THE CITY SHOPPERS.

The storms of winter come and go, And cold and northwest breezes blow; But there's no stopping By storm or wind the wild career Of darlings delicate and dear, Who go ashopping.

Though burly man may freeze and die, No wintry blasts can terrify The precious creatures; They robe their graceful forms with care, And do not fear the biting air Will spoil their features.

No weather their enjoyment mars, Though cold and crowded be the cars, And drivers surly; The smiling shopmen still they find Accommodating, bland, and kind, Both late and early.

How wondering it is to view The zeal with which they all pursue This occupation! Its toils and efforts never cease, And even age cannot decrease Its fascination.

Doubtless, if shops were nowhere known, But in the furthest frigid zone, The fair would find them; They would encounter in a trice The terrors of the ancient ice, And never mind them.

May blessings with the shoppers go, And may their pockets never know Severe reverses; But through the cold and wintry air Each morning may the darlings bear Replenished purses.

A WEDDING IN IDAHO.

Camping near the town we secured our stock and then went in. Entering the leading store I introduced myself to Mr. Stiles, one of the proprietors and the postmaster.

"It is now half-past two, and at three there's to be a wedding down the street at Jonas Burton's. Old Jonas is a rough old cove that we elected justice about a month ago, and as this will be his first attempt at marriage I think we will see some fun. Come and go down with me."

We went to the old Squire's cabin. We found him poring over a large volume of the statutes of Wyoming, sweating like a horse and looking terribly anxious. After greeting us he said:

"Stiles, the durned galoots that got up these yer laws hadn't gumption enough to last them over night. I've run through the blamed book a half-a-dozen times, an' can't find a dodblasted word about matrimony or how the hitchin' process is proceeded with. I've just got ter put the clamps on this couple till I miss, an' ef I don't yoke em up legal I can't help it."

"Oh," said Stiles, "just do the best you can. Any kind of a ceremony will do in this country, for people 'll never question the legality of the thing. I'll post as well as I can."

Stiles then explained to him about how he should proceed, and the old man finally thought he could worry though in tolerable shape. Ere long the couple appeared, followed by a crowd of the citizens of the camp. The candidates stood up before the Squire, who began:

"Feller-citizens: This yar man an this yar woman have appeared before the Court to be hitched, in the bands of wedlock. If any galoot in the mob knows of anything that mout block the game ef tuk to a higher court let him now toot his bazoo or else keep his jaw to himself now and forevermore. All in favor of me proceedin' as authorized by the law, say 'I.'"

Everybody said "I."
"Contrary 'No.'"
Nobody said no.

"The motion's carried unanimously, an' the Court rules that thar hain't nothin' to prevent the tryin' of the case. Grip your fins."

The candidates joined hands.
"Amos Peabody, do you solemnly swear that y'll freeze to Mandy forever an ever? That y'll love 'er and treat 'er squar an' white, accordin' to the rules an' regulations set down to govern such cases in the laws of the United States, so help yer God?"

"Yaas, sir, I do, sir."
"That fixes your end of the bargain. Manda Thomas, do you solemnly swear that y'll hang onto Amos for all comin' time, that y'll nuss him in sickness an' be squar' to him in wellness, that y'll always be to him a good, true, honest up-and-up wife under the penalties prescribed by the laws for the punishment of sich offences—do you swear this, so help yer God?"

"I swear I will."
"Then, by the power in me vested as justice of the peace in an' fur this precinct, I pronounce you Amos Peabody, husband, and you, Mandy Thomas, wife, and legalize ye to remain as sich now and forevermore, an' y'll stand committed till the fees an' costs in the case be paid in full, an' may God have mercy on your soul and bless this union with his heftiest blessin's."

The fees and costs were adjusted, and after receiving the congratulations of the assembly, the newly-made husband and wife departed for their cabin up the creek.

The Self-Helping Baby.

An English gentleman, who passed months hunting among the Rocky Mountains, says his first genuine impression of the West came while he was riding over an arid plain and from a squalling baby. It revealed to him the ingenuity with which a western woman adapts herself to circumstances, and makes the most of her limited resources.

"There was nothing," he says, "very peculiar about the appearance of this baby that I saw just ahead of me. It was not overburdened with garments and was strapped, in Indian fashion, to a board about two feet long and one foot broad."

"The board and the baby were leaning against the log wall of a frontier shanty on its shady side. There was nobody near. The baby seemed very happy. Its little arms were free and kept up constant movement."

"As my horse came nearer, I saw that some strings were dangling about the baby's neck, and that one was tied to the big toe of one of its rosy little feet."

"I was puzzled. Dismounting, I had the curiosity to examine the tape arrangement. The child was sucking at a bit of raw pork, about the size of a large walnut. This was tied to one end of the string, while the piece of twine, knotted to the board over its head, prevented the pork from falling to the ground, should the child drop it."

"Suddenly the baby grew very red in the face. Then its eyes filled with tears, and its little arms beat the air with frantic energy. At that moment the mother made her appearance."

"That baby is choking, madam," I cried.

"No, he aint, and he can't," she replied, tersely.

"At this instant the infantile legs began to work. One kick, two kicks, and there on the big lay the piece of pork, jerked from the baby's throat by the string tied to the big toe."

"Aint you ever seen this afore, mister?" asked the mother, observing the Englishman's surprised looks.

"(No—o—o," he answered, slowly.

"Then kind o' remembrance it, Mayhays yer wife won't go back on it."

"Several years have passed since that day, and I have seen that baby in a hundred different guises. From sheer habit it has become with me a sort of standard wherewith to gauge novel instances of the three qualities of Western men—and women—self-help, self-confidence and adaptability."

How To Reach The North Pole.
A Canadian proposes to reach the North Pole by traveling in hurs on sleds. Two hundred sled huts are to be taken to Chesterfield Inlet, on Hudson Bay, 1,565 miles from the pole. That may be easily done. Then the scheme is to construct a string of railways, the huts, each with its occupants, serving as stations, say about twenty miles apart. The huts are to be connected by a telegraph with Winnipeg City, and the whole work is to be done at an expense of $120,000. The man out of whose head the notion came is Okill Stuart, but the name of the man from whose pockets the duels are to drop is not mentioned. Mr. Stuart thinks that should be start by next December he will be able to reach the pole by July 1, 1884.

Raising Big Buildings.

When a structure becomes antique or unhandy, in place of being razed and replaced at a tremendous cost, it is elevated, built under, torn asunder and rejoined in a different manner to suit a more modern design.

All along East and West Water streets evidence of the work is to be had, and still it furnishes employment for many men, and contractors make a specialty of the work.

In Milwaukee, foremost among improvers in this particular line, is contractor Henry Buestrin. At present he is engaged upon considerable of this work, and his largest job is the task of raising the brick building near Grand avenue bridge, occupied as a saloon by Henry Wehr.

This structure is of solid brick, 30 by 120 feet in dimensions, and four stories in height. Its estimated weight, which can be figured down very closely by taking the number of thousand brick, the mortar to join them, the roof and the frame work, is the monstrous load of 2,000 tons. Yet it is being raised three feet, and contractor Buestrin calls it a small job. Really the work does seem simple to the man who virtual lives by moving mountains, but it must be carried on with consummate care and skill, and a single mismove or mistake might prove fatal to the entire undertaking, and might even bring the huge pile crashing to the ground, to the great destruction of life and property.

In raising a building of this description experienced workman, under Mr. Buestrin's sole supervision, carefully pierce the walls at a distance of three feet apart entirely around the structure, and make apertures sufficiently large for the introduction of huge beams or "needles." These jut out a few feet from the wall, and under the ends are placed long screws, similar to jack-screws, only made for the purpose, being much longer and stouter. These are blocked up under securely, and care must be taken that the foundation is good for the blocks and equally firm all around. When the pile is encircled in this manner the work of "screwing up" commences, as also does the real care. This must be done gradually and tenderly.

In no part must the building rise faster than the other, and all needs to be done with a charming unanimity of movement. When the building is raised to the required height the foundation is built under, the screws are removed, and the simple yet herculean task is completed, much to the wonderment of the unskilled throng that daily passes and stops to look at the work with a look of astonishment and inquisitiveness.

Contractor Buestrin says the heaviest building he ever raised was an entire block on West Water street, which bore down on his screws to the tune of 6,000 tons. He also commutes the delicate task of moving tall brick chimneys from one place to another. This he does by raising them, placing under them, and tediously, with great patience and skill, sliding them to their required location. Recently he accomplished a rather difficult feat of removing across the exposition building the huge stone Zwietusch fountain, which was built, as thousands have seen it, near the east entrance. The moving of this, without shaking out of place any of the fine and fancy glass and siltily light trimmings was no little task. It was, however, safely accomplished by placing it on thin planks, which had been greased with tallow, and sliding it slowly, after the fashion of moving the towering chimneys.—Milwaukee Evening Wisconsin.

It is impossible for a woman after a faithful course of treatment with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, to continue to suffer with a weakness of the uterus. Enclose a stamp to Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham, 233 Western Avenue, Lynn, Mass., for her pamphlets.

A new color has been added to the already extended list of novel artistic shades. It is called honey-suckle, and in one light is of a delicate rosy pink, and in another throws out a delicious golden hue.

A Boy Wants to Know All About Samson.

"Pa," said the Rev. Mulkittle's son, "Samson was a strong man, wasn't he?"

"Yes, Samson was the strongest man that ever lived."

"Tell me about him."

"It was intended that Samson should be the strongest man, and before he was born—"

The bewildered expression of the child's face arrested the minister in his narration.

"Before he was born?" asked the boy.

"Yes, before—that is, before he was found in the hollow gum."

"Just like little sister."

"Yes; just before he was found an angel appeared and foretold of his strength, saying that no razor must touch his head."

"Was the angel afraid that the razor would cut him?"

"No; the angel meant that his strength lay in his hair, and that his hair must not be cut off."

"If I let my hair grow long, can I lift more than I can now?"

"I don't know about that."

"Are women stronger than men?"

"No!"

"But they've got longer hair."

"Yes; they have longer hair."

"A woman couldn't whip you, could she?"

"No; not easily."

"Was Samson a Democrat?"

"I don't know."

"But why don't you know? I'd know if I was as old as you. How many men was it that Samson killed?"

"One thousand."

"He was bad, wasn't he?"

"No!"

"But when a man kills anybody he's bad."

"The Lord was with Samson."

"But the Lord says you musn't kill anybody. Did Samson go to heaven?"

"I suppose so."

"He is the strongest angel there, ain't he?"

"You are gettin' foolish again."

"But I want to know. Will you know Samson when you go to heaven?"

"I suppose so."

"But you won't fool around him, will you? If he was to hit you, he'd break your wings, wouldn't he?"

"Go to your mother. The next time you attempt to question me about the Bible I shall whip you."

A LESSON IN EQUESTRIANISM.—
Horseback riding as an art and as a beneficial exercise is one of the most judicious habits that one could cultivate. While it affords the equestrian every opportunity for the cultivation of graceful posing, it comprises all the healthful elements of the most invigorating pleasures. Like all else in this world, however, if indulged in immoderately, the results are extremely painful, and oftentimes dangerous. Galled limbs, and Piles that itch intensely, particularly after getting warm in bed, are not infrequently the outcome of exercise in the saddle. In such cases, however, the evil can be thoroughly eradicated by applying Swayne's Ointment, which, as a cure for Piles—itching or otherwise, has no equal.

Yesterday I saw going into a store on Broadway Miss Gabrielle Greeley, the daughter of the late Horace

Treasurer Spinner was made treasurer of the fund. When the money finally reached his hands it had dwindled down to about $1,500. Mr. Spinner invested the money in bonds and locked them up in the Treasury vaults. Mr. Wyman, the present assistant United States Treasurer, is now custodian of the fund. It has increased by interest to about $2,500, but there is no talk of a Lincoln memorial mon-

Note the changes in the time card of the W. M. Railroad, which went into effect last Sunday.

In Minnesota they're ready have snow-drifts ten and twelve feet high. We have not yet donned our overcoat.

Mr. JACOB FORNEY, an aged and wealthy citizen of Reisterstown, Md. died on the 21st ult., in his 78th year.

Next Thursday a week will be Thanksgiving Day, and there has been no intimation in regard to our Turkey.

Rev. Prof. J. B. KRECHNER will officiate in the "Church of the Incarnation," on to-morrow (Sunday) at 10.30, a. m.

The handsome casket in which the late Mr. Samuel Maxwell was buried, on last Sunday a week, was furnished by T. Bushman.

The political writers are all of one mind now, that for an "off year," the "ground-swell" of last week was quite considerable.

Lost.—One child's shoe and 24 tickets to the Mechanics' Fair. The finder, who will please leave them at this office, will be rewarded.

Messrs. BUCANAN SCHLEY and Wm. H. Armstrong, of Hagerstown, who have spent the past four months in Europe, arrived home a few days ago.

Mr. Geo. T. EYSTER has removed the rough casting from the Western part of his premises and weather-boarded the same, a very neat improvement in that part of the town.

The Ladies' Fair for the benefit of St. John's Reformed Church at Fairfield Pa. begins to day (Saturday) and will continue one week. The charitable and benevolent should attend it.

Best ever made, Emory's Little Cathartic Pills, pleasant to take, sugar-coated; no griping; only 15 cents a box, of Druggists or by mail. Standard Cure Co., 144 Nassau Street, New York. 8m

Mr. W. S. GUTHRIE is rapidly becoming a prodigious cultivator of the soil. He has sent us a lot of turnips, monstrous in size, we weighed two of them and they balanced 4 lbs 6 ozs and 4 lbs 5 ozs.—Next?

We have received a letter from John M. Sweeney, Esq., of Helena, Mont. formerly of this place, renewing his subscription to December, 1884. His many friends will be happy to learn that his health is improving.

Miss EVELYN N. RITCHIE, of Frederick, has been presented with a handsome lace pin by the officers of the second battalion of Cumberland as a souvenir of the entertainment for the benefit of that organization in which Miss Ritchie took part.

The official vote, as summed up at Annapolis, gives for the Sixth Judicial Circuit—Lynch, 7,003; Peter, 7,324; Motter, 7,561; Vinson, 7,601. And the Sixth Congressional District—Blair, 14,440; McCann, 15,720; George, 267; McCann's majority, 1,280.

NEVER try to raise a family without a good newspaper, provided it contains the advertisement of Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup; for this valuable medicine is necessary to keep your children in good health.

Rev. GEORGE B. RESSER, Pastor elect of the Emmitsburg charge of the Reformed church, has accepted the call from the charge, subject to the action of the Classis of Lancaster, and that of Maryland, and may be expected to enter upon his duties in a short time.

A MAN named Rudolph felled a tree upon his little seven-year old son, near Winterburn, Clearfield county, the other day, killing him instantly. The father, in his excitement to get his son out of the way of the falling tree, came near meeting a similar fate.—Compiler.

MONEY to Loan in Sums to Suit. Notes cashed and collections made at Reasonable Rates. Checks Cashed and Accommodation Checks given free of charge. Call at the old established Loan and Broker Office of W. G. Horner, West Main street, opposite Peter Hoke's Store.

The Baltimore Sun appeared on last Monday, considerably enlarged, and in new, clear and larger type than usual. With its entire outfit, presses, type and everything new, it cannot fail to maintain its position as the leading Daily of the period, always interesting, complete and satisfactory to the reader.

That's What's the Matter! "The old Man" has been as cross as a bear for a week past. No wonder that bread is heavy enough to kill an ostrich. Go right to Bussey's and get a package of "Dry Hop Yeast." It will cost you but 10 cents for one dozen cakes. Give the "Old Man" some light bread, and he will "smile again."

Injured by a Fall.

Mr. Abram Roddy, Sr., of near Frank-linsville fell from a load of fodder on Monday last and sustained some injuries of the back that have confined him to his bed. It is not thought that he is dangerously hurt.—Clarion.

List of Letters.

The following letters remain in the Post Office, Emmitsburg, Md., Nov. 13, 1882. Persons calling will please say advertised, otherwise they may not receive them:

Miss Annie C. Baker, Mrs. Sophia Mitchell, William Richardson.

Fell Heir to a Fortune.

Henry C. Dickerman, formerly employed in the Western Maryland Railroad shops at Union Bridge, Carroll county, has fallen heir to a fortune of $140,000, left him by a relative in England. He left Union Bridge last May and went to Woodstock, Howard county, where he was working in a granite quarry when the news of his good fortune reached him.

A Powerful Contrast.

When the soldiers of the dark ages were attacked with tetter, they could do naught but suffer. Medical science had not yet developed a cure. This labor of love and humane duty was left for Dr. Swayzee, whose Ointment for skin diseases is infallible in its results, as was the inspiring potency of Patrick Henry's memorable words, "Give me liberty or give me death."

Rowdy Demonstrations.

Some silly, stupid persons placed a large set of wooden steps against the public School House entrance, on last Saturday night, and since then there have been displacements of benches &c from the residences of the citizens. This is a revival of practices unknown here for many years. The town constable should ferret out the rogues, and give them wholesome lodging in the lock-up. Nip the evil in the bud.

A Correction.

Ever careful as to what we publish as facts, there was an error in our last week's issue, in regard to the case of Frank Bowman. We gave the information as received by us, that Sister O'Dell set his arm, &c., but our informant misapprehended the matter, and we correct by saying that the case was, and has been entirely under the care of Dr. Jno B. Bawner, the accomplished and skillful Physician to St. Joseph's House.

Soldiers' Attention!

Milo B. Stevens & Co., the well known War Claim Attorneys will be represented at Frederick, Md., Monday and Tuesday, Nov. 20 and 21, by their special agent, J. P. Beckerle. Soldiers and others interested in claims for Pension, Increase of Pension, Arrears of Pay and Bounty of those charged with discretion, or other claims, it is hoped, will give him a call. Mr. Beckerle's whereabouts may be ascertained at the office of the Clerk of the Court. n11-2t

N. W. FITZGERALD & Co., Pension and Patent Attorneys, of Washington, D. C., are well-known by their earnest attention to the wants of their clients; they have secured pensions to soldiers and their families amounting to $30,000,000. Any case put into their hands receives prompt attention; they are thoroughly reliable and honorable business men. The World and Soldier published by them is a publication no ex soldier should fail to have. Sample copies are sent free to any address.

Accident.

On Sunday evening last, as Mr. Charles W. Bartgis, wife and child, Montgomery county, were returning home from a visit to Mr. B's father-in-law, Mr. Armistead Alexander, residing a few miles south of this place, in a two horse buggy, one of his horses fell when only a couple miles on their way, breaking the tongue and throwing Mr. B. out. The horses then started to run, Mrs. B. and child being still in the buggy, and ran a considerable distance before they were stopped. This was brought about by the broken tongue dropping and fastening itself in the roadbed. The vehicle was considerably injured, but the inmates were unhurt, although they had a narrow escape from serious injury.—Valley Register.

Proposed Railroad.

The York Daily states that a charter was issued at the State Department Saturday morning to the Gettysburg and Emmitsburg Railroad Company, the line of which will connect with the Round Top railroad at Round Top, Cumberland township, Adams county, and extend to a point on the Pennsylvania and Maryland State line in Freedom township, Adams county, six miles, to connect with any railroad now incorporated or to be hereafter incorporated. The capital stock is $60,000, and the principal office will be in Hanover, York county.

When that road is built, it will come very near to this place. The question is, will it be brought clear through; and how shall it be done; and how beneficially, will it affect us?

Consumption Cured.

An old physician, retired from active practice having had placed in his hands by an East India Missionary the formula of a simple vegetable remedy for the speedy and permanent cure of Consumption, Bronchitis, Catarrh, Asthma, and all Throat and Lung affections, also a positive and radical cure for General Debility and all nervous complaints, after having thoroughly tested its wonderful curative powers in thousands of cases, feels it is his duty to make it known to his fellows. The recipe, with full particulars, directions for preparation and use, and all necessary advice and instructions for successful treatment at your own home, will be received by you by return mail, free of charge, by addressing with stamp or stamped self-addressed envelope to Dr. M. E. Cass, 301 York St., Jersey City, N. J.

Jurors Drawn.

The following gentlemen were drawn as jurors for the December term of the Circuit Court, which commences on the second Monday and 14th day of December: T. G. Thomas, Backeystown; C. E. Worthington, J. B. Tyson, W. A. Simmons, Peter Seeger, O. H. Martin, L. C. Mullinix, Frederick; H. L. Routzahn, Middletown; John W. Staup, Creagers-town; Felix Walters, Emmitsburg; Jacob D. HALL'S VEGETABLE SCALP HAIR RENEVER is a scientific combination of some of the most powerful restorative agents in the vegetable kingdom. It restores gray hair to its original color. It makes the scalp white and clean. It cures dandruff and humors, and falling-out of the hair. It furnishes the nutritive principle by which the hair is nourished and supported. It makes the hair moist, soft and glossy, and is unsurpassed as a hair dressing. It is the most economical preparation ever offered to the public, as its effects remain a long time, making only an occasional application necessary. It is recommended and used by eminent medical men, and officially endorsed by the State Assayer of Massachusetts. The popularity of Hall's Hair Renever has increased with the test of many years, both in this country and in foreign lands, and it is now known and used in all the civilized countries of the world.

The Williams Monument.

The monument erected by the state of Maryland to the memory of Gen. Otto H. Williams, which was noticed in the MAIL last week, stands in the cemetery at Williamsport on a lofty eminence overlooking the town and the Potomac river for many miles in both directions—a beautiful spot. The selection of the monument was entrusted to Messrs. Jos. L. Motter, Oscar S. Shaven and Frank H. Darby a committee of the Meditary Lodge of Masons, and the work was done by Messrs. Stouffer & Darner of Hagerstown. The monument is a shaft of Italian marble with a granite base bearing the following inscriptions: Upon the front is a monogram O. H. W., the motto Friendship, Morality, and Brotherhood; "Dedicated to the memory of Gen. Otto H. Williams, Founder of Williamsport in 1787, Died in 1944, Aged 45 years, Beloved, Honored Deceased." The right side bears the following: An appropriation made by the State of Maryland, 1882. A distinguished patriot and hero in the armies of the United States, in which he attained by meritorious service, the rank of Brigadier General, during the war that terminated in establishing the independence of this, his native country. Upon the rear side the legend on the Maryland coat of arms "Fatti Maschili, Parole Femine," and "A devoted, tender and excellent husband, father and brother. A refined, generous and steadfast friend. A loyal and enlightened citizen, a virtuous, benevolent and accomplished man." Upon the left side are the words, "Erected by Meditary Lodge No. 140, A. F. and A. M., of Williamsport, Md., A. L. 5882." All these inscriptions are in relief. Another die which is now blank will be inscribed as follows: "He was an active member of the American Union Lodge of the Continental Army." "The memory of the just is blessed and shall live and flourish like a green bay tree."—Mail.
