJAMIN F. STEWART'S
AGRICULTURAL HALL.

AT THE OLD
CENTRAL HOTEL BUILDING,
The farmer can buy everything needed on the farm.

STEAM ENGINES, THRASHING MACHINES, SELF-BINDERS, PLOWS, all kinds of Farming Implements and every description of hardware; also OILS AND READY-MIXED PATENTS.

Plenty of room for horses, a table board, and as rooms for neat boarders. —Hagerstown Mail.

Good Recommendation. EMMITSBURG, Oct. 23, 1880. All I have to say of the "White Rat Trap" is: It is the best I have ever seen. The most we ever caught, was 27 rats in one trap, one night. I just put it in the cellar last night, and had three rats this morning. I would not be without one. Yours respectfully, WILLIAM P. CLARKIN.

The state of the weather for over a week past, whilst it has been highly dispiriting to everything that hath breath, has been on the whole, highly favorable for the growing crops. The constant rain has advanced vegetable growth, and makes everything highly promising, whilst the cold has not been of the kind to arrest it. The grass crop will be abundant.

The Letter "M" on Wheat. The Harrisburg Inquirer states that: "rather a strange phenomenon is presenting itself on the growing wheat this season. In some localities the letter M is plainly discernible on the leaf just where it forms the bend or circle at the point most exposed to the rays of the sun. Considerable conjecture and speculation as to the cause, significance or meaning is manifested. Can some scientist explain?"

A Little Boy Badly Injured. FREDERICK, Md., May 14.—Robert Harp, an eight-year-old son of Josiah Harp, a well-known resident of Myersville, in this county, was caught in the machinery in his father's flouring establishment at that place yesterday, and had his arm broken near the shoulder. The flesh was torn from his back and he was otherwise badly injured.—Sun.

Where are the Fathers? We have not heard anything of our Town Commissioners since the election, neither do we know whether they qualified for their duties; but if they did not do so on or before the 15th inst, they will find themselves functus officio, and the former board will have to rule the roast. Give us account of your proceedings gentlemen, we shall be pleased to publish what interests the public.

About Moths. After all it is said about preserving clothing from moths, the best authorities on the subject are agreed, that the only correct method, is frequent inspection, beating and shaking, thorough airing and careful packing away again. The various odorous substances so generally relied upon, often fail of their intended use, and some of them are injurious to certain sorts of material. Experience is the best guide.

Mr. John Funk of Chicago, who has had mining experience in Colorado, began an excavation at Wagonman's, about two and a half miles west of this place, and southward of Friends' Creek on Monday. There have been frequently found good specimens of copper ore at the locality, and it is his purpose to test the deposit thoroughly. He proposes to dig down one hundred feet and then make cross sections, and expects to find other metals besides copper.

WHILE the people on the Eastern hemisphere have been getting ready for the great Eclipse of the Sun, which came off, according to announcement, on Wednesday, at 2 o'clock 40 minutes, we have just emerged from one of over a week's duration, and it so happened that Wednesday proved the first day of real brightness to us, whilst to those distant regions it was for a while the time of a temporary dismal darkness.

MALARIA, Chills and Fever, and bilious attacks positively cured with Emory's Standard Cure Pills—an infallible, long-standing cure for the most obstinate and all other remedies had failed.—They are prepared expressly for malarious sections, in double boxes, two kinds of Pills, containing a strong cathartic and a chill breaker, sugar-coated; no griping or purging; they are mild and harmless in all cases; they effectually cleanse the system, and give new life and tone to the body. As a household remedy they are unequalled. For Liver Complaint their equal is not known; one box will have a wonderful effect on the worst case. They are used and prescribed by Physicians, and sold by Druggists everywhere, or sent by mail, 25 and 50 cent boxes. Emory's Little Cathartic Pills, best ever made, only 15 Cents.—Standard Cure Co., 114 Nassau Street New York. apr 22-8m

Now in Session. Our Board of County Commissioners is now in session in this city, and there is much business before it. It is a business and working body and being blessed with a good Clerk, who has everything well arranged that appertains to his office, the business of that body is rapidly despatched by the very clever and intelligent gentlemen who compose the Board.—Union.

Accident. Mr. P. N. Hammaker of our town, started for Frederick on Monday morning last, driving one horse and leading another. Both horses became frightened at the raising of the pike gate at Merritt's below town, and became unmanageable. The buggy was upset and Mr. Hammaker thrown out; he sustained no injury, but one wheel of the buggy was badly damaged. Neither horse got away.—Clarion.

A Remarkable Coincidence. It is a matter of journalistic record that some years since, a schooner set sail from Baltimore, having on board a crew of thirteen men. By a most singular freak of nature, the entire force was attacked by a skin disease, which manifested itself in large ulcerated sores on the arms and hands, wholly incapacitating the men for duty. The result was that the vessel was towed back to the city where the men were placed in the hospital. Moral? Had Swayne's Ointment for skin diseases been used in the first place, the crew would have recovered in from 12 to 24 hours.

Ascension Day. Ascension Day was observed as a holiday in this place, to an unusual extent. The weather which had been exceedingly disagreeable so long, was clear and fine, producing an unmistakably exhilarating effect on the spirits. A match of Base Ball was played by our young men upon the College grounds, which attracted a large crowd of lookers-on; and in the evening the Brass Band discoursed sweet music for the entertainment of the citizens.

The usual services were held in the Catholic Church during the day; and in the evening in the Church of the Incarnation.

The Mercersburg Classis of the Reformed Church held its 42nd annual session at Mercersburg this week. Upwards of forty ministers and elders were present. The parochial reports indicate substantial growth and general peace and prosperity in the charges. The Classis agreed to divide, and hereafter those living west of the mountains will be known as Junata Classis. On Friday afternoon the classis accepted an invitation to visit in a body Mercersburg College. They were much gratified with the indications of returning prosperity, under the faithful management of Dr. Aghlinbaugh. Fifty students are now enrolled. Most of them are pursuing classical studies.—Ez.

Wholesale of the collapse of the Parr Ridge Gold and Silver Mining Company, near Manchester, Carroll county, the Westminster Advocate says:—

Some of the gold dust has been assayed at the Philadelphia mint, and the report showed that it would be unprofitable to work the ores. After receiving the report the Board of Managers met and passed the following resolutions: Resolved, By the Board of Managers of this Company, that ample tests have been made by the Company's works to convince us that the best interests of all concerned require the immediate sale of the Company's property and the winding up of its affairs.

Resolved, That the President of the Company be authorized and requested to take such action as will carry out the above resolution.

Resolved, That a meeting of the stockholders be called for May 13th, at 1 p. m. at the Company's office for the purpose of acting upon the above resolutions.

Thus the enterprise has collapsed.—What amount has been lost cannot be told until the affairs are closed up.

NOTICE TO FARMERS AND OWNERS OF PRIVATE RESIDENCES.—The safest and best company in which Farmers and Owners of Private Residences can insure, is the Time-Tried and Fire-Tested Agricultural Insurance Company. It insures nothing but private Residences and Farm Property. It insures against damage by Lightning, whether fire ensues or not, and insure Live Stock against being killed by Lightning anywhere on the farm. The Agricultural Insurance Co. is a stock company, doing an exclusive Dwelling Business in the United States, if not in the world, and is now issuing 50,000 Policies a year. An Interesting Event.

Glenburn, the hospitable home of Rogers & Irwin, Esq., near Taneytown, in Carroll county, Md., was thronged with guests from far and near, on Tuesday last, to witness the marriage of Miss Hattie Birnie to Dr. Robert L. Annan of this place.

The social home-like gathering of relatives and friends, the cordial welcome and the sumptuous entertainment, combined to render the occasion, one long to be remembered, apart from the interesting nature of the event it celebrated.

The bride and groom were the recipients of many elegant and costly presents, but more than that, they received the heartfelt wishes and earnest prayers of the hosts of friends, who know and love them, for prosperity and happiness in their journey through life.

Last week Harry Moore, a son of Mr. Eli Moore, of Liberty township, while engaged in hunting snare, met with a serious accident. The saddle-horn on which he was riding fell a cross the tongue and on Mr. Moore, breaking his leg in two places. He has had several attacks of cramp since, but is getting along reasonably well.

A Blunder.

The Ex-Tax Collector for the State and County taxes of Frederick county, Mr. Peter W. Shaffer, the other week desired the Circuit Court to confirm the sales and provide for the cases. The Court declared that every piece of property would have to be resold, because the sales had not been made according to law. The law in relation to gunning having been used in their advertisement, instead of the one made and provided for the cases. The Examiner did the printing, and Mr. Shaffer seems to hold the paper responsible in the premises. We have doubts on the question. A newspaper should be accountable for a correct rendering of copy presented for publication, but it is quite another matter to draw up the matter and be responsible for it. We try to accommodate in preparing advertisements in some cases, but when correct copy is not given, we take no responsibility.
