At last accounts, yesterday, he was still suffering considerably, being unable to move without assistance.—Daily Times.

J. M. LAROCHE'S Anti-Bilious Bitters a purely vegetable, faultless family medicine for all diseases of the Liver and Stomach, cures sick and nervous headache, regulates the bowels, aids digestion, and is a certain cure and preventive of chills and fevers. Price 25 cents a paper, or $1 a bottle. W. E. Thornton, cor Baltimore and Harrison streets.

A BOY two years old, the son of Mr. George Miller, of Washington county on Friday last, while passing in front of a cow that was being milked, was hooked by the cow, the horn entering the mouth and tearing the cheek open from mouth midway to the ear, and also to the nose, and tearing the flesh from the cheek bone. Dr. Scott was called in, and for a while thought the injury would result fatally, but the child is now better.

A Washington County Invention. The Rev. Samuel M. Fiery, of this county, has invented a single tree designed to prevent breakages and shocks when the plow strikes an obstruction. There is a knuckle in the centre of the tree and a spring. This spring is regulated by a thumb screw, and the tree can be rendered more or less stiff, according to the strength or weight of the horse. Mr. Fiery had one of his contrivances on exhibition at the fair.—Mail Oct. 19.

Country Roads. The stones gathered off the fields and placed in the public roads and broken fine, would make good roads along the farms of our people, and in a few years, with a little piece of road built in this way every season, we would soon have greatly improved country roads, with but little expense and much improvement to the fields from which the stones were taken. If the farmers living along the public roads were to consult together and each agree to do his part, the question of better country roads would soon be settled.—Ez.

PERSONALS. Messrs. Harry H. Myers and Samuel L. Rowe, spent Sunday in this place. Mr. J. L. Hoke, made a business trip to Baltimore this week. Mr. George W. Myers, of Hagerstown with his bride made a visit to his mother in this place. Mrs. Wm. Zopp, of Westminster, visited her sister, Mrs. S. N. McNair. Miss Belle Hopp, is visiting friends in Philadelphia. Hon. Noah Bowles, democratic candidate for the State Senate, was in town making the acquaintance of the people.

Reception. The old friends of Mr. Geo. W. Myers, had the pleasure of meeting him and his bride, on Wednesday evening, at the residence of his mother, where they were pleasantly and hospitably received; and on Thursday, the employees of this office were made happy, by a liberal offering of good things, from the entertainment. The happy voyagers now starting on the sea of life, have our warmest congratulations, and most earnest wishes, that their journey may be attended with a full measure of life's choicest blessings.

How to Cure Sore Throat. "One who has tried it, communicates the following seasonable item about curing sorethroats to the New York Herald: "Let each one of your half million readers buy at any drug store one ounce of camphorated oil, and five cents worth of chlorate of potash. Whenever any soreness appears in the throat put the potash half a tumbler of water, and with it gargle the throat thoroughly; then rub the neck thoroughly with the camphor oil at night before going to bed, and also pin around the throat a small strip of woolen flannel. This is a simple, cheap and sure remedy.

In the November issue of the Eclectic Magazine, the opening article is a powerful statement of the ethical significance of Emerson's life and writings, by Henry Norman. In "After the Coronation," we have an authoritative account of the present policy and plans of the Nihilists, by the well-known Stepiak. William Howard Russell's "Memories of Ischia," the three selections from the Spectator, Saturday Review, and the Athenaeum, on "Ivan Tourgenief," and the paper on "The Gods of Canaan," by Prof. A. H. Sayce. A Polish Love-story, and "In Pitti," by Ouida, will be found good specimens of interesting story-telling. The poems of the number are: "The Lact Woods of Cleanthes," by Richard Hengist Home, and "The Bride's Chamber," by Theodore Watts. Lord Lytton's second and closing article on "The Stage in Relation to Literature," is published. The magazine has a number of short, bright articles, among which special attention may be called to the sketch of "Salmon-Fishing in Norway," and the biographical sketch of Benvenuto Cellini. Published by E. R. Pelton, 25 Bond Street, New York. Terms, $5 per year, single copy, 45 cents. For sale by all newsdealers.

"ARE you lonely to night, Miss Ada?" "No Sir! I wish I were lonelier." He bade her good night and went home, took a large dose of Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup, fearing her icy manner had given him a cold.

Quick Work. Wm. Drane, whose arrest we mentioned last week, was put "through the mill" in double quick time. He committed a theft on Saturday night, was arrested on Sunday, indicted on Monday, and on Tuesday convicted by the court and sentenced to 18 months in the penitentiary.—Banner.

Dramatic. A Grand entertainment will be given on next Wednesday evening, October 21st, by "The Mountain Dramatic Society," at Mt. St. Mary's College. No expense has been spared to make it the most successful of the many entertainments of the society. Tickets can be procured at the College. Let there be a good turn out.

At the annual meeting of the stockholders of the Western Maryland Railroad for the election of five directors the gentlemen chosen were C. W. Hamric house and George W. Harris, of Washington county; Joshua Biggs, of Frederick county; Col. John K. Longwell, of Carroll county, and Daniel J. Foley, of Baltimore, who succeeds Edward Worthington, of Baltimore county. The eight directors on the part of the city are Alexander Riemann, Christian Devries, Wm. H. Graham, E. G. Hipsley, Germon H. Aunt, John I. Middleton, Samuel H. Taggart and James W. McElroy.

Golden Wedding. On Wednesday of last week, "Self Defence," the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Christian Wineberger, near Walkersville, this county, was the scene long to be remembered by those present. It was the celebration of the golden wedding of Mr. Christian and Mrs. Phoebe Wineberger, two of the most highly esteemed and respected old residents of the county. The company, numbering some thirty-five, consisted of children, grand children, and great grand children of the aged couple, and the old mansion which has been occupied by this couple, for so many years rang with the merry voices of those present.—Examiner.

From the Gettysburg Compiler. Mr. J. Jefferson Myers died of consumption, at his residence, in this place, on Thursday morning, aged 43 years 9 months and 21 days. He was a native of Gettysburg and learned printing in the Compiler office, following it here and for a time in Hanover. He served in the war, as a member of the First Reserves. In November, 1869, he became by appointment of the board, Clerk to the County Commissioners, and filled the position without intermission until the day of his death.

While Julia Ziegler, aged four years, was playing at a stove in her mother's residence, in York, her clothing caught fire. She died next day.

The Keystone Gazette Again. In our issue of last week, we tried, in a calm and dispassionate manner, to express our appreciation of the Keystone Gazette. Every impulse of our nature prompts us to deal honestly in all things, and with all men. We expect our friends everywhere to recognize the truth, "faithful are the wounds of a friend, but the kisses of an enemy are deceitful." In its issue of this week, the Gazette, with a wonderful astuteness of purpose, gives its readers the benefit of our remarks in full, and then, as if to show how beneficially our efforts on its behalf had proved, flies off, and attributes unworthy motives to us. The matter is too insignificant to be further noticed. We always desire to remember that even criticism has its just limits, and the wise man furnishes the motto, "A thought shouldst bray a fool in a mortar among wheat with a pestle, yet will not his foolishness depart from him."

From the Keystone Gazette. Rowe Snively killed a crane on his father's farm near Greencastle, on Wednesday last, which stood 4 feet 4 inches high and measured 6 feet 9 inches from tip to tip of wings.

Two lay stacks, containing about 50 tons each, and two clover stacks on the farm of Addison Imbie, Greencastle, were destroyed by fire on Thursday night of last week. The latter contained about 35 bush, of clover seed.

John Zeigler, residing about three miles South of Greencastle, on the Hagerstown road, died suddenly on Monday evening of last week. His family had all been to the Hagerstown fair and left him home to take care of the house. In the afternoon he walked over to Layman's a neighbor, and while there dropped dead from heart disease.

We are pained to chronicle the death of an old friend and well-known citizen of this place, Mr. Jos. Anderson, which occurred very suddenly at his home in this place on Wednesday night of last week. Upon retiring to bed that evening he was feeling as well as usual, but towards midnight he was taken violently ill and ten minutes thereafter was a lifeless corpse.

Rev. Jacob Price, of Park Hill or Zullinger P. O., for many years a prominent minister in the Duker Church, and at the time of his death a Bishop, died on Friday morning last after a protracted illness, from a disease of the lungs. He was about 73 years of age. He was an earnest and fearless worker in the religious cause, and in his death the church has received a serious loss.

Says the Press: On Monday the 15th inst., there was a family reunion at the residence of Henry Omwake, it being the occasion for celebrating the nineteenth birthday of his mother, Elizabeth Omwake, who after riding nine miles in the morning, not only enjoyed the dinner but the company as well, showing herself quite at home in conversation relating to events of eighty years ago, with a ready memory.

SAUER KRAUT will be abundant this winter. The Synod of the Potomac in session in Newton, N. C., has selected Hanover, Pa., as the place for its next meeting in October, 1884.

From the Hanover Citizen. At an election by the members of St. Mark's Lutheran church, this place, on Monday last, Rev. George Schull, of Baltimore, was elected pastor of that congregation. Mr. Schull is an able minister, and we have no doubt will do much good in this community.

The Hanover Water Company has declared a dividend of three per cent, payable on and after Monday, Nov. 5th. Rev. D. A. Day and wife have sailed for the Mulberry mission on the west coast of Africa. Mr. Day is a native of Adams county.

On Wednesday night of last week, a wreck occurred on the Northern Central Railroad, near Ewinsville station, about four miles from York, caused by a broken wheel. Brekenan, Harry W. Heindel, was seriously injured. A tramp who was on the train could not be found after the accident. The road was blocked. The trains for Harrisburg went from York by way of Columbia for some time.

The Frederick Times of last week gives the following: The September term of the circuit court, after disposing of the case of Candace Henry vs. Columbus W. Winslow, finally adjourned yesterday, October 17th. The case in question was not proessed, after which the grand jury made their report and was discharged. The following is the report in full: To the Honorable Judges of the Circuit Court of Frederick county: We, the grand jury for the body of Frederick county, for the September term of the circuit court, would respectfully submit our report. All matters claiming the attention of the grand jury had care and thirty two witnesses have been examined and twenty true bills found. We have been impressed with the fact that the law has been violated by a number of dealers in selling liquor on Sunday and to minors, but the difficulty of obtaining positive evidence prevents the offenders from being brought to justice.

According to the requirements of the law we visited the jail and found Mr. Robert barriek, sheriff, with deputies in charge of that institution. From all we could observe it is being excellently conducted, and the building has sufficient capacity to meet the necessities of the county. Number of prisoners now in jail, thirty-five, most of whom are serving out their term of incarceration. I discharged eight prisoners by the action of the grand jury. We would suggest that care should be exercised in not having old offenders, who are depraved and very wicked, from associating with or being placed in cells together with the young, or those whose crimes are of a mild character.

According to custom we visited Montevue Hospital, the home of the poor and needy of our county, and also the refuge for the insane. This institution speaks for itself in unmistakable language, indicating the promptings of the generous nature and acts of the people of Frederick county in its erection. The farm, eighty-eight acres of choice land, buildings and improvements, were valued at ninety thousand dollars. Annual expenses about eighteen thousand dollars; income, twelve thousand dollars. There are now one hundred and sixty-eight inmates of whom quite a number are insane. We cannot but express our admiration of the worthy manner in which the superintendent or manager, Mr. Miller, is conducting the business and discharging the very onerous duties of this institution, combining firmness with moderation in the discipline so necessary to the proper regulation of the inmates.

Our inspection of the public buildings of Frederick City has resulted in finding the doors generally to open outwardly, except the doors of the court-room, which open inwardly. In case of a crowd or a rush from an alarm might result in serious consequences.

We express regret in finding the public schools not in operation at this time, and cherish the hope that some special legislative enactments for our county may be passed that will make it imperative that our public schools shall be kept in operation ten months during the year.

The court having publicly called the attention of the grand jury to certain extraordinary litigations as instituted in this county by one Harrison Wagner, the matter was called up and given a searching investigation. It was clearly demonstrated that an outrage has been perpetrated upon honest citizens and upon a corporation that was ready at any time to meet just obligations. Claims were instituted against numerous parties by Harrison, processes issued by certain (magistrates) justices of the peace, and served by officers of the law (constables) aggregating in all over one million of dollars. It was clearly seen from evidence before us that a fraud had been committed, that there was not the least shadow of liability of the parties upon whom these processes had been served. If we have no statutory enactments to protect our citizens from loss and annoyance such as was suffered by the parties referred to, we would suggest that immediate action should be taken by the people to memorialize the next Legislature to pass such laws as would restrain justices of the peace from recording judgments without first investigating the character, extent and justice of the claims and secure our citizens protection from similar outrages.

Having to the best of our abilities discharged the duties that devolved upon us as grand jurors and there seeming to be no more matters claiming our investigation, we would respectfully ask to be discharged.

WILLIAM H. TODD, Foreman.

OUR thanks are due to Mr. G. Wesley Smith, a former resident of this place for a copy of the Arkansas Sentinel of the 17th inst.

In putting one of the new postage stamps on a letter, everybody should try and adjust it a little to the right of a perpendicular position. We stuck one on the other day, and as it leaned to the left it was pitiable to behold how uncomfortable the old General seemed.

From the Boonsboro Times. The smoke house of Mr. John Rose, near Funkstown, was robbed of its contents Friday night of last week. Frank Huff, aged ten years, was drowned in the Chesapeake & Ohio Canal, one day last week, near Old Town.

Mr. John B. Bachtel, for sixteen years court bailiff, in this county, died at his home in Chewsville, last Thursday night.

Mr. Geo. Shiffer J. of Pleasant Valley, recently built one of the largest barns in Western Maryland. The building is 50x100 feet, with shed projection front and rear. This barn contains double floors each 2x5x10. 47,500 shingles were used in covering the barn.

News has been received in Frederick of the death of Lloyd L. Biays, eldest son of Henry Biays, who was the last proprietor of the old Central Hotel in Frederick. His death occurred on the 6th inst, at Texarkana, Ark., where he was employed as messenger by the Pacific Express Company. He was taken sick on the cars, and died shortly after reaching Texarkana. His mother and father are at Los Angeles, Cal. The deceased was only 22 years of age.

From the Herald and Torch Light. About midnight, last Wednesday, a valuable Jersey cow, belonging to Mrs. Wm. Keller, was killed near the Antietam Paper Mills, east of this city, by a passing freight train on the Western Maryland Railroad. Mrs. Keller had refused an offer of $100 for the cow.

Perry Moxley, colored, in the employ of Wm. H. Kreps, a liveryman, was thrown from a hack on Walnut street, shortly after noon last Friday and had one of his legs broken between the knee and ankle. Mr. Martin Bovey a well known farmer in the Conococheague district, attempted suicide on Friday last under peculiar circumstances. He had attended the Tinker Love Feast at Broad Ford church and seemed to be in good spirits enjoying his usual health and facilities. His daughter who accompanied him to church remained in the vicinity over night with friends. On Friday Mr. Bovey intehed up his team for the purpose of bringing his daughter home, and when about ready to start he walked into a blacksmith shop on the premises and seizing a hammer he pounded a hole in the top of his head. He was supposed to be fatally injured, but at last accounts he was getting better.

From the Gettysburg Star and Sentinel. The barn of Levi Lauer, Westmanheim township, York county, was struck by lightning on Saturday week and burnt, with contents.

John McLaughlin, a brakeman on the Cumberland Valley Railroad, was struck on the head by a bridge one mile South of Chambersburg Tuesday morning and received fatal injuries. He was carried six miles on top of the car before his hurt was discovered.

On Sunday afternoon Edward Ely and Nicholas Fennessy, of Carlisle, aged respectively 13 and 16 years, went into the country to shoot rabbits with a pistol. In less than an hour young Fennessy came running back to Carlisle saying that his companion had killed himself. Ely had got possession of the pistol, and cocking it and holding it to his head, said, laughingly, "I wonder if this would hurt a fellow if it would go off." Whereupon the load was discharged and the bullet entered at the left ear, killing him instantly.

Our obituary columns notice the death of John A. Marshall, Esq., on Friday last at the residence of his brother-in-law in this place, Hon. Robert McCurdy. Deceased was a son of the late John Marshall, of Hamiltonburg township, who represented this county in the state legislature some forty years ago. He was educated at Princeton, studied law and for some years was in active practice in Philadelphia. In 1856 Mr. Marshall ran as the Democratic candidate for Congress in that city against Hon. E. Joy Morris and was only defeated by 869 votes. Several years ago his health failed, since which time Gettysburg has been his home off and on. This fall he went to Prince Edwards Island, above Nova Scotia, for the benefit of his health, accompanied by one of his nieces. His health not improving he returned to Gettysburg about four weeks ago. He was in the 56th year of his age.

RATHER TOO LONG. After Twenty Years on the Wrong Side of Life a Virginian Turns the Tables. "How long did you say?" "Twenty years, I should say. Try to the time I mentioned I had suffered from diseased liver for twenty years," said Mr. S. T. Hulsecock, of Richmond, Va., half smiling, as though thinking of that dilapidated section of his life. "At times I almost wished it had pleased Providence to omit chapter from the human anatomy."

"Bad enough—twenty years of that sort of thing," responded a listener. "What was the upshot of it?" "The upshot was that some time ago I went down to Scott's drug store in this city, and bought one of BENSON'S CAPSULE PORES PLASTERS, applied it and was relieved in a few hours, and am now as sound as though my liver were made of India-rubber."

Agricultural.

Plant Trees on the Roadside. Trees may be planted at any time before the ground freezes solid, or as soon as it fully opens in spring. Early spring would be preferable on some accounts; but if left until then, the hurry of work, often delayed by cold or wet weather, is likely to interfere. It is better, therefore, to get every hardy tree possible into its permanent growing place now. And every year it is delayed is no trifling loss. A hundred trees can be set at a cost of ten to twenty dollars, or for almost no cost, if one has spare time and the saplings are easily available. These may in ten to fifteen years grow to be worth three to ten dollars apiece for needed timber and fuel, or for the fruit or nuts produced.

It would be greatly to the advantage of the country, its climate, and its beauty, if the sides of our public highways generally were planted with trees that furnish shade and ornament while growing, and supply at no distant period wood for various purposes. Some years before they mature sufficiently to be cut down for use, new plantings alternating with the older trees can be coming forward to take their places, or slow and quick growing varieties may be set, so that when the latter are removed the former will be large enough to soon fill the gaps. It is desirable, however, to have to gather those that somewhat resemble each other in form at the top. We have in mind a broad street, ninety feet wide, where twenty five to thirty years ago various oaks were set, thirty to forty feet apart, ten feet from the outside, and between these, in a line with them, quick growing maples were planted. Recently the maples were all removed, furnishing a cord of wood apiece, with considerable useful timber, and the oaks now stand in two beautiful rows.

The French give more attention to roadside trees than any other people. We remember to have ridden hundreds of miles in Southeastern France, where in every direction the country roads could be seen, by the double rows of trees—which there were largely the Lombardy poplar. From recently published statistics, we learn that there are in all France eighteen thousand seven hundred and fifty miles of public roads, of which over seven thousand miles (forty per cent) are bordered by trees, and over four thousand miles are now being planted. On the remaining portions the soil or other circumstances do not allow continuous borders. The total number already is nearly three millions (2,978,903)—most largely elm, poplar, yew, ash, plane, ash, sycamore, and lime trees, but with many fruit, nut, and mulberry trees. A stranger, having the official records with him, could almost decide what Department he was traveling in, by the kind of trees along the road. He would find the nut trees, especially the chestnut, most in vogue in Ain, Ailler, Aube, Gironde, and eight or ten other Departments; the apple trees, in Cote d'Or and Marne; the mulberry, in the Eastern Pyrenees, Haute Marne, etc.; the cherry, in Doubs, Indre, Jura, Landes, etc.; the pear, in Eure and Marne; the service tree, in Haute Loire, and so on, throughout the whole territory.

As to loss of land from spreading roots and from shade, if planted a few feet from the fence, the roots can be kept from the crops by a deep furrow along the inside of the fence every year or two, and the shade will not be a serious detriment—none at all from trees on the south side of roads running easterly and westerly. Those on the northerly side of the road furnish a very desirable shade to animals in the adjoining pastures.—American Agriculturist.

Salt for Milk Cows.

Care should be taken that milk cows have salt twice a week and that they have access to water soon after taking the salt; because salt in its crude state is poisonous and will create a high fever in the stomach unless diluted by water which relieves the animal from burning thirst.

MANY wonder why the brute creation excel mankind as a rule when it comes to a question of health. Investigation quickly ascertains the cause. It is because they naturally obey every law of health, while mankind's constantly degenerating owing to excesses of our ancestors and our own individual imprudence. Sudden exposure to extreme climatic influences, glutinous, improper food, alcoholic stimulants, over exertion of mind and body, worry, anxiety, care, etc., all have a marked effect on the human system. Be cured by using Brown's Iron Bitters. A remarkable remedy for restoring health.

Miscellaneous.

The Bull of Redstone. BROWNSVILLE, PA., October 12.—This locality, originally known as Redstone, now Brownsville, some sixty years ago, was the scene of a most comical occurrence, which is related by an old resident of Redstone who witnessed the scene. At the period referred to the managers of a horse race track published a notice of a mile heat race on a particular day, "free for anything with four legs that had hair on," for a purse of $100. A farmer in the neighborhood, named Hays, had a bull he was in the habit of riding to mill with his bag of corn, and the idea occurred to him of entering his bull for the race. He said nothing to anyone of his intention to enter the bull for the race, but quietly commenced training the bull by riding him around the race track on moonlight nights. In this manner he trained the bull until it got the hang of the track pretty well and would keep on the right course. He rode the bull with spurs, and when the spurs were applied to the bull he would bellow frightfully.

On the day of the race Hays rode to the racetrack, on "horseback" on his bull. Instead of a saddle he had a dried ox hide, the head part of which, with the horns still on, he had placed on the bull's rump, and, instead of a whip, he carried a tin horn in his hand. He rode to the judges' stand and offered to enter his bull for the race, but the owners of the horses entered objected to the bull's entrance. Hays appealed to the terms of the notice, insisting that his bull had "four legs and hair on," and, therefore, he had a right to enter his bull. After a good deal of "cussing" on the part of the horse owners and considerable "fussing" on the part of the judges it was decided that the bull had a right to run, and was accordingly entered.

When the time for starting came the bull and the horses took their places. The horsemen were out of humor at being bothered with the bull, and at the burlesque which they supposed was intended, but thought it would all be over as soon as the horse started. When the signal was given, Hays gave a blast with his horn and sunk his spurs into the sides of the bull, which bounded off with a terrible bound, and the dried oxhide flapping up and down and rattling at every jump made such a combination of noises as was never before heard on a race course. The horses all immediately flew the track, every one seemed to be seized with a sudden determination to take the shortest cut out of the red-stone country, and none of them could be brought back in time to save their distance. The purse was to Hays, whose bull had run round the course, and a great deal of hard swearing was done by the horse owners. They contended that they had been swindled out of the purse, and that if it hadn't been for Hays' horn and oxhide, the thing wouldn't have turned out as it did. Had not the fun of the thing put the crowd in good humor, and all on the side of the bull, a general row would have ensued.

Hays told the indignant horseman that his bull could beat either of their horses any way, and if they would put $100 against the purse he had won he would take off the oxhide, throw away his tin horn and run a fair race with them, which proposition was eagerly and promptly accepted and the money staked. The bull and the horses were again at their starting post in their places ready for the word go, and the moment the signal was given Hays gave the bull a touch of his spurs and the bull gave a tremendous bellow. The horses remembering the dreadful sound, thought all the rest was coming as before, and away they went again, in spite of all the exertions of their riders, while Hays galloped his bull around the track and won the money.—Phil Times.

An Arkansas Irishman.

An Irishman was arrested on a charge of vagrancy. Just as he entered the court room he met the judge, and said: "Wud ye do a man that's in a bad condition a small favor? I do not ax you not ter sentence me, for that's yer duty. Now, wud ye let me have a nickel?"

The kind hearted judge could not resist such an appeal and he complied with the man's request. "You are charged with vagrancy," said the judge, a few moments later. "What have you to say in regard to the charge?" "I say that I am not guilty." Here the policeman who made the arrest stepped forward and testified to the effect, that the prisoner was never known to work and that he had no means of support.

"I am afraid you are guilty," said the judge. "I am not, yer honor. I have means of support. A man's river broke as long as he's got money, an' as long as he's got money he ain't a vagrant. I'll show ye that I have means," and he produced the nickel the judge had given him. "Here is money, sir, an' as long as I have it you can't sentence me. Just dis miss the court, judge, give me another nickel, an' we'll have the beer for the two av us."—Ark. Traveler.

"WALK slower, papa," cried the little girl, whose short steps were no match for the strides of her masculine progenitor; "can't you go nice and slow, like a policeman?"

WHEN a man reaches the top of a stairway and attempts to take one step higher, the sensation is as perplexing as if he had attempted to kick a dog that wasn't there.

The rising generation: "Yes, sir," said the old man proudly, "that's my boy, and he's a smart one; full of ambition!" The next evening we saw the ambitious youth, but he was full of beer.

THE late styles of wall paper are so gorgeous that a family can no longer take comfort wearing out old boots and split back vests around the house. Everybody sort of feels as if he was away on a visit.

"A REFEREE," is't exclaimed the girl at the intelligence office, when asked by the lady in search of help for a recommendation; "an' why should I give ye a reference? It is meself that's got to live wid ye, an' not ye wid me."

THE fair thing: "Now, Mr. Overcharge, what will it cost to have hot and cold water put all through my house?" "Well, I can't give a very close estimate until the job is completed. I will do the fair thing by you, though." So the plumber went to work and three months later he owned the house.—Traveler Magazine.

AN advertisement in the New York Sun says: "An errand boy wanted, only a live boy need apply." It is well to be explicit about matters of this kind. There is nothing more heartless than to advertise for boys indiscriminately, and have perhaps twenty or thirty dead ones apply for the position, only to be disappointed.

"Don't like the bed?" said the hotel clerk, astonished at the presumption of the complaining guest. "Why, some of the best people—some of the highest folks in the United States—have slept in it." "Yes, that's just the trouble," responded the guest; "I found last night there were altogether too many big bugs in it for the comfort of common people like me."—Boston Transcript.

"Yes, Jimmie shall go to Italy to have her voice cultivated," said a proud father to a fair-haired girl who stood beside him affectionately stroking his snowy locks.

"Can't I go, too?" asked the younger brother, John.

"You!" exclaimed his parent with surprise, "why, you have no voice."

The following morning, when Johnny met the neighbor's boy next door, he remarked with the air of one who had been relieved of a disagreeable duty:

"I guess we needn't shoot any more cats, Bill, dad's likely to send them to Italy."—Brooklyn Eagle.

THE unluckiest man in Georgia lives in White county. In attempting to cross the river in a bateau it capsized and threw him into the water. Trying to reach the boat again, his foot caught in a snag and when he'd got it, at the same time a $20 watch, his hat, a shoe, and the boat. He finally reached the shore and was hobbling across a field when a large ferocious bull started for him. Reaching a tree, he climbed it lively enough to escape the bull, but also lively enough to get into a hornet's nest. The hornets objected, and he sprang to another limb, which broke, letting him fall to the ground, fracturing his wrist. With the broken branch he kept the bull at bay and managed to escape. All this happened on a Friday.
