A SUGGESTION ABOUT BRAIN-AGE.

The following article, from the American Agriculturist, strikes us as being such a simple, common sense way of reclaiming valueless, swampy land, that we feel like recommending it to every farmer who may have even a small portion of his land lying idle and unproductive, as the plan is inexpensive enough for the poorest man who owns a farm to be able to carry it out.

"A Missouri man, says the Michigan Farmer, relates an experience which offers suggestions which, while they may not be exactly new, may have for many farmers practical value. There were upon his farm several depressions which in wet seasons held ponds of water. To drain these by ordinary means would have been very expensive, because no gravel could be got near the farm, and there was no tile factory in that vicinity. Open ditches were out of the question. The services of an expert well-borer were secured. He sank several test shafts in various parts of the farm, and found that the underlying ground was a tenacious blue clay, fourteen to sixteen feet thick, and almost perfectly impervious. Beneath this was found a strata of white sand. The well-borer and his machine were placed in a wagon which, by means of a long rope, was hauled to the deepest part of the pond, about an acre in extent. Here he bored a well down to the sand, completing the operation before sunset of the day when the work was begun. In thirty-six hours the water had disappeared and the pond was dry. To make this short perpendicular drain permanent he had it cleared of sediment, sunk the shaft about two feet into the bed of sand, and filled it to the top with clean, coarse gravel from a creek bed. The gravel was heaped about a foot high above the shaft to strain the water properly that the shaft might not become choked.

There are thousands of places, where year after year, farmers have plowed such wet spots, giving them up to the possession of rushes and frogs. Yet they could be drained easily in a few hours. In Western Michigan a large swamp lay for years on the southern edge of a village, a noise barrier to progress and a bone of contention in village and township politics. To drain it a large ditch a mile or two long would have been required; but some one fortunately discovered that a thin sheet of clay was all that kept the waters from going down into a deep strata of gravel, boulders, and sand. The wells were sunk and the swamps thoroughly drained at an almost nominal cost, leaving rich black soil, which is the most productive and valuable in all that district. There may be thousands of similar swamps, where two or three days spent in sinking test shafts would show a ready means of converting sloughs or swamps into fields of wonderful fertility."

The New York Sun of Tuesday celebrated its fiftieth anniversary by publishing a facsimile copy of its first issue, on September 8d, 1838, being a three column page, 10 inches by 7 1/2. The publisher, Benjamin Day, is still alive. He was the original proprietor, editor, publisher, &c. The contrast between its puny beginning and the leading journal of the day, as the Sun now is, under the management of Mr. Chas. A. Dana, is a striking illustration of the much discussed phrase, "The Sun do move."

Astor in Wall Street.—The Vanderbilts becoming buyers of land.—Horace Greeley's farm to be sold.—Gentleman Farmer's failure.—A Wall Street Man's experience.—How Henry Ward Beecher and a leading artist fare.—More English Noblemen to come to this country.—Lord and Lady Roseberry.

NEW YORK, September 4th, 1888.

Horace Greeley's farm at Newcastle, Westchester County, is to be sold at auction on the 8th inst., and people romantically inclined will have a chance to make a bid for the property on which the great editor tried to show his neighbors and constituents "What I know about farming." I am told that the estate is valuable to a person who is practically familiar with agriculture, though it cost Greeley more than it ever produced for him.

Somehow gentleman farmers are not a success in this country. The pursuit of extracting produce from mother earth seems to be too real, too earnest to admit of play. I know several Wall Street men who own estates in Long Island, in New Jersey, and at points along the Hudson as far as Dobbs Ferry. I was talking with one of them on the New Jersey Central train this afternoon. He described to me the pleasure he had every evening on returning to his place. "You should see my corn fields," he said. "They are beautiful." "Does your farming pay you?" He laughed. "Well," he answered, "I don't know that it does. We use no vegetables in the house except what we raise ourselves. I figured it out what they cost me some time last fall, and I found that they are worth very nearly their weight in gold, and yet we do not waste anything."

Rev. Henry Ward Beecher used to say that his farm at Peekskill, at up nearly his entire salary which was $50,000 a year, and a leading and eminently successful artist once related at a dinner table that he had to paint four pot boilers a year to pay for the running expenses of his farm, before he had the leisure to paint a genuine work of art.

Quite a flutter was created in Wall Street this week when it became known that Mr. John J. Astor had entered the den of the bulls and bears, become a heavy buyer and leagued himself with the Gould clique. The fundamental maxim of the founder of the house was to invest your savings in land. This was the only real property. Other values were subject to change—land remained. The family has been living up to this maxim, and the great-grandchildren have been adding to the blocks of real estate owned by the family almost as eagerly as old John Jacob himself. No wonder, then, that the fact that one of the Astors has left the smooth waters of land speculation for the troubled seas of Wall Street, has excited so much talk. For Gould is a valuable ally, for he has what is very much needed in Wall Street at present, ready money, or something which is as good as that.

On the other hand, the Vanderbilts are gradually retiring from the turmoil of the Street and becoming land owners. William H. is quietly adding lot after lot to his possessions in the city, while his sons are buying along the line of their father's roads, and are adding to their estates on Long Island.

The Stewart Memorial Cathedral at Garden City, is to be dedicated on the 19th, and Bishop Littlejohn will probably perform the ceremony. Whether the body of the founder has been discovered and placed in the crypt is not known. Judge Hilton preserves the most rigid silence, and the people employed there are also remarkably reticent.

The influx of English Noblemen to this country continues. Among the new comers due here next week, are Lord and Lady Roseberry, who sailed on the Cunarder Pavonia last week. Lord Roseberry is a leading member of the Conservative party, and a shining member of the Jockey Club. His racing and breeding establishment is one of the finest in England, and in his career on the turf he has won many of the most desirable victories. Lady Roseberry is a Rothschild, and her wealth contributed to the revival of the family splendor of her husband. Lord Roseberry's family name is Primrose and his racing colors are primrose. The Belmonts who are closely identified with the Rothschilds, will probably chaperone the Roseberrys during their sojourn in this country. Whether his Lordship also intends to become a land owner here is not known; perhaps he is, as it has become almost a mania among Englishmen of wealth to invest in Western realty.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

[From our Regular Correspondent.]

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 4, '88.

In round numbers there are 110,000 office-holders dependent for their bread and oleomargarine upon the treasury of the United States, and who receive salaries ranging from $15 per month to $50,000 per annum, the compensation of the President. So much has been said concerning the extravagant salaries paid to our higher government officials, in connection with the civil service reform discussions, a few comparisons between salaries paid in this country and those paid to officials in similar stations in England may be of general interest. For instance, Lord Chief Justice Coleridge, now visiting this country, receives a salary twice as large as that of the President of our fifty-five millions of people, and nearly ten times larger than that received by the chief justice of the United States. The lord mayor of London and the lord lieutenant of Ireland each receive a salary larger by $10,000 per year than that received by our chief executive. While we pay our ministers to London and Paris and Berlin $17,500 per annum, and consider that the very exaltation of extravagance, the ambassadors accredited to this country from those nations receive nearly, if not quite, three fold more than we pay, and the Russian minister receives more than four fold the extravagant figure that has kept us in a grumble for thirty years. To our second-class ministers, such as represent us at Madrid and Vienna and Rome, we pay $12,000 per annum, while England pays to her representatives to those countries $27,500.

There is yet another class of ministers to whom we pay a salary of $10,000, such as those who represent us in the South American States, and England makes no distinction between them and the Austrian and Italian missions, so far as compensation is concerned. And so it is with our consuls and our secretaries of legation and other attaches, to whom we pay the maximum salary of $5,000, and England perpetuates hers through a lifetime by giving them just double that sum. We pay our cabinet officers $9,000 per annum, which is just about the amount the English premier receives per month, and the comptroller of the treasury works for the same amount, $5,000 per year, that the chancellor of the English exchequer receives per month. The postmaster at New York gets $8,000 per annum, and his confrere at London gets as many pounds, or nearly five times as much; while the same of fier at Liverpool, Manchester, and a dozen other English cities, receive more than double the compensation of the postmaster of our metropolis. The general of the army gets $13,500 per year, which would scarcely be considered pin-money for the head of the British army; nor would the admiral of the English navy be able to keep up the dignity of his position upon such a pittance as the $11,000 per year that we dole out to the head of our powerful sea forces.

With most of the officials to whom we pay what we are prone to consider extravagant salaries, there is an absolute struggle for existence, because of the demands upon them for hospitalities, official courtesies, and all that sort of thing. In fact many of them, and particularly the cabinet officers, expend much more than the salaries they receive every year in responding to these social requirements. None of them, not even the President, is expected to lay by anything for a rainy day out of these salaries; and we all know with what a pitiful disdain the whole American people look upon a recently retired President, who is suspected to have so economized in the household expenses of the executive mansion as to salt down about one-half of his entire salary. There is, of course, no good reason why we of this plain, democratic, modern republic should especially emulate aristocratic and wealthy England in the matter of official salaries no matter how powerful or well able we may be to do so. These comparisons are made simply as a matter of interest. Yet we ought to pay high officials enough to meet all the proper demands of life in their positions, though it is a curious fact that, inadequate as present salaries are said to be, there is no difficulty in finding any number of men willing and anxious to take the places. It is, however, a fact that if we carry the subject a step farther, and make comparisons between official salaries and those in commercial life in our country, we shall find the discrepancies almost as great in some of the higher grades. There are presidents of insurance and railway companies who receive salaries as great, or greater, than that of the President of the United States; and in many other positions where integrity and a high order of ability is required, much more is paid than for corresponding service under the government. But when we come down to the lower grades, such as clerkships, etc., which comprise the great mass of the 110,000 above referred to, we find that salaries average considerably better than in commercial positions; so that in the aggregate Uncle Sam pays his servants as much as, or more than, the same number of men of equal character and capacity could command in salaries in any other walk of life in this or any other country.

TO THE DEMOCRATS OF FREDERICK COUNTY.

FREDERICK, Md., Aug. 17, 1888.

Fellow Citizens:

Repeated calls have been made upon me during the last six months—both personally and through the public press—urging me to become a candidate for the Sheriff's nomination at the next Democratic convention, and the opinion has been confidently expressed that if nominated I can be elected. Relying upon the judgment of these disinterested fellow citizens, and the fact that my estimate I may place upon my own strength or fitness, I gratefully accede to their wishes and hereby announce that I will be a Candidate for Sheriff at the next Democratic Nominating Convention. In making this announcement I am not ignoring the fact that if nominated I will have a hard fight before me; I am fully prepared for this; and, knowing that the harder the fight the greater the effort required of me, I assure you that no time should be lost nor honorable means left untried to accomplish yours and my success. Very Respectfully, sep 1-1f CHARLES E. MULLEN.

each has a separate cause of origin, and each needs a different method of treatment in order to effect a cure, and a moment's reflection must convince you that the quick remedy now foisted upon the public claiming to cure all of a number of dissimilarly different diseases must prove a failure, even if we do not call them humbugs.

It consists of twenty eight pages finely printed on good paper, from the Old Fellow of office and presents an array of the regulations and premiums of the exhibition than cannot fail to interest all persons who are concerned about the progress of Agricultural and Mechanical pursuits. Live Stock, Poultry, &c., &c.

ROCKVILLE, Md.—Mr. Edward Stabler died at 9 o'clock at night on the 5th inst at Sandy Spring, Montgomery county, where he had been the postmaster for more than 50 years. He was nearly 89 years of age, and had been ill for several weeks, during which time his death was expected to occur at almost any moment. His trouble was disease of the heart, complicated by infirmities incident to advanced age. He was the oldest Postmaster in the United States having been appointed by Gen. Jackson in 1830, his commission was never revoked.

A Bad Fall.

John M. Bowers a son of Mr. Laban Bowers whilst carrying bricks up the scaffold at Mr. W. G. Horner's new building on Monday, came into contact with a stay of doorway, and was thereby knocked between the joists, into the cellar about eleven feet below, his head struck against a rock, contusing the scalp and producing insensibility for sometime, besides receiving other bruises. Dr. J. W. Eichelberger Jr., rendered surgical aid, and at this writing the patient is doing well.

Jurors Disqualified and Drawn.

The following gentlemen have been excused and disqualified from serving on the jury for the September term of court: Dennis Scholl, Chas. R. Coblenz, Joseph Huffor, O. A. Horner, S. L. Smith, Daniel Smith, of J. Hanson Bussard, Samuel Flaut, Wm. Shuff Cephas M. Thomas, C. Silas Thomas, Geo. W. Null, Jesse Englar, Joshua Hood, W. Hamilton Pearce.—Times.

From the Valley Register of last week.

Mr. Daniel Keller, a well-known and respected farmer, owner of the steam flouring mill, 14 miles north-west of this place, suffered a stroke of paralysis last Sunday morning, which affected his entire left side and his speech. At last account his speech had been restored and he was otherwise recovering from the effects of the stroke.

Last Sunday morning some person went into the stable of Mr. J. D. Koogle, one mile west of town, and punctured his fine black horse in the side and shoulder with the tines of a pitchfork. No less than thirteen holes were visible on the skin of the animal where the tines had penetrated.

NARROW ESCAPE.—Last Friday about noon, Mr. Horatio Bentz, residing on West Patrick street, made a narrow escape from death. Mr. Bentz has an elevator in his well, and was engaged repairing it, when a piece of timber, on which he was standing, gave way, precipitating Mr. B. into the well. When he reached the bottom he soon experienced a depressing feeling, doubtless occasioned by foul air, and at once began calling loudly for help. His cries were heard by his daughter who at once gave the alarm, and several neighbors came to the rescue. When taken out Mr. Bentz was almost unconscious, but fresh air soon revived him. He suffered no other effects from his fall, and was soon about again.—Maryland Union.

A Collision on the W. M. R. R.

Shortly before 6 o'clock Sunday morning a collision occurred on the Western Maryland railroad, near Highland Park, between two freight trains which resulted in the instant death of Wm. G. Abell, a baggage master in the employ of the company. Owen Dorsey, a stock-dealer, residing at Graceham, this county, was also fatally injured and died the same evening. The injured were Wm. N. Fleigh, No. 101 North Exeter street, and Joseph Crouse, No. 108 North Exeter street, Baltimore. A jury of inquest was summoned and after hearing the evidence of the train hands rendered a verdict of gross negligence on the part of the latter. The first train, which caused the collision, consisted of seventeen cars of stock, etc., at the place named the train stopped to cool a hot box, the engineer knowing that another train was close behind, and in less than two minutes the second train, consisting of six cars, ran into the first, not having been flagged in time.

The remains of Mr. Dorsey were prepared for burial at the City Hospital, Baltimore, and conveyed by train to his home at Graceham on Monday morning.

An Equestrian Somersault.

HAGERSTOWN, Md., Sept. 4.—Mr. Martin L. Startzman, residing on the Shop farm, midway on the pike between Hagerstown and Williamsport, this morning, mounted on a horse, went to a field on the farm to drive up a delinquent horse from the pasture. In a lane leading to the house, and while proceeding at a lively pace, the driven horse stumbled and fell. The horse on which Mr. Startzman was mounted fell over the prostrate horse and the rider heading over both, and the ridden horse in turn over the rider. Mr. Startzman lay for a long time unconscious, but finally recovered sufficiently to drag himself home. Dr. N. B. Scoot was summoned. His face was badly lacerated and his body bruised, particularly about the breast. No bones were broken, but fears are entertained of internal injuries.—Sun.

Death of Edward Schwartz.

THE York Daily of last week says:—Mr. Edward Schwartz, who had his neck fractured and dislocated, near his residence in Dover township, on the 23d of last month, by being struck on the head by a falling limb of a tree, died last Saturday. Two days after the accident, after a consultation by a number of York physicians and Dr. Gross, an operation, which was a nice and an exceedingly critical one, was successfully performed and the prospects for his recovery seemed fair. The case was a most interesting one to the physicians and was the subject of no little discussion. Yesterday morning Dr. Gross of Dover, West, Hay, Long and J. R. Spangler, of York, and Dr. Blackburn, of Philadelphia, went to the residence of the deceased and made a post mortem examination. They found a fracture of the atlas, with a dislocation of the sixth cervical vertebra, fully verifying the diagnosis made by the physicians at the time of the accident.

We take the following from the Times of Winchester Va., which will interest many of our readers.

The corner-stone of St. Paul's Reformed Chapel, near Stephenson's Depot, was laid on Sunday morning, August 19th. About 400 persons were present. The reverend gentlemen announced to be present were unavoidably absent and the entire burden of the occasion devolved upon Rev. A. R. Kremer the Pastor, who made one of the most appropriate and interesting discourses ever delivered by this worthy pastor of the Reformed church. The full choir connected with the church in this city was present and the singing was all that could have been desired, well selected and excellently rendered. A considerable amount of money was collected. The dedication will probably take place in October, when the Chapel will be free from debt. This is the only church between Winchester and Bunker Hill on the Martinsburg pike.

FROM THE GETTYSBURG COMPILER.—A horse and buggy stolen from John Hammer, in Huntingdon township, has been recovered in Montgomery county Md., we are told.

The number of passengers coming to Gettysburg over the H. J. and G. Railroad during Encampment was over five thousand, Sept. 30th informs us.

Burgess McCleary fined a large number of hucksters for carrying passengers on Sunday of the Encampment, and several other parties for selling cigars, ice cream, &c. on the same day.

Miss Mollie McCurdy, daughter of Hon. Robert McCurdy, is making an extended tour of New England, visiting Gloucester, Boston, Nantucket, Mount Desert and other points.

It was only a window pane broken—and yet quite an accident. On Tuesday about closing time, as Mr. J. E. Bait, Cashier of the Gettysburg National Bank, was lowering by the cord the heavy transom over one of the windows in the front, the transom fell, one end striking Mr. B. on the shoulder and the other end going through the large plate glass, causing the Cashier a good deal of pain and to the window a big break that required boarding up for five or six feet. The plate is 6 by 8 feet. Another has been set for a similar accident cannot again occur.

A DRIVE.—On Friday of last week we availed ourselves of the kind offices of a friend to act as our driver, and ascended the mountain to Clermont about ten miles distant, and within a mile and a half of the Blue Ridge Summit Station of the W. M. R. R. This hotel is eligibly located upon the Summit of the South Mountain, between 1400 and 1500 feet above the sea level, and affords a very pleasant retreat from the summer's heat. The house is roomy and accommodates a large number of boarders; its situation is such as to afford a view clear through the valleys that lie between the mountains, on either side, and of the hills beyond Westminster on the east, whilst in all other directions the scenery is that of the mountains. Mr. David Miller the proprietor of the house, has had many years of experience in the way of providing for the entertainment of guests, and has succeeded in giving to his patrons, the accommodations of a pleasant resort, wherein a home feeling, seems to prevail so that laying aside pretensions demonstrations, they seem as a family in common. Although we had intended but taking a drive and returning immediately, we were obliged to yield to the kind and hospitable invitation, of Mine Host, to remain for dinner, and in the mean time, accompanied him to the Summit Station, whence he receives the guests and the mails of the house. The drive to that point is over a good road, almost level, and remarkably free from rocks and obstructions, the very thing in fact for pleasant summer drives, and is no doubt well appreciated by the residents of Clermont and the Monterey House. For the last day of August, we thought the number of guests still remaining, indicated satisfaction with their accommodations and surroundings.

A Runaway and a wrecked Separator.

On Tuesday morning Mr. Leonard C. Harbaugh, who resides near Sabillasville, came to town for a separator, which he had repaired here, the separator was attached to the rear of his four horse wagon, a boy of about 12 years of age, was driving the team, and Mr. H. was seated on the separator; When they reached the Emmitt House, the horses became frightened, the bride came off of the saddle horse, and away they went, the frightened boy finding the horses beyond control jumped to the ground, and where the road turns to the mountain, the machine was run against a fence, which of course upset it, and it was badly broken. The horses got loose and ran as far as Mr. B. Keilholz's brick yard where they were stopped, the boy ran after the team as soon as he jumped to the ground, and Mr. Harbaugh succeeded in reaching the ground in safety before the crash occurred. A number of the citizens then dragged the broken machine to town again for repairs.

The Postal Notes.

Through the kind and polite attention of our gentlemanly and efficient Post Master Mr. S. N. McNair, we were favoured with an inspection of the new postal notes, the other day. They are printed on bank note paper and are in the form of those notes; they have blank spaces for the name of the post office to which they are to be sent, and for the amount of the order. There are columns for dollars, dimes and cents, in amounts from one cent to $4.99; the figures are to be punched to represent the amount called for. They are made payable to bearer, and can therefore pass from hand to hand as money. The receiver must sign his name, as evidence of payment, a column of months is placed on one side by which the time of their currency is indicated; they stop just when the money orders, heretofore in use come into play, as these latter yield 8 cents, and the new small order ones, cost but 3 cents the wisdom of the arrangement is apparent. We doubt not they will prove a most convenient and acceptable facility to commercial business.

From the Examiner.

On Tuesday last, Mr. John H. Bennett was commissioned by Gov. Hamilton as assistant officer of Registration for this District.

Mr. William C. Martin, clerk in the office of City Register Rabb, died on the 31st instant, at his residence, No. 153 North Eutaw street, Baltimore. Mr. Martin, who was 82 years old, was formerly of this city, and about twenty-five or thirty years ago was the Democratic candidate for Sheriff of this county. He had occupied the position of clerk in the register's office for a number of years, and was efficient and obliging. Mr. Martin was a member of St. Paul's M. E. Church South. He has two sons in the employ of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company. He had been confined to the house for several months.

On Tuesday morning the 21st ultimo, Miss Mary Higgins and Miss Ann Connel, both of Philadelphia, received the religious veil and habit in the chapel at the Academy of the Visitation, B. V. M., this city, in the presence of a large number of friends and relatives. The former will be known in religion as Sister Mary Ambrosia and the latter as Sister Mary Francis. At the same time Sister Mary Austin McDermott, made her profession. Rev. Father McDermott, conducted the services which were of a very impressive character, and consisted of low mass, a short sermon and fine music.

EARLY on Saturday morning burglars entered the Franklin House bar room through the window on the corner, facing the railroad, by forcing open the shutters. They broke open the money-drawer and secured a good sum of money. Two boxes of cigars and a hand-some bar decanter filled with whiskey were also taken. The floor inside the bar was plentifully littered with burned matches. As yet there is no clew to the thieves.—Greencastle, Valley Echo.

On Monday last week Jacob Hendle, Carlisle, ate a hearty dinner, and went into the sitting room, as was his custom, to read a newspaper. Some time after, Mrs. H. went into the room and found her husband sitting on his chair, dead. He was 67 years old and had been in apparent good health.

WAGNER'S SENTENCE.—The case of Dr. Wagner, the man of law-suits, was disposed of by Judge Ritchie on Friday of last week but at this writing it is difficult to know what the decision was. The Frederick Times says:

"Judge Ritchie reviewed the case at considerable length and passed sentence, in effect, as follows: That Harrison Wagner be fined $100 and costs, and that he be confined in the jail of this county for one year on each of the five cases—the time to be served conjointly."

The Baltimore Morning Herald has it, "twelve months imprisonment and a fine of $100 in each case, making the fine in the cases against the Adams Express Company alone amount to $70,300."

The Baltimore Sun correspondent says, one year's imprisonment and a fine of $700 and the costs; and a citizen of this place has him consigned to the Penitentiary for 70,300 years!

P. S.—The Frederick papers now represent the sentence of Wagner to be twelve months in jail for each of the cases, the time to be served conjointly; and to pay a fine of $100 in each of the seven cases, and the costs of the proceedings.
