

DISASTERS FOLLOW ONE ANOTHER.

The terrible record of deaths by pestilence, earthquake, rail road disasters, drowning, suicides, &c., is almost daily spread over the columns of the press.

The earthquake on the Island of Ispahia, and the scenes of the disaster at Cassamicciola have enlisted general attention, and the deepest sympathy of all feeling hearts; the latest accounts place the number of the victims at 5000.

THE LOCUSTS DUE NEXT YEAR.

The 17-year locust is not, as many suppose, several years late. He is due next year, 1884. Everybody knows the insect which buzzes and whirs from the limbs of our trees.

THE CHOLERA DECLINING.

It is gratifying to learn that the cholera is less virulent in Cairo. The cases under treatment offer hopes of recovery. It has been observed that when the disease begins with the virulence that characterized the present attack in Egypt, it promptly wanes after an interval of about two weeks, and becomes then comparatively innocuous.

The great strike of telegraph operators continues, with no signs of compromise.

SUMMARY OF NEWS.

Mr. Vesuvius is in a state of eruption, people flying to places of safety.

The Commissioner of Internal Revenue has written to Secretary Taylor, that the entire collections of internal revenue for the year ending June 30, 1883, amount to $144,553,265, at a cost of about $5,120,000.

The bishop of Cassamicciola, who was killed by the earthquake there last Saturday night, was Monsignor Mazzella, who was pronounced in partibus for his devoted services on the occasion of the earthquake at Cassamicciola in 1881.

President Arthur and his friends departed for Louisville, Ky., on Monday, to attend the opening of the grand exposition at that place, and thence they will proceed to the Yellow Springs county. He is expected to return about the latter part of September.

Capt. Mathew Webb, the noted English swimmer, undertook, on the 24th ult., to swim across the Niagara Whirlpool. His body was subsequently found below the whirlpool, a contusion on the head showing that he was killed by being dashed against the rocks.

Nashville, July 26—The jury in the case of ex-Treasurer Polk this morning brought in a verdict of guilty of embezzlement, fixing the penalty at imprisonment in the penitentiary for twenty years, and imposing a fine to the full amount of the embezzlement, $366,540.

James Carey, the most notorious of the Irish informers in the Phoenix Park murder cases, was shot in South African waters, on Sunday last, on the steamer Melrose, while landing at Port Elizabeth. The deed was committed by a passenger named O'Donnell, who is in custody.

Gotham Gossip.

The Suicide of Minister Barca—The Vice of Extravagance—The King of Dudes.—Characteristics and Anecdotes about Berry Wall the Long Branch would be Duellist.—A Convention Hall at Saratoga.—The Arrest of Ex-Policeman Nugent.

NEW YORK July 31, 1883.

The suicide of the Spanish Minister Senor Barca; has cast a decided gloom over the social community, and from the watering places and seaside resorts, wherever the gay world is gathered, came many expressions of sympathy.

New York society people had a good laugh over the escapade of E. Berry Wall, one of Gotham's gilded youth at Long Branch. He cut quite a dash there with his endless variety of clothes and horses, and at the same time acted like such a silly fool that one of the papers poked no end of fun at him calling him the King of Dudes.

They tell a very funny story about his first purchase of a horse, which is characteristic of the young fellow.

There was a gray colt, a three year old called Knightly King, at Lexington, which his owner would have gladly sold for $250, but could find no purchaser. He was well bred, being by King Alphonso but he showed no speed for over a furlong.

When he recovered his breath, he replied: "Mr. Wall, I was going to ask $3,500 for him, but seeing that you like him so much, I will let you have him at your price. He is yours." It is needless to say that the colt never won a race, and in fact never finished anywhere in one except a bad last. He was finally sold to a riding academy as a saddle horse.

I heard it stated, and from pretty good authority, that Mrs. Stewart, (that is to say Judge Hilton), proposes to build a Convention Hall in Saratoga, so that all State Political Conventions and perhaps National Conventions may meet at the Springs.

The capture of ex-Policeman Nugent, who with two other villains attempted to rob a bank cashier of $10,000 in a railway car, has again attracted public attention to the dangers to which employees of moneyed institutions are exposed.

Two earthquake shocks, accompanied by a rumbling sound, were felt in Gilroy, California, on Monday evening.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

[From our Regular Correspondent.]

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 31, '83.

There is something of a yellow fever scare in Washington and means of precaution and prevention are being discussed and adopted. It is perhaps incorrect to say that there is any actual "scare," but with infected vessels lying in quarantine at the mouth of our river, it is no more than common prudence that every possible precaution should be taken.

When a vessel with several cases of board runs past the marine outposts, right into the port of Baltimore, it is time to assume the defensive. A few such occurrences might give us the disease in earnest. It is not thought that Washington is in any real danger of being visited by the epidemic, yet in common with all tide-water cities it enjoys no immunity from attack.

It is apparent that the lottery companies are not going to die without a struggle, and there is promise of a lively war between them and the Postmaster General, who means to stop their use of the mails if possible.

The Louisiana company is a powerful institution, and for fifteen years has wielded great influence in the politics of that State. It has made and unmade men in Congress and out of it. Its influence in the State has been so potent that no politician who wishes to live politically dares oppose it.

The largest owner is Mr. Charles T. Howard, who has 6,000 shares, their par value being $600,000. His dividend last year was $420,000. Mr. John A. Morris is the next largest owner. He has 4,000 shares, and last year he received $280,000.

There is a dearth of amusements for the summer residents of the capital. The theatres are all closed, and have been for weeks. On Saturday afternoons the Marine band plays on the lawn behind the White house, and when they are not interrupted by showers and compelled to hastily retreat into the White cellar, their bright red coats and white helmets make a gay centre-piece and their programmes are heard with pleasure.

something after the style of the old Central Park garden, New York, in the Thomas concert days. In all of these places there is beer and smoke, and to these is added, in Driver's, a sort of circus zest, contributed by the smell of sawdust with which the floor is thickly carpeted.

JAPAN takes to the newspapers most kindly. There are now 113 newspapers published in the kingdom, besides 133 miscellaneous publications, and in the three years—1874-1878—the circulation increased from 8,470,269 to 33,449,529.

A UNION meeting, under the auspices of the Northern Central Railway Branch of the Y. M. C. A., was held yesterday in Callow's Grove, near Mt. Vernon shops, and was largely attended.

From the annual return of the British army just issued it appears that the average effective strength of the regular forces during the year 1882 was 188,896. This number comprises 17,099 cavalry, 33,397 artillery, 5,510 royal engineers, and 132,792 infantry of all branches.

WASHINGTON, July 30.—The commissioner of internal revenue has issued a circular directing revenue officers to collect from the compounders of bitters, cordials and tonics which are intended to be used as alcoholic beverages the special taxes imposed by law on the rectifiers of spirits.

Agricultural.

Reducing Bones for Manure.

Manure is the life of gardening, and no one need expect to succeed without applying yearly a good coat of manure. Stable manure is best, but cannot be procured at all times in sufficient quantity, and it is important to turn everything into manure that can be made available. Being situated so that I could not get much manure, I had all the bones that accumulated about the house collected and stored in barrels. In the fall and winter, when beets and hops are killed, is the time to save bones. When cold weather set in, and we had large fires, ashes were put in alternate layers with the bones—the bulk of ashes were three times as large as the bones. This was kept moist with soap-suds and chamber lye, and when the barrels were dumped next spring all the bones were found soft and powdery.

Those who have been in the loose practice of storing their winter fruit in cellars in which miscellaneous garden vegetables are placed, should adopt as soon as possible the improvement of making for the fruit a separate apartment which is to contain nothing else. In some instances this may be effected by simply running a single brick wall eight inches thick across the cellar, and hanging the windows so as to allow easy ventilation. If the bottom is too wet, make a floor of water or lime cement. A thermometer costing fifty cents will show just how cold to keep this room in winter. Stored and managed as we have described on former occasions, good winter apples will keep into June.

A HEN may be calculated to consume one bushel of corn yearly, and to lay ten dozen or fifteen pounds of eggs. This is equivalent to saying that three and one-tenth pounds of corn will produce, when fed to a hen, five sixths of a pound of eggs; but five sixths of a pound of pork require about five pounds of corn for its production. Taking into account the nutriment in each and the comparative prices of the two on an average, the pork is about three times as costly a food as the egg while it is certainly not so healthful.

A CORRESPONDENT says: "Fresh, clean hog's lard rubbed three or four times on any kind of wart on horses or cattle will remove them on three or four applications. I have removed the warts time after time, and have never been able to find the wart for the fourth application. If I should send the Latin name for lard and tell men to pay 50 cents to the druggist for about 2 cents' worth of good lard the remedy would be of ten used."

It is not possible to give the strawberry patch too much water, provided always that the land is so well drained as to give water free escape. This is true of nearly all farm crops, though barley is more sensitive to excess of water than any small grain. Corn is injured by excessive moisture, but it is more from chilling the soil than from the effects of water itself.

VALUABLE RECIPES.

MR. GEO. F. HEUBECK, 43 Fremont street, Baltimore, Md., says: "I used Brown's Iron Bitters for general debility and it completely restored me."

TOMATO TOAST.—Run a quart of stewed ripe tomatoes through a colander, place in a porcelain stew pan, season with butter, pepper and salt, and sugar to taste; cut slices of bread thin, brown on both sides, butter and lay on a platter, and just before serving add a pint of good sweet cream to the stewed tomatoes, and pour them over the toast.

A USEFUL RECIPE.—A journal, which makes a specialty of matters relating to glass, gives a method which it asserts will prevent chimneys from cracking. The treatment will not only render lamp chimneys, tumblers, and like articles more durable, but may be applied with advantage to crockery, stone ware, porcelain, etc. The chimneys, tumblers, etc., are put into a pot filled with cold water, to which some common table salt has been added. The water is well boiled over a fire, and then allowed to cool slowly. When the articles are taken out and washed, they will be found to resist afterward any sudden changes of temperature. This process is simply one of annealing, and the slowest and the most effective will be the work.

Miscellaneous.

Vicious Benevolence.

An editorial in the August Century calls attention to the abuse of asking outsiders to do your own charity giving. It says: "It is beautiful to see how quickly the promptings of this new kind of charity spring into the mind when any human need arises. The first thought of most men seems to be not 'How much can we do toward relieving this need?' but rather 'How much can we get other people to do?' Each man begins to think of other men who can be induced to contribute; each neighborhood looks, at once, beyond its own borders to other neighborhoods upon which it may confer the blessedness of bearing its burdens. Mr. Hale's motto, 'Look out and not in,' finds in this habit of mind one of its most striking illustrations; for when there are contributions to be made the modern philanthropist begins at once to look out for contributors, and not to look into his own pocket at all."

"If there is a church debt to pay, a hospital to build, an orphanage to found, immediately the thoughts of those who stand nearest to the project, and who are to be most deeply benefited by it, are turned to distant places, inquiring how they may obtain this good thing at the smallest possible cost to themselves. Those benevolent gentlemen who have had large experience in the work of raising church debts testify that the people who have contracted these debts and are responsible for their payment are almost always well content to sit and wait, in the expectation that other people, somewhere and somehow, will lift their burden for them."

Midsummer Dresses, Etc.

Many of the white dresses to be worn during the hot season are made with single skirts having three or four deep embroidered, scalloped gathered ruffles, which cover the skirt nearly to the waist; the basque cut, with only one seam in the back is also made of the ruffling; the embroidered edges sewed together in the back seam so that most of the work shall be in the centre; the fronts are cut the same way, taking up one dart where it would naturally come to fit the figure closely. The sleeves are arranged correspondingly by cutting the upper part from the heaviest of the embroidery, while the under part is made from plain. The bottom of the basque is then finished with a strip of the embroidered ruffle fitted plainly around it. These make very rich-looking, yet easily laundered dresses, and seem a desirable change from those so frequently puffed and craped.

White Swiss muslins with colored dots embroidered on them, and having ruffling in colored scallops as well as the dots, make up into very pretty and inexpensive dresses. One in blue and white has the skirt trimmed with three of these ruffles scantily gathered and a short full drapery crossing in front, edge with the embroidery; the back breadths are looped to simulate a large sash bow with ends.

The fitted basque has embroidery on its lower edge, a scant frill on the rounded bottom of sleeve, also in the neck and extending down to the basque bottom. Blue ribbons are to be worn with this dainty dress.

A GREAT many people feel themselves gradually failing. They don't know just what is the matter but they suffer from a combination of indescribable aches and pains, which each month seem to grow worse. The only sure remedy known that will counteract this feeling and restore perfect health is Brown's Iron Bitters. By rapid assimilation it purifies the blood, drives out disease, gives health and strength to every portion reached by the circulatory system, renews wasted tissues and restores robust health and strength.

An insurance agent applied to a woman in Detroit to induce her to get her husband's life insured. "Will I be sure to get the money if he dies right off?" "Certainly, madam." "But will you give me an assurance that he will die right off?" "No, madam, we cannot do that." "Well, then, what good will it do me to get his life insured if he does not die? I knew there was some catch about this insurance business."

PRETTY head rests for hanging over the backs of easy chairs, are made in the shape of small bolsters; the ends, instead of being square, however, are drawn up like a bag and finished with a silk pompon and a bow of satin ribbon. The most beautiful are made of crimson plush with designs of raised plush flowers.

Humorous.

THE Frog Opera is a suitable one for leap year.

MR. WM. H. H. HANS, 14 N. Corrollton avenue, Baltimore, Md., "I used Brown's Iron Bitters for weakness and malaria. It has done me much good."

An inquisitive young lady asks: "What is the most popular color for the bride?" The New York Star answers: "If we were going to marry, we should prefer a white one."

WHAT is a fish? asked a correspondent. Ah, yes; a fish is a line that resembles a fish of some kind—and is much in vogue with the cod fish aristocracy.

DEAN SWIFT was once dining with a family in which the matron boasted of the number of centuries in which the magical prefix "de" had been the rightful property of her ancestors. The Dean heard the tedious and oft-told tale to the end, and then delivered his opinion of all that sort of nonsense by saying: "Madam, will you kindly help me to another piece of de umpling?"

TIMOTHY FLYNN was a tailor in the employ of Mr. Peters. The domestic affairs of Timothy and his wife were not conducted with harmony. Broken heads and dismembered articles of furniture frequently attested that fact. Last Monday Timothy did not come to work. On Tuesday Mr. Peters went to his house to see him. He met Mrs. Flynn at the door. A black eye, a bruised nose and a triumphant smile were her most prominent features. "You seem to have been having a devil of a time, Mrs. Flynn," said Mr. Peters; "you are all broken up. Has—'Don't talk, Mr. Peters, Lord love ye, don't talk till ye see Flynn'."

"SAM" HOBART was a locomotive engineer, according to Rev. Dr. Fulton, who always had an open Bible on a bracket before him, in the cab of his engine, and from it was accustomed to read and commit to memory while running his train. It was regarding this practise that a correspondent asked Mr. Vanderbilt's views. "My opinion is that it was a bad practise, and that he must have indulged in it on the sly if he did it without losing his place. Why, such a thing would be sure to bring on a disaster. An engineer must keep his eyes on the machine and the track, and he hasn't any time to read Scripture, or anything else except his steam gauge, while on duty."

He Lapsed on call.

He was a Buffalo man. The school teacher had been talking about finance to her scholars, and young John came home to ask: "Father, is there such a thing as a call loan?" "Yes, of course." "Well, what is it?" "Why old Swipes, the doctor, comes bustling in some afternoon—note to meet—needs fifty more—hand it back next day—and I'm fool enough to lend it." "Yes." "I wait two weeks, need the money, and call at his office. He isn't in. I call again, he is out. I call forty or fifty times, always miss him, call to him on the street and he doesn't hear, call him a dead-beat, and that ends it. There's the call and there's the loan, and here's the idiot. That's all!"—Wall Street News.

A Dead Give Away.

A certain young Hebrew traveling man, new on the road, bought a special ticket of a scalper and got aboard of the train in good shape. When the conductor came around he took Isaac's ticket and looked at the name, and then at Isaac, shook his head, and said: "What's your name?" "Let me see my ticket." "Can't you tell your name without seeing the ticket? This won't do. You will have to get off at the next station or pay your fare."

This agitated Isaac profoundly, and he turned to his companion, and said: "Moses I've forgot my name that was on the ticket; can you tell me what it is?"

"Will you let me see dot ticket, Mr. Conductor?" inquired Moses. The conductor showed it to him. "Mein Got, I zeek, vot name is does? Patrick Moriarity! No wonder you don't recommember dot name. Dond you nefer got some more teek et idem schoolperts mit dot name on it. Dem conodogter looks at dot nose and den at dot name, und he schmile mit himself ven de drinks of a Patrick bejint a nose like dot. Ah, I zeek, ven you grows oiter you will know a krate deal more as you know yecost now. Mr. Conodogter, I will pay dia koslink's fare to de stoehopping place vere ye gets off."
